Political—1936

Elections.

Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NEWS

JUN 7 - 1936

RACE FOR PLACE IN CONGRESS SEEN AS NIP AND TUCK

Huddleston And Patrick To Wind Up Campaigns By Radio Talks

MEETING FOR FORMER IN PRATT CITY SCHEDULED

Contest Has Been One Of Most Intense Ever Waged In Jefferson

BY RALPH E. HURST

Jefferson County's congressional race drew toward a close Saturday night with political observers generally agreeing that it is a close affair.

The campaign has been an intense one, with a barrage of speakers being heard daily on both sides.

Both Congressman George Huddleston and his runoff opponent, Luther Patrick, made plans for a windup with radio speeches Monday night. Huddleston forces also scheduled a meeting at the Pratt City City Hall for 7:30 p.m. Monday.

During the last week the Huddleston forces have blasted away with a charge that Patrick's candidacy is being sponsored and dominated by William Mitch, president of the Alabama United Mine Workers and the State Federation of Labor, whom they have described as "a defeated Socialist coming into Alabama as a carpetbagger from Indiana and attempting to establish a political dictatorship."

They have injected an issue into the campaign with a charge that Mitch is using Negro workers to get control of organized labor and to control the votes of white members.

Patrick has denied any connection with Mitch and asserted that Mitch opposed him in the first primary. He has declared that he only recently met Mitch and has not seen him more than a half dozen times, and has criticized his opposition for bringing up the Negro question.

Huddleston and his speakers have presented his long record in Congress as sufficient reason for his re-election and have declared that great perils face the nation, demanding the presence of strong Americanism in Congress to safeguard state rights and preserve democracy.

Patrick has countered with an attack on Huddleston's record and charged him with being out of step with President Roosevelt and the New Deal, criticizing him for voting against the Guffey bill, the holding company bill, and the social security bill.

Huddleston in turn has assailed Patrick's "no promise" platform, declaring his hands are tied by Mitch's control, and has taken Patrick to task for not announcing a stand on these bills and debating their merits instead of simply denouncing Huddleston's vote on them.

Huddleston has explained his vote by saying the Guffey bill was aimed at the lean fields of Alabama and designed to close out the mines of this state and throw the miners out of work in favor of the rich fields of the East. As to the holding company bill, he says he voted for strict regulation but opposed what he called "a destroying clause."

On the social security bill, he said he opposed a measure that imposed a 6 per cent tax on payrolls and workers. On all of these, he said he also questioned their constitutionality and pointed out that the Guffey bill has already been knocked out by the Supreme Court.

Patrick has criticized Huddleston for having but one committee assignment and Huddleston has countered with a rule that prohibits members of important committees serving on other committees. Patrick has then retaliated with a statement that Huddleston's committee deals with interstate commerce, but that the Birmingham ditsrict is discriminated against on freight rates.

Huddleston has stressed his experience and familiarity with legislative matters and challenged Patrick's qualifications for the office, while Patrick has answered with an accusation that Huddleston has done nothing for his district and is out of touch with it.

Mitch has branded Huddleston's record as unfriendly to labor, but Huddleston has pointed to years of friendship and support of the working man and charged that his position has been distorted and misrepresented by alien influences.

Mitch has admitted being a Socialist candidate in Indiana, but explained that he realized this country preferred a two-party system and that most of the principles for which he stood as a Socialist have been adopted by the Democrats and Republicans.

These, for the most part, are the charges and denials that have gone to make up the runoff campaign—the most hotly contested congressional campaign seen in this county in many years.

Mrs. E. L. Huey, member of the Bessemer Board of Education, and Roy Ingram, Tarrant mayor, who was defeated in the first congressional primary, made radio talks for Patrick Saturday night while Patrick spoke at Tarrant.

"While Congressman Huddleston has been getting endorsements from other members of Congress who know nothing about this district or its needs, I wondered about Senator Black, who lives here and knows our problems," Patrick said. He then announced receipt of the following telegram from Senator Black Saturday:

"As requested by you, I am wiring to say that I have today mailed my vote for you to represent our district in Congress. Regards."

Patrick charged that Huddleston's lack of cooperation with the New Deal had caused business of this district to suffer. Declaring his belief in white supremacy, he denied he was in alliance with anyone and referred to a letter received from Huddleston in 1932 by Mitch expressing appreciation for his assistance.

"I regret that my opponent has seen fit to fan the flames of religious intolerance and racial prejudices," he said. "These things should not be done in a political campaign."

Referring to the cafe incident when he was hit on the head with a bottle of condiments, Patrick compared Huddleston to Zioncheck, but said "He christened me congressman."

"The real issue is whether the people approve of the policies of President Roosevelt or the American Liberty League," he said.

Taking the stump for Congressman Huddleston Saturday night, James Horne, editor of The Labor Advocate, reviewed vital issues before the nation and declared there has never been a time when there existed a greater necessity for men of integrity, ability, conviction and courage, tested experience and of true and tried Americanism in Congress than today.

"Though it is no secret that some of those who are actively sponsoring the candidacy of Huddleston's opponent expect to retire him—and intend to retire him if he is elected at the end of his first term, there is a reason.

"They have a dark horse of their own that they propose to enter in the next congressional race two years from now and hope to win with him. But first they must get Huddleston out of the way and to this end they are bending all their energies; with what success, Tuesday's election will reveal."

Horne reviewed Huddleston's record and his friendship for labor. As to his stand on important measures, he pointed out that he voted for the TVA, NRA, Wagner bill and both railway pension bills. He offered a contrast between Huddleston and his opponent and attacked Patrick's failure to take a stand on important issues.

"It may be stated in all justice to Mr. Huddleston's opponent that his abilities and qualities are untried and unproven," he said. "As a matter of fact, he is, in the opinion of many, merely a pawn in this race. He is being used, and it's not fair, simply and solely for the retirement of George Huddleston."

Political—1936
Elections.

Communists.

WHITES HELPED GUARD FORD ON VISIT TO DURHAM

DURHAM, N. C., Nov.--(CNA)- A notable victory for civil liberties, particularly in connection with the Negro group, was achieved here during the last days of the election campaign when Negro and white workers and students rallied in a united front to prevent interference with an election rally addressed by James W. Ford, Negro leader and Vice Presidential candidate of the Communist Party in the recent elections. Crusader News Agency 11-2-36

For more than a week reactionary elements had tried to whip up a mob spirit in an effort to prevent the holding of a mixed meeting at which a Negro candidate for high office was scheduled as the principal speaker. Rabid editorials, calling for mob violence, were carried in some of the local papers. The Mayor of Durham was bitterly opposed to the meeting. White leaders of the American Legion tried to induce Negro members to join them in an attempt to bar the meeting from the Court House by occupying the building.

On his arrival, Ford was met at the station by white and Negro sympathisers, who surrounded him and escorted him to the local radio station where he delivered an address. When the group left the radio station, the hotel corridor through which they passed was littered with scowling thugs. But the heavy guard was obviously too much for them to tackle, so they milled about and followed the Ford party to the outside. There the party quietly boarded automobiles and were taken to another hotel.

Communist sympathisers likewise guarded the Court House and the route over which Ford travelled to the meeting. A half hour before the time for which the meeting was called the Court House was filled with other sympathisers.

A group of white ruffians gathered around the door leading to the platform and tried to whip up sentiment for an attack on the speakers, but wherever the ruffians appeared members of the guard followed them and disrupted their effort at organized mob action.

In the course of his speech, Ford stressed that such un-American actions are not confined to the South. "They are not to be regarded as sectional., as witness Terre Haute in the North and Tampa in the South. Anyone who condemns the South as a hopelessly backward part of the country forgets the splendid progressive traditions of many Southern leaders and nothing could be more harmful than to imagine that the vast number of the people of the South will not respond to the need for uniting their forces to combat reaction no matter from what source it comes."

A significant aftermath of the meeting was the publication by several Southern papers of editorials condemning the attempt to prevent Ford from speaking here. The Raleigh News and Observer, the leading paper in this section, stressed the great historical significance of Ford's visit to the city of Durham, declaring:

"Ford is the first Negro candidate for public office to speak in the Durham Court House and probably the first Negro candidate to appear before an audience of whites and Negroes in this State since the days of the carpetbagger days."

FORD NOTES
NEW ATTITUDE
IN SOUTH
Crusader News Agency
Nov. 2-1936

NEW YORK, Nov.-- (CNA)- Deep-seated and carefully fostered racial prejudices in the South are being successfully challenged by progressive forces in that most backward section of the country, James W. Ford, noted leader and Communist Vice Presidential candidate in the recent elections, declared at a press conference in Harlem on his return from a national tour which took him into several cities of the South.

The Communist leader was given a tumultuous welcome by large crowds at the 125th Street Central Railroad station on his arrival in Harlem. After his press conference at the 135th Street Y. M. C. A. with representatives from a number of Harlem papers, Ford was toured through the streets of Harlem in a colorful torchlight procession. A guard of 100 Negro and white Young Communist League members with red flags followed behind the long line of cars accompanying him. Hundreds lined the streets and cheered as the parade went by. The procession wound up at the Renassaince Casino, 138th Street and Seventh Avenue, where Ford was the

Political - 1936
Elections.

Communists.

WHITES HELPED GUARD FORD ON VISIT TO DURHAM

DURHAM, N. C., Nov.--(CNA)- A notable victory for civil liberties, particularly in connection with the Negro group, was achieved here during the last days of the election campaign when Negro and white workers and students rallied in a united front to prevent interference with an election rally addressed by James W. Ford, Negro leader and Vice Presidential candidate of the Communist Party in the recent elections. Crusader News Agency 11-2-36

For more than a week reactionary elements had tried to whip up a mob spirit in an effort to prevent the holding of a mixed meeting at which a Negro candidate for high office was scheduled as the principal speaker. Rabid editorials, calling for mob violence, were carried in some of the local papers. The Mayor of Durham was bitterly opposed to the meeting. White leaders of the American Legion tried to induce Negro members to join them in an attempt to bar the meeting from the Court House by occupying the building.

On his arrival, Ford was met at the station by white and Negro sympathisers, who surrounded him and escorted him to the local radio station where he delivered an address. When the group left the radio station, the hotel corridor through which they passed was littered with scowling thugs. But the heavy guard was obviously too much for them to tackle, so they milled about and followed the Ford party to the outside. There the party quietly boarded automobiles and were taken to another hotel.

Communist sympathisers likewise guarded the Court House and the route over which Ford travelled to the meeting. A half hour before the time for which the meeting was called the Court House was filled with other sympathisers.

A group of white ruffians gathered around the door leading to the platform and tried to whip up sentiment for an attack on the speakers, but wherever the ruffians appeared members of the guard followed them and disrupted their effort at organized mob action.

In the course of his speech, Ford stressed that such un-American actions are not confined to the South. "They are not to be regarded as sectional", as witness Terre Haute in the North and Tampa in the South. Anyone who condemns the South as a hopelessly backward part of the country forgets the splendid progressive traditions of many Southern leaders and nothing could be more harmful than to imagine that the vast number of the people of the South will not respond to the need for uniting their forces to combat reaction no matter from what source it comes."

A significant aftermath of the meeting was the publication by several Southern papers of editorials condemning the attempt to prevent Ford from speaking here. The Raleigh News and Observer, the leading paper in this section, stressed the great historical significance of Ford's visit to the city of Durham, declaring:

"Ford is the first Negro candidate for public office to speak in the Durham Court House and probably the first Negro candidate to appear before an audience of whites and Negroes in this State since the carpetbagger days."

FORD NOTES
NEW ATTITUDE
IN SOUTH

Crusader News Agency
Nov. 2, 1936
New York, N.Y.

NEW YORK, Nov.-- (CNA)- Deep-seated and carefully fostered racial prejudices in the South are being successfully challenged by progressive forces in that most backward section of the country, James W. Ford, noted leader and Communist Vice Presidential candidate in the recent elections, declared at a press conference in Harlem on his return from a national tour which took him into several cities of the South.

The Communist leader was given a tumultuous welcome by large crowds at the 125th Street Central Railroad station on his arrival in Harlem. After his press conference at the 135th Street Y. M. C. A. with representatives from a number of Harlem papers, Ford was toured through the streets of Harlem in a colorful torch-light procession. A guard of 100 Negro and white Young Communist League members with red flags followed behind the long line of cars accompanying him. Hundreds lined the streets and cheered as the parade went by. The procession wound up at the Renassaince Casino, 138th Street and Seventh Avenue, where Ford was the main speaker at a Communist election rally.

New South Rising

The Communist leader told representatives of the press that a growing Negro rights movement is rapidly becoming a contending force against lynch oppression in the South. He pointed out that in Durham, N. C., a Negro candidate for high office was able for the first time in decades to address a mixed audience, despite lynch threats from local reactionaries who attempted to block the meeting. Over 700 workers and students, white and colored jammed the local Court House to hear Ford at that meeting. Crusader News Agency 11-2-26

The growing rection by large sections of the Southern white population, notably workers and students, of the race hatred theories of the ruling class is being taken into account by many white officials in Southern cities, Ford stated. He saw and spoke to many such officials who confessed that the backward forces in the South face a battle against anti-Negro prejudices and practices, he asserted.

The progressive movement is advancing in the face of increasing fascist trends which he noted on his tour, Ford said. Asserting that the right of free speech is being attacked by vigilante bands in many parts of the country, South and North, Ford stressed the necessity of the Negro people linking its forces with all progressive groups that are combatting the fascist menace.

The Communist leader told of how police unexpectedly afforded him protection when he spoke over a radio station in Nashville, Tenn. The police surrounded the building and thwarted a threatened attack by 25 members of the American Legion who had gathered for that purpose. Ford said the reason the police protected him was that the nation-wide protests over the arrest and subsequent vigilante attack on Earl Browder in Terre Haute, Ind., had given police a distaste for publicity. Browder, candidate for President in the recent elections on the same ticket with Ford, was twice prevented from speaking in Terre Haute.

"There's a change got to come over the South," Ford quoted a white constable Durham, N. C., as stating. "One of the changes is on discrimination and jim-crowism of the Negro." Crusader News Agency 11-2-26

A Negro leader of the American Legion in Durham was approached by local Legion officials to help break up the Ford meeting, but instead attended both the meeting and a banquet for Ford given by leading Negroes in that city, the Communist leader reported.

Another attempt to break up the Durham meeting was made by a local white hoodlum, who marched into the courthouse shouting: "All Southern white gentlemen should get up and walk out of this meeting." Only one person left the meeting.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Communists.

NEGROES RUNNING FOR HIGH OFFICE IN TWO STATES

DETROIT, Mich., Sept.-- (CNA)- Michigan Communists nominated Frank Sykes, an official of Local 830 WPA Union, for Lieutenant-Governor of that State last week. Sykes will run on a ticket with Lawrence Emery, white labor leader, who was nominated at the same time for Governor of Michigan.

Crusader News Agency

Ohio Communists during the same week nominated Ben Atkins of Akron for Lieutenant Governor on a ticket headed by A. R. Onda, white. The Ohio State Communist Nominating Convention enthusiastically greeted and endorsed the candidacy of Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist Party, for President and James W. Ford, Negro leader, for Vice President.

8-31-36 New York, N.Y.

Negroes also have been nominated for high office by the Communists in many other states.

James Ford Meeting Is Bombed in Toledo

(Prepared by the Communist National Committee)

TOLEDO, O. — A tear gas bomb thrown into a packed audience of 700 at Roi Davis Auditorium failed to stop a Ford speech here Sunday.

Many were overcome and had to be carried out while Communist leaders stayed on the stage as long as they could and shouted to the audience to stay cool.

Lives of 300 children rehearsing a WPA program on an upper floor were endangered. They came down the steps with handkerchiefs before their faces.

Fourth Attack

This was the fourth attack against the Communist campaign in this State this week. The Lincoln Branch of the Y.M.C.A. canceled agreement for a Ford banquet in their building Monday of last week. Tuesday, Communist headquarters were raided, furniture wrecked or stolen. Wednesday of last week the Ford address over the radio was interrupted for a minute and a half when the transmission line from the studio to the aerial was cut.

Ford Speaks Anyhow

Five thousand people collected while the audience was being rescued from the gas filled hall. Ford, himself, stood at the window, thirty feet from the sidewalk, and addressed the audience, which, because of the gas attack, had increased to 5,000. He denounced the Black Legion and the Ku Klux Klan as responsible for the attacks.

Ford said he had been refused a room at the Y.M.C.A., in Scranton, Pa.; that he was charged twenty-five cents for a five cent glass of milk at a White Tower restaurant in Columbus, Ohio, and that at Uniontown, Pa., the Ku Klux Klan distributed pamphlets against him, while in Springfield, Ill., the home of Abraham Lincoln, he was refused a room in the Abraham Lincoln Hotel and admission to the Abraham Lincoln Theatre.

Even the boot-black declined to shine his shoes in Abe Lincoln town. Said Ford, "All this shows our party is correct; we must continue this fight for the rights of the colored people 'till every vestige of jimcrowism is wiped from the face of America."

Air Ban in Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—James W. Ford, colored Communist vice presidential candidate, was denied the right to speak over the air last week. The local radio stations WTAX and WCBS refused to sell him time over their outlets.

The stations had no criticism to make of Ford's speech, which was submitted to them within the required time, but flatly refused to allow him to speak "for business reasons." They refused to explain whether these "business reasons" barred Ford from speaking solely because he was a colored person or because, in addition to being a colored person and a Communist, he has been assailing the presidential candidate of Big Business, Governor Alf Landon of Kansas.

Ford, who is now touring the country in his campaign for Vice President, has sharply assailed the Republican party and its candidate for their connections with William Randolph Hurst, the Liberty League and other anti-colored, anti-labor outfits. He has charged the Republicans with betraying the traditions of Lincoln by linking their forces with "the most notorious enemies of civil liberties, labor and the colored people." In a speech at a mass meeting here last week, the Harlem leader asserted that his party is today the only political group which is carrying forward the Lincoln tradition.

Feted in Cleveland

The Communist candidate was greeted in Cleveland last week by more than 100 prominent colored leaders at an informal reception held in his honor in Phyllis Wheatley House. The affair was sponsored by a committee of six, including editors of the leading colored newspapers in Cleveland.

Ford spoke over radio station WESD in Toledo two days after his speech was banned by Springfield stations. While in Toledo he was entertained by local colored leaders at a luncheon held in his honor at the Indiana Y.M.C.A., Indiana Avenue and Elizabeth Street.

He will be the principal speaker at an election rally in Boston, Mass., on September 8. The meeting will be held in the famous Ford Hall, Ashburton Place.

JAMES W. FORD

Ford National Broadcast on September 21

Future speaking engagements of Earl Browder and James W. Ford, Communist candidates for President and Vice-president respectively, and of Mother Bloor, follow:

EARL BROWDER

Sept. 10.—Chattanooga. Memorial Auditorium. Broadcast WDOD, Hotel Patten, 6:00-6:15 p.m.
Sept. 11.—Birmingham. Ben Hur Hall (United Labor Temple), 1809½ Fourth Ave. Broadcast WAPI 6:45-7:00 p.m.
Sept. 13.—Tampa.
Sept. 15.—Norfolk. City Auditorium. Station WTAR, 6:45 p.m. E.S.T.

JAMES W. FORD

Sept. 9.—Worcester, Eagles Hall. 7:30 p.m.
Sept. 11.—Barre, Vt. Red Men's Hall.
Sept. 13. — Springfield, Mass. Municipal Auditorium, 8 p.m. Station WSPR, 5:30 to 6:00 p.m.
Sept. 16.—New Haven. Commercial High School. 8 p.m. Station WICC, 5:45 p.m.

MOTHER BLOOR

Sept. 9.—Fresno.
Sept. 10.—Oakland, Comrades Hall, Berkeley.
Sept. 11.—San Francisco, Dovre Hall, 3541 18th Street.
Sept. 13.—Sacramento, Odd Fellows Hall, 9th and K. Sts. 2 p.m.

Ford to Deal With Issues Facing Race

"The Negro People and the Elections" will be the title of James W. Ford's nation-wide radio broadcast on Monday evening, Sept. 21, when the Vice-Presidential candidate of the Communist Party goes on the air in the third of a series of eight national hook-ups scheduled between now and Nov. 3 by the Communist campaign committee.

His address will reach tens of thousands of southern workers, Negro and white, over subsidiary stations of the N.B.C. Red Network in Richmond, Norfolk, Raleigh, Charlotte, Asheville, Columbia Tampa and Miami. Other southern stations could not be secured for Ford's address because the radio time had previously been contracted for.

The nation-wide Tag Days which will take place in every city of the United States outside of New York on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 12 and 13, are expected to do much in raising the money needed to pay for this broadcast and for subsequent campaign activities in connection with Ford's campaign. Workers in all cities are urged to turn out in full force on these two days to boost the Communist campaign fund.

The hour of Ford's radio address, listed according to different areas of the United States, follows:

New York, Daylight Time—10:45 P. M. to 11 P. M.
Eastern Standard Time—9:45 P.M. to 10 P.M.
Central Standard Time—8:45 P.M. to 9 P.M.
Mountain Standard Time—7:45 P.M. to 8 P.M.
Pacific Standard Time—6:45 P.M. to 7 P.M.

The following stations will carry the address of Ford on Sept. 21:

WEAF—New York	WTMJ—Milwaukee
WEEI—Boston	WIBA—Madison
WTIC—Hartford	KSTP—Minneapolis
WJAR—Providence	WEBC—Duluth
WTAG—Worcester	WDAY—Fargo
WCSH—Portland, Me.	KFYR—Bismarck
KYW—Philadelphia	KOA—Denver
KHQ—Spokane	KDYL—Salt Lake C.
WRC—Washington	KPO—San Francisco
WGY—Schenectady	KFI—Los Angeles
WBEN—Buffalo	KGW—Portland, Ore.
WCAE—Pittsburgh	KOMO—Seattle
WWJ—Detroit	WFBR—Baltimore
WTAM—Cleveland	WRVA—Richmond
WMAQ—Chicago	WTAR—Norfolk
KSD—St. Louis	WPTF—Raleigh
WHO—Des Moines	WSOC—Charlotte
WOW—Omaha	WWNC—Asheville
WDAF—Kansas City	WIS—Columbia
WHIO—Dayton	WFLA-WSUN—Tampa
WCKY—Cincinnati	WIOD—Miami

Browder Sends Protest to Roosevelt As Tampa Gangs Stop Election Rally

Race Nominated For High Posts In Two States

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 4.—Michigan Communists nominated Frank Sykes, an official of Local 630 WPA Union, for Lieutenant-Governor of that state last week. Sykes will run on a ticket with Lawrence Emery, white labor leader, who was nominated at the same time for governor of Michigan.

Ohio Communists during the same week nominated Den Atkins of Akron for Lieutenant-Governor on a ticket headed by A. B. Ohga, white. The Ohio State Communist Nominating Convention enthusiastically greeted and endorsed the candidacy of Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist Party for President; and James W. Ford, Race leader, for vice-president.

Ford on Radio Monday Night

"Keep the radios going!" will be the slogan in Harlem on Monday night, when James W. Ford, Communist candidate for vice president, speaks over a national hook-up of the N.B.C. on "The Negro People in the Elections."

Ford's address is scheduled to go on the air at 10:45 p.m.

Following is a list of stations, and different times at which the Ford address will be broadcast Monday night:

WEAF—New York	WTMJ—Milwaukee
WEEI—Boston	WIBA—Madison
WTIC—Hartford	KSTP—Minneapolis
WJAR—Providence	WEBC—Duluth
WTAG—Worcester	WDAY—Fargo
WCSH—Portland, Me.	KFYR—Bismarck
KYW—Philadelphia	KOA—Denver
KHQ—Spokane	KDYL—Salt Lake C.
WRC—Washington	KPO—San Francisco
WGY—Schenectady	KFI—Los Angeles
WBEN—Buffalo	KGW—Portland, Ore
WCAE—Pittsburgh	KOMO—Seattle
WWJ—Detroit	WFBR—Baltimore
WTAM—Cleveland	WRVA—Richmond
WMAQ—Chicago	WTAR—Norfolk
KSD—St. Louis	WPTF—Raleigh
WHO—Des Moines	WSOC—Charlotte
WOW—Omaha	WWNC—Asheville
WDAF—Kansas City	WIS—Columbia
WHIO—Dayton	WFBA-WSUN—Tampa
WCKY—Cincinnati	WIOD—Miami

New York, Daylight Time—10:45 P. M. to 11 P. M.
Eastern Standard Time—9:45 P. M. to 10 P. M.
Central Standard Time—8:45 P. M. to 9 P. M.
Mountain Standard Time—7:45 P. M. to 8 P. M.
Pacific Standard Time—6:45 P. M. to 7 P. M.

the schedules to the pressure from the American Civil Liberties Union, the Communist Party, local groups in each of the two cities, and to the steps taken by the Federal Communications Commission.

Radio Stations Forced to Back Down as Ford Broadcast Is Set

(Special to the Daily Worker)

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 13. — Local Vigilantes, incited by the Ku Klux Klan and the reactionary local press, seized the Golden Eagle Hall and barred its doors here today, preventing a meeting at which Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate, was scheduled to speak.

The terrorists forcibly took possession of the hall from the custodian and proceeded to lock and bar the doors.

The Tampa police department has refused to act, although the Communist standard-bearer himself, immediately sent a telegram to Chief of Police C. J. Woodruff, demanding that possession of the premises be returned to its legal lessees.

Protest to Roosevelt

Following the outrage, Browder dispatched a sharp telegram to President Roosevelt charging him "with responsibility for the enforcement of constitutional democratic rights."

The local press, which carried a series of red-baiting articles prior to the meeting, sought to whip up a campaign of gangsterism and violence not only against the meeting but also against Browder.

Text of Protest

The Communist leader's telegram to President Roosevelt follows:

"Necessary to inform you that meeting of Communist Party election campaign at which I was to speak as presidential candidate was illegally and forcefully prevented here today by lawless elements who seized hall from its custodian and barred doors despite legal contract for possession of same held by sponsors of meeting.

"Appeal to local officials brought no redress of this gross violation of democratic rights. Local press previously published threats against meeting and specifically against personal safety of myself as candidate and speaker.

"Have filed formal protest against this outrage with local authorities but have no reason to expect them to act.

"Therefore, I address you directly as the highest instance charged with responsibility enforcement of constitutional democratic rights.

"EARL BROWDER, Presidential Candidate of Communist Party."

Browder in Deep South Denounces Terror

By Beth McHenry

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 13.—Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President, crashed through age-old barriers to free speech in the South, when he spoke over station WAPI here and in Ben Hur Hall Friday night, denouncing the terror and exploitation of the Negro people and white workers in this section.

It was the Communist standard-bearer's second triumphant campaign appearance during his penetration into the far South. He spoke in Chattanooga, Tenn., on Sept. 9, and ends his tour with a meeting in Norfolk, Va., Sept. 15.

Shortly before he addressed a large cheering audience Friday night, Browder gave a press interview in which he went into the whole question of the "double load" of oppression which Negroes carry, and pointed out how the white workers suffered crushing attacks from the same reactionary source.

The poll tax, long used by Southern officials to keep Negroes and poor whites from voting, he described as a "relic of feudalism" and a "system of disfranchising the people." He said that the success of the organizational drive of the Committee for Industrial Organization represented one of the real hopes of American democracy.

During the interview the local press put many questions to Browder which he answered with the wit and precision which is making him one of the most quoted men today. The Birmingham press, composed of young Southerners, differed from Browder in opinion but listened with pronounced interest to his explanations about the position of his Party regarding questions affecting the South.

A reporter took exception to the Communist position on the Negro question. In the South, he maintained, you've got to remember that the most miserable white man, on the lowest rung of the social scale, considers himself better than any Negro. Browder smiled slowly before answering.

"That," he said, "is the reason he's so far down on the social scale."

He then went on to explain that no progress can be made in the South without basic understanding of real equality of all of the people.

"Our forefathers created America by defeating the compromisers in 1776," he declared. "The South has suffered from the beginning because of compromise, because the principles of Democracy were violated."

Referring to the Jack Barton case, Browder said:

"This is one of the most pronounced examples of lawlessness that has come to my attention. Barton was not given the pretense of a trial." Later he said, "Jack Barton was convicted of possessing literature. Well, I am guilty not only of possessing the same kind of literature, but also of writing it."

Sets Free Speech Precedent

Jack Barton, a Communist organizer, is on the chain gang after conviction under a local literature law.

Browder's appearance in Birmingham at the Labor Temple Friday evening, his speech over Radio Station WAPI, his conferences with local people has this significance: it set a precedent for free speech in this Tennessee Company crushed community.

After he had spoken, everyone who heard him was willing to admit that things must be changing in the South. Some recalled the time when William Z. Foster, now head of the National Communist Campaign Committee, had spoken to a tense timid little group of people back in '28. Others recalled the smashing of the meeting at which Daily Worker, had spoken in 1933.

But Friday night Browder addressed a large crowd of Negro and white workers who were not afraid to applaud the things he had to say. Compared to the way the Communist Party in New York jams Madison Square Garden to its 20,000 seat capacity, the crowd of 400 which heard Browder here does not seem large. But for a Communist meeting in this Southern steel center, an audience of 400 is a remarkable turnout.

Audience Enthusiastic

Many of those four hundred were Negro workers, men, women and kids. There were men who had lost legs and arms in the mines of the T.C.I. and women grown old early in the big laundries in whose service they make from $1.50 to $3 a week. There were white families who came to the meeting in trucks.

There were men in that crowd who had been taken "for rides" for Communist activity and others who had served chain-gang sentences for the same thing. Lots of these people came bravely, expecting trouble. A Browder meeting in Birmingham? Well, there's a lot of Birmingham history that made a few think there'd be trouble. The scores of big men in the rear of the hall, muttering among themselves, weren't Browder fans.

But there was no trouble, despite the muttering and the circulated threats and the heavy representation from the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad industry.

You could hear the comments of the audience filing out of the hall. "He speaks so clear," one woman said. They've liked the Communist Party and its people for a long time silently, lots of these men and women. At this meeting their enthusiasm found expression.

Liberals Present

There were liberals who heard Browder too. Professional people, teachers, preachers and newspapermen. Not one face looked disappointed unless it were the chief of police. He came to Browder's meeting too. There was a scattering of cops. They came belligerently and maybe it's a flight of the imagination to have seen some of them listening intently and showing interest in what the Communist candidate had to say.

Browder's appearance here made a big dent in the ban against freedom of speech. His speaking brought home to a good number of liberals and workers the need for a real Farmer-Labor Party in the Democratic South where as he said, "there are no democratic institutions, there is only the Democratic Party." It helped to broaden the growing number of Communist sympathizers who are "beginning to realize that the Communists are serious people with serious things to say."

Minneapolis Station Backs Down on Ban

Station WTCN, Minneapolis, owned by the Minneapolis Broadcasting Corporation, has agreed, under pressure, to carry through its contract to broadcast a series of talks by Communist Party spokesmen, it was learned yesterday.

The station unlawfully cancelled its contract following the first talk in the series Sept. 2.

William Z. Foster, Chairman of the National Communist Campaign Committee, said Saturday that word had come from the Communist Party in Minneapolis that the station had finally agreed to carry through with the contract originally scheduled.

The action of WTCN came shortly after Foster had received a letter from Anning S. Prall, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission informing him that the Commission's legal division was investigating the alleged violations of the federal laws by WCAE, Hearst-owned Pittsburgh station, and WTCN, Indianapolis, and WTCN in the Hearst Radio, Inc., of New York City, was forced to its knees obtaining the agreement of WCAE and WTCN to carry through

The address of James W. Ford, which had interested itself in Union, received word from Negro Communist vice-presidential candidate, on the Negro people and the election campaign, will be broadcast over the NBC Red Network on Monday, Sept. 21, from 10:45 P. M. to 11 P. M., New York Daylight Time.

Foster attributed the success in following furious protests from national and local progressive groups.

Hearst Also Backs Down

The American Civil Liberties

Browder Sends Protest to Roosevelt As Tampa Gangs Stop Election Rally

Race Nominated For High Posts In Two States

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 4.—Michigan Communists nominated Frank Sykes, an official of Local 630 WPA Union, for Lieutenant-Governor of that state last week. Sykes will run on a ticket with Lawrence Emery, white labor leader, who was nominated at the same time for governor of Michigan.

Ohio Communists during the same week nominated Den Atkins of Akron for Lieutenant-Governor on a ticket headed by A. B. Cox, white. The Ohio State Communist Nominating Convention enthusiastically greeted and endorsed the candidacy of Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist Party for President; and James W. Ford, Race leader, for vice-president.

Ford on Radio Monday Night

"Keep the radios going!" will be the slogan in Harlem on Monday night, when James W. Ford, Communist candidate for vice president, speaks over a national hook-up of the N.B.C. on "The Negro People in the Elections."

Ford's address is scheduled to go on the air at 10:45 p.m. N.Y.

Following is a list of stations, and different times at which the Ford address will be broadcast Monday night:

WEAF—New York	WTMJ—Milwaukee
WEEI—Boston	WIBA—Madison
WTIC—Hartford	KSTP—Minneapolis
WJAR—Providence	WEBC—Duluth
WTAG—Worcester	WDAY—Fargo
WCSH—Portland, Me.	KFYR—Bismarck
KYW—Philadelphia	KOA—Denver
KHQ—Spokane	KDYL—Salt Lake C.
WRC—Washington	KPO—San Francisco
WGY—Schenectady	KFI—Los Angeles
WBEN—Buffalo	KGW—Portland, Ore
WCAE—Pittsburgh	KOMO—Seattle
WWJ—Detroit	WFBR—Baltimore
WTAM—Cleveland	WRVA—Richmond
WMAQ—Chicago	WTAR—Norfolk
KSD—St. Louis	WPTF—Raleigh
WHO—Des Moines	WSOC—Charlotte
WOW—Omaha	WWNC—Asheville
WDAF—Kansas City	WIS—Columbia
WHIO—Dayton	WFLA-WSUN—Tampa
WCKY—Cincinnati	WIOD—Miami

New York, Daylight Time—10:45 P. M. to 11 P. M.
Eastern Standard Time—9:45 P. M. to 10 P. M.
Central Standard Time—8:45 P. M. to 9 P. M.
Mountain Standard Time—7:45 P. M. to 8 P. M.
Pacific Standard Time—6:45 P. M. to 7 P. M.

the schedules to the pressure from the American Civil Liberties Union, the Communist Party, local groups in each of the two cities, and to the steps taken by the Federal Communications Commission.

Radio Stations Forced to Back Down as Ford Broadcast Is Set

(Special to the Daily Worker)

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 13. — Local Vigilantes, incited by the Ku Klux Klan and the reactionary local press, seized the Golden Eagle Hall and barred its doors here today, preventing a meeting at which Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate, was scheduled to speak.

The terrorists forcibly took possession of the hall from the custodian and proceeded to lock and bar the doors.

The Tampa police department has refused to act, although the Communist standard-bearer himself, immediately sent a telegram to Chief of Police C. J. Woodruff, demanding that possession of the premises be returned to its legal lessees.

Protest to Roosevelt

Following the outrage, Browder dispatched a sharp telegram to President Roosevelt charging him "with responsibility for the enforcement of constitutional democratic rights."

The local press, which carried a series of red-baiting articles prior to the meeting, sought to whip up a campaign of gangsterism and violence not only against the meeting but also against Browder.

Text of Protest

The Communist leader's telegram to President Roosevelt follows:

"Necessary to inform you that meeting of Communist Party election campaign at which I was to speak as presidential candidate was illegally and forcefully prevented here today by lawless elements who seized hall from its custodian and barred doors despite legal contract for possession of same held by sponsors of meeting.

"Appeal to local officials brought no redress of this gross violation of democratic rights. Local press previously published threats against meeting and specifically against personal safety of myself as candidate and speaker.

"Have filed formal protest against this outrage with local authorities but have no reason to expect them to act.

"Therefore, I address you directly as the highest instance charged with responsibility enforcement of constitutional democratic rights.

"EARL BROWDER, Presidential Candidate of Communist Party."

Browder in Deep South Denounces Terror

By Beth McHenry

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 13.—Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President, crashed through age-old barriers to free speech in the South, when he spoke over station WAPI here and in Ben Hur Hall Friday night, denouncing the terror and exploitation of the Negro people and white workers in this section.

It was the Communist standard-bearer's second triumphant campaign appearance during his penetration into the far South. He spoke in Chattanooga, Tenn., on Sept. 9, and ends his tour with a meeting in Norfolk, Va., Sept. 15.

Shortly before he addressed a large cheering audience Friday night, Browder gave a press interview in which he went into the whole question of the "double load" of oppression which Negroes carry, and pointed out how the white workers suffered crushing attacks from the same reactionary source.

The poll tax, long used by Southern officials to keep Negroes and poor whites from voting, he described as a "relic of feudalism" and a "system of disfranchising the people." He said that the success of the organizational drive of the Committee for Industrial Organization represented one of the real hopes of American democracy.

During the interview the local press put many questions to Browder which he answered with wit and precision which is making him one of the most quoted men today. The Birmingham press, composed of young Southerners, differed from Browder in opinion but listened with pronounced interest to his explanations about the position of his Party regarding questions affecting the South.

A reporter took exception to the Communist position on the Negro question. In the South, he maintained, you've got to remember that the most miserable white man, on the lowest rung of the social scole, considers himself better than any Negro. Browder smiled slowly before answering.

"That," he said, "is the reason he's so far down on the social scale."

He then went on to explain that no progress can be made in the South without basic understanding of real equality of all of the people.

"Our forefathers created America by defeating the compromisers in 1776," he declared. "The South has suffered from the beginning because of compromise, because the principles of Democracy were violated."

Referring to the Jack Barton case, Browder said:

"This is one of the most pronounced examples of lawlessness that has come to my attention. Barton was not given the pretense of a trial." Later he said. "Jack Barton was convicted of possessing literature. Well, I am guilty not only of possessing the same kind of literature, but also of writing it."

Sets Free Speech Precedent

Jack Barton, a Communist organizer, is on the chain gang after conviction under a local literature law.

Browder's appearance in Birmingham at the Labor Temple Friday evening, his speech over Radio Station WAPI, his conferences with local people has this significance: it set a precedent for free speech in this Tennessee Company crushed community.

After he had spoken, everyone who heard him was willing to admit that things must be changing in the South. Some recalled the time when William Z. Foster, now head of the National Communist Campaign Committee, had spoken to a tense timid little group of people back in '28. Others recalled the smashing of the meeting at which Daily Worker, had spoken in 1933.

But Friday night Browder addressed a large crowd of Negro and white workers who were not afraid to applaud the things he had to say. Compared to the way the Communist Party in New York jams Madison Square Garden to its 20,000 seat capacity, the crowd of 400 which heard Browder here does not seem large. But for a Communist meeting in this Southern steel center, an audience of 400 is a remarkable turnout.

Audience Enthusiastic

Many of those four hundred were Negro workers, men, women and kids. There were men who had lost legs and arms in the mines of the T.C.I. and women grown old early in the big laundries in whose service they make from $1.50 to $3 a week. There were white families who came to the meeting in trucks.

There were men in that crowd who had been taken "for rides" for Communist activity and others who had served chain-gang sentences for the same thing. Lots of these people came bravely, expecting trouble. A Browder meeting in Birmingham? Well, there's a lot of Birmingham history that made a few think there'd be trouble. The scores of big men in the rear of the hall, muttering among themselves, weren't Browder fans.

But there was no trouble, despite the muttering and the circulated threats and the heavy representation from the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad industry.

You could hear the comments of the audience filing out of the hall. "He speaks so clear," one woman said. They've liked the Communist Party and its people for a long time silently, lots of these men and women. At this meeting their enthusiasm found expression.

Liberals Present

There were liberals who heard Browder too. Professional people, teachers, preachers and newspapermen. Not one face looked disappointed unless it were the chief of police. He came to Browder's meeting too. There was a scattering of cops. They came belligerently and maybe it's a flight of the imagination to have seen some of them listening intently and showing interest in what the Communist candidate had to say.

Browder's appearance here made a big dent in the ban against freedom of speech. His speaking brought home to a good number of liberals and workers the need for a real Farmer-Labor Party in the Democratic South where as he said, "there are no democratic institutions, there is only the Democratic Party." It helped to broaden the growing number of Communist sympathizers who are "beginning to realize that the Communists are serious people with serious things to say."

Minneapolis Station Backs Down on Ban

Station WTCN, Minneapolis, owned by the Minneapolis Broadcasting Corporation, has agreed, under pressure, to carry through its contract to broadcast a series of talks by Communist Party spokesmen, it was learned yesterday.

The station unlawfully cancelled its contract following the first talk in the series Sept. 2, by William Z. Foster, Chairman of the National Communist Campaign Committee, said Saturday that word had come from the Communist Party in Minneapolis that the sta-

Communists

Political- 1936
Elections.

BROWDER WALKS OUT OF TWO HOTELS WHEN NEGROES ARE BARRED

Crusader News agency
10-29-36
New York, N.Y.

BALTIMORE, Oct.,--(CNA)- In a double-barrelled sock at race prejudice, Earl Browder, Communist Presidential candidate, successively walked out of two hotels last week when the managements barred Negro visitors from his room. The hotels were the Emerson Hotel, this city, and the Adelphia Hotel, Philadelphia.

Browder's challenge to jim-crow oppression came as a preface to his stirring appeal to the people of all races to "beat back the rising tide of reaction and the threat of fascism" by uniting to defeat "the Hearst-Liberty League candidate, the Republican Presidential nominee," at an enthusiastic meeting in the Old Lyric Theatre here. The meeting was attended by more than 2,000 colored and white persons.

Cancells Reservations

The Communist candidate was registering with his wife at the Emerson when he learned that William N. Jones, prominent journalist and a member of the editorial staff of the Baltimore Afro-American, would not be admitted to his room. Browder immediately walked out of the hotel, sharply denouncing its management "as enemies of the Constitution."

Earlier in the week, the Communist leader took the same unequivocal stand in defense of the Negro people when he abruptly cancelled reservations for a room and a press conference at the Hotel Adelphia in Philadelphia when he learned that Robert Smith, city editor of the Afro-American, was refused the use of the main elevators of the hotel. Smith had visited the hotel to get an interview with Browder.

A group of Philadelphia Communist leaders, headed by Pat Touhey, Western Pennsylvania Communist organizer, and B. D. Amis, Negro Communist candidate for State Auditor General, vigorously protested the hotel's discrimination against Smith to hotel manager David Provan. Provan's answer was that it is the rule of the hotel "that colored people go up the back elevator." Amis assailed the hotel's policy as "an insult to the Negro people."

Charging the management with violation of the state's civil rights law, Browder and his party moved to a Spruce Street apartment, where Negro visitors had free access to the Communist nominee.

In an address later before an audience of 11,000 Philadelphians, Browder urged all liberty-loving persons to join the fight on racial discrimination in the "City of Brotherly Love." He recalled that sons of Pennsylvania drove the Southern Bourbon cavalry out of Chambersburg, Pa., the farthest point north reached by General Lee's armies during the Civil War, so that all men could be equal.

Continue Lincoln Traditions

"We Communists," Browder declared, "in our fight for equality for Negroes are continuing under modern conditions the struggle of those brave followers of Abraham Lincoln."

On the stage of the great Market Street Arena where Browder spoke, two giant pictures of Browder and his Negro running mate, James W. Ford, flanked a huge electric sign which flashed forth the words "Vote Communist." A Negro Chorus

The huge audience roared approval when B. D. Amis read a telegram which he proposed that the meeting send to Governor Earle protesting the jimcrow policy of the Hotel Adelphia and "condemning this violation of the civil rights law." The telegram urged the Governor to issue an order that those who violate the law against discrimination "shall be punished by the full force of the state."

Political-1936

Elections.

Communists

BROWDER WALKS OUT OF TWO HOTELS WHEN NEGROES ARE BARRED

Crusader News Agency
10-28-36
New York, N.Y.

BALTIMORE, Oct.--(CNA)- In a double-barrelled sock at race prejudice, Earl Browder, Communist Presidential candidate, successively walked out of two hotels last week when the managements barred Negro visitors from his room. The hotels were the Emerson Hotel, this city, and the Adolphia Hotel, Philadelphia.

Browder's challenge to jim-crow oppression came as a preface to his stirring appeal to the people of all races to "beat back the rising tide of reaction and the threat of fascism" by uniting to defeat "the Hearst-Liberty League candidate, the Republican Presidential nominee," at an enthusiastic meeting in the Old Lyric Theatre here. The meeting was attended by more than 2,000 colored and white persons.

Cancells Reservations

The Communist candidate was registering with his wife at the Emerson when he learned that William N. Jones, prominent journalist and a member of the editorial staff of the Baltimore Afro-American, would not be admitted to his room. Browder immediately walked out of the hotel, sharply denouncing its management "as enemies of the Constitution."

Earlier in the week, the Communist leader took the same unequivocal stand in defense of the Negro people when he abruptly cancelled reservations for a room and a press conference at the Hotel Adelphia in Philadelphia when he learned that Robert Smith, city editor of the Afro-American, was refused the use of the main elevators of the hotel. Smith had visited the hotel to get an interview with Browder.

A group of Philadelphia Communist leaders, headed by Pat Toohey, Western Pennsylvania Communist organizer, and B. D. Amis, Negro Communist candidate for State Auditor General, vigorously protested the hotel's discrimination against Smith to hotel manager David Provan. Provan's answer was that it is the rule of the hotel "that colored people go up the back elevator." Amis assailed the hotel's policy as "an insult to the Negro people."

Charging the management with violation of the state's civil rights law, Browder and his party moved to a Spruce Street apartment, where Negro visitors had free access to the Communist nominee.

In an address later before an audience of 11,000 Philadelphians, Browder urged all liberty-loving persons to join the fight on racial discrimination in the "City of Brotherly Love." He recalled that sons of Pennsylvania drove the Southern Bourbon cavalry out of Chambersburg, Pa., the farthest point north reached by General Lee's armies during the Civil War, so that all men could be equal.

Continue Lincoln Traditions

"We Communists," Browder declared, "in our fight for equality for Negroes are continuing under modern conditions the struggle of those brave followers of Abraham Lincoln."

On the stage of the great Market Street Arena where Browder spoke, two giant pictures of Browder and his Negro running mate, James W. Ford, flanked a huge electric sign which flashed forth the words "Vote Communist." A Negro Chorus held a prominent place on the evening's program.

Crusader News Agency
10-28-36
New York, N.Y.

The huge audience roared approval when B. D. Amis read a telegram which he proposed that the meeting send to Governor Earle protesting the jimcrow policy of the Hotel Adelphia and "condemning this violation of the civil rights law." The telegram urged the Governor to issue an order that those who violate the law against discrimination "shall be punished by the full force of the state."

The Fight for Civil Liberties in the South

• Terre Haute is not the only city where the Bill of Rights is fighting with its back to the wall against the forces of budding American fascism.

In Richmond, Va., Judge John L. Ingram has just denied a writ of mandamus to compel the school board to allow the use of John Marshall High School Auditorium for a speech by James W. Ford, outstanding Negro leader and Communist candidate for Vice-President.

In Durham, N. C., Mayor W. F. Carr, borrowing a leaf from his Terre Haute colleagues, threatens to prevent a Ford mass meeting, as well as a radio broadcast, arranged for Oct. 25.

Thus the reactionary wing of the Democratic Party in the South joins hands with the Republican administration in Terre Haute and its fascist gang of Landon boosters who prevented Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President, from speaking there.

No more than his running mate will the Communist candidate for Vice-President be intimidated by threats. The fight he is waging to carry the banner of civil liberties and Negro rights into the South is the fight of the whole American people, Negro and white.

All liberty-loving people are urged to send protests to the Richmond school board and to Mayor Carr of Durham, N.C. Demand the constitutional right of free speech for James W. Ford.

Scandal in Tarheelia

From the Baltimore (Md.) Evening Sun

Conservatives in North Carolina are shocked by the course of a professor (Prof. E. E. Ericson), in the University of North Carolina in dining with James Ford, the Negro candidate for Vice President on the Communist ticket.

But is the business important enough to justify those excited citizens who are demanding that the university authorities proceed instantly to a "housecleaning"? Probably not. It is the business of a university to stir things up, to shake prejudices, to question traditions, as St. Paul put it, to "prove all things." To be sure, it is also its business to "hold fast that which is good," but must prove all things first.

The University of North Carolina is not going to rack and ruin because one professor dined with a Negro and thereby scandalized the neighbors; and the State of North Carolina ought to be big enough to know it.

From the Raleigh (N.C.) News and Observer

What the individual Ericson does is nobody's business but the individual Ericson. But the individual Ericson is no more a man free from relationships important to other men than the individual industrialists. He is not a hermit imparting knowledge to youths attracted to him personally. He is a part of a university which is a unity more important than his unity, and the question which he should have asked himself before he sat down at the table with the Negroes was whether by so doing he furthered the usefulness of an organization of which he was at most only a part. Had he considered the university's usefulness and not merely Ericson's individual desires, he would not have joined the party at the racially mixed board.

He was careless of the consequences to the university. And it is hard to see how Dr. Graham will feel constrained to protect Ericson in the name of academic freedom.

Richmond Judge Bars Writ for Hall for Ford

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 21 (UP).—Judge John L. Ingram of the Richmond Hustings Court today denied a writ of mandamus sought in an effort to force the Richmond School Board to allow use of the John Marshall High School Auditorium for a political speech by James W. Ford, Negro, Communist vice-presidential candidate.

The writ was asked by Donald Burke, Richmond, Communist senatorial candidate. Attorneys for the American Civil Liberties Union argued the case.

Burke said his attorneys planned to appeal the decision to the Circuit Court of Appeals because "it is felt that a reversal could be obtained in the higher court, thus establishing the right of the Communist Party to hold future meetings.

Ford Assails Misleaders of Negro People

(Special to the Daily Worker)

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 20.—A plea by James W. Ford, Communist nominee for vice-president, for Negro unity behind the Farmer-Labor Party movement was heard by 500 in a boxing arena here last night.

Ford attacked Perry Howard, chief Negro Republican strategist, Congressman Oscar DePriest and Jesse Owens for trying to mislead the Negro people in support of Gov. Alfred M. Landon. The three are campaigning in this area among Negroes to secure votes for the G. O. P. candidate.

In a radio address here Ford dealt with Landon's record in his own state. He compared him with Earl Browder whom he called the symbol of progress while Landon was the personification of the Liberty League-Hearst forces. He related Landon's backers to the Terre Haute suppression of Browder and the denial of free assemblage.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Communists.

DR. W. K. HOPES WON ON DEM. TICKET

Guardian 11-14-36

FIRST DEMOCRATIC RACE VICTOR IN CONN.

Boston, Mass.

HARTFORD, Conn.—Along with the Democrat land-slide in the last presidential election, Dr. W. K. Hopes of Hartford, Conn., was elected as one of the Justices of the peace for the city of Hartford. He was the first Colored man to be elected to any office in the state by the Democratic party, and the first to receive so large a number of votes. He was Campaign Speaker for the state under the Colored State Democratic director.

Dr. Hopes was born in Louisiana, educated at Gilbert Academy, Baldwin La., New Orleans University and Wilberforce University, Wilberforce, Ohio, where he received the degree of A.B., B.D. and D.D. He was for many years a member of the "Black and Tan" Republicans who fought "Lily Whiteism" in the south with the late Walter Cohen of New Orleans. He was for 15 years a business man, and is at present a member of the board of Trustees of Wilberforce University, of Union Mutual Insurance Co., of Philadelphia, Member of the board of directors of the North End Federated Clubs of Hartford, Hartford Community Chest, and pastor of Bethel A. M. E. Church. He is married and has one child.

Amsterdam News 11-28-36

JAMES W. FORD, leading Negro Communist, former Alabama worker....candidate for Vice-President of the United States on his party's ticket....His grandfather was lynched fifty years ago in Gainesville, Ga., for "getting fresh with a white woman"....Real name is Lymon Forsch....changed to "Ford" by error in his pay envelope from a coal company in Alabama...."Keep that name," sneered the white foreman. "It don't matter about a nigger's name nohow."....Born at Pratt City, Ala., near Birmingham....Has two sisters, both younger....He is 43.... finished high school and three years at Fisk University....joined the army in 1917 and became a radio and telegraph operator....In France he fought against discrimination aimed at black soldiers....was himself jim-crowed in the American radio school in France and forced to attend the French school....after the war, became a member of the Communist party and soon forged to the front ranks as a militant leader....He's in the Vanguard.

Political-1936 Elections.

Communists.

THE FAKE COMMUNIST SCARE

Out of the 42,000,000 votes cast in the recent election, Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President, received only 56,000. He is the man that Tampa all but mobbed, that Atlanta's police threatened and that was put in jail in Terre Haute—for what?

For advocating the public ownership of property! A good many newspapers, including even The Atlanta Constitution, applauded police action against this harmless candidate for President who would advocate the public ownership of private property. It is not against the law of the land for a Communist to run for President, but in some communities it is unlawful for him to make speeches in behalf of his candidacy.

Fifty-six thousand votes! How ridiculous the red scare now seems in face of such a fact! Of course, not all Communists in this country voted for Browder. Undoubtedly some of them voted for Roosevelt, but Browder was the only Communist candidate for President, and there are no Communists in important official positions in the administration. President Roosevelt specifically repudiated Communist support in a racy campaign speech, and disavowed Communist principles.

Communism is a vice of ugly mien, to be sure, but it is not an American problem. It is merely a rallying cry for excitable people who regard any advocate of wider highways and better public health methods as a "Communist."

If Roosevelt fails, Fascism will relieve him and take over his prerogatives. In America Communism will be the last resort of a dying and despairing race, and it seems to us that anybody with any insight should know it. Fascism is as bestial as Communism, so far as the common people are concerned.

We have just witnessed a magnificent triumph of representative democracy. That is America's challenge and final answer to Fascism and Communism. If Communism comes to this country it will come too late to be of interest to anybody now living.

In the meantime let us have the decency and the sense to stop jailing cranks for what they say on the stump. If somebody must go to the hoosegow on the free speech issue, let it be those who are opposed to free speech. They are the greatst living enemies of the American fireside!

Browder Vote 679 in Alabama

Communist Led Other Minority Candidates—Many Disqualified

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 15.—The Communist presidential ticket—Earl Browder and James W. Ford—led all the minority parties in the Nov. 3 elections in Alabama, final returns, announced today, show.

The Communist ticket polled 679 votes, compared to 406 in 1932. The Socialists got 240, against 2,030 in 1932. The Union Party registered 549 votes.

Because officials piled up back poll taxes, which many citizens were unable to pay, the total State vote dropped to 190,000, a drop of 50,000 from the 1932 total.

The figures reveal also that only 14 per cent of the citizens of Alabama of voting age are qualified voters.

Raleigh, N. C. Observer
October 26, 1936

Writteh In Pride

In Durham yesterday a man preaching the doctrines most hateful to the majority of Southerners, a Negro preaching the economic and racial leveling doctrines of Communism, spoke his unpopular views without interference. Yet Democratic institutions survived. The dignity of the law was undisturbed. The Constitutional right of a man, even a black man in the South, to speak his convictions in freedom was upheld.

But in another Southern city on the same day the story was altogether different. In Tampa, Fla., where the murder months ago of a labor organizer by a mob reported to have included policemen is still unpunished, Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President, undertook to speak as his running mate, James W. Ford, the Negro, was speaking in Durham. Browder did not speak. Another Tampa mob, swinging clubs and pistols, fell upon the crowd. Browder escaped, but more than a dozen persons, some of them women, were injured. So Communism was routed in Tampa. But it was routed by anarchy. It was routed only at the expense of law done violence, human rights beaten. It was routed only at the expense of making darker the name of Tampa which is already marked with blood shed in cowardice and secrecy by a masked mob posing as the saviors of civilization.

In the difference between the two Sunday scenes The News and Observer takes pride. It does not regard North Carolina as by any means a perfect State. Things sometimes happen in North Carolina of which decent North Carolinians are ashamed. Things are done in North Carolina which ought not to be done. And Durham, like Raleigh, is not a perfect city. There are aspects of its life which are far from Utopian. But the sensible, decent, law-abiding, tolerant behavior of the authorities and the people of Durham on Sunday, as contrasted with violence and anarchy of Tampa, was surely the basis for faith in North Carolina that, far as we are from perfect, there is a civilization and a good sense among us in which without inflated pride we are entitled to take devout gratification.

There is seldom anything spectacular about a man or about a city whose behavior is marked only by decency and good sense. But the behavior of Tampa yesterday gave a spectacular quality to the action of Durham, which only continued in its course of respect for the law and of tolerance for the right of free speech. That spectacular quality in decency was needed in the South. A few tough and regardless communities, a few mobs of tough and regardless men have across the years made too much of the news that goes out of the South about the South. Sometimes their violence has made the whole South seem violent. Sometimes the success in anarchy of the mob has made the whole South seem subject to the anarchy of mobs which lynch justice and mutilate the law.

The truth to thank God for is that the mob is no more representative of the South than the gang is representative of the city. The denial of human rights in the South is no more representative of the majority of law-abiding people than such denial is representative of decent, justice-loving, law-abiding people anywhere. To the shame of the South it must be admitted that Tampa and the behavior of Tampa is an aspect of its life. But Tampa is not the South. Far more representative of Southern people, as of decent Americans everywhere, was Durham yesterday.

As Durham's neighbor, as a paper in another North Carolina town, The News and Observer chronicles its pride in the difference between Durham and Tampa on yesterday. There was no news in Durham but there ought to be pride in North Carolina that an industrial city, with as much to fear from Communism as any other, that a city with a large Negro population with as much to fear from a Negro Communist as any other, possessed a civilization sturdy enough, a citizenship so free from hysteria that it could contain and disregard the voicing of sentiments which reduced Tampa to anarchy, and from Tampa's violence reduced the South to shame.

Political – 1936
Elections.

Communists.

Browder Sees Alabama Boys - Prefers FD to Alf

BIRMINGHAM—(ANP)— For a few hours Friday night, Birmingham took on the superficial aspects of a great liberal city when Earl Browder, Communistic candidate for President, addressed the first open Red meeting ever permitted here.

Before he left the following day, Browder accompanied a party of leftwing leaders to Jefferson county jail where he visited the nine Scottsboro boys and gave them $5 each to buy candy and cigarettes. He told the lads, whom he had never met before, he was honored to meet them and said the Communist party would continue aiding the Scottsboro defense committee until they were freed.

The Red nominee, whose vice presidential running mate is James W. Ford, a colored person, called for a union of Southern workers and lambasted candidates of other parties, particularly Governor Landon, before 350 listeners, including 120 colored people at Ben Hur hall.

15 Police There

Present were fifteen patrolmen and detectives to see that order was kept during the two-hour meeting. City Detective J. T. Moser, veteran chief of the Red squad, and William R. Sims, chief deputy for the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, left the meeting with copies of several pamphets offered for sale by Communist Secretary R. F. Hall.

The speaker, referring to recent arrests of Red leaders, lambasted "the corporation rule which imprisons men for their beliefs," and called upon Southern workers of both races to unite "to strike off the shackles imposed by landlordism and mine and mill bossism."

Assaults Hearts

Browder hit his stride when he vigorously assaulted Hearst, the Liberty League and the Southern reactionaries who clothe their fascist intentions in the garments of democracy."

"The first objective of the American worker must be to defeat Landon," he said. "We have no practical choice in 1936 but to prefer Roosevelt over Hearst and Landon. But Roosevelt is far from ideal. He is a compromiser, blowing hot and blowing cold. Our ultimate salvation lies in the establishment of a Farmer-Labor party which can elect a President in 1940."

The new Union party is "a Hearst-Coughlin effort to exploit the desire of the workers for a new party and thus elect Landon," while Norman Thomas, Socialist nominee, is "foolish and impractical and is driving uneducated voters into the Landon ranks" Browder declared.

AS TO FREE SPEECH

In taking issue with The Constitution's recent editorial commending the police of several southern cities for preventing Earl Browder Communist candidate for president from speaking in their communities, the Montgomery Advertiser, fine exponent of the art in southern journalism, asked that "The Constitution oblige us by interpreting in its own way that clause in the federal bill of rights . . . that 'NO LAW' abridging freedom of conscience, speech or press shall ever be enacted."

The Constitution does not feel that the police authorities of Atlanta, Tampa and other southern cities violated the constitutional guaranty of the right of free speech in refusing to allow the Communist candidate to speak in their communities.

Had Browder come to the south to preach a political doctrine, whatever its nature, he should, of course, have been permitted to speak, but neither he, nor any other man, can expect this right when the doctrine preached is one of violence and defiance of law and order and consituted government.

The makers of the constitution did not contemplate in incorporating in that great instrument the guarantee of freedom of speech that this right should be used in a manner dangerous to the lives and property of the citizens of the country and threatening to the permanence of the form of government which guarantees that right.

Browder came to the south as the apostle of a creed that has as one of its chief objectives the fomenting of trouble between the races in the south.

He openly preaches social equality, and his party under his leadership has been engaged for years in the effort to stir the negroes of this section to actual rebellion. He is doing what John Brown did at Harper's Ferry in the days immediately preceding the War Between the States, when he urged insurrection among the negro slaves.

That was the object of Browder's recent mission to the south—to create trouble and dissatisfaction among the negroes. Fortunately, the seed has fallen on barren ground and there have been few responses to his inflammatory appeals.

Here in Atlanta a follower of Browder was arrested last year, in possession of damnable literature urging the negroes to open insurrection. Failing to heed the warnings of the courts, he was again arrested, tried and convicted and his case is now before the higher courts.

When a dangerous radical of that type comes to a community, its doors should certainly not be opened to him.

It is quite another thing when a speaker comes to advocate any kind of political doctrine which is within the law and not threatening to the peace of the community, whether it is for or against the constitution or any public policy. He can then rightly claim the freedom of speech guaranteed by the constitution—but when he comes to preach sedition, to stir up race hostility, and to overthrow organized government by violence—then he has no right to that protection.

The editorial opinion of no newspaper is held in higher regard by The Constitution than that of the Montgomery Advertiser. For more than a century it has valiantly stood for the best in government and for the rights and privileges of the people.

But on the proposal that any man, white or black, should have free rein to arouse race prejudice and intolerance, and, more serious, actual insurrection, The Constitution does not believe the federal constitution is susceptible to any interpretation that would place such subversive speech within the law.

Press Whips Lynch Mood In Florida

Protests on Locking of Hall Pour in on Mayor and Governor

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 15.—The attempt of the Tampa authorities to explain the seizing of the hall Sunday as a "misunderstanding" is a "ludicrous retreat before outraged public opinion," Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate, said here today.

The full statement of the Communist leader, who is here on a speaking engagement tonight, stated:

"The attempt of Tampa conspirators to explain the seizing of the hall as a 'misunderstanding' is a ludicrous retreat before outraged public opinion. Our Committee was in possession of the hall and the legal administrator had left, when the hall was seized by an unidentified person without authority."

(Daily Worker Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. — A prompt and vigorous investigation of the action of vigilantes and Ku Klux Klan members in barring Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President, from speaking in a legally rented hall in Tampa, was promised today by the La Follette Committee for the Investigation of Violations of Civil Liberties.

Senator Robert M. La Follette said that he considered the case "very interesting" and declared that it would receive "serious consideration."

The response of the La Follette Committee was the most direct and straightforward of any received from government agencies.

Cummings Declines Comment

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings admitted receipt of President Roosevelt's request to investigate the matter, but declined to make any additional comment or to state what plans he had for pursuing the case further.

Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes indirectly condemned the flagrant violation of Earl Browder's right to free speech which was condoned by Tampa police officials.

Asked to comment on the case he said, "I stand on the bill of rights and believe in the rights of free speech, free press, and free assembly."

When a reporter asked how his position differed in this respect from that of Colonel Knox, Republican candidate for Vice President Ickes replied, that Knox "meant free speech if and when."

A strange response from an organization presumably dedicated to the cause of liberty was met from the American Liberty League.

President Jouett Shouse declined to make any comment at all when the Daily Worker reporter pointed out that the denial of Browder's right to speak constituted a definite breach of "liberty."

Lynch Campaign Preceded Outrage

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 15.—The forcible blocking of Earl Browder's election meeting here Sunday afternoon was the result of a vicious lynch campaign against the Communist standard-bearer conducted by the Tampa Tribune and other Southern newspapers, it was revealed here today.

On Sept. 3, ten days before the scheduled meeting the Tampa Tribune began with a savage incitement to violence against Browder and the sponsors of the meeting. This was followed on Sept. 9, with an article calling for the Communist leader "to forget to get off the train at Tampa."

An editorial published Sept. 11 in the Chattanooga, Tenn., News, where Browder spoke earlier in the week, and which was circulated in this vicinity, pointed out that Browder had been lucky to "escape" from Chattanooga before "patriotic vigilantes learned (him) a lesson."

The Communist Presidential candidate remained here yesterday morning, taking a firm stand against the reactionaries responsible for preventing the meeting. He declared that he wanted to return to speak in the City Audiotrium here before election day, and issuing the following statement:

"I am anxious to have all progressive citizens throughout the country protest to the Florida authorities against this infringement of constitutional righs and to make it possible for me to speak in the city auditorium of Tampa before Election Day."

Protests Pour In

Meantime, protests from all over the country demanding that Browder be permitted the right of free speech continued to pour into Mayor Robert E. Lee Chancey and to Gov. Dave Sholtz. Public indignation ran high against the outrage, and a group of members and sympathizers of the American Civil Liberties Union and other progressives organized to obtain a meeting place for Browder in a return engagement.

Police officials, facing an outraged public opinion, scrambled madly to explain the chaining of the door of the United Secret Orders Hall where the meeting was scheduled, as a "misunderstanding" on the part of the caretaker. The story, regarded as an obvious fabrication, has met scant credence.

People reading the daily press attacks against Browder and the meeting declared that the seizing of the hall was "obviously engineered by Klan, police and civil authorities."

A resolution published in the Sept. 3, issue of the Tampa Tribune urged, "every organization, civic and otherwise, 'to use every means at their disposal to prevent this speaking as it will undoubtedly tend to pollute the minds of an unsuspecting public.'" This resolution was passed by the Optimist Club, a group of reactionary business men.

Articles Incite Violence

Another article published in the Sept. 9 issue of the same paper, asks if "Americans will stand by with open mouths if communism . . . starts target practice on priceless foundations of art, built by the American people?" It goes on to attack the struggle for democracy in Spain declaring that this "shows what communism means for us."

In a violent attack against Browder the article said:

"As the height of Communist intelligence is to curse the God that made them, Browder ought to be reminded for his own safety that it were well for him to forget to get off the train in Tampa."

The editorial entitled "Browder Escapes" in the Chattanooga News, concluded:

"Mr. Browder escaped from the city. And it was high time, lest the patriotic Vigilantes get after him in full cry, as they did for another bewildered alleged Red who was trapped out at White Oak a year or so ago and was 'learned a lesson'."

COMMUNIST SPEECHES STIR OPPOSITION HERE

Protest against the scheduled appearance in Atlanta of the presidential and vice presidential candidates of the Communist party to deliver campaign speeches in September and October was voiced yesterday in a resolution adopted by the Men of Justice, Atlanta organization.

Earl Browder, Communist candidate for president, is slated to make a speech in Atlanta in behalf of his candidacy Saturday, September 12. He will be followed some time in October by the vice presidential candidate, James C. Ford, Alabama negro, who is the reds' vice presidential standard bearer.

Silenced In South

EARL BROWDER

TAMPA, FLA., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Earl Browder, Communist party candidate for president, protested to President Roosevelt today when padlocked and chained meeting hall door forced cancellation of his scheduled speech here.

Browder said in a telegram to Mr. Roosevelt he was "illegally and forcefully prevented" from speaking "by lawless elements who seized hall from its custodians and barred doors despite a legal contract."

A committee sponsoring his appearance said the hall, leased by several secret orders, had been rented for $20 but that they found it locked.

"Appeal to local officials brought no redress of this gross violation of democratic rights," said Browder's telegram to the President.

Addressing a crowd outside the hall, Alfred Bell, who represented himself as State secretary of the Communist party, said the Browder arrangements committee would file suit for damages against the city.

Browder said he would leave at noon tomorrow for a speech Tuesday night at Norfolk, Va. He spoke in Birmingham, Ala., Friday night.

Browder Met At Train By Atlanta Policemen

ATLANTA, Sept. 13.—(AP)—A police detail met the train which brought Earl Browder, Communist candidate for president, to Atlanta last night, but they had no occasion to carry out orders to arrest him for any "communistic utterances."

Browder, who caught another train an hour and 20 minutes later for Tampa, Fla., said today no speech had been scheduled for Atlanta. He also said he did not see any police during his stopover.

Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant said he sent four plainclothesmen to the Terminal Station on the strength of published reports that Browder would speak there.

"We don't like that stuff in Atlanta," said Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant. "We don't want any communistic activities in this town.

"When the next communist comes here, we will have some police down to meet him."

Police took 18 persons into custody recently for possessing radical literature.

Angelo Herndon, young negro communist, of Cincinnati, is under 18 to 20 years' sentence for insurrection to incite riot. An ancient statute, enacted in Reconstruction days and aimed at carpetbaggers, provided the basis for his conviction. A death penalty is possible under the law.

Herndon was convicted here in 1932.

He was charged with distributing literature and delivering speeches advocating the overthrow of constituted authority by violence. Literature was found in his quarters containing a proposal to set up a negro republic in the South.

An attack on constitutionality of the statute on grounds it denied freedom of speech and violated provisions of the Federal Constitution was started by Herndon. The case has been in various courts for the past four years.

The Georgia Court of Appeals several weeks ago reversed a lower decision and held the statute constitutional. Herndon, at liberty under bond, announced an immediate appeal to the United States Supreme Court which previously refused to review the case.

Political – 1936
Elections.

Communists.

SELECTS FORD AS NO. 2 MAN ON RED SLATE

Communist Assembly Picks Browder for Head of Ticket

With red banners and American flags flying and confetti filling the air at Madison Square Garden on Sunday afternoon, a wildly enthusiastic throng of 25,000, including a huge delegation of Negroes, greeted the nomination of James W. Ford, as Vice-President of the United States on the Communist ticket.

He will be the runnig mate of Earl Browder, general chairman of the Communist party, who was nominated for President by Robert Minor, Communist leader and candidate of the party for governor of New York. "Mother" Ella Reeve Bloor, veteran of the labor movement, nominated Ford.

William Z. Foster, three times presidential candidate of the Communist party and at present its national chairman, officially opened the nominating session, which culminated the five-day convention period here. The other sessions were held at the Manhattan Opera House.

Ford, in his acceptance address, declared that the two major parties have practiced a policy of discrimination and segregation against the Negro people and that the way out for working people was to vote on the Communist ticket.

The Communist party platform for the coming election is for one purpose, Browder stated in his speech of acceptance—"to unite the broadest masses of the toiling people effectively around a program, which, if carried out, would bring a better life; would relieve the present suffering of millions of men, women and children; would preserve democratic rights and civil liberties; would keep America out of war by keeping war out of the world."

Browder and Ford will make their first campaign speeches today (Saturday) in Cleveland and Chicago, respectively. The presidential candidate will speak on the position of the Communist party at a labor picnic and later in the day will address a Communist party picnic in Akron, Ohio. Ford's speech will also be delivered at a Communist picnic in Chicago.

The section of the platform affecting Negroes, as it was presented to the nominating session by Clarence Hathaway, editor of The Daily Worker, states:

For Negro Equality.

"We demand that the Negro people be guaranteed complete equality, equal rights to jobs, equal pay for equal work, the full right to organize, vote, serve on juries and hold public office. Segregation and discrimination against Negroes must be declared a crime. Heavy penalties must be established against mob rule, floggers and kidnapers with the death penalty for lynchers. We demand the enforcement of the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution."

Other points in the platform include putting America back to work by providing jobs and living wages; providing unemployment insuarnce, old age pensions and social security for all; freeing the farmers from debts, unbearable tax burdens and foreclosures and guaranteeing the land to those who will till the soil; providing opportunity, education and work for the youth of America; defending and extending democractic and civil liberties and curbing the Supreme Court; keeping America out of war by keeping war out of the world.

Browder's speech, in part, declared that "the issues of the 1936 election is not a choice between socialism or capitalism. It is a choice between progress and reaction, between democracy and the path toward Fascism.

The acceptance speeches of Browder and Ford were broadcast over the Columbia System from 5 to 5:30 p.m. and over the National Broadcasting System from 5 to 6 p.m.

In his acceptance speech, Mr. Ford said in part:

"In these elections the American people face their greatest crisis since the Civil War. This recalls the heroic part played by Negro regiments in turning the tide towards victory, and the role played by that great Negro liberation leader—Frederick Douglass. His close associate was John Brown, who saved Kansas from slavery and who died that the Negro people be free. I am proud to be on the same ticket with a son of Kansas —Earl Browder, friend and fighter for the Negro people, my people.

"John Brown was an individualist who died in a brave but individualist attempt to free the slaves. Earl Browder symbolizes an invincible international movement dedicated to the liberation not only of the Negro people, but of all oppressed races and nationalities. Earl Browder and the Communist Party are the inheritors of Frederick Douglass, Abraham Lincoln and John Brown. We Communists, Negro and white together will carry out what they dreamed of.

Raps Two Parties.

"The Republican party has always posed as the friend of the Negro people. They even sent a Negro Congressman to Washington. But Mr DePriest was part and parcel of the corrupt machine which brutally suppresses the Negroes in Chicago. The Republicans have not fought against segregation, against discrimination on jobs and relief. Today, the Republicans sponsored by the Liberty Leaguers are in alliance with the bitterest enemies of the Negro people. It was they who subsidized the infamous Grass Roots-Ku Klux-Klan Convention of hate led by Governor Talmadge of Georgia.

"The Democratic administration has been a little more favorable to Negroes. But it is in the South that Democratic officials have openly countenanced lynchings and tortures, are responsible for Scottsboro and are trying to send Angelo Herndon to death on the chain gang. Rooosevelt makes gestures to win the Negro vote, but he has never opened his mouth to protest this thralldom of an entire people.

"I urge the Negro people in their own interests, in the interest of freedom and equal rights to support the Communist party which saved the Scottsboro boys, which stands for every Negro demand—which is the party of the Negro people."

Ford Is Reds' Candidate for Vice-President

Reds Nominate Earl Browder as Their Choice for President.

GARDEN ROCKS TO CHEERS OF 30,000

Many Races Join Hands in Demonstration.

By FLORENCE M. COLLINS
(Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—With race lines, class lines and religious lines wiped out, more than thirty thousand Communists and their sympathizers set up a deafening din that lasted for more than twenty minutes when Earl Browder, white, and James W. Ford were unanimously nominated for President and Vice-President of the United States, respectively, at the final session of the party's ninth annual convention here.

The session, held in Madison Square Garden, was unique in the diversified character of its delegates and visitors. The audience was a veritable cross-section of the world's population—Chinese, Japanese, Latin races of all descriptions, Teutons and Negroes.

The main arena of the Garden, which seats twenty thousand persons, was filled, about five thousand sat in the basement, where loud speakers were used, and approximately three thousand more, who could not get into the hall, stood outside the building on Eighth Avenue and listened to loud speakers.

A historical event in the life of the country occurred at the session, when for the first time in America a colored man's voice was broadcast over a national hook-up in an acceptance speech for the Vice Presidency of the United States.

Mother Bloor Speaks

James W. Ford, a native of Alabama, now a Harlemite, was nominated by the idol of the working class people—74-year-old Mother Bloor (as she is popularly known). This militant veteran of labor battles, who has spent time in jail as a political prisoner, began her nominating speech by stating that one of her life's aims has been to name a colored man to guide the destiny of America.

"Ford symbolizes a ceaseless effort of the colored people to free themselves from oppression and lynch terror," she said. "He symbolizes the part that we have taken as the champion of the colored people. We will never rest until colored and white workers shoulder to shoulder, win the final emancipation of the colored people as a part of the freedom of enslaved humanity."

Named at Last Meet

Ford was nominated at the last convention of the party to run for Vice President with William Z. Foster. Browder has served the Communist party in America as its national secretary.

As the two nominees stood on the platform of the large arena with arms about each other's shoulders, and three youthful comrades stood behind them holding the American and Communist flags, the thousands of delegates with bands paraded around the hall, singing the "Communist International," and other so-called workers' songs, and yelling for them.

Balloons were loosed from everywhere, with thousands of cards upon which the pictures of the two candidates were printed; ticker tape bearing the words "Vote Communist" was thrown about the rooms; horns and other noise-making devices were used. The spirit of camaraderie was so impressive that tears were blinked back from the eyes of a number of the allegedly hard-boiled men of the press who filled the press box.

All the Color There

The setting, with its decorations of banners and large paintings of the party's leaders, spot lights, movie cameras, radio broadcasting staff's activities, were not surpassed by the conventions of any other political parties of the country.

One of the most noticeable facts of the huge assembly was its discipline. When the chairman, Bill Winestone, white, wanted to call the delegates to order, by the waving of his arms, and a call to order, the bedlam would be reduced to silence within from two to three minutes. During the broadcasting period, the audience would cease its demonstration suddenly as of one person at the waving of the chairman's arms.

The session, including the acceptance speeches of the nominees and the presentation

The broadcasting staff on hand sent up a collection spontaneously contributed. The Workers Press covering the convention also took up a contribution.

Political – 1936
Elections.

Communists.

SELECTS FORD AS NO. 2 MAN ON RED SLATE

Communist Assembly Picks Browder for Head of Ticket

With red banners and American flags flying and confetti filling the air at Madison Square Garden on Sunday afternoon, a wildly enthusiastic throng of 25,000, including a huge delegation of Negroes, greeted the nomination of James W. Ford, as Vice-President of the United States on the Communist ticket.

He will be the runnig mate of Earl Browder, general chairman of the Communist party, who was nominated for President by Robert Minor, Communist leader and candidate of the party for governor of New York. "Mother" Ella Reeve Bloor, veteran of the labor movement, nominated Ford.

William Z. Foster, three times presidential candidate of the Communist party and at present its national chairman, officially opened the nominating session, which culminated the five-day convention period here. The other sessions were held at the Manhattan Opera House.

Ford, in his acceptance address, declared that the two major parties have practiced a policy of discrimination and segregation against the Negro people and that the way out for working people was to vote on the Communist ticket.

The Communist party platform for the coming election is for one purpose, Browder stated in his speech of acceptance—"to unite the broadest masses of the toiling people effectively around a program, which, if carried out, would bring a better life; would relieve the present suffering of millions of men, women and children; would preserve democratic rights and civil liberties; would keep America out of war by keeping war out of the world."

Browder and Ford will make their first campaign speeches today (Saturday) in Cleveland and Chicago, respectively. The presidential candidate will speak on the position of the Communist party at a labor picnic and later in the day will address a Communist party picnic in Akron, Ohio. Ford's speech will also be delivered at a Communist picnic in Chicago.

The section of the platform affecting Negroes, as it was presented to the nominating session by Clarence Hathaway, editor of The Daily Worker, states:

For Negro Equality.

"We demand that the Negro people be guaranteed complete equality, equal rights to jobs, equal pay for equal work, the full right to organize, vote, serve on juries and hold public office. Segregation and discrimination against Negroes must be declared a crime. Heavy penalties must be established against mob rule, floggers and kidnapers with the death penalty for lynchers. We demand the enforcement of the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution."

Other points in the platform include putting America back to work by providing jobs and living wages; providing unemployment insuarnce, old age pensions and social security for all; freeing the farmers from debts, unbearable tax burdens and foreclosures and guaranteeing the land to those who will till the soil; providing opportunity, education and work for the youth of America; defending and extending democractic and civil liberties and curbing the Supreme Court; keeping America out of war by keeping war out of the world.

Browder's speech, in part, declared that "the issues of the 1936 election is not a choice between socialism or capitalism. It is a choice between progress and reaction, between democracy and the path toward Fascism.

The acceptance speeches of Browder and Ford were broadcast over the Columbia System from 5 to 5:30 p.m. and over the National Broadcasting System from 5 to 6 p.m.

In his acceptance speech, Mr. Ford said in part:

"In these elections the American people face their greatest crisis since the Civil War. This recalls the heroic part played by Negro regiments in turning the tide towards victory, and the role played by that great Negro liberation leader—Frederick Douglass. His close associate was John Brown, who saved Kansas from slavery and who died that the Negro people be free. I am proud to be on the same ticket with a son of Kansas—Earl Browder, friend and fighter for the Negro people, my people.

"John Brown was an individualist who died in a brave but individualist attempt to free the slaves. Earl Browder symbolizes an invincible international movement dedicated to the liberation not only of the Negro people, but of all oppressed races and nationalities. Earl Browder and the Communist Party are the inheritors of Frederick Douglass, Abraham Lincoln and John Brown. We Communists, Negro and white together will carry out what they dreamed of.

Raps Two Parties.

"The Republican party has always posed as the friend of the Negro people. They even sent a Negro Congressman to Washington. But Mr DePriest was part and parcel of the corrupt machine which brutally suppresses the Negroes in Chicago. The Republicans have not fought against segregation, against discrimination on jobs and relief. Today, the Republicans sponsored by the Liberty Leaguers are in alliance with the bitterest enemies of the Negro people. It was they who subsidized the infamous Grass Roots-Ku Klux-Klan Convention of hate led by Governor Talmadge of Georgia.

"The Democratic administration has been a little more favorable to Negroes. But it is in the South that Democratic officials have openly countenanced lynchings and tortures, are responsible for Scottsboro and are trying to send Angelo Herndon to death on the chain gang. Roooosevelt makes gestures to win the Negro vote, but he has never opened his mouth to protest this thralldom of an entire people.

"I urge the Negro people in their own interests, in the interest of freedom and equal rights to support the Communist party which saved the Scottsboro boys, which stands for every Negro demand—which is the party of the Negro people."

Ford Is Reds' Candidate for Vice-President

Reds Nominate Earl Browder as Their Choice for President.

GARDEN ROCKS TO CHEERS OF 30,000

Many Races Join Hands in Demonstration.

By FLORENCE M. COLLINS
(Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—With race lines, class lines and religious lines wiped out, more than thirty thousand Communists and their sympathizers set up a deafening din that lasted for more than twenty minutes when Earl Browder, white, and James W. Ford were unanimously nominated for President and Vice-President of the United States, respectively, at the final session of the party's ninth annual convention here.

The session, held in Madison Square Garden, was unique in the diversified character of its delegates and visitors. The audience was a veritable cross-section of the world's population—Chinese, Japanese, Latin races of all descriptions, Teutons and Negroes.

The main arena of the Garden, which seats twenty thousand persons, was filled, about five thousand sat in the basement, where loud speakers were used, and approximately three thousand more, who could not get into the hall, stood outside the building on Eighth Avenue and listened to loud speakers.

A historical event in the life of the country occurred at the session, when for the first time in America a colored man's voice was broadcast over a national hook-up in an acceptance speech for the Vice Presidency of the United States.

Mother Bloor Speaks

James W. Ford, a native of Alabama, now a Harlemite, was nominated by the idol of the working class people—74-year-old Mother Bloor (as she is popularly known). This militant veteran of labor battles, who has spent time in jail as a political prisoner, began her nominating speech by stating that one of her life's aims has been to name a colored man to guide the destiny of America.

"Ford symbolizes a ceaseless effort of the colored people to free themselves from oppression and lynch terror," she said. "He symbolizes the part that we have taken as the champion of the colored people. We will never rest until colored and white workers shoulder to shoulder, win the final emancipation of the colored people as a part of the freedom of enslaved humanity."

Named at Last Meet

Ford was nominated at the last convention of the party to run for Vice President with William Z. Foster. Browder has served the Communist party in America as its national secretary.

As the two nominees stood on the platform of the large arena with arms about each other's shoulders, and three youthful comrades stood behind them holding the American and Communist flags, the thousands of delegates with bands paraded around the hall, singing the "Communist International," and other so-called workers' songs, and yelling for them.

Balloons were loosed from everywhere, with thousands of cards upon which the pictures of the two candidates were printed; ticker tape bearing the words "Vote Communist" was thrown about the rooms; horns and other noise-making devices were used. The spirit of camaraderie was so impressive that tears were blinked back from the eyes of a number of the allegedly hard-boiled men of the press who filled the press box.

All the Color There

The setting, with its decorations of banners and large paintings of the party's leaders, spot lights, movie cameras, radio broadcasting staff's activities, were not surpassed by the conventions of any other political parties of the country.

One of the most noticeable facts of the huge assembly was its discipline. When the chairman, Bill Winestone, white, wanted to call the delegates to order, by the waving of his arms, and a call to order, the bedlam would be reduced to silence within from two to three minutes. During the broadcasting period, the audience would cease its demonstration suddenly as of one person at the waving of the chairman's arms.

The session, including the acceptance speeches of the nominees and the presentation

The broadcasting staff on hand sent up a collection spontaneously contributed. The workers' press covering the convention also took up a contribution.

...ampaign, which, the lead-...can Newspaper Guild, and mem-..., is to "promote the unity ...bers of the so-called working class ...rking people and to build groups.

...utions for the presi-... Farmer-Labor Party for the fu-...ture," were sent to the rostrum ...ogan and the "Communist ...tionale" its theme song. varied walks of life. Among those ...nism," one of its mottoes was announced from the platform were ...nism is 20th Century organizations of teachers, lawyers, physicians, the Communist party in Canada, policemen, the American Contribution dential campa... bouquet of red roses. "A free, happy and prosperousers stated, is t... of the working

...those who seconded the nomina- America" ...ion of the Presidential candidate, party's slogan ...Browder. When he took the plat- Internationale ...form, the assembly of workers, to ...whom he is a martyr, went into Another one ...one of its wild demonstrations. "Communism, ...Herndon was presented with a Americanism, ...bouquet of red roses.

of the party's platform by Clarence Hathaway, white, editor of the Daily Worker, was broadcast from five to six p.m. over a nation-wide hook-up as a part of the broadcasting company's program to grant a period of time to each political convention.

Herndon Gets Bouquet

Angelo Herndon was one of

NASHVILLE, TENN.
BANNER

JUL 1 - 1936

THE COMMUNIST PARTY

Earl W. Browder, of Kansas, who Saturday outlined the objectives of American Communists as including "confidence and respect of the masses of workers and toilers," so widespread that "no enemy can attack us without rallying millions to our defense," now becomes the presidential nominee of the party. James W. Ford, Harlem Negro, is his running mate.

On Browder falls the mantle of William Z Foster, three times the Communist candidate for President, and who has predicted a Soviet Government at Washington. Foster, in addressing the 710 Communist delegates at the New York convention, urged them to lay the foundation for a "great people's front party."

In substance, this was the plea of Browder who warned that the major hope for Communist victory rests in alliance of the farm and labor element under the red banner. Pride in the enlistment of 50,000 members should not blind Communists to the goal of 40,000,000, Browder reminded the cheering delegates.

Concerning the policies of his party, as incorporated in part in the platform finally adopted, he called attention to the cooperation assured labor in its "fight against capitalism." Strikes and unrest he held to be the weapons most effectively wielded by Communist-inspired men.

For the first time in American history is communism and its related doctrines so openly avowed. Morris Childs, Illinois secretary, in presenting the report of the resolutions committee, obtained consent to send "revolutionary greetings" to the Communist International and to party organizations in Germany, China, Italy Cuba, Canada, and practically every other nation. By another action, the convention went on record as demanding release of all political prisoners, and abolition of laws against criminal syndicalism.

One item of particular interest and significance is the report by the credentials committee, which shows how the delegates are divided. Of the 710, 70 per cent were native born. Eleven per cent were women. Fifteen per cent were Negroes.

A total of 215 had been arrested in the "class struggle," and 156 had been convicted at some time or another.

Of this material, and in a candidate chosen by such a group, the party hopes to evolve a political Utopia, through coordination of two legitimate and highly important and valuable groups of industry and citizens.

But these groups, the Communists will find to their dismay, are composed of thinking men and women swift to recognize the tenets of the party however lofty its demeanor. Those to whom the appeal will go will penetrate its thin disguise, and see beneath a glossy exterior and veneer the tendencies and trends it publicly disavows but privately indorses. They will see the destructive influences of hostility to established theories and policies. More, they will read between the lines of every speech a determination to destroy what it cannot control. Such is the record, the purpose and the way of communism.

By their fruits ye shall know them.

FORD BORN IN ALABAMA

NEW YORK, July—James W Ford, Communist candidate for vice-president of the United States, is a former Alabama steel worker. One of his grandfathers was lynched by a Georgia mob. His father was a tenant former in Georgia before the family moved to Alabama.

Ford worked his way through Fisk University. In 1917 he joined the U. S. Army radio school, he later entered the radio school of the French Army. He served at the front with distinction during the World War. He was one of the leaders of the several Bonus Marches on the capital.

He joined the Communist Party in 1926 and rapidly rose to leadership in the party as a result of his abilities and his energy as a trade union organizer. In 1932 he was his party's candidate for vice president on a ticket with William Foster.

Maryville, Tenn. Enterprise
July 2, 1936

Communists Nominate Negro Vice-President

The Communists in convention in New York have shown their disregard for the color line or race preference. They have nominated Earl W. Browder, a chronic trouble-maker, and a white man for the presidency, and James Ford, a negro from New York City's Harlem as vice president. Probably the party's slogan is "stop everything that is progressive and safe in national life."

KINSTON, N. C.
FREE PRESS

JUN 30 1936

Communists nominate a Negro [illegible] president of the United States. Well, if the Negro gets any kick out of it, there is no particular objection. In its final analysis the nomination is worse than an empty honor.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
JOURNAL

JUL 9 - 1936

Communist Nativity

The Communist Party, with EARL W. BROWDER as candidate for President and the Harlem Negro leader, JAMES W. FORD, as his running mate, will of course be utterly unimportant in the campaign. The Communist ticket, in 1932, received 103,000 votes, a microscopic number compared with Democratic or Republican totals. The Communists ran behind the Socialists, but were ahead of the Prohibitionists.

But more surprising is a nativity poll made of the 710 delegates to the Communist Convention in New York, showing 70 per cent American born. It rather knocks out the popular notion that Communist agitators are mostly foreign born. Eleven per cent of the delegates were women, fifteen per cent Negroes, thirty-four per cent unemployed, and 213 of them had at some time been under arrest for unlawful demonstration.

It is a new picture of the Communist group, a group openly and aggressively hostile to about everything that a right thinking American stands for, yet made up not of foreign agitators unwisely tolerated on American soil, but largely of native born persons.

Anniston, Ala. Star
August 2, 1936

"Anti-Red" Law

An ordinance has been passed recently by the Gadsden city commission forbidding "mixed assemblies of the white and Negro races for the purpose of advocating destruction of federal, state or municipal government." The bill prohibits "public or secret meetings designed to further movements to establish any government not republican in form or advocate substitution of public ownership by a soviet or communistic government." Another section makes it "unlawful to advertise such meetings or distribute printed matter advocating governmental overthrow."

Like most other "anti-Red" laws enacted in this state, the new Gadsden law violates several fundamental rights of the Constitution in spite of city attorneys' statements to the contrary.

The Constitution gives the right of free speech, free assemblage and free press. The Gadsden ordinance violates all three of these provisions. Obviously, the bill was designed to check the efforts of organized labor to unionize plants in that area.

Although some of the citizens of Gadsden do not seem to realize it, labor has a recognized legal right to organize. Determination of labor to secure a fair chance to organize in Gadsden has been shown by recent unsuccessful attempts. Although public meetings are prohibited by the new law, attempts to organize will be continued. Secret meetings will be held and underhanded methods will probably be used. If labor organizers do not fear beatings administered by self-appointed authorities, they will pay little attention to a city ordinance.

It probably would have been better to have allowed organizers to hold open meetings and discuss their plans in a sane manner rather than to force their efforts to become unlawful. Had their attempts been carried on in the open, laborers involved could have made a free choice, employers could have made sure that coercion was not used and the public could have seen that the methods were fair.

As the situation stands now, methods that organizers will be forced to use will be unlawful. Misunderstanding and even coercion and violence might result. Any further violence would probably lead to bloodshed and a serious labor war. Employe, employer and the public would lose.

Perhaps the new ordinance was enacted to protect laborers who did not wish to join unions, but the method used is shortsighted and clumsy in actual practice. Also, steps like these, if they are taken often enough, lead to dictatorships.

Happily, however, the bad feeling that has existed in Gadsden between employers and employes for some time seems to be improving, as a recent meeting of the Central Labor Council, which it was feared would lead to trouble, was held without any disturbance and it is to be hoped that a better relationship between capital and labor may continue not only in Gadsden but throughout the state, for we have received far too much unfavorable advertising by reason of industrial conflicts in recent years.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., News
July 31, 1936

Rapid Spread Of Communism

THE progress being achieved by Communism in the Old World should have the effect of arousing Americans to the perils involved in the progress of this movement in the United States.

The Communists are practically in the saddle in France, accounting for the numerous disorders in that quarter, and are virtually supreme in Spain. With all the resources of Russia behind them, they are making progress on many fronts, including that in the United States.

The measure of progress being made here is revealed not only by the widespread disorders for which they are at times responsible, and by the known presence of thousands of paid agents, but by the fact that they are bold enough to put out a presidential ticket to be voted upon in November, with a white man aspiring to the presidency and a negro to the vice-presidency.

forces feel powerful enough to come into the open "boring from within" is proceeding at an alarming rate.

and to fight in the open.

In the beginning the campaign to overthrow the American form of government was more or less secret. But this situation does not obtain now. The

It is time for Americans to cherish the traditions upon which this government was founded, and who have respect for law and order, to be on guard.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Communists.

COMMUNIST CANDIDATE ASSAILS JIM CROWISM IN VIRGINIA SPEECH

Earl Browder Assails Hearst, Landon and the Liberty Leaguers As Bearers of Reaction

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., ------
. Va., July-- (CNA)- The South heard a ringing challenge to jim-crow national oppression of the Negro people last week when Earl Browder, Communist Presidential candidate, assailed political reaction and racial persecution in an address before the Institute of Public Affairs of the University of Virginia. Browder's running mate on the Communist ticket is James W. Ford, nationally known Negro leader and head of the Communist Party in Harlem.

Crusader News Agency
7-27-36

Browder charged that the "fully developed reactionary program of Hearst, Landon and the Liberty Leaguers is directed toward cutting wages, raising prices, smashing the trade unions, squeezing the poor and tenant farmers out of agriculture, wiping out social legislation, and cutting down the taxes on the rich." New York, N.Y. 29 West 120th St.

Then, addressing his remarks directly to the white and Negro toilers of the South, the Communist candidate vigorously championed the human and democratic rights of the Negro people and warned the Southern white toilers that there can be no freedom or prosperity for them so long as the Negro people are suppressed. Scorning the policy of rival presidential candidates of pussyfooting on the Negro question for fear of offending the Southern ruling class, Browder sailed right into the jimcorw system with both fists flying. He fearlessly and brilliantly analysed the conditions under which the Negro people in the South are plundered and oppressed. He challenged the claim of the Southern ruling class that the Negro question is exclusively a Southern question to be "solved" in "some peculiar Southern way." Describing the Communist election program, he declared:

"This program is of special interest to the toilers of the South, white and Negro, but especially the Negro people who are the most exploited of the working people and who are denied the right to live as human beings. There can be no freedom for the Negro people and no prosperity for the toilers of the South until the demands of this progressive platform are realized."

Hits "Southern Way"

Speaking before an assemblage of 500 white educators, students, church people and newspaper reporters, most of them Southerners, Browder hurled anew the historic challenge of the Abolitionists to an arrogant Southern ruling class when he declared:

"There has been much talk that the special problems of the South can be solved only in some peculiar Southern way. We say that the domination of Wall Street in the South is aggravated by the remnants of semi-feudal and serf relations. It is these hangovers from slavery that enabled Wall Street to establish the vicious system of wage differentials, to cite only one example.

"Those shackles which prevent the full economic development of the South, those restrictions on civil liberties, those denials of full economic, political and social equality for the Negro people, can only be smashed, if white and Negro toilers unite, if in the South and North, East and West, the American people rally to defeat the threat of reaction and fascism, and in the South, smash once and for all the remnants of slavery and serfdom. This is the only way freedom and prosperity can be won for the South."

Browder contended that the program he outlined could be achieved under the present capitalist system. "All of those demands can be won," he said, "if the people take the road to independent political action in a Farmer-Labor Party and compel the capitalists to disgorge some of the wealth they have taken from the people."

Warns of Fascist Threat

"Democracy or fascism, progress or reaction, is the central issue in the present elections," he asserted.

He cited in support of his arguments the victories of the People's Front in Spain and France.

"The Republican platform behind a thin camouflage of Main Street

Political-1936
Elections.

Communists.

COMMUNIST CANDIDATE
ASSAILS JIM CROWISM
IN VIRGINIA SPEECH

Earl Browder Assails Hearst, Landon and the Liberty Leaguers As Bearers of Reaction

---

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July-- (CNA)- The South heard a ringing challenge to Browder, Va., July-- (CNA)- The South heard a ringing challenge to Jim-crow national oppression of the Negro people last week when Earl Browder, Communist Presidential candidate, assailed political reaction and racial persecution in an address before the Institute of Public Affairs of the University of Virginia. Browder's running mate on the Communist ticket is James W. Ford, nationally known Negro leader and head of the Communist Party in Harlem.

Browder charged that the "fully developed reactionary program of Hearst, Landon and the Liberty Leaguers is directed toward cutting wages, raising prices, smashing the trade unions, squeezing the poor and tenant farmers out of agriculture, wiping out social legislation, and cutting down the taxes on the rich."

Then, addressing his remarks directly to the white and Negro toilers of the South, the Communist candidate vigorously championed the human and democratic rights of the Negro people and warned the Southern white toilers that there can be no freedom or prosperity for them so long as the Negro people are suppressed. Scorning the policy of rival presidential candidates of pussyfooting on the Negro question for fear of offending the Southern ruling class, Browder sailed right into the jimcrow system with both fists flying, fearlessly and brilliantly analysed the conditions under which the Negro people in the South are plundered and oppressed. He challenged the claim of the southern ruling class that the Negro question is exclusively a Southern question to be "solved" in "some peculiar Southern way." Describing the Communist election program, he declared:

"This program is of special interest to the toilers of the South, white and Negro, but especially the Negro people who are the most exploited of working people and who are denied the right to live as human beings. There can be no freedom for the Negro people and no prosperity for the toilers of the South until the demands of this progressive platform are realized."

Hits "Southern Way"

Speaking before an assemblage of 500 white educators, students, churchpeople and newspaper reporters, most of them Southerners, Browder hurled the historic challenge of the Abolitionists to an arrogant Southern ruling class when he declared:

"There has been much talk that the special problems of the South can be solved only in some peculiar Southern way. We say that the domination of Wall Street in the South is aggravated by the remnants of semi-feudal and serf relations. It is these hangovers from slavery that enabled Wall Street to establish the vicious system of wage differentials, to cite only one example.

"Those shackles which prevent the full economic development of the South, those restrictions on civil liberties, those denials of full economic, political and social equality for the Negro people, can only be smashed, if white and Negro toilers unite, if in the South and North, East and West, the American people rally to defeat the threat of reaction and fascism, and in the South, smash once and for all the remnants of slavery and serfdom. This is the only way freedom and prosperity can be won for the South."

Browder contended that the program he outlined could be achieved under the present capitalist system. "All of these demands can be won," he said, "if the people take the road to independent political action in a Farmer-Labor Party and compel the capitalists to disgorge some of the wealth they have taken from the people."

Warns of Fascist Threat

"Democracy or fascism, progress or reaction, is the central issue in the present elections," he asserted.

He cited in support of his arguments the victories of the People's Front in Spain and France.

"The Republican platform behind a thin camouflage of Main Street

liberalism, is the platform of reaction," he asserted.

"The case of Roosevelt and the Democratic platform is more complex," he continued. "Roosevelt stands for capitalism. But as between reaction and democracy, Roosevelt is striving to follow a middle course; he therefore wavers between the pressure from both sides. Roosevelt's policies for the past year were chiefly characterized by retreat before reactionary attacks; but the Democratic platform emphasizes a progressive note.

"It is against this indecisive position that the reactionaries rage; they demand a frontal attack against the living standards and democratic rights of the people. It is this same indecisiveness, however, that makes it impossible for the serious progressive forces to rely upon Roosevelt for the defeat of reaction."

He characterized Representative Lemke, Union party Presidential candidate, as a stooge for Hearst and Landon, and the Union party as "conceived and financed by Hearst and the Liberty League."

Birmingham, Ala. News
July 30, 1936

Gadsden Adopts A Queer Ordinance

The Gadsden City Commission has adopted an "anti-Communist" ordinance that is even more queer than the usual enactment of this kind. It is entitled "an ordinance making it unlawful for mixed assemblies of white and Negro races" to meet, either publicly or secretly, to advocate a movement looking toward destruction of the governments of the United States, the state of Alabama or the city of Gadsden.

Under this ordinance, such a meeting of three or more persons would be regarded as an assembly violative of the law, if some of them were white and some Negroes. One wonders if a mixed assembly would be more dangerous to the established governments than a gathering consisting entirely of white persons, or a meeting of Negroes only.

The ordinance contains several other provisions, such as that no such meeting may advocate or promote "evasion or violation of any law, state or city," or advocate "marriage or social equality between the races, forbidden by law. Other sections forbid advocacy of the destruction of property or property rights; proposals that persons shall join or participate in a movement to set up or adhere to any government not republican in form; or advocacy of substitution of private ownership by a soviet or communistic form of government in place of private ownership. Further, it would be unlawful to advertise or cause to be advertised such meetings, or to circulate printed matter advocating any of the acts or movements prohibited by the ordinance.

Some of these prohibitions—all, in fact, that are proper—are already adequately provided for by law. Every other provision of the ordinance is contrary to the federal constitution which, among other things, guarantees the right of peaceable assembly.

It is hard to believe that the people of Gadsden favor such a law as their City Commission has adopted. But however that may be, this absurd ordinance should be quickly brought to a test in the courts, so that it can be ruled out as unconstitutional and restrictive of civil liberties.

Ford Assails Labor Policy Of Landon in Scranton Talk

Text of Speech on Page 2

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 5.—Appealing for unity of labor and progressive groups to defeat the reactionary forces centered in the Republican Party, James W. Ford, Communist candidate for Vice-President, opened his campaign here last night.

Ford spoke over a local radio broadcast, and also addressed a meeting in Eagle's Hall of several hundred anthracite miners and their families.

Assailing Landon's labor policy, Ford declared:

"Landon defends the bankers and industrialists at a time when workers in company unions are breaking away to join the movement of hundreds of thousands toward bona-fide industrial unionism led by John L. Lewis. Landon began his career in politics as the henchman of former Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas who in 1921 put over the notorious 'industrial court' law outlawing strikes in the state. Only the determined struggles of the miners' union in Kansas were able to defeat it."

"These same elements," he continued, "against whom you have fought in Pennsylvania are now united behind the Hearst-Liberty League-Landon combination. This combination not only stands for the continuation of your horrible conditions but having learned lessons from Hearst's bosom pals, Hitler and Mussolini, carries on a campaign of race hatred."

Ford said that conditions improved slightly under the Roosevelt administration as compared to the Hoover-Republican regime," but stated that "there is no reason, on his past performance, to trust in Roosevelt as a barrier against war and fascism."

Criticizing the Landon camp as the most dangerous enemy of the Negro people, Ford said of President Roosevelt that he "received mass support from the Democratic ruling class in the South, where the most vicious systematic discrimination and lynchings are practiced against the Negro people."

Launching into a vigorous attack on the record of Landon supporting groups on the Negro question, Ford said:

"The Liberty League, it is reported, financed Talmadge's 'Grass Roots' convention in the state of which he is governor, in Georgia, last spring. It was a depraved exhibition of lynch hysteria. One of its leaders, the Reverend Gerald L. K. Smith is now touring in support of the candidacy of William Lemke of North Dakota.

"A follower of Huey Long, Smith got his start in politics in the Ku Klux Klan of Indiana. The Lemke party is another product of the Hearst-Liberty League-Landon conspiracy. With radical-sounding phrases it tries to sidetrack the masses from the growing Farmer-Labor Party movement that will unite the workers, farmers, Negro people, professionals, and middle class, in a PEOPLE'S FRONT against reaction and fascism.

"No worker who thinks, no farmer who uses his franchise against his enemy, no member of the Negro race who hates oppression, no member of the middle class driven to poverty by the monopolies, no one who cherishes democratic rights can support either the Republican Party with its fascist backers, or the Hearst-inspired Union Party."

Negro People Eagerly Await His Address

To Speak in Philadelphia Aug. 7—California Tries to Block Party

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 3.—James W. Ford, Communist candidate for vice-president, will speak on the Communist Party election platform on Tuesday evening, Aug. 11, at the New Albert Hall, 1224 Pennsylvania Avenue.

This canvassing will also be used in the campaign to put the Communist candidates on the ballot in Maryland. A goal of 1,000 signatures has been set for Aug. 9.

Tickets may be obtained from Communist Party headquarters, Room 20, 501-b North Eutaw Street, or at the Workers Bookshop, 501-a North Eutaw Street.

Seek to Enjoin Communist

FRESNO, Cal., Aug. 3.—The Fascist-inspired petition for an injunction against placing Carl Patterson, Communist candidate for Congress in the Ninth District, on the August primary ballot, was taken under advisement here by Superior Judge Campbell E. Beaumont, who promised a decision within ten days.

Ford in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 3.—James W. Ford, Communist candidate for Vice-President, will speak here on Friday night, Aug. 7, at the Mercantile Hall, Broad Street, above Master.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 3.—Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President, will be the main speaker at the state-wide picnic of the Communist Party of Minnesota, which will be held at Fish Lake on Aug. 23.

Urge Illinois Registration

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 3.—Jack Martin, manager of the Communist election campaign committee here, urged Communists to register as quickly as possible, so that they could vote in the November elections.

Registration, under the new system of permanent registration must take place before Oct. 6 Registration begins in the election board offices on the third floor of the city hall on Aug. 4 and will continue there until Oct. 5.

On Oct. 6 and Sept. 19 voters will be able to register at the precincts. Voters in Cicero, Summit, Evergreen Park, Stickney, Chicago Heights, Morton Grove, Elmwood Park, Harvey and Berwin, fall under this provision. They may register at the city hall or on any one of these two dates at the precincts.

HARTFORD, CONN.
COURANT

JUL 27 1936

NEGROES AND COMMUNISM

Mrs. Southergill Replies to a Recent Writer in Forum

To the Editor of the Courant:—

I returned from Cleveland, Ohio today and was given P. F. Ashton's letter on Communism and the Negro. Recently a prominent woman had articles on Communism in Russia printed in The Hartford Courant and gave lectures. From them I gathered the statements I made in my letter regarding the laxity of marriage laws in Russia where children born out of wedlock are considered legal.

Everyone knows that religion is barred and work enforced. P. F. Ashton drew a sorry picture of the Negro situation in America. Today I rode in a Greyhound bus through Harlem. Everywhere were apartment houses, stores annd theaters of the finest type where Negroes dwelt, and I saw crowds of well dressed smiling Negroes on the sidewalks and in the stores. At the Townsend Convention in Cleveland we heard Negro speakers, and a concert was given by them which received the applause of that vast audience of 15,000 delegates and Townsend members.

The woman I quoted has returned to her work in Russia. The Negroes I saw today in Harlem are too intelligent to be influenced by Earl Browder. Let those who want Communism, go where it is practised. America does not need them.

CLARA SOUTHERGILL.

Manchester, July 24, 1936

Political - 1936 Elections.

Communists.

Constitution 9-15-36

AN UNWELCOME VISITOR

It is not surprising that Earl Browder, Communist party candidate for president, received cold welcome in his attempt to make a flying campaign jaunt through the south.

Coming to Atlanta Saturday with the announced intention of making an address here, Browder was met at the train by a squad of plain-clothes police, who informed him that should he attempt to make a Communist talk he would be arrested. Since that was his purpose, he wisely decided to go on his way after remaining in the railroad station for only an hour.

Sunday night in Tampa the hall in which the Communist head was scheduled to speak was found padlocked, and Browder's message again went undelivered.

Only in Birmingham has Browder been able to make an address in the south—the only city south of the Mason and Dixon line in which the Communists have been permitted to establish headquarters, and from which emissaries are being sent to other southern communities either to stir up trouble or to aggravate controversies already launched.

In the sections in the north and east in which there are larger foreign populations, Communist agitators have caused widespread trouble. Thousands of the vicious elements which have come into the country from the lowest strata of European nations have rallied around the effort to spread Bolshevism and Communism in America.

The south is fortunately largely free from this foreign element in its population, and so far our negro population has turned a deaf ear to the teachings of the rabid and dangerous men who seek to stir up trouble wherever they go.

The refusal to let Browder speak in the south is no abridgment of the sacred right of free speech. To have let him come here and attack the great principles upon which the government is founded would have been a violation of that right.

The police authorities of Atlanta and other southern cities are to be commended for their zealous watching of Browder and his quick departure from this section when he found he would be welcome as a visitor, but not as one who came to preach the doctrine of violence, reveals the wisdom of their course.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION VS. THE U. S. CONSTITUTION

Under the caption, "An Unwelcome Visitor", The Atlanta Constitution, the teachers' oath newspaper, says:

It is not surprising that Earl Browder, Communist Party candidate for president, received cold welcome in his attempt to make a flying campaign jaunt through the South.

Coming to Atlanta Saturday with the announced intention of making an address here, Browder was met at the train by a squad of plain-clothes police, who informed him that should he attempt to make a Communist talk he would be arrested. Since that was his purpose, he wisely decided to go on his way after remaining in the railroad station for only an hour.

Sunday night in Tampa the hall in which the Communist head was scheduled to speak was found padlocked, and Browder's message again went undelivered.

Only in Birmingham has Browder been able to make an address in the South—the only city South of the Mason and Dixon line in which the Communists have been permitted to establish headquarters, and from which emissaries are being sent to other southern communities either to stir up trouble or to aggravate controversies already launched.

In the sections in the north and east in which there are larger foreign populations, Communist agitators have caused widespread trouble. Thousands of the vicious elements which have come into the country from the lowest strata of European nations have rallied around the effort to spread Bolshevism and Communism in America.

The South is fortunately largely free from this foreign element in its population and so far our Negro population has turned a deaf ear to the teachings of the rabid and dangerous men who seek to stir up trouble wherever they go.

The refusal to let Browder speak in the South is no abridgement of the sacred right of free speech. To have let him come here and attack the great principles upon which the government is founded would have been a violation of that right.

The police authorities of Atlanta and other Southern cities are to be commended for their zealous watching of Browder and his quick departure from this section when he found he would be welcome as a visitor, but not as one who came to preach the doctrine of violence, reveals the wisdom of their course.

Mr. Hearst himself could not have done better.

The Advertiser, which loves The Constitution, deplores its aberration regarding the freedom of the human spirit. It regrets that The Constitution is no longer a libertarian. It regrets that The Constitution believes that the status quo ante, or what have you, should be made a vested interest, protected by law and policemen, and popular prejudice.

Earl Browder, the Communist candidate for President, can bore a small audience in Birmingham without doing any harm, but he cannot pass through Atlanta without being met at the station by the police and warned that he must not speak. In Birmingham, the newspapers, although loathing Communism, as they should, welcome him and write freely about his visit, taking pains to defend his right to speak. That's fine for Birmingham. Montgomery Itself could not have done better.

Mr. Browder can appear, by invitation, before the National Press Club in Washington, where hundreds of the most brilliant newspaper writers in the land foregather to sip their liquid nourishment, and there denounce the American press, charging, foolishly, that "99 per cent" of American papers are "owned by Republicans".

There he can outline his views freely. But he cannot speak in the Gate City of Thomas Jefferson's South without threat of police action and editorial scarrifying by The Atlanta Constitution, a newspaper founded by Confederate Vice-President Alexander H. Stephens—Georgia's greatest son—as an organ of human liberty.

The South, one hears, is the playground of the elfin spirit of Thomas Jefferson, who upon one occasion, said:

> I have sworn upon the altar of God eternal hostility to every form of tyranny over the mind of man.

Says The Constitution: "The refusal to let Browder speak in the South is no abridgement of the SACRED RIGHT of free speech. To have let him come here and attack the great principles upon which the government is founded WOULD HAVE BEEN A VIOLATION OF THAT RIGHT."

In what respect would it have been a violation of that right? Would Atlanta arrest Henry L. Mencken if he appeared there tomorrow? Less than a year ago Mencken advocated the substitution of a monarchy for the American republic.

Is it unlawful in the Gate City of the South to advocate a monarchy as a substitute for a republic? If it is unlawful, is it in fact unconstitutional, according to the Supreme Court of the United States?

The Republicans charge that Roosevelt has vitiated the constitution, that he has advocated policies which are contrary to American tradition. We suspect that the charge is true. Would The Constitution support Chief Sturdivant if the latter should arrest FDR upon his next visit to Atlanta?

Does The Constitution believe that all dissenters should be arrested in Atlanta? Would it commend the arrest of Alf Landon? Would it commend the arrest of monkey-face Lemke? Would it commend the arrest of Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate for President? If not, why not? We are allowed only to ask, lest we ourselves, be arrested upon our next visit to Atlanta.

The Daily Worker, a daily newspaper published by Communists in New York, enjoys the privileges of the mails. No district attorney has made a bill against it on the ground that what it prints is contrary to the laws of the land. Copies of The Daily Worker no doubt circulate in Atlanta. Why does not The Constitution demand the suppression by postal authorities of this Communist organ? If it has not done so, why not? We feel privileged to ask.

The Constitution is a stalwart supporter of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Does The Constitution believe that if FDR were editor of The Constitution and believed in them so ardently that in the days of his poverty he founded a newspaper to fight for them.

Will The Constitution oblige us by interpreting in its own way that clause in the Democratic National Committeeman from Georgia he would demand police action against a Browder meeting in the Federal bill of rights—repeated in Atlanta? Is it possible that The Constitution believes this?

Clark Howell, the famous editor of The Constitution of today and the Democratic National Committeeman from Georgia, probably would silence him as the apostle of a daring political idea?

In what respect is Browder an out- even the constitution of Georgia— law, however odious his theories of gov- "NO LAW" abridging freedom of ernment may be? What law of the land science, speech or press shall ever be acted? enacted in violation of the guaranteed all of the innocent against the intellectual heresies of Earl Browder, the Bill of Rights. He be- lawfully appointed candidate for Presi- the clauses in the Bill of Rights.

Political - 1936 Elections.

Communists.

Constitution

9-12-36

Atlanta

Ga.

AN UNWELCOME VISITOR

It is not surprising that Earl Browder, Communist party candidate for president, received cold welcome in his attempt to make a flying campaign jaunt through the south.

Coming to Atlanta Saturday with the announced intention of making an address here, Browder was met at the train by a squad of plain-clothes police, who informed him that should he attempt to make a Communist talk he would be arrested. Since that was his purpose, he wisely decided to go on his way after remaining in the railroad station for only an hour.

Sunday night in Tampa the hall in which the Communist head was scheduled to speak was found padlocked, and Browder's message again went undelivered.

Only in Birmingham has Browder been able to make an address in the south—the only city south of the Mason and Dixon line in which the Communists have been permitted to establish headquarters, and from which emissaries are being sent to other southern communities either to stir up trouble or to aggravate controversies already launched.

In the sections in the north and east in which there are larger foreign populations, Communist agitators have caused widespread trouble. Thousands of the vicious elements which have come into the country from the lowest strata of European nations have rallied around the effort to spread Bolshevism and Communism in America.

The south is fortunately largely free from this foreign element in its population, and so far our negro population has turned a deaf ear to the teachings of the rabid and dangerous men who seek to stir up trouble wherever they go.

The refusal to let Browder speak in the south is no abridgment of the sacred right of free speech. To have let him come here and attack the great principles upon which the government is founded would have been a violation of that right.

The police authorities of Atlanta and other southern cities are to be commended for their zealous watching of Browder and his quick departure from this section when he found he would be welcome as a visitor, but not as one who came to preach the doctrine of violence, reveals the wisdom of their course.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION VS. THE U. S. CONSTITUTION

Under the caption, "An Unwelcome Visitor", The Atlanta Constitution, the teachers' oath newspaper, says:

It is not surprising that Earl Browder, Communist Party candidate for president, received cold welcome in his attempt to make a flying campaign jaunt through the South.

Coming to Atlanta Saturday with the announced intention of making an address here, Browder was met at the train by a squad of plain-clothes police, who informed him that should he attempt to make a Communist talk he would be arrested. Since that was his purpose, he wisely decided to go on his way after remaining in the railroad station for only an hour.

Sunday night in Tampa the hall in which the Communist head was scheduled to speak was found padlocked, and Browder's message again went undelivered.

Only in Birmingham has Browder been able to make an address in the South—the only city South of the Mason and Dixon line in which the Communists have been permitted to establish headquarters, and from which emissaries are being sent to other southern communities either to stir up trouble or to aggravate controversies already launched.

In the sections in the north and east in which there are larger foreign populations, Communist agitators have caused widespread trouble. Thousands of the vicious elements which have come into the country from the lowest strata of European nations have rallied around the effort to spread Bolshevism and Communism in America.

The South is fortunately largely free from this foreign element in its population and so far our Negro population has turned a deaf ear to the teachings of the rabid and dangerous men who seek to stir up trouble wherever they go.

The refusal to let Browder speak in the South is no abridgement of the sacred right of free speech. To have let him come here and attack the great principles upon which the government is founded would have been a violation of that right.

The police authorities of Atlanta and other Southern cities are to be commended for their zealous watching of Browder and his quick departure from this section when he found he would be welcome as a visitor, but not as one who came to preach the doctrine of violence, reveals the wisdom of their course.

Mr. Hearst himself could not have done better.

The Advertiser, which loves The Constitution, deplores its aberration regarding the freedom of the human spirit. It regrets that The Constitution is no longer a libertarian. It regrets that The Constitution believes that the status quo ante, or what have you, should be made a vested interest, protected by law and policemen, and popular prejudice.

Earl Browder, the Communist candidate for President, can bore a small audience in Birmingham without doing any harm, but he cannot pass through Atlanta without being met at the station by the police and warned that he must not speak. In Birmingham, the newspapers, although loathing Communism, as they should, welcome him and write freely about his visit, taking pains to defend his right to speak. That's fine for Birmingham. Montgomery Itself could not have done better.

Mr. Browder can appear, by invitation, before the National Press Club in Washington, where hundreds of the most brilliant newspaper writers in the land foregather to sip their liquid nourishment, and there denounce the American press, charging, foolishly, that "99 per cent" of American papers are "owned by Republicans".

There he can outline his views freely. But he cannot speak in the Gate City of Thomas Jefferson's South without threat of police action and editorial scarrifying by The Atlanta Constitution, a newspaper founded by Confederate Vice-President Alexander H. Stephens—Georgia's greatest son—as an organ of human liberty.

The South, one hears, is the playground of the elfin spirit of Thomas Jefferson, who upon one occasion, said:

I have sworn upon the altar of God eternal hostility to every form of tyranny over the mind of man.

Says The Constitution: "The refusal to let Browder speak in the South is no abridgement of the SACRED RIGHT of free speech. To have let him come here and attack the great principles upon which the government is founded WOULD HAVE BEEN A VIOLATION OF THAT RIGHT."

In what respect would it have been a violation of that right? Would Atlanta arrest Henry L. Mencken if he appeared there tomorrow? Less than a year ago Mencken advocated the substitution of a monarchy for the American republic.

Is it unlawful in the Gate City of the South to advocate a monarchy as a substitute for a republic? If it is unlawful, is it in fact unconstitutional, according to the Supreme Court of the United States?

The Republicans charge that Roosevelt has vitiated the constitution, that he has advocated policies which are contrary to American tradition. We suspect that the charge is true. Would The Constitution support Chief Sturdivant if the latter should arrest FDR upon his next visit to Atlanta?

Does The Constitution believe that all dissenters should be arrested in Atlanta? Would it commend the arrest of Alf Landon? Would it commend the arrest of monkey-face Lemke? Would it commend the arrest of Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate for President? If not, why not? We are allowed only to ask, lest we ourselves, be arrested upon our next visit to Atlanta.

The Daily Worker, a daily newspaper published by Communists in New York, enjoys the privileges of the mails. No district attorney has made a bill against it on the ground that what it prints is contrary to the laws of the land. Copies of The Daily Worker no doubt circulate in Atlanta. Why does not The Constitution demand the suppression by postal authorities of this Communist organ? If it has not done so, why not? We feel privileged to ask.

The Constitution is a stalwart supporter of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Does The Constitution believe that if FDR were editor of The Constitution and

Will The Constitution oblige us by interpreting in its own way that clause in paper to fight for them.

Democratic National Committeeman Clark Howell, the famous editor of from Georgia he would demand police action against a Browder meeting in the Federal bill of rights—repeated in Atlanta? Is it possible that The Constitution, probably tution believes this? The Constitution of today and the Democratic National Committeeman from Georgia, so despises the Bill of Rights that he demands police protection of the innocent against the intellectual heresies of Earl Browder, the lawfully appointed candidate for President

In what respect is Browder an outlaw, however odious his theories of government may be? What law of the land would silence him as the apostle of a daring political idea?

"NO LAW" abridging freedom of science, speech or press shall ever be enacted? Alexander H. Stephens honored all of the clauses in the Bill of Rights.

dent of a lawfully recognized political party.

Mr. Howell, who is a sort of Gamaliel to The Advertiser, will pardon us if we suggest that in the foregoing editorial he has forfeited his right to personal freedom as a bourbon Democrat, and moreover that if The Advertiser were in his position it would demand the privilege of inviting Browder to Atlanta and introducing him to the Democrats of Georgia.

If Browder comes to Montgomery the editor of The Advertiser, though despising everything that Browder stands for, will ask the privilege of introducing Browder to the Black Belt Democrats of Alabama. As the issue is now made the editor of The Advertiser could not look himself in the mirror when he shaves if he did less.

Earl Browder has as much right to speak and present his cause as Franklin D. Roosevelt or Alf Landon. His rights before the law and before American conscience are equal to the rights of Mr Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, and Democratic National Committeeman from Georgia, and if Browder comes to Montgomery The Advertiser will undertake to see that his rights are respected—although The Advertiser thinks he is the apostle of idiocy and immorality.

The Advertiser is sorry that The Atlanta Constitution, "The Standard Southern Newspaper", should today take the lead in bawling for the police when a dissenter comes to town. The Constitution's position is indefensible. The greatest philosopher that ever lived on earth could not make The Constitution's editorial position otherwise.

FORD TALKS ON RADIO NETWORK

Voice to be Heard in South

New York—For the first time in the history of the United States a nation-wide radio hookup will carry the voice of a Negro vice presidential candidate into the deep south when James W. Ford, Communist, steps before the microphone on September 21 at 10.45 p.m.

Ford will speak over the Red Network of the National Broadcasting Company for 15 minutes on the problems facing the Negro people in the election campaign. Nine important southern cities from Richmond to Miami will carry his words to hundreds of thousands in the south. To many who hear him his address will mark the first presidential campaign in which they feel they have a real stake.

In New England the address will be heard over Stations WEEI, Boston; WTIC, Hartford; WJAR, Providence; WTAG, Worcester; WCSH, Portland. Me.

Richard B. Moore to Broadcast Tuesday

WILL DISCUSS CAMPAIGN ISSUES OVER WAAB AT 8:45 P.M.

Special interest centers around the coming broadcast of Richard B. Moore famous Colored orator, who will speak on the issues facing his people in the 1936 elections next Tuesday evening over station WAAB at 8:45 o'clock.

With both major parties making strong bids for the support of the Colored people, the message of Mr. Moore will be welcomed by all people who wish to hear a full discussion of the campaign issues as the Communist Party sees them. Mr. Moore is well-known for his work as a labor lawyer and as a fighter for equal opportunities. He has been prominently identified in Herndon and Scottsboro defense work during the past few years and he has more recently been an active worker in the Race Congress for Equal Opportunities. He is supporting the candidacy of the Communist Party representatives in the coming elections.

"The needs of the Colored people," Mr. Moore stated recently, "cannot be served by either the Republican or Democratic parties. The Colored people, like the working people as a whole, must have a new party, a people's party, say, a Farmer-Labor Party. Pending the formation of such a party, I am advocating that the Colored people support the Communist ticket, Browder and Ford nationally and Otis Hood, Mary E. Moore and Charles Flaherty in this state. A big Communist vote is the only guarantee that there will be a people's party in the next elections."

The broadcast, which is one of series being sponsored by the election campaign committee of the Communist Party, is the third in the regular Tuesday evening radiocasts heard over station WAAB.

2,000 HEAR FORD TALK AT CALIFORNIA U.

Students Crowd Campus Entrance for Speech on Election Issues

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 11.—James W. Ford, vice presidential candidate on the Communist ticket, spoke before an enthusiastic audience of more than 2,000 students at the University of California at Sather Gate in front of the main entrance to the grounds.

The crowd was very attentive and orderly, receiving the address with enthusiasm. In the hot California sun, they stood almost the whole lunch hour to hear Ford's speech.

Speaking to students, he pointed out that the present election issues are not Communism and capitalism, but progress and reaction with a drive toward fascism. While making his most stinging broadside against the Republican Party, with the stooge Landon, backed by Hearst, Wall Street and the Liberty League, driving toward Fascism, Ford showed that Roosevelt, vacillating between the demands of Wall Street and those of the masses, was no barrier to reaction and fascism.

FOR FARMER-LABOR PARTY

He touched upon the problems facing students and professors, and declared that the Communist Party was carrying on a vigorous campaign to build a broad people's front, a Farmer-Labor Party, uniting all of the students, the middle class and intellectuals, the trade unions, farmers and Negro people against reaction, war and fascism.

He concluded with the Party's position of equal rights for the Negro people, pointing out the role that the Negro people has played in American history and the struggle to maintain democratic rights. He emphasized the fact that it was impossible for the white workers and middle class to maintain their liberties and rights unless the rights of the Negro people are won and maintained. He concluded showing how the fight against fascism will make possible the victory of Socialism.

40 Negroes Murdered—Read Tomorrow's Daily Worker

Washington Police Kill Forty Negro Workers!

A headline like that in any newspaper would burst like a bombshell on a scandalized public. And yet—

That headline is true—in the Capital of this country, 40 Negro people have been murdered by policemen!

And the slayers go unpunished, armed, lusting for new victims.

This hair-raising true story of horror, of whitewashed cold-blooded murder condoned by law, has been uncovered by the Washington Correspondent of the Daily Worker.

His startling revelations will appear, with facts, figures, and documentary evidence, in tomorrow's Daily Worker.

ANGELO HERNDON IS A CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—More than 20,000 signatures on the nominating petitions of the new All Peoples Party of Harlem were filed this week with the board of elections, party officials announced at its hadquarters at 139 W. 125th street.

The filing of the petitions, representing almost double the number required by law, assures a place on the ballot for the six All Peoples Party candidates: to Marcantonio for Congress in the 20th congressional district; Horace I. Gordon in the 19th state assembly district; Angelo Herndon in the 21st; Henry Birckman, Abraham Unger and Edward Kuntz for judges of the Court of General Sessions. Herndon and Gordon are colored.

Political-1936.
Elections.

Communists.

A DOSE OF CASTOR OIL, TAKEN WITHOUT SNIFFLING

Birmingham is growing up!

As evidence we present the fact that the smokestacks of Birmingham's mills continue to rain cinders; her gaudy beer parlors continue to satisfy the thirst of sinners; her school buildings still stand; her sidewalks remain stationary; her mayor, Jimmy Jones, continues to be on the short end of two-to-one votes against the recently-squelched commissioner, Saint Lewey Robinson and the not-yet-squelched Commissioner Downs.

All of which goes to prove that Birmingham has survived the great scourge—the visitation of one Earl Browder, Kansas-born emissary of the home of demons, Moscow. In short, the Communist candidate for President has come and gone and no Red flag waves over the municipal auditorium nor has a concentration camp been set up for the confinement of any converts left in his wake.

Birmingham has met the test! Prior to the visitation of the Ogre there were many who were frightened at the prospect of a test for the Magic City's belief in the Bill of Rights, the Magna Carta, free speech and civil liberties. They can now sigh with relief. A few of the bolder spirits can even boast that Birmingham has met the test and has come through with flying colors, that her belief in democracy is not merely synthetic.

Editorially The Birmingham News comments that only "about 300 persons, some of whom were obviously bored" heard Browder. "It was, all told, a rather tame affair, and nothing at all to get excited about," says The News. The reaction of The News reminds us of the experience of a small boy approaching his first dose of castor oil—only to become joyful on finding that it was not as bad as he had expected.

The News and The Age-Herald remain jittery, however. The cause of the worry is a "certain case at Bessemer where a man was sentenced to 180 days in jail and fined $100 for the possession of a Communist magazine."

It is admited that the same magazine often finds its way to the exchange table of those newspapers—entirely unsolicited we are reassured. It is also admitted that, motivated by a sense of mischievous curiosity, certain of the bolder editors often take a peek at the pages of the magazine—the heretical Daily Worker we presume. As is often the case, the editors are more often bored than intrigued after committing such misdemeanors and the magazine finds its way to the waste basket. Copies of Liberty League bulletins are tossed in also as an antidote.

Having risked the penalty of "180 days in jail and a $100 fine" the occupants of the inner sanctums of The Age-Herald and The News now "sit back in dread, trembling at every knock at the door." Like a sinner who first confesses a minor commission and grows bolder with the telling of it, the miscreant editors now defy the forces of law and order with the admission that they "may even get around to reading Karl Marx's Das Kapital." The Advertiser doubts that they will ever find the time — even though their bravado might even stand that test.

WHOSE FREEDOM?

The Communist candidate for President, Earl Browder, has made a campaign swing through the South. Had it not been for the buffoonery of a few red-baiters Mr. Browder's invasion of Dixie would have caused no more stir than the visit of a third-rate evangelist —if as much.

Mr. Browder, if he makes 10 speeches a week between now and November 3, will poll less than six-tenths of one per cent of the vote cast. It will take the cooperation of enough half-baked fools in authority who like to show off by threatening him with The Law, Mr. Browder may poll one per cent of the vote.

In Chattanooga Browder was allowed to make a speech in the city hall. He attracted 200 people, while a wrestling match on another floor in the same building attracted 4,000 people. To the Associated Press, which apportions space on a basis of news value, Browder's speech rated two terse paragraphs.

At Birmingham Browder had an audience of 300 people. The Associated Press gave him about two hundred words because he denounced Landon and Knox as "Fascists" and because he said that President Roosevelt "blows hot and blows cold and satisfies nobody".

At Tampa, some imbeciles locked the door on Browder and the Associated Press gave him almost 400 words including a plea to President Roosevelt claiming that he had been "illegally and forcefully prevented" from speaking "by lawless elements who seized the hall from its custodians and barred doors despite a legal contract." The speech was "cancelled" and Browder made more votes than he would have made had he spoken ten times.

But Browder didn't reach real front page proportions until he arrived at Atlanta. His crime in that capitol of bourbonism was not an attempted speech but the less serious offense of passing through the rarefied atmosphere on a train. If Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant had not sent officers of The Law to the depot it is likely that Browder would have been reduced to anonymity. But with Sturdivant's help Browder received approximately 600 words from the Associated Press and made the front pages of newspapers throughout the country.

Four policemen were sent to the train with orders to arrest Browder for any "Communistic utterances" — meaning, we suppose, any utterances a Communist might make. "We don't like that stuff in Atlanta," said Chief Sturdivant, who represented the dignity of Georgia's largest city, and whose alleged connivance with bootleggers was the subject for a recent grand jury investigation.

The incident gave the Associated Press occasion to recall that one Angelo Herndon, a Negro, was sentenced to from 18 to 20 years for "Communistic activities" four years ago. It was also recalled that 18 people were arrested at a meeting in Atlanta recently and sentenced to jail on "disorderly conduct" charges.

In the encounter between bourbonism and Communism, the latter came off with the highest honors. On the basis of the incident The Advertiser can say that it would as soon live under Comrade Browder as to live under Eugene Talmadge with a T. O. Sturdivant as head of a political police.

In addition to the obvious folly of attempting to throw all the Communists in jail and burn all Communist literature, there is a more significant issue involved. If the right of free speech is to be guaranteed only to Democrats and Republicans in good standing this country might just as well repudiate the Declaration of Independence and the first ten amendments to the Constitution.

The Puritans, among other early settlers, believed in freedom of religious belief—if one happened to be a Puritan. Others followed who had a different definition for freedom. It included freedom for all religious beliefs and freedom for those who had no religious beliefs.

Civil liberties are meaningless if they are to be applied only to those who have the strength to enforce them. The Nazis enjoy unlimited freedom in Germany. If our definition of free speech is to include just two parties instead of one it is a farce and a humbug.

Aside from the practical consideration of allowing the Communists to let off steam in the open air and remaining impotent, the United States has a much larger stake if it is to survive on the principles that have guided it thus far. The Advertiser, for one, would hesitate to allow T. O. Sturdivant the authority to define Communism and the prerogative to throw all Communists in jail. The time might come when he would interpret any criticism of Mayor Jim Key as Communistic.

If the Communists abuse civil liberties by advocating armed insurrection and overthrow of the government they should be liable to the same punishment a Republican or Democrat is who advocates the same thing. As long as they are willing to appeal only to the ballot and subject themselves to the same rules as govern the rest of us their rights must be defended. So far Browder has advocated no armed insurrection—we take it he would have been quoted by the Associated Press if he had.

If those citizens everywhere who have some conception of what freedom really means are interested in preserving it they must demand that the T. O. Sturdivants of the nation not be allowed to become sole arbiters of the principle.

PASTOR RAPPED IN LETTER FOR LETTING 'RED' SPEAK IN CHURCH

White Writer Insists Church Should Be Last To Give Aid To "Such A Program;" Rev. Watson Reiterates His Stand

Journal and Guide Bureau

RICHMOND—George L. Darte, white, in a four page letter sent to Dr. E. B. Watson, pastor of the Hood Temple Church here last week urged the minister to close the church doors to the "Reds" who were seeking permission to spread their propaganda that is poisoning the minds of thousands throughout the country.

The letter, sent by special delivery, reached Dr. Watson early that morning before Donald Burke Communist candidate for United State Senate, was to speak at the church that following night.

Said Mr. Darte in his letter: "If I may suggest, it will seem to the writer that your church, in permitting any Communist (knowing what he or she stands for) to enter the portals of your house of worship and having the privilege of appearing and speaking, could almost be termed a challenge to the loyal parishioners of your flock."

Mr. Darte said that he "had deep consideration for the colored race and its efforts to obtain a more substantial place in the sun." In his letter he complimented the school board for placing an embargo on the use of the John Marshall High School to stage a "Red" rally. He referred Dr. Watson to the New York Times September 9, [illegible] when Borough President [illegible] to permit the Communist the use of the Town Hall at Jamaica, Long Island.

"The Communists have many shop-worn reasons why they should be afforded the same consideration as any other political party. The Communist party is not a bona fide political party in the strict sense of the word, but on the contrary is but a social unrest group traveling in disguise and bent upon the destruction of every principle that has made the United States—your country and mine—what it is today."

DARTE AT MEETING

Mr. Darte was at the meeting Monday night to see in person what was going on. Dr. Watson gave him a very cordial welcome but served notice that he (Dr. Watson) was thoroughly acquainted with Communism and its history. He said that he knew the background of Communism, knew it in the North before coming South—even knew it before it got to this country. "I need no further information from Mr. Darte or anybody else as to the working of Communism."

Dr. Watson told the Guide: "I stated in the beginning that in the church we were not interested in politics—that our church was made up of all parties and that every party had the privilege of inviting speakers to represent the party at this 'Mock Campaign'."

The initial meeting of the campaign was not as well attended as usual, Dr. Watson said, but attributed it to the unfavorable publicity that the campaign had gotten. He said that it was his duty and purpose to keep the church alive and throughout his pastorate he had always found his projects well taken.

Mr. Darte said in his letter: "Being as they are, anti-Christ, it would appear consistent to believe that a church, no matter what the denomination should be the last to give aid, directly or indirectly, to such a program as is mapped out by the Communists in the country, and parented by Soviet-Russia. God forbid!"

Political - 1936

Communists

Elections.

Self-Government--Struggle for Equality Of Negro People

Haywood 9th Convention Report Stresses Fight on Discrimination

By Harry Haywood

In all our work among the Negro people, as among all oppressed peoples, our aim as Communists is to bring about the unity of Negro and white to eliminate all obstacles, prejudices, and inequalities that divide the ranks of the people. Our aim as Communists is to unite all oppressed peoples in the struggle for equal rights, for democratic liberties, and for the achievement of socialism. Our aim is to unite the toiling population of the oppressing nations with the toilers of the oppressed nations. The removal of all inequalities—that is our central aim in our Negro work.

That is why we place at the center of our work today the slogan for a united struggle against discrimination, lynching, for the right to hold jobs in public utilities, civil service, for the right to vote, serve on juries, elect officials, enforcement of the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the U. S. Constitution, etc. That is why we demand removal of the discrimination which results in lower wages for Negroes, against discrimination in the trade unions, against discrimination in the distribution of relief, housing, etc.

Distribution of Land

As Communists, we are, as Lenin said, for the voluntary unity and cooperation between all peoples, even up to merging of all peoples. But we have to understand how our struggle against immediate inequalities is bound up with our complete program for the liberation of the Negro people in America, that is to say, the distribution of land in the Black Belt and the right of self-determination in that area. We have to understand the slogan of self-determination in its inevitable and necessary relation to our efforts for welding the unity of Negro and white in the struggle for equality and democracy.

I believe it is necessary to emphasize this point now because lately, as we have been making our correct and energetic efforts to build the broadest people's front among the Negroes, we have tended to submerge our basic slogan of the right of self-determination in our propaganda. We seem to have forgotten that the right of the Negro people to decide their own fate can be the only final guarantee of the unity of Negro and white.

Slogan for Equality

I want to show you, comrades, that if we do not understand this, that if we forget this, it will affect the very core of our struggle for unity, and the building of the People's Front. Today, there is no doubt that the slogan under which we can build the united front and the people's front is the slogan for equality in political, economic and social life. Today, there is no doubt that we could not develop the powerful movement for unity except under this slogan. But we must always keep in mind the possibility, or rather, the certainty that a moment will come in the fight against reaction and the rise of the Negro liberation movement when the Negro masses of the South will begin to see clearly that self-determination is the only guarantee for the winning and preservation of real equality.

We cannot say, of course, exactly when this will be, but when that time comes we must be able to convince the white workers, the American people's front, that the equality which is essential to the unity of Negro and white can only be guaranteed by complete democratic rights for the Negro up to and including the right of self-determination.

Possession of Land

After all, that which gives to our Communist position on the Negro question its preeminence and effectiveness is the fact that we Communists are the only ones who go boldly to the roots of the whole problem. It is we alone who show how the heavy burden of oppression which crushes the backs of the Negro people throughout the country has its basis and origin in the Black Belt of the South. It is we Communists alone who show that the Negro people can never be free until the Negroes in the Black Belt finally possess the land upon which they work, the land which is owned today by a small clique of landlords supported by Wall Street banks. Only possession of the land can make the Negro toilers free. But, between the Negro and the land stand the armed forces of the landlords.

And what will guarantee to the Negroes in the South that the great landed estates will be broken up and divided among those who toil on them? What can guarantee him that when this has taken place the Negro farmer will be able to hold on to the land? Only self-government, the right to govern himself, can guarantee the Negro toilers this. The Negro majority in that continuous stretch of land known as the Black Belt must have the right to their own government, their own self-rule, courts, people's militia, etc. This is the only guarantee that the Negro will hold his land and procure liberty and equality.

People's Front

Today it is correct that a people's front among the Negroes, the National Negro Congress, does not put forward the slogan for complete self-determination. But, with the development of the people's front, the basic needs of black and white alike are developed more and more clearly. Then it will be necessary to put the question of freedom for the Negro people where it finally rests — the possession of the land and its guarantee through full self-determination. So, in Spain, at a certain stage of the struggle, the People's Front became the supporter of the Catalonian movement for autonomy, self-rule, as a basis for unity in the People's Front. Such a stage will also arrive in this country, when the People's Front of America will have to support a similar movement for self-government of the Negro people, in order to effect unity.

But even today, the right of self-determination is not abstract, up in the air, divorced from our work. Even where it does not enter directly, our understanding of this fundamental position guides us. Our ability to lead the Negro masses depends upon this understanding. It is only our Party's complete sincerity, it is only our Party's complete understanding that makes it possible for us to proudly say as Comrade Browder was able at the Ninth Convention this week, that we are the Party of the Negro people. It is because we carry our stand for equality to its logical conclusion, that we are able to lead the Negro masses. It is not chance that we are the ones who built the first organization of the sharecroppers. It is not chance that we are the ones who spread the infamy of Scottsboro to every corner of the world. It is not chance that from our ranks came Angelo Herndon.

Education of Members

But if we forget to educate our members systematically in this basic understanding of our position on the Negro question, in an understanding of the relation of our day-to-day struggle for equality, unity to the right of self-determination, then we will be in danger of weakening the fight for unity, we will be unable to achieve unity, unable to lead the daily struggle for the needs of the Negro people.

And lately this danger has arisen. Our opponents are taking the offensive against this basic line of the Party, as for example in the review of James Allen's book on the Negro question in the liberal weekly, The Nation, where Sterling Spero attacks our stand on self-determination as being a hindrance to united action between Negro and white. But it is noteworthy, nevertheless, that he praises the Communist Party for having done "excellent work in the fight for justice and equal rights for Negroes." This writer does not see that we Communists have been able to do "excellent work in the fight for justice and equal rights for Negroes" just because at the basis of all our work has been our adherence to the principle of self-determination, our understanding of the position of the Negro people as an oppressed nation.

Self-Government Discussion

The seething ferment among the Negro masses has not yet reached the stage where it takes the conscious form of a demand for self-determination, although the development of the struggle against inequality will eventually reach a point where the recognition of the right of the Negro masses to decide all questions concerning their interests and welfare will become a practical issue.

Therefore, I should like to put a new problem before you. Since the Negro people are a new nation whose development has seriously been retarded by American imperialism, we can see that the concept of nationality has not fully matured among them. Therefore, it may be possible, and I put it forword for discussion, to consider for the clarification of our propaganda the proposal for some sort of intermediate stage in the fight that will lead up to self-determination. What would such an intermediate stage be? It would have to grow right out of the immediate struggle for economic demands of the sharecropper and worker and political rights such as the right to vote, elect officials, sit on juries, and enforce the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments. These are the issues which are becoming prominent as never before, in the election campaign. How would we define such a stage? It would be, comrades, a struggle for self-government in the Negro areas of the South. Such a stage would give the Negro majority the above democratic rights, without, however, yet reaching the stage of self-determination, that is, the right to federate or separate from the rest of the country. Is it not possible that with this slogan for self-government we can establish a bridge between the immediate struggles for equality and the struggle for self-determination?

Reconstruction Days Cited

As a matter of fact, in our country's history we have already seen, during the Reconstruction days following the Civil War, something of this local self-government of the Negro majority in the Southern counties and states, if even in an incomplete and crude form. In the governments, state and country, set up following the Civil War, the Negro majority for a short period enjoyed political rights, that is, the right to vote, hold office, etc. This was not yet complete self-determination. Nevertheless, even this partial self-government brought such democratic liberties to the South as were not seen before or since. This self-government, it is especially important to note, gave the masses of "poor whites" more liberty than they have today. The granting of political rights, self-government, to the Negro masses, resulted in the abolition of the poll-taxes, property taxes, which had disfranchised the "poor whites," and established free, universal education, equality and easing of mortgage debts on all small farmers.

The desperate distortions of reactionary historians attempt to conceal these vital facts. As it prepares to organize fascist reaction today, the ruling class attempts to blind the "poor whites" to the liberating effect which self-government for the Negro people would have upon the whole South. It raises the spectre of "black domination," as we have seen in the notorious film, "The Birth of a Nation," and in the writings of Thomas Dixon, Jr. But the experiences of the Reconstruction days proved how utterly false is this propaganda. It proved that only through political equality and self-government of the Negro majority can the exploited white masses in the South achieve democracy.

struggle for the land, the slogan for self-determination.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Communists

Self-Government--Struggle for Equality Of Negro People

Haywood 9th Convention Report Stresses Fight on Discrimination

By Harry Haywood

In all our work among the Negro people, as among all oppressed peoples, our aim as Communists is to bring about the unity of Negro and white, to eliminate all obstacles, prejudices, and inequalities that divide the ranks of the people. Our aim as Communists is to unite all oppressed peoples in the struggle for equal rights, for democratic liberties, and for the achievement of socialism. Our aim is to unite the toiling population of the oppressing nations with the toilers of the oppressed nations. The removal of all inequalities—that is our central aim in our Negro work.

That is why we place at the center of our work today the slogan for a united struggle against discrimination, lynching, for the right to hold jobs in public utilities, civil service, for the right to vote, serve on juries, elect officials, enforcement of the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the U.S. Constitution, etc. That is why we demand removal of the discrimination which results in lower wages for Negroes, against discrimination in the trade unions, against discrimination in the distribution of relief, housing, etc.

Distribution of Land

As Communists, we are, as Lenin said, for the voluntary unity and cooperation between all peoples, even up to merging of all peoples. But we have to understand how our struggle against immediate inequalities is bound up with our complete program for the liberation of the Negro people in America, that is to say, the distribution of land in the Black Belt and the right of self-determination in that area. We have to understand the slogan of self-determination in its inevitable and necessary relation to our efforts for welding the unity of Negro and white in the struggle for equality and democracy.

I believe it is necessary to emphasize this point now because lately, as we have been making our correct and energetic efforts to build the broadest people's front among the Negroes, we have tended to submerge our basic slogan of the right of self-determination in our propaganda. We seem to have forgotten that the right of the Negro people to decide their own fate can be the only final guarantee of the unity of Negro and white.

Slogan for Equality

I want to show you, comrades, that if we do not understand this, that if we forget this, it will affect the very core of our struggle for unity, and the building of the People's Front. Today, there is no doubt that the slogan under which we can build the united front and the people's front is the slogan for equality in political, economic and social life. Today, there is no doubt that we could not develop the powerful movement for unity except under this slogan. But we must always keep in mind the possibility, or rather, the certainty that a moment will come in the fight against reaction and the rise of the Negro liberation movement when the Negro masses of the South will begin to see clearly that self-determination is the only guarantee for the winning and preservation of real equality.

We cannot say, of course, exactly when this will be, but when that time comes we must be able to convince the white workers, the American people's front, that the equality which is essential to the unity of Negro and white can only be guaranteed by complete democratic rights for the Negro up to and including the right of self-determination.

Possession of Land

After all, that which gives to our Communist position on the Negro question its preeminence and effectiveness is the fact that we Communists are the only ones who go boldly to the roots of the whole problem. It is we alone who show how the heavy burden of oppression which crushes the backs of the Negro people throughout the country has its basis and origin in the Black Belt of the South. It is we Communists alone who show that the Negro people can never be free until the Negroes in the Black Belt finally possess the land upon which they work, the land which is owned today by a small clique of landlords supported by Wall Street banks. Only possession of the land can make the Negro toilers free. But, between the Negro and the land stand the armed forces of the landlords.

And what will guarantee to the Negroes in the South that the great landed estates will be broken up and divided among those who toil on them? What can guarantee him that when this has taken place the Negro farmer will be able to hold on to the land? Only self-government, the right to govern himself, can guarantee the Negro toilers this. The Negro majority in that continuous stretch of land known as the Black Belt must have the right to their own government, their own self-rule, courts, people's militia, etc. This is the only guarantee that the Negro will hold his land and procure liberty and equality.

People's Front

Today it is correct that a people's front among the Negroes, the National Negro Congress, does not put forward the slogan for complete self-determination. But, with the development of the people's front, the basic needs of black and white alike are developed more and more clearly. Then it will be necessary to put the question of freedom for the Negro people where it finally rests — the possession of the land and its guarantee through full self-determination. So, in Spain, at a certain stage of the struggle, the People's Front became the supporter of the Catalonian movement for autonomy, self-rule, as a basis for unity in the People's Front. Such a stage will also arrive in this country, when the People's Front of America will have to support a similar movement for self-government of the Negro people, in order to effect unity.

But even today, the right of self-determination is not abstract, up in the air, divorced from our work. Even where it does not enter directly, our understanding of this fundamental position guides us. Our ability to lead the Negro masses depends upon this understanding. It is only our Party's complete sincerity, it is only our Party's complete understanding that makes it possible for us to proudly say as Comrade Browder was able at the Ninth Convention this week, that we are the Party of the Negro people. It is because we carry our stand for equality to its logical conclusion that we are able to lead the Negro masses. It is not chance that we are the ones who built the first organization of the sharecroppers. It is not chance that we are the ones who spread the infamy of Scottsboro to every corner of the world. It is not chance that from our ranks came Angelo Herndon.

Education of Members

But if we forget to educate our members systematically in this basic understanding of our position on the Negro question, in an understanding of the relation of our day-to-day struggle for equality, unity to the right of self-determination, then we will be in danger of weakening the fight for unity, we will be unable to achieve unity, unable to lead the daily struggle for the needs of the Negro people.

And lately this danger has arisen. Our opponents are taking the offensive against this basic line of the Party, as for example in the review of James Allen's book on the Negro question in the liberal weekly, The Nation, where Sterling Spero attacks our stand on self-determination as being a hindrance to united action between Negro and white. But it is noteworthy, nevertheless, that he praises the Communist Party for having done "excellent work in the fight for justice and equal rights for Negroes." This writer does not see that we Communists have been able to do "excellent work in the fight for justice and equal rights for Negroes" just because at the basis of all our work has been our adherence to the principle of self-determination, our understanding of the position of the Negro people as an oppressed nation.

Self-Government Discussion

The seething ferment among the Negro masses has not yet reached the stage where it takes the conscious form of a demand for self-determination, although the development of the struggle against inequality will eventually reach a point where the recognition of the right of the Negro masses to decide all questions concerning their interests and welfare will become a practical issue.

Therefore, I should like to put a new problem before you. Since the Negro people are a new nation whose development has seriously been retarded by American imperialism, we can see that the concept of nationality has not fully matured among them. Therefore, it may be possible, and I put it forword for discussion, to consider for the clarification of our propaganda the proposal for some sort of intermediate stage in the fight that will lead up to self-determination. What would such an intermediate stage be? It would have to grow right out of the immediate struggle for economic demands of the sharecropper and worker and political rights such as the right to vote, elect officials, sit on juries, and enforce the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments. These are the issues which are becoming prominent as never before, in the election campaign. How would we define such a stage? It would be, comrades, a struggle for self-government in the Negro areas of the South. Such a stage would give the Negro majority the above democratic rights, without, however, yet reaching the stage of self-determination, that is, the right to federate or separate from the rest of the country. Is it not possible that with this slogan for self-government we can establish a bridge between the immediate struggles for equality and the struggle for self-determination?

Reconstruction Days Cited

As a matter of fact, in our country's history we have already seen, during the Reconstruction days following the Civil War, something of this local self-government of the Negro majority in the Southern counties and states, if even in an incomplete and crude form. In the governments, state and country, set up following the Civil War, the Negro majority for a short period enjoyed political rights, that is, the right to vote, hold office, etc. This was not yet complete self-determination. Nevertheless, even this partial self-government brought such democratic liberties to the South as were not seen before or since. This self-government, it is especially important to note, gave the masses of "poor whites" more liberty than they have today. The granting of political rights, self-government, to the Negro masses, resulted in the abolition of the poll-taxes, property taxes, which had disfranchised the "poor whites," and established free, universal education, equality and easing of mortgage debts on all small farmers.

The desperate distortions of reactionary historians attempt to conceal these vital facts. As it prepares to organize fascist reaction today, the ruling class attempts to blind the "poor whites" to the liberating effect which self-government for the Negro people would have upon the whole South. It raises the spectre of "black domination," as we have seen in the notorious film-unity, in the development of the "The Birth of a Nation," and in the writings of Thomas Dixon, Jr. But the experiences of the Reconstruction days proved how utterly false is this propaganda. It proved that only through political equality and self-government of the Negro majority can the exploited white masses in the South achieve democracy. Therefore, I emphasize that we must be aware in our struggles for the development of the National Negro Congress, in building of the Farmer-Labor Party, tions of the most important, immediate tasks—that we have a clear conception of the relation of these immediate struggles to our basic position on the Negro question, the struggle for land, the slogan for self-determination.

Communists Have No Two-Faced Demagogy

Prepared by the National Election Campaign Committee of the Communist Party

From a radio address by James W Ford, Communist candidate for Vice President.

Not since the Civil War has a political party come before the country with the battle cry of slavery for millions of Americans.

This party today is the Republican party. Who can understand this better than a member of the oppressed race for whose enslavement the Southern plantation owners went to war in 1860?

I am not maligning the traditions of the old Republican party, nor do I express ingratitude for the heritage of Lincoln, but I ask this question: Who is betraying the traditions of Lincoln by resorting to policies aimed at destroying the liberties of many more people than the four million enslaved in 1860?

Landon is tied up with enemies to all that is decent and progressive in America. Landon was unknown to the people of the United States until William Randolph Hearst selected him to carry out fascist program of the Liberty League gang. Hearst, the Du Ponts, Mellon, Morgan know their man!

Freedom Threatened

The real program of the Republican party is the program of the Hearst-Talmadge-Liberty League outfit. In the name of "liberty" they would kill every vestige of freedom for which Americans have fought and died from the Revolutionary struggle in which a colored man, Crispus Attucks, was the first person to die for American independence, to the Civil War where colored regiments joined with Northwestern workers and farmers to preserve the Union.

The agitation of Hearst in his chain of papers inspired the activities of the Black Legion in the auto center, Detroit. The Black Legion enlisted the active aid of some of the leading Republican officials of Michigan. It carried a reign of terror against those who challenged the rule of the auto magnates. It lynched a colored ex-service man "for the thrill" and to intimidate colored people from joining unions.

Coal Barons Divide Workers

During and following the World War many colored miners were brought into the anthracite region from the South. The coal barons always tried to play the colored miners against the white miners and the jim crow policies of the leaders of the unions aided them. But now with the Committee for Industrial Organization recognizing the need to organize colored people, an invaluable ally is brought to the side of labor in the struggle for economic needs and against reaction.

No worker who thinks, no farmer who uses his franchise against his enemy, no member of the colored race who hates oppression, no member of the middle class driven to poverty by the monopolies, no one who cherishes democratic rights can support either the Republican party with its fascist backers, or the Hearst-inspired Union party.

The program of the Communist party is clear cut. It contains no double-faced demagogy. We call for the building of a Farmer-Labor party. Our program has no empty words because, for every point in the party program, American Communists have worked and fought and sacrificed. It calls for:

Major Party Demands

Providing jobs and a living wage, unemployment insurance, old age pensions and social security; saving the young generation, freeing the farmers from debts and guaranteeing them the land;

Making the rich pay, defending civil liberties and curbing the Supreme Court; for full rights and complete equality for the colored people, and for keeping America out of war by keeping war out of the world.

VOTE COMMUNIST

YMCA Jim-Crow is Target of Ford in Newest Broadside

READING, Pa., Aug. 12.—Jas. W. Ford, Communist candidate for Vice President, Monday issued a statement protesting the discrimination practiced against him by the Scranton Y. M. C. A.

The statement in full follows:

"When I arrived from New York, my Scranton friends sought to have me stop at the Y. M. C. A., Accompanied by three of my friends of this city, I went to the Y. M. C. A. hotel and was denied a room, solely on the grounds of my race.

"This is a gross violation of an act of the state legislature which was made a law by the signature of Governor Earle, after a long struggle by liberty-loving people and the initiative of the Negro state representatives of that state, to penalize by imprisonment or fine or both, those who discriminate against people because of race or color. By this act those in charge of the Y. M. C. A., hotel have laid themselves open to criminal prosecution.

"It is ironic that those who profess to uphold the teachings of Christianity should indulge in practicing a form of discrimination known as jim-crowism. By their actions today these people have shown themselves to be enemies of decent American traditions. They reveal themselves as hypocrites and the sooner those who support the Y. M. C. A. take action against this sort of flouting of the laws of the state and the observance of ordinary decency, the better it will be for all concerned."

Ford Speaks In Steel Area

Communist Nominee Tells of Landon's Ties with Steel Barons

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Aug. 16.—In the heart of this Mellon-dominated city, James W. Fordfi the Communist candidate for Vice-President, carried the fight to the enemy in a speech last night that utterly unmasked the powerful steel, coal and aluminum trust forces backing Landon and the Republican slate in this part of the state.

Going into details regarding Landon's strike-breaking activities in the state of Kansas when, in May, 1935, he used the state troops to break the lead and zinc miners' strike, he used illustrations of similar experiences in Pennsylvania. He showed a parallel between Landon's use of troops to break the Kansas strike and the long record of blood baths administered the workers in the domain of Mellon and Schwab by the Coal and Iron police.

Launching into detailed exposures of fascist and semi-fascist organizations Ford assailed Ku Klux Klan, the Fayette County officials of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Junior Order of United American Mechanics (J. O. U. A. M.), Fayette County's "Black Legion"

With a withering array of facts Ford showed how these fascist organizations were supported financially by the big industrialists in the Pittsburgh region. He recited a long list of industrialists and the amounts they had donated to fascist and reactionary organizations.

His final meeting in the Pittsburgh section and the biggest thus far arranged here will be at the Fifht Avenue High School auditorium, Pittsburgh, Monday evening at eight. From there he proceeds west to Columbus on August 19; Cincinnati, August 26, and thence to Springfield and Peoria. Ill.

Political - 1936

Elections.

Communists.

RICHMOND VA.
TIMES DISPATCH

JUL 23 1936

Equal Rights Asserted Here By Communist

Party Secretary Burke Scores Objection to Speech in School

Objecting to the protests of Major George L. Darte against the use of the John Marshall High School Auditorium on August 12, by James W. Ford, Negro Communist candidate for [illegible]esidency, Donald Burke, State secretary of the Communist Party, said yesterday that the Communists have "the same right to hold political meetings in public schools as any other political party."

He addressed a lengthy communication to Jesse H. Binford, superintendent of schools, who earlier had received the protests of Major Darte, a reserve officer and member of American Legion Post, No. 1. Major Darte's letter will be considered by the school board tomorrow night.

Socialists Join Protest

Later yesterday, Winston Dawson, speaking for the Socialist Party of Richmond, joined the protest against Major Darte's communication. "We believe that this protest is entirely unjustified," he stated. "The speaker in question is the chosen representative of thousands of American citizens. They are entitled to the same rights of free speech and free assemblage as are granted to other legal political parties in this country."

"We feel," he added, "that the School Board should disregard any protests made in such direct contradiction to American ideals and laws." His letter was addressed to Mr. Binford.

Weak in "Democracy"

"It seems," said Burke, "that Major Darte may be strong on his military tactics but is mighty weak in his understanding of Americanism. The very essence of Americanism is the spirit of democracy," he said. "Democracy, whether he likes it or not, includes the right of all citizens to exercise their constitutional liberties as guaranteed by the bill of rights."

Major Darte had said "it appears high time that protests with teeth in them be lodged against organizations and individuals who would prostitute our American standard of liberty—the sort of group or individual who would raise the red flag in time of peace and the white flag in time of war."

Burke answered that "our country now is not facing a revolution. But it does face great danger of a Fascist dictatorship. The program of the Republican Party-Liberty League-Hearst candidates, Landon and Knox, would accomplish, if successful in the elections, a great advance toward Fascism," Burke stated.

Cites U. Va. Example

"The University of Virginia," he went on, "recently has given you an example of true Americanism by inviting, not merely tolerating, the presidential candidate of the Communist Party, Earl Browder, to speak at its institute. The action was approved by every freedom-loving American," said Burke.

He said that the Communist Party had made a contract with Radio Station WRVA, locally, and "with both radio chains" for a broadcast by Ford.

Under Fascism, Burke said, free speech would be abolished. "It would not only mean that we, the Communists, would face suppression, but trade unions, liberals, progressives and teachers as well would be forced to march an intellectual goose-step or be thrown into concentration camps or worse," Burke said.

Mr. Binford yesterday said that the question would be left entirely with the school board tomorrow night. The letters of Major Darte and Burke will be submitted to the board.

Attorney Norrell Is Retained By "Reds" To Attack Decision

Denial of Auditorium's Use May Be Taken To Appeals' Court

Journal and Guide Bureau

RICHMOND—E. A. Norrell, local Negro attorney, has been retained by the Communist party to attack the decision of the Richmond school board denying permission to James W. Ford, Negro Communist nominee for vice-president, to speak in the John Marshall High school auditorium, Donald Burke Virginia secretary of the party, made known this week.

Mr. Burke said that the action of the school board was entirely unwarranted and that the drive to use the school auditorium for the election campaign meeting on August 12 would be carried to a finish.

Mr. Burke denied that he had any knowledge that the National election campaign committee of the Communist party had telegraphed a protest to the board asking that they be allowed to use the school auditorium.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE- WEEK OF AUGUST 3, 1936.

RICHMOND BARS
FORD MEETING

Legion Leader Attacks Negro Vice Prosidontial Candidate and His Party

---

RICHMOND, Va., August-- (CNA)- Lest white citizens be "infected" by Communist agitation for Negro rights and unity of Negro and white workers for their class interests, the John Marshall High School authorities have denied the use of that school for a meeting on August 7 at which James W. Ford, nationally known Negro leader and Communist Vice Prosidential candidate is to make his first Southern appearance in a national speaking tour.

A permit for the use of the school, originally given by the board to the local Communist Party, was revoked following the wide-spread development of interest in the meeting among white and Negro workers and protests from Major George L. Darte, U. S. reserve officer and American Legion leader.

Crusader News Agency

Major Darte's attack on the Communist election rally came shortly after a speech delivered before the Institute of Public Affairs of the University of Virginia by Earl Browder, Ford's running mate, in which the Communist Presidential candidate vigorously championed the human and democratic rights of the Negro people and warned Southern white toilers that there can be no freedom or prosperity for them so long as the Negro people are suppressed.

New York Mirror 8-3-36

In a letter to the school board, Major Darte assailed the Communist Party for its position on the Negro question and demanded that Richmond schools be barred to the Negro Communist Vice Presidential candidate.

Revocation of the permit by the school board was assailed by Donald Burke, secretary of the Communist Party here, who declared that "the Communist Party has the same right to hold political meetings in public schools as any other political party." Protests have also been made by many workers' groups and by individual workers and liberals to Superintendent of Schools Blindford.

RICHMOND VA.
TIMES DISPATCH

JUL 26 1936

Free Speech in Richmond

IN REFUSING permission for JAMES W. FORD, Negro candidate for vice-president on the Communist ticket, to deliver a campaign speech in the auditorium of the John Marshall High School, the Richmond School Board has delivered a blow at one of the cardinal principles which went into the establishment of our form of government. Free speech is a cherished institution, guaranteed by the fundamental law of the country. Any infringement of it, upon any pretext, is a matter of vital concern to all the people, regardless of the political creed of any of them. It was to assure an unhindered flow of public opinion, whatever that opinion might be, that the principle of free speech was established. It is the sine qua non of a true democracy.

What JAMES FORD believes is of little moment to this community. Richmond is not the least Communistic. The vast majority of its citizens abhor the theory of government which has been put into practice in Soviet Russia. They would quietly, and all but unanimously, disagree with FORD that America should desert its democracy for the Communism of STALIN. But, if they could speak, we believe they would be almost as a unit in favor of permitting the candidate for vice-president to deliver his address. That would be in accordance with the traditional tolerance of the American system of government. After all, FORD is the candidate of a recognized political party—recognized by the Commonwealth of Virginia, which will place his name and that of EARL BROWDER on the November ticket as the standard bearers of Communism.

MAJOR GEORGE L. DARTE, who was a leading opponent of FORD'S appearance in the John Marshall High School, is quoted as saying that "the South should bend every effort to build a 'backfire' against further infiltration of destructive doctrines." That to say the least, is a rather naive way of expressing it. What does the major think he is about when he urges the curbing of free speech? Could he read the Bill of Rights and still say with intellectual honesty that this is not a destructive doctrine? The major, unintentionally, we are sure, places himself in the position of a man who would sacrifice a cherished principle of his own government on the altar of his hate for a single political creed.

So much for that phase of the matter. There is also a practical, if less important, side of the question. In refusing FORD permission to speak in the school here, the board has not hindered the cause of Communism one whit. On the contrary, it has provided it with a vantage point of ballyhoo. The cry of "persecution" or of "intolerance" is always a potent one. FORD cannot be blamed if he uses to the utmost the illogical, principle-contravening attitude of the Richmond School Board. Its action has subjected the entire city to ridicule. Giving lip service to free speech, it crushes it with an iron heel.

Communists Receive Backing Of Notables

NEW YORK CITY—Rockwell Kent, prominent artist and author of "Wilderness" and "Salamina," has announced that he will support the candidacies of Earl Browder and James W. Ford, Communist nominees for President and Vice-President, by participating as chairman of the Committee of Professional Groups for Browder and Ford. The committee includes among its members many well known writers, artists, and representatives of other professions Hughes, Aaron Copland, Kenneth Burke, Max Weber, S. J. Perelman, Jack Conroy, Josephine Harbst, Art Young, and Horace Gregory.

"Lacking a genuine national united people's party in the form of a national farmer-labor movement," reads a statement given out at the Committee's headquarters here, "we believe the candidacies of Earl Browder and James W. Ford offer the best choice for the professional and intellectual worker."

CANDIDATES LAUDED

In speaking of Browder and Ford the statement goes on to say in part, "They have been in the forefront of the battle against reaction and fascism; they have been among the first to point out in what direction lay the danger of war, and among the first to mobilize the real forces of peace against this danger; they have been the first to see the need of an all-inclusive people's government as a defence against these dark forces of destruction which at this moment are seeking to tear down freedom, democracy and civilization."

The long list of well known persons, the spokesman said, who have aligned themselves with the committee and have endorsed the statement to date include, besides those already named: Albert Bein, Robert M. Coates, Robert W. Dunn, Lawrence Gellert, Grace Greenwood, Marion Greenwood, Henry Hart, Granville Hicks, Joe Jones, Grace Lumpkin, Rebecca E. Pitts, Henry Roth, Bernard Smith, John L. Spivak, Harold Ward, and Walter Wilson.

Browder will deliver a special Labor Day message on "What is Ahead for American Labor?" when he speaks over the NBC Blue network, Monday, September 7, from 9:15 to 9:30 p. m., eastern standard time. The address will deal with the problems confronting the labor movement and with Governor Alf M. Landon's position on labor.

The Labor Day address will be the second of a series of eight national broadcasts which the Communist Campaign Committee hsa booked over the NBC coast-to-coast networks.

During his recent trip through Kansas, Browder spoke over the radio at a mass meeting September 1st at Wichita, his birthplace. It was in Wichita that Browder first entered the labor movement thirty years ago as a member of the American Federation of Labor. Between speeches on his recent trip, he consulted several school teachers for information on Landon's attitude on education in his own state.

Ford National Broadcast on September 21

James W. Ford, Communist Vice-Presidential nominee and the only Negro candidate on a national ticket this year, will speak over a nationwide radio hook-up on Monday evening, Sept. 21. The Negro leader will talk over the Red Network of the National Broadcasting Company from 10:45 to 11 P.M. (New York Daylight Time) on "The Negro People and the Election Campaign."

Workers were urged yesterday by William Z. Foster, chairman of the National Campaign Committee of the Communist Party, to assure Ford's broadcast by rushing contributions without delay to the committee at 35 East 12th Street, New York City. Four thousand three hundred dollars are needed to pay for the radio time.

The hour of Ford's radio talk according to other times is:

Eastern Standard Time—9:45 P.M. to 10 P.M.
Central Standard Time—8:45 P.M. to 9 P.M.
Mountain Standard Time—7:45 P.M. to 8 P.M.
Pacific Standard Time—6:45 P.M. to 7 P.M.

The following stations will carry the address of Ford on Sept. 21:

WEAF—New York	WTMJ—Milwaukee
WEEI—Boston	WIBA—Madison
WTIC—Hartford	KSTP—Minneapolis
WJAR—Providence	WEBC—Duluth
WTAG—Worcester	WDAY—Fargo
WCSH—Portland,Me.	KFYR—Bismarck
KYW—Philadelphia	KOA—Denver
WFBR—Baltimore	KDYL—Salt Lake C.
WRC—Washington	KPO—San Francisco
WGY—Schenectady	KFI—Los Angeles
WBEN—Buffalo	KGW—Portland, Ore.
WCAE—Pittsburgh	KOMO—Seattle
WWJ—Detroit	KHQ—Spokane
WTAM—Cleveland	WRVA—Richmond
WMAQ—Chicago	WTAR—Norfolk
KSD—St. Louis	WPTF—Raleigh
WHO—Des Moines	WSOC—Charlotte
WOW—Omaha	WWNC—Asheville
WDAF—Kansas City	WIS—Columbia
WHIO—Dayton	WFLA-WSUN—Tampa
WCKY—Cincinnati	WIOD—Miami

Political—1936
Elections.

Communists.

Chicago Negro Is Candidate of Communists

Haywood Will Oppose Mitchell, DePriest for Congress

(Daily Worker Midwest Bureau)

CHICAGO, Ill., May 26.—Harry Haywood, Negro Communist leader and organizer of the South Side, will be the Communist candidate for Congress from the First Congressional District. Frank Myers, prominent in the student movement at the University of Chicago, will run for Congress from the Second Congressional District.

Haywood's opponent will be the present Congressman, Arthur Mitchell, reactionary Negro Democrat, and Oscar De Priest, former Republican Congressman, also a Negro. De Priest is backed by Col. Frank Knox of the Liberty League, dominated by the Republican Party.

Haywood and Myers were nominated at the pre-convention conference of the South Side section of the Communist Party on Sunday. Jobs with utilities companies for Negroes and unemployment, are the two major problems of the political campaign planned by the South Side Communist Party.

Support Negro Congress

It was also decided to support the demands of the local National Negro Congress Council as one of the central features of the campaign.

Haywood emphasized that the campaign for jobs for Negroes does not mean taking jobs away from the white workers. "It means joining hands with the white workers to make better conditions for all and to wipe out discrimination," he said.

The Labor Committee of the Negro Congress Council has already begun a mass campaign in the Chicago Federation of Labor to put the Randolph no-discrimination resolution into effect.

NEW YORK COMMUNISTS NOMINATE NEGRO FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

NEW YORK, June-- (CNA)- Julian J. Sawyer, Buffalo Negro, was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor of New York State by the State nominating convention of the Communist Party, which for four days held sessions in this city at which the problems confronting the Negro people, together with the general problems facing the American people as a whole, were exhaustively discussed by Negro and white leaders of the party. Crusader News Agency

Robert Minor, himself a battle-scarred veteran in the fight for Negro liberation, was nominated for Governor by the convention. The ticket includes Grace Hutchins for Controller, Fred Briehl for Attorney General, and Irving Schwab, labor attorney who has defended many Queens Negroes, for Judge of the Court of Appeals. 6-22-36 new york, N.Y.

The keynote address to the convention was made by a Negro attorney, Benjamin Davis, Jr., while prominent among the leaders who addressed the convention was James W. Ford, Harlem Communist leader and the party's vice presidential candidate in 1932.

The national nominating convention of the party will open here on June 34. It is the general belief in Harlem that the Communists will again nominate Ford for vice president.

The convention denounced "the threat of repeated Scottsboros" under which the Negro people live, and called for an intensification and broadening of the fight against lynching and other forms of jim-crow oppression, improvement of the Party's work in the South, promotion of the organization of Negroes into the trade unions and the most energetic activity in promoting the unity of the Negro people and the building of the National Negro Congress, as well as the fight against growing reaction, the danger of war and fascism.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
JUN 15 1936

COMMUNISTS PICK SLATE

Robert Minor, for Governor, Heads Party's State Ticket.

The State convention of the Communist party, with about 600 delegates present, nominated its slate of candidates for State officers last night at the St. Nicholas Palace, 69 West Sixty-sixth Street. The convention will reconvene today, it was announced, to select delegates to the national convention of the party, scheduled for June 28 in Madison Square Garden.

Candidates nominated were: Robert Minor of New York, for Governor; Julian J. Sawyer of Buffalo, a Negro, Lieutenant Governor; Grace Hutchins of New York, Controller; Fred Briehl of Walkill, Ulster County, Attorney General; Irving Schwab of New York, judge of the Court of Appeals.

Ben Davis Jr., a Negro attorney, delivered the keynote address. Carl Brodsky presided. I. Amter of New York was nominated for President of the Board of Aldermen.

CLEVELAND, O.
PRESS
JUN 9 - 1936

BUNDY LEADING COLORED FIGHT

Present Arguments to Credentials Committee; Warn of Bolt

Couuncilman Leroy N. Bundy, delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention, today was leading a group of colored leaders from various sections of the country in a fight to win seats in the convention for colored delegates from Southern states.

Claiming that "lily white" delegates from Louisiana, Georgia, Florida and South Carolina were illegally seated after protest hearings before the national committee last week, the colored leaders were to present their arguments late today to the credentials committee of the convention.

The Cleveland councilman outlined the battle plans of his committee last night to a mass meeting of colored Republicans at the Western Reserve Republican Club. More than 1000 persons attended, the crowd overflowing into the street.

Dr. Bundy hinted strongly at a colored bolt in November "unless we get redress at the convention."

Dr. Bundy told the mass meeting that the colored people will support their own choice for second place on the national ticket, Col. Arthur W. Little of New York.

* * *

Southern Caucus Stresses "Equality"

Pleas for racial equality in politics, voiced by both white and colored delegates, marked the organization meeting last night of the Southern conference, composed of Republican delegates and national committeemen of 12 Southern states.

More than 150 attended the meeting, which shied away from the creation of a definite organization and left its ultimate development in the hands of the 12 national committeemen.

R. B. Creager, Texas committeeman and chairman of the meeting, said efforts would be made later to set up a permanent organization.

A word of caution from Charles A. Jonas, committeeman and former congressman from North Carolina who opposed any movement which might encourage a "bloc" system of sectional interests, had much to do with emasculating the plan as first proposed.

Raleigh, N. C. Observer
June 11, 1936

Negro Domination Looms Again in Southern Area

Republican Convention Restores Joe Tolbert to Power in South Carolina

The News and Observer Bureau,
Special Leased Wire.

By ROBERT E. WILLIAMS.

Convention Hall, Cleveland, June 10.—Without a word of debate, the Republican National Convention today paved the way for the return of Negro domination of the Republican party in most of the Southern states by adopting the reports of its committee on credentials unseating the regular delegation from South Carolina and restoring to power "Tieless Joe" Tolbert, who was kicked out of the national committee four years ago.

"I am very much surprised; that is too bad," was the comment of Thomas Dixon, noted playwright and author, who has been planning to paint to the cenvention a rosy picture of Republican prospects of carrying Southern states in his speech nominating Judge Isaac M. Meekins for the Presidency.

The caucus of the North Carolina delegation scheduled for this afternoon to determine a definite course in regard to presenting the name of Judge Meekins to the convention was postponed, but will be held before the nominating speeches begin tomorrow.

To Present Meekins.

However, the indication now is that regardless of the outcome of the caucus, the name of Judge Meekins will be presented by Dr. Dixon at such length as the convention is disposed to hear him, as there is no time limit on nominating speeches. But at least half the delegation, headed by National Committeeman Charles A. Jonas, is expected to go to Governor Landon, of Kansas, on the first ballot.

White supremacy has been one of the ruling passions with Dr. Dixon, a former minister who won fame as the author of "The Clansman," and other books on the Reconstruction era in the South.

But in view of the things that are happening here, Dr. Dixon can hardly carry that principle with him in his shift of this year from the Democratic to the Republican party, as much as he would like to do so. In fact, he stressed the Negro issue as one of his objections to the Roosevelt administration at the Macon, Ga., meeting of the Southern Association to Uphold the Constitution managed by Governor Talmadge, which marked the Dixon transition between political parties.

Evident determination of many members of the delegation to disregard their instructions for Judge Meekins has been apparent since the delegation first reached here, and has been incrased as evidence multiplied of the almost certain nomination of Governor Landon on the first ballot.

On the other hand, N. Clarence Tozier, of Elizabeth City, and other friends of Judge Meekins have been determined that he should have the honor of having his name placed before the convention, no matter how empty that honor might prove to be.

In fact, Dr. Dixon announced today, after his daily long distance telephone conversation with Judge Meekins, that Judge Meekins will receive votes from at least three other states, which he declined to name.

Aside from such internal difficulties as they have, the rank and the file of the delegates from North Carolina have had little to do.

Hoover Reception.

The reception given former President Hoover tonight was the first touch of anything approaching real enthusiasm. And so long as the convention refuses to even consider giving Mr. Hoover the nomination which every one admits he would have been most glad to have, any enthusiasm connected with Mr. Hoover has a large question mark behind it.

But while the Republicans do not want Mr. Hoover as a candidate any more now than they did before he came to Cleveland, the 12-minute ovation given to him tonight when he appeared on the platform was impressive.

It was the first real chance the convention has had to act like a convention and it rose to the occasion. That fact, and the fact that there was no danger of their enthusiasm leading them to its logical conclusion, a Hoover nomination, furnished much of the explanation for the ovation.

A further explanation is that Hoover. after all, typifies more nearly than any one else the things the Republican party stands for.

The North Carolina standard was one of the first to be moved to the front in honor of Mr. Hoover.

But unless the platform contains a more definite program than is expected to be the case, the Republicans are forced to a position where they must defend Mr. Hoover and his administration, whether they like to or not, and most of them do not to the point where they cannot endure the thought of him as a candidate again.

Even Flatter.

The speech today of the permanent chairman, Representative Bertrand Snell, minority leader in the House of Representatives, fell even flatter than the keynote last night by Senator Frederick Steiwer, which had both its critics and its admirers.

Mr. Snell tried vainly to play upon the one really successful line in the Steiwer speech, "Three long years," that awoke the crowd to an answering refrain.

The Snell speech was well received, but there was something incongruous in an appeal to Democrats and the youth of the land from one who has been identified for years as a partisan among partisans and an old guardsman among old guardsmen.

The Tolbert case was the one on which the Negro members on the credentials committee centered their fight, although the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had ignored it in making a fight against the action of the Republican national committee last week in declining to seat Negroes from Georgia, Florida and Louisiana.

Those delegations denied that the Negro question was an issue with them and J. T. Hambright, who replaced Tolbert on the national committee four years ago, added some Negro alternates in order to minimize the Negro question.

But that was not enough. Northern Negroes stood by Tolbert. as did Perry Howard, Negro committeeman from Mississippi, against whom were laid the same vote-selling and delegate-selling charges as against Tolbert, but who successfully restrained an effort to oust him four years ago.

That was what counted. By a vote of 26 to 16, with W. R. Chambers, of Asheville, the North Carolina member of the committee, refusing to state how he voted, the credentials committee seated "Tieless Joe" and his delegation, with seven of the 10 members Negroes, and carried back to the national committee the crude illiterate figure who served on the committe continuously from 1906 to 1932.

When without a murmur of dissent the report of the committee was adopted by the convention at noon, Tolbert, who had already taken Hambright's seat on the platform with other members of the national committee, marched down and aided his "black and tan" delegation in summarily ousting the 10 white members of the Hambright delegation.

Tears were streaming down the cheeks of Miss Clara Harrigall, of Aiken, Republican national committeewoman, who has spent much time and money during the last eight years in an effort to make the Republican party in South Carolina, as she lost her seat in the convention. Other white men and women in the Hambright delegation were affected similarly.

"We have been sacrificed for the Negro vote in Illinois and Indiana," one of them said.

But although treating the ousted delegation contemptuously, Tolbert threw them one sop. He ordered his Negro delegates to turn over their seats for tonight's meeting to the Hambright delegates.

"None of us want to hear Herbert Hoover," explained "Tieless Joe."

But the big moment for "Tieless Joe" came this afternoon when he held a caucus of his delegation at the Imperial Hotel, a nondescript $1-a-day establishment which knows no color line that has replaced the fashionable Statler Hotel as South Carolina headquarters for this delegation.

Issuing his commands in swift order and brooking no interference, Tolbert quickly had himself named as national committeeman and as a member of the committee which will go to Topeka, Kansas, to notify Governor Landon that he is the nominee of the convention, Governor Landon having declined in advance to come here and receive notification in person.

Tolbert parceled out committee appointments to few white men of his delegation, including his nephew, J. A. Tolbert, former United States District Attorney.

When one of his Negro followers said:

"Mr. Tolbert, if this is going to get in the papers, we ought to have some niggers in it."

"Tieless Joe" immediately agreed, and had a Negro named as a member of the committee to notify the Vice President of his nomination.

But the big recognition for the Negroes is yet to come. A Negro woman is slated to become the colleague of "Tieless Joe" on the national committee.

But Tolbert is still waiting on that in the hope that he can find some rich white woman who wants the honor. However, Miss Harrigall and her kind will have nothing to do with Tolbert, so that the plan to name a Negro woman seems certain to go through.

N. Y. EVENING POST

JUN 15 1936

COMMUNISTS PICK MINOR FOR GOVERNOR

Former Editor Nominated at State Convention

Robert Minor, former cartoonist and editor and Communist candidate for Mayor in 1933, is the Communist Party's candidate for Governor.

He was nominated at the party's State convention last night at St. Nicholas Arena. Minor was cartoonist for the World for several years and in 1926 was editor of the Daily Worker.

Others nominated were Julian J. Sawyer, Negro, of Buffalo, for Lieutenant Governor; Grace Hutchins, for Controller; Fred Briehl, for Attorney General; Irving Schwab, for Judge of the Court of Appeals, and I. Amter, for President of the Board of Aldermen.

Communists Put Negro On Ticket

Harlem Resident Selected As Running Mate For Kansas City White Man

NEW YORK, June 28.— (AP) —In frenzied acclamation, Earl W. Browder, of Kansas, today was nominated as the Communist party's candidate for president of the United States.

James W. Ford, Harlem negro, was similarly chosen as the candidate for vice-president.

Twenty thousand spectators packed in Madison Square Garden joined the party's 710 delegates in creating a bedlam with their lungs and mechanical noise-makers to rival recent demonstrations of the major political parties.

Ticker tape was showered over the convention floor amid shouting and blaring of horns as Robert Minor, Communist candidate for governor of New York, rose to nominate Browder. Twice Minor started his speech to have three bands march out in the aisles leading parading delegates.

Declaring the country is faced with "a chaos of dislocation, ruin and suffering greater than ever before," Minor said "the leaders who will replace today the Washingtons and the Lincolns of the past will be found among the ranks of the revolutionists.

"The man I propose for nomination is one whose origins date back to the beginning of this country—he is a true son of America. . . . His ancestors fought in the armies of George Washington but unlike some other sons of the American Revolution he is true to those traditions."

Minor said Browder, the Communist party's secretary, and the Republican choice of another Kansan, Gov. Landon, for president represent "two sides of a tremendous struggle of life and death."

"The one candidate is called 'the Kansas Coolidge.' The candidate I propose may be called 'the new John Brown from Ossowattamie.'"

"Mother" Ella R. Bloor, 74-year-old Pennsylvania Communist, nominated Ford.

Earlier the convention gave a 10-minute demonstration for William Z. Foster, thrice the party's candidate for president who withdrew this year because of poor health.

A Soviet government in Washington was predicted by Foster who urged the convention to "lay the foundation for a great people's front party."

Political—1936
Elections.

Communists.

FORD SCORES LANDON
FOR 'LINCOLN' POSE.,
FLAYS FASCIST HEARST

Crusader News Agency
9-24-36

NEW YORK, Sept.-- (CNA)- In the first radio broadcast over a coast-to-coast hook-up ever made by a Negro candidate on a national ticket, James W. Ford, Communist Vice Presidential candidate, assailed Governor Landon as a hypocrite who, while closely linked with the enemies of the Negro people, has "donned the garb of Abraham Lincoln to ensnare Negro voters." Victory for "the Hearst-Liberty League-Landon combination" would make "lynch law the rule of the land," Ford asserted.

New York, N.Y.

The Communist leader's speech was carried over the vast Red Network of the National Broadcasting Company. In an action unparalleled in American history, Earl Browder, Communist Presidential candidate, himself introduced his vice-presidential running mate to the vast radio audience.

Warns Reaction Menaces All

An interesting sidelight to the broadcast was the fact that the Hearst radion station, WCAE, in Pittsburgh, was forced to relay Ford's speech after previously having refused to do so. Assailing "Fascist-minded men" as a menace to the civil liberties of the American people, Ford included Hearst in that category.

The Communist candidate addressed his fifteen-minute talk primarily to the Negro people, but sounded a note of warning to the white people as well, pointing out that the reactionary forces "not only attack colored people., their attack is directed against everything progressive in the country."

The Negro Communist leader who has twice been his party's candidate for Vice President, in 1932 and in 1936, characterized the Republican standard-bearer as a puppett of the most reactionary elements in the country, elements he asserted were sworn enemies of the Negro people and of all progressive groups in the United States. He declared:

"A colored voter who supports the Republicans is helping to put a lynch rope around the neck of his people."

Denies Party Supports Roosevelt

Declaring that Roosevelt has "made a few concessions to my people," Ford at the same time warned against blind dependence on Roosevelt. "None of us," he said, "can forget that his party is based on the South, where colored men and women are not permitted to live like human beings." He indignantly repudiated the claims of the Hearst newspaper chain that the Communist Party was supporting Roosevelt and flung the lie direct into the face of William Randolph Hearst.

As in his previous campaign speeches, Ford directed his heaviest blows against the Republican party and the Coughlin-Lemke Union party, which he characterised as a Hearst-conceived "stooge" for the Republicans.

He denied that the Republican party of today has anything in common with the Republican party of 1865, and charged present-day Republicans with betraying the traditions of Lincoln. "The Republican Party has done nothing for the Negro," he said. "It has shut its eyes to the violation of the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments to the Constitution."

The Communist leader pointed to the paradoxical situation of Governor Talmadge of Georgia and other notorious Southern Negro-haters coming out in opposition to the national ticket of their party as proof that the most reactionary forces in the country were gathering around Landon and his Hearst-Black Legion-Liberty League supporters.

Negro voters, Ford predicted, will not be deceived by the hypocrisy of Landon in "donning the garb of Lincoln" and presenting himself as a new Emancipator.

"They no longer follow blindly the corrupt old party of Wall Street. They realize more and more that only struggle will break down the barriers of jim-crowism, segregation and every evil which the Republicans never challenge."

Cites Race's History

Denouncing the continued enslavement of his people who, he declared, "are still in chains" in the South and are segregated and discriminated against in the North, Ford declared "we colored people must in this campaign throw our

Political - 1936
Elections.

FORD SCORES LANDON
FOR 'LINCOLN' POSE.,
FLAYS FASCIST HEARST

Communist

9-24-36

NEW YORK, Sept.-- (CNA)- In the first radio broadcast over a coast-to-coast hook-up ever made by a Negro candidate on a national ticket, James W. Ford, Communist Vice Presidential candidate, assailed Governor Landon as a hypocrite who, while closely linked with the enemies of the Negro people, has "donned the garb of Abraham Lincoln to ensnare Negro voters." Victory for "the Hearst-Liberty League-Landon combination" would make "lynch law the rul of the land," Ford asserted.

The Communist leader's speech was carried over the vast Red Network of the National Broadcasting Company. In an action unparalleled in American history, Earl Browder, Communist Presidential candidate, himself introduced his vice-presidential running mate to the vast radio audience.

Warns Reaction Menaces All

An interesting sidelight to the broadcast was the fact that the radio station, WCAE, in Pittsburgh, was forced to relay Ford's speech after previously having refused to do so. Assailing "Fascist-minded men" as a menace to the civil liberties of the American people, Ford included Hearst in that category.

The Communist candidate addressed his fifteen-minute talk primarily to the Negro people, but sounded a note of warning to the white people as well, pointing out that the reactionary forces "not only attack colored people, their attack is directed against everything progressive in the country."

The Negro Communist leader who has twice been his party's candidate for Vice President, in 1932 and in 1936, characterized the Republican standard-bearer as a puppett of the most reactionary elements in the country, elements he asserted were sworn enemies of the Negro people and of all progressive groups in the United States. He declared:

"A colored voter who supports the Republicans is helping to put a lynch rope around the neck of his people."

Denies Party Supports Roosevelt

Declaring that Roosevelt has "made a few concessions to my people," Ford at the same time warned against blind dependence on Roosevelt. "None of us," he said, "can forget that his party is based on the South, where colored men and women are not permitted to live like human beings." He indignantly repudiated the claims of the Hearst newspaper chain that the Communist Party was supporting Roosevelt and flung the lie direct into the face of William Randolph Hearst.

As in his previous campaign speeches, Ford directed his heaviest blows against the Republican party and the Coughlin-Lemke Union party, which he characterised as a Hearst-conceived "stooge" for the Republicans.

He denied that the Republican party of today has anything in common with the Republican party of 1865. and charged present-day Republicans with betraying the traditions of Lincoln. "The Republican Party has done nothing for the Negro," he said. "It has shut its eyes to the violation of the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments to the Constitution."

The Communist leader pointed to the paradoxical situation of Governor Talmadge of Georgia and other notorious Southern Negro-haters coming out in opposition to the national ticket of their party as proof that the most reactionary forces in the country were gathering around Landon and his Hearst-Black Legion-Liberty League supporters.

Negro voters, Ford predicted, will not be deceived by the hypocrisy of Landon in "donning the garb of Lincoln" and presenting himself as a new Emancipator.

m "They no longer follow blindly the corrupt old party of Wall Street. They realize more and more that only struggle will break down the barriers of jim-crowism, segregation and every evil which the Republicans never challenge."

Cites Race's History

Denouncing the continued enslavement of his people who, he declared, "are still in chains" in the South and are segregated and discriminated against in the North, Ford declared "we colored people must in this campaign throw our support on the side of those forces working for progress." He urged the bu.. ing of the American People's Front - the Farmer-Labor Party.

The Union party was assailed by the Communist candidate as having been conceived in the brain of the fascist millionaire publisher, William Randolph Hearst. "The colored people" Ford asserted, "cannot find salvation in the so-called Union party of Lemke and Father Coughlin, which was conceived by Hearst and financed by the Liberty League. They cannot vote for a party which gets its main support from Nazi-inspired organizations, and one of whose spokesmen is Gerald L. K. Smith, who preaches a crusade of hate against the colored people."

Millions of his radio listeners heard for the first time of the revolutionary traditions of the Negro people as Ford pointed out that "colored people gave their lives in those great struggles for democracy which were fought in 1776 and 1861. At the battle of Lexington, it was a Negro, Crispus Attucks, who was the first man to lay down his life in the struggle against British tyranny."

Will Run "On His Own"

IT WILL BE recalled that just prior to the recent Democratic Party primary for the nomination of a candidate for Congress, ALEXANDER WRIGHT, a leader of the Communist Party in the Second District, appeared at a meeting of supporters of one of the candidates and announced his intention of voting for that candidate in the primary and also his intention to influence the local and district Communist vote to do the same. Presumably, Mr. WRIGHT carried through his announced intentions.

Last week ALEXANDER WRIGHT filed notice with the Secretary of the Commonwealth of his own candidacy for Congress, auspices the Communist Party.

We are not condemning Mr. WRIGHT for stepping into the Democratic primary and then declining to support the choice of the primary. That is his duty, of course, politically, morally, and legally; but Mr. WRIGHT let it be known through a newspaper interview just what he was going to do, in ample time for the Democratic Party election officials to have taken precautionary steps if that was desirable.

The Communist leader was perfectly frank about the whole matter. He is equally candid about keeping his promise to bolt the nominee, for whom he said he was going to vote and for whom he urged other members of the Communist Party to vote.

The bolt will not cut much of a figure one way or the other, since the Communist vote is rather small in the second Virginia district. We refer to the incident chiefly to remind, again, all those who voted in the primary that they are morally and legally bound to vote for the choice of the primary in November.

ARMED LEGION MOB BLACKJACKS AUDIENCE

Violence Is Threatened Against Ford at Durham Meeting

BULLETIN

(By United Press)

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 25 (UP).—A threatened demonstration against an address by James Ford, Negro Communist vice-presidential nominee, in the Durham County Courthouse failed to materialize tonight after county officers were called in for protection.

Ford delayed his speech nearly an hour while Paul Crouch, North Carolina Communist gubernatorial nominee, obtained a detail of deputy sheriffs to preserve order.

"The forces of reaction are destroying all the things that Jackson and Lincoln fought for in behalf of this country," Ford said. "This is the most significant campaign since the war between the states. Surely not since then have the major parties put candidates in the field who destroy the liberties of the people.

"I am alarmed at the threat of fascism in this country."

Informed by the United Press that the attempt of Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate, to speak in Tampa, Fla., had been halted by violence, Ford said:

"The fact that Earl [Browder] made two unsuccessful attempts to speak in Terre Haute, and again in Tampa shows that it is not a sectional matter. It only shows that the reactionary forces are working throughout the country. That is what we're having to fight."

After the address, said to be the first campaign speech by any Negro political office seeker in the courthouse here, several white college students grouped around Ford and escorted him to an automobile.

Political - 1936

Elections.

Communists.

RICHMOND VA.
TIMES DISPATCH

JUL 17 1936

Communist Ford Slated To Give Address Here

James W. Ford, Communist nominee for vice-president of the United States and the first Negro ever chosen for that position on the Communist ticket, will speak at the John Marshall High School on the night of August 12, it was announced yesterday by Donald Burke, State secretary of the party.

Ford is a graduate of Fisk University, was a commissioned officer overseas and is a post office worker. He is making a national tour with Earl Browder, Communist nominee for President.

The main stress of the Communists, Secretary Burke said, is laid on "the necessity of defeating Landon and Knox, candidates of the Republican Party-Liberty League-Hearst combination . . . the victory of Landon would greatly increase the danger of a Fascist dictatorship in the United States."

In 1932 Ford ran on the Communist ticket with William Z. Foster, leader of the 1919 steel strike. Arrangements have been made for Ford to speak over WRVA at 10:30 P. M., August 12, following his address at John Marshall High School, it was said.

Browder Talks Of First Visit To the South

Candidate Scores Bars to Negro Freedom in Interview

By Alan Max

It was Earl Browder's first visit to the jim-crow Southland. It was also his first visit to a swanky country club.

The way he happened to be at the club was this: he had spoken that morning before the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia. As his train would not leave until 10 o'clock at night, the Institute had arranged for him to wait at the Farmington Country Club—just outside of Charlottesville.

Designed by Jefferson

We sat on one of the long verandas that stretched the length of the club. It was a beautiful building, designed by Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson had not intended it for a club, of course. The slave quarters of the plantation house of Jefferson's time had recently been converted into bedrooms for guests.

Below us these guests were diving into the modern green-tiled swimming pool. The boundary of the club's lawn was marked by a low mound of stones. On the other side, lay the tumble-down shack of a Negro. We could see the Negro himself, standing there beyond the stones, looking toward the swimming pool.

"Those few stones," Browder said, "are low enough for a child to pass over—that is, a white child. But they symbolize the barrier over which the Negro is not allowed to step—not permitted to exert himself as a human being."

First Time in Dixie

Although he had battled for the rights of the Negroes all his life, this was the Communist candidate's first personal contact with the South. He had stepped off the train that morning and found himself in the small university town of Charlottesville, undoubtedly one of the most liberal places in the South, rich in traditions of Jefferson who had freed his own slaves. And yet, the moment he stepped off the train, Browder found himself in a waiting-room—for whites only!

"It hit me in the face," Browder said. "The Negro here in the South is looked upon as some kind of animal and treated accordingly."

The Institute meeting at which he had spoken that morning, had been attended by a cultured audience from all parts of the South—educators, students and church people. Yet there was not one single Negro in the hall. The only Negroes to be seen anywhere on the campus were the waiters in the dining hall and the laborers repairing the roads that threaded among the university buildings.

Cites Negro Question

The audience had suddenly become tense when Browder had declared that there could be a free, happy and prosperous South only when the Negro, united with the white toilers, had won full social, political and economic equality. He made no attempt to draw his punches.

When he finished—although he had spoken of many things besides the Negro issue—the very first question asked was: "How under the program you have outlined, could amalgamation of the Negro and white races be prevented." To which Browder had replied without hesitation that he had yet to learn of a good reason why such amalgamation should be prevented.

He puffed at his pipe as he sat on the veranda of the club. The Negro was still standing out on the road, staring at the swimmers. "Of all the curses, the worst is bondage," Browder was saying.

Contradictions Sharpest

"Wall Street domination hits hardest in the South due to the remnants of feudalism. Here where the contradictions are sharpest, the evidences of fascism develop with greatest speed: the Huey Longs—the Klan, mother of the Black Legion—Governor Talmadge. The first American concentration camps were erected here during the textile strike. The Liberty League looks upon the South as its mainspring. It works down here inside the Democratic Party—through its right wing. Virginia, the state of Thomas Jefferson for example, is today the state of Senators Glass and Byrd."

He repeated that famous quotation from Karl Marx: "Labor in a white skin cannot be free so long as labor in a black skin is enslaved."

Full Freedom for Negroes

"As Jefferson individually freed his own slaves," he went on, "and as Lincoln freed them from chattel slavery, so the Communist Party will unite the Negro and white toilers in the struggle for full freedom for the Negroes and for full freedom and prosperity for the South."

The Communist Party, he declared, was the only party of the Negroes. It was the party of the fight for the Scottsboro boys. It was the party of Angelo Herndon. "I am proud," Browder said, "to run for president with a Negro, my friend James Ford, as my running mate."

It was getting on to train time. At the station we watched a Negro porter bent almost double under the heavy, expensive bags of a traveler. "The day is not far off," Browder said slowly, "when that Negro will be able to stand up straight and enjoy his full rights as a man."

Birmingham, Ala. News
July 22, 1936

RED CANDIDATE TO SPEAK HERE

Papers Seized In Bessemer Set Out Campaign Of Two Communists

Communist candidates for president and vice president, the latter a Negro, will invade several Southern cities during their campaign, it was learned today from literature found in possession of a Communist arrested in Bessemer.

Earl Browder, the candidate for president, is scheduled to speak in Birmingham, Sept. 11.

The man arrested in Bessemer was Jack Barton, said by officers to be secretary of the Bessemer section of the Communist party. Arrested Sunday, he was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to jail for six months by Judge Morris Monday for violation of the city's ordinance against radical activities.

Included in the literature which, according to Police Chief Ross, of Bessemer, was found in his possession, was a letter "To All Districts" to which was attached speaking dates set for Browder and James W. Ford, Negro candidate for vice president.

Other literature seized with the arrest of Barton showed that the Communist party of America has set a $250,000 quota for a drive to raise campaign funds for the nation. One half of this, according to information found in this literature, will be raised in the New York district, and other districts will be required to contribute on the basis of $5 a member.

Other Southern cities to be visited by one or both of the party's candidates are: by Browder, Chattanooga, Sept. 10; Atlanta, Sept. 12; Tampa, Sept. 13; Norfolk, Sept. 14; and Baltimore, Sept. 18; by Ford, Baltimore, Aug. 11; Richmond, Aug. 12; Nashville, Oct. 23, and Atlanta, Oct. 24.

Ford Assails Landon As Foe of Progress

Republican Will Carry Out Policy of Steel Trust, Communist Vice-Presidential Nominee Warns in Scranton Radio Address

Declaring that the program of the Republican Party means slavery for millions of Americans, James W. Ford, Communist candidate for Vice-President, yesterday in a radio address from Scranton, Pa., made the opening speech of his national campaign tour.

The speech of the noted Negro worker and class leader follows:

Nowhere since the Civil War has a political party come before the country with the battle cry of slavery for millions of Americans. This party today is the Republican Party. Who can understand this better than a member of the oppressed race for whose enslavement the Southern plantation owners went to war in 1860? I am not today maligning the traditions of the old Republican Party nor do I express ingratitude for the heritage of Lincoln, but I ask this question: Who is betraying the traditions of Lincoln by resorting to policies aimed at destroying the liberties of many more people than the four million enslaved in 1860?

Curiously enough the candidates and backers of the Republican Party of today are guilty. If we examine the speeches of Landon and Knox we see that their triumph in the elections would mean the smashing of democratic rights (achieved in 1860, yes, even in 1776), the legalizing of company unions and the establishment of a regime based on terror against the American toilers.

Assails Landon's Labor Policy

In his acceptance speech at Topeka, Kansas, Landon said: "The right of labor to organize means to me the right of employees to join any type of union they prefer, whether it covers their plant their craft or their industry. It means that in the absence of a union contract, an employee has an equal right to join a union or refuse to join a union."

Thus Landon plainly declares that any administration of which he is the head will carry out the policy of the steel trust and the coal barons against bona-fide unionism. You miners of the anthracite know only too well what this would mean. Instead of a powerful union of all workers in the mines able to act collectively and fearlessly throughout the industry, there would be company unions for each mine whose policies and officers would be dictated by the mine barons.

Landon defends the bankers and industrialists at a time when workers in company unions are breaking away to join the movement of hundreds of thousands toward bona-fide industrial unionism led by John L. Lewis. Landon began his career in politics as the henchman of former Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas who in 1921 put over the notorious "industrial court" law outlawing strikes in the state. Only the determined struggles of the miners' union in Kansas were able to defeat it.

Picked by Hearst

Landon is tied up with enemies of all that is decent and progressive in America. Landon was unknown to the people of the United States until William Randolph Hearst selected him to carry out the fascist program of the Liberty League gang. Hearst, the du Ponts, Mellon, Morgan know their man!

The real program of the Republican Party is the program of the Hearst-Talmadge-Liberty League outfit. In the name of "liberty" they would kill every vestige of freedom for which Americans

Political - 1936

Elections.

Communists.

RICHMOND VA.
TIMES DISPATCH

JUL 17 1936

Communist Ford Slated To Give Address Here

James W. Ford, Communist nominee for vice-president of the United States and the first Negro ever chosen for that position on the Communist ticket, will speak at the John Marshall High School on the night of August 12, it was announced yesterday by Donald Burke, State secretary of the party.

Ford is a graduate of Fisk University, was a commissioned officer overseas and is a post office worker. He is making a national tour with Earl Browder, Communist nominee for President.

The main stress of the Communists, Secretary Burke said, is laid on "the necessity of defeating Landon and Knox, candidates of the Republican Party-Liberty League-Hearst combination . . . the victory of Landon would greatly increase the danger of a Fascist dictatorship in the United States."

In 1932 Ford ran on the Communist ticket with William Z. Foster, leader of the 1919 steel strike. Arrangements have been made for Ford to speak over WRVA at 10:30 P. M., August 12, following his address at John Marshall High School, it was said.

Browder Talks Of First Visit To the South

Candidate Scores Bars to Negro Freedom in Interview

By Alan Max

It was Earl Browder's first visit to the jim-crow Southland. It was also his first visit to a swanky country club.

The way he happened to be at the club was this: he had spoken that morning before the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia. As his train would not leave until 10 o'clock at night, the Institute had arranged for him to wait at the Farmington Country Club—just outside of Charlottesville. Designed by Jefferson

We sat on one of the long verandas that stretched the length of the building. It was a beautiful building, designed by Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson had not intended it for a club, of course. The slave quarters of the plantation house of Jefferson's time had recently been converted into bedrooms for guests.

Below us these guests were diving into the modern green-tiled swimming pool that was the boundary of the club's lawn. On the other side, lay the tumble-down shack of a Negro. We could see the Negro himself, standing there beyond the stones, looking toward the swimming pool.

"Those few stones," Browder said, "are low enough for a child to pass over—that is, a white child. But they symbolize the barrier which the Negro is not allowed to step—not permitted to exert himself as a human being."

First Time in Dixie

Although he had battled for the rights of the Negroes all his life, this was the Communist candidate's first personal contact with the South. He had stepped off the train that morning and found himself in the small university town of Charlottesville, undoubtedly one of the most liberal places in the South, rich in traditions of Jefferson who had freed his own slaves. And yet, the moment he stepped off the train, Browder found himself in a waiting-room—for whites only!

"It hit me in the face," Browder said. "The Negro here in the South is looked upon, as some kind of animal and treated accordingly."

The Institute meeting at which he had spoken that morning, had been attended by a cultured audience from all parts of the South—educators, students and church people. Yet there was not one single Negro in the hall. The only Negroes to be seen anywhere on the campus were the waiters in the dining hall and the laborers repairing the roads that threaded among the university buildings.

Cites Negro Question

The audience had suddenly become tense when Browder had declared that there could be a free, happy and prosperous South only when the Negro, united with the white toilers, had won full social, political and economic equality. He made no attempt to draw his punches.

When he finished—although he had spoken of many things besides the Negro issue—the very first question asked was: "How under the program you have outlined, could das that stretched the [illegible] white races be prevented." To which Browder had replied without hesitation that he had yet to learn of a good reason why such amalgamation should be prevented.

He puffed at his pipe as he sat on the veranda of the club. The Negro was still standing out on the road, staring at the swimmers. "Of cities during their campaign, it was learned today from literature found in possession of a Communist arrested in Bessemer.

Communist candidates for president and vice president, the latter a Negro, will invade several Southern cities during their campaign, it was learned today from literature found in possession of a Communist arrested in Bessemer.

Earl Browder, the candidate for president, is scheduled to speak in Birmingham, Sept. 11.

The man arrested in Bessemer was Jack Barton, said by officers to be secretary of the Bessemer section of the Communist party. Arrested Sunday, he was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to jail for six months by Judge Morris Monday for violation of the city's ordinance against radical activities.

Included in the literature which, according to Police Chief Ross, of Bessemer, was found in his possession, was a letter "To All Districts" to which was attached speaking dates set for Browder and James W. Ford, Negro candidate for vice president.

Other literature seized with the arrest of Barton showed that the Communist party of America has set a $250,000 quota for a drive to raise campaign funds for the nation. One half of this, according to information found in this literature, will be raised in the New York district, and other districts will be required to contribute on the basis of $5 a member.

Other Southern cities to be visited by one or both of the party's candidates are: by Browder, Chattanooga, Sept. 10; Atlanta, Sept. 12; Tampa, Sept. 13; Norfolk, Sept. 14; and Baltimore, Sept. 18; by Ford, Baltimore, Aug. 11; Richmond, Aug. 12; Nashville, Oct. 23, and Atlanta, Oct. 24.

Ford Assails Landon As Foe of Progress

Republican Will Carry Out Policy of Steel Trust, Communist Vice-Presidential Nominee Warns in Scranton Radio Address

Declaring that the program of the Republican Party means slavery for millions of Americans, James W. Ford, Communist candidate for Vice-President, yesterday in a radio address from Scranton, Pa., made the opening speech of his national campaign tour.

The speech of the noted Negro working class leader follows:

Not since the Civil War has a political party come before the country with the battle cry of slavery for millions of Americans. This party today is the Republican Party. Who can understand this better than a member of the oppressed race for whose enslavement the Southern plantation owners went to war in 1860? I am not today maligning the traditions of the old Republican Party nor do I express ingratitude for the heritage of Lincoln, but I ask this question: Who is betraying the traditions of Lincoln by resorting to policies aimed at destroying the liberties of many more people than the four million enslaved in 1860?

Curiously enough the candidates and backers of the Republican Party of today are guilty. If we examine the speeches of Landon and Knox we see that their triumph in the elections would mean the smashing of democratic rights (achieved in 1860, yes, even in 1776), the legalizing of company unions and the establishment of a regime based on terror against the American toilers.

Assails Landon's Labor Policy

In his acceptance speech at Topeka, Kansas, Landon said:

"The right of labor to organize means to me the right of employees to join any type of union they prefer, whether it covers their plant their craft or their industry. It means that in the absence of a union contract, an employee has an equal right to join a union or refuse to join a union."

Thus Landon plainly declares that any administration of which he is the head will carry out the policy of the steel trust and the coal barons against bona-fide unionism. You miners of the anthracite know only too well what this would mean. Instead of a powerful union of all workers in the mines able to act collectively and fearlessly throughout the industry, there would be company unions for each mine whose policies and officers would be dictated by the mine barons.

Landon defends the bankers and industrialists at a time when workers in company unions are breaking away to join the movement of hundreds of thousands toward bona-fide industrial unionism led by John L. Lewis. Landon began his career in politics as the henchman of former Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas who in 1921 put over the notorious "industrial court" law outlawing strikes in the state. Only the determined struggles of the miners' union in Kansas were able to defeat it.

Picked by Hearst

Landon is tied up with enemies of all that is decent and progressive in America. Landon was unknown to the people of the United States until William Randolph Hearst selected him to carry out the fascist program of the Liberty League gang. Hearst, the du Ponts, Mellon, Morgan know their man!

The real program of the Republican Party is the program of the Hearst-Talmadge-Liberty League outfit. In the name of "liberty" they would kill every vestige of freedom for which Americans

Communists.

Papers Seized In Bessemer Set Out Campaign Of Two Communists

RED CANDIDATE TO SPEAK HERE

Birmingham, Ala. News
July 22, 1936

Reds

me
Co
rac

have fought and died from the Battle of Lexington in which a Negro, Crispus Attucks, was the first man to die in the War for Independence, to the Civil War where Negro regiments joined with Northwestern workers and farmers to preserve the Union.

In order to restore capitalist profits the Liberty League aims to cut wages, outaw trade unions and eventually to destroy them, to drive the poor farmers off the land into the ranks of propertyless workers without hope of relief. It would place unlimited power in the hands of the Supreme Court which has already nullified every attempt at social legislation.

The workers in the anthracite know these tactics. In the recent strikes in this region you saw Judge Valentine sending union members and leaders to prison for refusing to call off the strike. Last Easter one of the outstanding leaders of the struggle, James Maloney, was foully murdered by a bomb sent through the mails by agents of the coal barons, Emmerson Jennings is being framed on a fake bombing charge by agents of the local coal trust because he dared to print facts regarding the activities of the strikebreaking Judge Valentine.

Score Mellon-Vare Regime

For years, under State and Federal governments dominated by Andrew Mellon, Fisher, Vare and Grundy, the workers of the great industrial and agricultural State of Pennsylvania have undergone an unbridled reign of reaction: suppression of free speech, press and assembly; thugs recruited into the notorious coal and iron police, riding down men, women and children; the State police acting frequently as mere aids of the steel and aluminum trusts, the coal barons and the textile exploiters; evictions of farmers under the machine guns of the State constabulary as in Doylestown in 1934.

In the anthracite conditions became so grave that the wives of coal miners, denied a living wage by the owners, were forced to toil in the textile mills and spend their life blood in amassing billions in profits.

These same elements against whom you have fought in Pennsylvania are now united behind the Hearst-Liberty League-Landon combination. This combination not only stands for the continuation of your horrible conditions but having learned lessons from Hearst's bosom pals, Hitler and Mussolini, carries on a campaign of race hatred.

The agitation of Hearst in his chain of papers inspired the activities of the Black Legion in the auto center, Detroit. The Black Legion enlisted the active aid of some of the leading Republican officials of the State of Michigan. It carried on a reign of terror against those who challenged the rule of the auto magnates. It lynched a Negro ex-serviceman "for the thrill" and to intimidate Negroes from joining unions.

Hits Jim-Crowism

During and following the world war many Negro miners were brought into the anthracite region from the South. The coal barons always tried to play the Negro miners against their white miners and the jim-crow policies of the leaders of the unions aided them. But now with the Committee for Industrial Organization recognizing the need to organize Negroes, an invaluable ally is brought to the side of labor in the struggle for economic needs and against reaction.

My people, also, are alarmed at the threat of fascism. Having witnessed the rape and torture of Ethiopia, the activities of the Black Legion and the Ku Klux we can see that fascism holds more horrors than 300 years of chattel slavery, industrial capitalism and imperialism. It means a wholesale campaign of murder against the Negro masses by those who have robbed the American masses in order to live in idleness and debauchery and to whom any means is acceptable which will keep the ranks of Negro and white labor divided.

In the South the plight of both Negro and poor white masses is indescribable. The Southern Bourbons are determined to send Angelo Herndon to death on the chain-gang for organizing a demonstration of Negro and white workers for bread. Every fourteen days a Negro is lynched.

The Liberty League, it is reported, financed Talmadge's "Grass Roots" convention in the state of which he is governor, in Georgia, last spring. It was a depraved exhibition of lynch hysteria. One of its leaders, the Reverend Gerald L. K. Smith, is now ranting in support of the candidacy of William Lemke of North Dakota. A follower of Huey Long Smith got his start in politics in the Ku Klux Klan of Indiana.

Lemke Termed Landon Stooge

The Lemke party is another product of the Hearst-Liberty League-Landon conspiracy. With radical-sounding phrases it tries to sidetrack the masses from the growing Farmer - Labor Party movement that will unite the workers, farmers, Negro people, professionals, and middle class, in a PEOPLE'S FRONT against reaction and fascism.

No worker who thinks, no farmer who uses his franchise against his enemy, no member of the Negro race who hates oppression, no member of the middle class driven to poverty by the monopolies, no one who cherishes democratic rights can support either the Republican Party with its fascist backers, or the Hearst-inspired Union Party.

Although conditions improved slightly under the Roosevelt administration as compared to the Hoover-Republican regime, there is no reason, on his past performance, to trust in Roosevelt as a barrier against fascism and reaction. He has retreated step by step before the pressure of the Hearst-Republican enemies of the American people. He calls for no offensive against the little group of corporation lawyers, the Supreme Court, which has usurped power to crush the slightest attempts at social legislation. Mr. Roosevelt receives mass support from the Democratic ruling class in the South where the most vicious systematic discrimination and lynchings are practiced against the Negro people.

The Communist Party is fighting for the building of a Farmer-Labor Party in the United States to unite all liberty-loving people to defeat reaction and defend the daily needs of the toiling masses. The Communist Party has consistently fought for equal rights for Negroes, to bring this important ally to the working class against capital. By arousing white workers, farmers and middle class people to support the great Scottsboro and Herndon campaigns, the defense of Ethiopia and against lynching, we strengthen the bonds between the labor movement as such and the Negro people.

Lauds Browder

I can point with pride to the high type of American nominated by our Party for President. Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist Party, is from Kansas, the state of which Landon is governor. Browder is in every way the opposite of Landon. Just as Landon symbolizes all that is viciously reactionary, un-American, anti-labor, so Browder symbolizes the best American traditions, the most progressive forces in the country. At the nominating convention of our Party last June, Browder was called a new "John Brown of Osawatomie."

Landon does not have the friendly respect of the colored citizens of his home town. One of the most sensational statements of the present campaign is attributed to Oscar De Priest, former Negro Republican Congressman from Illinois, who declared, "I'll have to go back home and lie like hell for that guy Landon."

The struggle today is not only to free the Negro masses but to free the toiling masses generally, black and white, native-born and foreign-born, men, women and children, from the menace of fascism.

Vote Communist!

The program of the Communist Party is clear-cut. It contains no double-faced demagogy. We call for the building of a Farmer-Labor Party. Our program has no empty words because, for every point in the party program, American Communists have worked and fought and sacrificed. It calls for: providing jobs and a living wage; unemployment insurance, old-age pensions and social security; saving the young generation; freeing the farmers from debts and guaranteeing them the land; making the rich pay; defending civil liberties and curbing the Supreme Court; for full rights and complete equality for the Negro people, for keeping America out of war by keeping war out of the world! VOTE COMMUNIST!

JAMES W. FORD

Fighters for the Rights Of the Negro People

• Twice in the past few days Earl Browder took a walk.

In Philadelphia last Friday, and in Baltimore on Sunday, the Communist Presidential candidate demonstratively walked out of jim-crow hotels in the fight for Negro rights.

J. Robert Smith, Negro, city editor of the Baltimore Afro-American, was not allowed to ride the elevator in the Adelphia Hotel, in the "City of Brotherly Love." William N. Jones, was refused admittance to a press conference at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore.

When appraised of these discriminations, Earl Browder protested against "the enemies of the constitution." He condemned these deeds by walking out.

The press of the country and the radio broadcasted news of this action.

By this act, the Communist candidate brought before the American people point VII of the Communist election program.

That plank demands: "Full Rights for the Negro People."

It further demands that: "Segregation and discrimination against Negroes must be declared a crime."

Through its fighting Negro candidate for Vice-President, James W. Ford, by its program which demands full rights for the Negro people, and by the action of its Presidential candidate, the Communist Party shows that it is the only political party in the van of the great fight for Negro rights.

Political - 1936

Elections

Communists

Ford Assails Wall Street Rule, Calls for Liberty League Defeat In Radio Talk to Southern People

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 17.—Assailing Wall Street domination of the South and striking out against a group of reactionaries led by Major Darte, who had tried to bar him from speaking over the radio, James W. Ford, Negro vice-presidential candidate of the Communist Party, delivered a scorching thirty-minute address over station WRVA here Aug. 13.

Ford's speech was regarded as a partial victory of workers, progressives and liberals here who conducted a spirited fight against Major Darte, whose red-baiting campaign had succeeded in barring the Negro Communist leader from the John Marshall High School auditorium.

Returns Sept. 20

Donald Burke, Communist candidate for the United States Senate from Virginia, who introduced Ford over the radio, announced that Ford would return to Richmond Sept. 20, and that court action had been started to force the use of the school. Burke asked "All lovers of democracy to join in the fight for free speech in Virginia."

Station WRVA is the most powerful in Virginia, covering an area of 619,000 people.

The full text of Ford's speech follows:

Text of Speech

The South suffers the humiliation of domination by Wall Street. All that is un-American in the South and in the country as a whole can be traced to the power and influence of the bankers and industrialists of Wall Street. There can come no progress in the South until this power is broken. The Hearst-Liberty League-Republican reactionaries represent the power of Wall Street. The fully developed program of Hearst, Landon and the Liberty Leaguers is directed toward destroying civil rights and liberties and the perpetuation of industrial slavery through company unionism.

Their program is directed toward cutting wages, raising prices, smashing legitimate trade unions, squeezing the poor and tenant farmers out of agriculture, cutting relief, wiping out social and labor legislation, balancing the budget at the expense of the poor and cutting down the taxes on the very rich people. They intend to wage war against my people, the Negro people. We Communists say that reaction can be checked in this country, and that our democratic rights can be preserved.

Democracy or Fascism

It is this approach that determines the platform and policy of the Communist Party in the 1936 elections. This is why our platform declares that democracy or fascism, progress or reaction, is the central issue in the present elections.

Let us review the record of those who are directly concerned with maintaining reaction in the country. Governor Landon, the Presidential candidate of the Republican Party, in his acceptance speech openly declared for the destruction of legitimate labor organizations in this country and the enslavement of labor in notorious company unions. Landon has played the role of a strike-breaker. Only last year, on May 8, 1935, when members of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union were on strike against the miserable conditions existing in their industry, Governor Landon fought against them and called the state troops at the request of the mine owners.

Opposed Social Laws

Landon upholds the action of the United States Supreme Court in invalidating social and labor legislation and in his own State when the Supreme Court of the State killed the minimum wage law for women and children, Landon never made one protest and has never made a move to secure reenactment of a similar law. In the State of Kansas Landon has refused to enforce the law requiring payment of union wages on public works. He opposed the labor provisions of the NRA, and only accepted that part of it that raised the price of oil in which he is personally interested as an oil operator.

JAMES W. FORD

Landon was secretary to former Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas when the notorious Industrial Court Law was put over, which all American labor denounced. This same Allen is one of the chief supporters of Landon and boasts that fascism in Italy is similar to the Industrial Court Law which outlawed strikes and enforced compulsory arbitration in industrial disputes.

Landon Called Strikebreaker

Landon is a strike-breaker after Hearst's own heart. The man picked for Vice-President is Frank Knox, a Chicago publisher, who got his start in the newspaper business as a lackey of William Randolph Hearst, of whom Charles A. Beard, the noted historian said, "no decent American would touch him with a ten foot pole."

If these men are elected, labor will face the deliberate, planned opposition of the government, and there will be enforced a tyranny in this country like that of Hitler in Germany or Mussolini in Italy. Every factory, mill or mine will become a slave pen, where the rule will be long hours of toil at starvation wages. Every school room will be turned into a barrack where the teachers, under oaths of loyalty, under the Hearst-Liberty League combination, will train the minds of children with the poison of fascism.

Communist Call

In this campaign the Communist Party sounds the alarm and issues a call to action against this threat to our democratic rights. From the day that the Hearst press began its drive to dictate policy and nominees for the Republican Party, the Communist Party has urged all labor elements, all of the toiling farmers, all impoverished middle class people and the Negro people to unite their forces to combat reaction and fight to preserve and extend the democratic rights in this country.

We appealed especially to the Socialist Party for unity of action, but without results. Norman Thomas and his closest associates tried to explain their refusal to join in united action against the fascist threat by denying that there is such a threat, in face of the mountain of evidence branding the Hearst-Liberty League combination as a fascist assault upon everything the Americans have fought for since the first battle in the war for Independence where a Negro, Crispus Attucks, was the first man to lay down his life.

Pressure on Roosevelt

While condemning Landon and his party as a chief enemy of the toiling masses the Communist Party points out that it is not possible to rely upon Roosevelt and the Democratic Party as a barrier against fascism. Roosevelt constantly retreats before the pressure of the Liberty League. And it is only the existence in the Democratic Party of certain labor elements and the pressure from outside, of those moving towards the formation of a Farmer-Labor Party, a real People's Party, that impels Roosevelt toward challenging some of the worst abuses of the Liberty League people.

The secretly formed party of Lemke, Gerald K. Smith and Father Coughlin is not the new Party for which the people are looking, it is also the creature of Hearst, Landon and the Liberty League. Its program is essentially that of the Republican platform. It was the Rev. Smith who participated in the notorious "Grass Roots Convention" last Spring called by Governor Talmadge of Georgia, who set up the first concentration camp of textile workers, in the South. To support these people is to play into the hands of reaction which is using the Lemke Party to try to side-track masses of farmers and workers moving toward a genuine people's party, a Farmer-Labor Party.

Communist Platform

The program of the Communist Party calls for putting America back to work, providing jobs and a living wage to all; providing unemployment insurance, old age pensions and social security for all; the saving of the young generation, by furnishing opportunity, education and work, for the youth of America; we demand that the farmers be freed from debts, unbearable tax burdens and foreclosures, and the guarantee of the land to those who till the soil; we demand that the rich and not the poor shall bear the burden of taxation; we fight to defend and extend democratic rights and civil liberties, and to curb the power of the Supreme Court; we demand full rights for the most oppressed of our population, the Negro people, with heavy penalties against mob rule, floggings, kidnapings, and lynchings. Negroes must have full equal rights to jobs, equal pay for equal work, the full right to organize, vote, serve on juries, and hold public office; we demand a curb on war under the slogan of "keep America out of war" by keeping war out of the world."

This program is of special interest to the toilers of the South, white and black, but especially to the Negro people, my people, who are the most exploited of the toiling population and who are denied the right to live as human beings. There can be no freedom nor prosperity for the toilers of the South unless this progressive policy is adopted toward the Negro people.

Wall Street Rule

We say that the domination of Wall Street in the South aggravates the position of the white toiling population through the maintenance of semi-feudal and serf-relations. It is these hangovers from slavery that enabled Wall Street to establish the vicious system of wage differentials in the South.

Those shackles which prevent the full economic development of the South, those restrictions on civil liberties, those denials of equal rights for the Negro people can only be smashed, if white and black toilers unite, if in the South and North, East and West, the American people rally to defeat the threat of reaction and fascism and in the South, smash once and for all the remnants of slavery and serfdom. This is the only way freedom and prosperity can be won for the South.

The American people have shown in many ways that they will fight against reaction. Their hatred of a fascist dictatorship is the reason why the reactionaries have adopted in their program the word liberty and constitutionalism. That is why it is necessary for the people to make a genuine fight for freedom and liberty. By fighting to maintain and extend our democratic rights and to achieve justice and equal rights for the Negro people, we organize and strengthen the people against reaction. They learn those deeper lesons which will eventually prepare them for that necessary reorganization of our social life, which can only be achieved by taking the road to Socialism.

20th Century Americanism

We Communists maintain that the American people can and will be won for Socialism. In waging this fight against reaction the American people are but carrying on their glorious traditions, which are the most hallowed heritage of the people. Reactionaries of all shades attack Socialism as revolutionary, but since when is revolution un-American? Our country was born and preserved in revolutionary struggle. Our people met their problems and solved them in a revolutionary way. Today a far greater crisis confronts the American people. We Communists are confident that they will meet it and solve it in the same spirit the American people solved the crisis of 1776, and preserved the unity of this Union in 1861. We Communists are proud that we can truly say that Communism is the Americanism of the Twentieth Century!

For my people, the Negro people, a united Negro People's Front is the only means of fighting against reaction and for national liberation. The colored people must unite. We must unite our forces with the progressive forces of our country in the movement to build the Farmer-Labor Party, the people's movement against Liberty-League-Republican reaction. We are not an inferior people. It is true that reactionary forces, the same forces that try to destroy all liberties, keep us in an inferior position. But we shall fight to preserve human rights and liberties. These are the things we have always stood for.

The struggle today is not only to free the Negro masses, but to free the toiling masses generally, black and white, native and foreign born, men, women and children, from the menace of fascism.

Forward to the defeat of the forces of reaction of this country! Forward to the building of a Farmer-Labor Party, for a better and more secure life in the present and for a future of peace, freedom, happiness and prosperity for all.

HIGHLIGHTS ON RADIO ADDRESS

NEW YORK.—The following highlights were taken from the radio speech of James W. Ford, Communist candidate for vice president:

"The Republican party has done nothing for the Negro. It has shut its eyes to the violations of the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments to the constitution.

"Up North the colored population is segregated and discriminated against in every field of human activity. The most elementary right of citizenship—the right to vote—is systematically denied us through fraud and violence.

"The Supreme Court, which has nullified all progressive legislation in the alleged name of the constitution, has never uttered a word about the complete nullifictation of the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments.

"The Communist Party has always had as one of its fundamental aims the real emancipation of the colored people.

Rev. W. M. A. Johnson of Conroe college preached at Mt. Olive Sunday. He presented the degree of Doctor of Divinity to Rev. A. W. Branch, pastor of Mt. Olive, during the evening services.

Haywood on Chicago Ballot For South Side

Negro Leader Wins Fight Against Democratic Local Machine

10-10-36

(Special to the Daily Worker)

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 9. — Harry Haywood, prominent Negro Communist candidate for Congress on the South Side will be on the ballot in the November elections.

Attempts of the Kelly-Nash Democratic machine to void his nominating petitions failed as the decision of the Election Board to accept the signatures. The Communist Party showed that objections to the petitions by William Flandry, a police department engineer and a Democratic precinct captain, were not justified.

Flandry, who admitted on cross-examination that he didn't even know what color paper the petitions were printed on, is believed to be a representative for Democratic higher-ups who feared to risk their names in such an affair. He said he had seen one page of the petition and found a forged name. On that basis he assumed that the rest were also forgeries.

Haywood is running in the first congressional district against Congressman Arthur H. Mitchell of the Democratic machine and Oscar DePriest, former Republican representative. The Communist Party expects him to roll up a large vote in this predominantly Negro section.

Communists Prevented Violence in Durham

Negro Leaders of American Legion Spurned Efforts of Reactionaries and Thugs to Join in Attack on Ford's Meeting

By Harry M. Wicks

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 26.—This whole section of the state of North Carolina, with the big industrial centers, Durham and Raleigh, seethed with the threat of impending clashes for days before James W. Ford, Negro leader and Communist candidate for vice-president, spoke here at the Court House last night.

More than 700 crowded the court house and overflowed into the corridors to listen to the Communist candidate. Approximately 500 were Negroes, the balance white workers, students from Duke University and Chapel Hill, splendid type of young white men who, with the young workers, will play a great role in advancing along the road of progress in the South.

FORD GUARDED

For more than a week reactionary elements had tried to whip up a mob spirit in an effort to prevent the Communist rally. Rabid editorials, calling for mob violence were carried in some of the local press. The mayor of Durham was bitterly opposed to the meeting. White leaders of the American Legion tried to induce Negro members to join them in an attempt to occupy the Court House and continue in session until after the hour of the Communist candidate's scheduled speech. But the Negro American Legion leaders refused to become parties to such an act.

Ford arrived about noon Sunday, on a train that was hours behind schedule, and was met by a group of Communists and sympathizers, who surrounded him and escorted him to the radio station where he delivered an address.

THUGS IN HOTEL

When the group left the radio broadcasting station, the hotel corridor through which they passed was littered with scowling thugs. But the heavy guard was obviously too formidable for them to tackle so they milled about and followed the Ford party to the outside, standing at a distance while automobiles sped up to the door and quietly loaded the group and proceeded to another hotel.

Every precaution was taken to guard the Court House and the route over which the candidate travelled to the meeting. A half hour before the time to start the meeting the Court House was filled.

Twenty minutes before Ford entered the building to speak, a white person strode into the place and in a loud voice demanded of the audience: "Every man who calls himself a white man or a Southerner walk out of here!" One small white man, casting shifty rat-like glances at the would-be provocateur, started out.

"I'm glad there's one white man here," said the other, as they both departed, amid the laughter of the rest of the audience. Police and newspaper men professed not to know the intruder.

GUARD KEEPS ORDER

A group of ruffians gathered around the door leading to the platform and talked and guffawed in a boistrous manner, trying to whip up sentiment to attack the speakers, but a part of the guard moved to the door and soon quieted them.

When reports came of the breaking up of the Tampa meeting the thug elements were momentarily heartened but their efforts to again start trouble ended in failure as sympathizers moved among elements they tried to approach and disrupted every attempt at organized action.

TRIBUTE TO SOUTH

In the course of his speech Comrade Ford stressed the fact that such un-American actions are not confined to the South. "They are not to be regarded as sectional; as witness Terre Haute in the North and Tampa in the South. Anyone who condemns the South as a hopelessly backward part of the country forgets the splendid progressive traditions of many great Southern leaders and nothing could be more harmful than to imagine that the vast majority of the people of the South will not respond to the need for uniting their forces to combat reaction no matter from what source it comes."

After the meeting a banquet in honor of the vice-presidential candidate was held at the Biltmore Hotel. Then an automobile caravan sped to Raleigh where the candidate boarded the train for New York.

PRESS COMMENTS

Local press comment was very favorable after the meeting; long editorials emphasizing the "peaceful" meeting at Durham as contrasted with the Tampa disorders.

The Raleigh News and Observer, the leading paper of this section stressed the great historical significance of Ford's visit to the city of Durham, declaring:

"Ford is the first Negro candidate for public office to speak in the Durham County courthouse and probably the first Negro candidate to appear before an audience of whites and Negroes in this state since Carpetbagger days."

Long news stories and editorials of a similar nature appeared in the entire press—even in some of the papers that were most rabid before the meeting.

Paul Crouch, Communist candidate for governor of the state, who spoke at the meeting declared "This is the most successful and important meeting we have ever held in the Carolinas and it unquestionably marks a definite turning point and will tremendously encourage the forces of progress in the South. Which means it will strengthen the movement throughout the country."

General

Political – 1936
Elections

RACE MEN GAIN 16 SEATS IN LEGISLATURE IN DEMO. SWEEP

CHICAGO, Nov. 13. — (ANP) — On the basis of incomplete returns, sixteen Negroes seem to have been elected to the legislatures of eight states, the Associated Negro Press survey discloses. Eleven were Democrats and five were Republicans.

Pennsylvania leads the parade with five elected from Philadelphia to the State General Assembly. Victors were the Rev. Marshall Shepard, of Democratic convention fame whose opening prayer caused Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina and his cohorts to take a walk; Dr. Edwin F. Thompson Samuel D. Holmes, John H. Brigerman, and William Allmond. Rev Shepard was re-elected.

Hobson R. Reynolds, Republican incumbent, was defeated by Brigerman and Richard A. Cooper, also up for re-election in the Republican ticket, lost to Holmes. Brigerman and Cooper were reelected from normally Republican wards which went overwhelmingly Democratic. All of the five successful candidates are Democrats.

Four Republicans, all incumbents, were apparently re-elected in Chicago to the Illinois Assembly. They are Charles Jenkins, Richard Harewood, Ernest Greene, and Colonel William Warfield. Of the quartet, there was doubt about the status of Warfield pending a final check-up to take place this week.

Two Harlem Democrats were re-elected with little opposition. Assemblyman William T. Andrews was chosen for the third term over his Republican opponent, John Moore, by 24,141 to 6,121 and Robert Justice was named for the second term over Miss Jan Bolin, Republican by 17,585 to 4,496.

In West Virginia, Fleming Jones was elected on the Democratic ticket from McDowell county to the House of Delegates. He will be the only Negro in the state legislature.

The Rev. M. A. Talley, prominent Indianapolis minister, was elected to the Indiana house of representatives. He will succeed Attorney Richardson, who had served one term in the state legislature. Rev. Talley is a Democrat. Augustus Hawkins, Democrat incumbent, was returned by Los Angeles voters to the California state legislature. He defeated the veteran Republican former assemblyman, Fred Roberts, by a substantial majority.

William Towers, assistant city attorney of Kansas City, Kan., a Republican, was elected to the state legislature although his district went two to one for Roosevelt. He received two-thirds of the Negro vote in his district, predominantly colored, and a good per centage of the white vote. Representative Tower will succed Dr. William Blount, who had served four terms in the Kansas legislature and did not seek renomination in the primaries.

On the basis of early returns, Charles C. Diggs of Detroit, a Democrat, won out over A. C. Toodle by two to one in the third state senatorial district of Michigan. Charles Roxborough, Republican standard-bearer and former member of the state legislature, was defeated by Congressman Sadowski, a Polish Democrat, in the first congressional district.

Virginia saw three Negroes running for the state general assembly. Alexander Wright of Norfolk, a Communist, and Addis Gayle of Newport News, also a Communist, received only a small vote. Josephus Simpson of Virginia, a Peoples party candidate whose name was left off the ballot because he had not paid his poll tax in time, received a scattering write-in vote.

Cleveland's Chester Gillespie, president of his city's branch of the NAACP, lost in the Democratic landslide although he led the Republican representatives ticket. However, Harry Davis won a place on the county charter commission.

Chances for a representative from Lake County, Indiana, to the state legislature were wiped out in the Democratic landsilde. Atty. James E. Wright, Gary Republican, was snowed under leaving his district without Negro representation. He sought the place formerly filled by Dr. Robert Stanton, Democrat, who was defeated in the primaries.

MITCHELL WINS

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(ANP)—In the face of the Democratic landslide which saw Roosevelt and the state Democratic ticket swept into office along with Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, the two Negro wards of Chicago remained within the Republican fold by a narrow margin.

Final returns showed the second ward for Landon by a small majority with the count being Landon 21,218 and Roosevelt 19,471. In the third ward Roosevelt won by a small majority, the count being 17,744 to 17,642 for Landon. The combined vote gave Landon ty, 38,861 to 37,215 for Roosevelt.

Although the Republican presidential candidate was victorious, Oscar DePriest, running for congress on the same ticket, was defeated for the second time by Arthur Mitchell, the final vote being 25,330 to 28,162 for DePriest. The first congressional district, which both men were fighting to represent, comprises the second and third wards plus the first and sections of the fourth and eleventh, the latter three white. This part of the congressional district went overwhelmingly for Roosevelt and Mitchell, thus accounting for the winner's victory margin of over 7,000.

Both candidates carried on bitter and intensive battles. Unlike 1934, when DePriest did not think so much of the Mitchell opposition, the former congressman this year fought his hardest and developed a strong organization aimed to carry him through while the Democratic incumbent worked just as vigorously for his own re-election.

Just before the campaign ended, there were rumors of a coalition between Roosevelt workers and DePriest forces in which supporters of DePriest would vote for Roosevelt in exchange for Democratic ballots on behalf of DePriest. This rumor had it that Mitchell was to be sacrificed, but such a deal failed to materialize.

One of the peculiarities of the campaign lay in the public conception of DePriest. When elected in 1928, he did not possess a great share of popularity and public opinion considered him somewhat arrogant and captious. But, strangely enough, since losing in 1934 he has increased by leaps and bounds in public favor and the November 3rd election actually found him at the height of his popularity on the Southside and the nation at large.

Two other candidates, running on the Republican ticket, were engulfed in the Democratic landslide. William Haynes, prominent attorney seeking an associate judgeship, polled only 456,015 votes to stand eleventh on the slate for his party, with the twelve Democratic candidates making a clean sweep of the judicial election. Alva Bates, running for sanitary district trustee, polled 520,112 votes and lost as did his two Republican companions while the Democrats made a clean sweep of the three positions.

The racial angle was injected in the campaign during its closing stages when letters, reputedly written by the Democratic Horner-for-governor forces, went to white voters throughout the city calling attention to the color of Haynes and Bates and asking Caucasians if they wanted to see "Negroes put in high office." In view of the defeat of their white Republican fellow-candidates, it is not believed these letters influenced the results.

TWO MAGISTRATES ELECTED

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 13.—(ANP)—Approximately 3,000 Negroes voted in Durham and 3,600 in Raleigh at the Nov. 3rd election which saw the election here of two colored magistrates, Frederick K. Watkins and Felix Moore, Democrats. Most of the state's Negro vote was for Roosevelt.

FORD SPEAKS AT CHICAGO U.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13. — (ANP) — Prediction of a Farm-Labor party as odds-on favorite to come close to electing the President of the United States in 1941 was made here Tuesday by James W. Ford, Communist nominee for vice president, in an address at the University of Chicago.

Speaking before three hundred students, Candidate Ford conceded the re-election of President Roosevelt and swung immediately into the task of considering, "What Next For America?"

COMMUNISTS SHOW GAINS

CHICAGO, Nov. 13. — (ANP) — One of the surprises of the recent national election—apart from the almost complete loss of identity of the Grand Old Party—was the remarkable gain, nationally, made by the Communist party, in both voting strength and the interest aroused throughout the country. Better organization methods, timeliness of their appeal to the workers of the nation and their unrequivocal stand against Jim Crowism, bigotry and color prejudice are some of the reasons advanced by political observers for the showing made by the Communists at tre recent election.

James W. Ford, of Alabama, Communist candidate for vice president, was one of the principal speakers at the Chicago Stadium Monday, calling upon his people and their friends to halt the march of American reaction. He also told the audience of 18,000 to form an All-People's party in Chicago and to join with the Farm-Labor movement to fight Jim Crowism.

Among the other speakers at the big meeting were William Z. Foster, chairman of the Communist party, Mother Ella Reeve Bloor, 74-year-old labor leader and Harry Haywood, Communist candidate for Congressman from the First District Chicago.

CALIFORNIANS FOR F. D. R.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—(ANP)—A majority of the Negro voters in Southern California, joined the Democratic army and voted for Roosevelt, a final check-up revealed.

DETROIT JOINS PARADE

DETROIT, Nov. 13.—(ANP)—The Motor City, in common with the rest of America, found a clear majority of its colored citizens voting for Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the straight Democratic ticket, a survey ticket, a survey of the balloting discloses.

HARLEMITES SWAMP LANDON

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(ANP)—Governor Landon of Kansas was virtually snowed under in the Negro assembly districts, 19 and 21, by the pre-Roosevelt vote. In the 19th the voting was 19,342 to 4,411 and in the 21st the count was 23,015 to 6,245.

GARY SERIOUS POLITICS

GARY, Ind., Nov. 13.—(ANP)—This city's 20,000 Negroes take their politics just about as seriously as anybody anywhere in the world.

To support the Republican cause, a newspaper named the Sunday Herald was circulated weekly attacking the Democratic administration which retained its power here in last Tuesday's election. All went well until the final pre-election issue.

At that time, just as the papers were to be taken from the printing plant for distribution, approximately 110 armed vigilantes, said by the Republicans to be in the employ of the Democrats appeared to prevent their being removed. The Republicans made a countermove by hiring an armored car to take the edition from the shop and trail the boys who distributed them.

Since then Thurston Smith, editor of the Sunday Herald, has been temporarily "vacationing" in nearby Chicago.

FATHER DIVINE ORDERS NO VOTE

Neither Major Party Accepts Cult Leader's Righteous Government Platform So Flock Is Told To Remain Away From Polls.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(ANP)—Because not one of the major political parties came to him and accepted his righteous government platform, Father Divine ordered his "flock", the majority of them registered voters, to remain away from the polls election day.

Most of the members of the "Peace Mission Movement," which the cult leader calls his organization, had signified their intention to vote for Roosevelt and the straight Democratic ticket. So strong has his movement become that representatives from all the parties sought his support, offering inducements for radio addresses and public addresses which were refused. It was estimated by some of his lieutenants that there were 50,000 followers in Harlem alone.

Not only did he order his New York "angels" not to vote but he sent similar commands to all other "heavens" located throughout the nation. To stop disobedient followers, a commission of more than 100 of his most faithful members was dispatched to all Harlem polling places to stand guard and repeat his order. However, some are understood to have voted anyway.

MEMPHIS GOES DEMOCRATIC

MEMPHIS, Nov. 13. — (ANP) — Results of the Nov. 3 election show a decided switch of colored voters to Democratic ranks. Out of 127 precincts in Memphis and Shelby county, Landon got only 2,059 votes out of 62,000 cast. In 1932 Hoover received 5,000. This indicated a 33 1-3 deflection in the normal Republican vote which was chiefly colored.

RELIEF ISSUE IN PHILLY

PHILADEDPHIA, Nov. 13.—(ANP)—Fear by colored citizens that the relief and WPA jobs would stop if Roosevelt were defeated is believed to account for the unprecedented switch of Negro voters to the Democratic party in the recent election.

CLEVELAND GOES DEMOCRATIC

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13.—(ANP)—For the first time in history, Cleveland's colored wards were listed on the Democratic side of the ledger in the Nov. 3 election. Republicans saw this deflection as a blow to future domination by that party in city politics while Democratic leaders viewed it with enthusiastic encouragement. Colored leaders celebrated the victory of Roosevelt with parades and music.

OMAHA 8 TO 5 FOR F. D. R.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 13.—(ANP)—Omaha went eight to five for Roosevelt in the colored precincts, a final check-up on the election shows.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM ALL NEGRO PRECINCTS IN INDIANA

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 13.—(ANP)—Democratic headquarters declared at the Tuesday election that the party of Roosevelt carried every Negro precinct in the state by a 75 per cent. ratio.

NORTH CAROLINA BRINGS OUT VOTE

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 13.—(ANP)—An increase in the roster of Negroes qualified to vote in this state from 22,000 to more than 60,000 after a diligent campaign and the establishment of branch units in a dozen or more cities was reported by the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Committee on Negro Affairs at its meeting held Sunday at the Aracade hotel.

The committee, representing a cross section of the Negro citizenry of North Carolina, is dedicated to the improvement of the educational, economic, social-civic, and political welfare of Negroes in the state and is under the splendid leadership of Attorney Hosea V. Price of Winston-Salem.

At the meeting, representatives of units at Wilson, Wake Forest, Greensboro, Durham, Winston-Salem, Louisburg, and Raleigh were present and reported upon stimulated civic interest in their respective communities. An especially interesting report was made by Mrs. Irma Neal Henry, secretary of the Winston-Salem unit, showing that by the efforts of the committee, the library facilities at Winston-Salem have been materially bettered with the promise of further improvements and that other advances have been made in the interest of Negro welfare. The chairman reported upon a very interesting development in Harnett county where Negroes were refused the right to register, but where by persistent effort and the help of state election authorities and the United States District Attorney's office, a hundred or more qualified persons were registered.

The body ratified selection of sub-committee chairmen as follows: Education, Mrs. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, Sedalia; Social and Civic Welfare, Rev. George D. Fisher, Raleigh; Politics, Attorney Hosea V. Price, Winston-Salem; Economics, W. D. Hill, Durham Co-Chairman of the above respective Committees were elected as follows: W. E. Farrison, Bennette college, Greensboro; Mrs. E. W Grant, Winston-Salem; Attorney F J. Carnage, Raleigh; R. N. Harris Durham. These sub-committees are to be composed of representatives from each congressional district in the state are to deal with matters pertaining to their particular sphere.

The committee pledged itself individually and collectively to the establishment fo units in every major city in North Carolina and to warrant the whole-hearted support of every Negro in the state.

OMAHA RACE MAN WINS SEAT

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 13.—(ANP)—John Adams, Jr., candidate for the Unicameral State Legislative at the recent election, won over his white opponent by 608 votes. Adams received 7229 votes, and Thompson, his opponent, received 6621 votes. The mail vote had not been tabulated at that time, but it did not make very much material difference in the count. The district in which Adams ran consisted of 35 precincts, the white votes outnumbered the Negro votes 2 to 1. At the last election, Senator George Norris was instrumental in getting legislation through known as a Unicameral Legislature, which abolished one house or better known as a one house legislator. This, of course, necessitated enlarging the districts, and placing approximately two white votes to every colored. Unprecedented in Nebraska politics. Adams was supported by the white voters in his district as well as his colored friends, and every labor organization and community organization endorsed his candidacy and worked for his election.

This is the second time Attorney Adams has been elected to the State legislature. He is a young attorney here, having finished law at the State University at Lincoln, Nebr., and is the son of John Adams, Sr., a minister and prominent attorney.

R. C. Price, who circulated petitions to file as a member of the board of education, did not file due to the death of his wife, but says he "expects to get in the running for a member of the board of education two years hence."

Mulberry, Fla., Press
November 26, 1936

Negro Editor Says They Won Election

"Tell it not in Gath, publish it not on the streets of Askelon—."

Five million, six hundred thousand Negroes voted New Deal in the general election of 1936, according to a published statement by Robert L. Vann, editor of the Pittsburgh Courier (Negro).

While it is true that the New Deal won the election by a majority of some 10,000,000 popular votes, and 5,600,000 votes on the other side would have rendered a majority of some 3,000,000 for the Kansas Sunflower, Editor Vann evidently fails to remember that Presidents are still chosen by electoral votes.

Editor Vann says Negroes voted the balance of power in the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri, Indiana, New York, New Jersey and Maryland.

These states have a total electoral vote of 218, which added to the 8 electoral votes Landon did capture, would still give him but 226. It takes at least 266 to win a majority of the electoral college.

"As a matter of fact," says Editor Vann, "the colored people went Democratic in 1932. About a million of them voted the Democratic ticket and many others were convinced but lacked the courage to cast the ballot.

"Of course it was known by the Republicans that a large number of colored people voted the Democratic ticket in 1932, but the Republicans thought it was a temporary insanity and that all of them would flock back to the G. O. P. in 1936. In this they were mistaken.

"As I had occasion to say in an interview before election, the Negroes who left the Republican party in 1932 would not only not go back in 1936 but would stand firm in their belief that Mr. Roosevelt and his administration had done more for the group in four years than the Republicans did during the 24 years immediately preceding the Roosevelt administration.

"There are some important features which contributed to a stabilized Negro Democratic vote. First of all, Mr. Roosevelt himself contributed largely to the stabilization of the colored vote. He has been humanitarian; he has been sympathetic with the plight of the colored citizens in this country; he has, as far as he could, indicated to his subordinates that the colored citizens should share in just proportion all of the benefits financed by the federal government. And even in instances where his subordinates refused flatly to follow his suggestion with respect to a fair distribution of federal benefits, the colored voters gave Mr. Roosevelt full credit for his efforts and supported him notwithstanding the actions of many of his belligerent subordinates."

Political - 1936
Elections.

General.

THE VITAL ISSUE

The vital issue affecting Negro Americans in the impending national elections does not revolve around relief, direct or work relief. It does not revolve around a comparison between the number of Negroes receiving political appointments under the present administration and under the preceding Republican administrations. Not even does it revolve around the Negro beneficiaries of CCC, the one sensible combination in this maze of "New Deal" alphabetical confusion.

The vital issue in this campaign, insofar as Negro Americans are concerned, has nothing to do with the preposterous and baseless claim being advanced by devotees and beneficiaries of this spendthrift New Deal administration that the election of President Roosevelt in 1932 and his wasteful and foolish administration of the government since, averted a revolution and that these events saved millions of Americans from starvation and need.

Such ravings are either resultant from diseased and delusionary imaginations, the results of vicious, costly and unprecedented governmental propaganda or they are the stock in trade of self-seeking politicians who are attempting to sell America short and to entrench themselves in power through devices born of witchcraft, cajolery, deceit, buffoonery and hypocrisy. Every honest person in the United States of America knows that neither revolution nor starvation threatened this nation in 1932 any more than they do in 1936.

To Abraham Lincoln we are indebted for this truism: "This nation cannot endure half free and half slave". Neither can this racial group, styled Negro Americans, endure one sixth measurably free and five-sixths slaves. The vital issue, therefore affecting Negro Americans in this campaign revolves around this fact. Five-sixths of them still live in the Solid South "the strong-hold of organized indecency called the Democratic Party" They are disfranchised, jim crowed, segregated, terrorized, lynched, circumscribed, ostracized, exploited and enslaved. They are the hapless and futureless victims of a remorseless and heartless feudal system outdistancing the Feudal system of the Middle Ages. In plain language, they are peons made and kept by the laws, customs and practices of the "New Deal" Solid South.

Negro "New Dealers" and "Good Neighbors" North and South, should realize that this infamy of persecution and oppression, based solely on race and color, which is rooted in the "New Deal" Solid South has been and is contagious. It is spreading all over America. Not even Boston Commons, where Crispus Attucks died, enjoys immunity from its insidious infection.

That mongrel thing called the "New Deal" with its divergent and hostile element, its cross purposes, its clandestine wooing of the Negro voters in pivotal States of the North, East and middle West while at the same time condoning, aiding and abetting the oppression and persecution of them in the wretched Southland cannot stem the tide of prejudice and color discriminations which threaten to enguli both the one-sixth measurably free Negroes above the Mason and Dixon Line and the five-sixths enslaved Negroes in the New Deal Southland.

The 'New Deal' alias the Democratic Party, must coo, court, placate and do business with the Feudal Solid South, without whose electoral votes, it would be nationally impotent.

It is beyond the issue to introduce into this debate which is the better or worse, Southern New Dealism or Southern Republicanism. Both are unspeakably and irremediably bad.

The vital issue in this campaign, as it affects Negro Americans, is the freeing of a race which cannot endure one-sixth measurably free and five-sixths despised and outraged peons. In the light of this fact Black Cabinets, swivel chair and white collar jobs for Negroes, doles and boondoggling through with Negroes getting only the crumbs, ABC, XYZ, et ecetera fades into paltry significance.

There is only one decision for Negro Americans to make if they will meet this vital issue courageously, intelligently and unselfishly. They must cast their votes to drive the Garners, the Robinsons, the Pat Harrisons and others of their ilk from positions of power and influence in the administration of the federal government, until the barbarous South recants and becomes civilized.

It is a vain hope, bordering on insanity or imbecility for Negro Americans to even cast a wistful look at the promised land of freedom and equal rights and opportunities if they embrace and give comfort and support to a political party which owes its national existence to lynchers, oppressors, nullifiers, disfranchisers, slave masters, exploiters, jim crowers and seducers.

In serious contemplation of the vital issue in this campaign, as it affects Negro Americans, and with an absolute understanding of the ficticious idealism and humanitarian professions of this hypocritical New Deal and of its "Good Neighbor" affiliate, we quote a Biblical quotation which might bring Negro "New Dealers" and "Good Neighbors" to their senses:

> "David purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the portion of the king's meat nor with the wine which he drunk".

The Election

Franklin D. Roosevelt, having been the voters' choice Tuesday, is every American's now. The will of the majority becomes the law for the minority in America. It cannot be, it must not be otherwise. Obeying the law and supporting the executives of the government are a duty. At the same time it is equally a duty for every citizen to do his own thinking. By doing both, he fits himself to share in a government where the will of the people is the highest law.

The New Deal has been given a most sweeping popular mandate. Whether it be the ideal its friends said it was, or proves the failure its opponents expect, President Roosevelt is justified in carrying out the people's will. If the new measures attempted work out, well and good. If not, the nation will survive to try again. It is by trial and error that human progress has been made.

Negroes have a part in the victor's triumph. Democratic leadership among them was highly competent, the most competent any party has ever had among them. In other years there have been great names with party titles but this year the men chosen to lead the fight for the New Deal among Negroes were good planners and hard workers. They made the winning of the Negro vote a task to be done, not a parade of honor to any glory of their own. Robert L. Vann, advisor to Chairman Farley, Dr. C. B. Powell, publicity chairman, and Bishop R. R. Wright, of the Good Neighbor League, were thinkers and pluggers.

Now that the election is won, it is up to these astute campaign managers, and especially to Vann, to press Negroes' right to share in whatever the administration does of advantage to anybody. That will not be easy. The precedent is not made. The past record of Negro leaders in both parties has been largely one of self-seeking, with loud clamor for a fair deal the cloak for a back-door, hat-in-hand plea for an appointment.

We look for a more manly position to be taken by the men who have led Mr. Roosevelt's fight. Dr. Powell and Bishop Wright have no need to be job hunters. Robert L. Vann actually gave up his highly honorable post in Washington under the present administration to have more time for his business. Vann is both by temperament and position within the Democratic party the natural leader in any effort to plead the Negroes' cause before the administration.

After all it is results after election, not hurrah on election night which counts. If this New Deal extended in any direction the President wishes brings advantages to Negroes, that will be its best bid for their future support. At the same time, its fairness demonstrated by giving Negroes advantages wherever it has them for anybody else, will lay the foundations of a Negro leadership which is intelligent enough to see that only by raising the whole group can individuals in it reach the heights attained by other ambitious men.

The people have spoken. There must be some advantage which the Negro can gain for himself in the situation. "Let down your bucket where you are."

NINE STATES HAVE NEGRO LEGISLATORS

Pennsylvania Has Five Illinois Four; New York Two

Nine states in the union elected one or more Negroes to their legislatures on November 3, a survey of election returns over the country shows.

One was elected to the state senate, Charles Diggs of Michigan. One, John Adams Jr., of Nebraska will sit in the nation's only unicameral legislature. The others were elected to the lower house of the legislature.

One Negro, Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago, was elected to the United States house of representatives. Charles Roxborough of Detroit, Republican candidate for congress, was defeated by his Democratic adversary, George Sadowski, white.

In Cleveland, Chester Gillespie, Republican, lost his race for the assembly but Harry Davis won election as a member of the county charter commission there.

State Legislators

States and their legislators are:

NEW YORK: William T. Andrews and Robert Justice, Democrats, reelected to state assembly.

PENNSYLVANIA:— Five Negroes, the Rev. Marshall I. Shepard, Dr. Edwin F. Thompson, Samuel D. Holmes, William Allmond and John H. Briggerman, all Philadelphia Democrats, elected to the state legislature.

MICHIGAN:—Charles Diggs of Detroit, Democrat, elected to state senate.

INDIANA:—The Rev. Marshall A. Talley of Indianapolis, Democrat, elected to state legislature.

NEBRASKA:—John Adams Jr., Omaha Republican, elected to unicameral legislature at Lincoln.

KANSAS:—Attorney William H. Towers, Republican, Kansas City, Kas., elected to state legislature at Topeka.

NEW JERSEY:—Guy R. Moorehead, Democrat elected to state legislature.

WEST VIRGINIA: — Fleming Jones, Democrat, elected to house of delegates.

ILLINOIS: — Charles Jenkins, Richard Harewood, Ernest Green and William Warfield, all Republicans, elected to state legislature.

NEGROES SHOW CONFIDENCE IN NEW DEAL

Nominally Strong G. O. P. Colored Wards Go to The President

TWO WIN IN N. Y.

NEW YORK.—(By Wire.) — Two Negro Democratic assemblymen were reelected over their Republican opponents in Tuesday's election.

William T. Andrews was elected for a third term, winning over John W. Moore by 24,141 to 6,121 votes.

Robert Justice polled 17,585 votes to 4,496 received by his opponent, Miss Jane Bolin.

Votes for Communists and Socialists were light. Even Angelo Herndon, running for the assembly, receiving few votes.

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt was reelected president of the United States Tuesday in the greatest landslide ever recorded in the history of American politics.

Only Maine and Vermont remained in the Republican column.

President Roosevelt won 46 of the 48 states.

The Negro vote played an important part in the election. Returns in cities like Kansas City, Mo., Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cincinnati, and others show that the Negro vote runs high for the President.

In Chicago, in Negro wards which heretofore have been Republican, the New Deal won out.

In Kansas City, Negro percincts, went overwhelmingly Democratic while the city voted 3 to 1 for Roosevelt.

Attorney Silas E. Garner, who headed the Negro division of the Missouri State Republican campaign, conceded the defeat of Attorney Espy and Walthal Moore, former member of the state legislature, for representatives to the state legistlature in Jefferson City. City, Mo.

Mrs. Luella Shobe, Republican committeewoman of the sixth ward, St. Louis, told the CALL that she regretted the landslide in Missouri. Mrs. Shobe's ward was the only ward in St. Louis to remain Republican in 1932 in face of the Democratic landslide.

Congressman Mitchell of Chicago was returned to the United States house of representatives defeated Oscar DePriest, former congressman and Republican.

Negroes in Chicago were incensed at the Republicans placing Perry Howard, national committeeman of Mississippi; Roscoe Conklin Simmons, nephew of Booker T. Washington's third wife, and Robert R. Church in charge of the Negro western setup. The young Negro voters refused to follow them.

It was pointed out that Republican campaign literature gotten out by the Negro setup sold the members of the setup to the public and failed to extol the virtues of Governor Alf M. Landon while the Democratic booklet told of the expenditures of monies which directly benefited the Negroes.

In Chicago and elsewhere the Negro Republican bemoans the fact such a man as Governor Landon was sacrificed on the altar of selfishness.

Political — 1936
Elections.

General.

Election Briefs

TWO MAGISTRATES ELECTED

DURHAM, N. C., (ANP)—Approximately 3,000 Negroes voted in Durham and 3,000 in Raleigh at the November 3 election which saw the election here of two colored magistrates, Frederick K. Watkins and Felix Moore, Democrats. Most of the state's Negro vote was for Roosevelt.

COMMUNISTS SHOW BIG GAIN OVER 1932 ELECTION

CHICAGO, (ANP)—One of the surprises of the recent national election—apart from the almost complete loss of identity of the Grand Old Party—was the remarkable gain, nationally, made by the Communist Party, in both voting strength and the interest aroused throughout the country. Better organization methods, timeliness of their appeal to the workers of the nation and their unequivocal stand against Jim Crowism, bigotry, and color prejudice are some of the reasons advanced by political observers for the showing made by the Communists at the recent election. For the second time, a Negro, James W. Ford of Alabama, was the Communist candidate for Vice-President.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIANS VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

LOS ANGELES, (ANP)—A majority of the Negro voters in Southern California joined the Democratic army and voted for Roosevelt, a final checkup revealed.

DETROIT JOINS DEMOCRATIC PARADE

DETROIT, (ANP)—The Motor City, in common with the rest of America, found a clear majority of its colored citizens voting for Franklin D. Roosevelt and the straight Democratic ticket, a survey of the balloting discloses.

HARLEMITES SNOW LANDON UNDER

NEW YORK, (ANP)—Governor Landon of Kansas was virtually snowed under in the Negro assembly districts, 19 and 21, by the pre-Roosevelt vote. In the 19th the 19th the voting was 19,342 to 4,411 and in the 21st the count was 23,01 to 6,245.

OMAHA 8 TO 5 FOR ROOSEVELT

OMAHA, Neb. —(ANP)— Omaha went eight to five for Roosevelt in the colored precincts, a final checkup on the election shows.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM EVERY NEGRO PRECINCT IN INDIANA

INDIANAPOLIS —(ANP)— Democratic headquarters declared after the Tuesday election that the party of Roosevelt carried every Negro precinct in the state by a 75 per cent ratio.

ATHLETES CASTS FIRST VOTES

DOWNINGTOWN, Pa.—At least four employees and students at Downingtown Industrial School went to the East Brandywine poll and voted last week for the first time. They were Misses Alice M. Clark and Margaret Singletary of the faculty and Samuel H. Chance and R. LeRoy Scranton of the student body.

DEMOCRATS ELECT HAWKINS

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—(ANP)—In step with the nation, Negroes of Los Angeles county went to the polls and re-elected Augustus Hawkins, incumbent as Assemblyman from the 62nd district.

For the second consecutive time Hawkins has decisively defeated Frederick M. Roberts, Republican, who at the time of his defeated in 1932 was dean of the Assembly by virtue of long service.

SPINGARN, NAACP HEAD, CONGRATULATES PRESIDENT

NEW YORK — A telegram of congratulation to President F. D. Roosevelt on his victory in the November 3 election pointing out the opportunity that he has "to remove the darkest blot on American justice and democracy," was sent by J. E. Spingarn, president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The text of the telegram follows: "I congratulate you with all my heart on your extraordinary victory. I congratulate you because America has approved of the fine things you have done. I congratulate you because you have freed the Negro from his traditional partisan shackles. And I congratulate you most of all on the wonderful opportunity that awaits you to remove the darkest blot on American justice and democracy."

Mr. Spingarn, breaking a rule of 20 years standing, declared for the re-election of Mr. Roosevelt and made several speeches for him under auspices of the Good Neighbor League. Mr. Spingarn and the President are neighbors in Dutchess County, New York, the President's home being in Hyde Park and Mr. Spingarn's residence at Amenia.

PORTO RICO VITES AGAINST

SAN JUAN, P. R. —(ANP)— Porto Rico's pro-United States Coalition Party Nov. 3 overwhelmed the pro-independence Liberals, winning six of the seven districts of the island in the most orderly election in history.

Coalition leaders in Porto Rico, whose inhabitants are predominantly Negro, said the election was a decisive answer as to whether or not the island wanted independence, pointing out their campaign had been waged on a straight demand that the voters reject independence as ruinous economically and politically.

NEW YORKERS HEAR MORTON BRANDED "DUMB JACKASS"

NEW YORK—(ANP)—Three thousand persons crowding the St. Nicholas Arena here Friday night, heard speakers soundly denounce the New York City civil service commissioners and applauded vociferously when Ferdinand Q. Morton, the colored member of this powerful body, was branded a "dumb jackass."

Assembled to protest the actions of the commission in reference to examinations for workers now employed as investigators by the Home Relief Bureau, the meeting was an orderly affair and lacking the usual fireworks attributed such occasions.

Already, 25,000 persons not employed by the bureau at present, are said to have filed their applications, with which the sum of two dollars must be remitted, for this examination.

SOUTHERN CANDIDACIES

Another interesting angle was the increased number of candidacies filed by Negroes in southern states, with success in some instances. Three Negroes aspired to Congress in Virginia and one in Mississippi.

In North Carolina a total of three Negroes were elected or re-elected as justices of the peace in Raleigh and Durham.

In local contests and nationally the Communist Party showed a gain in number of total votes cast. The party put forward Negro candidates in dozen of states, and had James W. Ford as its Vice-Presidential candidate for the second time.

LARGE-CITY TREND

In the cities with large Negro populations—New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Washington, Baltimore, Cleveland, among others—the colored vote was impressively pronounced for Roosevelt and the Democratic Party generally.

More money was spent by both major parties this year than in a long time, in an open and avowed effort to win the Negro vote.

The Republicans' colored division spent twice as much as the Democrats' colored division. Half of the Republican Negro vote funds went into newspaper advertising, but only one fourth of the Democratic dollars went that way.

The announced totals for the colored campaign division were: Republicans, $90,283.84; Democrats, $46,028.43.

In Memphis, Tennessee, where Bob Church (Republican) is an almost legendary political power, the Negro vote swung away from the G. O. P. by over one-third as compared to the 1932 campaign.

Among the "firsts" was New Jersey's first Negro Democratic member of the State Assembly, youthful Guy R. Moorehead of Newark, who supplanted the G. O. P. incmubnt, Dr. Frank Hargrave.

ISSUES KEPT ALIVE

Certain issues especially affecting Negroes were not allowed to cool in the post-election letdown. Among these was lynching. Telegrams of congratulations to the President took occasion to say he was in position, as the N. A. A. C. P. pointed out, "to take decisive action against lynching and racial discrimination."

Some of these messages pointed out that the southern domination of the party was a thing of the past, with 46 of the 48 states going Democratic.

Increased interest in things political brought to successful climaxes numerous efforts, notably in North Carolina, to remove extra-legal or questionable subterfuges to prevent the right of voting to Negroes. In one case in North Carolina the state elections board head ordered a stubborn local registrar to allow Negroes to vote.

ERASE VOTING BANS

And finally, the nation was reminded in several sources, that the heavy Negro vote for the Democratic Party did not mean the race was the "property" of the Democrats as it so long had virtually been of the Republicans.

It was emphasized that the Negro's swing away from the G. O. P. was because it had failed to advance the race's cause, and that now no party can claim the Negro's support any longer than it advances his progress as a full-fledged citizen.

General

Political - 1936 Elections.

Negro Delegates From Florida Shut Out—Louisiana Loses

P. W. HOWARD WINS

Mississippi Committee Member Ranking Man 3 on Credentials

CLEVELAND, June 11.—The question of Negro representation and influence loomed today as an important factor in the Republican National Convention, which appeared dominated by the forces and supporters of Governor Alfred Landon of Kansas.

Earlier in the week the credentials committee sessions were marked by repeated bitter fights over seatings of Southern delegations, and Negroes objecting to lily-white party control in the black belt, were victorious in a number of instances.

On the credentials committee were three Negroes—Benjamin Davis, Sr., of Atlanta; Dr. Leroy Bundy of Cleveland, and Col. Roscoe Conklin Simmons of Chicago. Although they were in the minority, their influence, plus that of delegates who promised to thrash the color question out on the floor, had a salutary effect in deciding some of the contests. The Florida delegation, headed by J. Leonard Lewis, Jacksonville lawyer, lost its fight to be seated, although Mr. Lewis insisted that the whites held their convention in a hotel from which Negroes were excluded, and failed to notify Negroes of the meeting.

Perry W. Howard of Mississippi, the only Negro national committeeman, won out easily over a white-dominated group. He and his committeewoman, Mrs. Mary C. Booze, were ranking Negro delegates.

Mr. Howard also was chosen to second the nomination of Governor Landon.

Davis of Atlanta won out over a group headed by Capt. A. T. Walden, who was associated with a white man.

In the Louisiana delegation only two Negroes were included.

South Carolina's black and tan group, headed by Joseph (Tieless Joe) Tolbert, white, was seated only after a bitter fight. The group was excluded at the previous convention.

Negro delegates approximate fifty with Oscar DePriest of Illinois and Dr. Wm. McKinley Thomas of Kansas amoing those serving as delegates at large. Senator Arthur Capper gave his seat to Dr. Thomas. Bishop James W. Brown of the A. M. E. Zion Church is the delegate from the Twenty-first district of New York, which comprises most of Harlem.

The convention had numerous proposals for planks on Negroes, representing the view of such groups as federation of Negro Republicans, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and the Queens, N. Y., Committee for Equal Opportunities. All demanded complete equality for Negroes, assailed certain aspects of the New Deal, and proposed economic as well as political features.

Two states of the nation, after the state conventions had been convinced of the wisdom of giving full representation to a minority group, have selected Negroes as delegates-at-large. Oscar DePriest of Illinois, former member of Congress and a candidate for re-election to that office, was honored by being made delegate-at-large, following the voluntary withdrawal of C. Wayland Brooks, the party's candidate for governor of Illinois. Dr. J. R. A. Crossland of Missouri is the other colored man elected to represent his state at the convention, and which shows the determination of G. O. P. big-wigs to recognize those political centers where Negroes really vote and where their votes are counted.

The first of the convention skirmishes revolving about the seating of delegates came to a head last Thursday, when the Republican National Committee, called upon for a decision in the contested seating of the Negro and white Florida delegations, cast its ruling in favor of the lily-whites. An uproar among the Negro contingent followed and the delegation, headed by J. Leonard Lewis in an insistent demand of rights, announced it would carry the contest to the credentials committee on the floor of the convention.

The delegates ousted by the national committee's ruling are James H. Lewis, D. D. Powell, Leon M. Giles, David H. Dwight, Miss Bertha M. White and Capers Bradham. Twelve other Florida delegates, alternate and district, were also hit by the committee's decision. Observers here declared that if some consideration were not given the ousted delegates from Florida, their Northern brothers will take official notice of the fact at the November election and register their protest at the polls. Florida Republican lily-white policy is well known.

Mississippi Delegation Seated.

The Mississippi delegation, headed by Perry W. Howard, won recognition by the national committee when the delegation was seated as a whole. National Committeeman Howard, whose delegation also included some white members, presented his claim to recognition before the national committee in a stirring address, in which he told of his state's unwavering support of Republican policies, and the seating of his delegation followed.

APPOINTMENT OF JUDGES AND CLERKS

Much is being said in the public press concerning frauds and stuffing of the ballot boxes in St. Louis elections. The newspapers are filled with stories concerning the fight being made over the appointment of judges and clerks. It has even come to the point where it is said that the future control of the City of St. Louis, politically, will be determined by which ever faction gains the control of the appointment of the judges and clerks.

The matter, having come to this point, we, and no doubt, the public, would like to know just a bit more about the meaning of gaining control of the judges and clerks. Is this an admission that the judges and clerks are going to do the stealing themselves or, through some dishonest manipulation of the ballots, their friends or sponsors will be the winners in the election? Has the election come to the point where candidates need no longer depend upon the voters for their success or failure, but look to the man or set of men who have the control of the ballot boxes,—the judges and clerks? There seems to be something rotten about this matter which should be exposed. It's bad enough to have brought to light that many of the registered voters cannot be found but it's worse, to have the public believe that the few election judges and clerks govern the future of the City, politically, by some trickery or manipulation of the ballots that are cast.

THE NEGRO AND THE CAMPAIGNS

THE MASSES OF THE NEGRO racial group are being lured into the bonds of slavery with as much certainty as was true when traders landed on African shores and attracted natives into bondage with a red flag. Any thoughtful person is certain to reach such an alarming conclusion as a visit is made to any one of the headquarters of candidates for national office in the approaching presidential election, and the unfortunate phase of the situation is, so-called Negro leaders, suffering from the ravages of economic chaos and exhibiting a greed for money, are engaged in the diabolical conduct of selling the race's rights for a measly mess of pottage.

It is little wonder that leaders of the major political partis, as they arrange platforms, manifest a very ready inclination to avoid any reference to the Negro. Such is due to their thorough knowledge of the fact that any dissatisfaction within the ranks of the race will be appeased as the

The situation has reached the point as concerns the attitude of the white managers about campaign headquarters, narrow funnels of the slush fund keg are turned into the coffers of selfstyled orators, headquarters' attachees and the like.

Word has been passed down the campaign lines through out the entire nation, that the largest campaign funds will be at the disposal of the two major political parties that has been true in the conduct of any previous campaigns. As a result, "orators" who arrogate to themselves the honor of being spell-binders of the most effective sort, brazenly flash letters from campaign directors in which "$100 a week and expenses," is the most important phase of such letters referred to, and the recipients, for the most part, would mount the stump, in view of such offers, and endeavor to convince those with sufficient curiosity to sit for any length of time, under their pharisaical rantings, that the devil himself is a saint of the most pious sort.

toward the gardless of that the "you know our funds are low, but—," and when he is interrupted for the purpose of having relayed to him the assurance that "funds" did not prompt the visit, the expression of surprise across his face is equal to that which evidently arose when Jonah suddenly found himself tossed from the belly of the sea fish.

If there was ever a time when definite promises should be exacted from candidates for office, especially presidential candidates, as concerns their attitudes favoring fairness and justice for all men, regardless as to race or class, in administering the affairs of our nation, it is when the race between party candidates indicates such closeness. Money for a few

Political - 1936
Elections.

General

Negro Delegates From Florida Shut Out—Louisiana Loses

P. W. HOWARD WINS

Mississippi Committee Member Ranking Man 23 on Credentials

CLEVELAND, June 11.—The question of Negro representation and influence loomed today as an important factor in the Republican National Convention, which appeared dominated by the forces and supporters of Governor Alfred Landon of Kansas.

Earlier in the week the credentials committee sessions were marked by repeated bitter fights over seatings of Southern delegations, and Negroes objecting to lily-white party control in the black belt, were victorious in a number of instances.

On the credentials committee were three Negroes, Benjamin Davis, Sr., of Atlanta; Dr. Leroy Bundy of Cleveland, and Col. Roscoe Conklin Simmons of Chicago. Although they were in the minority, their influence, plus that of delegates who promised to thrash the color question out on the floor, had a salutary effect in deciding some of the contests. The Florida delegation, headed by J. Leonard Lewis, Jacksonville lawyer, lost its fight to be seated, although Mr. Lewis insisted that the whites held their convention in a hotel from which Negroes were excluded, and failed to notify Negroes of the meeting.

Perry W. Howard of Mississippi, the only Negro national committeeman, won out easily over a white-dominated group. He and his committeewoman, Mrs. Mary C. Booze, were ranking Negro delegates.

Mr. Howard also was chosen to second the nomination of Governor Landon.

Davis of Atlanta won out over a group headed by Capt. A. T. Walden, who was associated with a white man, in the Louisiana delegation only two Negroes were included.

South Carolina's black and tan group, headed by Joseph (Tieless Joe) Tolbert, white, was seated only after a bitter fight. The group was excluded at the previous convention.

Negro delegates approximate fifty with Oscar DePriest of Illinois and Dr. Wm. McKinley Thomas of Kansas among those serving as delegates by the national committee when the convention had numerous proposals for planks on Negroes, representing the New Deal and the National Association of Colored Republicans, the Queens, N. Y., Committee for Equal Opportunities. All demanded complete equality for Negroes, certain aspects of the New Deal and proposed economic as well as political features.

Two states of the nation, after the state conventions had been convinced of the wisdom of giving full representation to a minority group, have selected Negroes as delegates-at-large. Oscar DePriest of Illinois, former member of Congress and a candidate for re-election to that office was honored by being made delegate-at-large, following the voluntary withdrawal of C. Wayland Brooks, the party's candidate for governor of Illinois. Dr. J. R. A. Crossland of Missouri is the other colored man elected to represent his state at the convention, and which shows the determination of G. O. P. big-wigs to recognize those political centers where Negroes really vote and where their votes are counted.

The first of the convention skirmishes revolving about the seating of delegates came to a head last Thursday, when the Republican National Committee, called upon for a decision in the contested seating of the Negro and white Florida delegations, cast its ruling in favor of the lily-whites. An uproar among the Negro contingent followed and the delegation, headed by J. Leonard Lewis in an insistent demand of rights, announced it would carry the contest to the credentials committee on the floor of the convention.

The delegates ousted by the national committee's ruling are James H. Lewis, D. D. Powell, Leon M. Giles, David H. Dwight, Miss Bertha M. White and Capers Bradham. Twelve other Florida delegates, alternate and district, were also hit by the committee's decision. Observers here declared that if some consideration were not given the ousted delegates from Florida, their Northern brothers will take official notice of the fact at the November election and register their protest at the polls. Florida Republican lily-white policy is well known.

Mississippi Delegation Seated.

The Mississippi delegation, headed by Perry W. Howard, won recognition at large. Senator Arthur Capper gave delegation was seated as a whole. Na- his seat to Dr. Thomas. Bishop James tional Committeeman Howard, whose W. Brown of the A. M. E. Zion delegation also included some white Church is the delegate from the members, presented his claim to rec- Twenty-first district of New York, ognition before the national committee in a stirring address, in which he which comprises most of Harlem. told of his state's unwavering support of Republican policies, and the seating followed.

APPOINTMENT OF JUDGES AND CLERKS

Much is being said in the public press concerning frauds of the ballot boxes in St. Louis elections. The are filled with stories concerning the fight between the appointment of judges and clerks. It has to the point where it is said that the future control of the City of St. Louis, politically, will be determined by which faction gains the control of the appointment of judges and clerks.

The matter, having come to this point, we, and no doubt, would like to know just a bit more about the meaning control of the judges and clerks. Is this an advantage or, through some dishonest manipulation of their friends or sponsors will be the winners in the election? Has the election come to the point where can- no longer depend upon the voters for their success, but look to the man or set of men who have of the ballot boxes,—the judges and clerks? There something rotten about this matter which should It's bad enough to have brought to light that registered voters cannot be found but it's have the public believe that the few election clerks govern the future of the City, politically or manipulation of the ballots that are

THE MASSES OF THE NEGRO AND THE CAMPAIGNS

The situation has reached the point as concerns the attitude of the white managers about campaign headquarters, toward the colored brother who happens to visit there, regardless as to what prompts the visit of the colored brother, that the very first utterance of the director of so and so is: "you know our funds are low, but—," and when he is interrupted for the purpose of having relayed to him the assurance that "funds" did not prompt the visit, the expression of surprise across his face is equal to that which evidently arose when Jonah suddenly found himself tossed from the belly of the sea fish.

If there was ever a time when definite promises should be exacted from candidates for office, especially presidential candidates, as concerns their attitudes favoring fairness and justice for all men, regardless as to race or class, in administering the affairs of our nation, it is when the race between party candidates indicates such closeness. Money for a few

THE NEGRO AND THE CAMPAIGNS

THE MASSES OF THE NEGRO radial group are being lured into the bonds of slavery with as much certainty as was true when traders landed on African shores and attracted visit is made to any one of the headquarters of candidates for national office in the approaching presidential election, and the unfortunate phase of the situation is, so-called Negro leaders, suffering from the ravages of economic chaos and exhibiting a greed for money, are engaged in the dia- bolical conduct of selling the race's rights for a measly mess of pottage.

It is little wonder that leaders of the major political parties arrange platforms, manifest a very ready inclination to avoid any reference to the Negro. Such is due to partis, as they are well knowledge of the fact that any dissatisfaction within the ranks of the race will be appeased as the narrow funnels of the slush fund keg are turned into the coffers of selfstyled orators, headquarters' attachees and the like.

Word has been passed down the campaign lines throughout the entire nation, that the largest campaign funds will be at the disposal of the two major political parties that has been true in the conduct of any previous campaigns. As a result, "orators" who arrogate to themselves the honor of being spell-binders of the most effective sort, brazenly flash letters from campaign directors in which "$100 a week and expenses," is the most important phase of such letters referred to, and the recipients, for the most part, would mount the stump, in view of such offers, and endeavor to convince those with sufficient curiosity to sit for any length of time under their pharisaical rantings, that the devil himself is a saint of the most pious sort.

hungry politician and office holders will not suffice to cause twelve millions of Negroes to overlook refusal of the president announcing that he will favor a law that will provide strict punishment at the hands of the Federal government for the terrible lynch evil.

A position at Washington that will give an office to some Negro will not in the least stop the rightful demand of the mass group of Negroes for equal justice in all activities throughout our nation.

There is a cure for the situation. Negroes in all parts of the entire nation should direct an avalanche of telegrams and other communications into the office of campaign leaders with words disapproving sending out the professional "campaign spell-binders," but demanding definite statements from the candidates that they pledge themselves now—right at this time, before election day comes around, that if and when elected, among their very first acts will be the espousal of legislation particularly designed to prevent the Negro's return to economic slavery and its attendant hardships.

New Deal vs. Old Stuff

From Greensboro Daily News

Civilized, certainly civil, southerners will peruse with pleasure the continuing success of new deal candidates, when it shall appear that the old stuff employed against them is the Negro issue in South Carolina, Mississippi and Georgia.

In South Carolina the ex-blue blood mayor calls on Senator Byrnes to say whether he favors Negro domination or not, if not, to explain to the South Carolina voters why he did not rise in a huff and leave the Democratic national convention when a Negro preacher offered the morning prayer. In Mississippi Pat Harrison was challenged to explain his indifference to the threatened African adumbration of the Nordic. And in Georgia the turgid Talmadge prods "Junior" as he calls Richard B. Russell, Jr., United States senator, to make Russell's politics as pediculous and irrelevant as Talmadge has made his.

Senators Byrnes, Pat Harrison and Russell ignored the challenges and two of the three have won enormous victories over the pinheads. There are so many vulnerable spots in the new deal thesis that we wonder why any assailant should have picked its kindness to the immemorially disadvantaged Negro as the point to be charged. If the Roosevelt new deal has tended to liberalize all of us a little on the race question we shall be the better for it.

Georgia has not spoken. There is to be a primary a fortnight hence. "Junior" has been apparently in distress with the big Atlanta papers divided in their support and Talmadge pounding away at him in the old Cracker style. But if "nigger" doesn't move more effectively in Georgia than it did in Mississippi and South Carolina, Junior, the Wonder Boy, may breeze back to Washington as easily over the talkative Talmadge as over Crisp who was somebody.

One Negro in Congress; Several Elected to Seats In State Legislatures

The Rev. Marshall L. Shepard, Who Offered Prayer At National Democratic Convention, Wins Pa. Post; GOP Candidate Wins in Kansas City

By J. A. G. LuVALLE

Reports coming into the nation's capital from various states bring evidence of the value of the Negro splitting his vote and getting results.

The one position of national importance is that of the Congressman from Illinois. The present incumbent, Arthur W. Mitchell, rode the crest of the Roosevelt wave in Chicago Tuesday, swamping his Republican opponent, ex-Congressman Oscar DePriest, by a vote of 37,419 to 29,361. He will start his second term with the Seventy-fifth Congress January 5, 1937.

Mitchell headed up the colored section for Roosevelt in the West, with headquarters in Chicago. He issued a statement during the campaign to the effect that President Roosevelt told him that he would be more liberal towards Negroes in his second term than he was in the first.

Mr. Mitchell named two colored boys as candidates for admittance to West Point. He has an appointee in the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

Shepard Wins

The man who prayed at the National Democratic Convention in Philadelphia, when Senator "Cotton" Ed Smith, of South Carolina, walked out, was a candidate to succeed himself in the Pennsylvania Legislature. He rolled up a large majority to be reseated in the state legislature.

The Rev. Mr. Shepard hailed the tremendous majority as a sign of political emancipation for the Negro in Pennsylvania.

In viewing his own campaign for re-election. he spoke of the fact that literature containing his picture was sent to white voters in his district in an effort to arouse race prejudices.

"The Negro districts gave me an overwhelming vote. Despite all the appeals to prejudice that were made to whites, there was little cutting, though two-thirds of my constituents are white.

"As a whole, the election marks the political emancipation of the Negro in Pennsylvania. It ends slavery to party labels. It will also get rid of certain types of Negro leadership, especially of the price tag type, not excluding the preachers. It proves the Negro vote is not at all times purchasable.

"There will be a new era of social and economic adjustment. The political integrity of the Negro has been proven to the Democratic Party. Now the recognition of the Negro as a factor must come."

Four other candidates were elected to the state legislature. John H. Brigerman, Democrat, defeated Hobson R. Reynolds, his GOP opponent. Samuel D. Holmes, Democratic leader of the ward, defeated Richard Cooper. This was one of the surprising upsets in Philadelphia. William Allmond, Democrat, defeated W. A. Upshur.

Dr. Edwin F. Thompson, a dentist, with Edward Braxton as his manager, running as a Democrat, defeated the veteran Republican, Clinton A. Sowers, almost two to one.

Two In New York

Reports from the big city of New York bring the news that two Negro Democrats were elected to the Empire State legislature from the nineteenth and twenty-first districts. In the nineteenth, Robert W. Justice, running for his second term, won over Miss Bolin, an attorney, with 17,585 to 4,496. In the twenty-first, William T. Andrews, running for his third term, was elected over John W. Moore by 24,141 votes to 6,121 for Moore. Angelo Herndon, of Atlanta fame, ran on the Communist ticket in the twenty-first district.

Kansas City, Kans.

William Towers, assistant city attorney, as a GOP candidate for the Kansas State Legislature, defeated T. C. Lysaught. This district is now represented by Dr. William M. Blount, serving his fourth term, and who did not seek re-election.

16 Win Seats as Lawmakers in Eight States

Pennsylvania Leads Parade with Five Democrats.

GOP RE-ELECTS 4 IN CHICAGO

W.Va. Democrat Sent to Legislature.

CHICAGO (ANP). — On the basis of incomplete returns, sixteen colored men seem to have been elected to the legislatures of eight States, an ANP survey discloses.

Eleven were Democrats and five were Republicans.

Pennsylvania leads the parade with five Democrats elected from Philadelphia to the State general assembly. Victors were the Rev. Marshall Shepard, Dr. Edwin F. Thompson, Samuel D. Holmes, John H. Brigerman, and William Allmond.

Four Republicans, all incumbents, were apparently re-elected in Chicago to the Illinois assembly. They are Charles Jenkins, Richard Harewood, Ernest Greene, and William Warfield. There was doubt about the status of Warfield pending a final check-up to take place this week.

Two Harlem Democrats were re-elected with little opposition. Assemblyman William T. Andrews was chosen for the third term over his Republican opponent, John Moore, by 24,141 to 6,121, and Robert Justice was named for the second term over Miss Jane Bolin, Republican, by 17,585 to 4,496.

In West Virginia, Fleming Jones was elected on the Democratic ticket from McDowell County to the House of Delegates. He will be the only colored man in the State legislature

The Rev. M. A. Talley, Indianapolis Democratic minister, was elected to the Indiana House of Representatives. He will succeed Attorney Richardson, who had served one term in the State legislature.

Roberts Loses in Calif.

Augustus Hawkins, Democratic incumbent, was returned by Los Angeles voters to the California State legislature. He defeated the veteran Republican former assemblyman, Fred Roberts, by a substantial majority.

William Towers, assistant city attorney of Kansas City, Kan., a Republican, was elected to the State legislature although his district went two to one for Roosevelt. He received two-thirds of the colored vote in his district, predominantly colored, and a good percentage of the white vote.

Towers will succeed Dr. William Blount, who had served four terms in the Kansas legislature and did not seek renomination in the primaries.

On the basis of early returns, Charles C. Diggs, Democrat of Detroit, won out over A. C. Toodle by two to one in the third State senatorial district of Michigan. Charles Roxborough, Republican standard bearer and former member of the State legislature, was defeated by Congressman Sadowski, a Polish Democrat, in the Frst Congressional district.

General.

Political - 1936
Elections.

VOTE DOES NOT MEAN RACE BELONGS TO DEMOCRATS, SAYS STATEMENT OF N. A. A. C. P.

Warns That Negroes Are Now Free Agents and May Switch to other Parties in 1938 and 1940 if Nothing Is Done for Race

---

New York, Nov. 6. - The heavy vote for President Roosevelt by colored people November 3 does not mean the race is now the property of the Democratic party, it was declared here today in a statement by the N.A.A.C.P.

Pointing out that the size of the vote frees the President of obligation to the South, Walter White, N.A.A.C.P. secretary, warns that something must be done about lynching, discrimination in the civil service, relief and employment, or else the Negro is likely to vote with some other party or group in 1938 and 1940. The text of the statement:

"Mr. Roosevelt's phenomenal victory should be soberly and intelligently considered by Negro Americans in all of its implications. Frankly, we of the N.A.A.C.P. would have been happier had the results been more close as the efforts for fair play of a minority group are always more effective when there is greater balance between political parties. This fact, however, is balanced by certain other realities. Perhaps the most significant of these is that Mr. Roosevelt's victory was so overwhelming that he is the first Democratic President in history who could have been elected had not a single vote been cast for him by the solid South. This circumstance should free Mr. Roosevelt and the enlightened wing of the Democratic party from control by the South of the Cotton Ed Smiths, the Bilbos and the Talmadges.. The abolition of the two-thirds rule by the Democratic convention, which, rule has permitted the South hitherto to exercise veto power on many presidential candidates, and the new mobility of the Negro vote with the attendant attention paid to it in pivotal states, can mean a new deal politically for the Negro.

"Negroes, however, must wisely and unselfishly utilize this new power and these new situations. They must let the Democratic party know that all elections will not be won by the overwhelming majority of 1936. They must let Democratic leaders know that the overwhelming Negro vote for Mr. Roosevelt is an enthusiasm for Roosevelt the individual and must not be interpreted as unequivocal approval of the Democratic party.

"They must also let Democratic leaders of the country and a whole know that the Negro is not now a chattel of the Democratic party, but that northern Democrats can no longer offer an excuse for any other party and that he can and will vote for other parties on such matters as the anti-lynching bill that they are helpless in 1938 or 1940 as overwhelmingly as he did for the President in the face of southern opposition. The South is less a unit 1936 if campaign promises are broken. They must let Democratic on the Negro issue now than it has ever been before and this leaders know that Negroes want something done about lynching, year's election has helped to strengthen the hands of those discrimination in jobs and relief and in the civil service. liberal forces in the South who want the Negro given a square deal.

"The President's overwhelming majority not only means that the anti-Negro South no longer dominates the Democratic party, but that northern Democrats can no longer offer an excuse in the face of southern opposition. The South is less a unit on the Negro issue now than it has ever been before and this year's election has helped to strengthen the hands of those liberal forces in the South who want the Negro given a square deal.

"We do not surrender the right of individual Negroes to be appointed to responsible posts but we are and must continue to be, much more deeply interested in legislation and in executive and other action affecting the welfare of the masses of Negroes rather than in jobs for individuals.

Political - 1936
Elections.

VOTE DOES NOT MEAN RACE
BELONGS TO DEMOCRATS, SAYS
STATEMENT OF N. A. A. C. P.

Warns That Negroes Are Now Free Agents and May Switch to other Parties in 1938 and 1940 if Nothing
Is Done for Race

New York, Nov. 6. - The heavy vote for President Roosevelt by colored people November 3 does not mean the race is now the property of the Democratic party, it was declared here today in a statement by the N.A.A.C.P. The text

"They must also let Democratic leaders of the country as a whole know that the Negro is not now a chattel of the Democratic or any other party and that he can and will vote for other parties in 1938 or 1940 as overwhelmingly as he did for the President in 1936 if campaign promises are broken. They must let Democratic leaders know that Negroes want something done about lynching, discrimination in jobs and relief and in the civil service.

"The President's overwhelming majority not only means that the anti-Negro South no longer dominates the Democratic party, but that northern Democrats can no longer offer an excuse on such matters as the anti-lynching bill that they are helpless in the face of southern opposition. The South is less a unit on the Negro issue now than it has ever been before and this year's election has helped to strengthen the hands of those liberal forces in the South who want the Negro given a square deal.

"We do not surrender the right of individual Negroes to be appointed to responsible posts but we are and must continue to be, much more deeply interested in legislation and in executive and other action affecting the welfare of the masses of Negroes rather than in jobs for individuals.

"Negroes, however, must wisely and unselfishly utilize this new power and these new situations. They must let the Democratic party know that all elections will not be won by the overwhelming majority of 1936. They must let Democratic leaders know that the overwhelming Negro vote for Mr. Roosevelt is an enthusiasm for Roosevelt the individual and must not be interpreted as unequivocal approval of the Democratic party.

"Finally, a significant development of this year's election is its complete and overwhelming repudiation by the South itself of the attempts of Talmadge in Georgia, the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution, and others, to use propaganda against the Negro for selfish political purposes."

Mitchell Leads

(By ANP.)
(FINALS)

Arthur W. Mitchell 35,330
Oscar DePriest 28,182

CHICAGO. – Riding the crest of the wave which swept President Franklin D. Roosevelt back into the White House, Arthur W. Mitchell, Democratic incumbent, was leading former Congressman Oscar DePriest in the race for the House of Representatives from the First Congressional District, late Wednesday.

The vote was 29,631 to 21,825, with 137 of the 168 precincts in. Mitchell's election is thus virtually assured.

A Mitchell victory was forecast as President Roosevelt, in the greatest sweep in the history of this country, carried 46 States. Landon carried only two States — Maine and Vermont — and while he led temporarily in New Hampshire this New England stronghold eventually flopped to the Democratic column.

President Roosevelt polled almost nineteen million votes to lead Landon by a majority of over seven million. The indicated electoral vote, on the basis of incomplete returns was 519 for Roosevelt to 12 for Landon.

Three Elected in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA. — The Rev. Marshall Shepard, staunch New Deal supporter and pastor of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church, defeated James Heavey, his white Republican opponent, by a vote of 47,186 to 29,681, in Tuesday's election, to win a second term in the State Legislature.

Hobson Reynolds, Republican incumbent, lost his seat to John H. Brigerman, Democrat, by 9,702 to 15,219. William Allmond (Dem.), local undertaker, also won a legislative seat by defeating William Upshur, Republican.

Diggs Wins, Roxborough Loses

DETROIT. — Charles Diggs, Democrat, defeated Aaron C. Toodle for the State Senate in the Third District as the results of Tuesday's ballotting.

Charles Roxborough, Republican, brother of John W. Roxborough, manager of Joe Louis, was trailing George Sadowski, white, Democrat, by 8,000 votes with one-third of the precincts reporting, in his second attempt to gain a seat in the U.S. Congress from the First Congressional District.

The third, fifth, seventh, ninth, eleventh and fourteenth, heavily populated with colored voters, went Democratic as the entire State turned to Roosevelt.

Andrews, Justice Win in N. Y.

NEW YORK. — William T. Andrews (D) defeated John W. Moore (R) for the New York State Assembly in the 21st District and Robert W. Justice (D) won over Miss Jane Bolin (R), running in the 19th District.

Both are incumbents whose victory was predicted to come with the huge Roosevelt landslide.

In Landon's Area

KANSAS CITY, Kansas. — Roosevelt ran two to one to lead Governor Landon in colored districts.

William Powers, attorney, assistant city counsellor, Republican candidate for State Legislature at Topeka, is leading Thomas C. Lysought, white, Democrat, 7,467 to 7,191.

The only colored man in the Kansas Legislature is Dr. William candidate for State Legislature at Topeka, is leading Thomas C. Blount, Republican, who has served four terms and who opposed Governor Landon's election.

Blount didn't seek re-election in the primaries.

Powers defeated three colored opponents and two white in the primaries.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The colored vote for Roosevelt was as high as 25 to 1 in some precincts of heavily-populated colored wards.

AN EDITORIAL . . .

'--And We Are Still Negroes'

By ROBERT L. VANN, Editor

The election is over. We fought hard for the party of our choice. Some of us fought for the Republicans; some of us fought for the Democrats. We fought day and night with pen and the spoken word. One of the parties had to lose, and it did lose; but we Negroes have not lost. We could not lose because, for the first time, we were in both parties taking our chances along with all other Americans. And let it be said that, as hard as we fought for our chosen party, we behaved well. This in itself speaks volumes for a people who have been slaves to one party for over a half century. We are waking up.

* * *

The election is over, and we are still Negroes. We are going to fight right on as though nothing had happened. Those of us who were with the victorious party must bear the responsibility of securing something for the Negroes of this country. This is the "curse of victory." Out of victory comes the next step,—the step admittedly for the victorious,—a step toward a better life for the black people in these United States. The victorious can not escape that grave responsibility. The party that won at the polls must face the plain duty of keeping faith with the people,—all the people.

To those who lost, let it be said that they, too, would have faced a responsibility had they won. The losers are the ones who make the winners look to their laurels. This nation must go forward with every citizen in line, or it will not go forward. The black man must so divide his vote that he will be in line regardless of what party wins at the polls. If we can not and do not come back to ourselves after the election has been decided, and fight for our common rights as a people, but for ourselves as selfish individuals, seeking nothing larger than filthy lucre and public applause.

* * *

After all, we come back to ourselves. We are our own best bet. We cannot afford to fall out with each other over any white man. White men are not going to fall out with each other over us. After the battle, they come back to each other for conference and counsel. We must come back to a common fireside for conference and counsel. The government still functions at Washington. Some of us must be able to touch that government as often as is necessary for the good of all our people. Of those who have been entrusted with responsibility, much is expected. Let us get close to each other in order that the greatest good may be secured for the greatest number.

The election is over,—but we are still Negroes. Let us come back to ourselves for conference and counsel. The battle for economic freedom is still our own. No one can fight it for us but ourselves.

Whether we were Republicans for a reason well thought out, or whether we were influenced by tradition, matters not. If we were Democrats because we had thought the whole thing through and reached our decision after due consideration for the best interests of the largest number of our people, matters nothing now. The election is over, and we must come back to ourselves. We must plan to continue the fight. We cannot plan well if we grieve too much over a lost con-

"Finally, a significant development of this year's election is its complete and overwhelming repudiation by the South itself of the attempts of Talmadge in Georgia, the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution, and others, to use propaganda against the Negro for selfish political purposes."

Mitchell Leads

(By ANP.)
(FINALS)

Arthur W. Mitchell 35,330
Oscar DePriest 28,182

CHICAGO. — Riding the crest of the wave which swept President Franklin D. Roosevelt back into the White House, Arthur W. Mitchell, Democratic incumbent, was leading former Congressman Oscar DePriest in the race for the House of Representatives from the First Congressional District, late Wednesday.

The vote was 29,631 to 21,825, with 137 of the 168 precincts in. Mitchell's election is thus virtually assured.

A Mitchell victory was forecast as President Roosevelt, in the greatest sweep in the history of this country, carried 46 States. Landon carried only two States — Maine and Vermont — and while he led temporarily in New Hampshire this New England stronghold eventually flopped to the Democratic column.

President Roosevelt polled almost nineteen million votes to lead Landon by a majority of over seven million. The indicated electoral vote, on the basis of incomplete returns was 519 for Roosevelt to 12 for Landon.

Three Elected in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA. — The Rev. Marshall Shepard, staunch New Deal supporter and pastor of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church, defeated James Heavey, his white Republican opponent, by a vote of 47,186 to 29,681, in Tuesday's election, to win a second term in the State Legislature.

Hobson Reynolds, Republican incumbent, lost his seat to John H. Brigerman, Democrat, by 9,702 to 15,219. William Allmond (Dem.), local undertaker, also won a legislative seat by defeating William Upshur, Republican.

Diggs Wins, Roxborough Loses

DETROIT. — Charles Diggs, Democrat, defeated Aaron C. Toodle for the State Senate in the Third District as the results of Tuesday's ballotting.

Charles Roxborough, Republican, brother of John W. Roxborough, manager of Joe Louis, was trailing George Sadowski, white, Democrat, by 8,000 votes with one-third of the precincts reporting, in his second attempt to gain a seat in the U.S. Congress from the First Congressional District.

The third, fifth, seventh, ninth, eleventh and fourteenth, heavily populated with colored voters, went Democratic as the entire State turned to Roosevelt.

Andrews, Justice Win in N. Y.

NEW YORK. — William T. Andrews (D) defeated John W. Moore (R) for the New York State Assembly in the 21st District and Robert W. Justice (D) won over Miss Jane Bolin (R), running in the 19th District.

Both are incumbents whose victory was predicted to come with the huge Roosevelt landslide.

In Landon's Area

KANSAS CITY, Kansas. — Roosevelt ran two to one to lead Governor Landon in colored districts.

William Powers, attorney, assistant city counsellor, Republican candidate for State Legislature at Topeka, is leading Thomas C. Lysought, white, Democrat, 7,467 to 7,191.

The only colored man in the Kansas Legislature is Dr. William candidate for State Legislature at Topeka, is leading Thomas C. Blount, Republican, who has served four terms and who opposed Governor Landon's election.

Blount didn't seek re-election in the primaries.

Powers defeated three colored opponents and two white in the primaries.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The colored vote for Roosevelt was as high as 25 to 1 in some precincts of heavily-populated colored wards.

AN EDITORIAL...

'--And We Are Still Negroes'

By ROBERT L. VANN, Editor

The election is over. We fought hard for the party of our choice. Some of us fought for the Republicans; some of us fought for the Democrats. We fought day and night with pen and the spoken word. One of the parties had to lose, and it did lose; but we Negroes have not lost. We could not lose because, for the first time, we were in both parties taking our chances along with all other Americans. And let it be said that, as hard as we fought for our chosen party, we behaved well. This in itself speaks volumes for a people who have been slaves to one party for over a half century. We are waking up.

* * *

The election is over, and we are still Negroes. We are going to fight right on as though nothing had happened. Those of us who were with the victorious party must bear the responsibility of securing something for the Negroes of this country. This is the "curse of victory." Out of victory comes the next step,—the step admittedly for the victorious,—a step toward a better life for the black people in these United States. The victorious can not escape that grave responsibility. The party that won at the polls must face the plain duty of keeping faith with the people,—all the people.

To those who lost, let it be said that they, too, would have faced a responsibility had they won. The losers are the ones who make the winners look to their laurels. This nation must go forward with every citizen in line, or it will not go forward. The black man must so divide his vote that the election has been decided, and fight for our common good, then our political differences during the past few weeks le will be in line regardless of what party wins at the polls. were purely selfish, and we were not fighting for ourselves as a people, but for ourselves as selfish individuals, seeking nothing larger than filthy lucre and public applause.

* * *

After all, we come back to ourselves. We are our own best bet. We cannot afford to fall out with each other over any white man. White men are not going to fall out with each other over us. After the battle, they come back to each other for conference and counsel. We must come back to a common fireside for conference and counsel. The government still functions at Washington. Some of us must be able to touch that government as often as is necessary for the good of all our people. Of those who have been entrusted with responsibility, much is expected. Let us get close to each other in order that the greatest good may be secured for the greatest number.

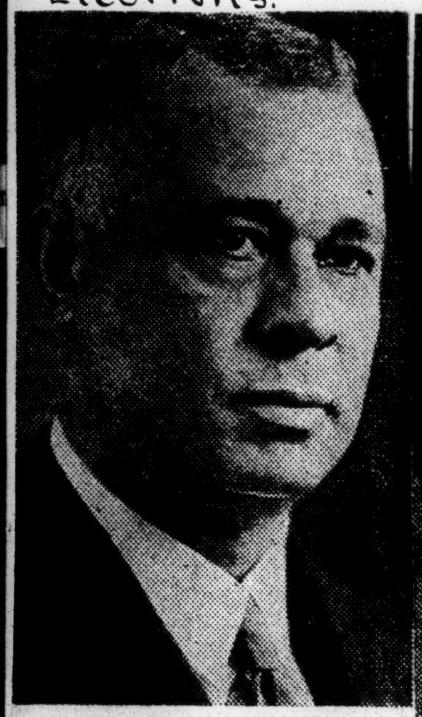
Whether we were Republicans for a reason well thought out, or whether we were influenced by tradition, matters not. If we were Democrats because we had thought the whole thing through and reached our decision after due consideration for the best interests of the largest number of our people, matters nothing now. The election is over, and we must come back to ourselves. We must plan to continue the fight. We cannot plan well if we grieve too much over a lost con-

If we can not and do not come back to ourselves after

The election is over,—but we are still Negroes. Let us come back to ourselves for conference and counsel. The battle for economic freedom is still our own. No one can fight it for us but ourselves.

Political—1936
Elections.

General



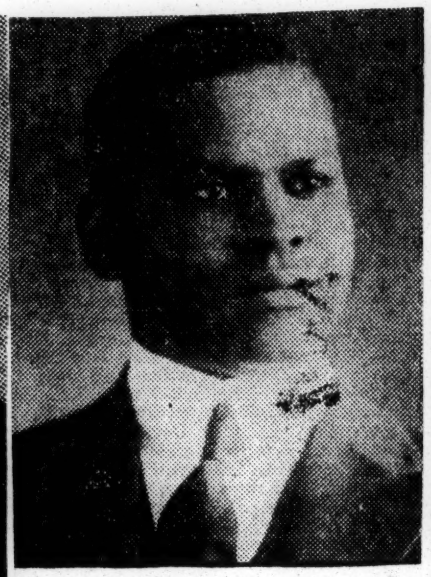
ARTHUR W. MITCHELL
Reelected to Congress

DR. EDWIN F. THOMPSON
Democrat, elected to Legislature in Pennsylvania

W. T. ANDREWS
Democratic New York Assemblyma

WILLIAM ALLMOND
Democrat, elected to Pennsylvania Legislature

HOMER S. BROWN
Reelected Democratic Member of Pennsylvania Legislature



REV. MARSHALL SHEPARD
Reelected Democratic Member of Pennsylvania Legislature

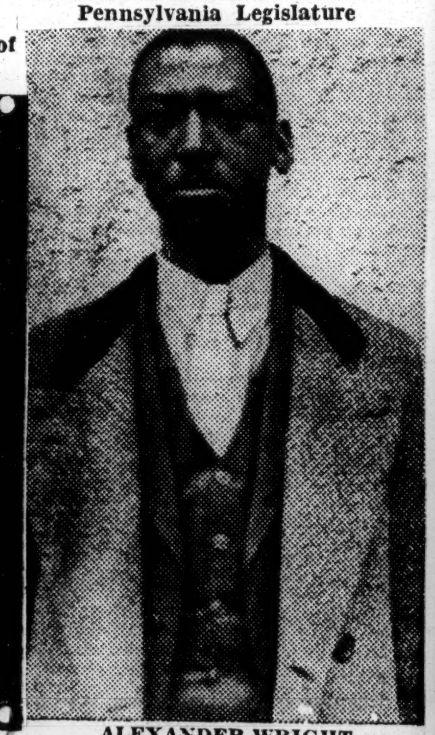
OSCAR DePRIEST
Republican, defeated in Congressional Race

C. K. GILLESPIE
Defeated G.O.P. Candidate for Ohio Legislature

FRED ROBERTS
Defeated G.O.P. Candidate for California Assembly

DR. F. S. HARGRAVE
Defeated G.O.P. Candidate for New Jersey Assembly

WILLIAM H. TOWERS
Republican, elected to Kansas Legislature



ALEXANDER WRIGHT
Defeated Communist Candidate for Congress from Virginia

More Negroes Elected To State Legislatures Since Post-Civil War Period

Negroes were elected to state legislatures since post-Civil War days.

Nineteen Negroes were elected to the nation's law making bodies, including one to the U. S. Congress, last week.

The congressman was Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago, who was successful over his Republican rival, ex-Congressman Oscar DePriest.

Pennsylvania elected six, all Democrats; Illinois five, including Congressman Mitchell and four Republicans to the Assembly; New York two, both Democrats; and the following states one each, all Democrats—West Virginia, Indiana, California, Kansas, New Jersey, and Michigan.

William E. King, only Negro member of the upper house of the Illinois Assembly, has a year to serve on his unexpired term.

Pennsylvania state general assembly victors were the Rev. Marshall Shepard, of Democratic convention fame, whose opening prayer caused Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina and his cohorts to take a walk; Dr. Edwin P. Thompson, Samuel D. Holmes, John H. Brigerman, and William Allmond. Rev. Shepard was reelected. In Pittsburgh Homer Brown was reelected by a big vote.

Hobson R. Reynolds, Republican incumbent, was defeated by Brigerman and Richard A. Cooper, also up for reelection on the Republican ticket, lost to Holmes. Brigerman and Cooper were reelected from normally Republican wards which went overwhelmingly Democratic. All of the successful candidates were Democrats.

Four Republicans, all incumbents, were elected in Chicago to the Illinois assembly. They are Charles Jenkins, Richard Harewood, Ernest

All the records in the election _____ were not set by overwhelmingly popular President Roosevelt. More

Greene, and Colonel William Warfield.

Two Harlem Democrats were re-elected with little opposition. Assemblyman William T. Andrews was chosen for the third term over his Republican opponent, John Moore, by 24,141 to 6,121, and Robert Justice was named for the second term over Miss Jane Bolin, Republican by 17,585 to 4,496.

In West Virginia, Fleming Jones was elected on the Democratic ticket from McDowell county to the House of Delegates. He will be the only Negro in the State Legislature.

The Rev. M. A. Talley, prominent Indianapolis minister, was elected to the Indiana House of Representatives. He will succeed Attorney Henry J. Richardson, who had served one term. Rev. Talley is a Democrat.

Chances for a representative from Lake county, Ind., to the state legislature were wiped out in the Democratic landslide. Atty. James E. Wright, Gary Republican, was snowed under leaving his district without Negro representation. He sought the place formerly filled by Dr. Robert Stanton, Democrat, who was defeated in the primaries.

Augustus Hawkins, Democratic incumbent, was returned by Los Angeles voters to the California State Legislature. He defeated the veteran Republican former assemblyman, Fred Roberts, by a substantial majority.

William Towers, assistant city attorney of Kansas City, Kans., a Republican, was elected to the State Legislature although his district went two to one for Roosevelt. He received two thirds of the Negro vote in his district, predominantly colored and a good percentage of the white vote. Representative Tower will succeed Dr. William Blount, who had served four terms in the Kansas Legislature and did not seek renomination in the primaries.

Charles C. Diggs of Detroit, a Democrat, won out over A. C. Toodle by two to one in the third state senatorial district of Michigan. Charles Roxborough, Republican standard bearer and former member of the state legislature, was defeated by Congressman Sadowski, a Polish Democrat, in the first congressional district. Diggs had 25,538 votes to Toodle's 7,401. Roxborough polled osly 17,022 to Sadowski's 71,919. William F. Davis, of Pontiac, lost to his Republican rival for coroner in Oakland County. Davis is a Democrat.

Virginia saw three Negroes running for the state general assembly. Alexander Wrgiht of Norfolk, a Communist, and Addis Gayle of Newport News, also a Communist, received only a small vote. Josephus Simpson of Virginia, a Peoples party candidate, whose name was left off the ballot because he had not paid his poll tax in time, received a two write-in vote.

Cleveland's Chester Gillespie, president of his city's branch of the N. A A. C. P., lost in the Democratic landslide although he had the Republican legislative representatives ticket. However, Harry Davis won a place on the county charter commission.

Omaha had a candidate to the newly formed unicameral legislature in which Nebraska abolishes state senators and representatives to replace them with one house. John Adams, the candidate, trailed his victorious white opponent by several thousand votes. Negro wards went heavily for Roosevelt.

Post-election Analysis Shows Race's Greater Political Importance

MORE OF RACE SEEK OFFICE IN THE SOUTH

Eighteen Negroes Elected To State Legislatures, One To Congress; Fourteen Are Democrats

Eighteen Negroes were elected last week to the legislatures of nine states, and one to the Congress of the United States.

Pennsylvania leads the parade with six elected, all Democrats.

Fourteen were Democrats and five were Republicans.

In several instances colored Republican legislators were succeeded by Democrats.

No Negro legislative candidate running on the Democratic ticket was defeated.

These successful candidates represent a total of nine states. They are: Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Indiana, California, Kansas, and Michigan. Six were elected in Pennsylvania, five in Illinois—including Congressman Mitchell—and two in New York. One was elected in each of the other states.

Only three Negroes ran under the banner of one of the major parties for Congress, and only one—a Democrat—was successful. Several ran on the Communist ticket in various states.

These are highlights of election surveys conducted by the Journal and Guide and the Associated Negro Press.

Indicated in these facts and as

Indicated in these facts and as reported in last week's Journal and Guide, is the tremendous swing to Roosevelt by colored voters, signifying their complete breakaway from traditional ties that have no force or justification today.

INTERESTING DEVELOPMENTS

Every report coming in from the time the votes began to be counted stated: "Negro vote two to one for Roosevelt"; "Negro vote ten to one for Roosevelt"; or "Negro vote overwhelmingly for Roosevelt."

One interesting development not clear-cut in the returns available by the Guide's press time last week, took place in Chicago where Arthur W. Mitchell and Oscar DePriest contested the right to represent the rich Illinois 1st district.

Whereas in 1934 Mitchell's district went overwhelmingly Democratic and he rode the crest of the political wave, his district's Negro wards this year went into the Republican ranks by a small margin, one of the two giving more votes to Landon than to Roosevelt. The other colored ward and the three white wards in the district gave Roosevelt a margin of 7,000.

MORE DECISIVE

Mitchell's victory was more decisive last week as it was when he was first elected over DePriest two years ago.

In 1934 Mitchell had a 3,130 lead over DePriest, with the final result in dispute over 24 hours after the polls closed. This year his lead was 7,148, the totals being: Mitchell, 35,330; DePriest, 28,182.

One of the peculiarities of the campaign was the public conception of DePriest between 1928, when he went to Congress as the first Negro in that body in a quarter century, and now.

He was not so popular in 1928, and was considered arrogant and captious. Since his 1934 defeat he has grown in popularity, Chicago observers report, and on November 3 was at the height of his Chicago and national popularity.

Sixteen of Race Win Places In Midst of Roosevelt Landslide

CHICAGO, Nov. 10. (ANP) — On the basis of incomplete returns, 16 Negroes seem to have been elected to the legislatures of eight states, an Associated Negro Press survey discloses. Eleven were Democrats and five were Republicans.

Pennsylvania leads the parade with five elected from Philadelphia to the state general assembly. Victors were the Rev. Marshall Shepard, of Democratic convention fame whose opening prayer caused Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina and his cohorts to take a walk; Dr. Edwin F. Thompson, Samuel D. Holmes, John H. Brigerman and William Allmond. Rev. Shepard was re-elected.

Hobson R. Reynolds, Republican incumbent, was defeated by Brigerman and Richard A. Cooper also up for re-election on the republican ticket, lost to Holmes. Brigerman and Cooper were re-elected from Germany Republican wards which went overwhemingly Democratic. All of the five successful candidates are Democrats.

Four Republicans, all incumbents, were apparently re-elected in Chicago to the Illinois assembly. They are Charles Jenkins, Richard Harewood, Ernest Greene and Colonel William Warfield. Of the quartet, there was doubt about the status of Warfield pending a final checkup to take place this week.

Two Harlem Democrats were re-elected with little opposition. Assemblyman William T. Andrews was chosen for the third term over his Republican opponent, John Moore, by 24,141 to 6, 121 and Robert Justice was named for the second term over Miss Jane Bolin, Republican, by 17,585 to 4,496.

In West Virginia, Fleming Jones was elected on the Democratic ticket from McDowell county to the House of delegates. He will be the only Negro in the state legislature.

The Rev. M. A. Talley, prominent Indianapolis minister, was elected to the Indiana house of representatives. He will succeed Attorney Richardson, who had served one term in the state legislature. Rev. Talley is a Democrat.

Augustus Hawkins, Democrat incumbent, was returned by Los Angeles voters to the California state legislature. He defeated the veteran Republican former assemblyman, Fred Roberts, by a substantial majority.

William Towers, assistant city attorney of Kansas City, Kans. a Republican, was elected to the state legislature although his district went two to one for Roosevelt. He received two thirds of the Negro vote in his district, predominantly colored, and a good percentage of the white vote. Representative Towers will succeed Dr. William Blount, who had served four terms in the Kansas legislature and did not seek renomination in the primaries.

On the basis of early returns, Charles C. Diggs of Detroit, a Democrat, won out over A. C. Toodle by two to one in the third state senatorial district of Michigan. Charles Roxborough, Republican standard bearer and former member of the state legislature, was defeated by Congressman Sadowski, a Polish Democrat, in the first congressional district.

Viriginia saw three Negroes running for the state general assembly. Alexander Wright, of Norfolk, a Communist, and Addis Gayle of Newport News, also a Communist, received only a small vote. Josephus Simpson of Virginia, a People's party candidate whose name was left off the ballot won a place on the county charter commission.

Chances for a representative from Lake County, Ind., to the state legislature were wiped out in the Democratic landslide. Atty. James E. Wright, Gary Republican, was snowed under leaving his district without Negro representation. He sought the place formerly filled by Dr. Robert Stanton, Democrat, who was defeated in the primaries.

Cleveland's Chester Gillespie, president of his city's branch of the N. A. A. C. P., lost in the Democratic landslide although he had the Republican legislative representatives ticket. However, Harry Davis won a place on the county charter commission.

Omaha had a candidate to the newly formed unicameral legislature in which Nebraska abolish-in the Democratic landslide. Atty. James E. Wright, Gary Republican, was snowed under leaving his district without Negro representation. He sought the place

Greene, and Colonel William Warfield.

Two Harlem Democrats were re-elected with little opposition. Assemblyman William T. Andrews was chosen for the third term over his Republican opponent, John Moore, by 24,141 to 6,121, and Robert Justice was named for the second term over Miss Jane Bolin, Republican by 17,585 to 4,496.

In West Virginia, Fleming Jones was elected on the Democratic ticket from McDowell county to the House of Delegates. He will be the only Negro in the State Legislature.

The Rev. M. A. Talley, prominent Indianapolis minister, was elected to the Indiana House of Representatives. He will succeed Attorney Henry J. Richardson, who had served one term. Rev. Talley is a Democrat.

Chances for a representative from Lake county, Ind., to the state legislature were wiped out in the Democratic landslide. Atty. James E. Wright, Gary Republican, was snowed under leaving his district without Negro representation. He sought the place formerly filled by Dr. Robert Stanton, Democrat, who was defeated in the primaries.

Augustus Hawkins, Democratic incumbent, was returned by Los Angeles voters to the California State Legislature. He defeated the veteran Republican former assemblyman, Fred Roberts, by a substantial majority.

William Towers, assistant city attorney of Kansas City, Kans., a Republican, was elected to the State Legislature although his district went two to one for Roosevelt. He received two thirds of the Negro vote in his district, predominantly colored and a good percentage of the white vote. Representative Tower will succeed Dr. William Blount, who had served four terms in the Kansas Legislature and did not seek renomination in the primaries.

Charles C. Diggs of Detroit, a Democrat, won out over A. C. Toodle by two to one in the third state senatorial district of Michigan. Charles Roxborough, Republican standard bearer and former member of the state legislature, was defeated by Congressman Sadowski, a Polish Democrat, in the first congressional district. Diggs had 25,538 votes to Toodle's 7,401. Roxborough polled osly 17,022 to Sadowski's 71,919. William F. Davis, of Pontiac, lost to his Republican rival for coroner in Oakland County. Davis is a Democrat.

Virginia saw three Negroes running for the state general assembly. Alexander Wrgiht of Norfolk, a Communist, and Addis Gayle of Newport News, also a Communist, received only a small vote. Josephus Simpson of Virginia, a Peoples party candidate, whose name was left off the ballot because he had not paid his poll tax in time, received a two write-in vote.

Cleveland's Chester Gillespie, president of his city's branch of the N. A. A. C. P., lost in the Democratic landslide although he had the Republican legislative representatives ticket. However, Harry Davis won a place on the county charter commission.

Omaha had a candidate to the newly formed unicameral legislature in which Nebraska abolishes state senators and representatives to replace them with one house. John Adams, the candidate, trailed his victorious white opponent by several thousand votes. Negro wards went heavily for Roosevelt.

Post-election Analysis Shows Race's Greater Political Importance

MORE OF RACE SEEK OFFICE IN THE SOUTH

Eighteen Negroes Elected To State Legislatures, One To Congress; Fourteen Are Democrats

Eighteen Negroes were elected last week to the legislatures of nine states, and one to the Congress of the United States.

Pennsylvania leads the parade with six elected, all Democrats.

Fourteen were Democrats and five were Republicans.

In several instances colored Republican legislators were succeeded by Democrats.

No Negro legislative candidate running on the Democratic ticket was defeated.

These successful candidates represent a total of nine states. They are: Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Indiana, California, Kansas, and Michigan. Six were elected in Pennsylvania, five in Illinois—including Congressman Mitchell—and two in New York. One was elected in each of the other states.

Only three Negroes ran under the banner of one of the major parties for Congress, and only one—a Democrat—was successful. Several ran on the Communist ticket in various states.

These are highlights of election surveys conducted by the Journal and Guide and the Associated Negro Press.

Indicated in these facts and as

Indicated in these facts and as reported in last week's Journal and Guide, is the tremendous swing to Roosevelt by colored voters, signifying their complete breakaway from traditional ties that have no force or justification today.

INTERESTING DEVELOPMENTS

Every report coming in from the time the votes began to be counted stated: "Negro vote two to one for Roosevelt"; "Negro vote ten to one for Roosevelt"; or "Negro vote overwhelmingly for Roosevelt."

One interesting development not clear-cut in the returns available by the Guide's press time last week, took place in Chicago where Arthur W. Mitchell and Oscar DePriest contested the right to represent the rich Illinois 1st district.

Whereas in 1934 Mitchell's district went overwhelmingly Democratic and he rode the crest of the political wave, his district's Negro wards this year went into the Republican ranks by a small margin, one of the two giving more votes to Landon than to Roosevelt. The other colored ward and the three white wards in the district gave Roosevelt a margin of 7,000.

MORE DECISIVE

Mitchell's victory was more decisive last week as it was when he was first elected over DePriest two years ago.

In 1934 Mitchell had a 3,130 lead over DePriest, with the final result in dispute over 24 hours after the polls closed. This year his lead was 7,148, the totals being: Mitchell, 35,330; DePriest, 28,182.

One of the peculiarities of the campaign was the public conception of DePriest between 1928, when he went to Congress as the first Negro in that body in a quarter century, and now.

He was not so popular in 1928, and was considered arrogant and captious. Since his 1934 defeat he has grown in popularity, Chicago observers report, and on November 3 was at the height of his Chicago and national popularity.

Sixteen of Race Win Places In Midst of Roosevelt Landslide

CHICAGO, Nov. 10. (ANP) — On the basis of incomplete returns, 16 Negroes seem to have been elected to the legislatures of eight states, an Associated Negro Press survey discloses. Eleven were Democrats and five were Republicans.

Pennsylvania leads the parade with five elected from Philadelphia to the state general assembly. Victors were the Rev. Marshall Shepard, of Democratic convention fame whose opening prayer caused Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina and his cohorts to take a walk; Dr. Edwin F. Thompson, Samuel D. Holmes, John H. Brigerman and William Allmond. Rev. Shepard was re-elected.

Hobson R. Reynolds, Republican incumbent, was defeated by Brigerman and Richard A. Cooper also up for re-election on the republican ticket, lost to Holmes. Brigerman and Cooper were re-elected from normally Republican wards which went overwhelmingly Democratic. All of the five successful candidates are Democrats.

Four Republicans, all incumbents, were apparently re-elected in Chicago to the Illinois assembly. They are Charles Jenkins, Richard Harewood, Ernest Greene and Colonel William Warfield. Of the quartet, there was doubt about the status of Warfield pending a final checkup to take place this week.

Two Harlem Democrats were re-elected with little opposition. Assemblyman William T. Andrews was chosen for the third term over his Republican opponent, John Moore, by 24,141 to 6, 121 and Robert Justice was named for the second term over Miss Jane Bolin, Republican, by 17,585 to 4,496.

In West Virginia, Fleming Jones was elected on the Democratic ticket from McDowell county to the House of delegates. He will be the only Negro in the state legislature.

The Rev. M. A. Talley, prominent Indianapolis minister, was elcted to the Indiana house of representatives. He will succeed Attorney Richardson, who had served one term in the state legislature. Rev. Talley is a Democrat.

Augustus Hawkins, Democrat incumbent, was returned by Los Angeles voters to the California state legislature. He defeated the veteran Republican former assemblyman, Fred Roberts, by a substantial majority.

William Towers, assistant city attorney of Kansas City, Kans. a Republican, was elected to the state legislature although his district went two to one for Roosevelt. He received two thirds of the Negro vote in his district, predominantly colored, and a good percentage of the white vote. Representative Towers will succeed Dr. William Blount, who had served four terms in the Kansas legislature and did not seek renomination in the primaries.

On the basis of early returns, Charles C. Diggs of Detroit, a Democrat, won out over A. C. Toodle by two to one in the third state senatorial district of Michigan. Charles Roxborough, Republican standard bearer and former member of the state legislature, was defeated by Congressman Sadowski, a Polish Democrat, in the first congressional district.

Viriginia saw three Negroes running for the state general assembly. Alexander Wright, of Norfolk, a Communist, and Addis Gayle of Newport News, also a Communist, received only a small vote. Josephus Simpson of Virginia, a People's party candidate, whose name was left off the ballot won a place on the county charter commission.

Omaha had a candidate to the newly formed unicameral legislature in which Nebraska abolish in the Democratic landslide. Atty. James E. Wright, Gary Republican, was snowed under leaving his district without Negro representation. He sought the place formerly filled by Dr. Robert Stanton, Democrat, who was defeated in the primaries.

Chances for a representative from Lake County, Ind., to the state legislature were wiped out in the Democratic landslide. Atty. James E. Wright, Gary Republican, was snowed under leaving his district without Negro representation. He sought the place formerly filled by Dr. Robert Stanton, Democrat, who was defeated in the primaries.

Political - 1936 Elections.

Georgia 6

Atlanta, Ga. Journal
June 8, 1936

FIGHT LOOMS OVER 5TH DISTRICT SEAT

A. T. Walden May Carry His Contest to Floor of Convention

BY RALPH SMITH
(Journal Staff Correspondent)

CLEVELAND, June 8.—The seat of the Fifth Georgia District in the Republican national convention is clothed Monday with a significance far outweighing its importance. It is quite possible that the contest between Harry Sommers and A. T. Walden "to sit and vote for the Fifth Georgia" may become the cause celebre of the convention.

Sommers, a prominent Atlanta business man, and one of the most striking figures attending the convention, won the first round of the contest lodged by Walden, a negro lawyer. The Republican national committee sustained Sommers' right to the seat, and his name was certified to the convention for the temporary organization.

Ordinarily, that would end the matter. But it so happens that the colored race hasn't fared any too well in the countless contests from the south, and, further, Walden is an active member of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He is prominent in its activities in Georgia, and a member of the association's national board.

And Walden, in appealing from the decision of the Republican national committee to the credentials committee of the convention, rallies to his support the strength of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The Republican leaders are courting the race, as usual, and the entrance of the A. A. C. P. into the fight colors it with a significance far exceeding the real issue, which, by the way, involves no question of racial prejudice.

Sommers has been in Cleveland for several days, and has made a favorable impression on Republican leaders.

Governor Mentions Negro In Replying to Russell

Opposition Flaunting Social Equality, He Charges In His Newspaper

By GLENN RAMSEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATLANTA, July 7 (AP)—Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., came to Atlanta late today en route to Waycross where he will formally open his campaign for re-election Thursday.

Governor Eugene Talmadge, who is opposing Russell for re-nomination, wrote an article for his newspaper criticizing his opposition.

The senator worked on his speech.

The governor said the opposition had "insinuated that I was crazy to enunciate my platform for the United States senate."

He added.

"They intimated that any man who would stand on these principles to help the average man should be put in the same padded cell where Zioncheck was confined in Washington.

"Well, I am not surprised at the opposition. They have run over the people so long, taxing them, trying to bribe them, and flaunting social equity with the Negro in their faces until almost anything can be expected now."

G. O. P. Platform Charged

Governor Talmadge had announced against him at McRae, Senator Russell Saturday night charged the governor with seeking the Democratic nomination on a Republican platform. The primary is September 9.

For or against President Roosevelt, Russell said, is a paramount issue in the campaign. Russell is a supporter of the president while the governor has opposed the New Deal in speeches in a number of states.

Referring to the senator's Saturday night speech, Talmadge wrote:

"The thousands and thousands of people who gathered at McRae and enthusiastically cheered the principles that you will find written in the speech contained in this issue were also reflected on as the 'unthinking people,' and unable to reason for themselves.

Campaign Offices Opened

"But, these same people are the voters of Georgia, and they carry the burdens of their government on their shoulders, even if they do enjoy music and singing."

Two new campaign hedaquarters began functioning full strength today.

Speaker E. D. Rivers of the state house of representatives, and a gubernatorial aspirant, announced his offices are in charge of Mrs. Gladstone Williams, wife of a widely known Washington newspaper correspondent.

Columbus Roberts, opposing Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder for re-nomination, opened his headquarters at the Piedmont Hotel.

Roberts, who resides at Columbus, selected T. G. Reeves, chairman of the Muscogee county commission, as his campaign manager.

Reeves said headquarters would be maintained both here and in Columbus and he would divide his time equally between them.

"We will be glad to see our friends at any time they drop in," Reeves said.

Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens, another candidate for governor, is to open his speaking campaign formally at Washington Saturday.

Charles D. Redwine, president of the state senate and Governor Talmadge's candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, was at the state capitol today.

Redwine said he had not yet made plans for opening his campaign as there were a number of details to be worked out. He said he expected to have an announcement before the end of the week.

Governor Talmadge's next address in the campaign will be at Cartersville on July 15.

Former Congressman W. W. Larsen continued his vigorous speech making campaign in his race for governor. He is making as many as three speeches a day. He has opened headquarters in Atlanta.

Illinois.

Political-1936 Elections.

ANDERSON IS PICKED TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

The regular Reublican organization under the direction and leadership of Alderman William L. Dawson, at its headquarters, 3140 Indiana avenue, endorsed the following ticket to be voted on in the April primaries.

Those endorsed were Louis B. Anderson for Congress, First Illinois district; Rev. Junius C. Austin, delegate to national convention; M. C. B. Mason, alternate delegate to national convention; William L. Dawson for committeeman, second ward; Dr. Adolphus N. Gordon, Sr., representative general assembly, third district; Mrs. Irene B. Moore, representative general assembly, third district; Harris B. Gaines, representative general assembly, first district; S. Timothy Washington, state central committeeman; for senatorial committeeman, third district, Price B. Parker, John Scott, Ralph B. Jones, and for senatorial committeeman, first district, Thomas Wade.

ELECTION IN CHICAGO IS A CLOSE ONE

Former Congressman From Illinois Strongly Opposed In White Precincts

By Cary B. Lewis

CHICAGO.—The election for the Republican nomination for congressman from the first Illinois district was still in doubt Wednesday at 5 o'clock. Oscar DePriest, veteran politician, the first Negro congressman from the state of Illinois and also the first Negro alderman in the city of Chicago, was in a deadlock with former Alderman Louis B. Anderson who retired from the city council after serving a number of years.

Anderson was former floor leader for former Mayor William Hale Thompson and a power in the Thompson machine which ruled Chicago for many years. DePriest also was a Thompson follower but not a member of what was called the regular second ward Republican organization ruled at one time by the late Edward H. Wright, commerce commissioner under former Governor Len Small who was defeated in Tuesday's primaries as an aspirant for the Republican nomination as governor.

DePriest ably served his constituents in congress but was defeated in 1932 when the city of Chicago as well as Cook county turned in an overwhelming vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt and the entire Democratic ticket with a few exceptions was victorious in the landslide.

Mitchell Wins

Arthur W. Mitchell, present congressman from the richest congressional district in the United States, was elected over DePriest. Mitchell won easily Tuesday for the Democratic nomination over his two weak opponents who were white.

The Anderson-DePriest scrap developed into a whale of a battle as the campaign went on. DePriest came out in the open to support Wayland Brooks who was running way ahead of the rest of the ticket for the G.O.P. nomination for governor. DePriest backed the 37-year-old Chicago lawyer to the limit.

DePriest ran afoul of the supporters of Alderman Robert R. Jackson from the third ward when he went out for the nomination as ward committeeman. He defeated Jackson but in so doing lost many votes from the Jackson adherents.

If DePriest is beaten out in the final counting o fthe ballots—several precincts are yet to be heard from—he can lay his defeat to the white precincts where his fight for his race in congress was frowned upon.

Al Williams, lawyer was defeated for Democratic committeeman of the second ward by Joseph Tittinger, a white man.

State Senator William E. King, the only Negro state senator in the state, won over William L. Dawson, World War veteran and an attorney, for Republican committeeman of the third ward. King led Dawson better than four-to-one.

Harrison B. Gaines, Republican member of the lower branch of the state legislature, was not nominated to succeed himself on the Republican ticket. The following Negroes were nominated for the Illinois house of representatives: Richard J. Harewood, Ernest A. Green, Charles Jenkins lawyer and former Texasn, and Col. William Warfield, commander of the famous Eighth infantry regiment, Illinois National Guard and an overseas veteran in the World War.

Col. Warfield, a protege of Oscar DePriest, succeeded Dr. Spencer Dickerson as commander of the Eighth. He wears the congressional medal of hono ras well as the French Croix De Guecre with several palms. He captured a machine gun nest with 17 Germans single-handed in one engagement. He is nominated to succeed himself as is Mr. Jekins.

Roscoe Simmons, orator and former newspaperman, was elected G. O. P. delegate to the national Republican convention in Cleveland in June over the Rev. J. C. Austin of the Pilgrim Baptist church. Cornelia Pickett was elected as an alternate.

Mike Sneed, present Democratic committeeman from the third ward was reelected over Captain Udell Turpin who is the son of the late Charles Turpin of St. Louis.

FORMER NASHVILLIAN

WM. H. HAYNES,

Nominated on the Republican ticket for Judge of the Municipal Court in the Republican Primary in Chicago last Tuesday. He is the son of the late Dr. Wm. Haynes of this city.

RETURNS TO LEGISLATURE

CHARLES J. JENKINS

Able Member of the Illinois Legislature, was renominated by Chicago Republicans Tuesday.

DAWSON BEATEN BY KING AT POLLS

By EARL J. MORRIS
(Special to The Courier)

CHICAGO, April 16 — On the basis of incomplete returns from Tuesday's primary election, Oscar DePriest, Republican, and Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, Democrat, will fight it out in November for the seat in Congress from the First Congressional District.

DePriest came romping through Tuesday, beating former Alderman Louis B. Anderson by a two-to-one vote after a bitter, aggressive factional battle within the Republican ranks. No quarter was given on either side which saw DePriest's aide, William E. King, State senator, again whip William L. Dawson, Second ward alderman, for the post as ward committeeman.

Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell whipped both colored and white opponents for the Democratic nomination with the powerful backing of the city Democratic machine.

Next fall's battle between DePriest and Mitchell will be fought out on both party and racial lines.

Attorney W. H. Haynes, Republican, attorney for the National Baptist Convention, was nominated as a candidate for the Municipal court bench and Attorney Alva Bates, former confidante of the late Edward H. Wright, for a sanitary district trustee, one of the biggest positions in the hands of the voters.

A. L. Williams, fighting treat-my-race-right lawyer, lost his battle in the Democratic primary to unseat Joseph Tittinger, white Democratic committeeman of the Second ward. Tittinger supported Mitchell.

Republican State Representative Charles Jenkins was renominated.

Edward M. "Mike" Sneed, Third ward committeeman, checked the challenge of Captain Udel Turpin for the leadership of that ward.

HIS ORGANIZATION WINS

WM. E. KING

State Senator, whose organization proved to be the most powerful political line-up on the South Side, and who defeated Alderman Dawson for Committeeman, and who also was a DePriest supporter in the Republican Primary in Chicago, now regarded as the most powerful leader on the South Side.

Augusta, Ga., Chronicle
April 17, 1936

DE PRIEST VICTOR IN CONGRESS RACE

Chicago, April 16 —(AP)—Oscar de Priest, former Negro congressman who tried to force the house of representatives to serve Negroes in its restaurant, today had won the first round of his fight to regain ranking as the "only Negro in congress."

He received the Republican nomination from Illinois' First congressional district—the heart of Chicago's Negro district—in Tuesday's primary election. His 11,608 poll was almost twice that of his nearest rival, Louis Anderson, also a Negro and attorneys for pugilist Joe Louis. Anderson got 6,057 votes.

PREDICT NEW LINE-UP WITH KING AT HEAD

Senator Is Undisputed Republican Leader On South Side

4-25-'36

By A. N. FIELDS

Under the indomitable political leadership of State Senator William E. King of the Third Senatorial district, former Congressman Oscar DePriest was piloted to victory Tuesday.

He hurdled the fence in the Republican Congressional primaries by a majority of 5,251 votes over former Alderman Louis B. Anderson. But Senator King did not stop there, he piloted himself to victory in the ward committeeship fight by trouncing Alderman William L. Dawson by a majority of over 5,000 votes.

With the grim political sword still in hand, King went down the line and decapitated Representative Harris B. Gaines of the First district by nominating Ernest A. Greene to the lower house at Springfield.

Marching south from the north end of his ward, still defying all opposition, Senator King nominated Representative Charles Jenkins and Attorney Richard A. Harewood, for the legislature. Strange to say, both Representatives-elect Green and Harewood had been previously precinct captains in the King organizations, and politically speaking were merely infants in the game.

Greene Beats Gaines

And then, just for good measure, King also nominated all of those of his tickets who sought minor offices. The big upset in the fight for delegate to the National Republican convention was the defeat of the Rev. J. C. Austin, pastor of Pilgrim Baptist church by Col. Roscoe Conkling Simmons, the King candidate.

When the smoke of battle had cleared away and the politically dead and dying had been removed from the field of carnage it was found that Senator King had laid the basis for a new political line-up in the First Congressional district with King the undisputed leader.

Out in the Third Ward, the other front on which Congressman DePriest was battling against Fighting Bob Jackson, the alderman, DePriest brooked no interference and defeated his opposition by 1,627 votes for ward committeeship.

Whatever we may have thought or said with respect to the political influence or sagacity of the old master, Oscar DePriest, we are here now willing to retract because he has proved himself a genius in political strategy.

The success of both King and DePriest in their respective subdivisions should determine that the people are tired of personal fight between various factions of leadership which should in turn serve to solidify the party.

The general influence and power of King and DePriest was felt in the council of the County Central committee when they caused to be placed on the county ticket Attorney Alva L. Bates for trustee of the Sanitary district, and Attorney William H. Haynes, for associate judge of the Municipal court, both of whom were nominated in the county and city primaries.

R. A. Harewood

Attorney Haynes ran sixth in the contest of twelve supported by the Republican organization, receiving 113,449 votes, while the lowest candidate supported by the organization received 66,731.

The Republican ticket headed by Wayland Brooks for governor, Otis F. Glen for United States Senator, Charles W. Hadley for attorney general, and Harry S. Ditchburne for states attorney, it looked as if Cook county and Illinois will achieve victory in the November election.

Review Democratic Vote

In analyzing the returns from wards in which the Race voters were in preponderance, it disclosed that they gave Mayor Kelly's candidate, Dr. Herman E. Bundesen, the Democratic candidate for governor, a larger vote than in other wards. In the second and third, Bundesen's plurality over Governor Horner was 8,392 while in the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth wards Horner's plurality over Dr. Bundesen was 4,513. In 27 precincts of the mayor's home ward in which the colored people live, they gave Dr. Bundesen 3,886 votes, while in the same section Governor Horner received only 1,205 votes.

Fourteen precincts of the 28th ward, the district dominated by Jim Martin, which is populated almost entirely by the Race, Dr. Bundesen received 2,102 against Governor Horner's 468. In the twentieth ward which comprises colored and Jewish voters, Dr. Bundesen's plurality over his opponent was 7,932.

The twenty-fifth and twenty-seventh wards where a larger number of members of the Race reside, Dr. Bundesen received a heavy vote, all of which indicates that in every ward in the city where Race people live they went strong for Bundesen, those who voted in the Democratic primaries because they believed in Mayor Edward H. Kelly.

Rally To Kelly

The voting in the strongly Race wards between the Democrats and the Republicans appears to give the Democrats a majority of votes over the Republicans. The Democratic bosses can hold this advantage by recognizing those wards which followed the mayor's advice.

In the fourth ward where Illy Kelly fronted the fray for the mayors forces, the 27 precincts handled by Illy Kelly gave Dr. Bundesen, a 3 to 1 majority and held the ward which is the Mayor Edward J. Kelly's home ward within control of the regular Democratic organization.

Mayor Kelly is not the kind to forget his friends nor is he likely to overlook those who stood by him whe he was fighting a lone battle to sustain the principles of party regulations.

Members of the Race who voted in the Democratic primaries had nothing personally against Governor Horner, they were following the leadership of Mayor Edward Kelly, who had proven himself their friend.

In the third ward Committeeman Edward M. Sneed delivered to Dr. Bundesen well over 2-1, as also did Committeeman Joseph F. Tittinger in the second ward.

Other candidates of the race nominated or elected were Colonel William J. Warfield, Republican state representative, fifth district, and Dudley S. Martin, state central committeeman. Martair had the support of Senator William E. King.

KNOX IS ENDORSED BY ILLINOIS PARTY

State Convention Instructs Eight Delegates at Large to Vote for Him.

SOME 'NOS' MARK BALLOT

Brooks Retires to Make Way for Negro on Slate and De Priest Is Chosen.

PEORIA, May 22 (AP).—The nomination of Colonel Frank Knox of Chicago for the Presidency was urged today by the Republican State Convention.

After four hours of oratory, devoted mostly to attacks on State and national Democratic administrations, the convention adopted a resolution instructing the eight delegates at large to vote for the publisher of The Chicago Daily News.

Colonel Knox was termed "a militant leader" and "the ideal candidate" in the resolution offered by C. Wayland Brooks, nominee for Governor. There was some booing and shouts of "no" when the vote was taken, but the convention was outwardly harmonious throughout.

Members of the resolutions committee said that no effort was made by supporters of Senator Borah to obtain an endorsement of him. He was defeated by Colonel Knox in the State's Presidential-preference vote.

The resolution, while "instructing and directing" the eight delegates at large "to nominate Frank Knox as the Republican candidate for President" did not attempt to instruct the forty-nine district delegates elected at the primary. Senator Borah carried ten districts and Colonel Knox fifteen in the preference balloting.

The endorsement of Colonel Knox was the third he has received from major Illinois Republican groups. The State central committee and the Cook County committees had previously designated him "favorite son" for the Presidential nomination.

Mr. Brooks, who made one of the main speeches at the convention, drew applause when he mentioned the name of former Governor Frank O. Lowden in connection with the farm problem. He was cheered again when he withdrew as a delegate at large to make room for a representative of Negro Republicans.

Former Representative Oscar De Priest was chosen to receive Mr. Brooks's delegate credentials.

Other delegates at large elected included former Vice President Charles G. Dawes, A. D. Lasker, former United States Senator Otis F. Glenn and Edward A. Hayes, Knox campaign manager.

Political - 1936

Elections

Illinois

EVANSTON, ILL.
NEWS INDEX
APR 11 1936

Negro Seeks School Board Post--Rumor

Hint James Morton, Jr., Supporters Will Write Name on Ballots Today

With most voters taking for granted the election of the three caucus candidates in School District 75 in today's annual school election, it was reported from a reliable source this morning that a group of Negros is supporting the candidacy of James Morton, Jr., Negro, 2102 Darrow avenue, for one of the three vacancies on the new board of education.

Although Mr. Morton's name does not appear on the ballot, because no petition was filled at the board of education's office three weeks prior to the election, his supporters were expected to write in his name on the ballot at the polls.

If a sufficient number of voters backed his candidacy while supporters of the caucus candidates failed to appear at the polls, his election was believed possible, according to the report.

The caucus candidates selected a month ago by representatives of some 30 local civic organizations are: Hugh W. McCulloch, 630 Dartmouth place, Hugh W. MacLean, 2767 Sheridan road, and A. K Scheidenhelm, 1603 Orrington avenue. Each is a candidate for re-election.

At Mr. Morton's home today his candidacy was denied over the telephone. When a Daily News-Index reporter went to his home this morning he was unable to see Mr. Morton or members of his family. A window shade was pulled up for an instant, but the door bell was not answered.

Mr. Morton is 26 years old and a former student at the University of Illinois.

Polling places in District 75 will be open from noon to 7 p.m. today at Haven school, Lincoln street and Prairie avenue, and at the Evanston library, Orrington avenue and Church street.

Elections in the other two school districts are expected to be quiet today, with light voting for the five candidates for the five vacancies. The names of Mrs. Dorothy P. Suiter, 1219 Hull terrace, and Albert G. Duncan, 719 Judson avenue, appeared on the ballots in District 75. The two candidates in District 702 are: Clarion D. Hardy, 2111 Sherman avenue, and John A. Brooks, 2510 Marcy avenue.

EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL.
JOURNAL
APR 15 1936

Frank Holten Tops Ticket

State Assemblyman Gets More Votes Than Any Other Candidate On Either Ticket.

Polling more votes in East St Louis than any other candidate of either party, Frank Holten, was renominated as a Democratic candidate for state representative. Dr. A. H. Smith, Negro incumbent, showed unusual strength in Negro neighborhoods and was running second to Holten with 4,664 votes, reported from 50 precincts.

Dr. Smith scored as high as 515 votes in some Negro sectors and was expected to receive additional support from Negro precincts that were reporting late Wednesday morning.

If Holten is re-elected next fall it will be to his 11th term as a state representative. He invariably leads his ticket by at least two to one.

Calvin Johnson, Belleville, was leading candidate for Republican nomination as state representative in early reports. Most of his strength was coming from Belleville and other centers outside East St. Louis where he was trailing George Gerold, Rudy Huschke and Max Bowler.

Gerold had a vote of 2,722 in East St. Louis compared to Johnson's 1,671 but failed to poll a heavy vote outside of this city.

Dr. Miles D. Davis, Negro, was polling a heavy vote in Negro neighborhoods in East St. Louis and had a count of 1,448 from 40 precincts early Wednesday morning.

Just Appointed

RICHARD E. WESTBROOKS

Veteran Chicago barrister and considered one of the most outstanding figures in the legal fraternity in the Mid-West, who recently was appointed attorney for H. E. Hallenbeck, the new receiver for the defunct Douglass National bank. The appointment of Mr. Westbrooks was made by the Democratic party of which the attorney is a prominent member and upon the recommendation of Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago. This honor is only one of the many the Democrats have bestowed upon members of the Race.

MITCHELL IS RETURNED TO U. S. CONGRESS

Oscar DePriest Loses in Democratic Landslide In Illinois

CHICAGO. — Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, attorney, was reelected from the first Illinois congressional district in Tuesday's Democratic landslide over his opponent Oscar DePriest, former Kansan.

The vote was Mitchell, 21,139; DePriest, 15,814. Six precincts were reported missing when this tabulation was made.

"A Good Loser"

DePriest conceded the election to Mitchell at 1:30 Tuesday morning. He said to the CALL, "I am a good loser in face of the Democratic machine."

'Congressman Mitchell, surrounded by his immediate friends was asked for a statement. The Tuskegee institute graduate who studied law at Columbia university in New York said, "I am carrying on 100 per cent for President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his program. I will make history when I return to Washington."

DePriest came to Chicago at an early age from Salina, Kas. He was the first Negro alderman in the city of Chicago, having been elected from the second ward. He has been ward committeeman. He served out the late Martin B. Madden's unexpired term in congress and was returned there.

Outspoken and forceful DePriest ran afoul of the southern senators and congressmen when he demanded the same respect due any United States congressman. He kicked up a furor — and rightly did so — when he demanded that the congressional restaurant be open to Negroes as well as whites, following the refusal to serve his secretary, Morris Lewis, and the latter's son.

Appointee Graduates

Yet, DePriest was respected for his ability to deal with other congressmen who sought his votes. The white haired veteran made no bone about his wishes which finally were respected.

DePriest sent the first Negro in years to West Point and when this man, Alonzo Parham failed, he kept nominating others.

Lieut. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., son of Col. B. O. Davis, of the regular, who at that time was stationed at Tuskegee but who is now in Washington, graduated in the June class of this year. He was a DePriest appointee.

DePriest was beaten for his seat in congress by Mitchell.

While Congressman Mitchell is not the colorful figure in the house in Washington as was DePriest, he has won many friends.

His followers point out to the fact that he has introduced an anti-lynch bill; that he has gone along with the administration in all measures; that he has caused more Negroes to get employment both in Washington and in Chicago than did DePriest.

Mitchell appointed Negroes to West Point and then went a step farther. He was able through the help of the administration to get the first Negro appointed to the U. S. Naval academy at Annapolis — a thing which DePriest was unable to do, according to the records.

Few people outside of Chicago realize that Mitchell needed only about 3,000 Negro votes to put him over. His district includes the first ward, part of the second and third and part of the fourth and seventeenth. Backed by the strong Kelley-Nash machine (Kelley is mayor of the city), there was feeling from the very start of the campaign that DePriest would have to overcome a big handicap to beat Mitchell.

The vote in the heavily populated Negro wards of Chicago in the presidential poll were:

Second ward—Roosevelt, 12,563; Landon, 13,889.
Third ward—Roosevelt, 10,761; Landon, 10,645.
Fourth ward—Roosevelt, 17,218; Landon, 13,538.
Fifth ward—Roosevelt, 23,932; Landon, 17,827.
Sixth ward—Roosevelt, 23,532; Landon, 16,819.

William E. King, present state senator, was not up for reelection. Attorney Ernest A. Green was sent to the state legislature. Attorney Richard A. Harewood and Charles J. Jenkins, formerly of Texas, were elected to the legislature from the third district.

On the face of the returns tabulated Wednesday, the veteran Negro member of the state legislature, Colonel William J. Warfield, is apparently the victim of the Democratic landslide.

Rumor He's Colored Hits GOP Candidate for Gov. in Illinois

CHICAGO—A rumor that Robert S. Allen, co-authors of the Washington Merry-Go-Round column, prompted last week to be hurled at the campaign of C. Wayland (Curly) Brooks, Republican, for Governor of Illinois.

Brooks is dark complexioned and has curly hair.

The seriousness of this whispering campaign, according to Drew Pearson and

RICHARD A. HAREWOOD
Prominent Chicago attorney and president of the 42nd Ward Republican organization who was elected to the General Assembly last Tuesday in the Harewood-Jenkins-Republican sweep at the polls on November 3.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Illinois.

Chicago's Southside Remains Republican, But DePriest Loses

Courier 11-14-36 Pittsburgh, Pa.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12—(ANP)—In the face of the Democratic landslide, which saw Roosevelt and the State Democratic ticket swept into office, along with Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, the two Negro wards of Chicago remained within the Republican fold by a narrow margin.

Final returns showed the Second ward for Landon by a small majority with the count being Landon 21,218 and Roosevelt 19,471. In the Third ward, Roosevelt won by a small majority, the count being 17,744 to 17,643 for Landon. The combined vote gave Landon 38,861 to 37,215 for Roosevelt.

Although the Republican presidential candidate was victorious, Oscar DePriest, running for congress on the same ticket, was defeated for the second time by Arthur Mitchell, the final vote being 35,330 to 28,162 for DePriest. The first congressional district, which both men were fighting to represent, comprises the second and third wards plus the first and sections of the fourth and eleventh, the latter three white. This part of the congerssional district went overwhelmingly for Roosevelt and Mitchell, thus accounting for the winner's victory margin of over 7,000.

Both candidates carried on bitter and intensive battles. Unlike 1934, when DePriest did not think so much of the Mitchell opposition, the former congressman this year fought his hardest and developed a strong organization aimed to carry him through while the Democratic incumbent worked just as vigorously for his own reelection.

Just before the campaign ended, there were rumors of a coalition between Roosevelt workers and DePriest forces in which supporters of DePriest would vote for Roosevelt in exchange for Democratic ballots on behalf of DePriest. This rumor had it that Mitchell was to be sacrificed, but such a deal failed to materialize.

One of the peculiarities of the campaign lay in the public conception of DePriest. When elected in 1928, he did not possess a great share of popularity and public opinion considered him somewhat arrogant and captious. But, strangely enough, since losing in 1934 he has increased by leaps and bounds in public favor and the November 3 election actually found him at the heighth of his popularity on the Southside and the nation at large.

Two other candidates, running on the Republican ticket, were engulfed in the Democratic landslide. William Haynes, prominent attorney seeking an associate judgesnip, dicial election. Alva Bates, run-11th on the slate for his party, with the 12 Democratic candidates making a clean sweep of the jucricial election. Alva Bates, running for sanitary district trustee, polled 520,112 votes and lost as did his two Republican companions while the Democrats made a clean sweep of the three positions.

Political-1936
Elections.

Indiana.

H. J. RICHARDSON SEEKS 3RD TERM IN LEGISLATURE

Political skies, overcast with lowering threats of a triple-cornered legislative race, were considerably cleared Thursday with the announcement by Henry J. Richardson, Sr., prominent attorney and member of the State Legislature, that he was a candidate for re-nomination subject to the Democratic primaries May 6.

Opposition to the re-nomination of Mr. Richardson for a third term in the state's law making body is believed to have been fostered by a group of his party leaders who wished to avoid the possibility of another hot fight on the civil rights bill such as was staged by Mr. Richardson last year.

Several prospective candidates, whose standing and reputation would command a large following should they enter the race, are not likely to consent to run in view of Mr. Richardson's announcement. The Recorder learned. Cooperation and harmony is the watchword of colored Democrats in their effort to present a united front in the battle against a common enemy.

First Demo Law Maker

Mr. Richardson was the first colored man ever elected to the State Legislature on the Democratic ticket and when first seated in '32, was the first of his race to sit in the Assembly in more than forty years. He was re-elected in 1934, and throughout his career has been highly praised for his superior ability as a lawyer, orator, and fearless champion of justice and a genuine democratic form of government.

Recognition of his ability was freely accorded him by appointment by party legislative leaders to serve as chairman of numerous important committees. He is chairman of the house committee on public expenditures which played a important part in the enactment of the social security bill by the recent special session of the legislature.

In a statement to a Recorder reporter, Mr. Richardson said: "My political career in this state over a period of years bears this testimony, that I have honestly desired happiness, prosperity, and the greatest welfare for all of the people of this great state regardless of color, race, or creed."

Among the many measures supported successfully by Mr. Richardson were: the horse thief detective act; repeal of the Wright bone dry law; gross income tax; owners loan; memorial and social law; moritorium on taxes; home security bill.

Aids Race Advancement

Special legislation which improves the opportunities and standing of the colored people of the state and of which Mr. Richardson was the author include the famous Richardson labor discrimination bill, which if passed at the coming general election, will admit colored men to that branch of military service.

The most notable and most widely remembered of his legislative battles is the one that centered on his measure that would have put teeth into the present anaemic civil rights law. Though the measure was barely defeated by a scant eight votes, the fight staged by Mr. Richardson focused the attention of all classes of citizens of Indiana on the gross and glaring injustices to which colored people are subjected.

Mr. Richardson maintains law offices at 229½ Indiana avenue, and lives at 529 West Twenty-ninth street. He is a graduate of the Indiana university law school, and has been practicing since 1927.

HENRY J. RICHARDSON

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.
TIMES

APR 3 - 1936

3 DEMOCRATS DENY DEAL; PLEAS PROMISES NEGROES CONSIDERATION IF ELECTED

Aspirants Speak at Rally of Voters in Walker Building.

Indiana Negroes had dangling before them today the promise of one Democratic candidate for Governor that he would give members of their race more consideration in the next state administration, if elected.

The promise was made last night at a rally in the Walker Building, Indiana-av and West-st, at which Pleas E. Greenlee, ousted patronage secretary to Gov. McNutt; Lieut. Gov. M. Clifford Townsend, and former Mayor Reginald H. Sullivan spoke. The latter represented E. Kirk McKinney, third candidate in the Democratic race, who was unable to be present.

Although he devoted part of his address to what he termed the "necessity of purging the party of those motivated by self-interest," Mr. Greenlee dwelt on the economic future of the Negro insofar as it is affected by his candidacy.

Greenlee Makes Promise

"If I receive the nomination and am elected Governor of Indiana," Mr. Greenlee said, "I am going to place some Negroes in responsible positions, and when I say responsible positions, I don't mean $1500-a-year jobs. I mean positions that have salaries of some consequence attached to them, because I happen to be a Jeffersonian Democrat and believe in the principle of equal rights for all."

"His hands were tied" when he was Gov. McNutt's patronage dispenser, Mr. Greenlee said in explanation for Negroes not having received better patronage during the present administration. Mr. Greenlee added that he intended to conduct his campaign in such a manner that it would "not hurt party chances."

Pointing out that the Negro voter "found escape from political slavery when the majority gave their votes to the Democratic party," Mr. Townsend said:

Stresses Party Activity

"It will be unfortunate if not only you, but all of us, fail to remember that liberty and freedom and inheritances that must be protected at all times, not for some, but for every citizen of the nation." He stressed the importance of party activity in primary elections.

Mr. Sullivan spoke briefly in behalf of Mr. McKinney's candidacy, dwelling on the latter's business record as city works board president and state director of the Home Owners Loan Corp.

Walter C. Boetcher, Marion County Democratic chairman, several county candidates and numerous party workers from the Statehouse, City Hall and Courthouse were among the 700 persons at the rally.

HONOR CANDIDATE WRIGHT FRIDAY

The hat of attorney James Elbert Wright was thrown in the political ring last Friday night at the Elks club, 2174 Broadway, when a banquet was given by the Republican precinct committeemen and women of the Central district for his honor to officially notify him that he had been selected as the choice of the citizenry of this district for candidate for the state legislature at an elimination convention held at the Croation Hall March 20.

Mr. Wright, a graduate of the Kent college of law, Chicago, and a former junior member of the Westbrook law firm of Chicago called his candidacy a real honor and pledged his cooperation with all factions.

Winning the nomination in the elimination convention Wright defeated candidates like A'tty H. L. Davis, a veterian republican leader of East Chicago; Dr. T. Smith, also of East Chicago, and the former councilman and ever popular Wilbur J. Hardaway.

Making speeches for judge Greenwald for mayor in the primary of 1934, and speeches for the Republican party in the general election Wright made his first campaign speech for himself Friday night.

Wright's reputation as a fair, impartial, trustworthy stand patter gave him a chance to be director of young Republican activities in the 4th and 5th districts, which position he held until he became a candidate. With Wright nominated in the May 4 primary, the Republicans seem a sure winne rin the general election in Lake county.

Alderman

ALDERMAN CHARLES LYNCH

Of the 19th District, Harlem, New York City, who was elected for two year terms last fall on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Lynch is taking a leading part in the fight for better schools in Harlem. He is executive member of the Chenango Democratic association, 2130 Seventh avenue, a lawyer, a world war veteran, a member of the Harlem Lawyers' association, Phi Beta Sigma fraternity the Elks and K. of P.

The platform on which he was elected calls for increase of colored employees in all City Departments, improved parks and more playgrounds, better housing and sanitary conditions, reorganization of Harlem hospital, and increase of Negro employees in Home Relief bureaus of Harlem.—(Calvin Service)

G.O.P., Demo Regulars Win County Primaries; Richardson Is Defeated

RAY ONLY "ANTI" WINNER IN DEMO PRIMARY BATTLE

Henry J. Richardson, Jr., twice a member of the Indiana legislature, was defeated for the Democratic nomination for state representative, returns of Tuesday's primary election showed late Thursday.

As an alternative, Marion county Democrates nominated for the post, the Rev. Marshall A. Talley, pastor of the Mt. Zion Baptist church, among the eleven who will face a similar group of Republicans in the fall elections.

Entered for the first time in any political campaign, the Rev. Mr. Talley, with the support of the regular Democratic organization swept through the precincts of the county with a response that indicated universal confidence in his ability, standing, and character. In receiving the enthusiastic congratulations of his friends, the Rev. Mr. Talley said: "Of course I am happy for this honor, and opportunity, which when sanctioned at the fall elections will give me a chance to be of great service to my people and those of Marion county. I thank all of those who supported me and am deeply grateful for the confidence the heavy vote of colored people reposes in me."

Jefferson Davis Clinton, also a candidate for the Democratic state representative nomination, though not a winner, appears to have substantially increased the vote cast for him when a candidate for the same office two years ago.

Richardson, denied the party endorsement because of his insistence upon introducing a civil rights bill in the last regular session of the legislature was given a tremendous vote of confidence in the colored districts, indicating the resentment of this group of voters at the ruthless denial of their rights and privileges by many office holders.

Rising high above the din that marked other clashes for the nomiation honors was the spectacular and thrilling contest waged by Sheriff Otto Ray for re-nomination. Ray, unofficial returns indicate, will be declared winner over Claude Shover, organization candidate by a 3,000 majority. Back and forth, for hours after the task of tabulating the vote had begun shortly after close of the polls, Tuesday, Ray and his organization opponent see-sawed for first place in the three-cornered race. It was not until Thursday that reliable unofficial returns revealed Sheriff Ray the winner. While the size of his victory was less than that of two years ago when he also ran against the endorsement of the regular organization, the opposition furnished by Shover was considerably more stiff. With the support of The Recorder, Ray gathered the votes needed for success in the colored districts, early returns indicated.

McKinney Defeats Noone

Other Democrats (all bearing organization endorsement) nominated are: for congress, eleventh district, Dr. William H. Larrabee, incumbent; Louis Ludlow, incumbent, twelfth district; prosecuting attorney, Herbert M. Spencer, incumbent and unopposed; for joint state senator, John Bright Webb, incumbent; for state senator, Jacob Weiss, A. Leroy Portteus, and E. Curtis White.

For Joint representative, Harry Hill.

Running mates of the Rev. Mr. Talley, for state representatives are: Edward Barry, Charley Lutz, Bess Robins, Adolph Emhardt, Ernest Ropkey, James McCaslin, Lawrence A. Miller, Herbert Wadsworth, Edward Wakelam, and Ollie Bach.

Frank McKinney administered a decisive defeat to Miss Hannah Noone for the treasurer nomination. Other nominees are: for coroner, Ethelbert Wilson, surveyor, Blomeker; for commissioners, John Newhouse and Dow Vornies.

Beckwith Among Leaders In G.O.P. Legislative Race

In one of the bitterest primary elections in recent years, candidates bearing the endorsements of regular Republican and Democratic organizations smashed their way to victory in most of the instances where stubborn resistance was offered at the Primary Tuesday.

On the Republican side, Frank R. Beckwith, attorney, defeated for the nomination for city councilman two years, came through flying colors, among the leaders of the legislative ticket that will enter the fall battle for a seat in the lower house. While official returns trickled only slowly through the grist mill of the canvassing board, sufficient substatiation had been given the unofficial indications, late Thursday night that Beckwith would finish first or second among the legislative candidates, with the possibility of reaching 15,000 votes. The Rev. S. S. Reed, the other colored candidate for the legislative nomination trailed hopelessly among those doomed to receive less than sufficient votes to place among the coveted first eleven places. Beckwith loomed as one of the most popular candidates, having not only regular organization support but that of many other Republican organizations as well.

"Regulars" Win

Republicans bearing the endorsements of the regular Marion county organization appear certain of carrying the party's standard into the fall election. Heading the list is Homer Elliott, who was given a "run for his money" by the youthful Albert J. Beverage, Jr., son of the late U. S. Senator, in the race for twelfth district nomination for congress. In the eleventh district, Samuel H. Shank appears certain to cross the line several lengths ahead in a field of six.

Though defeated for election in the echo of the Democratic landslide of two years ago, William Henry Harrison, grandson of the late President, again has won the right to enter the finals in the race for prosecutor, beating off stiff competition. Linton A. Cox romped away with the nomination for joint state senator.

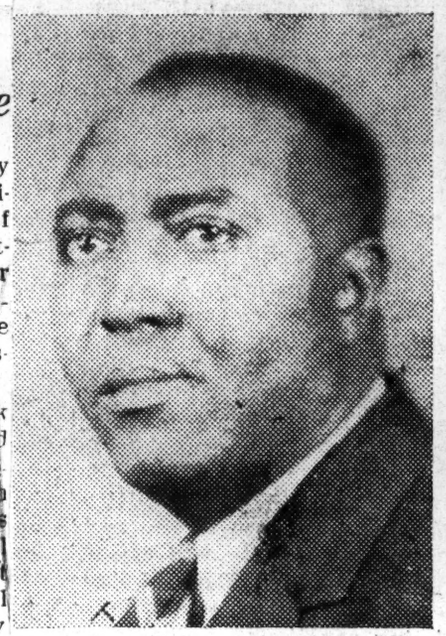
Republican nominees for state senator are, M. Armstrong, John W. Atherto oseph E. Hartman, and Alvah Waggoner, Hazel O. Blackwell was unopposed for joint state representative.

Running near or behind Beckwith, other Republicans who appear to be nominated for state representatives are, Mrs. Fletcher, Walter Glass, J. Otto Lee, Addison M. Dowling, Harry W. Claffey, Thomas C. Batchelor, Charles P Ehlers, Walter J. Mercer, Edward Witchmeyer and Frank J. Noll.

Other winners for county offices include, Frank Cones, treasurer William Bosson, Jr., sheriff; Ralph Coble, coroner; George Schmidt, surveyor; George E. Kincaid county commissioner.

Though voting in the primary was light in comparison with the turnout of Democrats, party leaders were jubilant, expressing the belief that their present line-up chosen Tuesday will attain an unbroken victory in the fall struggle.

Hold Primary Spotlight



FRANK R. BECKWITH

HENRY J. RICHARDSON

THE REV. M. A. TALLEY

One Republican, Frank Beckwith, and one Democrat, the Rev. Marshall A. Talley, were nominated by members of their parties as candidates for state representative from Marion county.

Denied Democratic organization endorsement because of his fight for civil rights for his race, Henry J. Richardson, twice a member of the legislature, was defeated for renomination.

Political – 1936
Elections.

Illinois.

DePriest Gets Nomination For Congress; Mitchell To Be Opponent. Haynes Wins

Globe 4-17-36 Nashville, Tenn.

Roscoe Simmons Named G. O. P. District Delegate To The National Convention

Alva L. Bates Named Sanitary Trustee: Ernest A. Greene, Charles J. Jenkins, William Warfield and Dr. A. N. Gordon picked for seats in Illinois Legislature.

Chicago, Ill. (Special Dispatch)—The "Old Roman," Hon. Oscar De Priest more than likely will be the next congressman from the famous first district of Illinois which he so ably represented for six years as the first representative of the colored race to sit in the national law-making body for more than a generation, and the first of his race to go to congress from a northern state. Mr. De Priest, along with a number of other stalwart political leaders of the Windy City breezed through to victory in the hectic primary battle waged here on Tuesday of this week. He defeated the Hon. Louis B. Anderson former alderman of Chicago. Mr. De Priest also retained his place as the committeeman from the second ward, defeating the redoubtable Major Robert R. Jackson city alderman, for the post. His victory is being warmly applauded throughout the nation, because De Priest undoubtedly made an impression among liberal people of both races as a fine type of faithful and courageous leader of his party and his people.

As Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, first colored Democrat ever to sit in congress, also won his party's nomination against two opponents, the first district is to witness a warm battle between two colored men as opposite in their methods of political leadership as the poles. Mr. Mitchell is believed here in Chicago will be unable to muster a very large following of his own race who are in a large majority in the district, and this because he has not impressed his constituents as being a "true blue" contended for the constitutional rights of his people. He will rely almost wholly on the support of the national administration of his party as a means of retaining his seat in congress.

NOMINATED BY THE REPUBLICANS

HON. OSCAR DEPRIEST,
Other Stalwarts Win

While the De Priest victory was outstanding from a national viewpoint, there were other primary results that give inspiration to the colored race. One of these which will be of great interest to the readers of the Nashville Globe and Independent was the victory of Attorney William H. Haynes as one of the twelve men nominated for municipal judgeships in Chicago. Mr. Haynes, the son of the late Rev. Wm. Haynes, a great Baptist leader of Nashville and the nation, is an able lawyer, upright Christian gentleman, and received the endorsement of the great Chicago Tribune, "World's Greatest Newspaper," members of the Chicago bar and many civic bodies of both races. He has a bright chance to be elected in November.

Roscoe C. Simmons, the well known orator, defated the Rev. J. C. Austin in a contest for delegate to the Republican National Convention waged in the first district.

Other Republican winners were four well known men for positions in the Illinois Legislature. They are Ernest A. Greene, Charles J. Jenkins, William Warfield and Dr. Adolphus N. Gordon.

The smashing victory for the Hon. Oscar DePriest as well as that for other victorious candidates in the Republican primary, represent a great achievement in political generalship for Senator William E. King and he who was re-elected Committeman from the Third Ward, defeating Alderman R. B. Jackson at the Republican Primary Tuesday, and who was nominated on the Republican ticket for the First Congressional District in Chicago, defeating Louis B. Anderson, former Alderman, by nearly three to one vote, with only three precincts missing.

is being hailed as the most forceful state political leader of the colored race. In his battle to put over the nomination of Oscar De Priest and other men he clashed with the Hon. William L. Dawson, alderman and former ally of Oscar De Priest who this time backed the candidacy of the Hon. Louis B. Anderson. King saved the day for De Priest by a majority estimated at three to one over the vote Dawson was able to muster for Anderson. King at the same time by another three to one triumph captured the ward committee post from Dawson, his rival "Warwick."

Colored voters of Chicago present-

Although he had no opponent in the primary, President showed remarkable strength in the state, and Republicans are anxious to make no mistake in selecting their nominee for the Presidency it will take a strong, popular m to defeat the President Roosevelt Illinois this year.

ed a solid phalanx in support endorsement to President Frank Knox, and their vote decisive in sending Senator J. Borah down to defeat. Borah has now been defeated in New York and Illinois, and believed he is no longer a for the Republican nomination the event Col. Knox fails to nomination for President it derstood that Illinois delegate to swing their strength cit Gov. Landon or Senator Arth Vendenberg.

Illinois.

Political – 1936
Elections.

DePriest Gets Nomination For Congress; Mitchell To Be Opponent. Haynes Wins

Globe 4-17-36 Nashville Tenn.

Roscoe Simmons Named G. O. P. District Delegate To The National Convention

Alva L. Bates Named Sanitary Trustee: Ernest A. Greene, Charles J. Jenkins, William Warfield and Dr. A. N. Gordon picked for seats in Illinois Legislature.

Chicago, Ill. (Special Dispatch)—The "Old Roman," Hon. Oscar De Priest more than likely will be the next congressman from the famous first district of Illinois which he so ably represented for six years as the first representative of the colored race to sit in the national law-making body for more than a generation, and the first of his race to go to congress from a northern state. Mr. De Priest, along with a number of other stalwart political leaders of the Windy City breezed through to victory in the hectic primary battle waged here on Tuesday of this week. He defeated the Hon. Louis B. Anderson former alderman of Chicago. Mr. De Priest also retained his place as the committeeman from the second ward, defeating the redoubtable Major Robert R. Jackson city alderman, for the post. His victory is being warmly applauded throughout the nation, because De Priest undoubtedly made an impression among liberal people of both races as a fine type of faithful and courageous leader of his party and his people.

As Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, first colored Democrat ever to sit in congress, also won his party's nomination against two opponents, the first district is to witness a warm battle between two colored men as opposite in their methods of political leadership as the poles. Mr. Mitchell is believed here in Chicago will be unable to muster a very large following of his own race who are in a large majority in the district, and this because he has not impressed his constituents as being a "true blue," contended for the constitutional rights of his people. He will rely almost wholly on the support of the national administration of his party as a means of retaining his seat in congress.

NOMINATED BY THE REPUBLICANS

HON. OSCAR DEPRIEST,
Other Stalwarts Win

While the De Priest victory was outstanding from a national viewpoint, there were other primary results that give inspiration to the colored race. One of these which will be of great interest to the readers of the Nashville Globe and Independent was the victory of Attorney William H. Haynes as one of the twelve men nominated for municipal judgeships in Chicago. Mr. Haynes, the son of the late Rev. Wm. Haynes, a great Baptist leader of Nashville and the nation, is an able lawyer, upright Christian gentleman, and received the endorsement of the great Chicago Tribune, "World's Greatest Newspaper," members of the Chicago bar and many civic bodies of both races. He has a bright chance to be elected in November.

Roscoe C. Simmons, the well known orator, defated the Rev. J. C. Austin in a contest for delegate to the Republican National Convention waged in the first district.

Other Republican winners were four well known men for positions in the Illinois Legislature. They are Ernest A. Greene, Charles J. Jenkins, William Warfield and Dr. Adolphus N. Gordon.

The smashing victory for the Hon. Oscar DePriest as well as that for other victorious candidates in the Republican primary, represent a great achievement in political generalship for Senator William E. King and he who was re-elected Committeman from the Third Ward, defeating Alderman R. B. Jackson at the Republican Primary Tuesday, and who was nominated on the Republican ticket for the First Congressional District in Chicago, defeating Louis B. Anderson, former Alderman, by nearly three to one vote, with only three precincts missing.

is being hailed as the most forceful state political leader of the colored race. In his battle to put over the nomination of Oscar De Priest and other men he clashed with the Hon. William L. Dawson, alderman and former ally of Oscar De Priest who this time backed the candidacy of the Hon. Louis B. Anderson. King saved the day for De Priest by a majority estimated at three to one over the vote Dawson was able to muster for Anderson. King at the same time by another three to one triumph captured the ward committee post from Dawson, his rival "Warwick."

Colored voters of Chicago present-

Although he had no opponent in ed a solid phalanx in support of the primary, President Roosevelt endorsement to President showed remarkable strength in the Frank Knox, and their vote state, and Republicans are anxious decisive in sending Senator to make no mistake in selecting Borah down to defeat. their nominee for the Presidency Borah has now been defeated it will take a strong, popular New York and Illinois, and to defeat the President Roosevelt believed he is no longer a Illinois this year. for the Republican nomination the event Col. Knox fails to nomination for President it derstood that Illinois delegates to swing their strength Gov. Landon or Senator Vendenberg.

BITTER FIGHT OF 1934 WILL BE RENEWED

Both Candidates Begin Mapping Campaign For November

By J. W. HARRINGTON

The bitter, gruelling and relentless battle of 1934 in the First congressional district between Oscar DePriest and Arthur W. Mitchell will be fought all over next November, when the former representative and his successor make their bids for favor at the hands of the voters in the general election.

This fight was made certain this week when complete tabulation of Tuesday's voting showed DePriest had swamped former Alderman Louis B. Anderson for the Republican nomination, while Congressman Mitchell was shown to have sailed easily along to a whirlwind victory over two rivals, who offered only weak opposition.

Both Congressman Mitchell and his predecessor predict success in the fall, Mitchell claiming his regime has been exceedingly creditable, and will carry him back to congress, while DePriest contends his defeat was a freak event resulting from the Democratic landslide and that when the people have their chance to express themselves soberly, as they will in November, he will be returned to congress.

Governor Triumphs

Riding the crest of a tidal wave of Democratic votes, which had been designed to engulf him, Gov. Henry Horner rode to a victory much more glorious than any other ever chalked up for a gubernatorial candidate in the history of the Prairie state.

Opposed by the powerful Chicago and Cook county machine, the governor climbed through the avalanche and emerged victorious last Tuesday and now is being accredited with having accomplished a feat without precedent in the annals of modern political affairs. His victory was tremendous!

It appears now, in view of the fact that Governor Horner shortly after his great victory, received long distance telephone calls from Postmaster General James Farley, and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, commending him, that the Illinois chief executive is in line to be the national mouthpiece for the Democratic forces in Illinois.

In checking the various wards where Jewish people live, it appeared evident without a doubt that Governor Horner was not deserted by his own people. They broke down party lines and surrendered political ties to help one of their own. From this our group might find an object lesson.

Wiseacres in Democratic circles are saying that the Horner forces are destined to shape the political policies for Illinois by rerouting its leadership to downstate, instead of Chicago. Horner's downstate majority was estimated at 303,000, which gives to the downstate Democrats a seat near the head of the table in the councils of the party.

The crushing defeat of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, made possible by the inability of the Cook county organization to overcome Horner's downstate lead, threw the local organization in confusion. It is discussed in some centers that the Cook county forces, representing the regular organization, will retire to French Lick Springs to determine just how far the furious elements of political dissention has driven them from their due course. It is already indicated that the cooling process will have to be put on before any statements will be made involving their loyalty to the candidate.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATION TO DE PRIEST

To Run Against Arthur W. Mitchell for United States Congressman

By Cary B. Lewis

CHICAGO.—(Special) — Former Congressman Oscar DePriest, running for the Republican nomination for congressman from the first district, defeated former Alderman Louis B. Anderson in the primaries of Tuesday, April 14. Final vote on basis of the returns given out at the election bureau was

OSCAR DePRIEST 11,608
LOUIS B. ANDERSON 6,375

DePriest was the first Negro congressman from Illinois. He was the representative from the first congressional district, the richest congressional district in the United States. He rose from a plasterer to become an extensive real estate owner. He was born near Salina, Kas. Many of his relatives still live in the Sunflower state.

Entering politics, DePriest was elected county commissioner. In the days of the old second ward bitter scraps, DePriest and Major Robert R. Jackson, commander-in-chief of the uniform rank of the Knights of Pythias and a foreman in the old southside postoffice, then at Thirty-second and State street, fought it out at the polls, DePriest not only being nominated but coming back to win the election as first Negro alderman in the city of Chicago.

DePriest then had the backing of the regular second ward Republican organization, headed by the late Edward H. Wright. Anderson succeeded DePriest in the city council after serving some years as assistant city attorney. DePriest formed his own second ward organization and used the old Unity clubhouse at Thirty-first and Indiana as its headquarters.

OSCAR DePRIEST

Anderson was a popular member of the city council. He became not only floor leader for former Mayor William Hale Thompson but he was for years a member of the council's finance committee which passed on all appropriations and expenditures of monies.

DePriest and Wright Disagree

DePriest, known as a strong political figure as well as a fiery one, and Edward H. Wright couldn't agree. Anderson and Wright went along together only to part after Wright had been named Illinois commerce commissioner, the first Negro to hold that position in the state, and Wright supported Len Small, then governor and Fred Lundin, Republican power behind the throne, against Thompson for re-election for mayor.

Wright and his organization supported John Dill Robertson, head of the West Parks board, who was badly defeated in the primaries. In some sort of a last minute deal small went over to Thompson leaving Wright who had stuck with him "holding the bag." Wright had not been warned of the then governor's move. The result was disastrous for Wright.

Prior to this move on the part of the Negro czar, Anderson, Adelbert Roberts and other former stalwarts left the Wright organization. Even Wright's wife was found wearing an "Anderson badge" on election.

Negroes complained for several years about not having a member of their race on the school board. The blame was placed on the inability of Wright and DePriest to get together on a candidate when Thompson was in office. The Negroes in Chicago still have no representation on the school board here.

Power Increases

After Thompson's last election and the death of Wright, DePriest grew stronger in power. He practically controlled the second ward. He was named to serve out the unfinished term of Congressman Martin B. Madden who died in Washington. Madden although living in Wheaton, Ill., continued to keep his "voting residence" in the second ward. It had been Madden's wish that DePriest be the first Negro in congress from Illinois.

Following his serving out Madden's unfinished term, DePriest was sent back to Washington. In 1932, however, he was caught in the Democratic landslide and defeated by another Negro, Arthur W. Mitchell who on Tuesday swept through to win the Democratic nomination over two weak opponents who did not draw 4,000 votes between them while Mitchell's total was beyond 8,000.

Nominated For Judge

William H. Haynes, a graduate of Morehouse college in Atlanta and also a graduate of the University of Chicago law school, polled 113,449 to run sixth in the list of 12 Republicans nominated to oppose 12 Democrats in the fall election as municipal judges.

Haynes was a special prosecuting attorney in the famous Granady election killing case. He is a prominent young attorney of the firm of Haynes, Dawson, Moore and Wilkins. He is a special council for the National Baptist convention, Inc.

Chicago has had but one Negro judge. He was Albert B. George, made by Edward H. Wright who himself believed he (Wright) was the wrong complexion to be the first Negro to sit on the muncipal bench. George ran afoul of the Negro lawyers who claimed he was prejudiced to their clients. He, too, is said to have deserted Wright in his last days.

Attorney Alva Bates, another well known barrister; was nominated to the sanitary district, the first Negro to be so nominated in this city. The Republican voters gave him a total of 107,205.

State Senator William E. King, the only Negro state senator in the state, won over William L. Dawson, World War veteran and an attorney, for Republican committeeman of the second ward. King polled 9,781 votes, Dawson, 4,714. King was supported by DePriest. Dawson, present alderman from ward two, was backed by the Anderson forces.

Chicago's Negro People In the Election Campaign

• The Negro district of Chicago's South Side, always a political hot spot, in this election campaign has become the most agitatedly boiling cauldron in its political history.

Hearst, Landon and the Liberty League-Wall Street crowd in general, and the lynch-inciting Chicago Tribune in particular, are looking to "Uncle Tom" Oscar de Priest to make the South Side look like a meek and submissive sunflower patch on Nov. 3.

But exposing de Priest, Republican candidate, and receiving a very attentive ear among the tens of thousands of awakened Negro voters is the exemplary campaign of Harry Haywood, noted Negro leader, and Communist candidate for Congressman.

"I accuse!", a statement exposing de Priest, issued by Harry Haywood, has had a wide distribution.

De Priest is shown up for what he is, a betrayer of his people to the Wall Street, Morgan, Hearst, duPont, Mellon gang.

Arthur Mitchell, Democratic candidate, comes in for his share of withering attack by Harry Haywood, for dodging the campaign issues before the Negro people.

The first concern of the Negro people along with need of the overwhelming majority of the rest of the population in the United States is to defeat the standard-bearer of Wall Street—Alfred Mossman Landon.

Harry Haywood's campaign should be a concentration center for rallying a big and impressive vote for the Communist Party as leader in the fight for Negro rights.

Indiana

Political - 1936
Elections.

LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATES

When the voters of Marion county go to the polls next Tuesday they will have an opportunity to support five colored men in their campaigns to enter the state legislature. Three Democrats and two Republicans are seeking the opportunity to serve their community and their race in the important state law-making body.

Republicans will find among the names of those seeking to be chosen one of the eleven nominees for the legislature that of Frank R. Beckwith. Though only a young man, Mr. Beckwith has evinced a lively interest in civic and community affairs since a small boy. Long before reaching voting age, he began acquiring, through contact, an insight into the workings and methods of political organizations. Under former Governor Leslie, he served four years as the state's first colored supervisor of Negro Welfare for the Industrial board. Two years ago he was a candidate for nomination as city councilman. In the short span of four years, Mr. Beckwith has built up a wide practice and enviable reputation as a lawyer. His friends say no man has been more loyal both in office and out of office to the party of his choice and the principles for which it stands than Frank Beckwith. He is an interesting and forceful speaker having appeared in all parts of the state during recent political campaigns. His honesty, sincerity of purpose, lofty idealism and race interest are characteristics for which his name is a synonymn. He is the author of the free school transportation bill that is saving parents of colored school children of Marion county more than $35,000 each year.

Supporting the bid of the Rev. Samuel S. Reed, pastor of the Greater St. John's Baptist church, for the Republican nomination as state representative is an impressive record for fearlessness, honesty, constructive effort, unimpeachable character, and racial uplift. The Rev. Mr. Reed is considered one of the most eloquent and gifted ministers in the state and has been so honored by important positions of leadership in numerous state organizations of both a religious and lay character. He recently acted as spokesman for a large East side delegation that presented demands, favored by thousands of parents, asking that a new colored high school be built in order that the standard of education of the colored youth of the city be restored to the highest level possible. The Rev. Mr. Reed is widely respected as an outstanding citizen, race leader, champion of right, and a Christian gentleman. His sterling character inspires confidence in his ability to serve his people well.

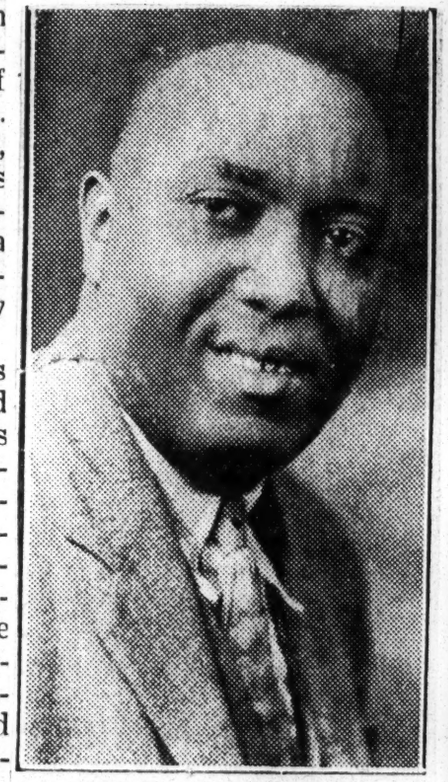
In the Democratic primary, Henry J. Richardson, Jr., successful attorney is seeking renomination for a third term as state representative. Few of the men honored with seats in the legislature have forged as brilliant a record of conscientious, untiring, intelligent, and constructive effort as has Representative Richardson. Few, if any are they who are not acquainted with the long list of progressive measures sponsored and supported by this implacable foe of segregation, discrimination, and class bigotry. He won the admiration of friend and foe alike when, during the past regular session of the legislature, he single-handedly championed a measure to increase the penalties under the civil rights law for the purpose of helping eradicate the stigma of bitter race prejudice heaped upon the heads of the state's colored population. He is author of a law which creates work opportunities for members of his race through prohibition of discrimination on public works because of color. Another measure sponsored by him and passed by three sessions of the legislature will remove the bar which keeps Negroes of the state out of the militia if the final constitutional amendment requiring approval of the voters is met.

A newcomer in local politics, the Rev. Marshall A. Talley, pastor of the Mt. Zion Baptist church has achieved a national reputation in the fields of religion and political economy as an able thinker, keen analyst, and forceful speaker. As a race leader, the Rev. Mr. Talley has throughout his thirty years as pastor of various churches in widely different sections of the country, taken a helpful and active part in the life of the communities he has served. A man of inherently sterling character, he has successfully exercised himself as a living example of the Christian doctrine he so eloquently expounds. His executive and administrative abilities stand out in bold relief against the background of the mammoth Sunday School Congress held last year and of which he is dean. Every church of which he has been pastor felt the tremendous stimulant to independence his profound understanding of the problems of church financing afforded. His latest literary work, a book entitled, "A Socratic Exposition of Genesis", has created international interest; a new scientific method of studying the Bible. He is a member of the advisory committee to Secretary of Commerce Roper that successfully urged employment of Negro experts.

Not the least of the legislative candidates is Jefferson Davis Clinton, speaker and thinker who has achieved unusual progress through sound training in the school of practical experience. Mr. Clinton while endorsing the present administration, would extend its policies to include social and economic justice for all American citizens regardless of race or creed. He favors the adoption of a program of constructive legislation that finds its greatest recommendation in the support of common sense and time honored practice. Mr. Clinton a candidate for the Democratic nomination two years ago, is a politician of the kind who include in the professions of community and racial interests an uninterrupted display of the virtues of real manhood.

There are elevent nominees to be chosen in each party and colored voters should give their fullest support to these fine, upstanding candidates.

Common sense and the dictates of group interest favor the 100 per cent support of these men by colored members of their respective parties.



FRANK R. BECKWITH

BECKWITH VOWS TO AID WOMEN

"The Republican party is neither ashamed to face its past or afraid to face its future," declared Frank R. Beckwith as he entered a whirlwind close to his campaign for the G.O.P. nomination as Marion county representative to the state legislature.

Decrying the policy of the opposition party in turning its back upon women, Mr. Beckwith, through his last-minute speeches, called upon the women to help save the country from ultimate ruin.

"It is the good women of America who have rallied to the call, whether political or otherwise, in every great crisis," he said. "They will save America from ruin by their activities in the Republican party this year. I pledge to work for a reduction in taxes by economy in the operating cost of government. This, I feel, will enable us to get back to sane living with a security of feeling which will inspire a return of the ambition to own homes and stabilize the institution of family life.

"Crime, immorality and the like have all followed in the wake of reckless spending on the part of governments. The Income Tax law and other inequitable levies and assessments against those engaged in business are necessarily reflected in the costs of living nd in many instances those who feel that they do not pay taxes merely because there is no assessment in their names are the heaviest payers of it."

Leader

Amplifying his charge of the old shoulder given women by the Democrats, Attorney Beckwith said, "As an institution, the Republican party has established the noble precedent of providing suitably for the employment of widows and workers of its deceased veteran leaders and workers. I pledge to you my personal interest and influence for the continuance of such a policy and for an extension of it as soon as the Republican party is restored to power.

NOLEN PLEDGES RECOGNITION OF RACE IF ELECTED SHERIFF

A very vigorous campaign for nomination for sheriff of Marion County on the Republican ticket is being made by Truly Nolen, 2407 N. Meridian street. He has been a resident of Marion County for 26 years, and many complimentary remarks are heard from prominent men and women as to his fitness for the office of sheriff.

Mr. Nolen makes it plain that he stands for the Abe Lincoln brand of Republicanism: "A government of the people, by the people, and for the people." In almost every instance throughout his campaign, before both white and colored audience, he has declared it to be his conviction that Abraham Lincoln was the greatest man and the most sympathetic friend of the whole human race, that has lived on this planet since Christ Jesus. He has appealed to what he terms the G-Men (that host of humanity which is having to look to the government for its daily bread) to be brave and not be afraid to let their friends know that they belong to Abraham Lincoln's party. He said that fear was handling a great many of these G-Men and causing them to forsake their party, their principles and their freedom.

Mr. Nolen pledges that if nominated and elected, colored people will be given representation on his staff of employes in at least the same proportion as that given by the present sheriff. If possible, he says, the number of jobs now held by colored people in the sheriff's office will be increased under him.

He stands always for the humane treatment of prisoners. He says:

"I promise the taxpayers that the office will be free from the slightest taint of political "bossism" of any kind. I have no entangling alliances whatsoever, and expect to be Sheriff of all Marion county, treat all alike, regardless of political affiliations, or any other affiliations, and remain free from the Spoils System.

"I pledge the taxpayers of Marion county the same efficiency which characterized my seventeen years' service as City Department superintendent. This efficiency has been testified to, and is on public record, as shown by the statements quoted below."

Mr. Jeup, former City Engineer: "Truly Nolen has conducted the affairs so well that his methods of organization and collection are being adopted by other cities."

Reginald Sullivan, former mayor: "Truly Nolen's department has done the work so thoroughly and well that the public is satisfied. This means a great deal."

TRULY NOLEN

Lucius Swift, former Sanitary head, "Truly Nolen had our ideas about politics in city work and was not a man to be trifled with. The story of how politics was frozen out, how acting under Nolen's advice, we completely revolutionized the collection service, is most interesting. Our work became a purely business transaction."

Nolen is married, has seven children and is a Royal Arch Mason, and a Christian gentleman. One who has always been a man of great sympathy and kindness toward colored people. Vote for a friend of the race. Ballot No. 77.

Rev. M. A. Talley Only Race Member To Win Seat In Lower House

Legislator

When the shouting and tumult that followed the largest and most gripping political battle Marion county and Indiana has ever witnessed had died down Tuesday, election returns, unofficially tabulated, indicated that the Rev. Marshall A. Talley, pastor of the Mt. Zion Baptist church, this city, will be the only colored member of the next General Assembly, having been swept to record-breaking victory in the avalanche of Democratc votes that inundated Republican opponents almost in every section of the nation.

Unable to withstand the crushing pressure of the smooth-working Democratic organization, Frank R. Beckwith, Republican candidate for the same office went down to defeat along with his G. O. P. colleagues. Talley was given a vote of 122,740 to 87,889 for Beckwith, placing ninth among eleven elected.

James Wright, Gary G. O. P. candidate for the state's house of representatives was also a victim of the Roosevelt-Townsend landslide.

Sheriff Ray Leads

Among the Marion county Democrats swept to victory, Sheriff Otto Ray led the local ticket by more than 100 votes, a tribute to his popularity, impartiality, and the efficiency with which he has conducted his office to the good of the community.

The Rev. Mr. Talley, nationally recognized Baptist leader, outstanding orator, author, and race lover, came here five years ago as pastor of the Mt. Zion church, during which time he has won recognition as a leader possesed of sterling character, unexcelled ability and high ambition tempered by the milk of human kindness and sympathy for his fellow men. He yielded to an invitation to seek the Assembly only after thousands of his fellow citizens of both races had urged him to enter the primary last May, in which he defeated Henry J. Richardson, Jr., Democrat, who served two terms as state representative from Marion county, being the first of his race to win such an honor in forty years.

Rev. Marshall A. Talley

pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist church, prominent in state and national religious circles was swept into office as state representative from Marion County. Rev. Talley comes highly prepared to represent the Negro in the state's law-making body, it is said, having been graduated and studied in several leading universities in the East before coming to this city to take over his present charge.

Negroes Now Democratic

Notwithstanding the terrific battle waged by both major parties for the lion's share of the colored vote, unofficial returns reveal that approximately 70 per cent of the colored voters of this county and state marked the Democratic ballot. No little credit for this unprecedented entry of colored voters into Democratic ranks has been attributed to the intelligent activity and cooperation of colored Democratic leaders in both county and state, in withstanding the intensive efforts made by their GOP opponents to hold their erstwhile allies of sixty years to Republican allegiance.

The ingratiating personality of President Roosevelt and the hope rebuilding promise of his New Deal, interpretated in terms of relief and recovery measures formed the basis upon which Democratic leaders built their towering victory.

Voting Records Broken

Voting among colored people of the county and state exceeded that of anything known before in local politics. In many precincts almost 100 per cent vote was recorded, attesting the tremendous interest displayed by the voters. In the twenty-eight colored precincts of the county, officials reported nearly 90 per cent of the total registered vote had been cast by noon in Tuesday's balloting. Contrary to general prediction, little violence marked the casting of votes, despite a palpable intensity of feelings with which the campaign was waged by adherents of both parties.

Clifford Townsend, Democratic candidate for Governor, defeated Raymond Springer, Republican, by a plurality of 178,000 in the state, running behind Roosevelt's defeat of Landon for President by a margin of 240,000.

Political – 1936
Elections.

Iowa

SEEKING A GOOD OUT

Recently it became necessary to suggest a Negro for a political job. While those in authority claimed to recognize the justice of the request, the substantial objection was that a Negro would not work well in the place; that at times it would be embarrassing to him and the public in the performance of the duties involved. 2-28-36

Admitting that the Negro applicant is competent there is no job where this superficial objection should stop an appointment. Experience has taught that where suitable Negroes have been appointed not only have they served well, but generally they have been especially popular with the white employees. And generally in those cases where this is not the case as much responsibility for the failure can be traced to the unfair attitude of the head of the institution as to the short comings of the employee.

The Bystander insists that if the authorities have the courage to grant the opportunity, in most cases the Negro applicant will make good. It is no answer that the races won't work together.

DES MOINES, IA.
TRIBUNE

APR 27 1936

Urges Negro Be Appointed

Petition Results in Protest.

A communication to the city council asking that J. Nelson Thompson, Negro lawyer, be appointed to the civil service commission Monday brought Negroes in the city council chamber to their feet.

It appeared to be the signature to the communication, "Negro Voters of the City," which caused apparent displeasure to some.

Charles P. Howard, Negro attorney, said there was no Negro organization in the city bearing the name signed to the petition. Howard said he knew nothing about the communication, but favored appointment of Negroes to public commissions.

The Rev. R. M. Powell suggested that the council meet with all Negro groups in the city before considering communications of the type submitted.

The council took no action.

WHY NEGROES COMPLAIN

After the wreckage produced by the election has cleared away, opportunity for a survey of what caused the defeat of local Republican candidates and what those elected and their friends must do to win back Negroes who voted for the Democratic ticket other than because of relief.

Many Negroes voted the local Democratic ticket on the strength that they were supporting Roosevelt. The same situation prevailed in some votes for local Republican candidates on the theory that they were helping Landon. This is true of many white people as well. These people are not considered here for emergencies determine their vote.

On the other hand there was a group of Negroes—many of them with some influence to be sure—who argued and voted against the Republican ticket in protest of the inadequate representation they have been accorded both at the State House and Court House. And while their number is not large, their argument made it easier for those who voted their sentiment on the basis of relief to come out bodly for the Democratic ticket.

In the matter of justice in the courts and courteous service in the respective offices Negroes have absolutely no cause to complain. However in the matter of representation some have given Negroes absolutely no consideration; others have. It is this situation which needs correcting; it is this situation to which Negroes point and say that some Republicans are doing nothing in spite of the loyal support they have had all these years. For instance they say the treasurer, auditor, clerk and county attorney's offices have no Negroes and yet many clerks and officers are employed in each.

While the victory of the county officers and the deflection of Negro voters from the Republican ranks are fresh in the minds of political leaders and office holders, a definite plan should be perfected to get them together and heal this gap. It is a situation which can and should be corrected immediately.

Political – 1936
Elections.

Kansas

Forrest B. Anderson Looms as Possible Winner In Dist. Race, Says Scribe

Kansas City Lawyer Has Notable Record as Civic Leader And Community Builder

By Cato A. Kelly

Considerable interest is being manifested on the part of Negroes in the coming primary and general election. For the past few weeks, political pots have been more or less normal. Republican candidates are beginning to realize that the Landon band wagon will not carry all of the load unless there is some pushing here in Wyandotte county.

One of the most interesting topics of discussion among Negroes is about the Eighth Representative district. Around the court house, the city hall, in the homes, on the streets, at the churches, in barber shops and anywhere two or more persons meet this question comes up, "Well, what do you think about the representative fight"? and to this question you can hear many different answers. but lawmakers of this United States, the country that his grandfather served as a soldier in order that Negroes might have a right to vote; and now he is asking you to vote for him in order that he might continue the fight for the race—not with guns, not with radicalism but as a man with his hands free to represent you with intelligence and through the constitution of the United States.

Anderson made his first appearance in Kansas City in 1900 almost broke; he told me that he had 21 cents. But that was a lot of money for a country boy to have in those days. He immediately found work as a bus boy at the old Midland hotel. During the period from 1902 to 1911, Anderson's experiences were wide and many, but the youngster was always seeking to better his condition and showing traits of leadership. In 1902 he joined the waiters' union in Chicago and led a strike for higher wages. In 1903 Anderson entered the state of Mass., where he spent 12 years. It was in this state that Anderson realized that Negroes must equip themselves to compete in America and so he started his education which finally ended in the law profession. In 1915 Anderson made his second appearance in Kansas City, but he was a different man from the young country lad who entered the city in 1900. He had completed his college work, he had finished a law course and was ready to embark into life as a professional leader. In 1916 he was engaged in the real estate business with the late Dr. George McNeal and in 1917 he started the practice of law. He has enjoyed a very lucrative practice and his name appears in the 1925 edition of "Who's Who In Colored America" for outstanding merits. In 1931 Anderson reorganized the local NAACP with the aid of a small group of civic minded citizens.

In 1932 he organized the Citizens League, one of the outstanding civic organizatons of Kansas City, Kansas, and was elected president. As president of the Citizens League he led the fight and defeate a bill before the legislature to redistrict the eighth representative district by extending the line into a community of white people which would have meant the elimination of the colored member of the legislature.

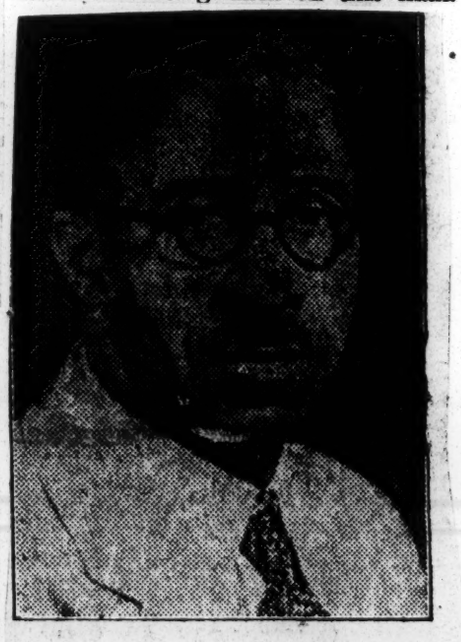
In 1933, as president of the Citizens League he organized and carried through a campaign to raise funds to aid the colored boys of Scottsboro, Alabama and sent the largest contribution that was sent in from any organization in Kansas City, Kansas.

He is a member of the advisory committee of the NRA of Kansas City, Kansas, a member of Pleasant Green Baptist church and other civic, political and social organizations.

All through the years his life's activity has been one of service for the advancement of his fellow man.

This brief bit of history will picture to you the real Forrest B. Anderson, what he stands for and what he will do when elected representative of the Eighth district. His colorful career in this community stands out and the people know him and that is the reason it is being talked that several other candidates will likely drop out and support him Mr. Anderson told me that the people could have faith in him, because he would not betray their trust.

He is indeed an interesting character to talk with and, perhaps at a later date, I shall give you some more interesting data on this man.



finally they all agree that the Negroes should concentrate their efforts and votes on one Negro candidate in order to make sure that the Negroes of Kansas will have representation.

The most talked of candidate in a field of four is Forrest B. Anderson, well known lawyer and civic leader of Kansas City, Kansas. In my recent survey around the city I found that Anderson's popularity is on a steady increase and he is far in the lead of any of his opponents.

Anderson was the first colored man to run for this office from this district, and made a very creditable showing in 1920, 1922, and 1924. It was his ambition to see Negroes have representation that awakened the people in Wyandotte county, Anderson led out and by constant hammering at the door the opportunity was opened and Dr. Wm. Blount won the election. Anderson was not a candidate against Dr. Blount, but supported him even when citizens asked him to run, because they felt that the man who knocked at the door should have the opportunity of walking in.

There is a strong sentiment in the Eighth district that Anderson is the best qualified man for the position. His stand on the race question and his activity in civic affars for the advancement of Negroes have won for hm a large following and from all indications they will not forget him at the primary. Already in many political circles, it is predicted that Anderson will poll 3,000 votes, the desired number required to assure nomination with the present setup of four Negro candidates and three whites all running on the Republican ticket.

A brief history of this character perhaps will make you better acquainted with him and you will better understand why he grows in the favor of the voters in the Eighth district. He was born on a farm April 1, 1884 in LaFayette county, Missouri of a family of eleven children. His grandfather was a soldier in the civil war and served in Company H, 123 U. S C. Inf. His mother and father inspired young Anderson with a training that has fitted him well and started him out in life to make an honest living. Since 1893 when Anderson, at the age of nine, rode a lead horse to a reaper in harvesting wheat, he has made steady progress in one of the greatest of professions, and now he stands at the threshold of being one of the

Kansans Win In Elections; To Get Posts

PARSONS, Kans. — (ANP) — A victorious court decision, one directly affecting the franchise rights of Negroes in every Jim Crow state in the nation, was handed down this week upholding the right of Parsons Negroes to serve as election officials and naming three colored women to serve in this capacity in the Second Precinct of the Third Ward.

The decision came after a hard fought battle for representation on the city's election board waged by J. W. Wright, colored Republican precinct committeeman, with Elisha Scott, well-known Topeka attorney, representing the women plaintiffs in the case.

Attorney Scott, in order to force a showdown in the matter and determine the attitude of city officials, on July 30, filed a petition for a writ of mandamus in the state supreme court, alleging that the city refused to appoint as election officials the persons recommended, as provided by law.

The matter came before the state tribunal with Mayor Ray Elam and other city officials as defendants, and with C. J. Taylor, City Attorney of Parsons, as attorney for the defendants.

A stipulation entered into and agreed upon, in the state supreme court on August 3, wrote the final chapter in the fight to protect the civil rights of Parsons' Negroes, and according to this adjustment, Mayor Elam agreed to pay the court costs of the action and to name "the following persons of African descent and color" as judges and clerks of the Second Precinct, Third Ward: Mrs. Forence W. Hadley, one of the judges, and Mrs. Nettie Fisher and Mrs. Birdie Worford, as clerks.

Race Candidates Swept Away In New Deal Tide; Only Few Able To Survive In The Hottest Election In American History

Kansas to Have Democratic Governor---Many Republican Candidates Are Defeated Throughout the State

(By James A. Hamlett, Jr.)

The people of the Nation have returned President Roosevelt to power for four more years by the largest vote ever given to a presidential candidate in the history of the United States. The avalanche of votes that swept down on Governor Landon is a clear cut answer that the American people prefer the continuation of the "New Deal," instead of the "American Way" offered by Governor Landon. The state of Kansas could not stem the tide of the "New Deal" and was caught in a Democratic flood as a Republican candidate for governor, Will G. West and many other candidates throughout the state were defeated.

Walter A. Huxman, Wichita attorney, is the new governor of Kansas. In Wyandotte county, the tide swept and took its toll. But the old Eighth district stood the storm with Attorney William H. Towers, Republican, as captain. Towers won a hard fought battle against Thomas Lysaught, a popular young white attorney. Towers' victory makes him Number one man in Wyandotte county for the Republican party, since all representatives are democrats, two district representatives and one state senator. Towers showed unusual strength in the district. More than 1,000 Negroes voted for Lysaught, and a 1,000 Negro votes taken from a candidate in the Eighth district cuts deep into a Negro's chance for election.

Towers will succeed Dr. Wm. Blount, who has held the place for eight years. Towers election was the hardest ever fought by the race to hold the place, because of the relief situation that took 1,000 colored votes from him. Blount always had easy sailing. Towers now looms as the leader of the Republican party among Negroes in the state and other groups as well.

DePriest Loses

Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell defeated Oscar DePriest in Chicago, Ill., with a plurality of 6,168 votes. Mitchell received 35,330 votes and Depriest 28,162, according to the Associated Negro Press. Although Depriest waged a strong campaign he was not able to withstand the Democratic avalanche that swept Illinois. Jenkins Richard Harewood, Ernest Green and William Warfield returned to the Illinois assembly.

Five to Legislature in "Philly"

In Philadelphia, the tide carried five Negro democrats into the Penn. legislature halls. Rev. Marshall Shepard, noted Baptist minister, who prayed at the Democratic National Convention and whom Senator Cotton Ed Smith took a walk on, was re-elected. Dr. Edwin Samuel Holmes, John Briggerman and William Allmond were also elected. Hobson Reynolds and Richard Cooper, Republicans up for re-election, were defeated by Briggerman and Holmes as Negroes showed a decided swing to Roosevelt on the relief issue.

In Cleveland

In Cleveland, the tide still sweeps. The Associated Negro Press gives this information: Negro wards turn democratic as Chester Gillespit, republican who fought the idea of the NAACP endorsing the Democratic party, loses assembly race. Harry Davis, republican, wins County charter commission membership.

Throughout the East reports have come into this office that thousands and thousands of Negroes supported the "New Deal." In most cases, the relief program, which has aided a large number of Negroes was responsible for the switch.

In Detroit

New York Negroes gave the "New Deal" undivided support. William Andrews and Robert Justice were re-elected to the assembly for a third and second trm.

Alxandr Wright of Norfolk and Addison Gale of Newport News, Va.. received small votes as Josephus Simpson of Richmond got scattering write-in vote. Gale and Wright were seeking office on the Communist ticket.

In Memphis

Memphis, Tenn. also took a walk to the "New Deal" columns. According to the Associated Press, 33 per cent of the Negro vote was cast for Roosevelt.

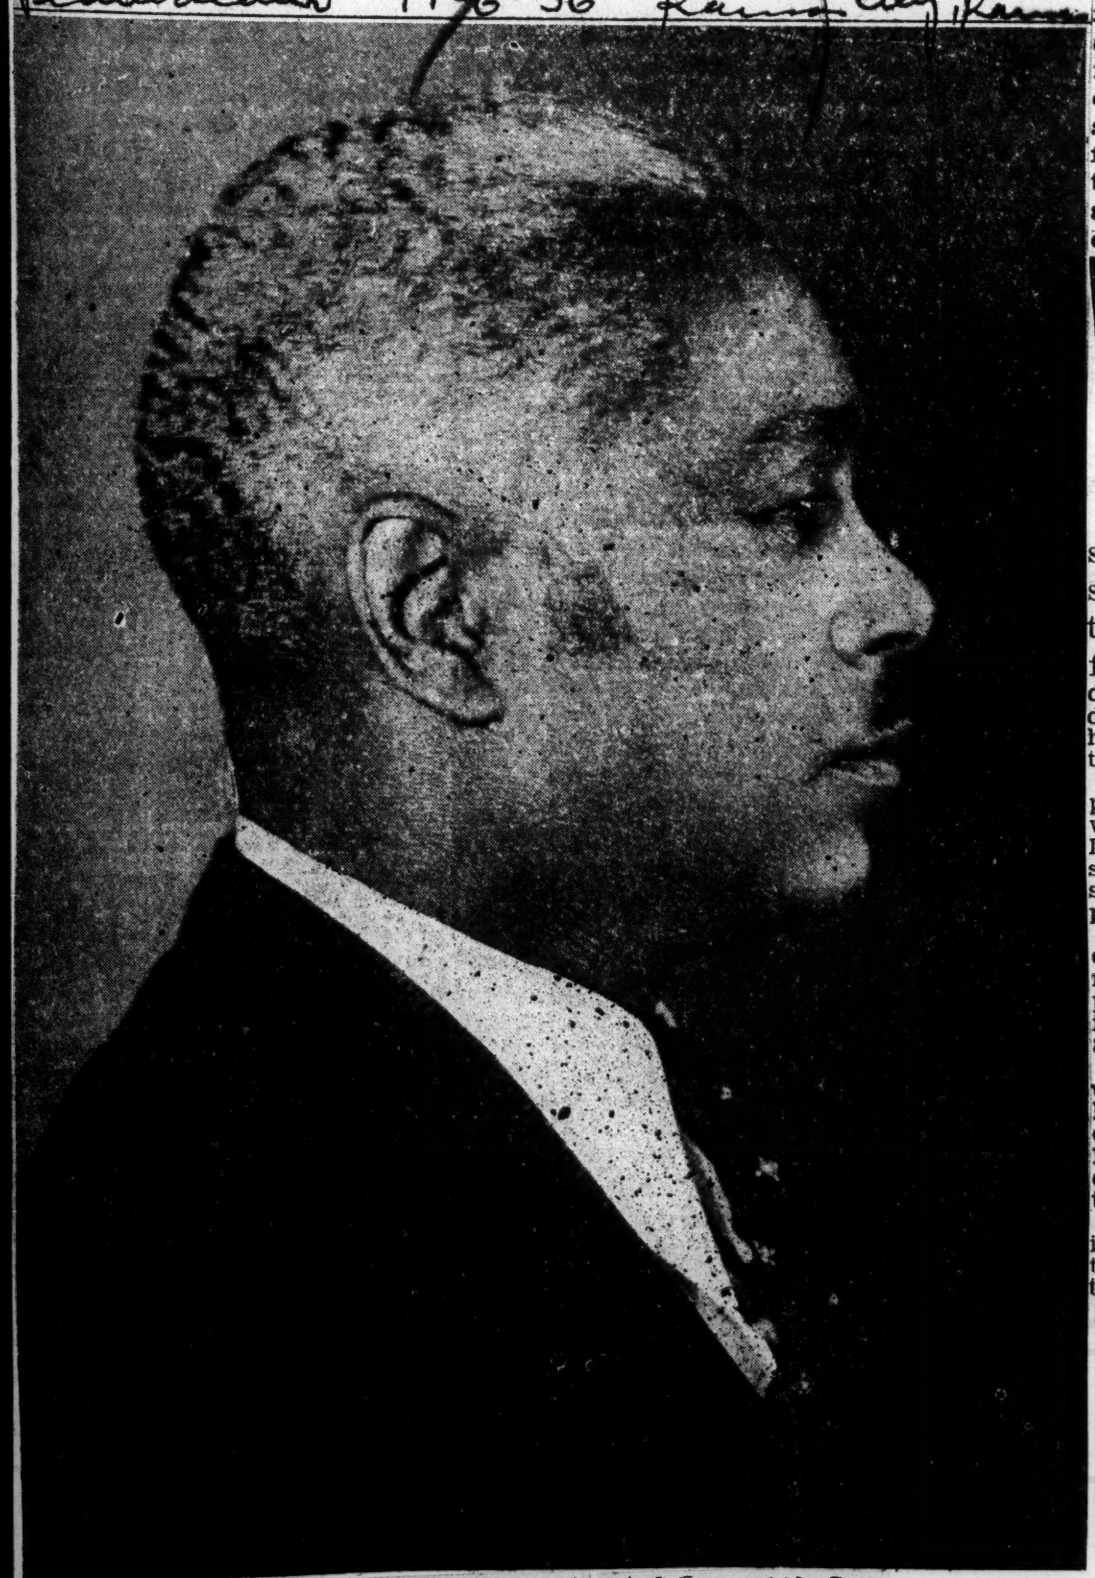
At this writing, no complete tabulations have been made as to what percentage of the total Negro vote in the United States supported Roosevelt, but the sweep carried large numbers. In Kansas, it is estimated that 50 per cent of the Negroes voted a protest against Governor Landon.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Kansas.

RIDES THE DEMOCRATIC TIDE

Plain dealer 11-6-36 Kansas City, Kans.



William H. Towers, assistant city attorney of Kansas City, Kansas, who was elected representative from the Eighth District. Towers was able to survive the democratic storm and land in office, succeeding Dr. Wm. Blount, who has held the office for 8 years. More than 1,000 Negroes in the district voted for a white democrat, but additional strength from the white area of the district contributed largely to Towers' victory. He had the hardest fight of any colored candidate to ever run for office. Dr. Blount always had easy sailing. Towers will be the only Republican representative in the state from Wyandotte county. Three other posts are held by white democrats.

WILLIAM TOWERS ELECTED TO KANSAS LEGISLATURE

William H. Towers, assistant city attorney in Kansas City, Kas., was elected to the Kansas legislature from the eighth legislative district in Wyandotte county Tuesday, becoming the third Negro to hold that position in the history of the Sunflower state.

Towers was one of the three Republican candidates who emerged victorious despite the avalanche of Democratic votes that swept the state whose voters did not even support their own governor in his presidential fight.

Towers defeated a white Democrat, Thomas C. Lysaught, by almost a 500 majority. With the report from one precinct still missing, the vote Wednesday stood 8,098 to 7,576.

The Kansas City, Kas., attorney will occupy the seat in the legislature at Topeka that for the last eight years has been occupied by Dr. William M. Blount, who was elected to four successive two-year terms.

Dr. Blount did not seek renomination in the August primary. In the primary, Towers defeated Attorney I. F. Bradley Jr., Attorney Forrest B. Anderson, William Boone, real estate dealer, and two white candidates.

Dr. Blount was the first Negro from Wyandotte county to be sent to the state legislature.

Attorney Towers becomes the second Negro legislator from Wyandotte county and the third from the state of Kansas. The first was a minister from Chautauqua county elected many years ago.

Attorney Towers has practiced law in Kansas City, Kas., since 1919 He was appointed assistant city attorney in May, 1931.

Deputy Treas. Succeeds His Chief; Will Take Over Office Jan. 9 When Davis Leaves

Race Gets High County' Appointment In Shawnee County; The Second Time for Wright to Be Honored As Treasurer

TOPEKA, Kansas, Dec. 25.—Kansas Negroes scored again in the great game of life this week when John M. Wright, veteran deputy county treasurer, of S[illegible]ty, was appointed by the county commissioners to fill out J. Glenn Davis' term as County Treasurer. Action was taken immediately after Davis had handed in his resignation to become effective January 9, 1937.

The appointment of Wright came as a surprise to many of his friends and supporters and his appointment met with wide approval by both white and colored here.

Davis resigned to take over his duties as county clerk January 11. He is serving his second term as treasurer and was elected county clerk in November.

Wright is the oldest official, from the standpoint of service in the court house. He was appointed deputy county treasurer by Capt. H. M. Phillips in 1903 and with the exception of two and one-half years has been in the office continually.

He was county clerk for two years and spent six months during the World war in army YMCA work. He enlisted in the YMCA service in the hope of being sent overseas but was help in camps in the United States.

This is the second time Wright has been honored with the appointment to fill out a county treasurer's unexpired term. In 1928 Wright was appointed to complete Tom Boyd's term after the latter had been elected state treasurer.

Wright's ability to locate real estate on the tax rolls when the property owners talk in terms of street addresses instead of lot numbers, makes him a valuable employe. For many years he has had charge of the tax rolls during tax paying season. He says he is not contemplating any changes in the office force and will keep all of Davis' force if they will stay. "This came so suddenly I did not get a chance to ask them, he said with a smile. But he is taking it for granted that they will.

Davis declared the commissioners had made a good appointment. He said an erroneous rumor had been circulated for some time that he would recommend someone to fill out the unexpired term. He declared he had no intentions of recommending any one for the office as the responsibility rested entirely upon the commissioners.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Kentucky.

Bronx, N.Y. Home News

JAN 14 1936

Colored Representative Wins Kentucky Seat

Charles W. Anderson, Jr., colored Representative to the Kentucky General Assembly, has a clear title to his seat as a result of the vote of the Assembly last night to seat him over the objections of his defeated opponent. It had been charged by Samuel I. Speevack, independent candidate, that Anderson had not lived in the district from which he was elected the required time.

Political – 1936
Elections.

Louisiana

MONTGOMERY, ALA.
ADVERTISER

FEB 7 1936

Letters To The Editor

Please be brief. We reserve the right to cut letters more than 300 words long

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE LOUISIANA ELECTION

Editor The Advertiser:

The recent Democratic primary election in Louisiana affords a very interesting insight into the kind of people who like a dictatorial or fascist government; and some of the same principles may apply also to other parts of the world that have similar problems.

Using the official returns as published in The Baton Rouge State-Times of Jan. 28, I have selected for comparison ten parishes that cast 74 per cent or more of their vote for the "machine" candidate for governor, and ten at the other extreme, whose vote for the winner ranged between 55 per cent and 46 per cent. (In the whole State the "machine" polled 67 per cent, or slightly more than two to one). All the following statistics have been computed from the census of 1930, and are for the white population only, for negroes, Indians, Mexicans, etc., probably do not participate in Democratic primaries in Louisiana any more than they do in Alabama. For brevity the two groups of parishes may be designated as "machine" and "anti-machine" or "home rule". Most of the former are near New Orleans (though Orleans Parish is not one of them), and most of the latter not far from Baton Rouge. One of the parishes that returned a majority for home rule includes the State prison farm, and another the State insane asylum, and the inmates of those are counted in the census with the parishes, instead of being credited to the State at large as they should have been, but they are not numerous enough to make much difference when ten parishes are taken together.

The "machine" group in 1930 had only 15 per cent of its white population in cities of over 2,500 inhabitants, as compared with 49.3 per cent in the "anti" group. City people are generally more prosperous than country people, on the average, and a good index of prosperity is the ratio of adults to minors; for most adults are breadwinners and most children are not. This ratio is 0.98 in the ten "machine" parishes and 1.29 in the other extreme. The per cent of white families having radios was 12.3 in the former group and 26.2 in the latter. Education generally goes with prosperity too, and the per cent illiterate in 1930, in the white population over ten years old, was 15.5 for the "machine" group and 6.1 in the other.

Although there are doubtless some prosperous and intelligent people on both sides of the question, it is evidently mostly the poorer and more ignorant people in Louisiana who supported the successor of the late demagogue who proposed to "share the wealth." This is well illustrated by two extreme parishes which though included in the foregoing calculations are in a class by themselves, having voted more than 98 per cent for the "machine", while no others went over 90 per cent. They are both in the marsh country below New Orleans, and only about one-fourth of their white inhabitants are on farms, and none in cities, so the rest must be mostly muskrat trappers, hunters, fishermen, etc.; as is suggested also by the fact that there are nearly a third more men than women. Hunters and trappers usually earn only a few hundred dollars a year, for the simple reason that their work (like that of cotton pickers) requires no education and is therefore poorly remunerated.

Several other differences between the two extremes could be pointed out, but newspaper space is valuable, and it must suffice to mention in conclusion the ratio of boys to girls. In an article published in The Advertiser of Dec. 27, 1934, I pointed out that the proportion of male births, or of boys, is generally highest in the most independent and resourceful communities, and that in 1930 Louisiana was below the United States average in that respect, and Alabama above. (A later communication, published Sept. 11, 1935, showed that the black belt surpasses the rest of Alabama in that same ratio and dominates it politically.) In the ten "machine" parishes the ratio of white boys to girls under ten years old was 1.019, and in the "home rule" group 1.040; one being much below the United States average and the other a little above.

Extending the comparison to other parts of the world, we find that in the 1934 elections in Germany the opposition to the Hitler regime was strongest in the larger cities. In Italy about the same time over 99 per cent of the vote in every department (or province, as we might call them) favored Mussolini, but the few voters who dared to differ with him were mostly in the cities, and in the northern part of the country, which is the most prosperous and literate section.

All this of course does not necessarily prove that city people are superior to country people. The latter are apt to be more nearly right on moral questions, such as temperance, divorce and crime, as can be shown by various kinds of statistics. But city people on the whole are probably better informed on economic and scientific questions. And the present depression has doubtless caused many of the hard-pressed farmers to turn for relief to all sorts of illusory political panaceas that might not be seriously considered in normal times.

University, Ala. ROLAND M. HARPER

Political - 1936
Elections.

Maryland.

Md. GOP Body Elects Wilson

BALTIMORE. — True to predictions of leaders in the Republican party, Edward N. Wilson, registrar of Morgan College and victorious candidate for State delegate from the fourth legislative district, was chosen delegate to the National Republican Convention, Saturday.

Marse S. Callaway, chief of Republicans in Mr. Wilson's district, is an alternate.

Political-1936 Elections.

Massachusetts.

MISS LUSCOMB FOR CONGRESS

WELL-KNOWN EQUAL RIGHTS ADVOCATE ANNOUNCES HER CANDIDACY — HAS BEEN ACTIVE IN SCOTTSBORO CASE

On a platform pledging to "uphold unconditional equal rights for the colored people and oppose any kind of discrimination", Florence Luscomb, well-known Boston liberal, has announced her candidacy for Congress in the 9th congressional district of Massachusetts.

Long a leader in the movement for civil liberties and equal rights, Miss Luscomb is determined to enter Congress in the interests of labor, both colored and white, in that district. Running on a People's Labor Ticket, she stresses in her platform the necessity for a genuine program of social security and relief as contained in the Frazier-Lundeen Bill; for slum clearance and housing projects; for unemployment, old age and maternity insurance to be financed by taxing high incomes and inheritances.

For years Miss Luscomb has been in the front line for minority peoples. As a member of the Herndon Defense Committee and the Scottsboro Defence Committee, she has led the local fight for the freedom of those unjustly persecuted southern boys. For almost twenty-five years she has been active in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Transferring her activity to the electorial battlefield, Miss Luscomb continues to work for the foreign born, the poor and the Jim-Crowed.

"I am firmly opposed to segregation of the Colored people," stated Miss Luscomb, "and I shall do everything in my power towards securing the civil rights due them as American citizens. On the question of lynching, I shall advocate severe federal legislation against it, and call for financial compensation to the family of the victim."

As an active labor leader, who can be found even now in the striking teamsters' picket line on Charles st., every morning, Miss Luscomb endorses the thirty hour week without reduction in wages; the right of labor to organize, to strike and to picket; and the outlawing of industrial spies and the injunction and violence against labor.

As president of the Office-Workers Union, and member of the executive board of the Women's Trade Union League, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, Miss Luscomb is prepared to fight in Congress for the political rights of labor as well as the economic. Her platform calls for the preservation of the democratic rights of free speech, free press and free assembly. She joins with progressives throughout the country in demanding a constitutional amendment to curb the "usurped, dictatorial power of the Supreme Court, which has declared unconstitutional social and labor legislation enacted by Congress." She is opposed to such gag laws as the Teachers' Oath.

For the youth or her district, Miss Luscomb endorses the Amlie-Benson American Youth Act which provides opportunities for education, work and marriage. Pending the adoption of this act, Miss Luscomb announces that she will insist on the enlargement and expansion of the National Youth Administration to provide for unemployed youth.

Bostonian Is In Race For Legislative Post

By E. W. CLARK

BOSTON (ANP)—Roy F. Teixeira, prominent attorney who has lived here 20 years, is the only Negro among five Democrats and 18 Republicans competing from Ward 9 for positions as state representatives. Ward 9 contains most of Boston's colored citizens.

Mr. Teixeria has conducted a real estate business here for many years. He was admitted to the bar after graduation from the Suffolk law school in 1926 with an LL. B. and the Portia law school in 1927 with an LL. M. He has since established himself as a leading trial lawyer. He also took a two year college course at Harvard. During the world war he was a member of the 20th Engineers for a year in France.

PICKING UP THE PIECES

Boston Chronicle 1-19-36

THE Primary elections are over. Now is the time for thinking persons to examine the results, learn the obvious lessons and prepare for future elections. We lost and won in Ward Nine. Candidate Roy F. Teixeira placed fifth among sixteen candidates receiving 753 votes out of a total of 9279; four candidates ahead of him totalled 5803 votes.

The great victory, however, was that Mildred Harris (third) and Mary B. Gleason (fourth) lost enough votes to our candidate to prevent them from getting the nominations. In plain words Ward Nine has got rid of the Gleason family from the House of Representatives and we pray Heaven it is for eternity. Boston, Mass

We now pledge ourselves to the task of driving Dick Gleason out of the City Council a year hence. He tried every trick he knew to get his sister nominated on Tuesday. We saw with our own eyes the arrest of three alleged voters ("repeaters") as they endeavored to vote for the Harris woman. We heard Gleason abuse an officer who arrested one of them. We saw and heard for ourselves a drunken man stand in front of the Everett School and tell Gleason "I am not going to repeat for you any more." Gleason got him into his car and drove him away. But Mildred Harris is beaten, and we owe a debt of gratitude to Teixeira and those who supported him for bringing about that defeat.

In an examination of the votes by precincts it is noted that the winning candidates Owens and Craven received almost all their votes from white residents while Harris and Gleason between them obtained about 2,000 votes from colored citizens residing in precincts 4 to 9 inclusive. It is for us to realize that had only one half of those people cast their votes for Teixeira he would have received enough to at least defeat Craven. Those 2000 votes have been thrown away—whatever Harris and the Gleasons promised the misguided voters for them will not be forthcoming as they lost. We cannot do anything about it now except to examine the credentials of the nominees, Owens and Craven and find out if they will do right by us. We must, however, lay our battle lines and prepare to go into action on November 4 to build up a voting strength that can be relied on to vote sensibly in November 1937 (when we shall drive Dick Gleason out of the City Council) and again in September 1938 when we shall elect a deserving colored candidate for the House of Representatives.

We take this opportunity to congratulate Roy Teixeira on the sincere and clean fight he waged and on the success he achieved. There is no reason for him to be discouraged and every reason why he should start now to build himself up for a successful campaign either for the Council in 1937 or for the House in 1938. On the Republican side we note with pleasure that Mrs. Harriet Hall and Ulysses Emerson received nominations, but (as stated before) no Republican candidate can win in this ward at present.

We are also gratified to see the large number of votes polled in Ward Twelve (1164) by Bill Roper (R). This shows that there are great possibilities in these wards which should also be examined.

And so we will set to work to mend the broken pieces of our political trophy.

"BILL" ROPER

who is a candidate for the House of Representatives from Ward 12. The popular business man is conducting a vigorous campaign and hopes to be the victor with the aid of all conscientious voters of his ward.

MRS. MABEL WORTHY

Whose place as Massachusetts elector was filled by her husband Dr. William Worthy. Mrs. Worthy could not serve because she is employed in the internal revenue service.

DR. W. WORTHY CASTS VOTE AS ELECTOR

Dr. William Worthy cast the electoral vote for the 10th Congressional District of Mass. in the Senate Chamber of the State House on Monday, Dec. 11, the day the Electoral College convened. Dr. Worthy acted as alternate for Mrs. Mabel Worthy who was ineligible to serve because she is in the federal government service.

After visiting the photographic group were luncheon guests of the Democratic State Committee at the Hotel Bellevue. There they were addressed by Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, who instructed them in detail regarding their duties in the traditional ceremony. The Secretary of State also informed the delegation that by virtue of being members of the electoral college every Presidential elector, man or woman, is henceforth entitled to the use of the prefix Honorable, for instance, the Hon. Mabel R. Worthy.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Massachusetts.

TREATING FOOLS AS FOOLS

THE only reaction that the average colored voter in Roxbury has towards the defeat of a colored candidate is to chuckle at the small quanity of votes that he received and sneer at his temerity in running for office. Very few, however, pause to examine the causes as to why the candidate was defeated.

Irrespective of the intrinsic worth of a candidate, there are three main reasons why every colored candidate in any of the three Negro-predominant wards (Four, Twelve, and Nine) have been consistently defeated by men of the white group. First is the lack of interest in the use of the ballot shown by the colored voters, either in not registering or in failing to vote even if registered. Secondly, the prevalent and purely mercenary actions of far too many voters who either sell their franchise rights to the highest bidder or else part with it on the promise of being given a relief job or some relief money. The third and most surprising reason is the nefarious practice on the part of certain white political interests in making use of what is known as "repeaters." A "repeater" may either be an individual voting more than once, or it may be someone brought in from outside of the district to vote illegally under the name of a registered voter.

This last method of accumulating votes by certain political bosses is largely practised in our community to the detriment of colored candidates particularly. In the recent primary elections two white men were caught red-handed by an alert inspector and brought to justice. But how many more were there in that or any previous elections who were not detected, and whose illicit votes went to defeat some worthy colored candidate? White men come into a colored residential district and give the names of colored voters and addresses where only colored people live and get away with it. It simply means that they take us for fools and treat us as such and will continue to do so as long as we do nothing about it. Iet us imagine what chance Negroes would have going into a white neighborhood and trying to vote under the names of white voters.

How can we remedy this state of affairs? By organization and political education. Honest and reputable citizens of their community must form themselves into a political organization, whose object must be not to sell out the colored people's votes to the highest bidder downtown, but to pursue a plan of education and counsel for the voters as to whom they should vote for, why and how. With worthy candidates and honest priciples such an organization can make the voters realize their responsibility and power and then we shall have less cause for complaint at the treatment we receive. We should cease being fools.

Political-1936
Elections.

Michigan.
6

Race Man Runs For State Job In Michigan

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 11—Race voters of the city of Grand Rapids will have the opportunity of voting for one of their own number in the coming primary election, Tuesday, Sept. 15.

Lewis E. Smith, young business man, will be in the race for the office of state representative in the First Kent district, which consists of the entire city of Grand Rapids.

Smith is one of the owners of the only Race gasoline and oil service station in the city. He is undoubtedly well qualified for the office, which he seeks, being a graduate of Ottawa Hills high school and having recently finished a pre-law course at Lincoln university in the State of Pennsylvania. Mr. Smith was a member of the Ottawa debating team and the only person of color to achieve that honor, and was likewise prominent in other school activities.

Inasmuch as there are 16 candidates for the Republican nomination with three to be nominated, he has an excellent chance of winning.

COLORED VOTES MAY SELECT COUNCILMAN

DETROIT—One of the charter amendments to be voted on at the general election here November 3 may open the way for colored representation in the city government, which is said to be impossible under the present system.

This amendment provides for 15 councilmanic districts, each district to elect its own councilman, instead of the present arrangement by which nine councilmen are elected at large.

One of the proposed districts would comprise the area between Woodward Avenue and Dequindre Street, and the river and Grand Boulevard, a district in which eighty per cent of the voters are colored. With this large percentage of voting power, it is believed certain that the colored voters would elect a representative to the common council.

BILL OF SEN. WOOD IS CALLED "VICIOUS"

DETROIT, Sept. 24—Thousands of handbills, accusing Senator Arthur E. Wood of showing prejudice against colored people, were distributed here last week. Senator Wood, who is seeking re-election, won the Republican nomination in the Fourth District, consisting of wards 1, 2, 4 and 6, by polling 9,840 votes.

The handbills with the caption of "Senator Wood Slaps The Colored People of Michigan," reads as follows:

"Under the provisions of a bill introduced by Senator Wood at a recent session of the State Legislature, but killed before reaching a Vote, marriage was prohibited in Michigan BETWEEN A WHITE PERSON AND ONE OF ONE-EIGHTH OR MORE NEGRO BLOOD."

"Under the provisions of the Wood bill,

"Any minister performing such a marriage was liable to a fine up to $1,0000 and imprisonment at Jackson prison up to five years."

Vicious Legislation

"This vicious legislation, aimed at the entire Colored Race, as advocated by Senator Wood, provided that,

"A HUSBAND SHALL BE EXAMINED AS A WITNESS AGAINST HIS WIFE AND A WIFE SHALL BE EXAMINED AS A WITNESS AGAINST HER HUSBAND WHETHER SUCH HUSBAND AND WIFE CONSENT OR NOT."

Political - 1936
Elections.

Minnesota

ST. PAUL, MINN.
DISPATCH

JAN 8 1936

NEGRO BARBER FILES FOR SEAT IN COUNCIL

J. W. Lee, Negro barber at 565 Rice street, filed today as a candidate for the City Council.

He filed no platform, but announced that his campaign committee will announce it later. He has been a resident of the city for fifteen years.

Political - 1936

Elections

Mississippi.

N. Y. EVENING POST

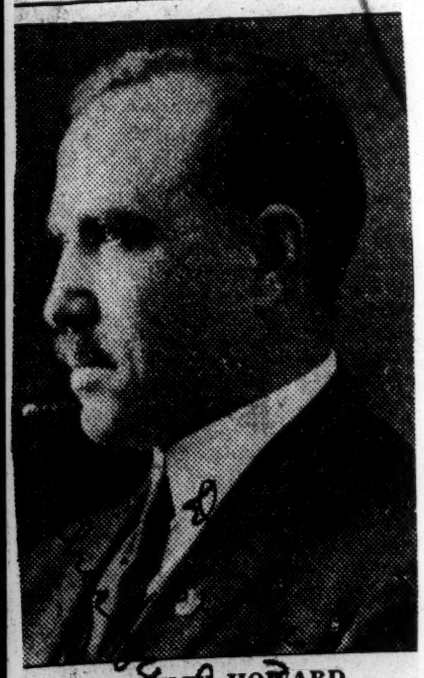
JUN 11 1936

NEGRO COMMITTEEMAN HOLDS 8 LANDON VOTES

CLEVELAND, June 11 (AP).—The controlling hand of Perry Howard, Negro national committeeman, today held eight votes of the Mississippi delegation's eleven votes in the Republican National Convention to deliver to Governor Alf Landon of Kansas for President on the first ballot.

The other three votes were expected to go to Colonel Frank Knox.

Seated



PERRY W. HOWARD
National Committeeman from Mississippi, whose delegation won over the opposition and was seated at the National Republican Convention.

Negro Nominated For Congress

JACKSON, Miss.—(ANP)—A Negro was nominated for congress here this week. S. D. Redmond, chairman of the Missisippi Republican State Executive Committee filed with Walker Wood, Secretary of the State of Mississippi, the names of seven Republican candidates for Congress, from the seven respective congressional districts of Mississippi, to be voted for on November 3rd, among which list of names was the name of D. V. Johnson, a Negro of Meridian.

Chairman Redmond also certified to the Secretary of the State of Mississippi, the names of nine Republican candidates for presidential electors.

Miss. Republicans Nominate a Negro

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 15.—Believe it or not, a Negro candidate in Mississippi today is attempting to emulate reconstruction leaders by running for congressman.

D. C. Johnson of Meridian has been nominated by the Republican party, and S. D. Redmond, Negro state chairman, has filed his petition with the secretary of state.

P. S.—Mr. Johnson is not expected to win.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Missouri.

ELECT ALDERMEN BY WARDS

The present situation, with regard to redistricting and election of the members of the board of aldermen by wards reminds us of the story "It depends upon whose ox is gored." A few years ago, the Republican party was in power in the city of St. Louis and the state, the leaders of that party were against the proposed electing of board of aldermen by wards. In fact, it was that party which sponsored the bill in the legislature, making it possible to elect aldermen through city wide vote. It was pointed out, then, by some of the most thoughtful ones of our group, that this was one of those schemes hatched up to deprive the Negro of the benefit of his segregated vote because at that time there were the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventeenth wards which had a majority of Negro votes. But from the time the change has been made up until three years ago, the Republicans whooped up the legislation as a boon to good city government. In the meanwhile, the leading Democrats of city and state decried it as being unjust and unfair to minority parties, and denial of ward representation in the city government, according to the letter and spirit of the city charter.

However, since the Democrats have been in, during the past four years, the leaders in that party have undergone quite a change in heart. They now can see why the Republicans wanted city wide voting on members of the board of aldermen. They think that there is some party advantage in such a method, just as the Republicans did. Their argument is the same as that of old, "It depends upon whose ox is gored." And now, the Republicans are just as enthusiastic for a change in this legislation, so as to be able to elect aldermen by wards, as they were against the proposition, three short years ago. Of course, we have no condemnation to offer for that stand. As a matter of fact, we are always pleased to see any party fight for reforms that will make this country more like a Democracy. We even advise individuals, regardless of their party affiliations, who have the courage to fight for the cause of right and justice, to support this movement.

In this connection, we think that the Democratic party in the city and state have an unusual opportunity to show their bigness of heart, fineness of spirit, and greatness of courage, by joining in with those who are for this legislation. We do not believe that they have anything to lose, but rather they have much to gain by joining in with, or better still, initiating needed reforms.

It will be remembered that time and things have greatly changed in human affairs during the past four years. A greater awakening is still in store for the people. Once they become enlightened and see what their party leaders have done for them, contempt and distrust will give strong expressions in the form of condemnation. In view of these facts, let us all join in the movement to elect the aldermen of the city by wards.

Political-1936

Elections.

Missouri.

CONGRATULATIONS JUDGES

We wish to congratulate the judges of the Circuit Court, City of Saint Louis, upon their selection of Attorney George L. Vaughn as Justice of the Peace of the Fourth District, to fill the vacancy left on account of the death of the late Judge Charles H. Turpin.

Looking over the field of those available, we do not see that they could have made a better selection.

Judge Vaughn is a man of ability and courage; a leader among his people and a political campaigner of national reputation. He has made a distinct contribution to the success of the Democratic party in this city, state and nation and, although prominently identified with the Democratic party, yet he enjoys the respect of the bench and bar, irrespective of party affiliations. This, we think, was exemplified by the fact that both Democratic and Republican judges voted to make him Justice of the Peace.

In this connection it might be proper to state here that the selection of Attorney Vaughn to fill this office means progress, in a political way, for the Negroes of the city. There are now two Negro Democrat Justices of the Peace in Saint Louis. These include Judge Frank S. Bledsoe, who was elected two years ago in the Fifth District and Judge Vaughn. This accomplishment would have hardly taken place had the Republicans remained in power. Therefore, it was left to the Democratic leaders of the city to push the race forward in a political way. Special mention may be made here of the Democratic judges who had the power to make the selection. We are pleased that they had the foresight and wisdom to select a Negro to fill this vacancy and, while it is true that there were many aspirants desperately fighting for this office, these judges did not disappoint our group by appointing a white man to fill the place, hiding behind the pretext that "the Negroes could not get together."

Therefore, we congratulate Mr. Vaughn upon his victory, a victory which, we think, is not revengeful.

IN POLITICS

During the past week we have had a little taste of the kind of politics that is in the making for St. Louis Negroes preceding the coming election.

The first skirmish came in the Sixth Ward, among the Republicans, which is the only ward in St. Louis where both the committeeman and the committeewoman are colored. And, one would naturally expect, with this set up, to see the highest type of leadership. It will be remembered that the Sixth was the only ward in the City of St. Louis that remained Republican during the last election and, therefore, may be properly called the only remnant of the Republican party in the city. As to whether or not it will be able to hold its own in the coming election, that is a matter of speculation. The most important part in which we are interested is that of leadership. The great trouble from which we, as a group, suffer politically, is from lack of having some big men in the political arena. To play the game successfully, a few big men are necessary in party councils.

Sociologists and political leaders say that the Negroes in Chicago have exercised more political sense than those in any other city in the United States. A little study of how they play the game will show that, first of all, they made a few big men in political affairs. The late Edward Wright was first a committeeman before he rose to great political power. Oscar DePriest, Ex-congressman of the First Illinois District was a committeeman when he was elected to Congress and when he was appointed to succeed Martin B. Madden. He was then, and is now, committeeman of the First Ward in his city and is now seeking re-election to Congress. That may also be said of Senator King, Alderman Jackson and Representative Dawson.

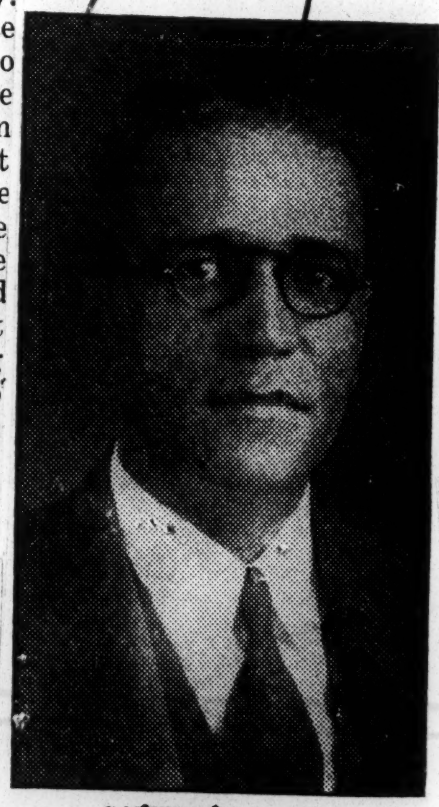
We mention these things that the Negroes in St. Louis, in their efforts to do something for themselves, may see how the game is played in the greatest political city in the world for Negroes, that they may be benefited.

ALTERNATE Endorses Negroes For State Legislature

At the regular meeting of the Central Negro Democratic Organization last Friday night the members heard the reports from the delegates who attended the convention at Joplin.

A resolution was also passed endorsing Negroes for State Legislature. The resolutions were as follows "Be it resolved that the Negro Central Democratic Organization go on record as favoring the nomination and election of Negroes to the State Legislature from districts in which Negroes reside in St Louis in large numbers."

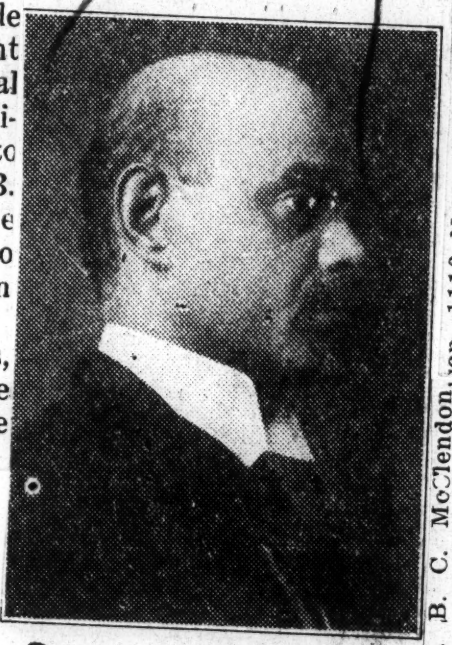
The above resolution was enthusiastically received and it is understood that the organization will work to that end.



SAMUEL J. LANE

Prominent St. Louis politican, who was elected alternate at large at the recent state Republican convention to represent the organization at Cleveland in June.

PROMINENT PHYSICIAN FOR LEGISLATURE



DR. A. W. CRADDOCK

Among those of our group who have filed for the State Legislature, is Dr. Azzora Willard Craddock, who has filed his declaration in the fourth Representative District which includes Wards 3, 18, 19, 20, 23 and 26, subject to the Democratic primary in August.

Dr. Craddock is a well known and successful practicing physician of St. Louis, a life-long Democrat and stands in good favor with his fellowmen. He was among the first supporters of Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann when the leader ran for Mayor in 1933 and has received unusual recognition at the hands of the Mayor of the City of St. Louis in the way of patronage for his people.

Dr. Craddock is 64 years old, married and lives with his wife at 4183 W. Belle. He has never sought nor held political office before. Comments from among leading citizens of this community indicate that they regard him as a logical man for the place, pointing out that he is self-supporting, intensely interested in his race and a courageous fighter for the rights of his people.

Other Candidates.

Others filing for office are: Elmer V. Mosee, and George H. Brooks, Democrats, Legislature, 5th Ward, 3rd District; Daniel Webster Beatrice, 2346 Chestnut and Mrs. Lillian Buckner, 3726 Finney; Ruth E. N. Bryant, Walthall Committeewoman, Walnut: Mrs. Moore and Atty. Henry Tandy Scott, 2624A Mills; Mrs. E. Baker, 407A S. Garrison, Republicans; Espy Sabra W. Parker, 2649A Del-publican; A. Maceo May, 13 N. Republicans; Legislature, 4th Blvd., Republicans; 6th Garrison, Democrat; 19th Ward, 3100 Franklin and Ardania Morris, District; Dr. A. W. Craddock Ward, Langston Harrison, 7 S. Samuel J. Lane, 3164A Brant-gan, 3119 Morgan and Robert and Wm. C. McDowell, Demo-23rd; E. J. Greggs, 2620 Law-her Pl., Ira A. Dorsey, 3823 Laususe, 3875 Windsor Pl., crats. Those who filed for Compton; Mrs. Luella Shobe, 2723A Windsor Pl., Mrs. J. D. Madi-

Political-1936
Elections.

Missouri.

CONGRATULATIONS JUDGES

We wish to congratulate the judges of the Circuit Court, City of Saint Louis, upon their selection of Attorney George L. Vaughn as Justice of the Peace of the Fourth District, to fill the vacancy left on account of the death of the late Judge Charles H. Turpin.

Looking over the field of those available, we do not see that they could have made a better selection.

Judge Vaughn is a man of ability and courage; a leader among his people and a political campaigner of national reputation. He has made a distinct contribution to the success of the Democratic party in this city, state and nation and, although prominently identified with the Democratic party, yet he enjoys the respect of the bench and bar, irrespective of party affiliations. This, we think, was exemplified by the fact that both Democratic and Republican judges voted to make him Justice of the Peace.

In this connection it might be proper to state here that the selection of Attorney Vaughn to fill this office means progress, in a political way, for the Negroes of the city. There are now two Negro Democrat Justices of the Peace in Saint Louis. These include Judge Frank S. Bledsoe, who was elected two years ago in the Fifth District and Judge Vaughn. This accomplishment would have hardly taken place had the Republicans remained in power. Therefore, it was left to the Democratic leaders of the city to push the race forward in a political way. Special mention may be made here of the Democratic judges who had the power to make the selection. We are pleased that they had the foresight and wisdom to select a Negro to fill this vacancy and, while it is true that there were many aspirants desperately fighting for this office, these judges did not disappoint our group by appointing a white man to fill the place, hiding behind the pretext that "the Negroes could not get together."

Therefore, we congratulate Mr. Vaughn upon his victory, a victory which, we think, is not revengeful.

IN POLITICS

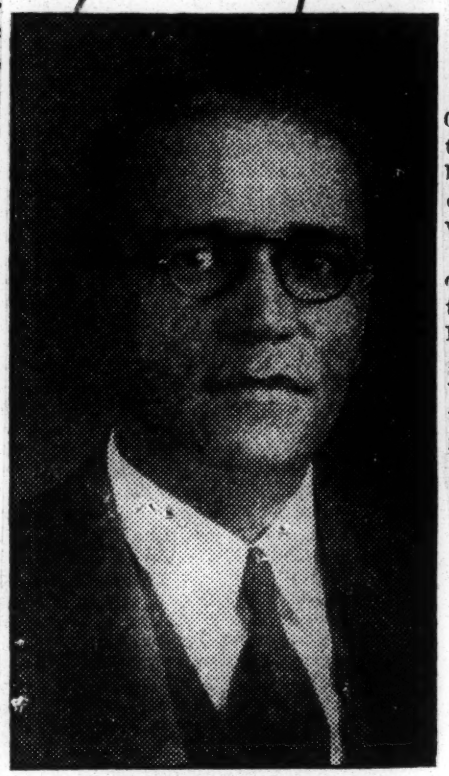
During the past week we have had a little taste of the kind of politics that is in the making for St. Louis Negroes preceding the coming election.

The first skirmish came in the Sixth Ward, among the Republicans, which is the only ward in St. Louis where both the committeeman and the committeewoman are colored. And, one would naturally expect, with this set up, to see the highest type of leadership. It will be remembered that the Sixth was the only ward in the City of St. Louis that remained Republican during the last election and, therefore, may be properly called the only remnant of the Republican party in the city. As to whether or not it will be able to hold its own in the coming election, that is a matter of speculation. The most important part in which we are interested is that of leadership. The great trouble from which we, as a group, suffer politically, is from lack of having some big men in the political arena. To play the game successfully, a few big men are necessary in party councils.

Sociologists and political leaders say that the Negroes in Chicago have exercised more political sense than those in any other city in the United States. A little study of how they play the game will show that, first of all, they made a few big men in political affairs. The late Edward Wright was first a committeeman before he rose to great political power. Oscar DePriest, Ex-congressman of the First Illinois District was a committeeman when he was elected to Congress and when he was appointed to succeed Martin B. Madden. He was then, and is now, committeeman of the First Ward in his city and is now seeking re-election to Congress. That may also be said of Senator King, Alderman Jackson and Representative Dawson.

We mention these things that the Negroes in St. Louis, in their efforts to do something for themselves, may see how the game is played in the greatest political city in the world for Negroes, that they may be benefited.

ALTERNATE Endorses Negroes For State Legislature



SAMUEL J. LANE

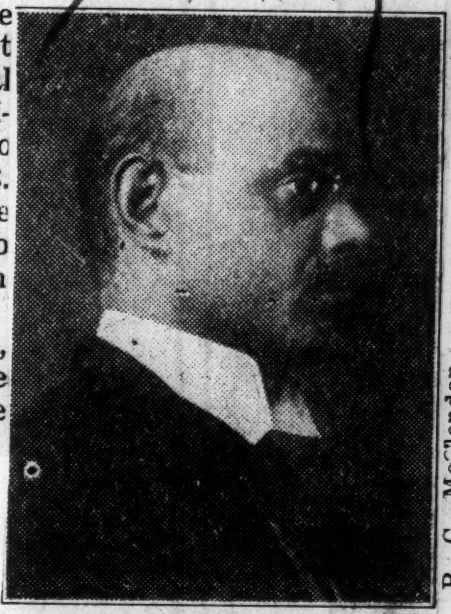
Prominent St. Louis politician, who was elected alternate at large at the recent state Republican convention to represent the organization at Cleveland in June.

At the regular meeting of the Central Negro Democratic Organization last Friday night the members heard the reports from the delegates who attended the convention at Joplin.

A resolution was also passed endorsing Negroes for State Legislature. The resolutions were as follows "Be it resolved that the Negro Central Democratic Organization go on record as favoring the nomination and election of Negroes to the State Legislature from districts in which Negroes reside in St Louis in large numbers."

The above resolution was enthusiastically received and it is understood that the organization will work to that end.

PROMINENT PHYSICIAN FOR LEGISLATURE



DR. A. W. CRADDOCK

Among those of our group who have filed for the State Legislature, is Dr. Azzora Willard Craddock, who has filed his declaration in the fourth Representative District which includes Wards 3, 18, 19, 20, 23 and 26, subject to the Democratic primary in August.

Dr. Craddock is a well known successful practicing physician of St. Louis, a life-long Democrat and stands in good favor with his fellowmen. He was among the first supporters of Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann when the leader ran for Mayor in 1933 and has received unusual recognition at the hands of the Mayor of the City of St. Louis in the way of patronage for his people.

Dr. Craddock is 64 years old, married and lives with his wife at 4183 W. Belle. He has never sought nor held political office before. Comments from among leading citizens of this community indicate that they regard him as a logical man for the place, pointing out that he is self-supporting, intensely interested in his race and a courageous fighter for the rights of his people.

Other Candidates.

Others filing for office are: Elmer V. Mosee, and George H. Brooks, Democrats, Legislature, 3rd District; Daniel E. N. Bryant, Democrat; Euell Moore and Atty. Henry Republicans; District, and Wm. C. crats. Those who filed for Comptroller; Mrs. Luella Shobe, 2723A Windsor Pl., Mrs. J. D. Madison, Democrat, 1112 N. Leonard; Bertha T. Lane, 3164A Chestnut and Mrs. Lillian Buckner, 3726 Finney; Ruth Dorsey, 3823 A. Garrison, 407A S. Garrison, Republican; Jordan W. Chambers, Laususe, 3875 A. Maceo May, 13 N. Democrat; 19th Ward, Beatrice Hughes, 3655 Windsor Pl.; Republican: Jordan W. Chambers, 3100 Franklin and Ardania Morgan and Robert Brantegan, 3119 Walnut; Mrs. Committeewoman, 2346 Chestnut; 5th Ward, Beatrice Finney, 407A S. Garrison, Republican; Mrs. E. Baker, 3655 Windsor Pl.; Republicans; 4thmar Blvd., Republicans; 6th Garrison, Democrat; 19th Ward, 3100 Franklin and Ardania Morgan and Robert Brantegan, 3119 Walnut; Mrs. Committeewoman, 2346 Chestnut; 5th Ward, Beatrice Finney, 407A S. Garrison, Republican; Mrs. E. Baker, 3655 Windsor Pl.; Republicans; 4thmar Blvd., Republicans; 6th Garrison, Democrat; 19th Ward, 3100 Franklin and Ardania Morgan and Robert Brantegan, 3119 Lane, 3164A Chestnut and Mrs. Lillian Buckner, 3726 Finney; Ruth Dorsey, 3823 A. Garrison, 407A S. Garrison, Republican; Jordan W. Chambers, Laususe, 3875 A. Maceo May, 13 N. Democrat; 19th Ward, 3100 Franklin and Ardania Morgan and Robert Brantegan, 3119 Windsor Pl.

Democrat: 23rd Ward, Mrs. Lucy Bledsoe Gilmore, 4011A Finney and Mrs. Naomi H. Oldham, 3930 Fairfax, Republican.

1001 VOTES LOST; MOORE IS NOMINATED

Ex-Congressman Will Run For State Legislature Again; Euell Loser

ST. LOUIS.—(Special)—As the result of a clerical error which is being attributed to the hasty counting due to the rush of election day, Ex-Congressman Walthall M. Moore finds himself back in the political limelight while Daniel Webster Euell, another Negro, who was beginning to map out his plans for the fall campaign is apparently out of the political picture, at least as far as the race for state representative in th third district is concerned.

According to the official count as released by John J. Kelley, acting chief clerk of the board of election commissioners, the third and fourth nominations go to Walthall M. Moore and Jacob G. Bernstein.

Errors Responsible

In the unofficial count, clerical errors deprived Moore of 1001 votes This huge error, according to Kelly, has been traced to the Twenty-fifth ward, where, in a hurried tabulation, a mistake was made in addition. Moore, instead of receiving 1114 votes, was given only 113.

The official count added 12 to Bernstein's total and took 27 votes from Euell, making the returns read: Moore, 5446; Bernstein 5384 and Euell, 5365. The unofficial tally placed Euell in third spot with 5392 votes; Bernstein in fourth and last place with 53 votes and Moore outside the money with 4344 votes. Attorney Henry D. Espy led the list of Republican nominees with 5895 votes while Mrs. Charles D. Passmore, white, was second ni the group of four successful nominees. The Rev. E. N. Bryant also ran.

Moore has served four terms in the legislature, being a member of the house in 1921, 1925, 1927 and 1929. Euell is a deputy sheriff and a World War veteran.

Served In World War

Euell, who is past commander of Tom Powell Post No. 77 of the American Legion, served in the World War as sergeant of the Third platoon of company M, 370th infantry (old Eighth Illinois) as first sergeant with company D. headquarters 185th brigade and as acting commander of that group from November 14, 1918 to February 25, 1919 at St. Aignon-Noyen, France. He is the only Negro army officer in the St. Louis district of the seventh corps area who is on the active list.

"Well, to the more than 5,000 friends who voted for and nominated me on the Republican ticket for state representative in the third district in the August primaries, causing me to run third in a field of nine candidates," Euell commented, "I say to cheer up. The fight is still on. The crooks in both parties have counted me out but there are still remedies at law for justice and we shall avail ourselves of them at the proper time. I am for clean, honest election tabulations in St. Iouis."

Euell served as deputy sheriff from 1922 to 1932.

NOMINATED

Mr. Moore, together with his friends, were pleased to know that in the official returns he was nominated for the legislature from the 3rd District on the Republican ticket at the recent primary election.

MOORE

Unofficial returns on the day of election indicated that Moore received 1334 votes but the official returns showed that he received 5,446 votes This put him in lead of D. W Euell who received 5392 and Berstein 5372.

D. W. Euell, who appeared to be nominated in the unofficial returns expressed great disappointment when he learned he was defeated and said that there was something "crooked" about the matter and hinted that he would file a contest.

Mr. Moore is regarded as very popular among the voters of the District, he having served four terms in the State Legislature from this district in the past.

BALLOT PROBE REVEALS MANY QUEER THINGS

Grand Jury Report Shows Many Candidates Gained In Check of Boxes

12-18-36

ST. LOUIS. —(Special) —With the new grand jury sworn in, still further startling developments are expected in the investigation of the two recent elections along with the Jefferson Memorial bond issue of 1934, according to information from the office of the circuit attorney.

Of the nearly 100 persons indicted by the two preceding grand juries, eight of that number are Negroes. Included in this list are Walter Ligon, Republican clerk in the nineteenth ward; Dr. Shelton French, Democratic clerk; Charles Whiteside Sr. and John Brown, Republican judges and Charles Zomphier, Republican clerk, in the Twenty-second ward, fourth precinct; and Eugene S. Clark, and Dr. Francis Anthony, Republican judges and Johnson Stevenson, Republican clerk, Sixth ward, first precinct.

May Get More Votes

Some interesting results were disclosed in the latest grand jury's probe of the alleged fraudulent voting that took part in the August 4 primary. Among some of the charges noted, in which Negro candidates were especially involved were:

In the sixth ward (one precinct only) A. Maceo May, justice of the peace court clerk, received an additional 28 votes in the recount. He was running for Democratic committeeman.

One precinct in the fifth ward shows Mrs. Sabra W. Parker, successful candidate for Republican committeewoman lost 10 by recount while her opponent, Mrs. Beatrice Scott gained three votes.

Contest in Twentieth

In the sixth ward race for Republican committeman, Dr. E. G. Gregg, the losing candidate gained nine by the grand jury recount while the present committeeman Langston Harrison lost 14 votes. The revised count in the same precinct showed Mrs. Beatrice Campbell McClendon, the unsuccessful candidate gained 10 while Mrs. Luella Shobe, incumbent, lost 16.

With a court contest pending, results from one precinct show that H. D. Robinson, local school teacher, gained five votes in his race for Republican committeeman of the twentieth ward while John J. Hurley, white committeeman lost 6 tallies. A contest is also pending in the election of committeewoman with the revised figures giving Mrs. Maude T. Oswald, the unsuccessful candidate, 7 more votes, while Miss Lillian Thirloff, white, the winner, lost eight votes.

Euell Counted Out!

The grand jur yalso found that in the fifteenth precinct of the fourth ward that Daniel Webster Euell, Republican candidate for state representative, had been declared voteless in the original count whereas the revised tally shows that Euell received 22 votes in that precinct.

Euell, on the basis of initial reports, was declared a successful candidate for the legislature but another revised figure, published shortly after the primary, showed that Euell, a lawyer and world war veteran, had dropped out of the running, a missing 1001 votes being given to Walthall M. Moore, former state representative.

Officials point out that the 22 votes lost by Euell in this one precinct were sufficient to prevent him from being the nominee on the Republican ticket. As it was he failed to receive a single tally in that precinct.

CORONER FURLONG TO RETIRE SHORTLY

10-9-36

Within a short time, Mr. Frank P. Furlong, the present Coroner of the City of St. Louis, will retire from that office, after four years of service. He was among the first Democrats to be elected to public office in the City of St. Louis under what we call The New Deal program.

Before his election, the colored people of St. Louis had many doubts and fears as to what the Negroes would actually get under the Democrats should they vote for that party in any large number. An increasing few of them, however, ventured to vote for Mr. Furlong, like one wading into unknown waters. They still watch the shore, because there were, as there are today, those constantly telling them that they should not expect any consideration from the hands of a Democrat. But Mr. Furlong told them in his campaign speeches that should he be elected Coroner, he would appoint as many Negroes in his office as there were under any other previous administration, and that he would go still further —would see to it that there was at least one Negro on each Coroner's Jury (which had never been done before) and would, from time to time, elect an all Negro Jury to serve in his court. This promise, we are pleased to say, was religiously kept by Mr. Furlong. Further, we wish to state, that upon taking office Mr. Furlong immediately summoned a Negro to serve on his first Jury, and each week thereafter, the Negroes of the City of St. Louis could see that he was actually doing what he promised. And, by the way, it is a very unusual thing to see men in public office keep their promises. Therefore, we are fully justified in saying, that the acts on the part of Mr. Furlong and his conduct towards the colored people, had more influence on our group towards voting the Democratic ticket, than anything else of which we know or think at this time. For this, we think that the Democratic party of the city owes more to Frank P. Furlong than any other man, for doing his part in winning the Negro vote.

In his retirement, the City of St. Louis will lose an unusual public servant, the colored people will lose a friend in public office whose integrity as a public official will be hard to equal. He most assuredly carries the best wishes of the editor of this paper, and, we believe, the confidence of the public.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Nebraska

Runs for Re-election to Neb. Legislature

OMAHA, Neb.—John Adams, Jr., has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election to the State Legislature from the Fifth District.

Elected To Nation's Only Unicameral Legislature

Member of the Race Chosen As One of Nebraska's Assemblymen From District Mostly White In Comlexion

OMAHA, Nebr., Nov. 13—Attorney John Adams, Jr., of Omaha, was elected to the One House Legislature of the State of Nebraska from the 5th district, which will convene for the first time on January 5, 1937. This legislature will be composed of 43 members elected from 43 districts in the state. The Unicameral Legislature is the outcome of a constitutional amendment drafted by Senator George W. Norris which he persuaded to State to adopt two years ago.

Mr. Adams was a member of the 1935 regular and special session of the Nebraska Legislature, which is now known as the last Bicameral Legislature. As a member he served on the Labor, Railroad and the Arrangement and Phraseology committees.

He introduced and was successful in having a bill passed removing restrictions in Nebraska on Negroes and Indians to testify as competent witnesses. He introduced a resolution memorializing to Congress to enact the Costigan-Wagner Anti-Lynch law.

This resolution passed without a vote against it. He sponsored and was instrumental in the passage of a bill creating the Nebraska Free Employment Service and since this service has been in operation, three Negroes have qualified for appointment in the administrative branch, two of whom have already been appointed in the administrative branch, two of whom have already been appointed at good salaries.

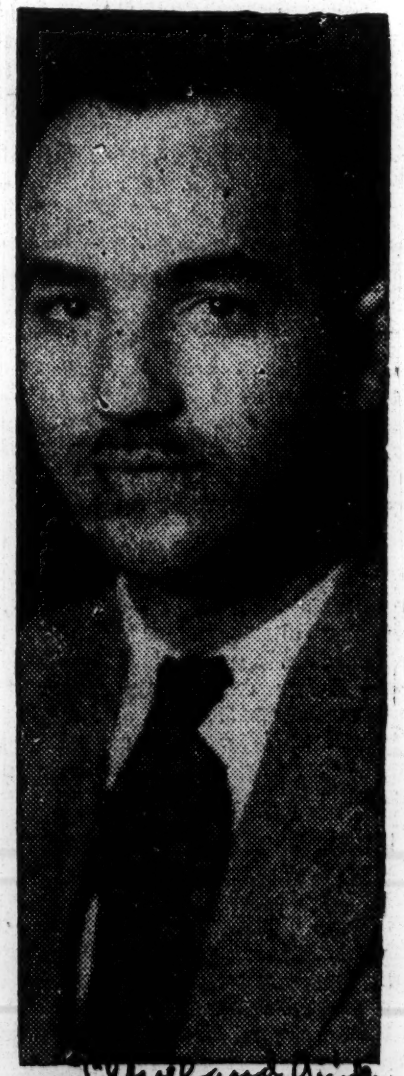
He assisted in the fight to create a Workingman's Compensation court in Nebraska and was appointed by the speaker of the House on the Conference Commitee which finally drafted the bill providing for the court. Mr. Adams was endorsed by Labor and many other organizations including both daily newspapers in Omaha.

The president of the Nebraska State Federation of Labor stated in the Unionist, a labor paper, that "He is fair and just to all parties—workers, employers, taxpayers, farmers and the citizens generally—and, if our opinion is correct, he will go a long way in bringing about legislation for the benefit of the major portion of Nebraska citizens."

Mr. Adams is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Arts and Science and College of Law. He has practiced law in Nebraska for seven years. He is 30 years of age and is the son of Rev. and Mrs. John Adams who have been very active in the work of the AME church. Rev. John Adams is now the presiding elder of the Topeka district in Kansas.

The population in the district from which Mr. Adams was elected is three-fourths white, but he received the highest total vote of any candidate for the legislature in the entire state.

IN LEGISLATURE



ATTORNEY JOHN ADAMS, JR. —of Omaha, Nebraska, who was elected to the One House Legislature of the State of Nebraska from the 5th district, which will convene for the first time on January 5, 1937.

Political - 1936

Elections.

New Jersey

BRIDGETON, N. J.
NEWS

MAY 2 - 1936

GOULD ADDRESSES COLORED VOTERS

Candidate for Republication Nomination for Sheriff Begins Campaign at Young Men's Meeting

Clifton "Skip" Gould, the colored Republican candidate for Sheriff, started his campaign drive Thursday night, with an address to the Young Colored Republican Club, in the Elks' building, Lemon street.

Gould stressed the importance of the people maintaining unity and coherence by adhering to the Republican party and principles, and not being led from their objective by methods employed by "paid workers."

Gould states that his drive will penetrate every portion of the county.

CITIZEN
Lakewood NJ

MAY 8 - 1936

Roundtree Candidate for Delegate at Large

Rev. I. W. L. Roundtree who is well known in and about New Jersey and especially in Trenton where he has had headquarters for the past quarter of a century is a candidate for delegate at large at the Republican National Convention. He is very popular with the colored race and will get a large number of votes. For years he has been connected with the religious educational work of Dilberforce University of Evenia, Ohio. He has been in Ocean County this week and was in Lakewood on Monday.

NEW LEGISLATOR IN JERSEY

Assistant Prosecutor J. Bernard Johnson of Essex County congratulates Assemblyman-elect Guy R. Moorehead of Newark, N. J., who was elected last week to the New Jersey State Legislature. Moorehead is the first colored Democrat elected to the ssembly in New Jersey. Mr. Johnson is a Democratic leader in Essex County. (Photo by Ackis)

ELECTED TO NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE—J. Bernard Johnson, left, assistant prosecutor and Essex County Democratic leader, congratulates Guy R. Moorehead, 25, of Newark, N.J., who was elected last week to the New Jersey State Legislature. Moorehead polled 150,000 votes to defeat Frank S. Hargraves, Republican, by 7,000. He is a graduate of Upsola, N.J., College, and voted as man "most likely to succeed" by his classmates.—Photo by Ackis.

Young Jersey Democrat Wins Over GOP Rival

Is First of Race To Represent Party In Assembly

(Special to Journal and Guide)

NEWARK, N. J.—A mild sensation was created here when on Wednesday, November 4, citizens of Newark awoke and found that Guy R. Moorehead, noted athlete, had been elected to the New Jersey Assembly by the record vote of more than 150,000. Moorehead ran ahead of his eleven white associates on the Democratic ticket and defeated Assemblyman Frank S. Hargrave, Republican veteran of the New Jersey Legislature by more than 7,000 votes. First returns indicated Hargrave had won.

Moorehead was an honor graduate of Upsala College, East Orange, N. J., in 1935, and will be the youngest member of the New Jersey Assembly, being only 25 years of age.

While at Upsala he was a noted athlete and starred in football, basketball, baseball, tennis and track; was vice president of senior class; treasurer of student council; chairman of men's governing comittee; chairman of class day exercises; master of ceremonies, senior class banquet; winner of trophy for student best combining scholarship, leadership, and athletic ability; voted best man likely to succeed; listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," and lone colored student of his college.

Likewise the new assemblyman has been active in communial affairs of northern New Jersey; chairman of Social Problems Club of North Jersey; chairman executive committee of Colored Young Democrats of Essex County; financial secretary of Viking Tennis Club of Newark and men's singles champion of same, and lay reader of St. Phillips P. E. Church of Newark.

Moorehead is one of the trusted lieutenants of Assistant Prosecutor J. Bernard Johnson, colored Democratic leader of Newark and Essex County.

New Mexico

Political- 1936
Elections.

Negro Files for County Clerk in New Mexico

10-23-36

LAS CRUCES, N. M. — Edward Williams, a barber, has announced his candidacy for county clerk of Dona Ana county, the first Negro to file for office on the Republican ticket.

He owns a farm and has operated a barber shop here for 40 years.

Political – 1936

Elections.

New York.

New Alderman Gets Extra Week

NEW YORK (AFRO Bureau)—An unusual precedent in Harlem political circles was established when Judge James Watson administered the oath of office to the newly elected alderman, Charles J. Lynch, of the Nineteenth Assembly District, last week.

Afro-Amer. 1-4-36 Baltimore, Md.

Mr. Lynch was not supposed to take office until January 1 and was to be sworn in at City Hall along with other aldermen, but a special dispensation was made in his case, and he holds office a whole week ahead of schedule.

The ceremony took place at the home of Judge Watson, 117 W. 120th Street, in the presence of the alderman's family and his campaign manager.

Bronx, N.Y. Home News

FEB 4 1936

Perry Is Elected Leader of 19th A.D., Harlem, by "Minority Vote"; Result Will Be Protested

Harry C. Perry, Chief Clerk of the City Court, backed by Tammany Leader James J. Dooling, last night was elected Democratic leader of the 19th Assembly District, Harlem, by a minority of the County Committeemen eligible to vote, at a turbulent meeting held at Wadleigh High School Annex, 135th St. and Convent Ave.

Perry received a total of 173 votes to 28 for Martin J. Healy, the former leader, who was supported by James J. Hines, Tammany leader of the 11th A. D., and chief of the Tammany group of leaders in the Roosevelt-Farley wing of the party which has been at odds with Dooling. The election was considered a test of strength in the district between the Roosevelt-Farley forces and those of Dooling and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Population Mostly Colored

The population of the district is predominantly colored, and Fred D. Dickens, colored real estate man sponsored for the leadership by many of the colored committeemen, was not permitted to figure in the voting by a ruling from the chair.

The meeting was constantly in an uproar, with charges of illegality and racial discrimination flying thick and fast. Perry lacked 27 votes of the majority necessary to elect him, and under the law, the decision on the leadership will now rest with the executive committee of Tammany Hall. Whether the action of the minority in naming Perry constituted his election, was today in doubt because of the fact that the Tammany executive committee must ratify the election and because Bernard H. Reich, counsel for Healy, declared he would file a protest with the committee today on the ground that the meeting was illegal and not conducted properly.

Many Don't Vote

The County Committee of the district, which elects a leader, totals 398. The total vote for Perry, therefore, was less than half of the total committee vote. Many supporters of Healy and Dickens refrained from voting. The meeting was supervised by a committee of district leaders appointed by the Tammany executive committee and consisting of William Solomon, of the 17th A. D.; William Kavanagh of the 18th A. D., and John J. Eagan, of the 12th A. D., all Dooling lieutenants.

The meeting was so carefully guarded from invasion by outsiders that it took hours for the approximately 300 committeemen, each bearing credentials to get through the door.

Neither Healy nor Dickens are members of the County Committee, and thus were not entitled to be present. Healy succeeded in entering through courtesy accorded a former leader. Dickens, however, was barred, and his supporters strongly protested and threatened to disrupt the meeting. Dickens managed to slip through the guards shortly after 10 o'clock and the tumult subsided. It was not until then that the meeting, originally scheduled for 8 o'clock, got under way.

Meeting In Uproar Wh... Chairman Rejects All But Two Aspirants VOTE 173 TO 28

Expect Tammany Hall To O. K. Discriminatory Proceedings

Afro

In an uproarous meeting at which charges of racial discrimination were freely hurled as the result of a ruling that the Negro aspirants' names could not be presented, Harry C. Perry, white, chief clerk of the City Court and former leader of the 2nd Assembly District, was declared elected Tammany leader of the 19th Assembly District, Monday night, although he received less than the majority vote required by the election law.

2-8-36

The meeting, held in the Wadleigh High School annex at 135th street and Convent avenue, did not get under way until 10 p. m., and, after a two hour session, resulted in the chairman, Michael J. O'Connor, declaring Perry elected by a vote of 173 to 28 for Martin J. Healy, former leader. Although the names of a number of Negro aspirants for the leadership were presented several times for consideration, the chair ruled all of them with the exception of Ferdinand Q. Morton ineligible for the nomination since they had not entered the primaries.

New York

This ruling caused wide dissension in the meeting, it being felt that since Morton had withdrawn from the race, Tammany, by this decision, was disregarding the rights of the Negro constituency which comprises 90 percent of the voting strength of the district. The move was interpreted in effect as a declaration by Tammany that there could be no Negro leadership in this district. As a result, while there was an almost 100 percent attendance of the county committee which numbers 398, of whom 318 are Negroes, resentment rose so high that only 201 voted, the others remaining silent.

Rights Brazenly Disregarded

Although admitting that they expected discriminatory treatment at the hands of Tammany Hall, a number of the Negro aspirants declared that they were unprepared for what they termed the "brazen disregard" of their rights. Shortly after the meeting opened and the roll was called, an attempt was made to nominate a Negro to serve as chairman, temporary chairman at the first meeting of the county committee last November, a meeting which broke up in wild disorder when Healy and Perry attempted to divide the district between themselves, declared himself to be the duly elected permanent chairman, however.

In addition, he declared that only those candidates whose names were ofered at the November meeting would be eligible for the leadership. This last ruling he based on his insistence that the last meeting in November had only been recessed. Loud cries of protest went up from all parts of the hall as the followers of Fred D. Dickens, one of the strongest of the Negro aspirants realized that this ruling would prevent consideration of him as a candidate.

Aspirants Denied Entrance

Further protests were made when it was discovered that neither Dickens, Dr. J. W. Thornton, nor Dr. L. B. Capehart, all aspirants for the leadership, had been allowed entrance to the hall. Martin J. Healy was also excluded on the grounds that he was not a county committeeman but when the chair had succeeded in establishing its ruling as to the candidates, Healy was permitted to come in after he had made a plea that it would only be sportsmanlike to permit him to enter.

Realizing the hopelessness of their cause, but in an effort to prevent the election of a white leader, all of the Negro candidates withdrew from the race, throwing their support to Dickens. Repeated efforts, however, failed to gain recognition for his nomination which, it is conceded, if allowed would have resulted in his election as the second Negro Tammany leader in Harlem, the other being Herbert L. Bruce of the 21st A. D.

Refused To Vote

Having succeeded in establishing his ruling, elimnating the Negro candidates, O'Connor then had Dan Burrows, secretary, call the roll for a vote which resulted in Perry receiving 173 and Healy 28. The large discrepancy between the total vote and total attendance was explained by the fact that many of the supporters of Dickens refused to vote when their names were called, leaving the way open for court action which is expected to be taken on the issue.

Just how effective such court action may be, however, is difficult to estimate in view of the report that Tammany Hall Leader James J. Dooling is the political sponsor for the leadership. This rumor, in fact, has tended to strengthen the belief that the executive committee of Tammany Hall will rule Perry duly elected leader.

Predict Opposition for Perry

That Perry will not have an easy time of it, however, is clearly indicated in the statements of all of the Negro aspirants. Dickens has already announced that he will put a full ticket in the field for the April primaries when state committeemen and national delegates are elected and Dr. Thornton has announced himself as still opposed to white leadership and has pledged his support to Dickens in his fight.

Dr. Capehart, the other Negro candidate, said that while Perry's election was inevitable because of the failure of the Negro candidates to get together in time, he felt that Perry was in for one and a half years of headaches in his leadership and predicted that when the next leadership fight came around in November, 1937, Perry would be kicked out and given the same sort of beating that he got in the 2nd A. D. Speaking on behalf of his club, Dr. Capehart said: "We recognize him as the leader."

Martin J. Healy, the former leader, walked from the meeting in disgust and declared: "It was pretty raw."

The election and meeting was supervised by Tammany leaders William Solomon, John T. Egan and William Kavanaugh and it is expected that on their recommendation the executive committee of Tammany Hall will declare Perry duly elected.

JUDKINS ENTERS G. O. P. PRIMARY

Amsterdam Democrat

Undertaker Backed by Republican Groups

4-18-31

Supported by the Union County

Colored Republican League and the Young Colored Republicans, Joseph B. Judkins, 428 West Fourth street, Plainfield, announced this week his candidacy in the Republican primaries next month on the party slate of freeholder candidates.

Mr. Judkins, an undertaker by profession, has been active in politics for several years. Through his campaign manager, Kenneth Worde of Summit, Mr. Judkins has distributed nominating petitions throughout the county. A candidate for the City Council last year, he lost in the Fourth ward by less than eighty votes.

Born at Hartford, N. C., in 1900, Mr. Judkins attended Hampton Institute and Union University, both in Virginia, and also at the Renonard Embalming College, the McAllister School of Embalming and the New York School of Embalming and Restorative Art.

Active in local civic, fraternal and religous work, Mr. Judkins holds membership in the Baptist Young People's Union, a past exalted ruler of the I. B. P. O. E. of W., the American Woodsmen, the United Order of Moses and the New Jersey Funeral Directors Association.

Harlem Party Picks Gordon for Assembly

NEW YORK—Official notification of his nomination as candidate for the assembly from the Nineteenth District was given to Horace I. Gordon, by the All-Peoples party at a mass meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. Friday night.

Mr. Gordon, an attorney, is chairman of the Harlem Civil Rights' Association, and according to the committee has been active in various movements for civic betterment. As a member of the Joint Council Against Discriminatory Practices he led the campaign for jobs for colored people in enterprises from which they have been habitually excluded although it is alleged they had the necessary qualifications.

Mr. Gordon has also distinguished himself in the movement for better schools in the community, being associated with the Committee for Better Schools which is campaigning for adequate educational facilities in the Harlem area.

In addition to Mr. Gordon, the meeting was addressed by Angelo Herndon, who was sentenced by a Georgia court to 20 years on the chain gang on insurrection charges.

NEW POLITICAL PARTY TO ENTER CANDIDATES IN COMING ELECTIONS

Many Groups Represented At Sessions During Past Weekend

AT RENAISSANCE

Father Divine Reported To Be Supporting Movement

With more than 200 delegates, representing some 89 social, religious and civic organizations of the community in attendance, and proclaiming that the support of Representative Vito Marcantonio and "Father" Divine had been promised to the movement, the Committee for Independent Political Action in Harlem brought to a close a two-day convention at the Renaissance Casino, 138th Street and Seventh avenue, Sunday evening. By unanimous vote of the assembly, a third party, the All Peoples' Party, was officially formed and announcement was made that candidates from this party would be entered in the fall elections in the Congressional, State Senatorial and Assembly districts of Harlem. A twelve-point platform, outlining the aims of the new party, was composed at the convention and an executive committee of 32 members was elected.

This committee, it was announced, will in the near future, announce the slate of candidates which will be entered in the elections this November.

Candidates from the All Peoples' party will be entered in the Seventeenth, Nineteenth and Twenty-first Assembly districts, the Twenty First Congressional and Seventeenth State Senatorial districts, it was made known, and the fact that the Seventeenth and Twenty Second Congressional and the Nineteenth and Twentieth State Senatorial districts are partly included in Harlem has given rise to the belief that the new party will enter candidates in these latter districts also.

Party Open To All Races

Ignatius C. Lawlor, secretary of the organizing committee and organizor of the Joint Conference Against Discriminatory Practices, parent group of the new movement, in a statement to the press, declared that the new party would not be restricted to any race, adding that it was probable, however, that a majority of its members would be Negroes.

"A united Harlem means a better Harlem for all of us," declared Lawlor who, as temporary chairman, opened the first morning session on Saturday. He bitterly assailed Mayor LaGuardia for his "refusal" to act on the recommendations made to him by his Commission on Conditions in Harlem, appointed immediately following the outbreak of violence on March 19, 1936.

"Bitter experience indicates that we can never expect proper attention to our needs from any city administration, whether Fusion or otherwise, unless Harlem is represented by candidates of an independent Harlem-controlled, political party with an all-Harlem program," said Lawlor.

Donelan Phillips, president of the Consolidated Tenants' League, was elected permanent chairman at the afternoon session on Saturday. Attorney Arthur A. Madison, one of "Father" Divine's legal aids, chosen temporary vice-chairman at the opening session was succeeded by A. L. Maranda who was elected permanent vice-chairman (on Saturday afternoon.

Divine Promises Support

Representative Marcantonio and Divine himself were scheduled to speak at the Sunday session. The congressman, a Republican representing the Twentieth district, attended the session but did not speak. He is afterwards quoted as declaring that he would support the movement however.

Divine, although not present at the convention is said to have asserted that since the policies of the new party coincided with the principles of his "Righteous Government" program he would support it and is further quoted as having promised either to attend or send a representative to the meeting of the executive committee.

The Platform

The platform of the new party, presented to the convention by Theodore Bassett, charman of the platform committee, contained the following planks:

1. Strict opposition to the gerrymandering of Harlem.
2. More employment for Harlem people at trade union wages and conditions with a unionization of all workers and no discrimination of any race.
3. Adequate unemployment relief and medical care for the unemployed of the community.
4. Enactment of the Frazier-Lundeen social insurance bill and the Marcantonio relief bill.
5. Adoption by Mayor LaGuardia of the recommendations made in the report of the committee he appointed to investigate conditions in Harlem.
6. Protection of civil liberties of the people of Harlem and the immediate decrease of the police force to a proportion equalling that of any other law-abiding community.
7. Continued opposition to war and fascism.
8. Adequate school facilities to care for the youth of the community.
9. Opposition to any deportation drive of aliens, regardless of race or color.
10. Abolition of fire-trap tenements and a 40 percent decrease in rents.
11. Independence of Puerto Rico.
12. Freedom of all political prisoners.

Political - 1936
Elections.

New York.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
WORLD TELEGRAM

JUL 27 1936

NEGRO RUNS FOR JUDGE

Lavelle Seeks Seat on General Sessions Bench.

Louis A. Lavelle, Negro lawyer, today announced his candidacy for judge of the Court of General Sessions, New York County. He declared the election of a Negro to the bench this fall is essential for democracy and the advancement of his race.

Three of the nine judgeships in the court are to be filled by the general election on November 3. No Negro has yet won a seat.

Mr. Lavelle claims 65 per cent of the defendants in the Court of Special Sessions here are Negroes.

Mr. Lavelle pledged himself to unbiased administration of justice, regardless of race or creed.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
AMERICAN

JUL 27 1936

Negro Seeks Post On Criminal Bench

Louis A. Lavelle, Negro lawyer with offices at 458 W. 151st st., announced yesterday he would be a candidate for one of the three General Sessions Judgeship to be filled in the general election Nov. 3.

Pointing out that 35 per cent of the prisoners arraigned in General Sessions are Negroes, Lavelle contended there is "a real, positive, urgent need" for a member of his race on the bench.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.
EAGLE

JUL 27 1936

NEGRO LAWYER SEEKS BENCH

Louis A. Lavelle, Negro lawyer, with offices at 458 W. 151st St., Manhattan, has issued a statement announcing his candidacy for one of the three vacant judicial berths in the New York County Court of General Sessions, it became known today.

CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS POLLED BY N. A. A. C. P. ON LYNCHINGS, JOBS, RELIEF

Importance Of Election Causes Organization To Go Into Action

SEEK PLEDGE

All Matters Affecting Negroes Included In Questionnaire

All candidates for both Senate and House of Representatives of the 75th Congress "who have at least a remote chance of being elected"are being asked to pledge their attitude on issues of importance to the Negro, it became known here last week. The pledges are being asked of candidates by branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in line with action voted at the recent annual conference at Baltimore.

The specific points on which aspirants for seats in Congress are being asked to make their position clear include Federal anti-lynching legislation, bills dealing with relief, jobs, the civil service and enforcement of these measures.

The text of the pledge which candidates are asked to sign reads:

"I pledge, if elected, to do everything possible to bring to a vote for an effective anti-lynching bill in the 75th Congress. I also promise to oppose all legislation in the 75th Congress which discriminates on account of race, creed, or color, in relief, jobs, civil service, or in any other way."

Branches of the Association have been urged by the national office to seek the cooperation of the groups which have supported the Costigan-Wagner and of other minority groups which have suffered from discrimination such as labor groups and racial minorities. Branches have also been requested to make known the attitudes of the various candidates, especially those who may refuse or evade signing. Especial attention is to be paid to candidates for reelection on the basis of their past records, whether favorable or otherwise.

The N. A. A. C. P. letter to its 407 branches says in part:

Recall Parker Fight

"In no other presidential campaign has the Negro vote been so seriously considered as in 1936. The balance of power which the Negro vote holds potentially in seventeen states, with an electoral vote of 281, gives us greater strength than we have ever had before when one considers that 266 votes in the Electoral College determines who will be our next president. The campaign for political independence of the Negro and for emphasis on issues rather than party labels which the N. A. A. C. P. has waged throughout its existence, coupled with the aggressive and successful fights we have made as in the Judge Parker case, have borne fruit in the new and high regard for the Negro vote.

"But we must not let ourselves be misled or fooled by political parties or politicians, white or black. It is important to Negroes who the next occcupant of the White House will be but even more important is the attitude on issues of vital concern to the Negro of members of the incoming Congress of governors, state legislators, sheriffs, members of school and tax boards and all down the line.

"This letter deals with the important—the vitally important—matter of how members of the 75th Congress to be elected in November stand on a federal anti-lynching bill, on legislation dealing with relief, jobs, the civil service, and on the enforcement of that legislation."

Gird for Closing Conflict in Campaign

Courier-Journal Tribune 10-31-36 New York Bureau

Harlem Staging Own 2-Ring Election Row

Fight for Assembly Posts in Two Districts Features Uptown Political War

While the Presidential campaign held the spotlight in Harlem as well as throughout the nation, Harlem had its own political fights on its hands yesterday, with two seats in the Assembly as the prizes.

Although Harlemites vote by thousands in other districts, the centers of attention were in the Twenty-first and the Nineteenth. William T. Andrews, Democrat, holds the office in the former, while a fellow party member, Robert W. Justice, holds sway in the Nineteenth.

Mr. Andrews has John W. Moore, Republican and comparatively new political figure here, as his chief foe, and a complete upset is regarded as the only possible factor in a defeat for the incumbent. Mr. Andrews is "endorsed" by the Citizens Union.

There is still other opposition in the persons of Noah A. C. Walter, Jr., Socialist, and Angelo Herndon, Communist, and all Peoples' parties, but nothing short of a tornado was expected to put either in office.

The People's party with its wide program for social security, public housing, curbs on discrimination and segregation is making its bow this year, and probably will become a part of the labor political movement.

Most of the new party's platform is an embodiment of the social and economic demands expressed by Harlem civic groups of all shades of opinion, and there are observers who hold that it will draw a heavy vote for a newcomer.

In the Nineteenth, where Jane Bolin, Republican woman lawyer, who is "endorsed" by Citizens Union, is opposing Justice, All Peoples' has Horace I. Gordon as its candidate. Mr. Gordon is a militant young lawyer, and is popular with labor, civil liberty and relief groups, with the friendship of many radicals also. He has no Communist opposition although he is an independent Democrat.

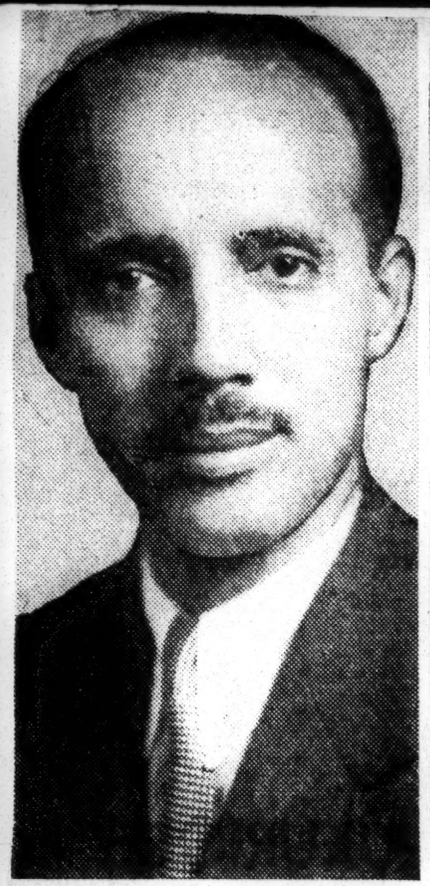
Mr. Justice has the backing of the district Democratic organization and is "qualified" by the Citizens Union.

Other Negro candidates seeking office in Harlem are Frank R. Crosswaith, veteran Socialist leader and labor organizer, who is candidate for Congressman-at-Large; Layle Lane, Socialist, who seeks a Congress post in the Nineteenth; Theodore R. Bassett, Communist, who wants the same job; Jane P. Morgan, candidate for State Senate on the Socialist ticket; Victor Gaspar, Socialist, candidate for Assembly in the Nineteenth; Sam C. Patterson, Communist, candidate for Assembly in the Twenty-first; Ben Davis and Cyril Phillips, Communist candidates for Assembly in the Eighteenth and Twentieth, respectively.

Harlem Democrats and Republicans are showing interest also in the Congress race in the Twenty-first and the Twentieth, and in the State Senate fights in the Nineteenth and Twentieth, although the candidates are white, Joseph A. Gavagan, incumbent, is given an edge over Melinda Alexander, Republican, in the Twenty-first. Gavagan was active in the anti-lynching fight last year.

In the Twentieth, Vito Marcantonio, fiery Republican and All Peoples' candidate, faces James J. Ganzetta, Democrat. Marcantonio is known as the defender of the jobless.

State Senators Duncan J. O'Brien and A. Spencerfeld, Democrats, are expected to triumph over W. H. Mulholland and Bernard M. Fineson in the Nineteenth and Twentieth, respectively.



WILLIAM T. ANDREWS

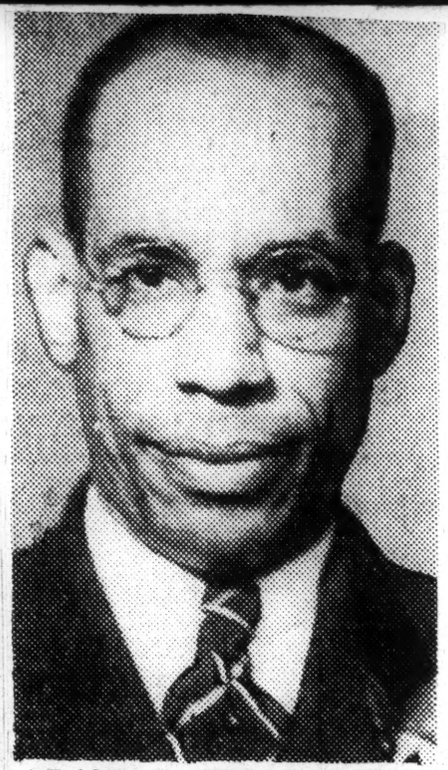
The assemblyman in the Twenty-first district seeks re-election on Democratic ticket.

ROBERT W. JUSTICE

Albany for another year is the aim of the Nineteenth district's Democratic assemblyman.

HORACE I. GORDON

Mr. Gordon represents the new All-Peoples' party in Assembly race in Nineteenth.



FRANK R. CROSSWAITH

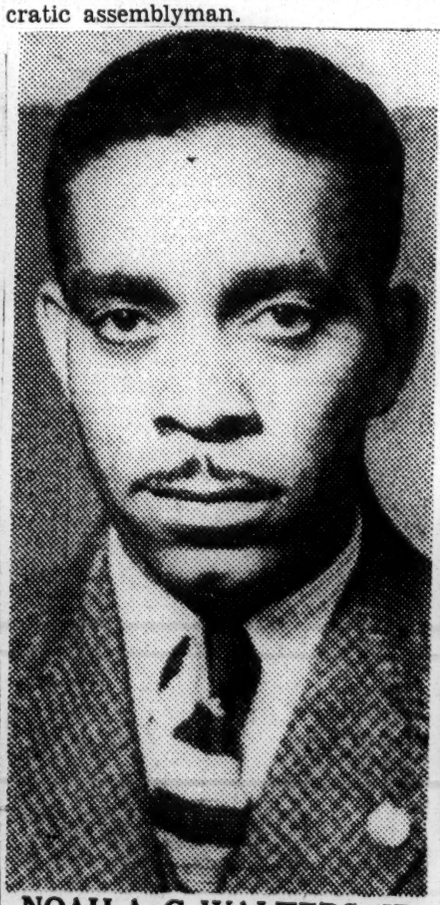
A peer among Socialist leaders, Mr. Crosswaith is candidate for Congressman-at-large.

JANE M. BOLIN

The G. O. P. attorney is the only Negro woman on major party ticket. She opposes Robert Justice in Nineteenth A. D.

JOHN W. MOORE

Mr. Moore is the Republican candidate for the Legislature in the Twenty-first Assembly district.



NOAH A. C. WALTERS, JR.

Mr. Walters is the Socialist candidate for the Assembly in the Twenty-first Harlem district.

VICTOR GASPAR

This labor leader is a Socialist, and seeks election to the State Assembly in the Nineteenth.

Political - 1936
Elections.

New York.

JUSTICE AND ANDREWS WIN ASSEMBLY RACE

Harlemites Victorious In Bitter Fight

By W. THOMAS WATSON
(Staff Correspondent)
(Photos on Page 28)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 6—(Special)—In the Democratic tidal wave which swept President Franklin Delano Roosevelt into office for a second term emerged two Race winners, Robert W. Justice and William T. Andrews, who will sit in the New York General Assembly. Andrews who hails from the 21st Assembly district, won on the Democratic ticket, while Justice was reelected from the 19th. Assembly district. Both candidates polled record votes among Harlemites who turned out by the thousands to cast their votes for the New Deal.

Assemblyman Andrews was born in Sumter, S. C. He is a graduate of Howard university, class of 1921, and the Columbia law school. He was counsellor of the NAACP from 1925 to 1932. Assemblyman Andrews is well known in fraternal circles, being a member of the Manhattan Lodge 14, EBPOE of W. He is married and resides at 405 Edgecombe avenue.

Justice a Business Leader

Assemblyman Justice has been a prominent figure in Harlem business, political and civic life for many years. He is director and founder of the New York Academy of Business.

Born in Charlotte, N. C., was educated at Johnson C. Smith university, Columbia university, New York university and Fordham university. He is secretary of the Emergency council for our people and had the endorsement of the American Federation of Labor and the Central Trades and Labor Council of greater New York.

Governor Lehman

The Democratic sweep included state ticket candidates headed by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman who was leading his Republican opponent, former Supreme Court Justice William F. Bleakley, by a plurality that, while not so wide as that of President Roosevelt, was still heavy enough apparently to insure a third term for the so-called "Albany edition" of the New Deal. In 5,960 precincts Lehman had 4,008,251; Bleakley, 1,680,356.

In addition to picking 47 presidential electors, electing a governor and other state officers, the voters were called upon to elect a Court of Appeals justice, minor judges and state senators and assemblymen. Democratic candidates appeared to have triumphed in the vast majority of cases.

Andrews And Justice Win In New York

Divine Orders His Flock Not To Vote

Journal and Guide Bureau

NEW YORK CITY—W. T. Andrews, Democrat, and Robert W. Justice, Democrat, were reelected to the New York State Assembly in Tuesday's voting. Andrews ran in the 21st district and Justice in the 19th.

Justice defeated Miss Jane M. Bolin, an attorney. She was the only woman on a major party ticket, running under the Republican banner.

Miss Bolin was "endorsed" by the Citizens Union. Andrews was opposed by John W. Moore. new political figure here. Other colored candidates were Noah A. C. Walter, Jr., Communist, against Justice and Angelo Herndon, All Peoples' Party, against Andrews in the 21st.

Harlem had an all-night wild celebration of the Roosevelt victory.

Father Major J. Divine stopped his angels, whom he had ordered to register under strange names, from all voting.

Other colored candidates were: Horace I. Gordon, young lawyer, all Peoples' Party candidate for the Assembly in the 19th;

Other Negro candidates seeking office in Harlem were Frank R. Crosswaith, veteran Socialist leader and labor organizer, candidate for Congress-at-Large; Layle Lane, Socialist, who sought a Congress post in the Nineteenth; Theodore R. Bassett, Communist, who wanted the same job; Jane P. Morgan, candidate for State Senate on the Socialist ticket; Victor Gaspar, Socialist, candidate for Assembly in the Nineteenth; Sam C. Patterson, Communist, candidate for Assembly in the Twenty-first; Ben Davis and Cyril Phillips, Communist candidates for Assembly in the Eighteenth and Twentieth, respectively.

Harlem Democrats and Republicans showed interest also in the Congress race in the Twenty-first and Twentieth, and in the State Senate fights in the Nineteenth and Twentieth, although the candidates were white, Joseph A. Gavagan, incumbent, and Melinda Alexander, Republican, in the Twenty-first. Gavagan was active in the anti-lynching fight last year.

Political - 1936 Elections.

North Carolina.

Dunn, N. C. Dispatch
January 31, 1936

Dr. McDonald's Erwin Address.

"Labor conditions today in North Carolina and the entire South are not unlike the slave days of the Southern Negro," Dr. Ralph McDonald, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of North Carolina, is reported to have told his audience at Erwin Saturday night.

We do not doubt Dr. McDonald's sincerity but the above does not sound as though he exercises any considerable degree of caution in making statements. Not having lived during the slave period, we cannot, of course, lay claim to first hand knowledge of conditions under which they lived other than by such information as has been relayed to us by old-timers and by historians. Granting that slaves, as a rule, were well cared for by their masters, we hesitate to believe that anyone familiar with the institution of slavery would contend that the standards by which the southern blacks lived were as high as those of the typical family in the average North Carolina mill village today. And the typical mill family is a thrifty family. Poverty, of course, is prevalent in the mill villages as everywhere, for as the philosopher said, "the poor we have always with us." But poverty is not the rule and it is not typical.

The standards of the average textile operatives in North Carolina are far above that of the average tenant farmer, and, in many cases, better than those of the small farm owner.

Dr. McDonald's Erwin declaration is plainly an appeal to prejudice. His entire campaign, for that matter, is a studied effort to bait the malcontents. Where people have happiness and comfort, he would have them become discouraged and discontented through preachments of unrest. He would have those who look upon the optimstic side of life turned overnight into pessimists, who out of the depths of their imagined despond would howl, "calamity—calamity."

At a time when the mission of the constructive candidate should be to preach unity, cooperation and fraternity, Dr. McDonald would becloud the atmosphere with the bitterness of class war and class hatred. His tactics are destructive and his word those of defeatism.

In other southern states demagogues have builded their thrones on appeals to class prejudice but in North Carolina not yet and let us hope—never.

Elect Negro Justice In Raleigh, N. C.

Special to Journal and Guide

RALEIGH, N. C.—On the crest of the wave of Democratic office seekers swept into office last Tuesday, Henry High, local produce merchant, became the first Negro to be elected to a public office in Wake County, North Carolina. Mr. High was elected Justice of the Peace.

Mr. High is the first Negro to be elected to public office on any ticket since Reconstruction. He has been a Notary Public here for several years and is well known in local business circles. He has been active in the political and civic life of this city for many years.

Mr. High was defeated when he ran for office two years ago. He will open offices in the city soon and will hold court along with the other justices of this city.

Two Negro Magistrates Win In North Carolina On Democratic Ticket

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. —(AP) —Approximately 3,000 Negroes voted in Durham and 3,000 in Raleigh at the Nov. 3 election which saw the election here of two colored magistrates, Frederick N. Watkins and Felix Moore, Democrats. Most of the state's Negro vote was for Roosevelt.

Ohio.

Political—1936
Elections.

CINCINNATI, OHIO
POST

APR 28 1936

COLORED ELKS BACK TAFT

State Committee Passes Resolution in Presidential Race

Support of the State Association of Colored Elks was thrown behind Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati "favorite son" candidate for the Republican nomination for President, in a resolution adopted by the Association's Executive Committee at Columbus late Monday.

The resolution stated that the committee felt that the best interests of the nation and its Negro citizens would be best served by the defeat of Senator William E. Borah at the May 12 primaries.

WINNER—Chester K. Gillespie, prominent Cleveland attorney, who was nominated for the state legislature of Ohio over a large field of candidates by a large vote. Attorney Gillespie is an outstanding member of the National Bar association.

Bundy Elected Del. At-Large

Ohio Councilman Looms As Outstanding Negro Leader In The Republican Party In The Country

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 19.—Councilman LeRoy N. Bundy, was elected by large majority this week as Delegate-at-Large on the Taft favorite son slate for Ohio. As leader of some 300,000 Colored Republicans from what is regarded as one of the key states that will decide the nominee of the Republican Party to face Roosevelt in November. Bundy is developing plans for united action on the part of Colored Republican leaders thruout the country.

A call will soon be issued for a meeting of colored delegates to wage a fight for the inclusion in the Republican Party Platform of planks definitely committing the Party to the enactment of national legislation to enforce the provisions of the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments to the Constitution in the matter of civil and political rights of the Negro citizen, as well as the enactment of anti-lynching legislation.

Also included in Bundy's program is the committment of the party to larger recognition of colored Republicans in the appointive service of the Federal Government. Bundy has already named a local committee headed by Attorney Norman L. McGhee, Attorney Augustus C. Parker and Enoch Williams, to advise with him in the formulation of the program he intends to present to his fellow Colored Republican delegates for their consideration prior to the staging of the fight for its adoption by the Republican National Convention.

Bundy has requested the National Negro Bar Association to make a study of the Equal Rights Laws passed by Congress following the Civil War but later declared unconstitutional by the U. S. Supreme Court as it was then constituted, with a view to drafting a new Civil Rights Law that may now be enacted by Congress.

Sheriff Race To Mark Test of Negro Leaders

Although Roosevelt and Landon occupy the limelight in all political discussions generally in the Colored wards, an unusual amount of interest is being manifested in the local county ticket; and it all centers about the Sheriff's Office.

The local Colored Republican leaders did an excellent job year before last in selling the voters of the 11th, 12th, 17th, and 18th wards the anti-race record of Edwin H. Barry while he was Safety Director of Cleveland.

In 1934 Barry campaigned for the Republican nomination for Sheriff. Other county officers faded into comparative insignificance by reason of the intensity and bitterness of the fight against Barry in these Colored wards.

Enthusiasm ran to new highs in that primary fight as Republican mass meetings were packed night after night. Loud speakers carried the withering vituperations against Barry to the milling throngs on the outside who were unable to procure even standing room within these meetings. Messrs. Leroy Bundy Lawrence O. Payne and John Hubbard, our three councilmen, dealt sledgehammer blows from the platform and through organization effort to defeat Barry.

With devastating effect they characterized Barry's record as Safety Director as reeking with racial prejudice. They charged that he enforced a policy of segregation in certain public places; that his idea of cleaning up the city was the throwing in jail of dozens of Colored persons whose only offense was that they were standing on street corners. These men were held in many instances for forty-eight hours on "investigation" only to be finally released because no charges could be placed against them, it was explained. The manner in which these raids were conducted without warrant or any basis in law in the Colored districts were described by these wronght up leaders as being thoroughly rank and high handed. Many specific examples were recited.

One often hears the contemptuous observation that, "a Negro soon forgets." Judging from the anti-Barry spirit which prevails throughout the entire Colored community, this conclusion is entirely unfounded in fact.

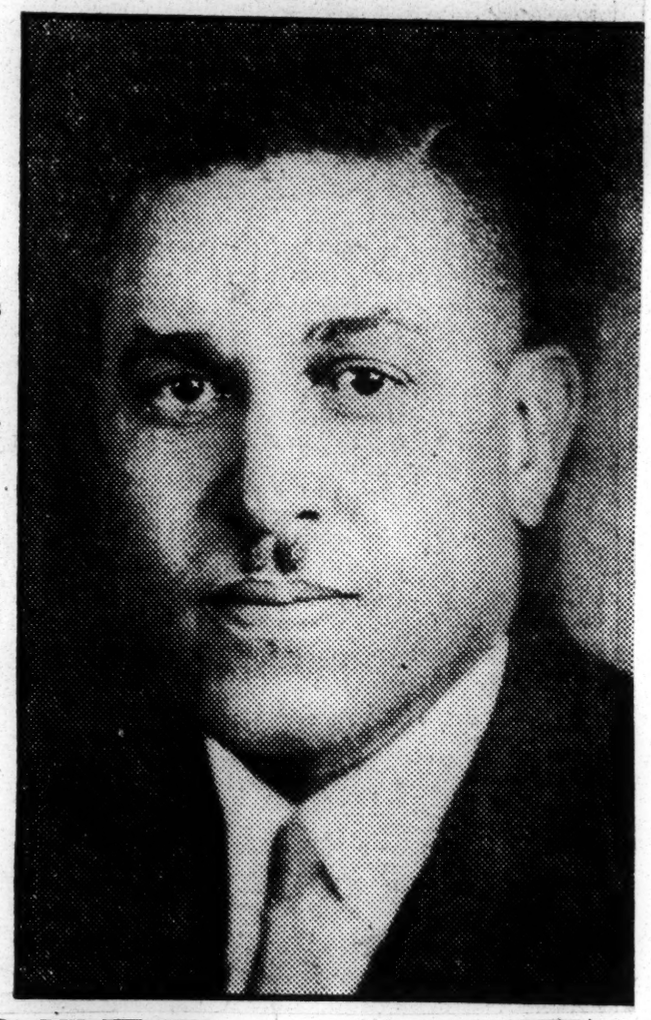
At any rate, is appears that they do not intend to forget Barry. Messrs. Bundy, Payne and Hubbard did their work too well.

Ohio GOP Legislature Candidate Announces He's For Roosevelt

CLEVELAND (ANP) — What may prove a serious defection of colored Republicans of Cleveland and Cuyahoga county to Roosevelt was indicated this week with the announcement of the formation of The New Deal Voters league of cuyahoga County headed up by Norman L. McGhee, militant Negro attorney, and recent legislative candidate on the Republican ticket.

McGhee declared this week in explaining his defection from his former comrades that Republicans in the state of Ohio, and legally, for the past ten years have been leading colored voters up blind political alleys, promising them this and that, telling them that they were on Republican boulevards to race progress, leaving them to find out that they were merely on dead end streets abutting the dump heap.

Loses In Sweep of Dems



ONE of the election results which Race voters generally regret, is the defeat of Chester K. Gillespie, the only Negro candidate on the Republican ticket for State Representative, who met the same fate as other Republicans in the deluge of Democratic votes.

ELECTED TO SEAT IN CITY COUNCIL

CLEVELAND, Nov. 25.—(By Leon Lewis for ANP)—Since the death of Councilman John E. Hubbard last September, the names of many political aspirants have been publically mentioned and predicted as probably electives to the vacant 18th ward post. With the 18th ward voters and the city in general worked up to the selection of either John Hubbard, Jr., or Attorney Harold Gassaway, Republicans; or Dr. James Owen or John Cobb, Democrats, William C. Reed, Independent Democratic councilman, demonstrated his balance of power by forcing the election of Septimus E. Craig on the second ballot.

Reed was joined by another Democrat in supporting Craig on the first ballot, leaving the Dems and G.O.P. factions in the council tied in votes for Dr. Owen and Hubbard, Jr. In a caucus the day before the election, Democrats decided to support Reed rather than see a Republican get the post. This was done on the second ballot.

Craig is practically a newcomer to Cleveland, having been here only five years. He was not present during the balloting and had to be hastily summoned by telephone so that he could take the oath of office. Smiling when he was asked if he was surprised at his being elected, he said, "Nothing is surprising in politics."

He was born in Kingston, Jamaica, and educated in a teachers' college there, taught school in Jamaica for a short time and came to the United States 27 years ago. He was naturailzed several years ago, elected an 18th ward precinct committeeman last year and at present he is district representative for an electrical device manufacturer.

CRAIG MADE COUNCILMAN

Former Boston Resident Wins in Democratic Coup

Cleveland, Ohio—Septimus E. Craig, former Boston real estate man, has been elected to the City Council here as representative from Ward 18. He will take the place of John M. Hubbard, deceased.

Mr. Craig's election was a bit of political strategy engineered by two Independent Councilmen, William C. Reed and Anton Vehovec.

SEPTIMUS E. CRAIG

The election came on the second ballot. The vote was 17 to 15. Vote on the first ballot was 15 to 15 divided between Dr. Owen, Democrat, and John Hubbard, Jr., Republican, son of the deceased councilman, with the two Independents voting for Mr. Craig.

Sensing their inability to seat the party organization candidate, Dr. Owen, the 15 regular Democrats joined with Mr. Reed and Mr. Vehovec to provide the plurality necessary to name Mr. Craig.

Mr. Craig was not present when he was chosen in this surprising election. Only a few of the Councilmen knew him. Immediately a messenger was sent to his home at 2183 East 85th Street. When he arrived he was escorted into the chamber and his oath of office was administered by the President of the Council. He was congratulated by his fellow councilmen.

Mr. Craig is a Democratic committeeman in Precinct O, 18th Ward, 18. He is district manager for Electrical Houskeeping Inc., a General Electric subsidiary.

Mr. Craig was pleased at the election , and when asked if he was surprised, remarked that anything can happen in politics. He is a native of Kingston, Jamaica, West Indies. He is the first Negro Democrat to be elected to the Cleveland City Council. At the present time there is a Negro Republican councilman.

"Dark Horse" Solon Elected In Cleveland

In City Only 5 Years; Local Republicans Disturbed

By LEON LEWIS

CLEVELAND—(ANP)— Since the death of Councilman John E. Hubbard last September, the names of many political aspirants have been mentioned and predicted as probably electives to the vacant 18th ward post. With the 18th ward voters and the city in general worked up to the selection of either John Hubbard, Jr., or Attorney Harold Gassaway, Republicans; or Dr. James Owen or John Cobb, Democrats, William C. Reed, Independent Democratic councilman, demonstrated his balance of power by forcing the election of Stepimus E. Craig on the second ballot.

Reed was joined by another Democrat in supporting Craig on the first ballot, leaving the dems and GOP factions in the council tied in votes for Dr. Owen and Hubbard, Jr. In a caucus the day before the election Democrats decided to support Reed rather than see a Republican get the post. This was done on the second ballot.

Craig is practically a new-comer to Cleveland, having been here only five years. He was not present during the balloting and had to be hastily summoned by telephone so that he could take the oath of office. Smiling when he was asked if he was surprised at his being elected, he said, "Nothing is surprising in politics."

He was born in Kingston, Jamaica, and educated in a teachers college there, taught school in Jamaica for a short time and came to the United States 27 years ago. He was naturalized several years ago, elected an 18th ward precinct committeeman last year, and at present is district representative for an electorial device manufacturer.

Political-1936
Elections.

Ohio.

Negro Judge To Be Named In Cleveland

Political Plum To Be Reward For Swing To Democrats

By LEON LEWIS

CLEVELAND—(ANP)— After one of the greatest Democratic landslides in the history of Cuyahoga County elections, political attention is being directed to the appointment of a municipal judge from the ranks of Negro Democratic aspirants of Cleveland. Negroes of this city have sought judicial seats in practically every election in the past 10 years, but until today have been unsuccessful.

Realizing that the sweep put on by Democratic candidates is accredited largely to the change of Negro voters en masse from the stronghold of the Republican party, the local dailies gave a pre-prospectus of probable appointments. These, however, were not the suggested choice of the fervent colored Democrats who put the plus-muscle wedge into the Republican political wheel. One of the probable appointments was that of Atty. Alexander Martin, who has come over into the Democratic party within the last two years.

NOT FAVORED

Martin was considered for a likely appointment by former governor Cooper some years ago and it is claimed that he had the appointment in the bag, but all of a sudden he was sidestepped for a white contender. At this time he was a GOP. Martin is no doubt one of the city's most capable attorneys but not a favored member of the groups' leadership.

It is definitely evidenced that the controlling element in the past election was the state's younger Democrats who led the fight all the way and secured the greatest avalanche of Democratic votes in the colored wards ever realized in the state. These "upstarts" as they were called by old reliables in the infant days of campaigning, have put Democratic hopes into reality and feel that they should have a word in the "reap."

Tom Davis, state organizer for the Ohio State Democratic League, ably supported by John Cobb, Norman McGhee, Selby Minor and others, compromise the brawn of localities in the fight and have shown the county organization that they hold the "handle of the quirt" among colored voters.

After considerable inquiry within the confidential circles of the young leaders it is evident that Selby Minor, for the past seven years assistant prosecutor, is their choice for the municipal judge appointment. And furthermore he is being groomed from every angle of effectiveness.

Summing up their individual trends of thought regarding the general situation, it can be safely said that in order for the Democrats, city, county and state, to be assured of continuance of the type of Negro support shown in the recent election, recognition must be given to the principle factors in the alignment. These factors, the Ohio State Democratic league and constituting subsidiaries, realize that they have one of the strongest political organizations of the state, since it is generally known that the Negro vote in this state is the balance of power, and this organization has shown capability of getting that vote.

It is very likely that Minor will get the post, with the organization behind him although he has not been publicly mentioned as a contender.

Political - 1936

Elections.

Oklahoma

Marland and the "New Deal" For Negroes In Oklahoma

Negroes of America have heard much of the "New Deal" program of President Roosevelt and the Democratic party, and while there has been much constructive good that has come out of the policies and the program of the National Democratic administration, the candidacy of Governor E. W. Marland, for a seat in the United States Senate, brings to the fore the "New Deal" Governor Marland personally brought to the Negroes of this great state.

First of all, Governor Marland identified himself with a new type of Negro leadership in Oklahoma. He sought out leading Negroes who had at heart the interest of the mass of black men and women of this state. With these leaders he adopted a program that would help to lift the standard of all Negroes, rather than pursue the old policy of serving the selfish aims of a few venal, self-appointed guides.

Governor Marland immediately shunted away as nearly as possible the political influences that had surrounded the University at Langston for the past 25 years. Today, for the first time in twenty years, harmony reigns at Langston and the men and women who teach there are divorced from the evil influences that for a quarter of a century have helped to destroy the institution.

Governor Marland's "New Deal" did not end there. This great public character decided that since the policy in Oklahoma and the South was to maintain separate institutions for white and black, Negroes should have the right to demonstrate their administrative capacity by heading state-owned Negro institutions. With this in mind he dismissed a white superintendent at Taft and manned the Insane Asylum and the D. B. & O. institute with Negro employes. From business manager and superintendent on down to the furnace stoker, every employe at these two institutions are Negroes, and competent and qualified leaders, who have reflected credit upon Governor Marland and upon their race as well.

It seems unreal and impossible that Negroes could make such rapid political advance in a short period of two years, but even so, Governor Marland proceeded further to undo an ugly snarl which a former governor had thrown Negro affairs. Governor Marland decided that it was unfair to have the D. B. & O. institute operated under the same administrator as the Insane Asylum. To rectify this bad situation the State Board of Affairs is at the present moment at Taft separating these institutions into two separate and distinct administrations.

Bu the most far-reaching and significant thing that Governor Marland has done, and which offers healthy growth to the Negro's economic structure develops out of Governor Marland's placing Negro laborers on highway construction work in the state. In counsel with his "New Deal" Negro leadership, Governor Marland decided that this ought to and should be done, and as a consequence today more than 500 Negroes are working as laborers on the highways of Oklahoma.

In Governor Marland we find a friend who says that Negroes as well as men of other races, should have a full dinner pail. For years we have paid various types of taxes on gasoline, automobile tags and sales tax, all providing for highway construction. In addition to this the federal government has supplied untold millions for this work, but in the expenditure of this huge fund Negroes were never before considered.

Does this mean anything to you? Should such a man as Governor Marland be retained in office? What is your responsibility in such a case? Should you be led astray by specious and doubtful promises, or should you be inspired to vote for a man who has faithfully performed while in office?

The important thing for Negroes in Oklahoma to remember just at this time is that Governor Marland's attitude towards Negroes is being watched by every office-holder and politician. They want to know what the reaction of Negroes will be. They want to know whether the Negro vote is as intelligent as Governor Marland thinks it is. Governor Marland has gambled on the thought that Negroes have evolved out to a place and point of intelligence and vision where they will vote for men who serve their genuine and rightful needs.

You know what the old order has been. You realize that never before has there been a type of Negro leadership in Oklahoma having the ear of a governor, making demands for the masses. It has always before been a "hungry" leadership which looked out for self and ended there.

It was Congressman Oscar DePriest who sometime ago said: "Never select a hungry dog to watch your smokehouse." For the first time in Oklahoma Negroes who are not themselves seeking office or asking alms in the way of campaign funds, have the ear of the governor. The governor has indulged in a great experience and has done those things which in his judgment ought to meet with approval of all Negroes.

Hungry leaders, whose transient and emergency economy cause them to do daily somersaults, will frantically ask you to vote in this run-off election for Governor Marland's opponent. They will have no excuse to offer for this betrayal of a friend except one which they cannot translate into words, because their reason is selfish. They seek to serve their own ends. They care nothing about the common weal.

With Governor Marland in the Senate we will still retain the status quo in Oklahoma. It is well known that for the next two years the policies of Governor Marland will be vigorously carried forward by his friend and colleague, the lieutenant governor. It is reasonable to assume that in the Senate the aims and objectives of Negroes of the state will be ably represented. Never before in the history of this great state have the Negroes had the opportunity to cast a ballot which effects so much that is vital and beneficial. What amount of this responsibility do you assume?

The argument will be made that if Governor Marland is such a good man he should be kept in Oklahoma. The enemies of the Governor fail to tell you that the Constitution of Oklahoma limits the term of governor to four years and that he could not immediately succeed himself.

A more sensible view of perpetuating the influence of Governor Marland in the state is found in sending him to the Senate. He can render valuable service there, and then two years from now, with his power and influence as Senator he can help to shape a program here in the state, which will elevate to office another man who will be pledged to continue his policies.

The cold-blooded and sensible view that all Negroes who vote in the runoff Democratic primary should have is this: "I have already won. I have wone in the fact that a governor in office has faithfully performed and done everything that a conservative and honest race leadership has asked him to do, but I will lose if I cast my ballot against this friend. I will lose in that other Democrats will realize that Negroes do not react and respond properly to white men who sympatheically administer affairs of black men. If I vote against Marland it will be noticed by all other white office holders that fair treatment to Negroes fails to produce beneficial results from Negroes at the polls."

Political - 1936

Elections.

Oklahoma

Marland and the "New Deal" For Negroes in Oklahoma

Negroes of America have heard much of the "New Deal" program of President Roosevelt and the Democratic party, and while there has been much good that has come out of the policies and the programs of the National Democratic administration, the candidacy of Governor E. W. Marland, for a seat in the United States Senate, brings to the fore the "New Deal" Governor Marland personally brought to the Negroes of this great state.

First of all, Governor Marland identified himself with a new type of Negro leadership in Oklahoma. He sought out leading Negroes who had at heart the interest of the mass of Negro men and women of this state. With these leaders he adopted a program that would help to lift the standard of all Negroes, rather than pursue the old policy of serving the selfish aims of a few venal, self-appointed guides.

Governor Marland immediately shunted away as nearly as possible the political influences that had surrounded the University at Langston for the past 25 years. Today, for the first time in twenty years, harmony reigns at Langston and the men and women who teach there are divorced from the evil influences that for a quarter of a century have helped to destroy the institution.

Governor Marland's "New Deal" did not end there. This great public character decided that since the policy in Oklahoma and the South was to maintain separate institutions for white and black, Negroes should have the right to demonstrate their administrative capacity by heading state-owned Negro institutions. With this in mind he dismissed a white superintendent at Taft and manned the Insane Asylum and the D. B. & O. institute with Negro employes. From business manager and superintendent on down to the furnace stoker, every employe at these two institutions are Negroes, and competent and qualified leaders, who have reflected credit upon Governor Marland and upon their race as well.

It seems unreal and impossible that Negroes could make such rapid political advance in a short period of two years, but even so, Governor Marland proceeded further to undo an ugly snarl which a former governor had thrown Negro affairs. Governor Marland decided that it was unfair to have the D. B. & O. institute operated under the same administrator as the Insane Asylum. To rectify this bad situation the State Board of Affairs is at the present moment at Taft separating these institutions into two distinct administrations.

But the most far-reaching and significant thing that Governor Marland has done, and which offers healthy growth to the Negro's economic structure develops out of Governor Marland's placing Negro laborers on highway construction work in the state. In counsel with his "New Deal" Negro leadership, Governor Marland decided that this ought to and should be done, and as a consequence today more than 500 Negroes are working as laborers on the highways of Oklahoma.

In Governor Marland we find a friend who says that Negroes as well as men of other races, should have a full dinner pail. For years we have paid various types of taxes on gasoline, automobile tags and sales tax, all providing for the next two years the In addition to this the federal untold millions for this work, but this huge fund Negroes were never such a good man he should be kept in Oklahoma. The enemies of the Governor fail to tell you that the Constitution of Oklahoma limits the term of governor to four years and that he could not immediately succeed himself.

A more sensible view of perpetuating the influence of Governor Marland in the state is found in sending him to the Senate. He can render valuable service there, and then two years from now, with his power and influence as Senator he can help to shape a program here in the state, which will elevate to office another man who will be pledged to continue his policies.

The cold-blooded and sensible view that all Negroes who vote in the runoff Democratic primary should have is this: "I have already won. I have wone in the fact that a governor in office has faithfully performed and done everything that a conservative and honest race leadership has asked him to do, but I will lose if I cast my ballot against this friend. I will lose in that other Democrats will realize that Negroes do not react and respond properly to white men who sympatheically administer affairs of black men. If I vote against Marland it will be noticed by all other ade that if Governor Marland is ve find a friend who says that of other races, should have a full e have paid various types of taxes tags and sales tax, all providing n. In addition to this the federal untold millions for this work, but is huge fund Negroes were never ng to you? Should such a man as etained in office? What is your case? Should you be led astray l promises, or should you be in- an who has faithfully performed for Negroes in Oklahoma to re- e is that Governor Marland's at- is being watched by every office- e. They want to know whether They want to know what the re- ntelligent as Governor Marland Marland has gambled on the ve evolved out to a place and point on where they will vote for men and rightful needs.

old order has been. You realize ere been a type of Negro leader- g the ear of a governor, making s. It has always before been a ich looked out for self and ended white office holders that fair treatment to Negroes fails to produce beneficial results from Negroes at the polls."

The argument will be made

Political – 1936
Elections.

Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA GOP NAMES A NEGRO AS ALTERNATE

Plaindealer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 20—(By Continental Press Service) At the Republican State Convention of Oklahoma held here Monday, one Negro, J. H. Stephens, prominent political leader of Okmulgee, was named one of the group of six alternate delegates-at-large. Stevens, a power in Republican political circles, has the distinction of being the first Negro named on a middle western delegation to the National Republican Convention which meets in Cleveland in June. Kansas named its delegation three weeks ago, but no Negro was named either as a regular delegate nor as an alternate. Missouri has not had its election as yet. Texas, Colorado, Misouri and other middle western states are being eyed to see whether they will include any Negro delegates in their lists. It is known that several of the so-called Southern states will have Negroes on their delegations.

TULSA, OKLA.
WORLD

APR 6 - 1936

CAMPAIGN ENTERS WHIRLWIND STAGE ON ELECTION EVE

100 Democratic Cars Will Storm Brown Stronghold Today

TULSANS WILL HEAR NOMINEES TONIGHT

Charles Price Emphatically Denies He Would Be Police Chief

A whirlwind of last-minute campaigning is planned for Democratic candidates Monday in a final effort to roll up the largest Democratic majority in history when Tulsans go to the polls Tuesday to elect city officials.

A parade of more than 100 automobiles bearing banners will storm the home territory of the Republican nominee for police commissioner —West Tulsa, Red Fork, Carbondale and the Sand Springs line area.

Having rested over Sunday, the Democratic nominees will greet the public in their last climactic "town hall" rally Monday night at 9:30 o'clock via the air. Band music and a master of ceremonies will fill in between three-minute talks by the candidates. The half-hour program will be heard over KTUL.

Price Issues Denial.

A death-dealing blow was delivered against the last faint hope nursed by Republican followers Sunday when Charles Price, popular former sheriff of Tulsa county, spiked definitely and once for all the street rumor that he would be made chief of police should Frank O. Brown be elected police commissioner.

"I have not been offered the post of police chief of Tulsa and I would not accept it if it were offered me," Price declared. "When I retired from politics January 7, 1935, I said I was through with politics. I meant it then and I mean it now."

Because a persistent rumor has been spread about the streets that Price would be made chief if Brown won, The World sent a reporter to see Price at his farm near Tahlequah. Price was emphatic in his denial.

Mayor T. A. Penney, who heads the Democratic ticket, has issued a plea that no Democrat fail to vote the straight ticket. In view of coming county, state and national campaigns, he said, the party should record as large a majority as possible.

Speaking at Noon.

Monday at noon R. W. Terrill and W. C. Peters will address workers at party headquarters, 104 East Third street. A talk also will be made by Benjamin F. Butler, publicity chairman for Negro headquarters.

The west-side parade is scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock from Seventeenth street and Quanah avenue. "One Happy Family — West-side Democrats," is the legend to be borne on a huge banner atop the leading automobile. The second car will carry a banner reading, "Vote 'Er Straight."

The procession will strike into the center of what has been described as Brown's stronghold, where he has lived many years. A survey has shown that Thomas I. Munroe, the Democrat for police commissioner, will carry this territory.

Starting south on Quanah, the parade will proceed through the west side of Carbondale, then return northward through the east side. Via Fifty-first street and Thirty-second West avenue, the cars will reach Olympia avenue, turn over to Quanah at Seventeenth, then north to the Sand Springs road. The route leads out this road to the city limits, then back on the north side of the interurban tracks.

Precinct and transportation committees Sunday were conferring with Roy W. Smith, city central committee chairman, to perfect final details for Tuesday's work.

1,000 Autos Available.

"One thousand cars will be available for Democratic voters who want transportation to the polls," Smith announced. "The precincts have been mapped out, so that we can provide a car within three minutes after receiving a call. Anybody wishing to be taken to the polls should call headquarters at telephones 2-3153, 2-3154 and 3-5802.

"Every worker will be given his assignment by Monday afternoon and we will be ready by 6 o'clock Tuesday morning." Jack Schmitt is chairman of the precinct organization and Pat McAndrew and S. A. Dailey are in charge of transportation.

Women precinct workers have tightened up their organization and turned in reports that indicate a larger landslide than that of four years ago, which "was a grand one," according to Mary Belle Wright, city central vice chairman.

Hostesses who will be on duty at headquarters Monday are Mrs. E. I. Newblock, Mrs. C. R. Cotter, Mrs. Don Kile, Mrs. Norma Billington, Mrs. C. H. Pirtle, Mrs. Rose Elliott and Mrs. George Harrison.

W. A. Miller, in charge of west side Democratic headquarters, announced Sunday that 11 ministers of churches west of the Arkansas river signed a statement denying that they had issued any statements for publication. This action followed the publication three days ago of a story which quoted ministers as favoring Republican candidates.

SEMINOLE, OKLA.
PRODUCER

JUN 2 - 1936

GEORGE JONES IS RE-ELECTED BY SEMINOLES

Present Chief And Chili Fish Profit By Vote Of Negroes

Negro freedmen continued today to dominate the politics of the Seminole Indian tribe, electing their candidates as chief and second chief by wide margins.

Rev. Louis M. Fife, Maud Presbyterian minister, who had been regarded as the anti-Freedman candidate, received the majority of the Indian votes at the election at the Mekusukey Indian mission.

81 Freedmen Vote

However, 81 freedman votes cast for George Jones, present chief, were enough to retain him in the ofice for another four years.

Indian leaders who tabulated the vote reported that Jones received a total of 136 votes in the standing election while Chili Fish, regarded as his running mate and the present second chief, received 157.

In cahc case the winning candidate received 81 freedman votes.

Vote for Fife and Wilson Palmer, candidate for second chief, was not reported this afternoon. Indians said, however, that Fife would have won on the Indian vote alone.

Dinner Held

Following the election, a barbecue dinner was served at noon. The afternoon was to be given over to speech-making.

The victory for the negroes, who are far outnumbered by the Indians, but who take a more active part in tribal elections, followed a setback they received two weeks ago.

At that time they were told by government officials that only persons of 50 percent or more Indian blood would share in the special works relief program which may include wrecking of Mekusuke Mission and construction of new buildings in its place.

Political – 1936 Elections.

Pennsylvania.

Slated for Legislature

SCOLLEY PACE ALEXANDER

Philadelphia, general agent fo Capitol Savings Plan, Inc., wa slated by the Executive Committee of the 7th Ward, and endorsed by the Democratic City Committee for the State Legislature, recently.

He is interested in slum clear ance and social legislation. He has made a study of the limited dividend housing laws of New Yorl State that made possible the erection of the Rockfeller Apartments in Harlem.

He is the brother of Raymond Paul Alexander well known Philadelphia attorney.

Asst. City Solicitor

MERCER L. LEWIS

PHILADELPHIA — Through State Representative Hobson R. Reynolds, Mercer L. Lewis, attorney, was appointed an assistant city solicitor by Mayor S. Davis Wilson last week.

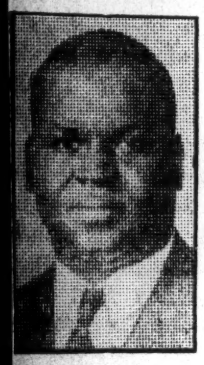
Mr. Lewis has been practicing for over fifteen years. He hails from the 13th division of the 47th ward and served for four years in the solicitor's office. He is president of John M. Langston Law Club and legal adviser of the Chris J. Perry Elks Lodge.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Pennsylvania

PHILLY LEGISLATURE NOMINEES

Defender 5-9-36 Courier



M. L. Shepard

J. H. Birgeman

S. Holmes

Wm. Upshaw

W. P. Allmond

R. Cooper

H. R. Reynolds

Richard A Cooper, Republican, sixth district, seventh ward; successor to the late Samuel Hart.
Samuel Holmes, Democratic, sixth district, seventh ward.
William A. Upshur, Jr., Republican, seventh district, 30th ward.
William A. Allmond, Democratic, seventh district, 30th ward.
Edwin F. Thompson, Democratic, 13th district, 16th and 20th wards.
Hobson R. Reynolds, Republican, 21st district, 29th and 47th wards.
John H. Biergeman, Democratic, 21st district, 29th and 47th wards.
Marshall L. Shepard, Democratic, 18th district, 24th, 34th, and 44th wards.

FIVE NEGRO DEMOCRATS TO PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE

PHILADELPHIA. — (By Wire)—Five Negro Democrats were elected to the state legislature from Philadelphia in Tuesday's election. The Rev. Marshall Shepard was reelected. Dr. Edwin F. Thompson, Samuel D. Holmes, John H. Biggerman and William Allmond will go to the house in Harrisburg.

Hobson R. Reynolds and Richard Cooper, both Republicans, and up for reelection were defeated in the Democratic landslide in which the city of Brotherly Love went Democratic for the first time since the Civil war.

Reynolds was defeated by Biggerman Holmes won over Cooper.

Incomplete returns show that Negroes here showed a decided swing to the Democrats, the relief issue playing a most important part.

HE'S ENDORSED

Scholley Pace Alexander, Philadelphia business man, who was endorsed by the Democratic City Committee for the Pennsylvania legislature last week. He was formerly in the law offices with his brother, Raymond Pace Alexander.

DELEGATE

ROBERT L. VANN

Pittsburgh editor and former assistant United States attorney general who is the first Negro in the history of Pennsylvania to be elected delegate-at-large from the Quaker State to the national Democratic convention. He was one of 16 delegates-at-large.

Rev. Shepard Seen Victor In Philadelphia

Another Pastor Wins In Legislative Race In Indiana

11-7-36

MITCHELL LEADS DePRIEST

CHICAGO, Ill—(ANP)—Arthur W. Mitchell, Democrat, was ahead of Oscar DePriest by 35,330 to 26,162 at latest returns Wednesday.

Charles Jenkins, Richard Harewood, Ernest Greene, William Warfield were returned to the Illinois Asesmbly as Chicago Southside split on Landon and Roosevelt.

Five Democrats Elected To Pa. Legislature

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Five colored men, all Democrats, were elected to the State Legislature from Philadelphia: the Rev. Marshall Shepard, was reelected; Dr. Edwin, F. Thompson, Samuel D. Holmes, John H. Briggerman, William Allmon, Hobson R. Reynolds and Richard A. Cooper, both Republicans, and up for reelection were defeated by Briggerman and Holmes, respectively.

Incomplete returns show a decided swing of Negro voters to the Democratic Party. Relief issue important.

Negro candidates for state legislative offices riding on the crest wave of the Democratic landslide were swept into office Tuesday, incomplete returns revealed early Wednesday.

REV. SHEPPARD WINS

PHILADELPHIA — The Rev. Marshall Shepard, of Philadelphia who received nation-wide attention when a South Carolina senator walked out as he was praying during the National Democratic convention, was conceded victory in his race for a seat in the Pennsylvania legislature.

REV. TALLEY LEADS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The Rev. M. A. Talley, pastor of the Mt. Zion Baptist Church, Indianapolis, was leading his Republican opponent for state representative from Marion county, Indiana, by a wide margin.

Rev. Mr. Talley was nominated on the Democratic ticket over the incumbent, Attorney Henry J. Richardson, who during his three terms in office had fought for the passage of the Indiana Civil Rights law and for Negro membership in the state militia.

Final returns had not been received in the drive of Attorney Jas Wright of Gary, Ind., for state representative from Lake County on the Republican ticket. Dr. Robert Staunton, Democrat, who served three terms in the Indiana legislature from Lake County, was defeated in the primary.

OHIO'S SOLE CANDIDATE

CLEVELAND, Ohio — Chester K. Gillespie was the sole Negro seeking office in Ohio during Tuesday's balloting. A Republican, he was running for a seat in the Ohio legislature as representative of Cuyahoga County.

ROBERTS MAY LOSE

LOS ANGELES, Cal.— Incomplete returns late Tuesday failed to tell whether Fred R. Roberts, for eighteen years assemblyman from the 62nd district, had been re-elected. Roberts, a Republican, was supporting Landon and Knox.

11-7-36

William D. Campbell, who sought the Congressional seat from the fourteenth district on the Republican ticket, was trailing his white Democratic opponent.

TENNESSEANS DESERT GOP

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Negroes here showed a 33 and one third per cent defection to Roosevelt from the Republican ranks.

CLEVELAND WARDS DEMOCRATIC

CLEVELAND, Ohio—The colored wards here went Democratic as Chester Gillespie lost the race for the State Assembly. Harry Davis won the county charter commission membership.

ADAMS TRAIL—

OMAHA, Neb.—John Adams of this city trailed his whtieopponent for the Nebraska unicameral legislature as Roosevelt led in colored precincts eight to five.

DIGGS LEAD—

DETROIT, Mich.—In this city Charles Diggs, Democrat, lead A. A. Toodle two to one in third district for the state Senate while Charles Roxborough defeated by Sadowski, white Democrat, in the first Congressional district. Majority of Negroes were for Roosevelt. Assistant City Counsellor William Towers.

TOWERS WIN IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Kan.—Attorney William H. Towers, assistant city solicitor, was elected to the State Legislature form the eighth district many at of Wyandotte County, Kansas, over opposed by three Negro and two white Democrats. No Negro candidate was up for election in Kansas City, Mo.

Towers' vote was 8,098. His opponent's vote was 7,576. Towers is the third Negro to serve in the Kansas state legislature. The in-

City, Miss
for Roo

Political - 1936 Elections.

Pennsylvania

PHILLY LEGISLATURE NOMINEES

Defender 5-9-36 Courier

M. L. Shepard

J. H. Birgeman

S. Holmes

Wm. Upshaw

W. P. Allmond

R. Cooper

H. R. Reynolds

Richard A Cooper, Republican, sixth district, seventh ward; successor to the late Samuel Hart.

Samuel Holmes, Democratic, sixth district, seventh ward.

William A. Upshur, Jr., Republican, seventh district, 30th ward.

William A. Allmond, Democratic, seventh district, 30th ward.

Edwin F. Thompson, Democratic, 13th district, 16th and 20th wards.

Hobson R. Reynolds, Republican, 21st district, 29th and 47th wards.

John H. Biergeman, Democratic, 21st district, 29th and 47th wards.

Marshall L. Shepard, Democratic, 18th district, 24th, 34th, and 44th wards.

FIVE NEGRO DEMOCRATS TO PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE

PHILADELPHIA. — (By Wire)—Five Negro Democrats were elected to the state legislature from Philadelphia in Tuesday's election. The Rev. Marshall Shepard was reelected. Dr. Edwin F. Thompson, Samuel D. Holmes, John H. Biggerman and William Allmond will go to the house in Harrisburg.

Hobson R. Reynolds and Richard Cooper, both Republicans, and up for reelection were defeated in the Democratic landslide in which the city of Brotherly Love went Democratic for the first time since the Civil war.

Reynolds was defeated by Biggerman. Holmes won over Cooper.

Incomplete returns show that Negroes here showed a decided swing to the Democrats, the relief issue playing a most important part.

HE'S ENDORSED

Scholley Pace Alexander, Philadelphia business man. He was endorsed by the Democratic City Committee for the Pennsylvania legislature last week. He was formerly in the law offices with his brother, Raymond Pace Alexander.

DELEGATE

ROBERT L. VANN

Pittsburgh editor and former assistant United States attorney general who is the first Negro in history of Pennsylvania to be elected delegate-at-large from the Quaker State to the national Democratic convention. He was one of 16 delegates-at-large.

Rev. Shepard Seen Victor In Philadelphia

Another Pastor Wins In Legislative Race In Indiana

11-7-36

MITCHELL LEADS DePRIEST

CHICAGO, Ill—(ANP)—Arthur W. Mitchell, Democrat, was ahead of Oscar DePriest by 35,330 to 26,162 at latest returns Wednesday.

Charles Jenkins, Richard Harewood, Ernest Greene, William Warfield were returned to the Illinois Asesmbly as Chicago Southside split on Landon and Roosevelt.

Five Democrats Elected To Pa. Legislature

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Five colored men, all Democrats, were elected to the State Legislature from Philadelphia: the Rev. Marshall Shepard, was reelected; Dr. Edwin, F. Thompson, Samuel D. Holmes, John H. Briggerman, William Allmon, Hobson R. Reynolds and Richard A. Cooper, both Republicans, and up for reelection were defeated by Briggerman and Holmes, respectively.

Incomplete returns show a decided swing of Negro voters to the Democratic Party. Relief issue important.

Negro candidates for state legislative offices riding on the crest wave of the Democratic landslide were swept into office Tuesday, incomplete returns revealed early Wednesday.

REV. SHEPPARD WINS

PHILADELPHIA — The Rev. Marshall Shepard, of Philadelphia who received nation-wide attention when a South Carolina senator walked out as he was praying during the National Democratic convention, was conceded victory in his race for a seat in the Pennsylvania legislature.

REV. TALLEY LEADS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The Rev. M. A. Talley, pastor of the Mt. Zion Baptist Church, Indianapolis, was leading his Republican opponent for state representative from Marion county, Indiana, by a wide margin.

Rev. Mr. Talley was nominated on the Democratic ticket over the incumbent, Attorney Henry J. Richardson, who during his three terms in office had fought for the passage of the Indiana Civil Rights law and for Negro membership in the state militia.

Final returns had not been received in the drive of Attorney Jas Wright of Gary, Ind., for state representative from Lake County on the Republican ticket. Dr. Robert Staunton, Democrat, who served three terms in the Indiana legislature from Lake County, was defeated in the primary.

OHIO'S SOLE CANDIDATE

CLEVELAND, Ohio — Chester K. Gillespie was the sole Negro seeking office in Ohio during Tuesday's balloting. A Republican, he was running for a seat in the Ohio legislature as representative of Cuyahoga County.

ROBERTS MAY LOSE

LOS ANGELES, Cal.— Incomplete returns late Tuesday failed to tell whether Fred R. Roberts, for eighteen years assemblyman from the 62nd district, had been re-elected. Roberts, a Republican, was supporting Landon and Knox.

11-7-36

William D. Campbell, who sought the Congressional seat from the fourteenth district on the Republican ticket, was trailing his white Democratic opponent.

TENNESSEANS DESERT GOP

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Negroes here showed a 33 and one third per cent defection to Roosevelt from the Republican ranks.

CLEVELAND WARDS DEMOCRATIC

CLEVELAND, Ohio—The colored wards here went Democratic as Chester Gillespie lost the race for the State Assembly. Harry Davis won the county charter commission membership.

ADAMS TRAIL—

OMAHA, Neb.—John Adams of this city trailed his whtieopponent for the Nebraska unicameral legislature as Roosevelt led in colored precincts eight to five.

DIGGS LEAD—

DETROIT, Mich.—In this city Charles Diggs, Democrat, lead A. A. Toodle two to one in third district for the state Senate while Charles Roxborough defeated by Sadowski, white Democrat, in the first Congressional district. Majority of Negroes were for Roosevelt. Assistant City Counsellor William Towers.

TOWERS WIN IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Kan.—Attorney William H. Towers, assistant city solicitor, was elected to the State Legislature form the eighth district of Wyandotte County, Kansas, over white Democrat. Towers' vote was 8,098. His opponent's vote was 7,576. Towers is the third Negro to serve in the Kansas state legislature. The in-

Kansas City Negroes were two to one for Roosevelt in Kansas City, Missouri, were overwhelming for Roosevelt.

Political – 1936
Elections.

South Carolina

WHY INJECT THE NEGRO?

Three gentlemen are engaged in a campaign to see who will be the choice of the white people to represent them in the United States Senate. The colored citizen has no voice or interest in this at all—Though if there were a real republican form of government he would. In this campaign issues are supposed to be discussed and the voters enlightened. Now, the Negro is not an issue, nor can the voters be told anything about him by any of the candidates that they do not already know. Of this, however, one of the candidates, Mr. Stoney of Charleston does not seem to be sure, for he is the gentleman who lugs in the Negro. Surely, this candidate is not so poor in ideas that he must resort to the tactics of the demagogue of years past. One must be the more surprised at him because he is of a younger generation, a college trained man and a person of parts. Senator Byrnes, one og the candidates is trying to ride on the coat tail of President Roosevelt—and probably with some reason—but it does not seem that, because of that, Mr. Stoney should try to ride on the back of the Negro. The campaign would be worthwhile if only the office seekers would "address the intelligence of men, never their passion or their ignorance".

Political - 1936 Elections.

Tennessee

GRANT, G.O.P. LEADER, WINS IN NASHVILLE

Receives Solid Backing Of Both Races; Bert Cumbry Loses

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 24.—Roscoe Conkling Grant, young Republican leader of Davidson county (Nashville), scored another important victory last week over one of his political foes in a Race caucus. The caucus was made up of Race delegates to the fifth Congressional Republican convention, which was held at the Maxwell House, white, April 10. Grant was elected by acclamation at the district convention.

Opposed At Caucus

Before last week it was thought that Dr. M. E. Lawrence, Race Republican of Nashville, was a strong supporter of Grant. But at the caucus, Dr. Lawrence indicated that it was not his aim to support Grant in the face of certain criticisms from a certain white Dr. Thach; that he was of "delegate" quality himself.

At this point in the caucus,some one in the caucus nominated Dr. Lawrence for alternate delegate to the Cleveland convention. This revealed that Dr. Lawrence's real fight was actuated by his personal ambition to go to the Ohio meeting.

The Nashville Globe of April 3 predicted Lawrence as the alternate delegate to the convention. Political leaders here saw in this that the Globe "let the doctor's cat out of the bag," in view of the previous pledge of Dr. Lawrence to support Grant.

Dr. Lawrence Crushed

Dr. Lawrence stated at the caucus that Dr. Thach, white, would take a fight to the convention floor that would certainly defeat Grant and make it impossible for Race leaders to combat it. Before Lawrence had finished, Grant, fiery young Republican secretary of the Davidson county primary board, tore into the doctor's accusations, and supported his own defensive arguments with notarized statements from whites with whom he was to have had some political transaction.

Grant had Dr. Lawrence gasping when he flashed these papers out of his pocket to the caucus and had them read by a woman member.

After Grant and Dr. Lawrence had completed their arguments, it was taken up by other Race leaders at the caucus. E. T. Brown, powerful leader in the Baptist church, came to Grant's rescue at once, and told the caucus that he was "tired of white people putting up scarecrows to frighten Negroes away from honors which they deserve."

Grant was nominated at this point and was elected by acclamation by the caucus. The following well-known leaders upported Grant: Lee Fite, W. D. Hawkins, Rev. A. P. Gray, Mrs. Clemmie White, Mrs. Souhlie Carter, and A. B. Morris, all leaders in heavy voting Negro wards of Nashville.

When the Race wing of Republicans moved up to the Maxwell House to meet with other delegates to the convention, the issue was cleared and Grant was elected there by acclamation, too.

Cumby Is Defeated

Dr. Lawrence achieved one victory, however; he was responsible for Bert Cumby, Fisk university student, being defeated for secretary of the convention. Cumby has been very close to Grant, and other Race leaders and closely associated with several of the influential whites in "uptown" Nashville.

He was taken in the organization on the strength of R. R. (Bob) Church, undisputed boss of Republican politics in Tennessee, who tutored the Fisk student several years while Cumby was at Memphis in LeMoyne college.

Dr. Lonnie Napier, nephew of J. C. Napier, former Registrar of the Treasury, was elected secretary on Grant's nomination.

Arrangements have been completed for a smoker-banquet on the evening of May 4, in honor of the visiting Race delegates to the state Republican convention, which meets here at the Rayman Auditorium. Th smoker-banquet will be held at the Negro Board of Trade. At this affair a welcome will be extended the delegates.

JUDGE CHESTER K. HARI, IN BURNING MESSAGE TO GRAND JURY, URGES BODY TO ENLIST FOR CLEAN-UP OF FRAUDS HERE

Tells How Past Elections Have Been Run In Nashville In Effort To Put Honest Voters On Guard

Judge Chester K. Hart, presiding jurist in Part I of the Davidson County Criminal Court on Wednesday of this week followed up the crusade begun against dishonest elections in Nashville and Davidson County by giving the grand jury a detailed account of the methods previously used to control elections here and called upon that body to enlist for a clean-up of the disreputable system.

Backed by upright citizens in every walk of life, Judge Hart began the crusade to purify the ballot in this county at the beginning of the present term of court. when he delivered from the bench plain instructions on the methods which election "fixers" employ to thwart the will of the honest voters. This charge was one of the most historic documents ever issued in Tennessee, and following the charge a number of arrests and prosecutions of persons alleged to have had a part in unfair elections were made.

Judge Hart explained to the Grand jury that even officers of election are accused of conspiring to defeat the will of the people as expressed at the polls, and he enumerated the different schemes by which these officers have been able to produce any kinds of results they wanted, regardless of the will of the people.

Among the schemes which have been employed on election days he listed the following:

1. Stuffing of ballot boxes with marked ballots.

2. The use of duplicate ballot boxes, where the box containing the actual ballots as voted by the citizens is done away with and a previously "fixed" box is substituted.

3. The staging of false fights and turning out the lights, at an election place, thus giving the "fixers" a chance to tamper with the ballots.

4. Calling of dummy ballots by an officer of the election, and having it voted instead of the actual ballot.

5. Permitting the election of officers to be surrounded at vote-counting time by henchmen who would prevent regular watchers from observing the counting of the ballots.

6 Holding out of the regular box as voted, and substituting another one which had been fixed. This is done by swapping the box on the way from the polling place to the court house where the boxes are kept.

7. The padding of poll lists, in which all persons who failed to go to the polls and vote on election day are, nevertheless, "voted" by interested parties holding the election, and are voted just as these parties want the election to be decided.

8. Marking votes on the ballot sheet for a candidate other than the one for who the ballot was cast.

9. Double-tallying, where election clerks count more votes for their preferred candidate than he actually received.

10. Excluding watches from the room when the count is made, so as to permit the interested parties to figure out results as they desire them.

11. Permitting more than one person to vote on the same registration receipt.

12. Permitting more than one person to vote on the same poll tax receipt.

13. The "chain voting," where an ignorant or dishonest voter is given a marked ballot which he puts in his pocket and then goes in and gets his regular ballot from the election officers. This voter then retires to the voting booth, puts the blank ballot in his pocket and takes the marked ballot to the ballot box. He brings the blank ballot outside and gives it to his election "boss." This deed is repeated over and over.

Judge Hart called attention to the work of those obliging gentlemen around voting places who are so willing to mark the ballots for the ignorant voters who do not know how to exercise their franchise. He states that the law does not give any one the right to mark ballots for voters even though they do not know how to read. Officers may mark ballots only for persons who are blind or physically unable to mark their ballots.

Judge Hart suggests that officers of election should call off the names of persons who apply to vote and let everyone in the room hear the name called. In this way these persons who have been in the habit of voting for the fictitious names which have been put on the registration books would or could be caught and arrested.

The grand jury, it is said, has taken Judge Hart's charge to them as a serious challenge to their industry and integrity as guardians of the franchise of the people, and they will be busy at the coming primary, ready to see to it that only honest voters take part in the election and that the sworn officers of the election will conduct it as the law requires.

Miss Blagden for Tenn. Legislature

MEMPHIS (ANP)—Miss Willie Sue Blagden, white socialite and social worker who was flogged in Arkansas while investigating the death of a colored farm worker, was named last week by the Socialist party as a candidate for the legislature.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Texas.

HOUSTON NEGROES GET FIRST CHANCE IN THIRTY YEARS TO BACK CANDIDATE RUNNING IN GENERAL CITY ELECTION

Over 8,000 Negro Citizens Eligible to Vote In The City Election Monday—Independent Candidate Gives Them First Chance In Thirty Years.

The entry of Howard Kelso, 47,-year-old business man and inventor, as an independent candidate for mayor of Houston, will break the thirty-year-old precedent in the general election. Kelso is opposing R. H. Fonville, a Houston druggist and the regular Democratic nominee. The independent candidate fulfilled the legal requirement to get his name on the legal ballot when he filed a petition with Mayor Holcombe bearing sufficient names of poll-tax holders qualified to sign such petitions.

Unde the law such a petition must be signed by a number of qualified voters equal to 5 per-cent of the number of votes cast in the last general city election and that the signers must be qualified voters who did not vote in the last city primary.

According to many old timers there hasn't been the name of an independent candidate on the ballot of the general city election in last 30 years.

Radio Addresses

In a series of radio addresses, Mr. Kelso expressed his political philosophy and outlined the platform on which he is seeking election as chief executive of Houston. He declared that he has lived in Houston for 27 years and that during that time he has established a good business record in the city. Mr. Kelso said that he has made an extensive study of political economy and history. He expressed confidence in his ability to serve Houston as mayor. He said he was thoroughly familiar with the problems of the city and all elements of its population. Mr. Kelso is seeking office on a platform calling for destruction of the Democratic primary as the medium of electing public officials of Houston. He believes the officials of Houston should be elected in the general election which will give all the people a voice in their selection. He said he is opposed to government by the few as carried on uner the regime of the Democratic primary administration at the city hall.

Pension For Old People

As to his plans, he promised a city pension of $30 per month to all old people too old to make a living. He promised to exempt from taxation owner occupied homes for the first $3.000 of assessed value.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Virginia.

Approaching Elections

IN THIS presidential election year Norfolk people have a prelude to the main affair coming off in June when two members of City Council are to be elected.

Messrs. GURKIN and REED are candidates to succeed themselves. Who will oppose them is not yet apparent, openly, as no formal entries are on record, although it is certain that they will have opposition. Senator LESNER has tentatively announced that he would seek election to Council on the real estate tax issue, which was defeated in the General Assembly.

If this issue is injected in the Councilmanic election it is sure to be a warm and close contest. The present temper of real estate owners holds anything except a peaceful outlook for the city administration.

Senator LESNER'S admittedly strong hold upon Norfolk voters casts a deep shadow across the paths of Messrs. GURKIN and REED. With no intention of starting the campaign prematurely, as far as colored voters are concerned, we hazard the suggestion that Messrs. GURKIN and REED have a moderate claim upon the support of our group. The former must be given credit for a change of position—requiring a good deal of courage—which made possible our municipal bathing beach. The latter, while conscientiously opposing the beach—or the location of it—has stood for every other measure brought up for our benefit. Dr. REED has been especially helpful with his influence and votes in matters pertaining to the improvement of hospitalization and schools. He has been a consistent friend of Norfolk Community Hospital, and helped to make possible the Laura E. Titus public school. That is stated as a matter of exhibiting the record.

THE Democratic congressional primary takes place in August. It is practically certain that Congressman DARDEN will be opposed by Mr. NORMAN HAMILTON, Portsmouth publisher, and Collector of Customs here during the WILSON administration. This promises to be one of the hardest fought primaries held in the second district in many a year. Mr. HAMILTON is admittedly a strong man, and represents in person, and in sentiment in this section, the opposition to Senator BYRD'S leadership of the party in Virginia.

Among Democrats this will be a battle royal between organization and anti-organization forces. Both sides are girding for battle, and the prospects are that the active fireworks will begin earlier than is customary in this district. Indeed, the "gum-shoe" work, which always precedes every important political campaign, is already underway.

* * * *

OBJECTION to some of Senator BYRD'S policies and leadership among the more liberal Democrats has its roots also in opposition to the conservatism and independence of Senator GLASS, who is a candiate for renomination in the August primary, and who is opposed by Mr. RANDOLPH LEIGH, of Fairfax. Senator GLASS is a patrician in Virginia politics, and as such typifies the state's political traditions, which clash now and then with the more modern ways of the ROOSEVELTIAN era. Being an elderly statesman, surefooted, almost idolized by his constituents, he has exercised a greater degree of independence than any other member of his party in the Senate.

The results fall upon the younger, more active state leader, Senator BYRD, who has, on his own account, a mind of his own upon political and economic questions.

When the opposition opens up more aggressively the thoughtful voters will not forget his history-making administration as governor; the millions of dollars his reorganization of the state government saved taxpayers, and his present effort addressed to the task of reorganizing the numerous departments and bureaus of the federal government, with the same end in view.

* * * *

THE Republicans will have a strong candidate for Congress from this district, and may benefit considerably from defection in Democratic ranks, although, after the primary the latter may "close ranks" for solid action. The GOP will nominate its candidate in convention, and it is not yet apparent who he will be. The party has much good material to draw upon.

The greatest difficulty confronting the Republicans is the finding of issues not already the property of their opponents. If such issues take the form of disagreement with the New Deal in some of its policies, the Virginia Democratic senators and congressman have "beat them to it." Their cordial disagreement with some of the more revolutionary New Deal policies could be emulated but could not be surpassed by the Republicans.

Rejection of the New Deal in principle would meet little response from the mass of voters. If they agree upon economy and a reduction of taxes they would be running on a Glass-Byrd-Darden platform. If they resort to the Republicans' national battle cry, state rights (which is an old Democratic doctrine) they would still be using the Virginia Democrats' thunder.

But one may be sure that the resourceful Republicans will find something new upon which to launch their drive. It is almost a certainty, however, that adhering to local policy, they will announce no program that will offer relief to their colored constituency from the economic ills with which they are now vigorously contending. It would be salutary if they would.

* * * *

SINCE the above editorial was written RANDOLPH LEIGH has withdrawn from the senatorial race on the grounds that he feels that "it is impossible to defeat Senator CARTER GLASS."

Is First Negro Candidate In Over 25 Years

Aims To Stimulate Civic Interest; No Alliances

Portsmouth Bureau

Political winds in Portsmouth were whipped up to gale force Thursday after Dr. A. C. Johnson, of Key Rd., president of the Truxton Civic Club, formally filed as a candidate for the city council from the Harrison Ward.

Dr. Johnson's action, taken Wednesday morning, caused a sensation among certain political groups here, which expressed fear that a colored citizen in the councilmanic race would give opponents of the Maxie-Carr law, which provides that councilmen shall be it elected from wards rather than at-large, grounds to seek the repeal of the enacted law recently.

Dr. Johnson is the first colored citizen actually to offer for the city council in more than 25 years. He is a graduate of the Leonard School of Medicine of Shaw University and is actively indentified with the local chapter of the Shaw Alumni Association.

Dr. Johnson told a Journal and Guide reporter Tuesday afternoon that he was willing to run as a candidate from his ward, but his prompt qualification after that came as a surprise to all. He has often spoken in praise of the Truxton Civic Club, of which he is one of the founders.

MAKES STATEMENT

Dr. Johnson made the following statement to the Journal and Guide Wednesday night: "I simply threw my hat in the ring with the solemn hope that I might be able to help my community and the city of Portsmouth in general if I am elected. I feel that my position enables me to contact and understand the people in my ward and, in this light, I firmly believe I can give them maximum results.

"Another reason which prompted my deciding to enter the race was to stimulate more civic interest among all citizens of Portsmouth. I am thoroughly familiar with the health conditions existing in our city and I hope to bring some relief to those suffering from those conditions.

NO ALLIANCES

"I am going into this thing with a firm determination to do my honest best. I will assure the citizens of the entire city that I am not affiliated in any way with any of the political machines. I make a solemn resolution to serve Portsmouth without malice or prejudice. In victory or defeat I will abide by that resolution."

It was also learned by the Guide Attorney George H. Walker, Sr. as his campaign manager.

Campaign manager.

New Bern, N. C. Sun Journal
March 15, 1936

AT WORK ON NEGROES' RECREATIONAL CENTER

With the fence now up around the new athletic field for the negroes in this city and section, to the northwestward of the Kafer park area, work is well underway on the negroes' recreational center there, it was learned Wednesday from District WPA Director E. J. Hill.

The board fence surrounds the tract devoted to the athletic field for the colored people of this city.

Addition of 2 per cent beryllium has been found to give copper the tensile strength and hardness of steel.

COUNCILMANIC CANDIDATE POSES WITH FAMILY

The candidate for the Portsmouth City Council, Dr. A. C. Johnson, prominent Portsmouth doctor, is shown with his family as they posed for the cameraman. At the left is Dr. Johnson. In the center is his daughter, Gentelia, who is a high school student at the I. C. Norcum High School. At the right is Mrs. A. C. Johnson, wife of the canddate. Dr. Johnson filed his candidacy last week and is the only Negro to officially enter the political fight in Portsmouth. (Journal and Guide Photo).

ROANOKE, VA.
WORLD-NEWS

MAR 28 1936

A NEGRO CANDIDATE IN PORTSMOUTH

The action of a Negro physician in qualifying as a candidate for the Portsmouth City Council causes the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot to delve into Portsmouth's political history for the purpose of eliciting the fact that about forty-five years ago in 1890 or thereabouts, a Portsmouth ward heavily populated by Negroes was represented in Council by a solid delegation. The adoption of restricted suffrage a decade later terminated that situation and in all probability the action of Dr. Arthur C. Johnson in filing as a candidate for Council in Harrison Ward represents the first candidacy of its kind in this State since the nineties.

The Negro population of Harrison Ward considerably outnumbers the white, but in the matter of qualified voters the Negroes are in a substantial minority. Therefore it does not seem likely that Dr. Johnson will be elected. Nevertheless, his candidacy is rightly termed by The Virginian-Pilot "a political development of some significance".

It suggests that when southern cities abandon the system of elections at large and substitute for it elections by wards, the basic conditions for the election of Negroes to the City Councils is fulfilled. The factor of increasing literacy and awakening political alertness is one which argues for race representation in municipal lawmaking bodies in time.

So far as is known, no instance of a Negro being elected to the City Council of any Southern city has occurred since the turn of the century. But it is recalled that last year a Negro ran for the Texas Legislature in Dallas and conducted a lively campaign, although soundly defeated in the election.

"In law and political morals, the right of the heavy Negro populations in southern cities to be represented in the municipal legislatures that preside over the distribution of the public revenue and the public benefits flowing therefrom is beyond challenge", The Virginian-Pilot declares. "Only long-established custom, reinforced by restrictive suffrage laws, opposes itself to that right. Without risking a prophecy as to the future, the point is to be made, we think, that the forces opposed to Negro participation in municipal law-making will in the long run, keep their political monopoly unbreached only if they discharge with a reasonable approximation of justice their duty to deal fairly with the minority group in the apportionment of public benefits".

That is at once a warning and an admonition not to be disregarded. It appeals to the sense of justice of the dominant race no less than to its political perspicacity.

2 Negroes Will Seek Election to Council

PORTSMOUTH, Va., April 30 (ANP).—For the first time in more than forty years the list of thirty-two aspirants for the local City Council contains the names of two Negro citizens and speculation is rife here among members of both races as to the reception they will receive at the polls.

The candidates are the Rev. C. C Somerville, pastor Mt. Olivet Baptist Church, who resides in the Jefferson ward, and Dr. A. C. Johnson of Key road, who filed from Harrison ward

OKMULGEE, OKLA.
TIMES

APR 1 - 1936

CITY NEGRO FILES AS GOP CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATE

Frank A. Anderson Is Back In Oklahoma Political Scene

Frank A. Anderson, Okmulgee negro teacher whose nomination for corporation commissioner on the Republican ticket two years ago threw Oklahoma politics into turmoil, filed yesterday in Oklahoma City as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States senate.

Anderson has been teaching a WPA adult class until recently when all teaching projects in the county were abandoned by the relief organization.

Runner-Up in 1934

The Okmulgee negro was the runner-up for the corporation commission nomination, receiving about half as many votes as E. R. Hughes, then a member of the commission and candidate for reelection on the Republican ticket.

Republican leaders from all sections of the state, asserting the rank and file had voted for Anderson without knowing he was a negro, came to Okmulgee in fruitless endeavors to induce him to withdraw. They redoubled their efforts after Commissioner Hughes announced he would not contest the nomination in a run-off with a negro.

Democratic attorneys in Okmulgee, hugely enjoying the situation that brought embarrassment to Republicans, counseled Anderson to "either make them pay big money or don't get out of the race." Anderson got other advice, however, to the effect that he might be subject to criminal prosecution if he "sold out."

Feared Physical Violence

Pressure on Anderson to withdraw became so strong that at one time he told some of his white friends that he was going to demand protection from feared physical violence. On one occasion he was gone from Okmulgee for a few days and it was said that he was hiding from white people who had threatened him, but he did not substantiate this on his return.

True to his word that he would not enter a contest with a negro, Commissioner Hughes withdrew from the run-off primary race, leaving Anderson the undisputed nominee.

Anderson was badly beaten by A. S. J. Shaw, the Democratic nominee, in the November general election.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Virginia
6

NORFOLK, VA.
LEDGER DISPATCH

MAR 25 1936

NEGRO SEEKS COUNCIL SEAT

Fight Opens in Portsmouth Following Return to Ward System

MITCHELL ADDRESSES COLORED RESIDENTS

Portsmouth Bureau.

A. C. Johnson, Negro, today filed his notice of candidacy for a seat in Portsmouth City Council in the election of June 8.

He will run in Harrison ward, which has a large Nego vote, in the first election under the recently changed charter provision for selecting councilmen from wards rather than from the city at large.

Harrison ward has a large potential Negro vote and many are qualifying to participate in the councilmanic election. It was reported that a Negro would enter the councilmanic contest from Jefferson ward, which also has a large Negro vote.

Johnson's entry followed an address here last Sunday by Arthur Mitchell, Negro congressman from the First Illinois district, who urged the people of his race to pay their poll taxes promptly in order to participate in the forthcoming elections. A campaign among Negro civic organizations to this end has been under way of late in Portsmouth.

The normal vote, white and colored, in Harrison ward, is 232 and in Jefferson ward 228. It was impossible to ascertain accurately today just what the Negro voting strength in either ward was but it was learned that the usual Negro vote in Harrison ward was slightly over one-third of the total. There are 348 qualified Negro voters in Portsmouth for the councilmanic election, the date for paying poll taxes for this contest having expired December 8.

The change of the charter providing for election of councilmen by wards was made by the recent General Assembly in a bill sponsored by Delegate J. N. Maxey of Portsmouth. This is the first time a Negro has offered for a seat in the Portsmouth Council, and the ward system of choosing councilmen is said to have made it possible for the Negro race to make a strong bid for representation.

Roanoke, Va. World-News
March 28, 1936

A NEGRO CANDIDATE IN PORTSMOUTH

The action of a Negro physician in qualifying as a candidate for the Portsmouth City Council causes the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot to delve into Portsmouth's political history for the purpose of eliciting the fact that about forty-five years ago, in 1890 or thereabouts, a Portsmouth ward heavily populated by Negroes was represented in Council by a solid delegation. The adoption of restricted suffrage a decade later terminated that situation and in all probability the action of Dr. Arthur C. Johnson in filing as a candidate for Council in Harrison Ward represents the first candidacy of its kind in this State since the nineties.

The Negro population of Harrison Ward considerably outnumbers the white, but in the matter of qualified voters the Negroes are in a substantial minority. Therefore it does not seem likely that Dr. Johnson will be elected. Nevertheless, his candidacy is rightly termed by The Virginian-Pilot "a political development of some significance".

It suggests that when southern cities abandon the system of elections at large and substitute for it elections by wards, the basic conditions for the election of Negroes to the City Councils is fulfilled. The factor of increasing literacy and awakening political alertness is one which argues for race representation in municipal lawmaking bodies in time.

So far as is known, no instance of a Negro being elected to the City Council of any Southern city has occurred since the turn of the century. But it is recalled that last year a Negro ran for the Texas Legislature in Dallas and conducted a lively campaign, although soundly defeated in the election.

"In law and political morals, the right of the heavy Negro populations in southern cities to be represented in the municipal legislatures that preside over the distribution of the public revenue and the public benefits flowing therefrom is beyond challenge", The Virginian-Pilot declares. "Only long-established custom, reinforced by restrictive suffrage laws, opposes itself to that right. Without risking a prophecy as to the future, the point is to be made, we think, that the forces opposed to Negro participation in municipal law-making will, in the long run, keep their political monopoly unbreached only if they discharge with a reasonable approximation of justice their duty to deal fairly with the minority group in the apportionment of public benefits".

That is at once a warning and an admonition not to be disregarded. It appeals to the sense of justice of the dominant race no less than to its political perspicacity.

DANVILLE, VA.
REGISTER

APR 5 - 1936

DEBIT POLITICS, CREDIT PRESS

Although the Planet, a Negro weekly newspaper in Richmond, editorially stated that it would take no position on the relative governmental merits of Mayor J. Fulmer Bright, who is seeking re-election, and B. Roy Dudley, his opponent, the Bright forces overlooked this statement in making up a pamphlet being circulated among the white voters of Richmond. It contains excerpts from an address made by the Reverend R. S. Anderson urging Negroes to work for the defeat of Mayor Bright. Mayor Bright's opponent has answered this move with the charge that he is trying to stir up race prejudice in a political campaign that should be based entirely on governmental issues.

If it is disheartening to see the "race issue" again raised in the capital city of capital Southern cities, it is heartening to note that it is not going unchallenged. The Richmond Times-Dispatch thus goes directly to the crux of the question:

We are frank to say that, in our opinion, the Negroes of Richmond are entitled to employment at the hands of their municipal government. Although there are 53,000 Negroes here, as against 129,000 whites, the Negroes have not one single job with the Bright Administration. Not one janitor, not one street-sweeper, not one truck driver is employed from this large element of the population. . . . We should like to know whether Mr. Dudley plans to do any more for the Negroes of Richmond than Dr. Bright has done or whether he is simply raising the issue of the Bright circular for political purposes.

When the record can be kept straight in that manner, the harm done by race prejudice in political campaigns is greatly reduced. The outstanding thing about racial relations in Richmond is the fair and constructive attitude of the newspapers. It is, we think, becoming characteristic of Richmond in general. The present political campaign cannot injure that reputation. With the Richmond News Leader conducting its research into Negro education and opportunity in Richmond and the Times-Dispatch standing for a fair deal for Negroes in municipal jobs, the credit far exceeds the debit of the present incident of politics and prejudice. Where the press is playing a constructive role in race relations, prejudice in politics cannot long survive.

Portsmouth, Va. Star
March 27, 1936

Colored Doctor Sees Effort To Make His Race Political "Goat"

Dr. W. E. Reid Says "Certain Political Faction's Purpose Is Well Known."

Declaring that the effort to have colored candidates file for city council in the June election "has come from a certain political faction, whose purpose is well known," Dr. W. E. Reid, 845 Glasgow street, a resident and voter of Jefferson Ward, today announced he was not a candidate for council.

Dr. Reid, one of the city's well-known colored doctors,—a brother of the late Thomas H. Reid, former attorney and an uncle of T. H. Reid, now a practicing attorney of the city—declared it to be "regrettable that colored people should be drawn into this local situation, at this time, to be used strictly as a goat."

Dr. Reid's Statement

Dr. Reid in his statement, issued under his own signature, said:

"Since the City Charter was changed by the last Legislature there has been talk about colored men filing for City Council from various Wards. I have been approached on the subject and there is a general feeling in the city that I would file. The matter has been given serious consideration and after deep and sincere deliberation, I have decided that I would not be a candidate.

"It appears that the effort to have Race citizens file in this fight has come from a certain political faction, whose purpose is well known. It is regrettable that the Colored people should be drawn into this local situation, at this time, to be used strictly as a goat. "No Colored organization has endorsed any one for Council and until that is done, it appears to me that the effort or act of filing as a candidate is premature and detrimental to the best interest of the city as a whole.

"Dated March 26, 1936.
(Signed) W. E. REID."

Portsmouth, Va., Men Aspire to City Council

5-2-36

PORTSMOUTH, Va., (ANP).—The Rev. C. C. Somerville, pastor of 1st Calvet Baptist Church, and Dr. A. C. Johnson have filed their names as candidates for the Portsmouth City Council, the first aspirants to these offices in more than forty years.

COUNCILMANIC CANDIDATES MEET

An alert Guide cameraman caught Rev. C. C. Somerville and Dr. Arthur C. Johnson, councilmanic candidates in Portsmouth, as they were wishing each other a successful campaign. (Journal and Guide Photo).

Hamilton Wins Decisively In Contest For Congress

Though he was completely swamped under by Norman R. Hamilton, the Democratic nominee, Alexander Wright, Communist congressional candidate in the second Virginia district, did manage in several districts to poll more votes than his Republican opponent, Gerold M. Rumble, returns Wednesday revealed.

In several districts the Communist and the Republican tied un

Rumble was given more than Wright in the Deep Creek section, the totals being eight and seven respectively. The Highland Park section of the same district gave the two minority opponents one each.

In the 21st precinct in Norfolk, in which the vote is chiefly by Negroes, the vote was: for President—Roosevelt, 202; Landon, 131; for Senate—Glass, Democratic, 192; Rohlsen, Socialist, 26; Burke, Communist, 12; Dunning, 0; for Congress—Hamilton, Democratic, 242; Wright, Communist, 12; and Rumble, Republican, 57.

The total vote for this precinct was 248, the highest in any previous general election. The vote for Hamilton set an all-time high for a Democratic candidate, with the Roosevelt and Glass totals next highest. In the August primarys the Democratic candidates for congressional nomination polled a total of 306 votes—193 for Hamilton and 113 for Darden.

It was estimated that close to 1,000 Negroes voted in the city, the vote being scattered among the precincts except in the 21st.

In Portsmouth's wards having a large Negro vote the results were as follows: Harrison Ward, for President—Roosevelt, 350; Landon, 79; Lemke, 1; for Senate, Glass, 304; Rohlsen, 26; Dunning, 1; Burke, 22; for Congress—Hamilton, 376; Rumble, 37; Wright, 10.

Jefferson Ward, for President—Roosevelt, 342; Landon, 50; for Senate—Glass, 305; Rohlsen, 13; Burke 13; for Congress—Hamilton, 362; Rumble, 19; Wright 1.

The vote in the city as a whole follows: for President—Roosevelt, 5,617; Landon, 864; other candidates small votes; for Senate—Glass, 5,028; Rohlsen 362; other candidates small totals; for Congress—Hamilton, 5,338; Rumble, 387; Wright, 83.

The vote by cities and counties of the second district for Wright, the only colored candidate, was: Norfolk, 152; Portsmouth, 83; Suffolk, 27; South Norfolk, 16; Norfolk County, 70; Princess Anne County, 18; Nansemond County, 17; Isle of Wight, 3; and Southampton County, 14.

with an equal number of votes. The totals gave Hamilton 29,258; Rumble, 3,320; and Wright, 400.

Indian Creek in the Butts Road district gave Wright 2 and Rumble none. In the same district the Republican and the Communist tied up at Hickory Grove with six each.

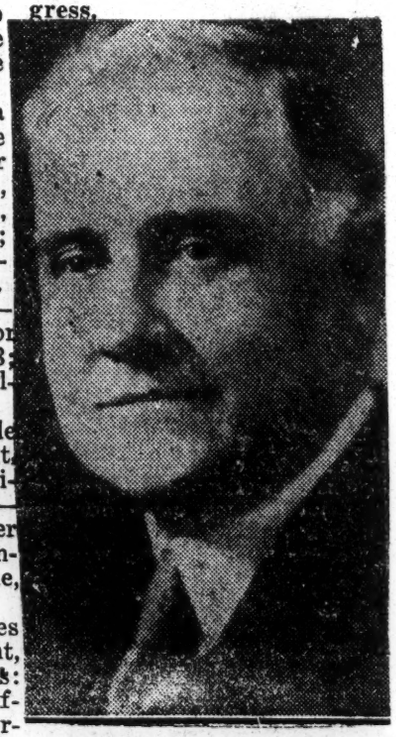
In the Pleasant Grove district (Bell's Mill) Wright polled five votes, while none were given the Republican. Hamilton in the same district was given 194.

Three colored men sought election in Virginia, although but two got their names on the ballots, so far as a preliminary checkup Wednesday showed. Each sought election to Congress.

Alexander Wright of Norfolk ran in the second district and Addison Gayle of Newport News in the first district. Both are Communists. Josephus Simpson, of Richmond, People's Party, candidate, denied a place on the ballot because he paid his poll tax after the required date, asked supporters to write-in his name.

Wright received a total of 400 votes and Gayle 39. Simpson's total, known to be small, was not tabulated at press time. In each of the three districts these three reside in, Democratic candidates were swept into office.

RICHMOND — Josephus Simpson received two write-in votes as a candidate for Congress.



NORMAN R. HAMILTON

FORD AHEAD IN FIFTH
(Special to Journal and Guide)

DANVILLE, Va.—Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate, whose running mate is James W. Ford, Negro, outstripped his three other minority opponents, Lemke, Thomas, and Colvin in the fifth Virginia district here, late returns Wednesday revealed.

The Browder and Ford team obtained 87 votes, all cast at Danville, against Lemke's 2; Thomas' 16; and Colvin's 23. Roosevelt was given an overwhelming majority of 25,511 while while Landon polled 13,165.

VA. NEGRO CANDIDATES

West Indies.

Political - 1936
Elections

COLORED WOMAN ELECTED

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad.—Voters here Tuesday elected Audrey Jeffers, daughter of a noted Negro barrister, to the City Council. She is the first woman elected to that body. Miss Jeffers defeated her nearest opponent, a white newspaper editor, by 70 votes.

Political – 1936 Elections.

West Virginia.
6

W.VA. MEDICO MAKES BID FOR CONGRESS SEAT

Dr. J. D. Gibson Believed To Have Good Chance

By R. G. JORDAN

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 28—Dr. Joseph D. Gibson, prominent physician of Logan, filed formal announcement with Secretary of State William S. O'Brien for nomination to Congress on the Democratic ticket from the sixth congressional district, last Monday.

Several Race members have held seats in the state legislature in years past from Kanawha, Fayette and McDowell counties—McDowell County having sent a Negro to the lower house consecutively for the past 16 years, the last being a Democrat. McDowell County also has the distinction of having Negro magistrates and constables in several districts, but this is the first instance in the history of the state in which a Negro has sought nomination and election to an office of such magnitude as member of Congress.

The 47 year old physician received his early training in the public schools and colleges of Boston. He is a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons and has studied abroad in Paris, Berlin, and Vienna.

Political observers express a belief that he has an excellent chance to win the nomination, predicting a greater disregard for traditionally political alignment than ever before. His supporters are impressing upon the minds of voters the necessity of seeing that ballots for their choice for Congress in the May primary are correctly marked. Although the campaign is yet in its initial stage, hundreds of persons of both races have already pledged their vote and support of Dr. Gibson's candidacy, several persons of both races having already begun field work.

Dr. Gibson is directing his own campaign.

Enters Race

DR. J. D. GIBSON
Prominent physician of Logan, W.Va., who seeks nomination for Congressional seat on Democratic ticket from the sixth district.

NOMINATE F.A. JONES FOR STATE ASSEMBLY

Courier 5-30-36

WELCH, W. Va., May 28—Fleming A. Jones was nominated at the Democrat primary election as one of the five candidates for the House of Delegates to represent the Democrat party in the fall elections.

He was elected as one of the five McDowell county members of the House of Delegates two years ago and carried out the duties of his office so efficiently that he was a popular choice for the nomination last week.

It was freely predicted that the swing of the Negroes to the Democrat party two years ago would not hold, but registration for the primary elections here last week showed gains for the Democrat party.

President Roosevelt and Senator M. M. Neely received a fine vote from McDowell County voters.

Political - 1936
Elections.

Wisconsin.

Defeated But Still Remains Optimistic

Beloit 5-2-36

BELOIT, Wis., May 1.—Dr. W. H. Marshall, prominent physician and surgeon who was defeated for representative of his district at the recent election, was optimistic when interviewed by reporters this week.

While two-thirds of his ward are white, Dr. Marshall polled 108 of the 340 votes in his territory

Political-1936
Legislation Suggested, etc.

F. D. May Tie Can to the 9 Old Men

Afro-American
Baltimore, Md.
11-14-36

Curtailment of Supreme Court Hope of Colored People.

COURT HAS KILLED 14TH AMENDMENT

Threw Out Many Laws Passed to Aid Us.

By CARL MURPHY

If President Roosevelt revives (as many think he will) the NRA, the AAA, and the Guffey Coal Act, all three declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, a fight between the President and the court impends.

The tremendous majority given the President in the recent election is an indication that the country approves his program for the regulation of hours of work, minimum wages, agriculture, and the coal industry in general.

Four Oppose Roosevelt

At least four old members of the Supreme Court (Sutherland, Van Devanter, Butler, McReynolds) have not only voted "no" on every New Deal measure, but have often persuaded Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Owen Roberts to help them.

Though past 70 years old, these four justices have steadfastly declined to resign, although they would still draw $10,000 a year as retirement pay after leaving the bench.

Since resignations are out, and only death will enable the chief executive to make new appointments to the court, President Roosevelt may decide to go before the country for an amendment making it impossible for the high court hereafter to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional.

Second Abraham Lincoln

If Mr. Roosevelt goes to bat with the Supreme Court and licks it on this issue, he'll be a second Abraham Lincoln to colored people.

Many people do not know it, because it has been kept so quiet, but the Supreme and 15th Amendments, which freed the slave, made him a citizen with equal rights and gave him a right to vote, have been so distorted by the decisions of the Supreme Court that in many States colored people have neither equal rights nor the ballot.

What the Court Did

In 1876 the court killed a law to punish State officers who terrorized colored people at the polls.

In 1883, the court declared unconstitutional a law to protect us from the Ku Klux Klan.

The same year the Civil Rights Law passed by Congress, making it unlawful to jim-crow us in hotels, public conveyances and theatres, was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

The High Point

This was the high point of its studied program to kill every reconstruction measure Congress passed and to keep colored people in a new kind of slavery.

But the Supreme Court had not finished with us.

In cases affecting schools and railroads it has interpreted the 14th Amendment, which says:

"No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States . . . nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws" to mean that States may set up separate schools and railroads may provide jim-crow cars, but they must be equal.

The English Language

If compelling colored people to ride in separate cars because of their color, or keeping them out of State schools for the same reason isn't abridgement of citizenship privileges and immunities, then this isn't the English language.

But when our highest court, with a hemorrhage of words and a demonic reasoning, finished with its decisions on these cases, the words "equal protection of the law" of the 14th Amendment were unctiously rewritten as "equal but separate."

As we feel today, undoubtedly President Roosevelt has any help we can render to put the nine old men in their places.

What Is the Constitution?

In Drew Pearson's and Robert S. Allen's new book, "The Nine Old Men," Chief Justice Hughes is quoted as saying "the Constitution is what the Supreme Court says it is."

Maybe under President Roosevelt's wise leadership, the Constitution may be "what the people say it is."

Save the Constitution

When the supreme court declared the NRA, AAA and similar legislation unconstitutional, New Dealers were outspoken in their threats against it. Today the nation is engaged in a campaign to decide future policies, the New Deal being the question on which voters divide. If Roosevelt wins, New Dealers will think the majority approves of their laws and disagrees with the supreme court justices. The stage will be set for a change. 10-16-36

That change will come in one of two ways, either by amendment which is long and tedious, or by changing the personnel of the court as has been done before. This latter method is the usual one because justices retire or die.

But the court has been changed in order to get a different interpretation of the constitution. We repeat, if Roosevelt wins, in the light of what he and his following said when the supreme court threw out the NRA and the AAA, he is sure to feel that the American people want a court with his ideas of the law. And that is exactly what the administration will give them, either by replacing present members or by "packing" the court.

The long arm of coincidence brought together in a Chicago railway station the editor of this paper, J. A. Harzfeld, who earned the everlasting gratitude of Kansas City Negroes by saving their homes when threatened in 1915, and James Reed, former U. S. senator from Missouri. Reed made one remark, "Do your people realize that the fourteenth amendment to the constitution is endangered?"

Reed had put his finger on the danger spot. Tampering with the supreme court in order to have New Deal legislation approved, opens up the gap through which the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, passed to make the Negro a citizen, can be attacked.

The law is set aside already in southern states. Negroes have the ballot, a right clearly ours in law but not ours in fact. Freedom of employment, which is liberty itself, is not ours. Education is not ours. Equality in courts is not ours. The one thing we have is the letter of law, and that will be made over if the supreme court is tampered with in order to make constitutional what the present courts declare unconstitutional.

For Negroes, there is more at stake in this election than the election of a president.

Political-1936
Legislation Suggested, etc.
60

F. D. May Tie Can to the 9 Old Men

Afro-American
Baltimore, Md.
11-14-36

Curtailment of Supreme Court Hope of Colored People.

COURT HAS KILLED 14TH AMENDMENT

Threw Out Many Laws Passed to Aid Us.

By CARL MURPHY

If President Roosevelt revives (as many think he will) the NRA, the AAA, and the Guffey Coal Act, all three declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, a fight between the President and the court impends.

The tremendous majority given the President in the recent election is an indication that the country approves his program for the regulation of hours of work, minimum wages, agriculture, and the coal industry in general.

Four Oppose Roosevelt

At least four old members of the Supreme Court (Sutherland, Van Devanter, Butler, McReynolds) have not only voted "no" on every New Deal measure, but have often persuaded Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Owen Roberts to help them.

Though past 70 years old, these four justices have steadfastly declined to resign, although they would still draw $10,000 a year as retirement pay after leaving the bench.

Since resignations are out, and only death will enable the chief executive to make new appointments to the court, President Roosevelt may decide to go before the country for an amendment making it impossible for the high court hereafter to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional.

Second Abraham Lincoln

If Mr. Roosevelt goes to bat with the Supreme Court and licks it on this issue, he'll be a second Abraham Lincoln to colored people.

Many people do not know it, because it has been kept so quiet, but the Supreme and 15th Amendments, which freed the slave, made him a citizen with equal rights and gave him a right to vote, have been so distorted by the decisions of the Supreme Court that in many States colored people have neither equal rights nor the ballot.

What the Court Did

In 1876 the court killed a law to punish State officers who terrorized colored people at the polls.

In 1883, the court declared unconstitutional a law to protect us from the Ku Klux Klan.

11-14-36

The same year the Civil Rights Law passed by Congress, making it unlawful to jim-crow us in hotels, public conveyances and theatres, was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

The High Point

This was the high point of its studied program to kill every reconstruction measure Congress passed and to keep colored people in a new kind of slavery.

But the Supreme Court had not finished with us.

In cases affecting schools and railroads it has interpreted the 14th Amendment, which says:

"No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States . . . nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws"

to mean that States may set up separate schools and railroads may provide jim-crow cars, but they must be equal.

The English Language

If compelling colored people to ride in separate cars because of their color, or keeping them out of State schools for the same reason isn't abridgement of citizenship privileges and immunities, then this isn't the English language.

But when our highest court, with a hemorrhage of words and a demonic reasoning, finished with its decisions on these cases, the words "equal protection of the law" of the 14th Amendment were unctiously rewritten as "equal but separate."

As we feel today, undoubtedly President Roosevelt has any help we can render to put the nine old men in their places.

What Is the Constitution?

In Drew Pearson's and Robert S. Allen's new book, "The Nine Old Men," Chief Justice Hughes is quoted as saying "the Constitution is what the Supreme Court says it is."

Maybe under President Roosevelt's wise leadership, the Constitution may be "what the people say it is."

Save the Constitution

Court

When the supreme court declared the NRA, AAA and similar legislation unconstitutional, New Dealers were outspoken in their threats against it. Today the nation is engaged in a campaign to decide future policies, the New Deal being the question on which voters divide. If Roosevelt wins, New Dealers will think the majority approves of their laws and disagrees with the supreme court justices. The stage will be set for a change. 10-16-36

That change will come in one of two ways, either by amendment which is long and tedious, or by changing the personnel of the court as has been done before. This latter method is the usual one because justices retire or die.

Kansas City, Mo.

But the court has been changed in order to get a different interpretation of the constitution. We repeat, if Roosevelt wins, in the light of what he and his following said when the supreme court threw out the NRA and the AAA, he is sure to feel that the American people want a court with his ideas of the law. And that is exactly what the administration will give them, either by replacing present members or by "packing" the court.

The long arm of coincidence brought together in a Chicago railway station the editor of this paper, J. A. Harzfeld, who earned the everlasting gratitude of Kansas City Negroes by saving their homes when threatened in 1915, and James Reed, former U. S. senator from Missouri. Reed made one remark, "Do your people realize that the fourteenth amendment to the constitution is endangered?"

Reed had put his finger on the danger spot. Tampering with the supreme court in order to have New Deal legislation approved, opens up the gap through which the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, passed to make the Negro a citizen, can be attacked.

The law is set aside already in southern states. Negroes have the ballot, a right clearly ours in law but not ours in fact. Freedom of employment, which is liberty itself, is not ours. Education is not ours. Equality in courts is not ours. The one thing we have is the letter of law, and that will be made over if the supreme court is tampered with in order to make constitutional what the present courts declare unconstitutional.

For Negroes, there is more at stake in this election than the election of a president.

Political — 1936
Office Holding

Alabama

Tuskegee Negro Made Field Officer For AAA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — (AP) — The Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced today appointment of Albon L. Holsey, Tuskegee, Ala., as a field officer to aid in the agricultural conservation program.

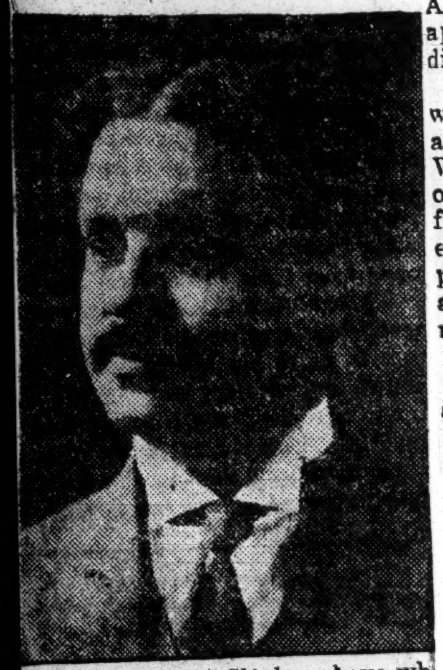
Holsey, secretary of the National Negro Business League, will headquarter at Tuskegee where he has been associated with the Tuskegee Institute for 22 years.

Political - 1936

Office Holding.

D.C.

Appointed



Thomas H. R[illegible] Clarke, above wh[illegible] was appointed deputy recorder o[illegible] deeds for the District of Colum[illegible] bia last week, succeeding Reginal[illegible] B. Grady, white. The appointmen[illegible] was made by Dr. William J Thompkins, Recorder of Deeds.

J. H. WILSON TO TAKE OATH OF OFFICE WED'DAY

New Board Member Will Be Inducted at Regular Meeting Wednesday

Attorney John Wilson, newly appointed member of the Board of Edutation, will ake the oath of office at the regular meeting of the board Wednesday evening.

Mr. Wilson is the third attorney to be appointed to the present term of office. Charles H. Houston, former dean of Howard University School of Law, was the original appointee. He resigned last June 30 to accept a position with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in New York City.

Gaskins Followed

Upon his retirement, the late Attorney Benjamin L. Gaskins was appointed to fill the vacancy. He died last month.

Wilson, who was appointed last week, will serve under his present appointment until June 30. Mr. Wilson has been an active member of the bar for the past twtney-four years, has been active in parent-teacher associations for the past twenty years, and has been actively connected with the Birney Citizens Association.

He is a native of Washington. He studied in the District public schools, Armstrong High School, and Howard University School of Law.

WPA NAMES RACE LABOR SPECIALIST

WASHINGTON — (ANP) — With one-sixth of the entire relief population of the United States composed of Negroes and a number of questions concerning racial matters arising in the administration of the $4,000,000,000 work relief fund, the Works Progress Administration has established Alfred Edgar Smith as Administrative Assistant on Negro Affairs in the Section of Labor Relations.

Mr. Smith served in a similar capacity under the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

The function of Mr. Smith's office is to maintain close contact with the various state WPA administrations and to provide an accurate, up-to-date picture of status of the Negro on relief or in WPA employment.

Other duties include the answering of communications addressed to the Works Progress Administration from or concerning Negroes on relief, of which there were some 6,000 during 1935; the reception of individuals and delegations of Negroes who visit the Washington office and the securing of interviews with proper administration officials and the interpretation of the unemployment relief program to Negro leaders and organizations.

Mr. Smith has several clerical assistants to aid him in handling the large volume of correspondence. His office is in room 707, Walker-Johnson Building, 1734 New York Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Eugene Kinckle Jones Returns To Post As Urban League Sec'y

Social Worker Was On Leave of Absence As Federal Negro Advisor

4-11-36

Journal and Guide Bureau

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Eugene Kinckle Jones, who has been on a leave of absence, while serving as special advisor of Negro affairs to the United States Department of Commerce, returned to New York City last week to resume his work as executive secretary of the National Urban League, it was announced this week.

While connected with the Department of Commerce, Mr. Jones completed several surveys on Negro business and was the author of a series of pamphlets giving statistics and other data on the Negro's status in commercial affairs.

HASN'T RESIGNED

NEW YORK CITY — Eugene Kinckle Jones adviser on Negro affairs in the Department of Commerce "has not formally resigned that office," a prominent member of the Natioinal Urban League said Tuesday morning.

Reports that Jones was to resign have been current for several weeks. Attempts to reach him for comment here have been unsuccessful because of his frequent absence. However, beginning Wednesday morning of this week he will give much more time to National Urban League work here.

He will continue technically in the Washington position, especially until after the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas, Texas, in June. He is chairman of the committee of seven which will collaborate with the U. S. Texas Centennial Commission. After that event he will probably relinquish the Washington post completely. He has held the Department of Commerce post for three years.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT SIGNS ACT GIVING MRS. CURTIS $5,000

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28—President Roosevelt informed the Senate last Monday that he had signed on May 12 the act authorizing a gratuity of $5,000 for Mrs. Helen Curtis, widow of James L. Curtis, United States Minister to Liberia under President Wilson, who died enroute to Freetown, West Africa, October 24, 1917.

Authorization of the gift to her follows precedents established by Congress of giving to the widows of American diplomats who die at foreign posts the equivalent of a year's salary the minister was receiving at the time of his death.

J. P. MURCHISON RESIGNS HIS NEW DEAL JOB

Difficulties With Ickes and Weaver Said to Be Cause

WASHINGTON. — Because of differences with Robert C. Weaver, his immednate superior, and Harold L. Ickes, secretary of interior, John P. Murchison, assistant adviser in the department, has resigned his New Deal post.

Although Murchison himself refused to divulge the direct cause of his resignation, it was reported by reliable sources that Murchison and Ickes came "to the parting of the ways" when Murchison took issue with the secretary when he said that race discrimination had been practiced on PWA projects in a speech at the twenty-fifth anniversary dinner of the Urban League.

Were Denied Jobs

Murchison reminded Ickes that skilled Negro workers were denied jobs at Boulder dam and Coullie dam. In an article in the Family magazine recently, Murchison called attention to the fact that Negro housing projects in some instances had been located in bad communities.

Murchison's resignation leaves two Negro advisers in the department of the interior, Dr. Weaver and Dewey Jones of Chicago, associate adviser. Since Jones' appointment eight months ago it was rumored that Murchison was slated to go.

Dr. Weaver is said to have rejected a number of projects suggested by Murchison, creating a rift between the two men.

NAMED TO POST IN LABOR DEPT.

J. Arthur Weisiger New Research Assistant Under Lt. Oxley

4-19-36

WASHINGTON, D. C.—J. Arthur Weiseger was on Thursday named Research Assistant in the Division of Negro Labor of which Lieutenant Lawrence A. Oxley is Chief. Mr. Weiseger will succeed John Aubrey Davis who resigned his position to teach Political Science at Lincoln University, Lincoln, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Weiseger received his B. B. A. from the University of Minnesota and has been working toward his M. B. A. at the same university this year. He has been formerly employed in the District of Columbia first as an accountant with the National Benefit Life Insurance Company and then as an accountant with the Public Assistance Division of the Bureau of Public Welfare of the District of Columbia.

Mr. Weiseger has also been prominent in fraternity circles and is at present the Grand Keeper of Records and Seal of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity.

RICHMOND, VA.
NEWS-LEADER

MAY 14 1936

Times Lauds Kinckle Jones On Commerce Dept. Post

A tribute to Edward Kinckle Jones, a native of Richmond, and a graduate of Virginia Union University, is paid editorially in a recent number of the New York Times. The occasion of the editorial was the announcement of Mr. Jones' appointment as head of the department of commerce for the study of Negro problems.

The Times recalled Mr. Jones' "splendid work for a quarter of a century, as the administrative secretary of the National Urban League, for the urbanized Negro."

The same editorial also said: He is an institution in himself, for, though, the league was organized under the presidency of the late William H. Baldwin about 30 years ago, it is Kinckle Jones who has carried on (beginning with at total budget of $2,500) and more than any one other person made it an agency of national usefulness.

It was not surprising that Secretary Roper should have called him into counsel, saying at the time of his appointment that he felt the 13,000,000 negroes in the United States were "entitled to be consulted about the general program of the department." But Kinckle Jones still continues to give his best and most direct service through the Urban League. He ascribes to the board that has planned its activities, to the staff that has directed the affairs of the movement, and to the discriminating donors all credit for the excellent record that has been made in the contribution to a "more resourceful and freer Negro," which in turn means a contribution to a "more resourceful and freer America." Ahe urban Negro has relatively suffered most industrially during the past few years, but it is also true that his spirit has been the most hopeful. The league has much to do with keeping up his spirit and deserves continuing and increasing support, for it has one of the most serious social and economic problems to deal with."

Eugene Kinckle Jones is a native of Richmond, completing his college work at Virginia Union University in 1906. His father taught at Virginia Union University for 47 years and his mother at Hartshorn College for 40 years.

Judge A. W. Scott Entertained By Boston Jurists

Guest of Governor at A Luncheon at the Parker House

BOSTON. — Judge Armond W. Scott of Washington, D. C., visited the Roxbury Court, Wednesday, morning and sat on the bench in the first session with Judge Albert F. Hayden as the last named disposed of 3[illegible] criminal cases.

Clerk Theodore A. Glynn then ushered Judge Scott to the traffic session presided over by Judge Frankland W. L. Miles. Judge Miles disposed of 150 traffic cases presented by Automobile Inspectors Nicholas C. Crossen and John J. Sullivan and Motorcycle Officer Johnston of the Roxbury Crossing Station.

Judge Scott is a native of Wilmington, N. C. and is a graduate of Shaw University. He is 62. President Roosevelt appointed Judge Scott to the bench more than a year ago for a four-year term. The appointment was approved by the United States Senate.

The judge is a staunch Democrat and was quite pleased to see the autographed photo of President Roosevelt on "Teddy" Glynn's desk.

Dr. Benjamin E. Robinson, Massachusetts Avenue; and Lieut Anselmo Krigger of Winthrop Street were among those who greeted the jurist at the Roxbury Court this morning. Judge Scott was a guest of Governor Curley at a luncheon at the Parker House.

Political – 1936

Office Holding

D. C.

Burlington, N. C. Times
July 31, 1936

THOSE POLITICAL BACKFIRES

REP. LINDSAY WARREN, who has served his district long and faithfully, as a sane and sober Tar Heel completely devoid of Zioncheckian, Long, Bilbo et al eccentricities, is now finding out that bitterest of political lessons—that chickens, inevitably and inexorably, will come home to roost.

Mentioned prominently as likely appointee to the post of comptroller-general, everything appeared set for the Southerner's appointment if he wanted the position. There seems to be genuine doubt whether he does want it or not, since his position with his constituents is such that never in the 12 years of his service in the House has his re-nomination ever been seriously threatened, and he appears a permanent fixture.

But regardless of whether Solor Warren wants the position or not, here are a lot of people who don't wish him to have it. And opponents have become most articulate in expressing their distaste for the Tar Heel. The foes are Negroes, members of the Society for the Advancement of Colored People, an organization which has done an extraordinary amount of good toward the advancement of the social and humanitarian welfare of the Negro. But this time, it seems to us, they are off on the wrong foot.

All the racial hostility toward the Warren "candidacy" arose because the Tar Heel happened to be chairman of the House restaurant committee at that time a year or so ago when a controversy arose over admission of Negroes to the eating establishment. Negroes had been patronizing the restaurant in increasing numbers, it seems, and their official positions were negligible if existent at all. A number of members, irrespective of Southern or Northern predilections, had objected to the steady inroad of the Negroes, not necessarily because of racial antipathy but also because the restaurant's primary function as an eating establishment for members of the House only (and their guests) was being abused.

Rep. Warren ruled finally that no Negro would be admitted to the House restaurant unless he were a member of Congress or a guest of a member.

A fair ruling, it would seem, although inevitably it is also wide open to interpretations based on the bitterest of prejudice—particularly since Warren is a Southerner. Had he been a Northerner or a Westerner or another species that, neither by tradition or geography, is supposed to be a Negro-baiter, then perhaps his critics would have stumped. However, it is noteworthy that the House took a vote on the issue and voted overwhelmingly to support the Warren decision. And that was that.

So now, Mr. Warren, because of that perverse malignancy of politics which must always take into account the "human element", is slated to be the goat all because of an insignificant committee chairmanship.

Wilson, N. C., Times
July 31, 1936

SOME NEGROES TR BLOCK APPOINTMENT OF LINDSAY WARREN

Washington, July 31.—Spurred on by the Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which played a large part in the Senate rejection of Judge John J. Parker, of Charlotte for the U. S. Supreme Court during the Hoover administration, some Negro protests have been filed against the prospective appointment of Representative Lindsay C. Warren to the position of Comptroller General, which carries a tenure of 15 years and a greater degree of independence than any other Federal office.

Raleigh, N. C. Observer
July 31, 1936

Some Negroes Attempt To Block Appointment

Representative Warren Not Inclined To Accept Appointment Of Comptroller General, If Offered Him, And Constituents Oppose Change

The News and Observer Bureau,
1232 National Press Building.

Washington, July 30.—Spurred on by the Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which played a large part in the Senate rejection of Judge John J. Parker, of Charlotte for the U. S. Supreme Court during the Hoover administration, some Negro protests have been filed against the prospective appointment of Representative Lindsay C. Warren to the position of Comptroller General, which carries a tenure of 15 years and a greater degree of independence than any other Federal office.

Mr. Warren's name was advanced for this position without his knowledge and it is reported here that there is grave doubt that he would accept the offer should it be made, as attractive as the position is generally considered. Terrific pressure is understood to have been turned on Mr. Warren by constituents who neither relish a change nor the prospect of a bitter fight over the Congressional seat, which has had only three incumbents during 38 years and which Mr. Warren himself has held for 12 years without any semblance of a contest. The Congressman's family are also understood to be adverse to living here.

But whatever may be Mr. Warren's inclinations it is certain that he will not relish the kind of fight which is now being made against him. And whatever the pressure back home, no impending appointment has ever been more favorably received in Washington.

The suggestion has not only received unusually favorable comment from the frequently critical corps of newspaper correspondents in Washington but also was especially well regarded by members of Congress, the body to which the Comptroller General is alone responsible.

The attitude of the Negro Association is easily explained. For the past six years Mr. Warren had been chairman of the House committee on accounts, which has supervision of all House expenditures and controls the House restaurant. Mr. Warren continued the practice of his Republican predecessors in refusing to serve Negroes promiscuously although Negro members of Congress and their personal guests have always been served. The issue was raised directly two years ago by the Negro secretary to Oscar Depriest, the then Republican member from Chicago. It was later taken up by Communists.

Dr. Thompkins Changing Office System

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A total of 148 WPA Colored workers—69 men and 79 women—are now employed in installing a new "lot and square" system of indexing in the office of Dr. William J. Thompkins, Recorder of Deeds, here. 12-21-36

The new system supplants the "grantor-grantee' system which had become inadequate for the needs of the rapidly-growing capital. It was designed by Romeo W. Horad, executive-secretary to the Recorder, and comprises a scientific and concise, yet simplified compilation of facts concerning each deed filed in the office, eliminating the necessity of searching through the time-worn bound volumes ini which the records formerly were kept. The new system will be carried on 4,792,572 cards, eliminating the handling of any heavy books and providing easy cross-references which will greatly reduce the time and effort necessary to prepare abstracts.

Political - 1936

Office Holding.

Georgia.

NEGRO ATTORNEY NAMED ON BOARD

Austin T. Walden Appointed Advisory Committeeman on University Project.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP)—Appointment of Austin T. Walden as a member of the advisory committee on the University public works low cost housing development in Atlanta, was announced today by Secretary Ickes. Walden is president of the Citizens Trust Company.

Walden, who resides at 980 Westmoor drive, N. W., is an attorney and president of the Citizens Trust Company, negro financial institution. He has been active for a number of years in negro cultural advancement and business activities.

He joins a committee of which Dr. W. W. Alexander, of the Rosenwald Foundation; Kendall Weisiger, educational director of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, and Miss Florence Read, president of Spelman College, are the white members.

Political - 1936

Office Holding.

Illinois.

CONGRESSMAN MITCHELL FIGHTS CIVIL SERVICE PHOTO REQUIREMENT

Illinoisan Makes Splendid Record During First Session Of Seventy-Fourth Congress

Secures Many Appointments For Members Of His Race In His District

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. — (ANP)—Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell of Illinois presented a bill in Congress here Thursday to remove the requirements that applicants for civil service appointments submit photographs declaring that such requirement hindered the appointment of Negroes on many jobs for which they were qualified. Excerpts from the bill read:

"Provided, however, That neither the President of the United States, nor the United States Civil Service Commission nor any branch thereof, shall require any applicant for a position under the classified civil service, as a condition precedent for such a position or as a condition precedent to appointment to the taking of an examination in said classified civil service, to furnish a photograph of such applicant either at the time of the filing of such application with the Civil Service Commision or at any subsequent time.

"Any rule or order promulgated by the President of the United States or the Civil Service Commission inconsistent herewith shall be null, void and of no force and effect."

OTHER ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

1. LEGISLATIVE.

It is by the legislative accomplishments of a Congressman that his record should be judged, and Mr. Mitchell invites inspection and comparison of his legislative record with that of any other Congressman, White or Colored, New Member or Old Member.

Introduced two bills for Government relief of Ex-Soldiers. Introduced one bill for relief of Widow of Ex-Soldier. All Colored.

Introduced Anti Lynching Bill.

Introduced Bill to Provide for Commission on Negro Industrial and Economic Affairs.

Conducted Hearings, on last named bill before Judiciary Committee--first time in history of Congress that a Colored Congressman has conducted public hearings on legislation introduced by him.

Helped pass the Bonus Bill in 1st. Session of 74th. Congress; voted to override President's veto. Voted for Bonus Bill in 2nd. Session of 74th Congress.

Worked hard, both in committee and on floor of House for passage of 40 hour week bill for Postal employees.

Worked and voted for passage of 30 day vacation and 15 day sick leave bill, for all federal employees.

Worked and spoke for passage of Old Age Pension Law and Social Security Bill, as well as voting and working for all Social Security Legislation advocated by the Administration.

Used influence to increase Federal Relief Funds for his district and aided materially in securing P. W. A. projects for his district.

Has worked incessantly, and is still working for Housing Project for Chicago's South Side.

Has distributed, free of charge, many thousands of Government publications which are only available to members of Congress.

Made a survey of conditions in the Virgin Islands which will be used as a basis for enactment of legislation of far-reaching importance to these islands.

Has conferred with and advised President Roosevelt numbers of times on conditions affecting the Country in general and the Negro in particular.

Received letters of praise from Speaker and Majority Leader for valuable assistance rendered these gentlemen in putting over Administration Program.

Has delivered more than 20 addresses in various parts of the Country, about half of which were delivered in the South in the following states: Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia.

On all occasions in the South, he addressed large mixed audiences where he championed the rights of the Negro to the full protection of the law and openly and fearlessly advocated the passage of an Anti-Lynch Bill, the effect of which was to provoke or cause much discussion among the White citizens, many of them agreeing that a Federal Anti-Lynch Bill should be passed by the Congress.

2. PATRONAGE.

Almost single handed and alone, and in face of bitter Republican opposition, he secured the appointment of Attorney Armond W. Scott as Judge of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia (a court of record) at a salary of $675.00 per month.

In His District

Mr. James A. McLendon, Clerk of Judge Scott's Court, Salary $200.00 per month. (2nd. ward)

Mr. James P. Durden, Supervisor of Census in Chicago, Salary approximating $400 per month (2nd. Ward)

Mr. Oscar F. Johnson, Supervisor, Department of Agriculture; large salary. (2nd. Ward)

Mr. Charles Bournique, Doorkeeper's Department, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. (2nd. Ward)

Mr. Clement Collins, Doorkeeper's Department, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. (2nd. Ward)

Mr. McHenry Kemp, Department of Interior, Washington, D. C. (Mr. McHenry Kemp was recently promoted and given a raise in salary). (2nd Ward)

Miss Florine I. LaCluyze, Archives Building, Washington, D. C. (1st. Ward)

Miss Edith Bleile, Dept. of Commerce, Washington, D. C. (1st. Ward)

Miss Edith Rodene, Housing Administration, Washington, D. C. (1st. Ward)

Forty-five (45) positions in Post Office, as follows: (30 from 2nd. Ward; 6 from 4th. Ward, and 9 from 11th. Ward).

Miss Callie Mae Bowen, Temporary Appointment in office of the Collector of Internal Revenue (2nd. Ward)

3. RACIAL

Secured discharge of White elevator operator in a government building when operator objected to carrying Colored passengers in his elevator.

Caused War Department to reverse its stand and retain Colored Educational Advisors and Colored Army Officers in the Medical Corps of C. C. C. Camps. This was accomplished after the Secretary of War had stated that he preferred White Advisors and White Medical Officers.

Broke down color barriers in Governmental Departments where the previous rule had been strict separation of Colored and White persons, especially in reference rooms where citizens go for governmental data.

Appointed three Colored Youths to West Point Military Academy.

Attended Jackson Day Dinner--first Colored person ever to attend.

Caused appointment of Negro National Youth Advisory Council to aid National Youth Administration.

Fought for appointment of Negro Judge of U. S. District Court of Virgin Islands (Place never before held by a Negro)

Secured positions for Colored job-holders in places never before held by them--for instance, he designated the Supervisor of the Census of Business and Manufactures in Chicago. (This Supervisor has White assistants).

SAYS PHOTO LAW IS AGAINST RACE

ARTHUR W. MITCHELL

Mr. Mitchell's Record

IN A VERY substantial sense the merits of those who make the laws of our states and of the nation are in direct measure to their accomplishments in that field. In an inescapable sense, legislators who are Negroes find their accomplishments measured also in relation to their contributions to the benefits their services bring to their particular group and to the improvement of relations between the major racial units in America.

On both bases Congressman ARTHUR W. MITCHELL, representing the first district of Illinois, does rank high and, as time passes, will rank higher. Elsewhere in this issue is printed a full summary of his accomplishments and activities. The bills he has presented are both of general nature and of a racial nature. He has influence with his colleagues and with others high in Washington officialdom, including President ROOSEVELT.

The impression got abroad early in Mr. MITCHELL'S career in Congress that he would not interest himself in the problems of the Negro as a member of the House. That was an erroneous impression. His very record denies it. In saying that he would be a congressman who was a Negro, rather than a Negro congressman, Mr. MITCHELL perhaps failed to make the distinction clear. Doubtless, too, he was inaccurately quoted at times and often misjudged when accurately quoted.

His most recent legislative effort came just a few weeks ago and strikes at the root of a governmental rule that has long been a point of attack for those interested in cutting away racial discrimination and the opportunity for practicing it. He has introduced a bill to do away with the civil service rule of requiring photographs for identification. His bill does not specifically say so, but the abolition of photographs would make fingerprints the next logical substitute.

The congressman from Illinois' first district went to the House as the first Democrat there who was a Negro. He has stoutly advocated and stuck by the New Deal. He has, from the record, discharged his duties with diligence and intelligence. And he has not missed opportunities to take steps to aid his particular racial group. Mr. MITCHELL'S record is definitely not one to be ashamed of.

Has Achieved On Wide Front In Congress

Journal and Guide

Many Measures Put Forward To Aid Negro Group

2-8-36

(Special to Journal and Guide)

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The introduction of a bill designed to eliminate one source of discrimination in civil service examinations and appointments, by Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell of Illinois, lone Negro member of the House, recalls his varied and interesting career as a legislator and prompted this week a survey of his accomplishments and activities since elected as the successor to Oscar DePriest.

His bill, introduced on January 24, would remove the requirement that applicants for civil service positions supply their photos. He feels that such a requirement hinders the appointment of colored men and women for many jobs for which they are qualified.

"That rule," states the congressman, "was adopted in 1914 for the specific purpose of disbarring Negroes and it is time that it be repealed. They explain now that it is used to identify the applicant but I contend that fingerprints would be more effective and yet could not be used as a basis for racial discrimination."

INVITES INSPECTION

As it is by the legislative accomplishment of a congressman that his record should be judged, Mr. Mitchell has often invited inspection and comparison of his legislative record with that of any other congressman, white or colored, new member or old member.

His record reveals that he has introduced two bills for government relief of ex-soldiers, introduced one bill for relief of a widow of an ex-soldier, introduced an anti-lynching bill, and introduced a bill to provide a Commission on Negro Industrial and Economic Affairs. All of these directly affect Negroes.

He conducted hearings on the last named bill before the judiciary committee—first time in history of Congress that a colored congressman conducted public hearings on legislation introduced by him.

Helped pass the Bonus Bill in first session of 74th Congress; voted to override President's veto. Voted for Bonus Bill in second session of 74th Congress.

OTHER EFFORTS

Worked hard, both in committee and on floor of House for passage of 40 hour week bill for postal employees.

Worked and voted for passage of 30-day vacation and 15-day sick leave bill, for all federal employees.

Worked and spoke for passage of Old Age Pension Law and Social Security Bill, as well as voting and working for all Social Security legislation advocated by the administration.

Used influence to increase federal relief funds for his district and aided materially in securing P.W.A. projects for his district.

Has worked incessantly, and is still working, for a housing project for Chicago's South Side.

Has distributed free of charge many thousands of government publications which are only available to members of Congress.

Made a survey of conditions in the Virgin Islands which will be used as basis for enactment of legislation of far-reaching importance to these islands.

CONFERS WITH PRESIDENT

Has conferred with and advised President Roosevelt numbers of times on conditions affecting the country in general and the Negro in particular.

Has received letters of praise from the Speaker and Majority Leader of the House for valuable assistance rendered these gentlemen in putting over administration programs.

Since being elected to Congress, among the most important things done by the congressman, was the delivery of more than 20 addresses in various parts of the country, about half of which were delivered in the South in the following states: Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia.

On all occasions in the South, he addressed large mixed audiences where he championed the rights of the Negro to the full protection of the law and openly and fearlessly advocated the passage of an anti-lynch bill, the effect of which was to provoke or cause much discussion among the white citizens, many of them agreeing that a federal anti-lynch bill should be passed by Congress.

SECURED APPOINTMENTS

Almost single handed and alone, and in face of bitter Republican opposition, he helped secure the appointment of Attorney Armond W. Scott as judge of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia (a court of record) at a salary of $675 per month.

He is also responsible for the appointments of: James A. McLendon clerk of Judge Scott's court, salary $200.00 per month (2nd Ward); James P. Durden, supervisor of census in Chicago, salary approximating $400 per month (2nd Ward); Oscar F. Johnson, supervisor, Department of Agriculture, large salary (2nd Ward); Charles Bournique, doorkeeper's department, House of Representatives Washington, D. C. (2nd Ward); Clement Collins, doorkeeper's department House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. (2nd Ward); McHenry Kemp, Department of Interior, Washington, D. C. (Mr. Kemp was recently promoted and given a raise in salary.) (2nd Ward); Miss Florine I. LaCluyze, Archives Building, Washington, D. C. (1st Ward); Miss Edith Bleile, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C (1st Ward); Forty-five (45) positions in Post Office, as follows: (30 from 2nd Ward; 6 from 4th Ward, and 9 from 11th Ward), in Chicago; and Miss Callie Mae Bowen, temporary appointment in office of the Collector of Internal Revenue (2nd Ward).

RACIAL ACTIVITIES

He secured the discharge of a white elevator operator in a government building when the operator objected to carrying colored passengers in his elevator.

Helped cause War Department to reverse its stand and permit colored educational advisors and colored army officers in the Medical Corps of CCC Camps. This was accomplished after the Secretary of War had stated that he preferred white advisors and white medical officers.

Helped break down color barriers in governmental departments where the previous rule had been strict separation of colored and white persons, especially in reference rooms where citizens go for governmental data.

Appointed three colored youths to West Point Military Academy.

Attended the Jackson Day Dinner—first colored person ever to attend.

Caused appointment of Negro National Youth Advisory Council to aid National Youth Administration.

Fought for the appointment of a Negro judge of the U. S. District Court of Virgin Islands (Place never held by a Negro). A white man was appointed finally, but prospects are better for a Negro later.

Secured positions for colored jobholders in places never before held by them—for instance, he designated the supervisor of the Census of Business and Manufacturers in Chicago. (This supervisor has white assistants.)

NEW YORK TIMES

APR 23 1936

CHEERS FOR NEGRO RING IN THE HOUSE

Some Democrats Stand as Representative Mitchell Assails the Republicans.

EMPTY PROMISES ALLEGED

Illinois Member Pledges Support of 2,400,000 Votes of Race for Roosevelt.

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Some Democrats in the House stood up and cheered today after Representative Mitchell of Illinois, the only Negro ever to sit in the House as a Democrat, assailed the Republican party.

Mr. Mitchell declared that while the Republican party had promised to "do something" for the Negroes, it had only led them "dumb and hopeless," down another road.

He pledged the support of Negro voters to the Democratic party and asserted that in twenty-three States where Negroes vote there would be 2,400,000 votes cast next Fall for President Roosevetl and the Democratic party.

Republicans Are Silent

Republicans were silent as applause from some Democratic seats punctuated the remarks of Mr. Mitchell. Asserting that statements by Republicans that Lincoln was elected for the sole purpose of liberating slaves were only political propaganda, the Negro Representative read from Lincoln's inaugural address, quoting as follows:

"I have no purpose, directly or indirectly, to interfere with the institution of slavery in the States where it exists. I believe I have no lawful right to do so, and I have no inclination to do so."

Republicans, he continued, had believed for years that they had the Negro voters "in their vest pockets." A prominent Democrat had told him several years ago that the Democrats owed the Negro nothing, but that the Republicans "owe the Negroes a hell of a lot but will not pay you."

When Republicans courted the Negro voters and took office, Mr. Mitchell said, "they forgot us until they wanted us to vote again."

In promising Negro support for the administration he said:

"We expect to wage a campaign to show the Republican party that it has abused the Negroes more than it has abused this country; that we stand politically emancipated, and that we are going to give the Democratic party and the great President that I love so dearly the largest vote that any Negro group has given a President of the United States."

Sitting on the Democratic side, "where no Negro ever before had that privilege or responsibility," Mr. Mitchell was applauded again when he said that the Democrats had received and "treated me like a man." This was not a compliment to him as an individual "but a compliment to the race I represent, a race that, as you know, has borne the burden of this country without complaint."

He had seen and talked with President Roosevelt on many occasions and he believed that the realization was general that "we are approaching the day when these things will be settled and settled right."

"I say to you that the race I represent here appreciates the fine work that our great President has done and that this great Democratic party has done for suffering humanity," he added. "As I read the platform back in various years and see the beautiful promises that my Republican friends have made my people and then led them dumb and hopeless and voted us and took offices and went on and forgot us until they wanted us to vote again, and then see what the Democratic party has done, I say that you are our friends and I hail you as our friends today."

Political - 1936

Office Holding.

Illinois.

Mitchell Has Won Respect of Entire House of Representatives, Says A. N. P. Reporter

By DAVIS LEE

By Associated Negro Press

"One Day in Congress" should be the caption of this item since I spent a whole day last week in the House of Representatives as the guest of Arthur W. Mitchell, of Illinois.

To sit and watch a member of your own race, the only one in Congress, rub shoulders, dine and mix generally with the white gentlemen from the forty-eight states on absolute equal basis, causes one to poke out his chest and congratulate himself on being fortunate enough to be born a Negro.

Out of the 434 members of the House of Representatives, Congressman Mitchell is absolutely the best mannered, deported, and respected of them all. During the reading of bills, the harrangues of some member, Mr. Mitchell sits cool, collected and listens with an air that causes the southern white gentlemen to seem out of place. His deportment is such a contrast that the other members are constantly speaking about it on the floor and off.

Ignore Reading

Upon arriving at the House of Representatives, which is several blocks from Mr. Mitchell's office, we got on an elevator which delivered us to our destination.

We had hardly seated ourselves when the Speaker of the House rapped his gavel for order.

"Father will lend us in prayer," he announced.

A man attired in the habiliment of a Catholic priest rose. Everyone present bowed. The good gentleman then plunged into an invocation that reeked of sincerity.

At the conclusion of the prayer the speaker rapped again. Then the clerk began to read a stack of green sheets of paper. I learned later that they were bills to be acted upon.

During the reading I focused my optics around the interior to make a general survey. One thing that stood out most prominently and conspicuously was the lack of attention being paid to the reading. Mr. Mithell seemed to be the only member listening. The rest were engaged in loud discussion and running from one seat to another.

Looks Like Gridiron

In the galleries were only women who came to witness, what some call, America's leading circus in action. The interior of the House of Representatives reminds one of a large football stadium, specially the Hollywood bowl, only it is not as large. It is round like a stadium, and the gallery seats resemble the bleechers. Down in the center are a number of seats and a few tables. The roof directly over head is glass, thus much sunlight filters through during the gloomy moments that invariably come to some of the gentlemen during the consideration of a piece of legislation which they favor.

I had done very little optical roving and taking mental notes before the fireworks began. The Army Appropriation Bill was the issue of the moment. One of the honorable gentlemen with a decided and betraying Alabama accent delivered a fiery speech inw hich he disclosed some little irregularities. At the end of his accusation seven or eight rose and cornered the gentleman in a verbal battle royal.

During the hot-air fire works Congressman Mitchell sat smiling The various representatives, Democrat and Republican, continued to go to his seat and consult him about one thing or another. As soon as one would leave another would come. Each would shake his hand sit down and put his arm around Mr. Mitchell and carry on a whispered conversation.

Called Credit to Party

At 2 o'clock the members began slipping out to get lunch. We slipped out also and descended to the first floor where the House Restaurant, barber shop and public restaurant are located.

Many of the representatives were standing around the corridor discussng bills and other things of interest to legislators. This gave me an opportunity to find out what they thought of Congressman Mitchell. The first gentleman approached was a Democrat from Alabama. He said:

"Mr. Mitchell is every inch a gentleman. Before meeting him, having daily contact and conversation with him I held all Negroes in contempt. However, he has convinced me that the Negro is human, intelligent and entitled to the same respect accorded other races. In my opinion Arthur W. Mitchell is a credit to the Democratic party but a greater credit to his race."

The next gentleman approached was a Republican from South Carolina: "I understand that Congressman Mitchell is the 22nd black man to be elected to Congress, and I will venture to say the greatest of the whole shoobang. He doesn't run around over the country agitating and stirring up a lot of trouble for you people. He has minded his own business and made friends. One thing he has done is to change the attitude of many southern gentlemen toward you people."

Bill Unconstitutional

My third query was to a handsome looking chap from West Virginia. He said he represented the District where Nancy Hanks, Abraham Lincoln's mother, was born.

"You ask me what I think of Mr. Mitchell. He's a damn fine gentleman and a statesman whose record in the House of Representatives should be the target of every ambitious Negro boy. He knows how to handle whites as well as blacks. He drew up an anti-lynching bill here sometime back and because of the respect that we all have for him every southern member of the House pledged his support. The reason the bill wasn't passed was because it was unconstitutional. Mr. Mitchell had the deans of seven law schools study it. They all said it was unconstitutional. There was no use enacting a piece of legislation that is unconstitutional. It is hard to pass an anti-lynching bill that will be constitutional with the present Supreme Court. However Mr. Mitchell is here fighting the battles of his race, and in my estimation doing a damn good job."

We returned to the floor to witness a few more fire works. A number of the congressmen had to attend to business elsewhere, and they asked Mr. Mitchell to stay on the floor of the House as a scheme was afoot to slip two or three bills through. He was asked to see that they didn't get through.

One thing that I learned about Congress is that the passing of bills before the House assembled is a mere fromality. All bills are discussed in private conferences and caucusses and are figuratively speaking, passed in these private meetings. When they come up before the House everything has been cut and dried.

Congress adjourned some minutes after four and we trekked back to the office.

There I had an opportunity to study the man who has captured the admiration and respect of every member of Congress. Arthur W. Mitchell is a very unusual personality, independent in thought and action. The reader will be better able to form a more intimate opinion of Arthur W. Mitchell by studying his own wods:

"I came to Washington to render service; that is what I am doing, and I don't give a snap what people think or say about me. I have nothing to say about myself. A man's work and deeds will speak louder than his mouth."

The Congressman then pointed to a stack of telegrams. Over 300 of them—all received in one day from Negroes all over the country urging him to do this and to do that.

"Those people should realize," he said, "that I am the representative of the people of my District, not of all the Negroes. I cannot get up in the House and advocate or oppose a piece of legislation in another Congressman's District just because the members of our race who live there want it. They should realize that and write to the white congressman representing their district not me."

Congressman Mitchell Balks

Congressman Arthur Mitchell shows his cloven hoofs regarding Negro affairs in his recent refusal to sign a request for a Democratic caucas having for its purpose the consideration of anti-lynching bills. In this instance the N. A. A. C. P. has chased the old fox to his lair. It is unfortunate that the wiley Illinoisan should have to be uncovered and exposed in all his wretchedness right at election time.

It is known that Congressman Hatton W. Summers of Texas, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, declared recently: "As long as I am chairman of the committee I will never permit an anti-lynching bill to be reported out." Now there is only one way around this unfortunate situation and that is to secure the request of twenty-five members of the lower house. This makes a caucas mandatory.

Fifteen million Negroes all over America will want to know why Congressman Mitchell does not sign such a request. Up to March 19 the following members of the lower house had signed a request for the caucas: Thomas A. Ford, California; Joseph A. Gavagan, New York; Louis Ludloy, Indiana; Herman P. Koppleman, Connecticut; Carolina O'Day, New York; William J. Granfield, Massachusetts; Edward A. Kenney, New Jersey; Byron N. Scott, California; Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., Missouri; Fred H. Hildebrandt, South Dakota; William P. Connery, Jr., Massachusetts; John H. Tolan, California.

With all of this imposing list of legislators pledged to the call Congressman Mitchell swings back. He will doubtless find out how his constituency feels about this when the November election rolls around. In the language of the immortal Lincoln, "You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time."

We can't understand the technique of Congressman Mitchell. He has shouted from the hilltop that he did not represent the 15,000,000 Negroes of the United States, and that all he desired to do was to represent the interests of the First Congressional District of Illinois. Granting that there is some merit in such argument, we at the same time assume that Congressman Mitchell would agree that some influence, individuals or organization should attempt to care for the needs of Negroes not fortunate enough to come within his sphere of authority.

The N. A. A. C. P. does assume to shoulder the responsibility of the 15,000,000 Negroes of the United States, and when it says it desires a caucas in a Democratic congress to consider the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill, the least thing that Congressman Mitchell could do is to join in a plan which would give the N. A. A. C. P. and its friends a chance to be heard. No one is asking Congressman Mitchell to lead the fight. His vote for the caucas would be nothing more than a request that friends of Negroes be given a hearing. Surely as congressman from the First Illinois District, Mr. Mitchell can desist from his direct labors in his district and give an indirect shove to thise who would make life and limb safe for the teeming millions of black folk in America, and even for Congressman Mitchell under the Stars and Stripes.

The line-up of the House is such that the bill would have a very good chance of passing even if it did not get a single southern vote. There are 222 Democratic congressmen from the northern and border states, 102 Republicans, 7 Progressives and 3 Farmer-Laborites—more than enough to pass the bill if it could be got to the floor. All these congressmen, of course, would not vote for the bill, but most of them would. This puts the issue squarely up to the Democratic and Republican leaders of the House. If they do their duty the bill can be passeed without one southern vote.

It puts the issue up squarely to Congressman Mitchell also. Twenty-five American citizens were victims of mob murders in 1935, and according to the Interracial Commission of Atlanta, Georgia, 102 others were narrowly averted during the same months. Even the folk who live in the First Illinois District cannot dodge responsibility for America's terrible shame.

The issue is also up to you who read these lines. It is up to you if you have any influence over your congressman. Sit down and write the man who represents the district in which you reside. Tell him to sign the call for a Democratic caucas. Tell him to cease fiddling while Rome burns.

ANOTHER NEGRO IN CONGRESS

As a result of the primary election which was held in the state of Illinois Tuesday, it is almost certain that a Negro from the Windy City will be a member of the Seventy-Fifth Congress which will convene early in 1937.

The race now is between the former Congressman Oscar DePriest on the Republican ticket and the present incumbent, Arthur W. Mitchell on the Democratic ticket. There is at this time, however, some speculation as to who will be elected in November.

Mr. Mitchell has the advantage of being "in." He has the other advantage of being with the party that has the control of the nation's affairs at this time. Being a politician himself, makes his stock high according to the rules of the game. On the other hand, Mr. DePriest, is no novice at the game of politics. He has already served six years as a member of congress and is regarded as a campaigner.

As we visualize the situation in Chicago where the Negroes are getting somewhere politically we turn to our own city, St. Louis, and wonder "What is the matter with St. Louis? What is the matter with our race leaders Why is it we get so little in return for what we give to the political parties in the way of votes? All of the well informed politicians of the city, be they Democrat or Republican, say boldly that the Negro voters hold "balance of power," in any election. This being true, we ask what is the matter with us? Why do we not use this power for our advancement in the civil and political affairs of this city and state?

By every rule of the game there should be at least two Negroes from the city of St. Louis elected to the House of Representatives in the next general assembly. This could be easily accomplished if we could only think—think together, think for the welfare of the race, rather than for individuals. It is in this connection that our Negro leadership can show itself. Let us see to it that one of our group is nominated on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. So that which ever party prevails at the pools in November, the Negro will be elected. This is the kind of political sense that people of Chicago have, and demonstrated this fact, when they used their political influence with the party leaders and admirably succeeded in having one of their race on either ticket opposing each other.

Seeing what our brethren are doing in our Sister State, Illinois, we are inspired the more to bring the message like the spys of old, who said, "we are able to take the land, let us go up and possess it." In other words we are able to help ourselves politically only by taking that which rightfully belongs to us.

Another thing about the Negro situation in Chicago politically that we might do well in St. Louis to imitate, and that is, they understand how to make leaders. Oscar DePriest was not only the Congressman, but he also held the office as Ward Committeeman at the same time, both of which were elected offices. Let us take note of these things and use them as our political guide.

Congressman Mitchell Balks

Congressman Arthur Mitchell shows his cloven hoofs regarding Negro affairs in his recent refusal to sign a request for a Democratic caucas having for its purpose the consideration of anti-lynching bills. In this instance the N. A. A. C. P. has chased the old fox to his lair. It is unfortunate that the wiley Illinoisan should have to be uncovered and exposed in all his wretchedness right at election time.

It is known that Congressman Hatton W. Summers of Texas, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, declared recently: "As long as I am chairman of the committee I will never permit an anti-lynching bill to be reported out." Now there is only one way around this unfortunate situation and that is to secure the request of twenty-five members of the lower house. This makes a caucas mandatory.

Fifteen million Negroes all over America will want to know why Congressman Mitchell does not sign such a request. Up to March 19 the following members of the lower house had signed a request for the caucas: Thomas A. Ford, California; Joseph A. Gavagan, New York; Louis Ludloy, Indiana; Herman P. Koppleman, Connecticut; Carolina O'Day, New York; William J. Granfield, Massachusetts; Edward A. Kenney, New Jersey; Byron N. Scott, California; Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., Missouri; Fred H. Hildebrandt, South Dakota; William P. Connery, Jr., Massachusetts; John H. Tolan, California.

With all of this imposing list of legislators pledged to the call Congressman Mitchell swings back. He will doubtless find out how his constituency feels about this when the November election rolls around. In the language of the immortal Lincoln, "You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time."

We can't understand the technique of Congressman Mitchell. He has shouted from the hilltop that he did not represent the 15,000,000 Negroes of the United States, and that all he desired to do was to represent the interests of the First Congressional District of Illinois. Granting that there is some merit in such argument, we at the same time assume that Congressman Mitchell would agree that some influence, individuals or organization should attempt to care for the needs of Negroes not fortunate enough to come within his sphere of authority.

The N. A. A. C. P. does assume to shoulder the responsibility of the 15,000,000 Negroes of the United States, and when it says it desires a caucas in a Democratic congress to consider the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill, the least thing that Congressman Mitchell could do is to join in a plan which would give the N. A. A. C. P. and its friends a chance to be heard. No one is asking Congressman Mitchell to lead the fight. His vote for the caucas would be nothing more than a request that friends of Negroes be given a hearing. Surely as congressman from the First Illinois District, Mr. Mitchell can desist from his direct labors in his district and give an indirect shove to thise who would make life and limb safe for the teeming millions of black folk in America, and even for Congressman Mitchell under the Stars and Stripes.

The line-up of the House is such that the bill would have a very good chance of passing even if it did not get a single southern vote. There are 222 Democratic congressmen from the northern and border states, 102 Republicans, 7 Progressives and 3 Farmer-Laborites—more than enough to pass the bill if it could be got to the floor. All these congressmen, of course, would not vote for the bill, but most of them would. This puts the issue squarely up to the Democratic and Republican leaders of the House. If they do their duty the bill can be passeed without one southern vote.

It puts the issue up squarely to Congressman Mitchell also. Twenty-five American citizens were victims of mob murders in 1935, and according to the Interracial Commission of Atlanta, Georgia, 102 others were narrowly averted during the same months. Even the folk who live in the First Illinois District cannot dodge responsibility for America's terrible shame.

The issue is also up to you who read these lines. It is up to you if you have any influence over your congressman. Sit down and write the man who represents the district in which you reside. Tell him to sign the call for a Democratic caucas. Tell him to cease fiddling while Rome burns.

ANOTHER NEGRO IN CONGRESS

As a result of the primary election which was held in the state of Illinois Tuesday, it is almost certain that a Negro from the Windy City will be a member of the Seventy-Fifth Congress which will convene early in 1937.

The race now is between the former Congressman Oscar DePriest on the Republican ticket and the present incumbent, Arthur W. Mitchell on the Democratic ticket. There is at this time, however, some speculation as to who will be elected in November.

Mr. Mitchell has the advantage of being "in." He has the other advantage of being with the party that has the control of the nation's affairs at this time. Being a politician himself, makes his stock high according to the rules of the game. On the other hand, Mr. DePriest, is no novice at the game of politics. He has already served six years as a member of congress and is regarded as a campaigner.

As we visualize the situation in Chicago where the Negroes are getting somewhere politically we turn to our own city, St. Louis, and wonder "What is the matter with St. Louis? What is the matter with our race leaders Why is it we get so little in return for what we give to the political parties in the way of votes? All of the well informed politicians of the city, be they Democrat or Republican, say boldly that the Negro voters hold "balance of power," in any election. This being true, we ask what is the matter with us? Why do we not use this power for our advancement in the civil and political affairs of this city and state?

By every rule of the game there should be at least two Negroes from the city of St. Louis elected to the House of Representatives in the next general assembly. This could be easily accomplished if we could only think—think together, think for the welfare of the race, rather than for individuals. It is in this connection that our Negro leadership can show itself. Let us see to it that one of our group is nominated on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. So that which ever party prevails at the pools in November, the Negro will be elected. This is the kind of political sense that people of Chicago have, and demonstrated this fact, when they used their political influence with the party leaders and admirably succeeded in having one of their race on either ticket opposing each other.

Seeing what our brethren are doing in our Sister State, Illinois, we are inspired the more to bring the message like the spys of old, who said, "we are able to take the land, let us go up and possess it." In other words we are able to help ourselves politically only by taking that which rightfully belongs to us.

Another thing about the Negro situation in Chicago politically that we might do well in St. Louis to imitate, and that is, they understand how to make leaders. Oscar DePriest was not only the Congressman, but he also held the office as Ward Committeeman at the same time, both of which were elected offices. Let us take note of these things and use them as our political guide.

Illinois.

Political- 1936
Office Holding.

THE MITCHELL BILL

There are a great many people who have turned in their objections to the bill which Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell has introduced in Congress to create a Commission on Negro Affairs. As we digest them, they are apparently as follows:

1. Those who object to the bill because they object to Mr. Mitchell; they do not like him. He is a Democrat.

2. Those who are members of organizations that have been collecting data and assume to have charge of Negro affairs.

3. Those who honestly think that the bill would create segregation, and would therefore be injurious to the progress of the Negro.

The first two groups are selfish and their objections must be discounted, but we will discuss here the third objection.

Segregation does not have to be created. We have "advisers" on NEGRO AFFAIRS in the Departments of Commerce, of Interior, of Labor, of Justice, of Education, and in other places. These positions carry very little or no authority, and were originated largely to satisfy colored people's desire for recognition. While some people expect a great deal from them, the government expects very little. The men who fill the places are, as a rule, able, well-trained, representative Negroes, and they know better than anybody else the limitations of their authority. We imagine they are continually disappointed because many people expect too much of them. But one thing is true, and that is that they would not have their jobs except for segregation. Their jobs are "Negro" jobs and are so labeled.

Our own belief is that the organizations that are doing work in a segregated field for "Negro advancement" need, more than anything else, the facts about Negroes; and if there were some central fact-finding organization that would help them, they could do better work. If the N. A. A. C. P. could have the use of this fact-finding organization, it could use its meagre resources in order to pursue more vigorously its program for advancement of colored people, and its program is highly commended by us. If there were a fact-finding organization that would furnish more complete information for the Urban League, it would release a great deal of that organization's ability and finance from having to do a more or less inadequate job of fact-finding and devote itself almost entirely to opening up industrial opportunities for Negroes, and its now good work be much better. If the business organizations and church organizations, and all of them could have at their back a first-class fact-finding organization, they could devote themselves more efficiently to their particular objectives. Certainly the Business League, the Race Relations Commission of the Federal Council, the Industrial Committee and Social Welfare Committees of the Fraternal Council of Negro Churches, and a score of others are even now handicapped because of lack of actual information. If the commission did nothing but make facts about the Negro available, it would be fully justified.

We do not believe there is any one who would disagree with this point of view. We ask then why not let the government promote this fact-finding organization? It promotes fact-finding in nearly every other realm, from aviation to zero weather. Everybody else uses the Government, why not the Negro?

The objection has been raised that the commission would have no authority. It would at least have the authority which well-authenticated and digested facts always have. At present nobody has much authority, and it could not have less than we now have.

It is also argued that it would take over the work of the departments already in existence and relieve the War Department and the Department of Labor and of Commerce etc., of their responsibility. There is nothing in the bill that even suggests this. It would help to make the work of these departments more effective by giving them well-digested information, which they do not have. While a dozen people are working on "Negro facts" in a detached way, there would be scores of others at work in an organized way under this commission.

It has been said that it would be like the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Any one who will read the law creating the Bureau of Indian Affairs will see that the two are entirely different.

As to segregation, our honest belief is that the last man to say segregation is as bad as the man who urges the Government to make a segregated job and then accept it, or the man who forms a "segregated" organization. Most unqualified statements about segregation show poor thinking. Our belief is that the sooner the colored man gets it into his head in this country that the white man is not going to give him anything he is not able to organize and take, and that he needs all of the power of the government that he can get, no matter under what condition he gets it, he will get along further. It is power to light his way out that is his great need. The Negro has been and will continue to be segregated no matter what the law is if he has not power to protect himself. He will be lynched no matter whether the anti-lynching bill is passed or not, if he does not have power, just as he is now disfranchised in many parts of this free country despite the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, because he has not organized political power. Organized power is power segregated and concentrated.

Negro leaders show they are very naive in their thinking when they even suggest that a commission of five men with less than a half million dollars a year holds the destiny of the race. We hold no illusion about Mr. Mitchell's bill. It won't bring on the millennium (Abraham Lincoln's immortal Emancipation Proclamation) be a mere drop in a bucket, but it will be a drop. Its efficiency will be determined by the character and ability of the men the President appoints. It won't settle the labor problem, it won't settle the lynching problem, it won't settle the problem of migration, or schools, or religion. It won't hurt the church, or the Urban League or the "Negro advisers," or the newspapers of the N. A. A. C. P. It will be just one

---

The first political meeting for colored voters in the current primary campaign in Jefferson county will be held in the circuit court room of the county court house at 7:3 o'clock Tuesday evening. Professor Williams, from the Democratic state central committee's headquarters in Springfield, will be the principal speaker.

The meeting will be held in the interest of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, candidate for governor, and other candidates endorsed by the state committee.

MOUNT VERNON, ILL.
REGISTER NEWS
APR 6 1936
TO ADDRESS COLORED
VOTERS TOMORROW

Political- 1936
Office Holding.

Illinois.

THE MITCHELL BILL

There are a great many people who have turned in their objections to the bill which Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell has introduced in Congress to create a Commission on Negro Affairs. As we digest them, they are apparently as follows:

1. Those who object to the bill because they object to Mr. Mitchell; they do not like him. He is a Democrat.

2. Those who are members of organizations that have been collecting data and assume to have charge of Negro affairs.

3. Those who honestly think that the bill would create segregation, and would therefore be injurious to the progress of the Negro.

The first two groups are selfish and their objections must be discounted, but we will discuss here the third objection.

Segregation does not have to be created. We have "advisers" on NEGRO AFFAIRS in the Departments of Commerce, of Interior, of Labor, of Justice, of Education, and in other places. These positions carry very little or no authority, and were originated largely to satisfy colored people's desire for recognition. While some people expect a great deal from them, the government expects very little. The men who fill the places are, as a rule, able, well-trained, representative Negroes, and they know better than anybody else the limitations of their authority. We imagine they are continually disappointed because many people expect too much of them. But one thing is true, and that is that they would not have their jobs except for segregation. Their jobs are "Negro" jobs and are so labeled.

Our own belief is that the organizations that are doing work in a segregated field for "Negro advancement" need, more than anything else, the facts about Negroes; and if there were some central fact-finding organization that would help them, they could do better work. If the N. A. A. C. P. could have the use of this fact-finding organization, it could use its meagre resources in order to pursue more vigorously its program for advancement of colored people, and its program is highly commended by us. If there were a fact-finding organization that would furnish more complete information for the Urban League, it would release a great deal of that organization's ability and finance from having to do a more or less inadequate job of fact-finding and devote itself almost entirely to opening up industrial opportunities for Negroes, and its now good work be much better. If the business organizations and church organizations and all of them could have at their back a first-class fact-finding organization, they could devote themselves more efficiently to their particular objectives. Certainly the Business League, the Race Relations Commission of the Federal Council, the Industrial Committee and Social Welfare Committees of the Fraternal Council of Negro Churches, and a score of others are even now handicapped because of lack of actual information. If the commission did nothing but make facts about the Negro available, it would be fully justified.

We do not believe there is any one who would disagree with this point of view. We ask then why not let the government promote this fact-finding organization? It promotes fact-finding in nearly every other realm, from aviation to zero weather. Everybody else uses the Government, why not the Negro?

The objection has been raised that the commission would have no authority. It would at least have the authority which well-authenticated and digested facts always have. At present nobody has much authority, and it could not have less than we now have.

It is also argued that it would take over the work of the departments already in existence and relieve the War Department and the Department of Labor and of Commerce etc., of their responsibility. There is nothing in the bill that even suggests this. It would help to make the work of these departments more effective by giving them well-digested information, which they do not have. While a dozen people are working on "Negro facts" in a detached way, there would be scores of others at work in an organized way under this commission.

It has been said that it would be like the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Any one who will read the law creating the Bureau of Indian Affairs will see that the two are entirely different.

As to segregation, our honest belief is that the last man to say segregation is as bad as the man who urges the Government to make a segregated job and then accept it, or the man who forms a "segregated" organization. Most unqualified statements about segregation show poor thinking. Our belief is that the sooner the colored man gets it into his head in this country that the white man is not going to give him anything he is not able to organize and take, and that he needs all of the power of the government that he can get, no matter under what condition he gets it, he will get along further. It is power to light his way out that is his great need. The Negro has been and will continue to be segregated no matter what the law is if he has not power to protect himself. He will be lynched no matter whether the anti-lynching bill is passed or not, if he does not have power, just as he is now disfranchised in many parts of this free country despite the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, because he has not organized political power. Organized power is power segregated and concentrated.

Negro leaders show they are very naive in their thinking when they even suggest that a commission of five men with less than a half million dollars a year holds the destiny of the race. We hold no illusion about Mr. Mitchell's bill. It won't bring on the millennium (Abraham Lincoln's immortal Emancipation Proclamation will be a mere drop in a bucket, but it will be a drop. Its efficiency will be determined by the character and ability of the men the President appoints. It won't settle the labor problem, it won't settle the during this century, and our petty prejudices lynching problem, it won't settle the problem of migration, or schools, or religion. It won't hurt the church, or the Urban League or the "Negro advisers," or the newspapers of the N. A. C. P. It will be just one more little bit of bureau that if properly directed, can use the power of the government to help the Negro go forward—chiefly by furnishing data for all other organizations and individuals to use. Our candid belief is that if properly directed, can use the power of the government to help the Negro go forward—chiefly by furnishing data for all other organizations and individuals to use. Our candid belief is that it is the most sensible piece of legislation offered for the benefit of the Negroes by the principal speaker.

The first political meeting for colored voters in the current primary campaign in Jefferson county will be held in the circuit court room of the county court house at 7:3 o'clock Tuesday evening. Professor Williams, from the Democratic state central committee's headquarters in Springfield, will be the principal speaker.

The meeting will be held in the interest of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, candidate for governor, and other candidates endorsed by the state committee.

REGISTER NEWS
APR 6 1936
MOUNT VERNON, ILL.
TO ADDRESS COLORED VOTERS TOMORROW

Mitchell Made Darn Good Talk, Say Colleagues

Afro-American

Eight out of Ten Congressmen Tell AFRO Speech Was Okey.

5-2-36

WAITING 15 YEARS FOR IT, ONE SAYS

Baltimore Md.

Scouts Lincoln Myth, Another States.

By CONSTANCE E. H. DANIEL

(Full text of speech on page)

Of twelve Congressmen or their spokesmen interviewed by the AFRO on their reactions to the maiden political speech delivered by Representative Arthur Mitchell of Illinois, on the floor of the House, last week, ten favored the Mitchell speech one questioned it, and one refused to comment.

Opinions were based largely on general impressions—few had read the speech, and several admitted that they had not heard it. Many Congressmen — especially in the Republican camp—were "back home" repairing political fences.

One Congressman declared that the speech was the kind that he had been waiting for for fifteen years for some colored Democrat to make. Another said that he was glad that the Lincoln myth had at last been exploded.

Congressional opinion as expressed to the AFRO Monday was as follows:

Intelligent Speech

CHARLES L. SOUTH (Dem., Texas):

"He made a very interesting and intelligent speech. I considered it very timely, well thought out and well delivered. I didn't give much attention to its political significance—there is practically only one party in Texas, anyway; but I was impressed with the intelligent and dispassionate manner in which he presented the question, having in mind the interest of his own people."

Palmisano's Comment

VINCENT L. PALMISANO (Dem., Md.):

"I haven't read his speech, but I will make a statement. I think that his conduct in the House has commanded the respect of all members, regardless of party lines.

Afro-American

"I've had experience in the Baltimore City Council, where there were two members of the colored race, one of the 'boastist' type, like DePriest and the other the Mitchell type. The results were that whenever they had different views, the Mitchell type always got what he wanted, and the other type received nothing. 5-2-36

"Mitchell is doing good. He'll get more in the long run."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The colored councilmen referred to were Warner T. McGuinn and William L. Fitzgerald.)

EDWARD A. KENNEY (Dem., N.J.)

Baltimore

"Have not read the speech, and would not comment myself from what I could hear of a speech rapidly delivered on the floor. Will discuss it later."

GLOVER H. CARY (Dem., Ky.): (By secretary):

"Being from the South, I naturally admire the way he keeps his place up here; think he made a wonderful speech. He is well thought of by his colleagues."

THOMAS L. BLANTON (Dem., Texas):

"I have written Mitchell a letter commending him for his speech. I'm busy. I haven't time to make any further statement."

GEORGE SCHNEIDER (Progressive, Wis.):

"I have no comment to make."

LOUIS LUDLOW (Dem., Ind.)

"I am very much impressed with what I have heard about it. It was a very able effort—he handled himself very well indeed. I think he is highly esteemed by members of Congress. I haven't read the speech."

JAMES FARLEY (Dem., Ind.): "He made a wonderful speech. I think he's a good, sound, substantial citizen." (Said he had not read the speech.)

WILLIAM BERLIN (Dem., Pa.): Read a letter to the AFRO reporter, commending the Mitchell attitude, but said he was not in a position to comment on the speech.

Darn Good Speech

CHARLES A. BUCKLEY (Dem., N.Y.) (By secretary):

"I think it was a darn good speech. My boss is 100 per cent with him. He was one of those who rose and applauded."

GEORGE JOHNSON (Dem., West Va.): (By secretary, Mrs. Johnson:

"Mr. Johnson is on the floor of the House; I cannot speak for him."

For herself, applauded the Mitchell views, particularly his avoidance of class issues, which she felt Mr. DePriest had made uppermost to the detriment of more important matters.

100% Wrong, Says Robinson

"I think Mitchell is 100 per cent wrong," said Congressman Robinson (Rep., Ky.). He said further:

"The colored people have never had any rights in this country except those that were fought for and sponsored by the Republican party.

"Where the Democrats are in absolute control, the colored man has no political rights.

"The fact that the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments were written into the Constitution by the Republican party is sneered at by some high-brow colored people. Ever since they were written in, the Democrats have been busy trying to work around them.

To Answer from the Floor

"Democrats don't show any favors where they have dehorned the colored man. They only palaver around in States where the Republicans have already put something in the colored man's hand—the vote!

"In my district in the Kentucky hills, we fought to keep out the Grandfather Clause, property requirements, the poll tax, and all the other tricks by which the Democrats tried to disfranchise the colored man—and we kept them out! Wait! I'm going to answer Mr. Mitchell—on the floor!"

Purely Political, Says Kansan

Mr. Lambertson, Kansas Republican, said:

"I missed Mr. Mitchell's speech. I haven't read it and I really haven't thought about it. It didn't have anything to do with the anti-lynching bill, did it?"

"I do not see how anything other than a purely political construction can be put on Mr. Mitchell's speech," said Representative Brewster of Maine. "His position is startling to those not intimately acquainted with the problem. Our impression is still very strong that the colored man has received more consideration in the Republican States of the North than in the Democratic States of the South.

What About South Carolina?

"How anyone intellectually honest can say that the colored vote is accorded consideration in the South—the center of the largest colored population—is beyond me. I have just returned from South Carolina. I carefully observed the situation of the colored people there, and I certainly didn't see any signs of consideration down there where there should be a substantial colored vote.

"It is bare-faced misrepresentation for Mr. Mitchell or anyone else to suggest this. There seemed to be consideration given to colored people on relief, but whether or not that was equitable is another thing. He was quite warranted in his reference to Republican reliance on the Civil War record and sitting back for fifty years on that. But he rendered a very poor service to the colored man in attempting to control his political alignment. I would say the same of a Republican.

Can't Align with Either Party

"I hold no brief for anything Republicans have done—or failed to do. We have our share of false prophets. Nevertheless, as certainly as the colored man becomes definitely aligned as a group, with either party, he will get nowhere.

"Segregation of the colored man politically renders a very poor service to the race or to the country."

Speech Printed

Representative Mitchell told the AFRO this week that, although he had received few letters on his speech, he had received numerous requests from Democratic members of the House for copies.

He said that fifty thousand copies had been printed, that one request called for 10,000 copies.

Unemotional

"Your speech was delivered in a manner to expose the truth, and to very forcefully bring up the position of your race."

This was the statement of Rep. Maury Maverick (D.) Texas.

"You did not let your emotions get the best of you, and you effectively handled a very deep and important subject."

NEW YORK, N. Y.

DAILY NEWS

APR 23 1936

House Gives Ovation To Colored Member

Washington, D. C., April 22 (AP).—House Democrats gave a standing ovation to Representative Mitchell (Dem., Ill.), only colored member, at the conclusion of a speech today warning the Republican Party it "no longer" had the colored vote "in its vest pocket." A half dozen times through the twenty-minute speech, Democrats applauded loudly.

"Only during the last four or five years have Negroes felt the Democratic Party was a safe place to live and vote." he said.

Political - 1936
Office Holding.

Illinois.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
May 10, 1936

A NEGRO CONGRESSMAN SPEAKS

Booker Washington's former office boy and one of The Advertiser's former carrier boys, is Arthur W. Mitchell, Democratic Congressman from one of the Chicago districts. He is the man who defeated Oscar DePriest, the Negro clown-Congressman who embarrassed every thoughtful Negro in the United States during his term in Congress. DePriest, by the way, was also a native Alabamian, having been born in or near Florence.

The tale seems incredible, but it is true nevertheless—a native Alabama Negro Democrat lived to beat a native Alabama Negro Republican for Congress in the predominantly Negro district of Chicago. Mitchell, the man now before us, did that.

Upon the election of Mitchell many observers, including The Advertiser, were impressed by his first interview, and The Advertiser immediately voiced its confidence in Mitchell. We do not recall the new Congressman's words, but the substance of what he said was this: "I do not wish to be known as a Negro Congressman—I wish to be known as an American Congressman". Such was this man's dignity and sense of responsibility that he did not wish to be known as the professional agent of a group. At last, we thought, the Negro had arrived, and so we applauded Mitchell.

Subsequently Mitchell made a personal call at the office of The Advertiser where he was plied with questions; he was thumped as a farmer would thump a watermelon. In the end The Advertiser decided that Mitchell was ripe enough to pull. He was found to be first a humanitarian, then a Negro, in his thought and feeling. He did not hate anybody but humbugs. He was found to be a gentle, compassionate, understanding man. We thought then as we think now that no man, whatever his color, can hope to rise above compassion and charity, along with racial understanding. We liked Mitchell.

Mitchell is a successful lawyer in Chicago. He is not beholden to the South. He owes his place in Congress to men and women who do not love the South. Most of these men and women are of his own color. Yet he found the courage recently to stand in his place in the House of Congress and say to both races:

> Mr. Speaker, while I shall speak at length of the meanings and the accomplishments of the "New Deal", both to the American nation and to the Negro, my first words must of necessity be an appeal to all those who hear me for a better understanding between the races in the Southland. In making this appeal I wish to qualify as being a student who has given years of careful study and thought to the problems of the South. I was born and reared in the South. Most of my years were spent in the South. I know the problems of this section of our country from more than 35 years of constant contact with them, and I know also that more than 8,000,000 of the 12,000,000 Negro population in this country reside in the South, and will remain there for the most part, and that the great problem of race adjustment must be worked out in the South.
>
> For years there have been earnest workers of both races who have sought to bring about a better understanding between the races and have pleaded and worked for a larger measure of justice for the Negro of the South. That fearless and matchless leader, Booker Washington, through his example, teachings, and lectures in the South, made perhaps the largest contribution to the fine work of inter-racial good will. Dr. Moton, his worthy successor and now president emeritus of Tuskegee, has continued to carry forward the fine work so well begun by Dr. Washington. I think the most important question or task that confronts you and me today is understanding each other and treating each other as right and justice demand that fellow men treat each other.
>
> It is my experience that it is always necessary for individuals whether of the same race or of different races, to understand each other and to exercise friendliness and tolerance one toward the other. This is essential in the best home. What husband or wife does not have to tolerate in the other something which is to some degree displeasing? Does it not pay there to exercise good judgment if peace and harmony are to prevail in the home? If this is true in a family, how much more is it true between individuals not so closely connected as are the members of a family. It is my observation that year by year conditions in the South are improving. I recognize the presence of great forces at work which are bringing about this racial understanding so necessary in the full development of the great resources of the South and to guarantee the safety of life, the freedom, happiness, and prosperity of all the citizens of this section of the country.

Continuing, Mitchell said:

"I am not unmindful of the fact that we have not yet reached the point of perfection, nor can we hope to reach it within a few decades, for after all we are human, with all the faults and frailties of human beings; but it is encouraging to see the great improvement that is being brought about through the activities of our schools, our churches, our fraternal organizations, the good newspapers, and through the Interracial Commission, which seeks to destroy race prejudice, establish justice, and bring about a complete understanding between the races. This assures us that the general trend is upward".

There follows a moving tribute to President Roosevelt and his Democratic administration in which the President is praised for his freedom from foolish prejudice and for his sense of fairness and justice for all races.

But what about lynchings? Naturally Negroes are especially interested in this question. They wish to know the truth, they wish to know whether there is progress or not. Mitchell knows that the whites have made substantial progress in their fight against the evil of lynching, and is willing to risk his place in Congress to testify that lynching is gradually giving way to the forces of civilization.

Regarding lynching and a bill against it which he has introduced in Congress, Mitchell says:

> There is no question in my mind but that the source of this Government at this time is absolutely pure. I have had many conferences with the President of the United States and know that he is without race prejudice and believes in an absolute square deal for all citizens, regardless of race, color, or previous condition. Whatever corruption there is in the governmental stream today does not come from the source and can, and I hope will, be corrected.
>
> No President has been more outspoken against the horrible crime of lynching than has Mr. Roosevelt. In speaking of lynching sometime ago he characterized it as "collective murder" and spoke of it as a crime which blackens the record of America. This crime should and must be wiped out. I have introduced a bill in the House which would make lynching a Federal crime and make the perpetrators of the crime punishable in the Federal courts. I believe that the day is not far hence when this legislation will be enacted into law. I wish to say, however, that I have no delusions about this important legislation. While I believe it is absolutely necessary, and I shall work for its passage whole-heartedly, I do not believe that the mere passing of the law will eliminate the crime. I should like to call attention to the fact that no major crime on the statute books of this country has been reduced with one-tenth of the rapidity as has lynching during the past 45 years.
>
> I have here a statement giving the number of lynchings covering a period of years from 1889 to 1934. I wish to call attention to the fact that the high peak in lynching was reached in 1892, when the population of the country was 65,665,810. There were 226 lynchings, or 1 person was lynched out of every 290,000 citizens of the country, or 3.4 persons were lynched out of every million of our population. Over against this I wish to call attention to the number of persons lynched in 1932, 40 years later, at which time the population had ncreased to 124,822,000. There were 8 lynchings, as compared with 226 in 1892. Instead of there being 1 person lynched out of every 290,000 citizens, there was 1 person lynched out of every 15,603,000. The ratio per million had been reduced from 3.4 to .07 of a person. The fine work done by our Christian institutions, our schools, and the InterRacial Organization is wonderfully reflected in this great reduction of lynching covering this period of 40 years.

Here is the speech of a black statesman. All that he says should appeal with as much force to Southern whites as to Southern blacks.

If a Southern white man cannot respect and heed counsel of this sort from a black man of sense and vision of this sort, he can heed nothing worth hearing.

CONGRESSMAN MITCHELL SPEAKS

In the Congressional Record under date of May 19, we find a speech delivered by the Hon. Arthur W. Mitchell, representing the first district of Illinois, on the subject of lynching. This speech was made by Mr. Mitchell in the state of Ohio, and in it Mr. Mitchell took Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia severely to task.

The Congressional Record also contains a telegram from Mr. Mitchell to the Georgia governor which reads as follows: "Because of the prevalence of the mob spirit in the state of Georgia at least three Negroes in your state have been the victims of these mobs, and have had their lives snuffed out during the past sixty days. So far as I have been able to learn you have uttered not word of condemnation of these mobs. Do you think that these colored people are entitled to the protection of the law and that as governor of the state you should at least condemn the atrocities of the bloody mobs that are spreading so much fear and havoc in the minds and souls of law-abiding people? Law-abiding citizens throughout our country are wondering what part the 'Georgia Woman's World' had in fanning the flames of race hatred into such a conflagration. Do you condone that?"

In this same Congressional Record is found an exchange of communications on the question of the Costigan-Wagner Anti-lynching Bill between Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Walter White, secretary of N.A.A.C.P. Their opinions will not at this time be made a subject of discussion. The observation, however, that Congressman Mitchell has taken a stand against southern mob violence, is timely.

We have opposed Mr. Mitchell when we thought he was wrong, and will just as vigorously commend him when we think he is right. It is not supposed that the governor of Georgia will make an official acknowledgment of this telegram. The governor is so circumscribed by the tradition of lynchers and lynchings that his political future would no doubt be hampered if he dared to condemn mob violence.

The serious aspect of Mr. Mitchell's telegram, however, is that part wherein the question is raised and a reply sought, in which is involved the attitude of a publication known as the "Georgia Woman's World." It will be recalled that this same publication had much to do with the attempt to use the sympathetic attitude of Mrs. Roosevelt with respect to colored people as a means of fostering race hatred with other white people throughout the South.

This was indeed regrettable. The conscience of right thinkers in America has always looked forward with the belief that out of the minds of the intelligent and considerate judgment of the womanhood of the nation would always emanate those qualities of soul and righteous thought calculated ever to solidify and sustain the nation. That Mrs. Roosevelt should have been attacked because of her sympathy and interest in the "man farthest down" by the supposedly enlightened women of her own race is a thing difficult to understand in a people who represent themselves as official torchbearers of a superior race.

MITCHELL KAYOS DePRIEST IN HECTIC CONGRESSIONAL BATTLE; GREAT MAJORITY IS POLLED

CATALINE SWEEPS WINDY CITY POLLING PLACES AND MAKES GOOD ON PREDICTIONS OF FORMER SOLON'S DEFEAT

Had Solid Backing Of White Democrats

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 4.—(By Telegraph ANP)—Oscar DePriest, former congressman from the 1st Congressional district, was completely swamped in his attempt return to the high office he once held by the present incumbent, Arthur W. Mitchell. The complete returns as compiled by the Associated Negro Press were: Mitchell 35,330; DePriest 28,182.

The complete upset of the former Republican chieftian is attributed to two causes: the overwhelming ....ew Deal landslide and the defection in the Republican organization created by old sores resulting from former campaigns.

The victory of Mitchell was somewhat in line with the prediction he made last week when he issued the following statement:

'I'll carry the district by a two-to-one majority," declared Mr. Mitchell last week. "I've never been more confident of victory in my life. I'll carry every precinct in the Second ward and base this assertion on the fact that Republicans in droves are joining forces with me to send me back to Congress."

Likened to Catiline

Mr. DePriest had the following to say:

"A crusade has been launched by the colored voters of the First district to drive Arthur W. Mitchell—our Catiline—from the halls of Congress, because of his proved conspiracy against us and because at the previous election he said:

" 'I do not need the colored vote and I am not to be the representative of the group in Congress.' He has certainly kept his word, he has certainly not represented us."

DePriest apparently was under the impression that he would have a walk-away with Mitchell. He spent much of his time during the past sixty days campaigning for the Presidential ticket and last week addressed a large audience in Philadelphia.

Mitchell, on the other hand, spent all of his time in the district and would not allow his time to be taken up with the national campaign. He is said to have had the 100 per cent support of the white Democrats in his district regarded as the richest congressional district in America.

When Oscar DePriest was elected to Congress in 1928, he was the first Negro to sit in the National Legislature in Washington for more than a quarter century. Millions of Negroes looked upon him as a symbol of a rising political power in the race, and many regarded him as the representative of all Negroes, rathen than a district delegate.

Active and always eager for a contest, his battles for equality for Negroes assumed dramatic aspects, and he was hailed throughout the nation on his speaking tours.

New Deal Beats Him

The New Deal landslide in 1932 vanquished DePriest at the end of his second term, and Mitchell was elected as the first Negro Democratic congressman. Mr. Mitchell frankly stated that he did not wish to be regarded as a national hero, and held that his first allegiance was to his district. He recognized a responsibility to the white voters who helped elect him and divided the patronage between the two races as he believed fair.

In Congress he never failed to fight injustice to the Negro, but he preferred methods which were less colorful and sought the friendship and aid of many Southedn white Democrats. A fervent disciple of Booker T. Washington, he believed that education and evolution would bring eventual emancipation in a wide range of fields.

This policy brought him enemies as well as friends, and encouraged Mr. DePriest to attempt a comeback.

Illinois.

Political-1936
Office Holding

Spartanburg, S. C. Journal
April 25, 1936

Quoting the Record

Something decidedly out of the ordinary occurred Wednesday in the National house of representatives. Arthur W. Mitchell, negro, who represents a Chicago district in congress as a Democrat, for the first time since becoming a member requested and received the speaker's permission to address the house. His speech was an attack on the Republican party and a defense of the New Deal and its champion.

That this attack on the G. O. P. came from the only negro ever to sit in the house as a Democrat did not detract from interest accorded the speaker. News stories say that Mitchell's utterances now and then were "punctuated with applause," while the faithful Congressional Record records at its conclusion the following line in brackets: (Prolonged applause with all Democrats standing.)

Representative Mitchell in exposing the claim of the Republican party that it had freed the negroes and that Abraham Lincoln had been elected president for the specific purpose of liberating the slaves, read from Lincoln's first inaugural address:

Apprehension seems to exist among the people of the southern states that by the accession of a Republican administration their property and their peace and personal security are to be endangered. There has never been any reasonable cause for such apprehension. Indeed, the most ample evidence to the contrary has all the while existed and been open to their inspection. It is found in nearly all the published speeches of him who now addresses you. I do but quote from one of those speeches when I declare that "I have no purpose, directly or indirectly, to interfere with the institution of slavery in the states where it exists. I believe I have no lawful right to do so, and I have no inclination to do so."

Mitchell also read the following extract from the platform of the Republican party in 1860:

That the maintenance inviolate of the rights of the states, and especially the right of each state to order and control its own domestic institutions according to its own judgment exclusively, is essential to that balance of power on which the perfection and endurance of our political fabric depends; and we denounce the lawless invasion by armed force of the soil of any state or territory, no matter under what pretext, as among the gravest of crimes.

A NEGRO CONGRESSMAN SPEAKS

Booker Washington's former office boy and one of The Advertiser's former carrier boys, is Arthur W. Mitchell, Democratic Congressman from one of the Chicago districts. He is the man who defeated Oscar DePriest, the Negro clown-Congressman who embarrassed every thoughtful Negro in the United States during his term in Congress. DePriest, by the way, was a native Alabamian, having been born in or near Florence.

The tale seems incredible, but it is true nevertheless—a native Alabama Negro Democrat lived to beat a native Alabama Negro Republican for Congress in the predominantly Negro district of Chicago. Mitchell, the man now before us, did that.

Upon the election of Mitchell many observers, including The Advertiser, were impressed by his first interview, and The Advertiser immediately voiced its confidence in Mitchell. We do not recall the new Congressman's words, but the substance of what he said was this: "I do not wish to be known as a Negro Congressman—I wish to be known as an American Congressman". Such was this man's dignity and sense of responsibility that he did not wish to be known as the professional agent of a group. At last, we thought, the Negro had arrived, and so we applauded Mitchell.

Subsequently Mitchell made a personal call at the office of The Advertiser where he was plied with questions; he was thumped as a farmer would thump a watermelon. In the end The Advertiser decided that Mitchell was ripe enough to pull. He was found to be first a humanitarian, then a Negro, in his thought and feeling. He did not hate anybody but humbugs. He was found to be a gentle, compassionate, understanding man. We thought then as we think now that no man, whatever his color, can hope to rise above compassion and charity, along with racial understanding. We liked Mitchell

---

Mitchell is a successful lawyer in Chicago. He is not beholden to the South. He owes his place in Congress to men and women who do not love the South. Most of these men and women are of his own color. Yet he found the courage recently to stand in his place in the House of Congress and say to both races:

Mr. Speaker, while I shall speak at length of the meanings and the accomplishments of the "New Deal", both to the American nation and to the Negro, my first words must of necessity be an appeal to all those who hear me for a better understanding between the races in the Southland. In making this appeal I wish to qualify as being a student who has given years of careful study and thought to the problems of the South. I was born and reared in the South. Most of my years were spent in the South. I know the problems of this section of our country from more than 35 years of constant contact with them, and I know also that more than 8,000,000 of the 12,000,000 Negro population in this country reside in the South, and will remain there for the most part, and that the great problem of race adjustment must be worked out in the South.

For years there have been earnest workers of both races who have sought to bring about a better understanding between the races and have pleaded and worked for a larger measure of justice for the Negro of the South. That fearless and matchless leader, Booker Washington, through his example, teachings, and lectures in the South, made perhaps the largest contribution to the fine work of inter-racial good will. Dr. Moton, his worthy successor and now president emeritus of Tuskegee, has continued to carry forward the fine work so well begun by Dr. Washington. I think the most important question or task that confronts you and me today is understanding each other and treating each other as right and justice demand that fellow men treat each other.

It is my experience that it is always necessary for individuals whether of the same race or of different races, to understand each other and to exercise friendliness and tolerance one toward the other. This is essential in the best home. What husband or wife does not have to tolerate in the other something which is to some degree displeasing? Does it not pay there to exercise good judgment if peace and harmony are to prevail in the home? If this is true in a family, how much more is it true between individuals not so closely connected as are the members of a family. It is my observation that year by year conditions in the South are improving. I recognize the presence of great forces at work which are bringing about this racial understanding so necessary in the full development of the great resources of the South and to guarantee the safety of life, the freedom, happiness, and prosperity of all the citizens of this section of the country.

Continuing, Mitchell said:

"I am not unmindful of the fact that we have not yet reached the point of perfection, nor can we hope to reach it within a few decades, for after all we are human, with all the faults and frailties of human beings; but it is encouraging to see the great improvement that is being brought about through the activities of our schools, our churches, our fraternal organizations, the good newspapers, and through the Interracial Commission, which seeks to destroy race prejudice, establish justice, and bring about a complete understanding between the races. This assures us that the general trend is upward".

There follows a moving tribute to President Roosevelt and his Democratic administration in which the President is praised for his freedom from foolish prejudice and for his sense of fairness and justice for all races.

But what about lynchings? Naturally Negroes are especially interested in this question. They wish to know the truth, they wish to know whether there is progress or not. Mitchell knows that the whites have made substantial progress in their fight against the evil of lynching, and is willing to risk his place in Congress to testify that lynching is gradually giving way to the forces of civilization.

Regarding lynching and a bill against it which he has introduced in Congress Mitchell says:

There is no question in my mind but that the source of this Government at this time is absolutely pure. I have had many conferences with the President of the United States and know that he is without race prejudice and believes in an absolute square deal for all citizens, regardless of race, color, or previous condition. Whatever corruption there is in the governmental stream today does not come from the source and can, and I hope will, be corrected.

No President has been more outspoken against the horrible crime of lynching than has Mr. Roosevelt. In speaking of lynching sometime ago he characterized it as "collective murder" and spoke of it as a crime which blackens the record of America. This crime should and must be wiped out. I have introduced a bill in the House which would make lynching a Federal crime and make the perpetrators of the crime punishable in the Federal courts. I believe that the day is not far hence when this legislation will be enacted into law. I wish to say, however, that I have no delusions about this important legislation. While I believe it is absolutely necessary, and I shall work for its passage whole-heartedly, I do not believe that the mere passing of the law will eliminate the crime. I should like to call attention to the fact that no major crime on the statute books of this country has been reduced with one-tenth of the rapidity as has lynching during the past 45 years.

I have here a statement giving the number of lynchings covering a period of years from 1889 to 1934. I wish to call attention to the fact that the high peak in lynching was reached in 1892, when the population of the country was 65,665,810. There were 226 lynchings, or 1 person was lynched out of every 290,000 citizens of the country, or 3.4 persons were lynched out of every million of our population. Over against this I wish to call attention to the number of persons lynched in 1932, 40 years later, at which time the population had ncreased to 124,822,000. There were 8 lynchings, as compared with 226 in 1892. Instead of there being 1 person lynched out of every 290,000 citizens, there was 1 person lynched out of every 15,603,000. The ratio per million had been reduced from 3.4 to .07 of a person. The fine work done by our Christian institutions, our schools, and the InterRacial Organization is wonderfully reflected in this great reduction of lynching covering this period of 40 years.

Here is the speech of a black statesman. All that he says should appeal with as much force to Southern whites as to Southern blacks.

If a Southern white man cannot respect and heed counsel of this sort from a black man of sense and vision of this sort, he can heed nothing worth hearing.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
April 28, 1936

The Issue Draws Near

It was a good speech that Representative Mitchell, negro Democrat of Chicago, delivered in congress; what he said about the Republican failure to help the negroes is true, and that some of his fellow Democratic congressman "stood on their feet and cheered" was natural behavior. The Democratic applause rang.

Time was when white Democrats in Charleston and other parts of South Carolina "stood on their feet and cheered" negro Democrats. (See Williams' "Hampton and His Red Shirts.")

From Mitchell's speech this is especially interesting:

"He pledged the support of negro voters to the Democratic party and asserted that in twenty-three states where negroes voted, there would be 2,400,000 votes cast next fall for President Roosevelt and the Democratic party."

Senator Smith, Senator Byrnes, District Attorney Sapp (we include you, Mr. Sapp, because you are smarter than most of the South Carolina politicians), Chairman Leppard, Governor Johnston, you are asked questions:

With 2,400,000 negroes voting the Democratic ticket (or 1,000,000 for that matter) in twenty-three states, will you be able to exclude indefinitely negroes from the Democratic party in South Carolina and from voting?

Presuming that you are rational men whom your legislature would not send psychiatrists to examine, do you think that with the national Democratic party the political agency and hope of American negroes, you will be allowed to boycott negro Democrats politically in your state?

Your national party is now the national negro party. You know it is. One of you senators would not dare dispute it lest you damaged your party's chances of victory You've got to join in the applause for Mitchell.

We tell you that the negroes in the twenty-t[illegible] states, whose votes are courted by the Democratic party, mean to see that the negroes vote in forty-eight states, and they mean to effect just that object through your party.

What have you got to say about it, you South Carolina leaders of the Democratic party? Nothing, of course. You have got nothing to say about anything except perhaps what you get from the treasury.

Yet this question is the gravest that confronts the white people of South Carolina and it is immediately in front whether you leaders of The News and Courier think so or not.

The News and Courier already has suggested an answer.

You "leaders" are afraid, for your political skins, of all political issues that seriously affect your people. Silence is your method. You cannot afford to be honest with yourselves and speak your minds. God pity you politicians.

Mitchell Charges Bring Challenge From Howard

Journal

Says Congressman Elected By Colored Voters, Not Democrats

5-5-36

Taking issue with statements made by Congressman Arthur W Mitchell concerning the Republican party and its relationship to the Negro, Perry W. Howard, national Republican committeeman, wrote the Illinois representative this week challenging him to engage with him in a series of public debates on the issues involved between the two major parties.

Hits Republicans

Mitchell, on the floor of Congress a few days ago, declared that the Republican party had failed the Negro, and that the Negro owes nothing to the Republican party or to Abraham Lincoln.

"Thousands of us deny each and all of these allegations of yours," Howard wrote, "and regret that there was no member of the race present to answer you."

"As a member of the National Executive Committee of the National Republican Party, I know that your statement does not represent the attitude of the Republican Party, and being the representative of a state that has more colored people than any other state, and the only state in which there are more colored than white citizens, I feel it incumbent upon me to refuse to allow your unwarranted and unsupported statements to go unchallenged."

Howard told Mitchell that the debates would be held in New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago and any other points that might be agreeable to the Representative.

Base Ingratitude

"If the challenge is not accepted," Howard wrote, "I shall proceed to argue these questions in your absence: to show the ridiculousness of your utterances; to show the base ingratitude on the part of those who take the position that you do towards your benefactors; to show that you have to leave the stronghold of the very party that you defend in order to hold the position you occupy, and that even now you are holding a position that was given to you by colored voters and not by Democrats."

MITCHELL HEARD AT TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Negro Congressman From Illinois Praises Washington And New Deal

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., June 13.—(Special)—Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, the first member of the negro race to be elected to Congress on the Democratic ticket, and who represents the first congressional district of Illinois, addressed the large attendance at the Summer School, members of the faculty, community townspeople and students in Logan Hall at the 11 a.m. assembly today.

The congressman's brief visit was filled with strenuous activity from the hour of his arrival until his departure on the evening train for Washington where he was hurrying to be present for important legislation that will come up in the Congress this week.

Congressman Mitchell was presented to the audience by Dr. W. T. B. Williams, vice-president of Tuskegee Institute, who said the school was glad to welcome so distinguished a son back to the campus. Congressman Mitchell spoke for more than an hour. He eulogized Booker T. Washington who gave him an opportunity to work his way through Tuskegee Institute, whom he served as orderly, and on whose grave he placed a wreath in "reference to the man who made it possible for me to obtain an education, to become an independent, self-respecting citizen, and whose memory it will ever be a blessing for me to honor," said the distinguished visitor.

Congressman Mitchell praised President Roosevelt and commended the new deal measures of the administration. He predicted a Democratic victory in November. He spoke highly of the attitude of the press and its appreciation of the work that he is doing and called attention to the recent editorials that have appeared in The Montgomery Advertiser. He also expressed appreciation of the encouragement that he had received from Mr. Grover Hall, editor of The Advertiser.

The congressman recounted many of his experiences since he became a member of the House. The most gratifying and pleasant were the courteous consideration shown him by his Democratic colleagues.

A brief tour of inspection of the grounds of the veterans administration facility and a tour of the institute campus, concluded the congressman's visit to Tuskegee.

Political - 1936

Indiana.

Office Holding.

Deputy Coroner

DR. WOODS

Dr. Charles R. Woods one of the eight deputy coroners was appointed to serve with the newly elected coroner Dr. J. Robert Doty who was sworn into office Thursday.

Dr. Woods resides at 810 West 25th avenue and has been a practicing physician in Gary since 1925. He served in the former Mayor Johnson's Cabinet as a member of the Board of Health, from 1931 to 1935.

He is president of the Fellowship Club of the Roosevelt District a club composed of all business and professional men south of the Pennsylvania railroad tracks to the Little Calumet river, president of the Gary Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Association, and treasurer of the Indiana State Medical Association.

Dr. Wood is a graduate of the Knoxville College, Knoxville Tenn. of the class of 1905 and practiced medicine in that city for 20 years.

Deputy Coroner

GARY, IND.
POST-TRIBUNE

MAY 19 1936

NEGRO GUIDES COUNCIL FOR FIRST TIME

Vice-President Takes Chair 10 Minutes At Meeting

A Negro councilman presided over the city council last night for the first time in the history of Gary. Vice-President Robert L. Anderson handled the gavel for the final 10 minutes of the three-hour session in the temporary absence of President James A. Sweeney.

It fell to Anderson's lot to hear motions on the councilmanic complaints that are wont to wind up most sessions. He also adjourned the meeting.

Councilman L. B. Snowden was in the midst of his usual list of remarks on varied subjects when Sweeney left the chair and Anderson marched up to take the gavel.

Asks Parking Lot Lights

The Miller councilman's motion to have street lamps installed in alley 1 and 2 between 5th and 6th and in alley 2 between 7th and 8th to furnish light for parking lots at these locations was placed before the group by Anderson, following a second by Michael J. Hartnett. The motion was adopted unanimously.

While President Sweeney waited on the rostrum for his chair the youthful vice-president heard the following matters:

Complaint by Councilman C. E. Rolf of a flooded area at 48th and Broadway dangerous to children. The council voted to notify the owner to erect safeguards.

Request of Councilman Edward Krieger to have stone being removed from Ridge Road (under construction) used to fill holes on the east side of Broadway between 34th and 37th. As chairman of the welfare committee, Krieger was instructed to investigate the possibility.

Stein Criticised

Previous to Anderson's assuming the chairmanship Snowden had assailed the practice of the park department in excluding bicycles from Marquette park, requested an ordinance be drawn so Miller depositors of a utility fee might be repaid by the city, and criticised Willard W. Stein, vice-president of the park board, for "not knowing the difference between a private and a city cemetery."

The allusion to cemeteries was in reply to Stein's published remark that if the park department were to assume responsibility for the Miller cemetery, as wished by Snowden, then before long it would be asked to do the same for other cemeteries.

On a motion by Miss Katharine Patton, seconded by Anderson, the council voted to have department heads furnish each member with regular progress reports and have them ready several days before council meetings.

Political - 1936
Office Holding.

Kansas.

Jno. Wright is 70 Years Old

Topeka Man Employed by Shawnee County 41 Years

TOPEKA—Object of many warm handshakes Thursday at the courthouse was John Wright, veteran deputy county treasurer, who has been working for Shawnee County forty-one out of the past forty-four years.

Reason for the handshaking was that Wright was celebarting the 70th anniversary of his birth. He has lived in Topeka for fifty years.

It was back in 1862 that John Wright began working for Shawnee county, as deputy clerk. Since that time, he has been at the courthouse, with the exceution of two years as city treasurer, six months at the postoffice and six months with the Army Y. M. C. A. during the war.

He went with the Y. M. C. A., in hopes he could go to France and be near his son, who was in the American army.

He has served two terms as county clerk, and once was county treasurer for a year's period, appointed by the board of county commissioners.

He is widely known by residents of Shawnee county; nearly everyone who enters the treasurer's office calls him either "John" or "Mr. Wright.

"I like it," he said today. "I like to meet people. I like to be near them. I've enjoyed my seventy years of life, and I've enjoyed my years at the courthouse tremendously."

Kansans Win Election Board Appointments

City Of Parsons' Mayor Forced To Name Three Women

PARSONS, Kans., Aug. —(ANP) A victorious court decision, one directly affecting the franchise rights of Negroes in every Jim Crow state in the nation, was handed down this week upholding the right of Parsons Negroes to serve as election officials and naming three colored women to serve in this capacity for the Second Precinct of the Third Ward.

The decision came after a hard fought battle for representation on the city's election board waged by J. W. Wright, colored Republican precinct committeeman, with Elisha Scott, well known Topeka attorney, representing the women plaintiffs in the case.

Seeks Writ of Mandamus

Attorney Scott, in order to force a showdown in the matter and determine the attitude of city officials, on July 30, filed a petition for a writ of mandamus in the state supreme court, alleging that the city refused to appoint as election officials the persons recommended, as provided by law.

Political–1936
Office-Holding.

Kentucky.

Contest Seat Of Kentucky's First Race Assemblyman

Crowd Sees Anderson Sworn In

—BULLETIN—

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 10—Papers contesting the seat of Assemblyman Charles W. Anderson, Jr., only Race representative in the history of the state, were formally filed here Tuesday by C. Eubanks Tucker of Louisville who was defeated by Anderson in the recent election. Tucker, a Democrat, charges fraud at the polls. Tucker, who is an attorney and presiding elder in the AME church is depending on the Democratic majority in the House to lend a kind ear to his plea. Anderson claimed victory over him by a three to one vote.

By LUCIUS C. HARPER
(Staff Correspondent)

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 10—For the first time in history of Kentucky a black man raised his hand in the House of Representatives at the state capitol here Tuesday at noon and was officially sworn in as representative from the 58th legislative district. This area represented by him is almost an exclusive Race center.

He was Hon. Charles W. Anderson, Jr., a young and brilliant attorney of Louisville, who was the only Republican in that city to claim victory in a Democratic landslide. Assemblyman Anderson, who is only 28-year-old, won his seat in a hotly contested fight against C. Eubanks Tucker, attorney and clergyman, who ran on the Democratic ticket. A white man also ran, but gained only sixty-four votes. Tucker is presiding elder of an AME district in Louisville. At the final count Anderson had beaten Tucker by a three to one vote.

No Color Line

The Kentucky general assembly is made up of a hundred representatives and thirty-eight senators. Sixty-seven Democrats and thirty-three Republicans compose the House of Representatives, and twenty-six Democrats and twelve Republicans make up the senate.

Anderson, according to alphabetical arrangement, was assigned a seat in the front of the House. He is flanked on each side by white representatives from mountain districts.

The seating of Anderson as a legislator occasioned much rejoicing among citizens of our race here. First, he was a home-town boy, and second, because the event marked the end of an eighteen years' political struggle by leaders of the Race in Louisville to have a representative at the capital. Ever since 1919 a Race man has run for this office at every election without success, although the district has been ninety-five per cent of our race. Many years ago W. D. Johnson tried for the legislature, but the old slogan "the time is not ripe," used against many pioneers in the political field, defeated him. The voters, however, decided in the last election that the "the time was rotten ripe" and chose Anderson.

Lee L. Brown, special correspondent of The Chicago Defender and a staunch Republican, has filed his petition to run for the legislature since 1921. He was defeated by Anderson in the primary.

Flowers For Anderson

Brown, though an unsuccessful candidate, is given credit by Louisville citizens for keeping the desire alive among voters to place a black man in the Kentucky General Assembly.

Kentucky—Louisville to be exact—permits of many contradictions in its program of segregation. It Jim Crows you in its railroad station but permits you to ride anywhere on its street cars. Its white axi-cabs will accommodae you only upon request of a white person. Its galleries at the state capitol are open to all alike, and when Anderson took his seat it resembled a human bouquet.

Anderson arrived at the capitol building at 10:30 o'clock in the morning from Louisville. He was accompanied by a delegation of friends and his camaipgn manager, Dr. C. L. Thomas, prominent Louisville dentist. He was met at the capitol entrance by a delegation of Frankfort citizens headed by Dr. E. E. Underwood, among whom was the legislator's mother, Mrs. Tabitha L. Anderson. Pride was written on her face.

Embraces Mother

Anderson embraced his mother, and the two, arm in arm, marched up the huge stone steps to the entrance of the assembly room where he received felicitations from many white legislators. Applause from the gallery greeted him as he strode down the aisle of the General Assembly to take his seat. Anderson, who is unaffected by the honor, bowed in recognition of the greeting and took his seat. The house was soon called to order and at noon Kentucky's historian wrote on a new chapter which signalled the coming of a black man as one of its law-makers.

The new representative is a graduate of Kentucky State college, Wilberforce university and Howard University School of Law; president of the Louisville Branch, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity.

A member of the Elks and Masonic lodges, Paul Laurence Dunbar Republican club, Frederick Douglass Protective club, Advisory Committee of the Family Service Organization, Woman's Progressive League, Parent-Teachers Association and Ladies' Loyal Republican club; a member of Quinn Chapel AME church and resides at 1331 W. Chestnut street with law offices at 614 W Walnut street

Kentucky's 1st Legislator Of Color Describes His Law-Making Program

FRANKFORT, Ky.—(C)—Charles W. Anderson, Jr., newly elected first Negro representative in the Kentucky legislature from the 58th district, Jefferson County (Louisville), has outlined his program for the race in his state. He says in part:

"My first bill introduced in the Kentucky Legislature was House Bill 148, which, provides that the state pay the tuition of students compelled to pursue professional and graduate education at institutions outside of the state.

"My second bill was to create the office of a Third Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney for the City of Louisville. My purpose for drafting this type of bill was to open the avenue for the future possible appointment of a Negro.

"My third bill relates to both races. It provides that any teacher having taught school for five years within this state may marry and retain her job.

"A fourth bill provides for the state to pay the expenses necessary in the defense of persons charged with felonies, who are unable to employ counsel. A pauper's bill, and especially helpful to our race.

"My whole program concerns legislation where necessary to create or open avenues of employment for our race; to give us better educational opportunities and better schools, and to abolish discrimination in the employment of our race on state projects. Likewise, I am interested in progressive legislation irrespective of race or those matters which will aid the progress of Kentucky."

Political - 1936

Office Holding.

Liberia

Capt. William Nabors Sails To Assume Post in Liberia

When the Ss. Otho of the Barber Line sailed from Brooklyn at noon on Thursday, aboard were Capt. William D. Nabors of Orange, N. J., new military adviser of Liberia, his wife and their three children, Mayme, 11; Durward, 9, and Jane, 2.

Neither Capt. nor Mrs. Nabors will be approaching alien soil, since he finished out the unexpired term of Col. Charles Young, who died in Liberia in 1919, and she, then Miss Nahketah Williams, a graduate Lincoln Hospital nurse, served for several years as missionary for the M. E. Church. The couple were married there in 1923 prior to their return to this country.

Capt. Nabors, who has carved for himself a brilliant military career, will be a professor in the College of Military Science and will instruct and train the officers of the Liberian army. A lieutenant in the 366th Infantry during the World War, Capt. Nabors has served in the army since 1909.

3-28-36

Since his return to this country, the new military adviser has devoted much time to religious, social and civic affairs in Orange. He is a member of the Planning Committee of Orange, the board of management of the Y. M. C. A., adviser to the N. A. A. C. P. and the Negro Business League, and a member of the board of trustees of St. John's M. E. Church.

Lester Walton Heads Liberia Diplomatic Corps

MONROVIA, LIBERIA, —(ANP—Foreign News Service) For the first time in history, the foreign diplomatic representatives in Liberia have organized and adopted a protocol of rules of precedence. Hon. Lester A. Walton, United States Minister to Liberia has been elected Doyon, or dean of the group, which includes representatives from the Papal State, France, Great Britian and Germany. All have wives, except of course, the Papal State representative, and they have acknowledged Mrs. Walton, wife of the American minister, as the first lady of the diplomatic corps. The diplomats hold a business meeting once each month, and with their wives, alternate in planning social entertainment.

Political -1936
Office Holding.

Massachusetts

CURLEY REAPPOINTS NEGRO SECRETARY

Boston — (AP)—William L. Reed, 70-year-old Negro, born of slave parents, has received reappointment as executive secretary from Gov. James M. Curley, one of 14 Massachusetts governors whom he has served.

Reed, quiet, gracious and impeccably dressed, became 70 years old Sunday, and thus ordinarily became subject to pension retirement under state law. Gov. Curley, however, obtained a ruling from the attorney-general that Reed's position did not come under the state pension system and that he could be retained in office.

BIGHAMS GETS CITY POSITION

Mayor Apoints Him to Election Department

Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield, on July 1, appointed John W. Bighams, Treasurer of the Mass. Colored Men Democratic Club as a Clerk in the Election Department at City Hall.

Mr. Bighams has been active for many years in the civic and political life of Boston, having idetnified himself with the Democratic Party just before the rising tide of democracy in Ward Nine and the State in 1928.

In more recent years, democracy has taken an incentive rugged stride under the militant efforts of what is sometime labeled, the "Dr. Worthy-Dr. Gray-Kenny-Bighams-Dr. Starkey wing," with their ardent exponents in local and State Democracy.

Mr. Bighams is a trustee of Gloucester Memorial Presbyterian Church; a member of Commonwealth Lodge of Elks and other fraternal bodies of Boston, and is a graduate of Ballard Normal School of Macon, Ga. At graduation he was Ivy Orator; President of his class and President of the Nu Kappa Psi Society of honorary students in the senior divisions of the school. He commences his duties with the rating of a first year clerk at $1600 a year, he is the second person to be appointed from the club, Mr. David S. Kenney being appointed a constable in the collecting department, 1935.

JOHN W. BIGHAMS

FORD NAMES NED GOURDIN

Eastern Director Rainey Lent Timely Support

Honor as a lawyer quite different to those he earned as an athlete and a soldier came to Atty. Edward O. Gourdin on Thursday, when he was appointed Asst. U. S. District Attorney by U. S. Atty. Francis J. W. Ford. Atty. Julian D. Rainey, Eastern director of Colored Democrats, was instrumental in securing the appointment.

Capt. Gourdin, wh is 38 years of age is a gaduate of Cambridge High and Latin; Harvard College (1921), B.A.; and Harvard Law (1924), LL. B. He has practiced law for eleven years and is a member of the State and Federal Bar.

At Harvard College he was a noted athlete, and was the first to broad jump more than 25 feet. He was also a National Pentathlon winner and a member of the 1924 Olympic team to Paris.

Mr. Gourdin is also a Captain in the 3rd Battalion, 372nd Infantry, M. N. G., and a crack shot with many laurels to prove it. He was a member of the Massachusetts Rifle team on two occasions. In fraternal circles he is one of the oldest members of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity.

He is married and resides with his family on Haley Street, Roxbury.

The CHRONICLE wishes to congratulate Capt. Gourdin on his appointment.

NAME GOURDIN ASST. U.S. ATTY.

WELL KNOWN ATHLETE AND MEMBER OF MASS. BAR RECEIVED APPOINTMENT THIS WEEK—COMPETED IN OLYMPICS OF 1924 IN PARIS

Edward Orval ("Ned") Gourdin, of this city has just been appointed an assistant U. S. District Attorney and is receiving the congratulations of his friends.

Mr. Gourdin received his education as follows: Stanton High School, Jacksonville, Fla., Cambridge High and Latin School, 1917; graduate of Harvard Law School with the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

He was voted "most athletic" in the 1921 Hall of Fame, largely due to his setting a new world's record in the broad jump in his senior year, five times breaking the Harvard record for the event during his college career.

He was ten times winner of the New England Championship; twice National Champion in the Pentathlon; National and Intercollegiate Champion in the running broad jump in 1921; member of the United States Olympic Team in 1924 and winner of second place at Paris that year. He is a two time member of the Massachusetts National Guard Rifle Team, which in 1931 lost the National Championship by two points and which in 1933 won the National Guard Championship by several points, the highest shooting award of the government. Captain in the Massachusetts National Guard, Commanding Company M, 372d Infantry; Member of the State and Federal Bars.

Mr. Gourdin is a practising attorney in Massachusetts with offices at 412 Mass. ave. He is 38 years old and lives with his wife and four children in Boston where he is registered as a Democrat.

Political - 1936

Office Holding

Mississippi.

Mound Bayou P. O. Head Reappointed

WASHINGTON. April 24—President Franklin D. Roosevelt sent to the Senate on April 13 the nomination of Cornelius V. Thurmond to be postmaster at Mound Bayou, Miss. The nomination is a reappointment. Mr. Thurmond's commission expired March 23.

Political—1936
Office Holding.

Missouri.

When He Took His Seat Monday

JUDGE GEORGE L. VAUGHN

With friends and flowers Judge George L. Vaughn formally took his office as Justice of the Peace of the Fourth Constabulary District Monday morning, January 20, to fill the vacancy left through the death of the late Judge Charles H. Turpin. As is customary a brief ceremony was held which included felicitations from members of the bar and friends.

Among the speakers was Rev. John F. Moreland, pastor of Metropolitan A. M. E. Zion Church who paid a splendid tribute to Mr. Vaughn as a lawyer and a citizen, stating that he had known Judge Vaughn for many years and had found him to be honest, ever faithful and true to his friends. Attorney William L. Igoe, president of the Board of Police Commissioners, who congratulated Mr. Vaughn upon his appointment said that he had known Mr. Vaughn for many years, having first met him when the latter returned from the army and visited him when Mr. Igoe was a member of Congress of the Eleventh District. He also stated that he regarded Mr. Vaughn as a great leader among his people and had every confidence that he would make good in his new environment.

Other speakers were Joseph P. Harris, who pledged his hearty support to the newly appointed judge. Attorney Joseph McLemore, among other things said: "I am mighty pleased to felicitate you this morning, Judge Vaughn, and to wish you success during your term of office. When my classmate, Frank Bledsoe, was being installed as Judge I made this statement, that we move forward inch by inch, not as we should, but as the vicissitudes fortune of the communities in which we live will permit us."

Rev. Owens: "I am very happy and pleased to be present this morning with this gathering on entering into the office of Justice of the Peace of this our citizen and friend, Lawyer George L. Vaughn. I want to say that there is not a better citizen, colored or white, in this whole country than George L. Vaughn; a star in the apex of citizenship; a man who loved God and the church of Christ."

Atty. Stocker: "I am delighted to be here today and see our good friend, George Vaughn, inducted into office. The member of the bar are striving to get higher type men to take up work of this type. I think George Vaughn has done this city and community a great service. Yes, he has rendered it a great service in accepting this position."

Atty. Garner: "I don't think there could have been found a more honest fellow about what he believes to be right. He may not agree with you, but he agrees with himself. That is the kind of man you need. Decisions of a court cannot be made unless you can get a man honest with himself. He will qualify, from a legal standpoint, with any man, and I don't mean only black. Not only is he qualified to serve as Justice of the Peace, but Vaughn can serve in any judiciary position in this state. He has accepted this office as a Democrat. He is neither a Republican, a Democrat or an Independent. He is Justice of the Peace of this district for these people in the district and for me."

Rev. Abbott: "Brother Vaughn, I am glad to congratulate you. I am very happy this morning to congratulate Brother Vaughn in this position. I strove very hard, with a lot of others, some years ago to try to send him to Congress and made a strenuous campaign to put him in congress. I thought he ought to be there. Well, he may be on his way now. This may be one of the steps to get him into Congress. He is not only a hard worker and an honest representative, but when he makes up his mind it is made up, and you don't change him easily. What he believes to be right, he not only stands for it, but fights for it. He will not only fight here, but he will fight anywhere else. Brother Vaughn, we put our trust in you. You are our representative. I want to say that all my folks will be with you (and there are few thousand out there), and we congratulate you on your position."

Constable Langston Harrison: "It is indeed an honor to have a word to say in behalf of Judge Vaughn because it is a relationship between Judge Vaughn and myself that don't many of you know about — we are both Kentuckians. I am pleased at the judgment and action of the Circuit Court in selecting a man of this type to serve as Justice of the Peace and I know that he will make a successful Jutice."

Judge Bledsoe: "We are plased indeed to have the privilege of witnessing this occasion. I thought I would not be able to be here on account of being out of the city because of death in our family. I want to congratulate the judges for their fine selection of a man so well equipped and capable to fill the position. I doubt if there is a better informed man on the history of the Negro race in the country than is our new Justice. His appointment is the result of work and cooperation on the part of the Negroes and I congratulate you and will do all in my power to help make your administration a success."

Attorney Charles H. Houston, special counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was introduced and spoke briefly stressing the importance of the lower court in their relation to the populace. He said that if he had his way he would make a salary for the judges of the United States Supreme Court $3000 a year and he would pay the judges in the lower courts, which serve the poor people, $15,000 a year.

Judge Vaughn: In response to the felicitations Judge Vaughn, among other things said: "My friends, my heart is filled to overflowing this morning. It overflows because of the reality of the deep sentiment and feeling which you have been kind enough to express here and which you have expressed through the years. It is filled also because I realize the grave responsibility which this office places upon my shoulders. I stand here this morning surrounded by friends. Who could want anything better? I don't know how good a Justice I will be, but I promise you this, that it shall be my endeavor to make this the best Justice of the Peace Court that Geo. Vaughn can make it. I shall do in this as I have done in other fields—give it the very best that I have in me. I want to thank Colonel Igoe for being here. He is sitting here this morning, letting other matters go undone because of a friendship which we have enjoyed throughout the years."

Here Judge Vaughn paid a special tribute to Jordan Chambers and to the Cooperative Civic Association, with which organization he has worked for a long time. At this point he invited Mrs. Vaughn to the platform and introduced her to the audience. This was followed by an introduction of all the lawyers and ministers.

Judge Vaughn was selected by the judges of the City of Saint Louis January 17 to fill the office of Justice of the Peace, left vacant by the death of Judge Charles H. Turpin. He had the endorsement of the Mound City Bar Association and many individual friends.

Dr. Edward L. Grant presided at the ceremony and Rev. Joseph Gomez, pastor of St. Paul A. M. E. Church, gave the invocation.

NAMED

DR. L. M. TILLMAN

Prominent Kansas City, Mo., physician, who has been officially named one of the state's physicians by the Missouri athletic commission. He is the first Negro to hold such a position.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
STAR TIMES

APR 11 1936

VOTE OF 50,000 IN ST. CLAIR COUNTY EXPECTED TUESDAY

Interest Centering in Fight of Candidates for Gubernatorial Nomination.

One hundred and seventy-four candidates will seek nomination for national, state and county officers Tuesday in the St. Clair County, Illinois, primaries. A total of 50,000—35,000 Democratic and 15,000 Republican—is expected by County Clerk D. A. Prindable.

Thirty-four nominations in each of the major parties are to be made. They are: Governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney general, two congressmen-at-large, congressman from the twenty-second district, two delegates to the national nominating convention, two alternate delegates, state central committeeman, two state legislators, three senatorial committeemen, five trustees of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, clerk of the circuit court, county recorder of deeds, state's attorney, coroner, county auditor, member of the board of review, two members to fill a vacancy.

Interest in the election is centered about the Democratic fight between Gov. Henry Horner and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen for the nomination for governor. The governor is backed by the county Democratic organization, while Dr. Bundesen has the support of Bruce A. Campbell of East St. Louis, chairman of the state Democratic committee; Louis Menges, state senator, and Emmett P. Griffin, superintendent of the East St. Louis Park District.

Horner's campaign in the county is in the hands of John J. Hallihan, director of the state department of education and registration, and Fred Merrills, Belleville attorney and chairman of the County Democratic committee.

Precinct Control Contest.

Connected with the Horner-Bundesen fight is a battle between Hallihan and Griffin for control of the eighty-three precincts in East St Louis. They were principals in a similar fight four years ago. Hallihan won and retained control of the city committee, which he has controlled for eight years.

Two candidates for county offices on the Democratic ballot are unopposed. They are Charles G. Becker, seeking his third term as clerk of the circuit court at Belleville, and Louis P. Zerweck, seeking his second term as state's attorney.

Dr. W. W. Boyne, incumbent, and Dr. Leo L. Madden are candidates for the Democratic nomination for coroner. Robert W. Tiernan of East St. Louis again seeks the nomination for county auditor. John J. Dengler, former Belleville city clerk, has the backing of the Hallihan faction for auditor.

Interest in Race for Governor.

On the Republican side interest also centers in the fight for governor. C. Wayland Brooks and Len Small appear the strongest of eight candidates. Brooks in St. Clair County has the full support of Dan McGlynn, city corporation counsel and for years the county's Republican boss. Small has the backing of Fred Gerold, former city treasurer, and E. E. Miller, himself a candidate for state treasurer.

The preferential primary for President also is holding considerable interest. Senator William E. Borah of Idaho and Frank Knox of Chicago are on the ballot. McGlynn is booming Knox. Borah has no organized support in the county.

Louis Bernreuter of Nashville, former circuit judge on the East Side for twenty years; Quinten E. Spivey, East St. Louis attorney, and Jesse R. Brown, Alton, also a former circuit judge, have made lively campaigns for the G. O. P. nomination for congressman.

The two principal candidates for the Republican nomination for state's attorney are Curt C. Lindauer and John Thomas, both Belleville attorneys.

For the first time since he became prominent in politics sixteen years ago, McGlynn is not supporting a Lindauer for the state's attorney office. Because of a split after the election four years ago, the G. O. P. boss has thrown his support to Thomas.

Trustees of the East Side Levee and Sanitary district will be chosen. Eight are seeking the five posts on the Democratic side and eleven on the Republican. First five on the Democratic ballot are incumbents, running as a slate. They are Stephen H. Kernan, president of the board; Alvin G. Fields, John T. English, Thomas D. Meehan and William Knaus. The other Democratic candidates are Frank J. Enos, Eddie Nelson, a Negro, and Leo W. Quick, East St. Louis labor leader.

McGlynn's slate for the Levee Board includes Alfred Ruwisch, Leo J. Daugherty, Russell Beebe, Oliver Brammell and A. B. Touchette. Other Republican candidates are L. T. Griffin, James S. Ledbetter, Edward Reimann, A. M. Jaco, Louis Reichmann and Robert D. Schmidt.

Political-1936

Office Holding

New Jersey

Dr. F. Hargrave in N.J. Legislature for Fourth Term

Afro-American

TRENTON, N.J.—Dr. Frank S. Hargrave of Essex County has begun his fourth term as a member of the New Jersey State Legislature, which organized on Tuesday at the State House here.

In view of rumors to the effect that certain legislation for abolition of the State militia would be introduced during this session, the recently organized New Jersey Colored Republican League, of which Assemblyman Hargrave is chairman, has named the following committee to keep voters informed on activity in the assembly:

J. W. Lindsey, chairman, Essex County; John Holmes, Camden; Rufus Graham, Middlesex; James Curry, Hudson; the Rev. T. J. B. Harris, Bergen; Mrs. Viola Adams, Passaic; and Henry Dillon, Rodney Dade and Mrs. William Cagle, Mercer County.

Other League Officers

Other officers of the league installed on Saturday, along with Assemblyman Hargrave are:

Mrs. Wilda R. Townsend, Camden County, vice chairman; Isaac Johnson, Monmouth, second vice chairman; Edward B. Williams, Mercer, secretary; Dr. W. H. Vicks, Essex, assistant secretary; Mrs. Agnes L. Kemp, Mercer, treasurer; and Robert Burk Johnson, Camden, director of publicity.

The following steering committee was named:

Dr. William L. Byrd, chairman, Hudson County; William R. Page and Mrs. M. K. Watkins, Atlantic; the Rev. T. J. B. Harris, Bergen; Albert Cromwell, Burlington; R. B. Johnson and Mrs. Maida Gibson, Camden; Lester P. Foster and Mrs. Pearl Lindsey, Essex; M. Robinson, Gloucester; I. H. Johnson and Mrs. Viola Reed, Monmouth, the Rev. M. Crumitt and Mrs. M. Latiney, Middlesex; Vincent Harvey and Mrs. A. K. Burst, Mercer; the Rev. I. N. Holley, Salem; J. Smith, Ocean; the Rev. T. O. Vicks, Union; Mrs. Viola Adams, Passaic, and F. S. Jones, Cape May.

Appointee

MRS. HELEN R. POLK, of Newark, N.J., who was appointed last week as assistant State supervisor of vocational courses under PWA.

HE'S HONORED

Robert Freeman Kearse, who was feted by North Jersey society at Westfield last week, in recognition of his appointment by President Roosevelt as postmaster at Vaux Hall, N. J.

New Negro Postmaster Of N. J. Town Is Honored

Postmaster

Robert Freeman Kearse Feted At Testimonial In Westfield

Postmaster

By SAM ROSS

(Special to Journal and Guide)

NEWARK, N. J.—The internationally known Shady Rest Country Club, Westfield, N. J., was the center of attraction Friday night when more than 200 fashionables of North Jersey society, fraternal, business and professional circles assembled to pay tribute at the testimonial banquet honoring Robert Freeman Kearse, on his recent appointment by President Roosevelt as postmaster to the town of Vaux Hall.

Hospitality was displayed generously by the sixty members of the Citizens Committee of Union County who were responsible for the banquet's success. The officers were Dr. Clement de Freidas, chairman; Dr. Charles C. Polk, treasurer; and Catherine E. Barnes, secretary.

Attorney J. Leroy Jordan of Elizabeth acted as toastmaster. Speakers included Percy S. Conrad, chairman of the executive committee of the National Postal Alliance Association of New Jersey; Dr. J. Leroy Baxter; Dr. Greeley L. Brown; Mrs. Gertrude M. Cannon, Attorney Oliver Randolph and the Honorable J. Mercer Burrell, who substituted for Assemblyman Frank S. Hargraves.

Mrs. Ida Bailey, of Vaux Hall, rendered several selections during the evening.

The guest of honor, Postmaster Kearse, addressing the group, declared, "The victory is our victory. It is the result of your and my united thought, work, and prayers." "The commission of postmaster was given to a Negro because of the intelligent recognition by the Roosevelt administration," he asserted.

Telegrams from Postmaster James J. Farley, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Woods of Plainfield and the Flea Club of Newark, of whch Mr. Kearse s a member, were read by Toastmaster Jordan, all expressing regret that they were unable to attend, and wishing Mr. Kearse and the committee success with the affair.

A beautiful bouquet of flowers was presented by Mrs. Andrew L. Brown, mortician, to Dr. Myra Smith Kearse, wife of the postmaster. Arthur Vendall, prominent citizen, in behalf of the committee, presented Mrs. Kearse with a token.

Guests attending the banquet were Mr. and Mrs. C. Burrell, Mrs. D. Wright, Rev. and Mrs. William Scott, Mrs. W. M. Williams, Elizabeth Groyes, Cornelius Donald, Jr., Fred Dungee, Arthur Hooper, Mary Cannon, G. W. Parrish, C. J. Saunders, Mrs. C. J. Samuels, James Gregory, William M. Clemons, Jr., Mrs. David Talbot, Dr. J. O. Hill, Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, Charles S. Hicks, Mrs. G. R. Gaton, Mrs. H. Edwards, A. Briggs and wife; Miss Edith C. Butler of South Carolina; Mrs. C. Polk, Janet J. Whitaker, A. T. Williams, Dr. and Mrs. John E. Watts, Dr. Albert Lynch of Montclair; Inez Dodson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Robinson of Madison; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Lynch of Westfield; Miss Dorothy Clay, Dr. C. T. Hill of Rahway; Mrs. Anna Williams, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walton, Miss E. A. Rowland, Mrs. Sarah Bell.

Mesdames Bertha Pickens, G. L. Brown, J. Toney, N. Harvey, A. Bond, Pollie Banks, Lillian Huff, G. A. Bromhill, A. G. Vendall, Mable Page and Lucy Williams. Also Amelia Morrison, John Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howe, Mr. and Mrs. L. Taylor, Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Graddick, Mrs. H. A. Yancey, Mrs. Alvesto Cox, Mis A. J. Wise, Miss Mable Holmes, Evelyn Eason, Marguerite Roberts of Baltimore, Md.; Johnson Williams, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bryant, Waldo Pulley, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wilson, W. R. Martin, Mrs. McCauley, Mr. and Mrs. Shell, Marjorie Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Moorehead, Mrs. Emma Stancil of Yonkers, N. Y.; Mrs. Richard Johnson of Jersey City; Mrs. Grace E. Ward, Jersey City; Mrs. F. W. Avant of Wilmington, N. C.; Violet Johnson, Mrs. Henrietta Jacob, Dr. Mae McCarroll, Mr. and Mrs. Lovelace Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Federson, Mrs. M. R. Jones and J. J. Huggs of Jersey City and the A. H. Tate of Montclair.

The testimonial committee included the following: Mills S. Barnes, Gertrude C. Battis, Alexander Briggs, Vivian Brock, Howard F. Brock, Adele Brown, L. Greeley Brown, William H. Brown, Abel Buroughs, Gertrude M. Cannon, Thomas Cummings, Carolyn B. Cruse, Cornelius Donald, James Dickerson, Grace B. Fenderson, Walter B. Fenderson, Lester Graddick, Charles F. Gibson, Elizabeth Grobes, Frank S. Hargrave, Robert S. Hargrove, Jackson Hedgeman, George E. Human, Mable Holmes, Clarence T. Hill, Leroy Jenkins, J. Leroy Jordan, Alberta R. Lacey, James Lassiter, John W. Lee. Edward S. Lynch, John W. Maury, Charles W. Mulford, Martin Mullins, Naomi Monroe, Bravil M. Nesbitt, James Parks, Aubrey E. Robinson, Harold R. Scott, Fernandez G. Shirley, Richard V. Sims, Aston L. Thompson, Robert H. Thompson, John Turner, Arthur G. Vendall, Harold Walton, John E. Watts, Ernest B. Wetmore, Katherine Wetmore, Robert B. White, John A. Williams, Kenneth E. Worde, Beatrice Wormley and Daniel U. Wright.

Political - 1936
Office Holding.

New York

MAGISTRATE MYLES PAIGE OFFICIALLY INDUCTED IN OFFICE TUESDAY MORNING

To Sit On Bench In Harlem Court For Time, Then Rotate In The City

38 YEARS OLD

Mayor LaGuardia Keeps Promise Made In His 1933 Campaign

Political history for the race was made last Wednesday at the summer city hall when Attorney Myles A. Paige of 100 West 121st street, prominent in the civic, political and fraternal life of New York, was sworn in by Mayor LaGuardia as the first Negro Magistrate in the City of New York. His term will run to April 30, 1945, at an annual salary of $10,000. Distinguished Harlem citizens of all political faiths were present at the swearing in ceremonies.

The appointment marked a long cherished dream by Negroes that one of their number be elevated to the bench as a magistrate and marked the fulfillment of a campaign promise made in 1933 by the then Mayorality candidate, Fiorella H. LaGuardia, that if elected he would appoint a Negro magistrate. It also raised to the number of Negroes three who are serving as judges in the City of New York, the other two being Municipal Court Justices James S. Watson and Charles E. Toney both of whom were elected for ten-year terms several years ago.

In swearing in the new magistrate, Mayor LaGuardia said:

"You have done some very valuable work for me in making surveys and making recommendations in important matters on which I had to make decisions. You just have to make good, because the attention of the City will be focussed on you. You will probably have a very difficult time but you have the balance and the control to do the job. If you make good, the credit is all yours, and if you don't the fault is all mine for appointing you.

The newly sworn in magistrate responded:

"I shall endeavor to be the best magistrate possible for you and for the people of the city on a whole."

After receiving felicitations from his pretty wife, Mrs. Dorothy Boyd Paige, and their two children, Barbara, 7, and Betty, 5½, he was congratulated by the numerous persons present at the ceremonies.

Is 38 Years Old

The new magistrate, a native of Montgomery, Ala., is 38 years old and succeeds in office Magistrate Nathan D Perlman, who was appointed to the Court of Special Sessions.

Mr. Paige was educated in Montgomery, finishing high school there and then studied at Fisk for two years completing his college work at Howard University in 1921 with a bachelor of arts degree. He came to New York and studied law at Columbia University receiving the bachelor and master of law degrees. He was admitted to the bar in 1925.

Shortly after his admittance to the bar, Mr. Paige was nominated by the Republicans as candidate for State Senator and in the election lost by a few votes to the incumbent Duncan T. O'Brien. He continued actively in politics managing the campaign in the 19th Assembly District in 1933 to oust Samuel Koenig as county chairman and again in 1935 to oust Chase Mellen from the same office. He was successful in each fight, the last time, however, being successful in his own fight for the district leadership which he lost to Francis E. Rivers. Since last election he has been inactive in district politics.

He is president of the Harlem Lawyers' Association, was chairman until recently of the North Harlem Community Council, a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Imperial Lodge of Elks, Clubmen's Beneficial League, Urban League, New York County Lawyers Association, Guild of Catholic Lawyers, the American Legion, and a member of the fourth degree of the Knights of Columbus, besides being active in St. Mark's R. C. Church.

After receiving instructions from Chief Magistrate Jacob Gould Schurman jr., Magistrate Paige sat in Harlem Court, 121st street and Sylvan place, with Magistrate Charles Solomon for two days finally taking the bench by himself on Thursday. On Tuesday morning, September 8, he was officially inducted into office at the Harlem Court before a host of admirers.

A beautiful Jewell gavel from his associates was presented by Mr. Thomas Dyett, Assistant District Attorney.

ON THE BENCH

Magistrate MYLES A. PAIGE

MYLES PAIGE BEGINS TASK NEXT TUESDAY

Telegrams, Letters Follow Swearing In by Mayor

Facing more responsibility than faced by most men who become magistrates, Attorney Myles A. Paige, 100 West 121st street, was sworn into office Wednesday morning by Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia at Summer City Hall, Pelham Bay Park, while well-wishers of all political faiths and many civic interests extended their greetings and their best wishes by telegraph, telephone, mail and in person.

When Magistrate Paige had concluded repeating the oath, there and then a dream long cherished by the quarter million Negro citizens of New York City had become true; at the same time, according to the mayor, that an 18-month-old intention of his had become real.

Many Witness Ceremony.

Many distinguished figures were on hand as the oath was administered and heard Magistrate Paige say:

"I, Myles A. Paige, do solemnly swear that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of New York, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office of City Magistrate."

Then, after a handshake, they heard the Mayor:

"I made up my mind a year and a half ago to select a lawyer from your racial group. You're assuming more responsibility than a lawyer usually assumes when he goes on the bench, because the particular group which you represent has not been recognized before in appointments to the bench.

Selected on Merit.

"You have been selected because of your professional standing and your knowledge of conditions, as shown by surveys and other studies which you have made for me. You will have to make good for your own sake and for the sake of the people you represent. You will have a difficult time because the eyes of the city are upon you, but you have the balance and control necessary. If you make good, the credit is all yours; if you fail, the fault will be all mine for appointing you."

Then the newly created magistrate pledged:

"I shall endeavor to be the best magistrate possible for you and for the people of the city on a whole."

Family Look On.

Family and friends then surrounded Mr. Paige. Mrs. Dorothy Paige, comely wife, warmly clasped his hands; then Barbara, 7, and Betty, six months short of 6 years, in their own way, offered their congratulations, and from then to this there has been little more than the receiving of telegrams and the answering of telephone calls at both the magistrate's residence and the office at 44 West 125th street.

Mr. Paige, born in Montgomery, Ala., 38 years ago, was appointed to fill a place distinguished by Magistrate Nathan D. Perlman, who, in turn, was promoted to the Court of Special Sessions and sworn in just a few minutes ahead of the Harlem lawyer. Incidentally, some years ago, both Mr. Perlman and Mr. Paige figured together as defense counsel in the same case.

Will Serve Until 1945.

New York's first magistrate of Negro origin will serve until April 30, 1945, at a salary of approximately $10,000. He will probably be inducted into office and hear his first case next Tuesday in Harlem Court, 121st street and Third avenue, at 10 a.m.

After completing high school, Mr. Paige went to Fisk University for nearly two years, then later to Howard University, from which institution he received his bachelor of arts degree in 1921; three years later he earned the bachelor of laws degree from Columbia University. He has been practicing since 1925.

At Howard Mr. Paige was an end on the football team.

Mr. Paige is president of the Harlem Lawyers' Association and for two years was chairman of the North Harlem Community Council. He is also a member, and was once a national officer, in the Alpha Phi Alpha Greek letter fraternity; is a fourth degree member of the Knights of Columbus, and also holds membership in Imperial Lodge of Elks, the Clubmen's Beneficial League, and the St. Mark's Roman Catholic Church.

LEMUS SEES IN IT A BID FOR VOTES

N. Y. Mayor Up for Re-election in 1937

By RIENZI B. LEMUS

NEW YORK—Mayor La Guardia of New York has always insisted that no political significance whatever is involved in his appointments to city offices. Last Tuesday he appointed Miles A. Paige, young colored Harlem lawyer, a police magistrate, or police court judge at $10,000 a year.

Mr. Paige is a Republican, former deputy assistant attorney general of New York State. He served a term in the Legislature, and was beaten by former Assemblyman J. E. Stephens, Negro Democrat, who for three years was the Legislature's lone colored member. And the political significance of Judge Paige's appointment is almost palpable.

He is New York's first colored magistrate, and he is a Republican; and thereon apparently hangs the tale. Mayor LaGuardia is up for re-election next year. There is no reason to suspect that the Democrats will be divided then as they were in 1933. Mr. LaGuardia was elected by a plurality of less than the combined votes cast for his two opponents. The mayoral race therefore will be close, and all votes cast for the Fusion incumbent must count.

Paige a Republican

Judge Paige was an uncompromising Republican leader in the 19th Assembly district which the Harlem 19th Assembly district which he represented in the assembly, He stubbornly opposed the attempts of the Rivers brothers to dominate, was unsuccessful, and has ceen the district go Democratic under the present regime.

Although Tammany is out of control now, it always sidestepped when it came to naming a colored magistrate. And this is why Ferdinand Q. Morton remains a municipal civil service commissioner.

Mayor John F. Hylan named Mr. Morton for that position when every one believed, and those inside for good reasons, that he would be elevated to the magistrates' bench.

Then along came Mayor (Jimmy) Walker. "Certainly, Jimmie will make 'Mort' a magistrate. Jimmie didn't. He reappointed Mr. Morton to the civil service commission instead. Magistracies had to be kept for powerfully connected lawyers politically—and the Harlem group didn't rate.

Fusion Changed Things

Following Mayor La Guardia's appointment of Hubert T. Delany to the responsible and highly-salaried post of tax commissioner, it was also believed that Fusion felt the same way about colored lawyers and the magistrates.

In the meantime, however, colored politicians have become practical in the Harlem 21st assembly district, which adjoins the 19th, and elected one of their number to the inner sanctum of Tammany as a district leader.

In the two colored districts in mayoral race of 1933 Tammany's candidate who ran last or third in the Greater City as a whole was first, McKee, next, LaGuardia the winner, last. The majority of colored voters are Democrats. That was why National Chairman Farley exempted New York from the jurisdiction of the colored Democratic director for the East in the Presidential campaign, when they protested outsiders having charge of them.

La Guardia After Votes

And that, quite obviously, is the significance of Judge Paige becoming the first colored police magistrate in the Nation's metropolis. Mayor LaGuardia has made more than a gesture in affording the colored Democrats ground upon which to go back to the Republican party or rather for becoming anti-Tammany in 1937's mayoralty election. And the action could afford no ground for criticism of the mayor as respects politics. It still takes a politician to become mayor of New York.

Negro Takes Place As New York Judge

NEW WYORK, Sept. 8. (AP)—Harlem, home of the largest Negro colony in the country, today had the first Negro magistrate in New York City's history.

Myles Paige, Negro lawyer and leader, was inducted into office in Harlem court, where 880,000 cases were handled last year.

"Your appointment to this high office gives notice to the world that New York's administration of justice does not bar any race, creed or color," said Chief Magistrate Jacob Gould Schurman, Jr., at the ceremonies.

JOBS GIVEN 4 CREDITED TO STATE'S HEAD

Harlemites Work in New Insurance Department

With registration figures indicating that Governor Herbert Lehman will be re-elected by an overwhelming majority, similar to 1934, evidence of the Governor's fairness to peoples of all races, and his interest in the Negro, is brought to light by the positions that four Negroes hold with the State Unemployment Division of the Department of Labor, recently organized to administer the Social Security Act.

These jobs, however, are considered only typical of the opportunities which Negroes get under Governor Lehman, who, long before he was the State's chief executive, joined the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and is now one of its directors.

Top Salary of $3,240.

The four men in the insurance division, with offices at 342 Madison avenue, are Monroe D. Dowling, 211 West 149th street, who has been appointed assistant superintendent for Manhattan at a salary of $3,240 per year; Charles Lionel Franklin, 180 West 135th street, who recently received his doctorate from Columbia University, and is junior economist in the department of research at $2,100 per year, and Rolland Ford, 351 West 114th street, and C. E. Lucas, 300 Stuyvesant avenue, Brooklyn, payroll examiners at $1,650 per year.

Elmer Anderson Carter, editor of Opportunity and member of the Unemployment Insurance Council of New York, which is charged with administration of the act, declares that "these appointments of colored men, the first time in the history of the State of New York that Negroes have been given highly technical positions carrying great responsibility in a state department, on provisional appointment, have been due entirely to the insistence of Governor Lehman that trained and intelligent colored men shall be given a chance in executive positions in the Unemployment Insurance Division of the state."

Cites Deep Sympathy.

"Governor Lehman," he continued, "has shown a tremendous interest and deep sympathy for the problems of colored people. His prompt action whenever any complaint is brought to him relative to discrimination in public or private institutions has proved that he is determined that colored people shall receive fair treatment in every respect in the State of New York."

Mr. Carter prophesied that, as the unemployment insurance division of the Department of Labor developed there would be further appointments of qualified and trained Negroes to important positions. Elmer Andrews, industrial commissioner of the state, and Glenn A. Bowers, director of the unemployment insurance division, have co-operated ever since the division has been established in the efforts which Mr. Carter has made to secure Negro representation in the division.

Political-1936
Office Holding

New York

SYRACUSE, N. Y.
POST-STANDARD

MAR 22 1936

Negro Legislator Speaks Tuesday At Church Meet

William T. Andrews of New York City, Negro state assemblyman, will be principal speaker at a meeting in the People's African Methodist Episcopal church at 711 East Fayette street at 8 o'clock Thursday night. Assemblyman Andrews, who represents the 21st (Harlem) district at Albany will speak on "The Negro and His Social Security."

A graduate of Howard university in Washington, D. C., he is a practicing attorney in New York city. He will be a guest here of the Dunbar center forum, sponsor of his appearance. Rev. George D. Gordon, pastor of St. Luke's Baptist church, heads the arrangements committee, assisted by Hamilton Jones, Mrs. Dorothy Mitchell, Mrs. William Lindsay, Miss Ada Buch, Richard Brown and Bishop Wiggons.

Prof. William C. Lehmann of the sociology department of the college of Liberal Arts at Syracuse university will address the Dunbar center forum at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at 308 South McBride street. Speaking on "Community Planning and Human Well Being,' he will show charts and statistics of population trends in the city. Forum chairman will be Herbert A. Johnson, director of boys' activities at the center.

APPOINTED

MRS. EUNICE HUNTON CARTER

Deputy assistant district attorney of New York county, who received the highest appointment received by a Negro woman under the City-Fusion administration, headed by Mayor LaGuardia. Mrs. Carter was secretary of the mayor's commission which investigated the Harlem riot, and is now given special work in cleaning up vice in New York. Mrs. Carter is the daughter of the late W. A. Hunton, noted Y worker, and Mrs. Addie W. Hunton, nationally known civic and social worker. Her husband is Dr Lisle Carter, popular Harlem dentist.—Calvin Service Photo.

NEGRO APPOINTED CITY MAGISTRATE

Myles Paige, First Named for That Bench, Will Be Sworn Today by La Guardia.

THREE OTHERS CHOSEN

Perlman to General Sessions and Hayes to Municipal Court —Walsh Made Windels Aide.

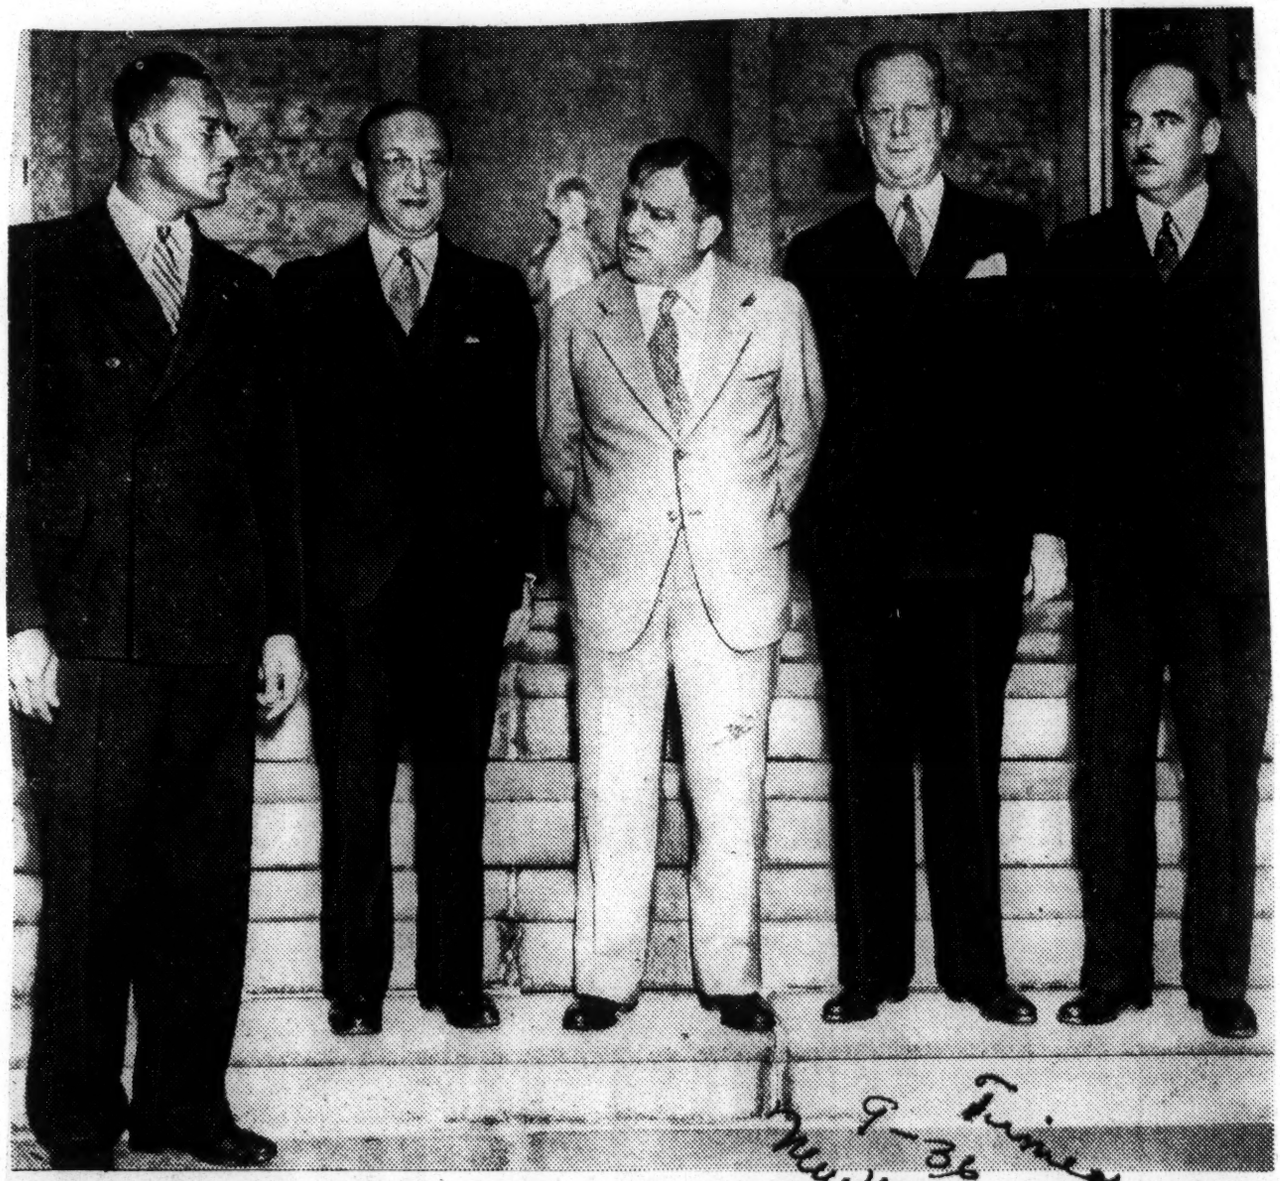
Mayor La Guardia announced yesterday three appointments to the bench, including that of Myles Paige, a Negro. He also named a Deputy Commissioner of Accounts. All four will be sworn in at 11 A. M. today at the Summer City Hall.

Mr. Paige will be the first member of his race ever to sit in magistrate's court. He will succeed Nathan D. Perlman, who has been elevated to the Court of Special Sessions. The job, the term of which expires April 30, 1945, pays $10,000 annually.

Magistrate Perlman will succeed Daniel F. Murphy, who will retire because of illness. The term will expire Nov. 26, 1937. A Special Sessions judge receives $12,000 a year.

Hayes to Be Justice

Carroll Hayes was appointed a Municipal Court justice in the Ninth District, Manhattan, succeeding Charles Garside, who retired.



Times Wide World Photo.

THE MAYOR GREETS NEW APPOINTEES AT SUMMER CITY HALL

Mr. La Guardia at Pelham Bay Park yesterday with the four men he designated for duty on the bench and in the city Finance Department. Left to right are Myles Paige, named a magistrate; Nathan D. Perlman, elevated to the Court of Special Sessions; the Mayor; Carroll Hayes, appointed a municipal court justice, and Major William Walsh, promoted to be Deputy Commissioner of Accounts.

The term expires Dec. 31, 1945. The salary for the office is $10,840.

Major William Walsh, secretary to the Armory Board, was promoted to a Deputy Commissioner of Accounts and assigned to the Mayor's office. He will succeed Kenneth Dayton, who was elevated to Assistant Budget Director.

Mr. Paige, who is 38 years old, is married and lives at 100 West 121st Street. He has two children. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Harvard University and his Bachelor of Laws and Master of Laws degrees at Columbia University. He was admitted to the New York bar in June, 1925. At one time he was a Deputy Attorney General, in charge of the Workmen's Compensation Division.

Active Civic Worker

The new Magistrate is a Catholic and a member of the Fourth Degree of the Knights of Coumbus. He is an active civic worker in Harlem and heads the North Harlem Community Council. He is a member of the Urban League, the National Executive Council ad the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity. He is a commander of an American Legion post in Harlem and vice commander of a disabled veterans organization. He is also a member of the Guild of Catholic Lawyers, the New York County Lawyers Association and the Harlem Lawyers Association.

Magistrate Perlman was sworn in by Mayor La Guardia in May, 1935. He succeeded Magistrate Benjamin Greenspan. Mr. Perlman had previously served in the House of Representatives.

Mr. Hayes, a Republican, was a member of the Municipal Court from 1919 to 1929. He served on the State ABC Board and was overseas in the World War. He is a former president of the Catholic Club and now a vice president of the League of Catholic Lawyers.

In announcing Justice Murphy's retirement from the Special Sessions bench, Mayor La Guardia expressed appreciation for his service. Justice Murphy, who lives at 1,140 Fifth Avenue, was appointed to the Special Sessions Court in November. 1917.

A Negro Magistrate

MAYOR LAGUARDIA'S belated appointment of a Negro attorney as magistrate comes as pleasant news. In selecting Myles A. Paige, prominent young Harlem lawyer, he is fulfilling at last a promise which he is reported to have made some time before his own election. There were many persons in Harlem who expected Mr. LaGuardia to place a Negro on this important, although lower, bench many, many months ago.

We believe that Mr. LaGuardia (whom we criticize frequently) has made a wise choice, and should be commended for picking a young man whose education, experience and interest in the community fit him for larger service.

The Magistrates' Court is the court of first jurisdiction for criminal cases, and, unfortunately, Negroes contribute more than their full quota of the defendants who face its judges. As a matter of fair representation, the Negro should have been represented on that bench long before, just as he should be in Special Sessions, the county courts and the Supreme Court.

We cannot refrain from giving the mayor credit for the magistracy, which ranks along with the naming of Hubert T. Delany as a tax commissioner in charge of Manhattan. Yet, on the other hand, we must remind Mr. LaGuardia that Negroes may not be expected to be satisfied with a few outstanding appointments. There are other posts of varying responsibility given at intervals, and Negroes look for their share of them also. Too, we cannot permit Mr. LaGuardia to forget that the masses of Negroes want more from him. They want equality of opportunity for Negro nurses, doctors, internes and lay workers in all city hospitals. They want courteous and considerate treatment for patients in the city hospitals. They want to be policed by men who do not consider themselves officers and judges, and they want inquiries and proper action to follow brutality. They want everything to which citizens of a great city, legally bound to treat all its peoples equally, are entitled.

The appointment of a Negro magistrate is one step in the right direction, and we hope the mayor plans to go much further.

A Negro Magistrate

THE appointment of Myles Paige, a Negro, to the New York magistrate's bench is a victory, however limited, in the struggle for Negro rights. It meets a long-standing demand of the Negro population of the city.

This appointment is a step toward remedying a condition that has deprived more than 300,000 Negroes of any representation among the civil authorities and has placed them at the mercy of corrupt politicians who have been only too ready to give the Negro the dirty end of the stick.

Mayor LaGuardia should now seriously consider the meeting of another important demand of the Negro people: representation on the Board of Education. The term of Mrs. Margaret McAleenan, a Tammany holdover, expires in 1937. A Negro should be appointed in her place.

For the masses of the Negro people, however, such concessions, while important, do not solve the fundamental problems. The report of the Mayor's special committee which investigated the causes of the Harlem outbreak of March 19, 1935, has revealed conditions which will not be materially altered by reliance on political appointments and favors.

The All-People's Party of Harlem, the development of the independent political action of the Negro and white masses in our city, state and country—this is the road toward ending the ghastly conditions revealed by the Mayor's committee.

DARWIN W. TELESFORD, assistant attorney-general...was assigned to the Albany office in 1934 at a salary of $4,000 a year...is a graduate of City College and the New York Law School, where he received his degree in 1927...Before his present appointment he practiced law in Harlem, specializing in criminal law...He is the second Harlemite in recent years to hold such a post...Attorney Harry C. Bragg, also holding office, is the other...Was recently transferred from Albany to New York City, where he will continue work in the claims bureau of the State's Law Department...Has been a member of the Cayuga Democratic Club for past eight years...Is only thirty-four years old...He's in the Vanguard.

Political-1936

Office Holding.

New York

F.D.R. APPOINTS JOHN W. WALKER

New Commissioner of Deeds Named Here

News leaked out this week that John W. Walker, prominent realtor, located at 168 West 135th street, was recently appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt as a commissioner of deeds for the District of Columbia to do business in New York City. The position carries no salary.

Mr. Walker, who is one of the few Negroes on the Real Estate Board of New York City, has been in business here for more than seventeen years. Prior to that time he operated offices in Washington for more than four years.

A graduate of South Carolina State College at Orangeburg, Mr. Walker has also studied at the Howard and Columbia law schools. He was a member of Murray's old Chicopee Democratic Club and is now connected with Bruce's Ramapo-Beavers Club.

Mr. Walker lives with his wife at 37 West 142d street, a co-operative apartment house, of which he is president. This is one of the most successful ventures of its kind in the community.

Colored Judge Honored in Boston

HON. JAMES S. WATSON OF N. Y. IN CITY DURING RACE PROGRESS WEEK — MANY FUNCTIONS GIVEN FOR HIM

Judge James S. Watson of the New York Municipal Court delivered a stirring address before an audience that filled the vestry of St. Cyprian's Church last Sunday afternoon. The discourse dealt with the elements of success and held the audience spellbound by its homely philosophy and dignified and eloquent appeal. Attorneys Wm. H. Lewis, Sr., John W. Schencks and Editor Alfred E. Haughton extended the greetings of the bar and press, and President Jackson of the Jamaica Associates, under whose auspices the meeting was held, presided.

The judge was royally entertained during his brief sojourn in Boston. A guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Parnell of Harold st., Roxbury, he was tendered a reception at the Parnell home last Saturday night and was greeted by a host of invited guests. Receptions were also held for the distinguished New Yorker at the homes of Atty. and Mrs. Cyril F. Butler of Watertown and Dr. and Mrs. C. N. Garland of Brookline, and by the Jamaica Associates at the Women's Service Club.

On Monday, the judge was the special guest of Atty. Wm. H. Lewis, Sr., at a Parker House luncheon together with Attys. Cyril F. Butler, John W. Schencks, Wm. H. Lewis, Jr., and Mr. John Parnell. Later, this group, Mr. Lewis, Sr. excepted, had an audience with Atty.-Gen. Paul Dever, who tendered the judge the greetings of the highest law officer of the Commonwealth. Acting Governor Joseph L. Hurley, too, at the Governor's office, extended to Judge Watson the felicitations of the Commonwealth. In these last two activities at the State House, Atty. Julian D. Rainey joined up with the delegation.

Following the State House visit, Judge Watson was escorted by Mr. Butler through the Pemberton Sq. Court House, and was presented to several county officials, Judge Francis J, Good among them, the latter extending to the visitor cordial welcome from the bench of Second Session of the Boston Municipal Court.

Judge Watson returned to New York at noon last Tuesday and was expected to resume judicial duties on Wednesday. Colored Bostonians are indebted to the Jamaica Associates for the presence of this brilliant and distinguished visitor from the Empire State, for many Bostonians had not seen a Colored judge since Judge Ruffin many years ago, unless perchance it was in New York, Washington or the West Indies

J. T. DOLES GETS POLITICAL PLUM

Appointed Chief Office Deputy In Internal Revenue Dept.

John T. Doles, jr., prominent attorney with offices at 200 West 135th street, was sworn in on Tuesday morning as chief office deputy under collector Joseph T. Higgins in the Department of Internal Revenue for the Third New York District at a salary of $5,000 a year. His appointment was announced on Monday by Tammany Leader Herbert L. Bruce of the 21st Assembly District.

The new appointee was born in Elizabeth City, N. C., in 1906. His father, John T. Doles, sr., is a professor at the North Carolina State College for Negroes. His mother, the late Mrs. Mary E. Doles, taught for many years at Shaw University.

A graduate of Shaw University from which he received the B. S. degree in 1926, Mr. Doles received his M. A. at Columbia University in 1928, and was graduated from the New York University Law School in 1931 with the degree of juris doctor. He was one of the honor students in his class, an all around athlete and a member of the varsity debating and dramatic teams.

Mr. Doles has been a member of the New York State bar since 1932 specializing on election and labor cases. He is chairman of the law committee of the Beaver-Ramapo Democratic Club of the 21st Assembly District, a member of the rector's advisory council of St. Phillips P. E. Church, and member of the Y. M. C. A., Elks and Harlem Lawyers' Association.

JOHN T. DOLES

Lawyer Gets $5,000 Post in Internal Revenue Bureau

By EDGAR T. ROUZEAU

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Two years of service to the cause of colored political leadership in the Twenty-first Assembly district was rewarded this week when John T. Doles, Jr., attorney, of 200 West 135th Street, was appointed chief office deputy in the department of internal revenue. The salary is $5,000 a year.

Doles, a graduate of Shaw University, Columbia University and the New York University School of Law, was one of the first to rally to the standards of Herbert L. Bruce, Harlem's first colored Democratic leader. He relieved Mr. Bruce of all legal responsibilities and was in the thick of the leadership fight until Bruce won.

Mr. Bruce did not forget the debt. Early Monday he phoned Mr. Doles and surprised him with the news that he had just been appointed as second in command to Joseph T. Higgins, white, collector of internal revenue for the Third New York District. Doles was sworn in Thursday morning in the room which formerly served as the private office of Charles Anderson, of Harlem, when Anderson was collector.

Although Mr. Bruce has handed out about ninety temporary jobs since the time of his election, the deputy collectorship was his first major appointment.

Keen Rivalry for Job

There was keen rivalry for the post by other district leaders, and among the candidates suggested to James J. Dooling, leader of Tammany Hall, were Roy Morse, a protege of Martin J. Healy of the Nineteenth Assembly; Dr. Godfrey Nurse, of the Nineteenth; Samuel Allen of the New York Urban League, and Henri W. Shields, who preceded Mr. Bruce Mr. in the fight for colored leadership.

Supporters of Mr. Bruce waxed happy this week over the appointment. They choose to regard it as a tangible sign that Mr. Dooling, Tammany boss, intended to give Mr. Bruce his full share of district patronage.

Doles was born in Elizabeth City, N.C., in 1906. His father is a professor at N.C. State College and his mother, the late Mary E. Doles, taught at Shaw University. He has been a member of the law committee of the Beaver-Ramapo Democratic Club, an Elk, and a member of the Harlem Lawyers' Association. He is

Political-1936

Office Holding.

New York

F.D.R. APPOINTS JOHN W. WALKER

New Commissioner of Deeds Named Here

News leaked out this week that John W. Walker, prominent realtor, located at 168 West 135th street, was recently appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt as a commissioner of deeds for the District of Columbia to do business in New York City. The position carries no salary.

Mr. Walker, who is one of the few Negroes on the Real Estate Board of New York City, has been in business here for more than seventeen years. Prior to that time he operated offices in Washington for more than four years.

A graduate of South Carolina State College at Orangeburg, Mr. Walker has also studied at the Howard and Columbia law schools. He was a member of Murray's old Chicopee Democratic Club and is now connected with Bruce's Ramapo-Beavers Club.

Mr. Walker lives with his wife at 37 West 142d street, a co-operative apartment house, of which he is president. This is one of the most successful ventures of its kind in the community.

Colored Judge Honored in Boston

HON. JAMES S. WATSON OF N. Y. IN CITY DURING RACE PROGRESS WEEK — MANY FUNCTIONS GIVEN FOR HIM

2-15-36

Judge James S. Watson of the New York Municipal Court delivered a stirring address before an audience that filled the vestry of St. Cyprian's Church last Sunday afternoon. The discourse dealt with the elements of success and held the audience spellbound by its homely philosophy and dignified and eloquent appeal. Attorneys Wm. H. Lewis, Sr., John W. Schencks and Editor Alfred E. Haughton extended the greetings of the bar and press, and President Jackson of the Jamaica Associates, under whose auspices the meeting was held, presided.

Boston, Mass.

The judge was royally entertained during his brief sojourn in Boston. As guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Parnell of Harold st., Roxbury, he was tendered a reception at the Parnell home last Saturday night and was greeted by a host of invited guests. Receptions were also held for the distinguished New Yorker at the homes of Atty. and Mrs. Cyril F. Butler of Watertown and Dr. and Mrs. C. N. Garland of Brookline, and by the Jamaica Associates at the Women's Service Club.

On Monday, the judge was the special guest of Atty. Wm. H. Lewis, Sr., at a Parker House luncheon together with Attys. Cyril F. Butler, John W. Schencks, Wm. H. Lewis, Jr., and Mr. John Parnell. Later, this group, Mr. Lewis, Sr. excepted, had an audience with Atty.-Gen. Paul Dever, who tendered the judge the greetings of the highest law officer of the Commonwealth. Acting Governor Joseph L. Hurley, too, at the Governor's office, extended to Judge Watson the felicitations of the Commonwealth. In these last two activities at the State House, Atty. Julian D. Rainey joined up with the delegation.

Following the State House visit, Judge Watson was escorted by Mr. Butler through the Pemberton Sq. Court House, and was presented to several county officials, Judge Francis J, Good among them, the latter extending to the visitor cordial welcome from the bench of Second Session of the Boston Municipal Court.

Judge Watson returned to New York at noon last Tuesday and was expected to resume judicial duties on Wednesday. Colored Bostonians are indebted to the Jamaica Associates for the presence of this brilliant and distinguished visitor from the Empire State, for many Bostonians had not seen a Colored judge since Judge Ruffin many years ago, unless perchance it was in New York, Washington or the West Indies

J. T. DOLES GETS POLITICAL PLUM

Appointed Chief Office Deputy In Internal Revenue Dept.

3-7-36

John T. Doles, jr., prominent attorney with offices at 200 West 135th street, was sworn in on Tuesday morning as chief office deputy under collector Joseph T. Higgins in the Department of Internal Revenue for the Third New York District at a salary of $5,000 a year. His appointment was announced on Monday by Tammany Leader Herbert L. Bruce of the 21st Assembly District.

The new appointee was born in Elizabeth City, N. C., in 1906. His father, John T. Doles, sr., is a professor at the North Carolina State College for Negroes. His mother, the late Mrs. Mary E. Doles, taught for many years at Shaw University. A graduate of Shaw University from which he received the B. S. degree in 1926, Mr. Doles received his M. A. at Columbia University in 1928, and was graduated from the New York University Law School in 1931 with the degree of juris doctor. He was one of the honor students in his class, an all around athlete and a member of the varsity debating and dramatic teams.

In these Mr. Doles has been a member of the New York State bar since 1932 specializing on election and labor cases. He is chairman of the law committee of the Beaver-Ramapo Democratic Club of the 21st Assembly District, a member of the rector's advisory council of St. Phillips P. E. Church, and member of the Y. M. C. A., Elks and Harlem Lawyers' Association.

JOHN T. DOLES

Lawyer Gets $5,000 Post in Internal Revenue Bureau

By EDGAR T. ROUZEAU

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Two years f service to the cause of colored political leadership in the Twenty-irst Assembly district was rewarded this week when John T. Doles, Jr., attorney, of 200 West 135th Street, was appointed chief office deputy in the department of internal revenue. The salary is $5,000 a year.

Doles, a graduate of Shaw University, Columbia University and the New York University School of Law, was one of the first to rally to the standards of Herbert L. Bruce, Harlem's first colored Democratic leader. He relieved Mr. Bruce of all legal responsibilities and was in the thick of the leadership fight until Bruce won.

Mr. Bruce did not forget the debt. Early Monday he phoned Mr. Doles and surprised him with the news that he had just been appointed as second in command to Joseph T. Higgins, white, collector of internal revenue for the Third New York District. Doles was sworn in Thursday morning in the room which formerly served as the private office of Charles Anderson, of Harlem, when Anderson was collector.

Although Mr. Bruce has handed out about ninety temporary jobs since the time of his election, the deputy collectorship was his first major appointment.

Keen Rivalry for Job

There was keen rivalry for the post by other district leaders, and among the candidates suggested to James J. Dooling, leader of Tammany Hall, were Roy Morse, a protege of Martin J. Healy of the Nineteenth Assembly; Dr. Godfrey Nurse, of the Nineteenth; Samuel Allen of the New York Urban League, and Henri W. Shields, who preceded Mr. Bruce Mr. in the fight for colored leadership.

Supporters of Mr. Bruce waxed happy this week over the appointment. They choose to regard it as a tangible sign that Mr. Dooling, Tammany boss, intended to give Mr. Bruce his full share of district patronage.

Doles was born in Elizabeth City, N.C., in 1906. His father is a professor at N.C. State College and his mother, the late Mary E., taught at Shaw University. He has been a member of the Club, an Elk, and a member of the Harlem Lawyers' Association. He is

HARLEM IS FORTUNATE

FORTUNATE INDEED ARE the citizens of Harlem to have representing them in Harlem such able men as Assemblymen Robert W. Justice and William T. Andrews of the 19th and 21st Assembly Districts. Already their activities in the current session of the State Legislature have focussed the eyes of the people of this State on them for the type of bills which they have introduced are of benefit to all, regardless of race, color or creed.

Among the proposed legislation of these two Assemblymen are the following acts:

To amend the Labor Law in relation to hours of labor of nurses and other employees of hospitals.

To reduce the age of recipients of Old Age Pensions from 70 to 65 years.

To amend the Penal Code making it a misdemeanor in the Magistrates Court of playing, accepting or backing "numbers."

To amend the divorce laws to allow marriages to be dissolved or a divorce procured on other grounds than adultery, i. e.

1. Where the parties have been separated for a period of two years and there appears to be no chance of a reconciliation.
2. Where the action of the defendant towards the plaintiff is such that it endangers the health and well being of the plaintiff.

To amend the Civil Practice Act in reference to deficiency judgements on furniture.

To amend the Greater New York charter, in relation to proceedings for condemnation of unsanitary buildings by the New York City housing authority and providing for payments by the city to the authority of moneys necessary for the payment of awards and expenses of such proceedings.

To amend the penal law, in relation to attendance of children at theatres exhibiting motion picture.

To amend the New York City municipal court code, in relation to directing the payment of rent into court where defense of failure to make repairs on part of landlord is sustained.

To amend the multiple dwelling law, in relation to penalties for violations and in relation to liens for penalties and for the expenses of executing orders relative to multiple dwellings.

To amend the civil rights law, in relation to equal rights in places of public accommodation, resort or amusement.

All of these proposed amendments and acts are now pending in the Assembly and from reports will be passed by that body because they fill long-felt wants. That the proposals came from Negro Assemblymen is all the more creditable.

RESOLUTION IS KILLED AGAIN IN COMMITTEE

Solon Will Demand an Open Fight on Floor of Legislature

ALBANY, Feb. 27. — Supported by Governor Lehman, a score of powerful labor unions and Socialist party leaders throughout the state, Assemblyman William T. Andrews made preparations today to force a showdown on the floor of the Legislature on ratification of the Child Labor Amendment.

The Andrews resolution, providing for ratification of the amendment to the Federal Constitution, was killed Tuesday by the Assembly Judiciary Committee, of which Horace M. Stone, a Republican, is chairman. The committee vote was 9 to 2.

A similar resolution, introduced by Assemblyman Andrews, was killed in committee last year, despite the support of Governor Lehman.

The Legislator prepared today to serve notice on the Assembly that he will seek to discharge the committee from further consideration of the resolution and bring it out on the floor, where assemblymen would be forced to have a showdown vote. Mr. Andrews made an effort to do this last year and lost only after a sharp debate on the floor.

The Child Labor Amendment which will make it a federal offense to employ children in industry, has been ratified by several states. The fight for ratification here has been conducted in the Assembly, almost single handed, by Mr. Andrews.

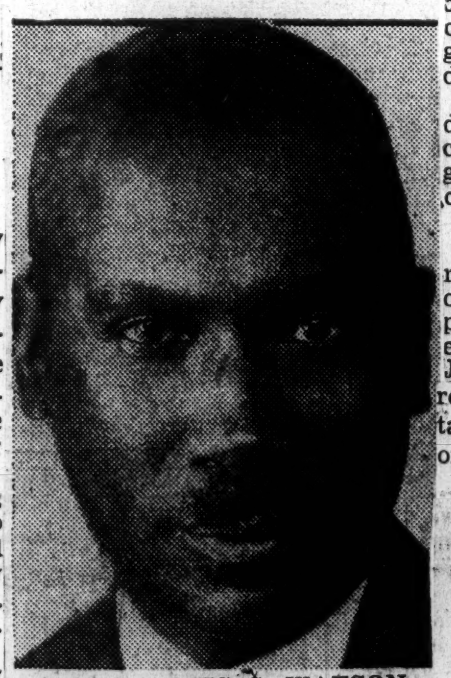
Labor Support.

A delegation of labor leaders and Socialists visited Governor Lehman here this week, just before the committee killed the resolution, and urged him to assume the leadership in the fight. The delegation charged that "the peril of driving children of tender years back to factories is now real and menacing since the outlawing of the NRA."

Republican opposition of Governor Lehman's program is blamed in part for the defeat of the measure in committee. Chairman Stone was condemned by the Chief Executive in his recent crime bill broadcast as "one of the most reactionary legislators I have ever known."

Assemblyman Andrews is assured of the support of Robert W. Justice, Harlem's other legislator, and several other assemblymen in his fight to the floor.

Harlem's Municipal Court Judges Kept Busy



JUDGE JAMES S. WATSON

NEW YORK—That Harlem's two judges, Charles E. Toney and James S. Watson, have had a busy season is indicated by a report issued by the president justice of the municipal court, this week.

According to the report:

"Judge Toney held court 196 days, took 195 inquests, tried 1142 cases, heard 4001 motions and granted and signed 2994 final orders.

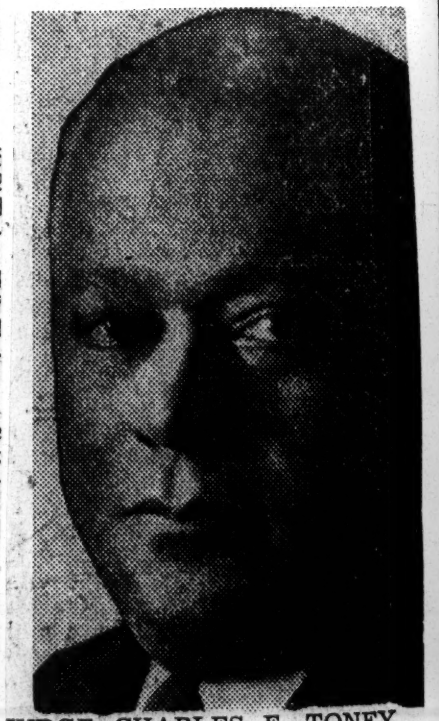
"Judge Watson held court 204 days, took 123 inquests, tried 927 cases, heard 3,668 motions and granted and signed 1475 final orders.

34 Appeals Taken

"It is further disclosed by the records in the office of the Clerk of the Appellate Term, First Department that 34 appeals were taken from judgments and orders of Judge Toney and that ten were reversed, and that 29 appeals were taken from orders and judgments of Judge Watson and 4 reversed.

"It is also interesting to note that their five-year record on the bench has been uniformly good, as shown by the following record for that period of time: Judge Toney held court 1063 days, conducted 6611 trials, took 3,241 inquests, heard and decided 16482 motions, granted and signed 32942 final orders in summary proceedings and had 130 affirmances on appeal and 65 reversals for the five years.

Judge Watson held court 1034½ days, conducted 3378 trials, took 2519 inquests, heard and decided 13507 motions, granted and signed 21875 final orders in summary proceedings and was affirmed 137 and reversed 84 times on appeal during the five-year period.



JUDGE CHARLES E. TONEY

Political—1936

Office Holding

North Carolina

Asheville, N. C. Citizen
July 31, 1936

NEGRO LEADERS OPPOSE WARREN FOR HIGH POST

President Not Expected To Be Moved Because Of Protests

Washington Bureau of
The Asheville Citizen

WASHINGTON, July 30—Having kept a North Carolinian, Judge John J. Parker, off the United States Supreme Court bench, the National association for the Advancement of Colored People, and allied organizations, are now sharpening their harpoons for another Tar Heel who is about to be appointed to a high federal post.

This time Representative Lindsay Warren, of Washington, is the subject of attack from the negro association. It became known here today that, following newspaper reports Warren would be given one of the prize appointments in any administration, that of comptroller general, the White House was bombarded with protests from negro leaders.

In fighting Judge Parker, the negro association claimed the North Carolina jurist and member of the Circuit Court of Appeals had by his decisions demonstrated bias toward the civil and political rights of the colored race. In opposing Warren, the negro associations are claiming that, because as manager of the house restaurant at the Capitol he kept up the color barrier, the North Carolinian is biased against the colored race and should not be given the prize 15-year appointment.

As chairmen of the house committee on accounts, Warren has demonstrated a keen scrutinizing ability and has saved hundreds of thousands of dollars by forcing congressmen to hold down expenditures for telegrams and other office expenses. He has so successfully run the house restaurant that when representative DePriest, Illinois, Republican, raised the issue of not opening the Capitol restaurant to negroes, the house backed up his position. DePriest was allowed to eat in the restaurant with negro friends but this right was not extended to members of his office force or outside colored people.

Representative Mitchell, negro Democrat, who succeeded DePriest, had made no attempt to lower the color barrier at the Capitol.

Warren is being considered as a successor to former Comptroller General McCarl because of his ability for the job and it is believed here that the President will not be moved one iota by the protests which are coming from negro associations.

Judge Parker was also opposed by labor organizations because of a so called yellow dog contract decision but it is fully realized here that he would have been confirmed had it not been the active negro lobby which button-holed senators with their opposition.

Political - 1936
Office Holding

Ohio.

Named Deputy Auditor

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 29—Announcement of the appointment of Wade H. Franklin, Jr., as deputy auditor for Franklin County has been made by Auditor Robert Huffman.

Councilman McClain Wins Places On Vital Cincy Committees

CINCINNATI, Jan. 16.—(By J. T. Whitney for ANP)—Dr. Richard P. McClain, one of the councilmen-at-large for Cincinnati, was placed on three important committees: public institutions, highways ,and sewers, of which he is chairman, when the council was organized for 1936-37 on New Year's Reports from Columbus that Charles H. Hubbell of Cleveland had requested John W. Bricker, Ohio attorney-general, to bring suit to collect $1,000 of the salary paid to Councilman McClain for services in the General Assembly have failed to disturb the new councilman. Dr. McClain declared the matter was entirely up to the attorney-general and the General Assembly. Three other members of the House of Representatives also received their full salaries for the biennium before they resigned. Dr. McClain said he would take no action until he hears from Attorney-General John W. Bricker. Similar requests have been made of former assembly members who have resigned, but the requests failed to result in past action.

CINCINNATI, O.
TIMES STAR

FEB 12 1936

Negro in Town Office 53 Years

CADIZ, O.—(INS)—Cadiz's eighty-year-old town clerk, William H. Lucas, a Negro, is rounding out his twenty-eighth consecutive term in office, nearly fifty-three years of continuous service.

Since taking office in 1882, so courteously and efficiently has he performed his duties that for the last quarter of a century he has been nominated for re-election without opposition.

CLEVELAND, OHIO
PRESS

APR 17 1936

CHARGES BORAH CAN'T OBTAIN COLORED VOTE

Maschke Asserts Thousands Will Flock to Dems if Senator Is Nominee

By RICHARD L. MAHER
The Press Politics Editor

Cuyahoga County Republicans will scuttle their own ship and drive thousands of colored voters into the Democratic Party if they swing to William E. Borah for president, Maurice Maschke, retired G. O. P. leader, asserted today.

In a statement issued as treasurer of the local Robert A. Taft-for-President Committee, Mr. Maschke blasted at the Idaho senator for his attitude on anti-lynching legislation and his "inflationary and soft-money leanings."

It was a terrific thrust at the Borah movement here, where the colored bloc forms the bulwark of the party strength in a primary vote, and it fans into flame their growing opposition to the "lone wolf" for the presidential campaign.

Sees Borah as Handicap

Although confined to his home by a leg injury, Mr. Maschke has kept constant watch on the progress of the Borah-Taft campaign in Ohio. His statement in part follows:

"It is difficult for me to understand why anyone interested in Republican success in this county should support Senator Borah for president. His nomination will so seriously handicap the party here as to make it impossible to elect anyone on our own ticket this fall.

"There are more than 40,000 colored voters here, and it is only through their steadfast attachment to the Republican Party that we ever elect anyone in the city or county. Substantially all of these people are opposed irreconcilably to the senator from Idaho.

"His attitude on anti-lynching bills and his remark of some years ago, 'They were given the vote before they were ready for it,' have been so widely spread among them by their newspapers and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People that they are extremely bitter.

"The argument about the constitutionality of the federal anti-lynching legislation is of no avail with them. 'Let the courts decide, they say,' and they add, 'the senator voted for the triple A bill and that was knocked out by the courts.'

Fears Permanent Break

"They will tell you frankly that if the Republican Party nominates Borah, thousands of them will vote for President Roosevelt and join the Democratic Party. Now Cleveland is one of the few large cities where the colored vote still supports the Republican Party. In New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other large centers, a majority of them are Democrats.

"Should a break come here, it is likely that it will be a permanent one, and with it will go our chances to elect anyone in this county for many years to come.

"Then, I'm not in accord with the inflationary and soft money leanings of the senator. His attitude in the economic field is resented by thousands of business men in this city, and this group usually affiliates itself with the Republican Party."

Political – 1936

Pennsylvania

Office Holding

HAMILTON SWORN IN AS PITTSBURGH ASSESSOR

The Smoky City's Mayor Scully, left, administering the oath of office to Attorney Theron B. Hamilton as City Assessor of Pittsburgh. Attorney Hamilton's appointment was sponsored by Attorney Robert L. Vann.

Courier 12-26-36 Pittsburgh Pa

Political - 1936
Office Holding

Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA'S FIRST COLORED CITY COUNCILMAN

JAMES H. IRVIN

Recently inducted into office as the first colored man ever to sit in the law-making body of Philadelphia, the nation's third largest city.

The New City Councilman is a novice in politics, but gained the united support of an overwhelming majority in last year's elections. His election and the appointment of Ernest. Wright as deputy Recorder of Deeds mark a new advance by the colored voters of the City of Brotherly Love.

HAMILTON TO SUCCEED VANN IN WASHINGTON

Becomes Assistant to Attorney General On Feb. 1

PITTSBURGH. —Theron B. Hamilton, local attorney, has been appointed assistant to the attorney general of the United States, it was announced last week.

The position was offered Mr Hamilton upon the suggestion o: Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh newspaperman, who resigned from the office on January 15.

Takes Oath February 1

Mr. Hamilton was ordered to be in Washington Saturday, February 1, to take oath of office.

Business duties forced Mr. Vann to resign the office he has held for the last three years. He was honored by being given the privilege to name his successor.

Attorney Hamilton has been a staunch Democrat for years. Senator Guffey and David L. Lawrence, state chairman, supported the selection.

Graduate of Wilberforce

Hamilton is a graduate of Wilberforce university and is a member of a pioneer Atlanta family. He completed a course in accountancy at Wilberforce before entering Duquesne university's law school here.

Vann Retires From U.S. Post

CHICAGO, —(ANP) Mr. Robert Vann, editor of the Pittsburgh Courier, reaffirmed here Saturday that he had tendered his resignation as Special Assistant To The U. S. Attorney General to take effect Feb. 1. Mr Vann who had been appointed June 30, 1933 in a definite statement as to his reason for leaving the governm[illegible]'s service, said that he did [illegible] purely because of the demands of his own business which has been increasing in enormous volume during the past few years. Reports from Washington which had rumored that Mr. Vann would assume charge of the democratic campaign among colored voters this year were denied by the publisher. He admitted as Washington dispatches had indicated that he had been permitted to name his successor and that Theron Bertram Hamilton of Pittsburgh would succeed to his post Feb. 1.

Mr. Vann will accompany Mr. Hamilton to Washington to have him sworn in. Mr. Vann was attached to the Public Lands Division of the Attorney General's Office and is said to have won both the esteem and admiration of his associates by his efficiency in the department.

Political – 1936
Office Holding

Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA'S FIRST COLORED CITY COUNCILMAN

JAMES H. IRVIN

Recently inducted into office as the first colored man ever to sit in the law-making body of Philadelphia, the nation's third largest city.

The New City Councilman is a novice in politics, but gained the united support of an overwhelming majority in last year's elections. His election and the appointment of Ernest Wright as deputy Recorder of Deeds mark a new advance by the colored voters of the City of Brotherly Love.

HAMILTON TO SUCCEED VANN IN WASHINGTON

Becomes Assistant to Attorney General On Feb. 1

PITTSBURGH. —Theron B. Hamilton, local attorney, has been appointed assistant to the attorney general of the United States, it was announced last week.

The position was offered Mr Hamilton upon the suggestion of Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh newspaperman, who resigned from the office on January 15.

Takes Oath February 1

Mr. Hamilton was ordered to be in Washington Saturday, February 1, to take oath of office.

Business duties forced Mr. Vann to resign the office he has held for the last three years. He was honored by being given the privilege to name his successor.

Attorney Hamilton has been a staunch Democrat for years. Senator Guffey and David L. Lawrence, state chairman, supported the selection.

Graduate of Wilberforce

Hamilton is a graduate of Wilberforce university and is a member of a pioneer Atlanta family. He completed a course in accountancy at Wilberforce before entering Duquesne university's law school here.

Vann Retires From U.S. Post

CHICAGO, —(ANP) Mr. Robert Vann, editor of the Pittsburgh Courier, reaffirmed here Saturday, that he had tendered his resignation as Special Assistant To The U. S. Attorney General to take effect Feb. 1. Mr Vann who had been appointed June 3, 1933 in a definite statement as to his reason for leaving the government's service, said that he did so entirely because of the demands of his own business which has been increasing in enormous volume during the past few years. Reports from Washington which had rumored that Mr. Vann would assume charge of the democratic campaign among colored voters this year were denied by the publisher. He admitted as Washington dispatches had indicated that he had been permitted to name his successor and that Theron Bertram Hamilton of Pittsburgh would succeed to his post Feb. 1.

Mr. Vann will accompany Mr. Hamilton to Washington to have him sworn in. Mr. Vann was attached to the Public Lands Division of the Attorney General's Office and is said to have won both the esteem and admiration of his associates by his efficiency in the department.

Gets Political Post

ALBERT READING

MEDIA, Pa. — Albert Reading, president of the Pennsylvania Association of Elks, and Exalted Ruler of John A. Watts Lodge of Chester, Pa., has been reappointed in the District Attorney's office of Delaware County.

A political supporter of Senator John J. McClure ever since he has been in politics, Reading is political leader in Delaware County and formerly held the post to which he has been reappointed.

Reading was born in Chester. His wife, Mrs. Helen Rothwell Reading, is a daughter of one of Chester's oldest families.

The salary of the office is $2,500 per year and his political followers and members of the Elks are planning a testimonial dinner in his honor to take place in the near future.

Hamilton Sworn Into New Office

WASHINGTON — Theron B. Hamilton, an attorney, of Pittsburgh, took the oath of office as a special assistant to the Attorney General last Saturday.

He succeeds Robert L. Vann, also of Pittsburgh, who resigned in order to devote his time to his private business interests. He is the editor of a Pittsburgh newspaper and a lawyer.

The swearing in of Mr. Hamilton was without fanfare. While newspaper men were trying to find out in whose office the ceremony would take place, the oath was administered to him.

Senator Joseph F. Guffey, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, Mr. Vann, and Wilbur C. Douglass, former assistant city solicitor, of Pittsburgh, were present.

SPEAKERS PAY TRIBUTE

In the evening, the Justice Club, an organization of employees of the Department of Justice, of which Morrissey S. Koonce is the president, gave a dinner at Harrison's Cafe, in honor of Mr. Vann.

A long list of speakers paid tribute to Mr. Vann in the various avenues in which they have known him. Garnet C. Wilkinson, first assistant superintendent of schools, praised him as a public-spirited newspaper publisher.

William L. Houston, an attorney, complimented him on being the only colored officeholder since Frederick Douglass, who had voluntary resigned from public office. Eugene Kinckle Jones, adviser to the Secretary of Commerce, told of his boyhood struggles to attain an education.

VANN RESPONDS

Other speakers included Mr. Vann's successor, Mr. Hamilton; Judge Armond W. Scott, of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, William C. Hueston, a former assistant solicitor to the Post Office Department; Wilbur C. Douglass, of Pittsburgh; Joseph H. B. Evans, Edgar B. Brown, F. D. Wilkinson, J. Finley Wilson, Joseph Green, and James E. Kelley, grand secretary of the Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World.

Mr. Vann responded. He declared that he was retiring because he could not, while on the Federal payroll, attend to his business. Other than his private interests and his law practice, he described his job as seeing to it that certain things were done for the colored people of Pennslyvania.

His objectives he gave as the enactment of certain legislation by the State Legislature of Pennsylvania and the allocation of certain patronage.

Louis R. Mehlinger, an attorney in the Department of Justice, was the master of ceremonies. He was introduced by Mr. Koonce, who outlined the struggles of colored employees in the Department of Justice over a period of 40 years. Robert B. Thompson, Jr., explained the purposes of the Justice Club. Walter L. Clarke whistled two selections. The Dixie Harmonies Quartet sang several selections.

RECOUNTS SERVICES

Maurice H. Ferguson recounted the services of colored men who had held high positions under the Department of Justice from William H. Lewis, an attorney of Boston, Mass., who was an assistant attorney general under President land, vice president of the Justice Taft, to Mr. Vann. Thomas Hol- Club, also spoke.

Besides the guest of honor, other guests at the dinner were Theron B. Hamilton, Edgar B. Brown, James E. Browne, William Jones. Louis R. Lautier, Joseph H. B. Evans, F. D. Wilkinson, William C. Hueston, Eugene Kinckle Jones, Garnet C. Wilkinson, Judge Armond W. Scott, J. Finley Wilson, William L. Houston, Oren Thompson, Wilbur C. Douglass of Pittsburgh. James E. Kelley of Bir-

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RECORD

JAN 12 1936

NEGRO COUNCILMAN POLITICAL NOVICE

Irvin, Undertaker Here 50 Years, Never Before Sought Office.

By ORRIN C. EVANS

The seating of James H. Irvin as City Councilman last week marked the culmination of a three-year drive by united Negro organizations throughout the city.

Although many of them were at daggers' points on other questions the groups joined forces for the first time since 1932 in an effort to gain representation in Council, the effort which now has been crowned with success.

Novice at Politics.

Irvin, an undertaker here for the last 50 years, never before ran for public office, nor had he ever taken an active part in politics. One of the wealthiest Negroes in Philadelphia, he was drafted by a group of West Philadelphians to run for the seat in the 4th Senatorial district.

Irvin, who lives at 743 N. 47th st., is Philadelphia's first Negro Councilman since the days of the old Common and Select Councils, which merged in 1920 into the present single body.

In former years, however, Negroes had served in Common Council. Chris J. Perry, Negro newspaper editor, served three terms, retiring in 1905. He was succeeded by Richard Cooper, still active in 7th ward politics.

Sparing of Oratory.

Goateed, with straight black hair, Irvin is an impressive figure. Parsimonious in the use of words, few flights, if any, into the realm of oratory are expected of him. He carries himself with the dignity common to his profession.

A native of Baltimore, he has lived here for more than 50 years. He is the founder of Reeve Memorial Presbyterian Church, 50th and Aspen sts., one of the largest and most influential Negro churches in Philadelphia. He also is the largest stockholder in Mt. Lawn Cemetery, Sharon Hill. His wife, Cornelia; a son, Henry, and daughter, Catherine, aid him in the conduct of his business.

CITY SOLICITOR

Mrs. Sadie T. M. Alexander, who has been appointed assistant city solicitor of Philadelphia by Mayor S. Davis Wilson. The position pays $3,000 a year. Considered one of the ablest practicing attorneys in the Quaker City, Mrs. Alexander is the wife of the noted lawyer, Raymond Pace Alexander.

Hart's Widow May Be His Successor In Legislature

(Special to Journal and Guide)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — The widow of Samuel Beecher Hart, who died suddenly here last week, may succeed to the vacancy his passing leaves in the Pennsylvania Legislature if the efforts of powerful politcal leaders, pledged to that end, are successful.

Mrs. Hart, the former Miss Anna Roselle, is characterized as eminently fitted for the legislative post her husband, a Republican, held without nterruption since he was first elected in 1924. Returned to the Legislature each year since 1924, Mr. Hart was slated for renomination at the coming spring primaries.

There was not a single bill introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature designed to better the condition of the Negro citizens of this state that was not endorsed heartily, if not introduced, by Mr. Hart. It was he who first drew attention of the legislative body to the Negro unit of the National Guard and the erection of the All Wars Memorial in Fairmount Park to Negro soldiers. Through his activity on state committees, Mr. Hart was able to see that Negroes received proper recognition

Political-1936
Office Holding.

Pennsylvania

Vann Quits Justice Post Because of the Lack of Dignity of His Office

Washington Tribune

Washington Star

Official Says Vann Handled No Case of Importance During Tenure in Office

HAD SMALL OFFICE; NO SECRETARY

Automobile Accident Only High Spot of His Career In the Department

Theron B. Hamilton, of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been appointed to succeed Robert L. Vann as special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States, the Associated Negro Press announced this week.

Vann, in confirming the report, admitted that he had been permitted to name his successor and that Hamilton would take over the office February 1, Vann will accompany Hamilton to Washington on that date to witness the oath of office administered. Hamilton will be assigned to the same division that Vann occupied — Public Lands Division.

Hamilton, a native of Atlanta, is a member of the well-known Hamilton family of that city, his father having achieved prominence as a contractor there. Mr. Hamilton took his college work at Atlanta University and law at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dissatisfied because of the lack of importance and dignity his position carried is given by a high official in the Democratic ranks as reasons why Vann, Pittsburgh publisher, resigned his position in the Department of Justice.

Vann, one of the members of the "Big Four" in the Roosevelt 1932 campaign, was appointed to the Department of Justice and assigned to the public lands division, shortly after President Roosevelt assumed the office of the Chief Executive.

A small office was assigned him in the old Department of Justice Building, and a white man usually occupied the outer office to answer the telephone that seldom rang. All during this period of more than a year Vann did not prosecute any cases or handle any case of importance that would place him in the limelight or before the public.

Was Forgotten

Those who were aware that he was associated with the Department of Justice had forgotten it until about a year ago when he met with misfortune while en route to Washington from his Pittsburgh home.

The heavy car in which he was riding overturned, fractured his skull and caused him internal injuries that placed him in the hospital hovering between the point of life and death for several weeks.

His Resignation

As soon as the attorney was able to leave the hospital and return to his office in the Department of Justice, he was again lost sight of until the Washington Tribune broke with the news of his resignation, which Vann, himself, had said nothing about.

At the Department of Justice it was said that Vann stated in his resignation that he was resigning to enable him to devote his full time to his private affairs in Pittsburgh.

Got $5,0000 Per Year

Why he should give up his position in the Department, which was paying him $5,000 a year, to return to his private affairs in Pittsburgh, was a question of great speculation here and abroad. Many knew that Vann's private affairs had been given consideration when he was appointed to the Department of Justice, who had an understanding with him that he was to be permitted to go to Pittsburgh each week-end, leaving here Friday, and returning Tuesday. This was to give the publisher opportunity to give some time to his publication in Pittsburgh.

It has been said that during Vann's entire career in the Department of Justice, he was unable to get an appointment with the Attorney General and was otherwise shoved in the background in his small office which later was moved to the new Department of Justice Building.

No Secretary

In the new building, Vann had no secretary, and during the periods that he was out of town, his office could not be contacted by telephone. The switch-board operator served to say to callers that the office was not open.

While Vann was drawing the salary for doing little work, he was not the kind of person who liked to fiddle on his time. He is naturally energetic, and likes to be doing something all the time. To be paid for doing nothing, as a plum for his activities in the 1932 Democratic campaign, was more than he could stand.

DR. SADIE ALEXANDER GETS CITY LAW POST

Amsterdam News

Again Serving Philadelphia as Solicitor's Aid

3-7-36

PHILADELPHIA, March 5.—Dr. Sadie T. M. Alexander, prominent attorney and law partner of her husband, Raymond Pace Alexander, was appointed an assistant city solicitor last week by Mayor S. Davis Wilson.

The mayor also named Mrs. Rose J. Satterwhite a policewoman, the first of her race to hold such a position. Mrs. Satterwhite will be one of five policewomen who will co-ordinate work among children under 16.

Dr. Alexander, who holds a Ph. D. degree in addition to her collegiate and law school degrees, served before as assistant solicitor in the administration of former Mayor Mackey. She will receive $3,000 annually.

MRS. ALEXANDER IS NAMED PHILADELPHIA PROSECUTOR

Pittsburgh Courier

Served Four Years In Solicitor's Office During Administration of Former Mayor Mackey.

Pennsylvania, where she also earned her Master's degree and Doctorate. She is a niece of Dr. Nathan F. Mossell and of Henry O. Tanner, internationally known artist and a cousin of Paul Robeson.

The Alexanders are attending Frog Week in Pittsburgh this week and the sessions of the National Bar Association of which Mr. Alexander is a former president.

Dr. Sadie T. M. Alexander

Appointed Friday As Assistant City Solicitor By Mayor S. Davis Wilson.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6—Dr. Sadie T. M. Alexander, only woman lawyer of her race in this city, was named an Assistant City Solicitor by Mayor S. Davis Wilson, on Friday.

Mrs. Alexander, who is the wife of Raymond Pace Alexander, local attorney, served four years in the Solicitor's office during the term of Mayor Mackey.

The former Sadie Tanner Mossell is a graduate of the University of

Political—1936
Office Holding.

Pennsylvania

Vann Quits Justice Post Because of the Lack of Dignity of His Office

Official Says Vann Handled No Case of Importance During Tenure in Office; HAD SMALL OFFICE; NO SECRETARY

Automobile Accident Only High Spot of His Career In the Department

Theron B. Hamilton, of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been appointed to succeed Robert L. Vann as special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States, the Associated Negro Press announced this week.

Vann, in confirming the report, admitted that he had been permitted to name his successor and that Hamilton would take over the office February 1, Vann will accompany Hamilton to Washington on that date to witness the oath of office administered. Hamilton will be assigned to the same division that Vann occupied —Public Lands Division.

Hamilton, a native of Atlanta, is a member of the well-known Hamilton family of that city, his father having achieved prominence as a contractor there. Mr. Hamilton took his college work at Atlanta University and law at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dissatisfied because of the lack of importance and dignity of the position carried is given by a high official in the Democratic ranks as reasons why Vann, Pittsburgh publisher, resigned his position in the Department of Justice.

Vann, one of the members of the "Big Four" in the Roosevelt 1932 campaign, was appointed to the Department of Justice and assigned to the public lands division, shortly after President Roosevelt assumed the office of the Chief Executive.

A small office was assigned him in the old Department of Justice Building, and a white man usually occupied the outer office to answer the telephone that seldom rang. All during this period of more than a year Vann did not prosecute any cases or handle any case of importance that would place him in the limelight or before the public.

Was Forgotten

Those who were aware that he was associated with the Department of Justice had forgotten it until about a year ago when he met with misfortune while en route to Washington from his Pittsburgh home.

The heavy car in which he was riding overturned, fractured his skull and caused him internal injuries that placed him in the hospital hovering between the point of life and death for several weeks.

His Resignation

As soon as the attorney was able to leave the hospital and return to his office in the Department of Justice, he was again signed to the public lands division when he was appointed to the Department of Justice, who had an understanding with him that he was to be permitted to go to Pittsburgh each week-end, leaving here Friday, and returning Tuesday. This was to give the publisher opportunity to give some time to his publication in Pittsburgh.

It has been said that during Vann's entire career in the Department of Justice, he was unable to get an appointment with the Attorney General and was otherwise shoved in the background in his small office which later was moved to the new Department of Justice Building.

No Secretary

In the new building, Vann had no secretary, and during the periods that he was out of town, his office could not be contacted by telephone. The switch-board operator served to say to callers that the office was not open.

While Vann was drawing the salary for doing little work, he was not the kind of person who liked to fiddle on his time. He is naturally energetic, and likes to be doing something all the time. To be paid for doing nothing, as a plum for his activities in the 1932 Democratic campaign, was more than he could stand.

DR. SADIE ALEXANDER GETS CITY LAW POST Again Serving Philadelphia as Solicitor's Aid

3-7-36

PHILADELPHIA, March 5.—Dr. Sadie T. M. Alexander, prominent attorney and law partner of her husband, Raymond Pace Alexander, was appointed an assistant city solicitor last week by Mayor S. Davis Wilson.

The mayor also named Mrs. Rose J. Satterwhite a policewoman, the first of her race to hold such a position. Mrs. Satterwhite will be one of five policewomen who will co-ordinate work among children under 16.

Dr. Alexander, who holds a Ph. D. degree in addition to her collegiate and law school degrees, served before as assistant solicitor in the administration of former Mayor Mackey. She will receive $3,000 annually.

MRS. ALEXANDER IS NAMED PHILADELPHIA PROSECUTOR

Pittsburgh Courier 3-8-36

Pittsburgh Pa

Appointed Friday As Assistant City Solicitor By Mayor S. Davis Wilson.

Served Four Years In Solicitor's Office During Administration of Former Mayor Mackey.

Dr. Sadie T. M. Alexander

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6—Dr. Sadie T. M. Alexander, only woman lawyer of her race in this city, was named an Assistant City Solicitor by Mayor S. Davis Wilson, on Friday.

Mrs. Alexander, who is the wife of Raymond Pace Alexander, local attorney, served four years in the Solicitor's office during the term of Mayor Mackey.

The former Sadie Tanner Mossell is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where she also earned her Master's degree and Doctorate. She is a niece of Dr. Nathan F. Mossell and of Henry O. Tanner, internationally known artist and a cousin of Paul Robeson.

The Alexanders are attending Frog Week in Pittsburgh this week and the sessions of the National Bar Association of which Mr. Alexander is a former president.

Dr. Maxwell Named Philly Police Surgeon

Courier 10-10-36

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8 — Dr. Charles W. Maxwell, well known Philadelphia surgeon, has been appointed police surgeon by the City Council and his election has been received generally as a wise choice, in view of the fact that he has every qualification for such a position.

Dr. Maxwell is a native of Sumter, S. C., and son of the late Senator H. J. Maxwell. He matriculated at Howard University Medical School in 1904. He spent 18 years practicing in Sumter, S. C., and 14 years in Philadelphia.

His discovery of the therapeutic action of a drug that aids in controlling hemorrhages is looked upon as his most outstanding achievement. Many of his articles have been published in some of the leading national medical jolrnals of the country.

Dr. Maxwell holds membership in medical and social organizations in the city as well as being well known in political circles.

Appointed to Posi of Police Surgeon

Afro-American 9-26-36

PHILADELPHIA — The appointment, Wednesday, of Dr. Charles W. Maxwell of 616 S. Fifteenth Street, has increased the number of colored police surgeons in Philadelphia to two, the first appointee being Dr. John P. Turner, member of the board of education.

Born in Sumter, S.C., Dr. Maxwell received his education at Biddle University in Charlotte, N.C., and Howard Medical School, Washington. He practiced in Sumter for eighteen years and has been in Philadelphia fourteen years. He has been active politically and also in civic circles. The position pays $2,200 a year.

"I deeply appreciate it because it represents further advancement for our group," he told the AFRO.

Dr. Turner said, "I am very glad that he has been appointed and we out to have an equal representation of colored people in all of the departments of the city."

Dr. Maxwell is the son-in-law of ex-Congressman Thomas E. Miller.

New Police Surgeon

DR. CHARLES W. MAXWELL, of 616 S. Fifteenth Street, appointed last week as police surgeon, who was sworn in by Director of Public Saftey, Emanuel. Dr. Maxwell is the second colored police surgeon to be appointed in Philadelphia—two out of a total of twelve.

SURGEON

DR. C. W. MAXWELL

Second Negro in the history of Philadelphia to be appointed police surgeon. He will receive $2,200 a year. Dr. Maxwell, who has practiced medicine 32 years, gained recognition in nation-wide medical circles for the discovery in 1916 of the therapeutic action of a drug that aids in controlling hemorrahges. Dr. John P. Turner, now a member of the Philadelphia board of education, was the first Negro police surgeon in that city. —ANS Photo.

Political – 1936

Tennessee

Office Holding

DR. J. A. NAPIER CHOSEN MEMBER OF STATE COMMITTEE

Well Known Dentist Defeats Dr. M. E. Lawrence in Listless Primary

With a superior organization for getting out the vote, and strongly by the "inner circle" of the local Republican organization, Dr. J. A. Napier, well known dentist, easily defeated Dr. M. Lawrence for membership on the Republican State Executive Committee in the listless primary held in Davidson County and two other counties of the Fifth Congressional District last Thursday. Dr. Napier, the nephew of the Hon. J. C. Napier, had the support of his distinguished uncle, long conspicuous in the affairs of the Republican party. It is conceded that the efforts of R. C. Grant, member of the Davidson County Primary Board, was the most decisive factor in bringing about the defeat of Dr. Lawrence.

The latest tabulations of votes from the primary shows that less than 900 Republicans in Davidson County went to the polls to vote and that 110 voted in Montgomery County and 300 in Macon county.

Dr. Napier is credited with having received 559 votes to 197 for Dr. Lawrence.

Mrs. Clemmie White of Davidson county and Mrs. Bessie Dillard of Macon county had no opposition for re-election as committeewomen. Both, however, received a good complimentary vote, with Mrs. Dillard leading all other contestants in total votes received. Next to Mrs. Dillard was the vote rolled up for Dr. W. W. Taylor, the other member of the committee.

The Hon. Dwayne Maddox of Huntingdon received a majority of the vote in this county over the Hon. Henry N. Camp, Jr., of Knoxville. They received 251 and 195 votes respectively, according to report.

In four of the seven counties of the district no primary was held. Most Republicans, it is learned, voted in the Democratic primary and were unwilling to vote also in the Republican primary because the law makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine, to vote in more than one primary on the same day.

ONE

HON. RICHARD M. ATKINSON
(14,144 votes)

TWO

HON. WILL T. CHEEK
(14,131 votes)

THREE

HON. J. CARLTON LOSER
(12,530 votes)

In what proved to be an honest-to-goodness three cornered race for congress in the Fifth District of Tennessee the Hon. Richard M. Atkinson nosed out the Hon. Will T. Cheek in the hectic primary held Thursday of last week. Gen. Atkinson's plurality was only 13 votes in an election where more than 40,000 votes were cast. Gen. J. Carlton Loser who ran third trailed the winner by only a few thousand votes. All three candidates conducted dignified campaigns and were strongly supported by colored citizens in all parts of the district.

Alitical-1936

Office Holding.

Texas

FORMER NEGRO LEGISLATOR IS B. T. W. SPEAKER

Informer

Encourages Students To Want To Be Somebody

3-14-36

DALLAS.—As one of its most important features in the observance of Texas History Week, the Texas History class of Booker Washington high school, under the leadership of Thomas Tolbert, instructor presented R. L. Smith, Texas' only living Negro legistator, as guest speaker in a program dedicated to the Texas Centennial.

In his lecture Mr. Smith dealt with the achievements of the Negro during the period of his active years of service as legislator, giving high points of occurences in his career. "We must learn to be somebody, and decide just who we are" he said, "and when we do that we may consider ourselves somebody."

President of the Farmer's Industrial and Agricultural School at Wolfe City, Texas, he asserted that there is a need of courage and energy in the Negro race, "because this is the only true means of putting things over."

Mr. Smith also mentioned several men who at the time of his election were of great service to the race, among them being the late Fred Douglas, also a legislator.

The Bellerophon Quill Club, under the sponsorship of J. Masor of Brewer, was presented also on this program in a group of verses titled "Patriotic Moments", composed by members of the club. Those who read poems, Annie Mae Richards, Walter Boykins, Gusy Lee Body, Maoma Caxson, Lucille Bosh, Annie Mae Conley, Margaret Dixon, Shelton Garrett, Alvin Hatcher, Hattie Logan, Alma Fay Stafford, Jimmie Bruce Lee president and Wilma Lyons, secretary.

Remarks from principal, L. V. Williams and Texas songs rendered by the Ambassadors completed the program.

Political - 1936
Office Holding

Unveiling Ceremony of Portraits of the Recorders of Deeds.

THEIR PORTRAITS UNVEILED IN D. C.

Above: former Recorders of Deeds of the District of Columbia whose portraits were unveiled Tuesday, December 15, in the Government Auditorium, Constitution avenue.

Oil Portraits Of Recorders To Be Unveiled

Journal and Guide
12-12-36

Ceremony To Be Held In Government Hall On Dec. 15

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Government officials and leaders in all walks of life will participate in a mass unveiling of oil portraits of former recorders of deeds for the District of Columbia, in the government auditorium on Constitution Avenue, Tuesday, December 15, 8 p. m. Journal

Portraits of the former recorders were done in oil by three prominent artists employed by the Workers Progress Administration. Among the artists was Miss Velma Buckner, a Washington girl and a graduate of Dunbar High School and Howard and Columbia Universities. She lives at 1129 Fairmont Street, Northwest. The other two artists were Wadsworth Moore and Alan Flavelle. and

Many of the paintings, though copies from old, faded pictures and newspaper prints, were skillfully done. L. G. Hyman, an expert in photography and a grandson of the late John A. Hyman, congressman from North Carolina, aided in the selection of photographs from which the paintings were done.

The first recorder of deeds for the District was Simon Wolf, appointed May 15, 1869. Upon his resignation in 1878, George A. Sheridan, a Negro, was appointed. Since that time all of the recorders, with one exception, have been Negroes. Guide

Following the unveiling, the paintings will be presented to Dr. William J. Thompkins, the presen recorder, by Russell Parr, supervisor of the art department of the PWA that did the paintings.

The Howard University School of Music will furnish music. Cadets from the three Negro high schools here will serve as atendants and ushers during the ceremony.

The paintings of each recorder will be unveiled by someone well acquainted with the individual. The paintings to be unveiled and those to perform the ceremony are as follows: 12-15-36

Simon Wolf, unveiled by Attorney Maurice Rosenberg; Frederick Douglass by Mrs. Mary Church Terrell; James C. Matthews by Attorney Belford V. Lawson, Jr.; Blanche K. Bruce by Attorney William L. Houston; Charles H. J. Taylor by Congressman Joseph B. Shannon of Missouri; Henry P. Cheatham by Dr. John R. Hawkins, financial secretary of the A. M. E. Church.

John C. Dancy by C. C. Spaulding, president of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, Durham, N. C.; Henry Lincoln Johnson by Roscoe Conklin Simmons, Chicago, Ill.; John F. Costello by Malcolm McConine, Democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia; and Arthur G. Froe by Harry J. Capehart, Welch, West Virginia.

Recorders of Deeds for the District of Columbia: Norfolk, Va. Norfolk, Va.

SIMON WOLF was appointed as recorder of deeds effective May 15, 1869, and confirmed August 21, 1869.

GEORGE A. SHERIDAN, upon the resignation of Wolf, was appointed, effective May 17, 1878, and confirmed May 21, 1878.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS, upon the resignation of Sheridan, was appointed, and confirmed May 17, 1881.

JAMES C. MATTHEWS, upon the resignation of Douglass, was nominated, the Senate rejecting the nomination July 31, 1886. Matthews, being again nominated, was again rejected January 26, 1887, having served a recess appointment.

JAMES M. TROTTER was then nominated to succeed Douglass, being confirmed March 3, 1887.

BLANCHE K. BRUCE succeeded Trotter, being confirmed February 6, 1890.

CHARLES H. J. TAYLOR was nominated to succeed Bruce and though the nomination was reported adversely April 20, 1894, it was confirmed May 23, 1894.

HENRY P. CHEATHAM, upon the resignation of Taylor, was nominated, and confirmed May 13, 1897.

JOHN C. DANCY was nominated, upon the resignation of Cheatham, and was confirmed January 13, 1902.

HENRY LINCOLN JOHNSON was nominated upon the resignation of Dancy and confirmed March 14, 1910. He took office May 2, 1910, serving until his resignation was accepted, effective June 30, 1914. Robert W. Dutton, deputy recorder, as recorder until July 13, 1916.

JOHN F. COSTELLO took office July 13, 1916 having been previously confirmed.

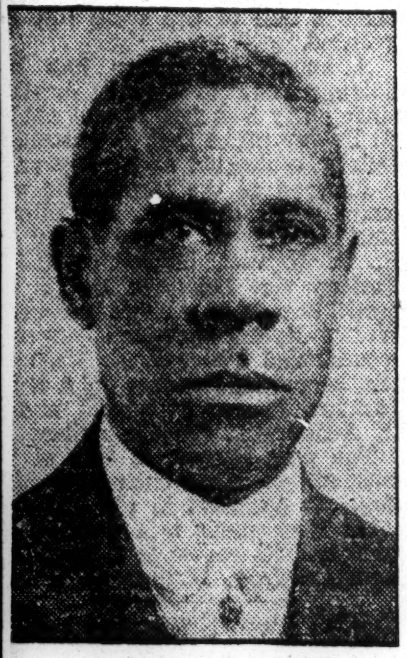
ARTHUR G. FROE, upon the resignation of Costello took office March 1, 1922, having been confirmed February 15, 1922.

JEFFERSON S. COAGE succeeded Froe October 1st, 1930, upon the latter's resignation.

WILLIAM J. THOMPKINS succeeded Coage April 20, 1934, having been confirmed April 17, 1934. Is present incumbent.

TO BE HONORED IN OIL

DR. W. J. THOMPKINS



JEFFERSON S. COAGE

HENRY LINCOLN JOHNSON

Among the former Recorder of Deeds to be honored next Tuesday at Washington when government officials and leaders throughout the nation gather for a mass unveiling of oil portraits of each, are the late Henry Lincoln Johnson, Jefferson S. Coage and the present Recorder, Dr. William J. Thompkins. The portraits were done in oil by artists employed by the WPA. Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, C. C. Spaulding, Roscoe Conkling Simmons and other outstanding persons will have prominent parts on the program.

WPA ARTIST

Miss Velma Buckner, Howard University graduate, who was one of three artists who drew the portraits of thirteen former recorder of deeds and the present incumbent, scheduled to be unveiled Tuesday.

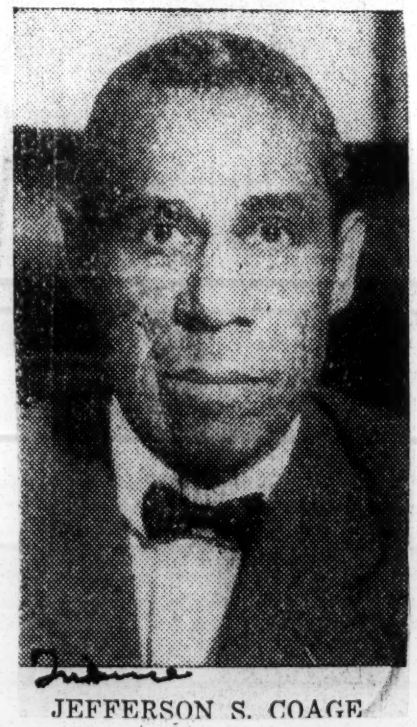
Political - 1936
Office Holding

Unveiling Ceremony of Portraits of the Recorders of Deeds.

Recorders to be Unveiled at Ceremony Tonight

Indianapolis 12-15-36 Washington, D.C.

Portraits of the present recorder and former holders of the office which will be unveiled tonight (Tuesday) in the Government Auditorium on Constitution Avenue. Setting a precedent, Dr. William J. Thompkins, present office-holder, who is in charge of the program, is having his own portrait unveiled. To the right is a picture of Jefferson S. Coage, only living former colored recorder, whose picture is left out. John F. Costello, living white former recorder, is included in the ceremony. Hundreds of citizens and civic associations have protested against the exclusion of Mr. Coage and the inclusion of Mr. Costello and the present office-holder.

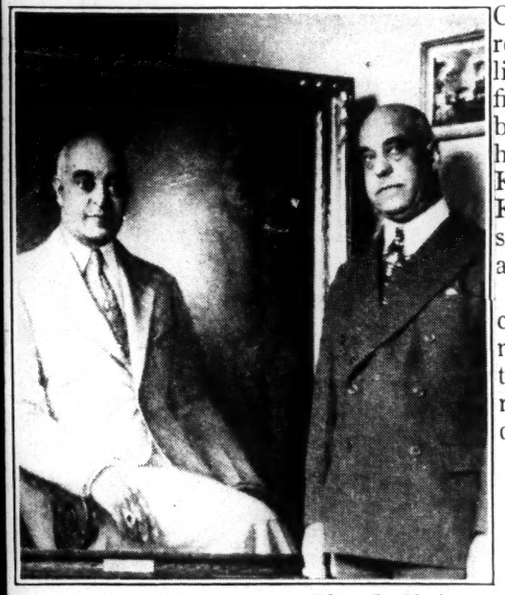


JEFFERSON S. COAGE

RACES

Recorders Recorded

Last week from the auditorium walls of Washington's new Department of Labor Building ten flat black & tan faces stared importantly out over a large audience. In the audience, hundreds of three-dimensional black & tan faces beamed pridefully back. The flat faces belonged to Federal



Thos. D. McAvoy

DR. WILLIAM J. THOMPKINS

President Garfield created a little island.

Art Project portraits of men who have served the District of Columbia as Recorders of Deeds since Reconstruction days. The three-dimensional faces belonged to leaders of Washington's large Negro population who turned out in formal attire to witness the unveiling of the portraits. They had come to pay homage to a little administrative island in the U. S. Government which has remained in charge of colored folk for most of the past 60 years.

After the Civil War, U. S. Negroes began to clamor for official positions with the Government which had set them free. An active early colored Abolitionist was Frederick Augustus Washington Bailey, slave son of a slave mother by a white father. When he fled from Maryland to the North after the wife of his master had secretly taught him to read and write, he changed his name to Frederick Douglass, became famed as an Abolition orator and editor. As his fame grew, Northern friends who feared he would be returned to Maryland under the Fugitive Slave Law sent him to England to drum up sympathy for his black brothers. Back in the U. S. after the War, Abolitionist Douglass became a potent leader of freed U. S. Negroes. In 1871, President Grant appointed Frederick Douglass Assistant Secretary of the Santo Domingo Commission. President Grant's appointment proved so popular with U. S. Negroes that President Garfield named Douglass Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia in 1881, allowed him to staff his office with Negroes. Since then U. S. Presidents have failed to follow President Garfield's precedent only twice. Present incumbent is colored William J. Thompkins appointed by President Roosevelt in 1934.

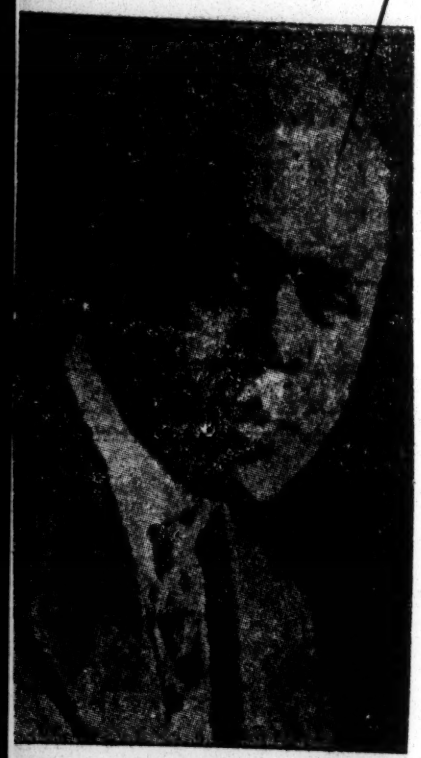
Washingtonians of Southern extraction still dislike dealing with Negro clerks when they go to the Recorder's office in the Century Building to file records of their real estate transactions. Dr. Thompkins, like other Negroes who have held the office, is used to this. A distinguished member of his race, the 56-year-old Missourian has studied at three universities. In Kansas City, where he is editor of the Kansas City American, he was first Negro superintendent of General Hospital No. 2 and chief of its surgical staff.

After last week's ceremonies the Recorders' portraits, which gave three months' employment at $79 a month to three artists, were hung in the dusky corridors of Recorder of Deeds Thompkins' offices.

Political—1936
Office Holding.

Virginia.

Gets Post



1ST LT. WHITTIER H. WRIGHT
Who received a telegram last Saturday to report immediately for the CCC camp No. 349 located at Edgeston, Va., to serve a term of six months as camp physician. Out of the 276 physicians assigned to service by the Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania units, 11 are members of the Race.

Appoint Two Enumerators

Dennett
3-7-36

W. P. Smith, Supervisor of the Census of Business, today announced that two colored enumerators have been appointed to present the Census forms to Colored business houses and help them fill out the necessary information. They are Rose L. Coleman and Elisha Chandler.

Political - 1936
Office Holding

Virginia

THE DARKY JOKE

We are not in a position to assign the causes for the defeat of David Satterfield, Jr., in his close race for Congress against former governor Andrew J. Montague. We do know, however, that Mr. Satterfield lost many votes last Tuesday as a result of the "Old Darky Joke" with which he opened his radio speech last Monday evening. We are reliably informed that a number of Negro Democrats either changed their minds as to how they would vote the next day or refrained from voting at all, after hearing this bantering of a race by the young Congressional aspirant.

For our part, we would have expected Mr. Montague to indulge in this type much more readily than his opponent. The aged Congressman sees behind him whereas Mr. Satterfield should be able to discern a changing world with its changing outlooks and sensibilities. The term "Darky" might have been regarded in days long since spent, as a term of endearment. In the present day, however, it is regarded as an insult and some Negroes are learning to resent insults. We find ourselves pondering over the reason which prompted Mr. Satterfield to employ an unnecessary "Darky Joke" on the eve of an important election in which the best man should have been returned victor.

PERNICIOUS POLITICAL ACTIVITY

Berkley Williams was removed from his position as postmaster of Richmond two years before his term of office expired upon a trumped-up charge of pernicious political activities, when there was not the slightest evidence to sustain the charge. Of course every sensible person knows that Mr. Williams was a victim of the Farley spoils system which is condoned and approved by the President of the United States who uses smile and rhetoric to conceal broken promises and political profiteering. In view of the ravages made upon the merit system by this comet-like administration which wanders from one constellation to the other in order to hide its inconstant ways and gypsy tendencies, its latest executive order pertaining to the Civil Service occasions no surprise. The order is laughable. The administration prefers the dreaming of noble dreams to the doing and especially when the doing interferes with its political future.

This is patent when it is remembered that Mr. Williams was removed by the administration allegedly for pernicious political activity. But what about his successor? The rule does not apply to Acting Postmaster Clyde W. Saunders who has vied with Chief Spoilsman Farley in the effort to reinvigorate the spoils system and to establish it as it was in the days of "Old Hickory". No pernicious political activity this, when according to the testimony of a reputable citizen Mr. John Randolph Tucker, Mr. Saunders served as co-adjuster of the Henrico County Democratic Committee and dictated the disfranchisement of two hundred Henrico Democrats because they loathed boss rule and bad government.

This New Deal is such a pious thing it drives us to read again Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter". The urge is quickened when we think of its pernicious political activity in everything it touches even when it pretends to extend a helping hand to the needy, the distressed and the unfortunate.

Political-1936
Office Holding.

West Virginia.

ALTERNATE

DANIEL A. AMBROSE

Land clerk in the auditor's office of West Virginia who was alternate delegate from West Virginia to the national Democratic convention in Philadelphia. — ANS Photo.

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation.

All Peoples Party.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUN 22 1936

Harlem Forms Own 3d Party For Home Rule

Marcantonio Speaks at Convention, Support of Father Divine Asserted

The matter of third political parties reached Harlem yesterday when the All Peoples party, dedicated to "home rule in Harlem," concluded its first convention by claiming the support of Representative Vito Marcantonio, Father Divine, Negro cult leader, and 116 civic, social, religious, and trade union organizations of the Negro community.

Representative Marcantonio attended the convention, which was held at the Renaissance Casino, Seventh Avenue and 138th Street, and, although he did not address the 150 delegates, said afterwards that he would support the movement. Father Divine, who passed the day speaking elsewhere, said that he understood the platform adopted by the convention represented his political beliefs, and that he or a representative would attend a meeting of the executive committee tonight.

Attack Arouses Divine

Father Divine's speeches of the day had to do with a recent magazine article in which the father, or "God," as he is known to his Negro followers, was depicted as George Baker, itinerant gardener of not so many years ago. The father branded the attack as "scurrilous," and asked his disciples not to read "prejudiced" newspapers and magazines.

"Was your name ever Baker?" he was asked by a reporter.

"I am Father Divine," he responded, while some 500 followers chanted "Father Divine is God."

The new political party, pledged to "rid Harlem of the corrupt political control of the two major parties,' has as its immediate objective the winning of the 21st Congressional District, and the 17th, 19th and 21st Assembly Districts. No candidates were nominated yesterday, but a slate will be presented at another convention next month, according to Ignatius C. Lawlor, secretary of the combine.

Representative Marcantonio, a Republican, represents the 20th Congress District, which includes a portion of Harlem.

The new party will be composed largely, although not entirely, of Negroes, Mr. Lawlor said. He also said that it "will probably be classified as 'radical.'"

Would Unionize Negroes

A tentative program was adopted by the convention calling for a reapportionment of Congressional and Assembly districts in Harlem, enforcing of the recommendations made by Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's committee on conditions in Harlem, unionization of all Negro workers, and the removal of Inspector John J. Di Martino, who is in charge of police in the Harlem district.

Donelan Phillips, president of the Consolidated Tenants' League, was elected chairman of an executive committee of thirty-seven. Arthur A. Madison, a Father Divine lieutenant, was named vice-chairman. The committee will meet tonight at 139 West 125th Street, with both Representative Marcantonio and Father Divine expected to attend.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES

JUN 22 1936

NEW PARTY FORMED BY HARLEM GROUPS

All-Peoples Organization Will Put Tickets Into Senate and Assembly Districts.

PLATFORM IS PRESENTED

Whites Join Negroes to Fight Old Parties—Promised Help by Father Divine.

Formation of an independent political party—to be known as the All-Peoples party—which will enter a slate of candidates in the coming elections in the Congressional, State Senatorial and Assembly districts of Harlem was unanimously voted yesterday afternoon at the closing session of a two-day convention at the Renaissance Casino, Seventh Avenue and 138th Street.

A twelve-point platform, outlining the aims of the new party, was drawn up at the meeting which was attended by 209 delegates, representing eighty-nine social, religious and civic organizations of the community. The slate of candidates will be made public later by the newly elected executive committee of thirty-two members.

Those districts in which candidates will be entered include the Seventeenth, Nineteenth and Twenty-first Assembly Districts, the Twenty-first Congressional District and the Seventeenth State Senatorial District. The Seventeenth and Twenty-second Congressional Districts and the Nineteenth and Twentieth Senatorial Districts are also partly included in Harlem and it is probable, according to leaders of the new party, that candidates will also be entered in these four districts.

The platform of the party, which was presented to the convention by Theodore Bassett, chairman of the platform committee, was as follows:

1. Strict opposition to the gerrymandering of Harlem.
2. More employment for Harlem people at trade union wages and conditions with a unionization of all workers and no discrimination of any race.
3. Adequate unemployment relief and medical care for the unemployed of the community.
4. Enactment of the Frazier-Lundeen social insurance bill and the Marcantonio relief bill.
5. Adoption by Mayor La Guardia of the recommendations made in the report of the committee he appointed to investigate conditions in Harlem.
6. Protection of civil liberties of the people of Harlem and the immediate decrease of the police force to a proportion equalling that of any other law-abiding community.
7. Continued opposition to war and fascism.
8. Adequate school facilities to care for the youth of the community.
9. Opposition to any deportation drive of aliens, regardless of race or color.
10. Abolition of fire-trap tenements and a 40 per cent decrease in rents.
11. Independence for Puerto Rico.
12. Freedom of all political prisoners.

The platform also called for the establishment of party clubs in all Assembly districts in the community and the formation of an executive committee on which representatives of lower and upper Harlem as well as Washington Heights would have representation in proportion to the number of people in those sections.

At the morning session of the convention the delegates were promised editorial support in the columns of Father Divine's publications and the Porto Rican Graphic. A. L. Maranda, permanent vice chairman, presided at the morning session, while Donelan Phillips, permanent chairman, presided at the afternoon session.

Candidate Is Undetermined About Action

Journal and Guide

Failure To Pay His Poll Tax In Time, Cited As Cause

10-10-36

Journal and Guide Bureau

RICHMOND — Josephus Simpson, Negro candidate of the People's party for Congress from the Third District, was notified by Colonel Peter Saunders, Secretary of the Commonwealth, last week that his name cannot be printed on the official ballot for the November election as he failed to pay his poll tax by May 2.

Simpson had declared he would seek court action to see that his name is placed on the official ballot so he could vote in the November election. He contends that he has been a registered voter here since 1920, but did not pay his poll tax this year until July.

Mr. Simpson told the Guide here Monday that he was not certain yet just what actions he would take, but would be somewhat governed by the Library case that is now pending in court.

"This is an important case," Mr. Simpson said, "and I am going to throw all my forces to aid it."

Mr. Simpson is scheduled to speak at Hood Temple Church Thursday night October 8, representing the People's party.

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation

American Moors.

Harlem Moors to Have Own Party in 1940

Afro-American
11-7-36
Baltimore, Md.

NEW YORK.—Announcement that the American Moors, a nationalist sect, will put up their own candidates in the next New York election was made this week by E. Marshall-Bey, assistant grand sheikh, on the eve of the Presidential election, Monday.

Mr. Marshall Bey, who claims to have 150,000 followers said it was the plan of the Moorish science group to enter the present campaign with all-colored candidates but they were successful in filing only 7,000 signatures due to the late starting, while 25,000 are needed. The Moors have two temples in Harlem and four in Brooklyn.

All members of the sect are represented in legal and other conflicts by a Moorish council general F. Turner-El of Brooklyn. Mr. Turner-El recently returned from Hartford, Conn., where he was to establish temples, but struck a snag when the orthodox clergymen protested to the city authorities and attempted to have him driven out of town. The contest was carried to Governor Closs and resulted in the organizer being given a clean bill of health.

According to E. Marshall-Bey, who is located at the newly opened Temple at 272 W. 136th Street, the supreme grand advisor Col. C. Kirkman-Bey, issued no instructions as to which candidate to support Tuesday. The Moors, he said, believe that every voter is his own master. They believe in Jesus, the Man, but not in Jesus Christ. They also have no belief in either Heaven or Hell.

Communists

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE - WEEK OF AUGUST 10,1936.

FORD CHARGES
REPUBLICANS BETRAY
LINCOLN TRADITIONS

---- (Crusador News Agency)

SCRANTON, Pa., August-- In a radio broadcast delivered before a cheering audience of white and Negro miners last Wednesday night at the Argento Hall her James W. Ford, Negro Communist Vice Presidential candidate, assailed Governor Alf M. Landon, Republican Presidential candidate, as "tied up with the enemies" of the Negro people and of all that is decent and progressive in America.

Crusader News Agency

It was Ford's first speaking engagement in a national tour in which he will cover scores of Northern, and several Southern, cities in the next few weeks, traveling by fast train and airplane. He is running on a ticket headed by Earl Browder, National Secretary of the Communist Party and its Presidential candidate. Ford was also the party's Vice Presidential candidate in 1932, when he was teamed up with William Z. Foster, leader of the 1919 steel strike and now National Chairman of the Communist Party.

New York, N.Y. 8-36

The Harlem Communist leader also attacked President Roosevelt for what he termed his constant retreats "before the pressure of the Hearst-Republican enemies of the American people," but his heaviest artillery was reserved for the Republican candidate who he declared "symbolizes all that is viciously reactionary, un-American and anti-labor" in the country.

Accusing the Republicans of "betraying the traditions of Lincoln" by resorting to policies aimed at destroying the liberties of the Americanpeople, Ford contended that no Negro who hates oppression can logically support the Republican Party in the present campaign. He claimed that the Communists were the only group in America today who are carrying forward the traditions of Lincoln and of 1776.

"The Communist Party," he said, "has consistently fought for equal rights for Negroes, to bring this important ally to the working class against capital. By arousing white workers, farmers and middle class people to support the great Scottsboro and Herndon campaigns, the defense of Ethiopia and against lynching, we strengthen the bonds between the labor movement as such and the Negro people."

"The program of the Communist Party is clear-cut," he continued. "It contains no double-faced demagogy. We call for the building of a Farmer-Labor Party. Our program has no empty words because, for every point in the party program, American Communists have worked and fought and sacrificed. It calls for providing jobs and a living wage., unemployment insurance, old age pensions and social security., saving the young generation., freeing the farmers from debts and guaranteeing them the land., making the rich pay., defending civil liberties and curbing the Supreme Court., for full rights and complete equality for the Negro people., for keeping America out of war by keeping war out of the world!"

Ford attributed the nomination of Landon to the influence of the anti-Negro fascist millionaire publisher, William Randolph Hearst. He warned that the triumph of the Republicans in the elections "would mean the smashing of democratic rights (achieved in 1860, yes even in 1776), the legalizing of company unions and the establishment of a regime based on terror against the American toilers.

"The real program of the Republican Party," he averred, "is the program of the Hearst-Talmadge-Liberty League outfit. In the name of 'liberty' they would kill every vestige of freedom for which Americans have fought and died from the Battle of Lexington in which a Negro, Crispus Attucks, was the first man to die in the War for Independence, to the Civil War where Negro regiments joined with the Northwestern workers and farmers to preserve the Union."

Landon, he said, is Hearst's choice for President of the United States and was "unknown to the people of the United States until William Randolph Hearst selected him to carry out the fascist program of the Liberty League gang."

"Landon does not have the friendly respect of the colored citizens of

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

COMMUNISTS

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE -- WEEK OF AUGUST 10,1936.

FORD CHARGES
REPUBLICANS BETRAY
LINCOLN TRADITIONS

---- (Crusador News Agency)

SCRANTON, Pa., August-- In a radio broadcast delivered before a cheering audience of white and Negro miners last Wednesday night at the Argento Hall here James W. Ford, Negro Communist Vice Presidential candidate, assailed Governor Alf M. Landon, Republican Presidential candidate, as "tied up with the enemies of the Negro people and of all that is decent and progressive in America."

Ford's first speaking engagement in a national tour in which he will cover scores of Northern, and several Southern, cities in the next few weeks, traveling by fast train and airplane. He is running on a ticket headed by Earl Browder, National Secretary of the Communist Party and its presidential candidate. Ford was also the party's Vice Presidential candidate in 1932, when he was teamed up with William Z. Foster, leader of the 1919 steel strike and now National Chairman of the Communist Party.

The Harlem Communist leader also attacked Franklin D. Roosevelt for what he termed his constant retreats "before the pressure of the Hearst-Republican enemies of the American people," but his heaviest artillery was reserved for the Republican candidate who he declared "symbolizes all that is viciously reactionary, un-American and anti-labor" in the country.

Accusing the Republicans of "betraying the traditions of Lincoln" by resorting to policies aimed at destroying the liberties of the Americanpeople, Ford contended that no Negro who hates oppression can logically support the Republican Party in the present campaign. He claimed that the Communists were the only group in America today who are carrying forward the traditions of Lincoln and of 1776.

"The Communist Party," he said, "has consistently fought for equal rights for Negroes, to bring this important ally to the working class against capital. By arousing white workers, farmers and middle class people to support the great Scottsboro and Herndon campaigns, the defense of Ethiopia and against lynching, we strengthen the bonds between the labor movement as such and the Negro people."

"The program of the Communist Party is clear-cut," he continued. "It contains no double-faced demagogy. We call for the building of a Farmer-Labor Party. Our program has no empty words because, for every point in the program, American Communists have worked and fought and sacrificed. It calls for: providing jobs and a living wage., unemployment insurance, old age pensions and social security., saving the young generation., freeing the farmers from debts and guaranteeing them the land., making the rich pay., defending civil liberties and curbing the Supreme Court., for full rights and complete equality for the Negro people., for keeping America out of war by keeping war out of the world."

Ford attributed the nomination of Landon to the influence of the anti-Negro fascist millionaire publisher, William Randolph Hearst. He warned that the triumph of the Republicans in the elections "would mean the smashing of democratic rights (achieved in 1860, yes even in 1776), the legalizing of company unions and the establishment of a regime based on terror against the American toilers.

"The real program of the Republican Party," he averred, "is the program of the Hearst-Talmadge-Liberty League outfit. In the name of 'liberty' they would kill every vestige of freedom for which Americans have fought and died from the Battle of Lexington in which a Negro, Crispus Attucks, was the first man to die in the War for Independence, to the Civil War where Negro regiments joined with the Northwestern workers and farmers to preserve the Union."

Landon, he said, is Hearst's choice for President of the United States and was "unknown to the people of the United States until William Randolph Hearst selected him to carry out the fascist program of the Liberty League gang."

"Landon does not have the friendly respect of the colored citizens of his home town," he continued. "One of the most sensational statements of the present campaign is attributed to Oscar De Priest, former Negro Republican Congressman from Illinois who declared, 'I'll have to go back home and lie like hell for that guy Landon.'"

FORD, DEFYING
LYNCHERS, ASSAILS
JIMCROW IN SOUTH

RICHMOND, Va., Aug.--(CNA)- Invading Richmond in defiance of local American Legion officials who sought to bar him from this Southern city, James W. Ford delivered a thirty-minute radio address over station WRVA here in which the Negro Communist Vice Presidential candidate struck out sharply at those reactionary forces which are seeking to destroy the civil liberties of the American people and to perpetuate the present inferior position of the Negro people.

Crusader News Agency 8-24-36

The campaign to bar Ford from this city was led by Major Darte, U. S. reserve officer and a leader of the local Legion post, and resulted in the Negro Communist leader being barred from the John Marshall High School auditorium. Ford's address over a local broadcasting station is considered here as a partial victory for Richmond workers and liberals who protested the ban and who will try to force the Richmond School Board to lift it for a Ford meeting here on Sept. 20.

New York, N. Y.

"Not An Inferior People"

In his address, delivered over the most powerful station in Virginia, Ford assailed the ruling class conception of the Negro people as an inferior people. "We are not an inferior people," he declared. "It is true that reactionary forces, the same forces that try to destroy all liberties, keep us in an inferior position. But we shall fight to preserve human rights and liberties. These are the things we have always stood for."

The Communist leader traced the oppression and humiliation of the Negro people in the South directly to the rule of Wall Street. "All that is un-American in the South and in the country as a whole can be traced to the power and influence of the bankers and industrialists of Wall Street," he asserted.

Assails Landon, Hearst

He characterized Gov. Landon, Republican Presidential candidate, as the banner bearer for Wall Street, the Liberty League and William Randolph Hearst, fascist millionaire publisher. He warned that a Republican victory in November would be a blow at the aspirations of the Negro people, the rights of labor and the civil liberties of the American people.

"Their program is directed toward cutting wages, raising prices, smashing legitimate trade unions, squeezing the poor and tenant farmers out of agriculture, cutting relief, wiping out social and labor legislation, balancing the budget at the expense of the poor and cutting down the taxes on the very rich people. They intend to wage war against my people, the Negro people. We Communists say that reaction can be checked in this country, and that our democratic rights can be preserved."

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Communists

1936 C.P. Convention Significant to Negroes

By Blaine Owen

"The greatest significance undoubtedly attends the 1936 convention of the Communist Party," Roy Wilkins, assistant national secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and editor of The Crisis, said today. "It must be patent to anyone who has kept track of the news that the political left wing—and especially the Communist program—has been an important factor in bringing the plight of the Negro people, along with other under-privileged groups, more sharply to the attention of those parties which have been in power," Wilkins explained. He added that he considered this pressure toward progressive demands on the major political parties "the chief and most useful function at the present time.

"When Negroes come to me and talk Republican Party," he continued, "I've got to point out that the Negroes supported them for decades without getting any just share of the rewards of government.

"These Republicans are making an awful to-do about the failure of the Roosevelt government in respect to any anti-lynching legislation. That's right. Yet the Republicans were in complete power in the White House and in both Houses of Congress for years and years—and they brought forth no anti-lynching bill!"

When the interview turned to the obvious inspiration of William Randolph Hearst behind the nominations at the recent Republican convention, Wilkins was not so optimistic.

"One of the biggest jobs that faces progressive forces and Negro leaders is the education of the people to what Hearst really is. The masses of the Negro people outside of the large centers, such as New York and Chicago, don't realize what Hearst really stands for. To explain that is a necessary and important task."

He contrasted the issues raised by other political parties with "the attention the Communists have focused on the sharecropping evils, their emphasis on old-age pensions and unemployment insurance paid for by those who really should pay. This has meant more to the Negro people than all the other issues raised by the other parties," he said.

"And no Negro can forget," he insisted, "the invaluable work for the Scottsboro boys. Scottsboro has permeated everywhere, to all the Negro people—even the timid have felt it, even those who don't approve of the whole Communist program.

"You have asked me my attitude toward the coming Communist convention. I don't believe any informed Negro can remain ignorant of the significance of this convention and of the work of the Communist Party, though I myself can't sincerely embrace Communism as my conviction.

Basic Demands

"Nevertheless, there is no doubt in my mind that the program and demands of the Communists have had a very wholesome effect on the Negro people themselves.

"They have been emboldened by the basic and basically right demands put forth.

"'Why, hell, yes,' Negroes are saying to themselves, 'we ought to have those things, we ought to get this and that.'

"'Of course, we're not Communists,' they remind themselves, 'but those are our demands and we ought to have them.'" This, it was pointed out to Wilkins, is what the Communist Party means when it bases its entire campaign on the proposal for and toward the realization of a broad People's Front.

He nodded.

Times Wide World Photo.

LIKELY TO HEAD THE COMMUNIST TICKET

Earl Browder, left, foremost candidate for the nomination for president, and James W. Ford, who is expected to be named for vice president, seen at the opening of the convention of the party yesterday in the Metropolitan Opera House.

COMMUNISTS OPEN NATIONAL SESSION

751 Delegates Parade Noisily After Plea for Building of a 'People's Front.'

Browder in Keynote Appeals for Fight on Three Parties in Coming Campaign.

URGES FARMER-LABOR AID

The Republican party, through its alliance with the "Hearst-Liberty League-Wall Street" forces, has become the "chief enemy" of the people, freedom and prosperity of the American people and must be defeated "at all costs" in the coming Presidential election, Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party of the United States, asserted yesterday afternoon.

In a two-and-a-quarter-hour keynote address before the ninth national convention of the Communist party at the Manhattan Opera House, 311 West Thirty-fourth Street, Mr. Browder also accused the Roosevelt administration of reactionary tendencies and urged the support, wherever possible, of local Farmer-Labor party candidates.

He insisted, however, that it was essential that his party enter Presidential candidates and become "the only banner in the national elections rallying and organizing all the forces of the people against reaction, fascism and war."

Stage Noisy Demonstration

At the close of his address the 751 delegates and alternates from every State in the Union staged a fifteen-minute demonstration. The delegates paraded on the floor, carrying their State standards, waving red hammer-and-sickle banners and chanted "Red Front! Red Front!" and sang the "International." Nearly 1,000 spectators in the balcony joined in the demonstration, throwing torn newspapers down on the paraders and adding generally to the pandemonium.

The convention, the first time in the history of the party to which the press or the public has been invited, was opened shortly after 11 A. M. by Charles Krumbein, New York State party secretary, who extended greetings to the delegates.

He introduced William Z. Foster, party chairman and three times its candidate for President, who, in a short address, asserted that the Communist party "is now the only party which is carrying on the old American tradition and which offers the only way out, the only possible solution of the crisis into which the whole world is plunged."

"Today the American people face a crisis, deeper and more far-reaching than those of 1776 and 1861," Mr. Foster continued. "We have the most complete confidence that our people will meet this crisis in its best revolutionary traditions. This convention represents the vanguard of the American people, come together to discuss the difficult problems of our working masses and to find the best, the quickest and the least painful way out."

Mr. Browder, the first speaker at the afternoon session, was introduced by white-haired "Mother" Ella Reeves Bloor, well-known Communist figure and a delegrate from Pennsylvania, who presided at that session.

Reports 50,000 Members

In his speech, which was the report of the central committee of the party, Mr. Browder said the present membership of the party was more than 50,000, with 11,000 of that number enrolled in the Young Communists' League. This figure, he said, represented a 66 per cent increase since 1934 and a 500 per cent increase since 1929.

Mr. Browder summarized the issues for the Communist party as follows:

"1. The chief enemy of the peace, freedom and prosperity of the American people is the Republican party and its reactionary allies. Defeat the Landon-Hearst-Liberty League-Wall Street alliance.

"2. Roosevelt and his administration are retreating before the attacks of reaction and surrendering

Aims Listed for Masses

Mr. Browder said he had "full of living and trade unionization of that the great majority all industries; a consolidation and ret prepared to turn to extension of social and labor legisas represented either by lation; a curb on the "usurped ist or Communist party," power" of the Supreme Court with te that feeling, he pro- the maintenance of democratic ogram consisting of "five rights and civil liberties; a restoratal aims of the masses of tion of control of the government to representatives of the people's orcluded a restoration and ganizations through a broad people's the living standards of position after position to the main ties, it is organizing itself on a enemy. Stop the surrender of our national scale. Support the program rights and interests in Washington and platform of the Chicago Farm- "3. The Socialist party, after er-Labor party conference, build breaking loose from its reactionary the Farmer-Labor party. Old Guard, is moving into the back- "5. The Communist Presidential water of doctrinaire sectarianism, ticket is the only banner in the drifting out of the mass currents national elections rallying and of American life. Win the Social- ganizing all the forces of the peo- ists for the people's united front, ple against reaction, fascism and for the Farmer-Labor party. war, building the people's front "4. The Farmer-Labor party is the United States. Vote the Com- rapidly growing in States and locali- munist Presidential ticket."

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Communists

1936 C.P. Convention Significant to Negroes

By Blaine Owen

"The greatest significance undoubtedly attends the 1936 convention of the Communist Party," Roy Wilkins, assistant national secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and editor of The Crisis, said today. "It must be patent to anyone who has kept track of the news that the political left wing—and especially the Communist program—has been an important factor in bringing the plight of the Negro people, along with other under-privileged groups, more sharply to the attention of those parties which have been in power," Wilkins explained. He added that he considered this pressure toward progressive demands on the major political parties "the chief and most useful function at the present time.

"When Negroes come to me and talk Republican Party," he continued, "I've got to point out that the Negroes supported them for decades without getting any just share of the rewards of government.

"These Republicans are making an awful to-do about the failure of the Roosevelt government in respect to any anti-lynching legislation. That's right. Yet the Republicans were in complete power in the White House and in both Houses of Congress for years and years—and they brought forth no anti-lynching bill!"

When the interview turned to the obvious inspiration of William Randolph Hearst behind the nominations at the recent Republican convention, Wilkins was not so optimistic.

"One of the biggest jobs that faces progressive forces and Negro leaders is the education of the people to what Hearst really is. The masses of the Negro people outside of the large centers, such as New York and Chicago, don't realize what Hearst really stands for. To explain that is a necessary and important task."

He contrasted the issues raised by other political parties with "the attention the Communists have focused on the sharecropping evils, their emphasis on old-age pensions and unemployment insurance paid for by those who really should pay. This has meant more to the Negro people than all the other issues raised by the other parties," he said.

"And no Negro can forget," he insisted, "the invaluable work for the Scottsboro boys. Scottsboro has permeated everywhere, to all the Negro people—even the timid have felt it, even those who don't approve of the whole Communist program.

"You have asked me my attitude toward the coming Communist convention. I don't believe any informed Negro can remain ignorant of the significance of this convention and of the work of the Communist Party, though I myself can't sincerely embrace Communism as my conviction.

Basic Demands

"Nevertheless, there is no doubt in my mind that the program and demands of the Communists have had a very wholesome effect on the Negro people themselves.

"They have been emboldened by the basic and basically right demands put forth.

"'Why, hell, yes,' Negroes are saying to themselves, 'we ought to have those things, we ought to get this and that.'

"'Of course, we're not Communists,' they remind themselves, 'but those are our demands and we ought to have them.'" This, it was pointed out to Wilkins, is what the Communist Party means when it bases its entire campaign on the proposal for and toward the realization of a broad People's Front.

He nodded.

Times Wide World Photo.

LIKELY TO HEAD THE COMMUNIST TICKET

Earl Browder, left, foremost candidate for the nomination for president, and James W. Ford, who is expected to be named for vice president, seen at the opening of the convention of the party yesterday in the Metropolitan Opera House.

COMMUNISTS OPEN NATIONAL SESSION

751 Delegates Parade Noisily After Plea for Building of a 'People's Front.'

Browder in Keynote Appeals for Fight on Three Parties in Coming Campaign.

URGES FARMER-LABOR AID

The Republican party, through its alliance with the "Hearst-Liberty League-Wall Street" forces, has become the "chief enemy" of the people, freedom and prosperity of the American people and must be defeated "at all costs" in the coming Presidential election, Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party of the United States, asserted yesterday afternoon.

In a two-and-a-quarter-hour keynote address before the ninth national convention of the Communist party at the Manhattan Opera House, 311 West Thirty-fourth Street, Mr. Browder also accused the Roosevelt administration of reactionary tendencies and urged the support, wherever possible, of local Farmer-Labor party candidates.

He insisted, however, that it was essential that his party enter Presidential candidates and become "the only banner in the national elections rallying and organizing all the forces of the people against reaction, fascism and war."

Stage Noisy Demonstration

At the close of his address the 751 delegates and alternates from every State in the Union staged a fifteen-minute demonstration. The delegates paraded on the floor, carrying their State standards, waving red hammer-and-sickle banners and chanted "Red Front! Red Front!" and sang the "International." Nearly 1,000 spectators in the balcony joined in the demonstration, throwing torn newspapers down on the paraders and adding generally to the pandemonium.

The convention, the first time in the history of the party to which the press or the public has been invited, was opened shortly after 11 A. M. by Charles Krumbein, New York State party secretary, who extended greetings to the delegates.

He introduced William Z. Foster, party chairman and three times its candidate for President, who, in a short address, asserted that the Communist party "is now the only party which is carrying on the old American tradition and which offers the only way out, the only possible solution of the crisis into which the whole world is plunged."

"Today the American people face a crisis, deeper and more far-reaching than those of 1776 and 1861," Mr. Foster continued. "We have the most complete confidence that our people will meet this crisis in its best revolutionary traditions. This convention represents the vanguard of the American people, come together to discuss the difficult problems of our working masses and to find the best, the quickest and the least painful way out."

Mr. Browder, the first speaker at the afternoon session, was introduced by white-haired "Mother" Ella Reeves Bloor, well-known Communist figure and a delegrate from Pennsylvania, who presided at that session.

Reports 50,000 Members

In his speech, which was the report of the central committee of the party, Mr. Browder said the present membership of the party was more than 50,000, with 11,000 of that number enrolled in the Young Communists' League. This figure, he said, represented a 66 per cent increase since 1934 and a 500 per cent increase since 1929.

Mr. Browder summarized the issues for the Communist party as follows:

"1. The chief enemy of the peace, freedom and prosperity of the American people is the Republican party and its reactionary allies. Defeat the Landon-Hearst-Liberty League-Wall Street alliance.

"2. Roosevelt and his administration are retreating before the attacks of reaction and surrendering

Lists Aims

Mr. Browder said he had "full knowledge that the masses with a governmental position after position to the mainties, it is organizing itself on a guarantee of a minimum standard of living and trade unionization of all industries; a consolidation and extension of social and labor legislation; a curb on the "usurped power" of the Supreme Court with the maintenance of democratic rights and civil liberties; a restoration and fundamental aims of the people's organizations through a broad people's front, ple against reaction, fascism and war. Vote the Communist ticket."

These included increase in the living standards of front, and a unification of the peace forces of the world to "restrain war-makers and keep America out of war by keeping war out of the world."

The convention will hold daily sessions until Saturday evening. On Sunday the final session will be held in Madison Square Garden, where the party platform will be drawn up and Presidential candidates chosen.

Communists, but 15 Per Cent Non-White

NEW YORK—Fifteen per cent of the membership of the Communist party is colored, it was revealed by the report of the credentials committee of its ninth annual convention held here recently.

Other figures brought out in this report of the political party which nominated JaJmes W. Ford Harmelite to run as vice-president.

There were 211 delegates in attendance, twice the number of the 1932 convention. Sixty-five per cent of the delegates were under 34 years and sixty-two per cent had been in the party for less than five years. Eighty-eight per cent of the delegates were of the proletarian class and twelve per cent of middle class orgin.

Some Ex-Socialists

Twenty-one per cent of the delegates were formerly with the Socialist party; nine per cent in the Democratic Party, and 5 per cent were in the Republican Party.

Other figures reveal that 70 per cent of the members were native-born; 30 per cent foreign-born Americans; 11 per cent, women; 67 per cent from basic industries like steel, metal, automobiles, textiles, railways and shipping and 23 per cent from the building trades, needle, shoe, food, white-collar and professional groups.

Livingston, Ala., Home
August 5, 1936

GADSDEN OK'S ANTI-RED LAW

Gadsden, Ala,, July 28—An ordinance striking at reported communistic activity in the city was adopted by the Gadsden City Commission Tuesday.

The new city law entitled "an ordinance making it unlawful for mixed assemblies of white and negro races provided that it shall be illegal for three or more persons, some of whom are white and some negroes, to hold either a public or secret meeting in which is advocated a movement looking toward destruction of the governments of the United States, the state of Alabama or the city.

Neither may such meetings, the ordinance says, advocate or promote evasion or violation of any law, state or city; or advocacy of marriage or of social equality between the races forbidden by law.

Other paragraphs forbid advocacy of the destruction of property or property rights; or proposals that persons join or participate in a movement to set up or adhere to any government not Republican in form; or advocacy of substitution of public ownership by a Soviet or communistic form of government in place of private ownership.

Another section of the ordinance makes it unlawful to advertise, or cause to be advertised, such meetings or to circulate printed matter advocating any of the acts prohibited by the new law.

Browder to Be on the Ballots in 31 States; Communists Seeking 64 Seats in the House

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—A survey showed today that the Communist Presidential ticket will be represented on the ballots in at least thirty-one States on election day, Nov. 3.

Arrangements for filing were still under way in some States, and it was said at headquarters of the party in New York that several additions were expected. In 1932, Communist votes were cast in thirty-seven States for a total of 102,442 out of about 40,000,000 given to all candidates.

In five of these States the voting resulted from "write-in" campaigns, which are planned again this year in some sections.

Only the names of Earl Browder, the Presidential nominee, and James W. Ford, Negro Vice Presidential nominee, will be printed on the ballots in some States this year, but in many a regular slate of electors is being set up.

In addition, Communists are contending for Governorships in at least eleven States, for Senatorships in six, and for election to the House of Representatives in sixty-four districts, as follows:

Governor—Colorado, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Montana New York, Ohio, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington.

Senator—Delaware, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, Virginia, Wyoming.

House Districts—California 12, Delaware 1, Massachusetts 1, New Jersey 9, New York 35, Ohio 2, Vermont 1, Virginia 2, Wyoming 1.

The States where Browder and Ford are to have representation so far are:

Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In Wisconsin they will be listed on an independent ballot. The candidate there has the choice of declaring after his name whether he is a Communist. Each party prints a separate ticket in South Carolina, and officials there said that they knew of no move by the Communists to be represented.

The entry in Arkansas is despite the fact that the Communist ticket failed to poll a single vote there four years ago. Its showing in the respective States then ran from a high of 27,956 in New York to twenty-three in Georgia and none in eleven States, mostly in the South.

Communist Votes to Be Recorded in 46 States

Votes for Earl Browder and James W. Ford, Communist candidates for President and Vice President will be recorded in 46 states, it was predicted yesterday by the National Campaign Committee of the Communist Party.

The Communist Party has an official place on the ballot to date, in 32 states. Two others, Illinois and Tennessee, are still uncertain. The Federal and the United States Supreme Courts have been asked to place the Party on the ballot in Illinois where it was ruled, after the full quota of signatures had been filed. Tennessee is yet to be heard from.

Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Communists.

REDS GO RIGHT . . . STAGE OWN NOISY CONVENTION

NEW YORK, N. Y.
DAILY NEWS

JUN 25 1936

Mother Bloor and Earl Browder at the Communist convention.

(NEWS fotos)

COMMUNISTS staged old-time party rally yesterday at opening of ninth annual convention at Manhattan Opera House. Right: Earle Browder makes keynote speech that brought demonstration. Above: Andrew Onda, Angelo Herndon, colored Communist awaiting appeal to Supreme Court, and Anita Whitney, daughter of former Justice of California Supreme Court, lead cheers for Tom Mooney. —Story on page 51.

REDS SWING TO RIGHT AT PARTY RALLY

The Communist Party, appropriating the thunderous demonstrations of the major parties, revealed a swing to the right yesterday with the opening of its national convention in the Manhattan Opera House.

Earl Browder, keynoter and probable nominee for President, disclosed the current trend when he exclaimed to the 750 delegates: "Ours is not a program of revolutionary overthrow of capitalism. It can be realized within the present American form of government."

It was an unprecedented enunciation of Communist policies, probably dictated by the news from Moscow setting up a constitution and a parliament for the Soviet.

In more ways than one, the ninth annual convention broke away from tradition. The hour's whistling, parading and cheering after the keynote speech was one evidence. Another was the invitation to press and public to visit the sessions, hitherto held behind closed doors, with reporters curtly kept outside.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.
TIMES UNION

JUN 24 1936

REDS BACK BROWDER FOR U. S. PRESIDENT

Communist Party Opens National Convention Here.

The Communist Party National convention opened today in Manhattan Opera House, 34th st., Manhattan, to adopt a platform pro-probably will be James Ford, col the WJZ network from 5 to 6 o'clock.
claiming intensified war on reac ored, of Harlem, who was Foster tion and Fascism, and to nominate running mate.
Presidential and Vice Presidential For the first time, proceedings of a Communist Party convention will be broadcast simultaneously by both the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System. Only will be broadcast, but over the acceptance of the Presidential and dential nominees at a sting in Madison Square nday.

Columbia network, through ABC, will broadcast the rom 5 to 5:30 P. M., and network of NBC will be to 6 o'clock.

candidates.

Earl Browder, wiry, black-mus- and nationally tached former Kansas bookkeeper, Broadcasting Co is expected to be the Presidential lumbia Broadca nominee. As the party's secretary-one session will general, Browder has long been itsit will co v e actual leader. William Z. Foster, speeches of the Com- Vice Presiden for the last three elections the Com- public meeting munist candidate for White House from Garden Sunday. nunist occupancy, withdrew his name The Columbia Station WABC, Station WJZ, The Vice President candidate program from 5 consideration this year. He was elected convention chairman.

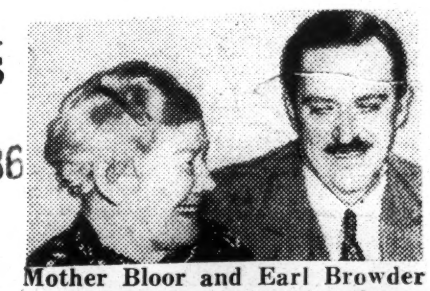
Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Communists.

REDS GO RIGHT . . . STAGE OWN NOISY CONVENTION

NEW YORK, N. Y.
DAILY NEWS

JUN 25 1936



Mother Bloor and Earl Browder at the Communist convention.

(NEWS fotos)

COMMUNISTS staged old-time party rally yesterday at opening of ninth annual convention at Manhattan Opera House. Right: Earle Browder makes keynote speech that brought demonstration. Above: Andrew Onda, Angelo Herndon, colored Communist awaiting appeal to Supreme Court, and Anita Whitney, daughter of former Justice of California Supreme Court, lead cheers for Tom Mooney.—Story on page 51.

REDS SWING TO RIGHT AT PARTY RALLY

The Communist Party, appropriating the thunderous demonstrations of the major parties, revealed a swing to the right yesterday with the opening of its national convention in the Manhattan Opera House.

Earl Browder, keynoter and probable nominee for President, disclosed the current trend when he exclaimed to the 750 delegates: "Ours is not a program of revolutionary overthrow of capitalism. It can be realized within the present American form of government."

It was an unprecedented enunciation of Communist policies, probably dictated by the news from Moscow setting up a constitution and a parliament for the Soviet.

In more ways than one, the ninth annual convention broke away from tradition. The hour's whistling, parading and cheering after the keynote speech was one evidence. Another was the invitation to press and public to visit the sessions, hitherto held behind closed doors, with reporters curtly kept outside.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.
TIMES UNION

JUN 24 1936

REDS BACK BROWDER FOR U. S. PRESIDENT

Communist Party Opens National Convention Here.

The Communist Party National candidate for President, occupancy, withdrew his name from consideration this year. He was elected convention chairman. The Vice Presidential candidate will be James Ford, colored leader. William Z. Foster, for the last three elections the Communist candidate, was nominee. As the party's secretary-general, Browder has long been its actual leader.

The Communist Party National Convention opened today in Manhattan Opera House, 34th st., Manhattan, to adopt a platform pro-probably will be the WJZ network of NBC will be claiming intensified war on reac-ored, of Harlem, who was Foster's tion and Fascism, and to nominate running mate. For the first time, proceedings Presidential and Vice Presidential of a Communist Party convention will be broadcast simultaneously by both the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System. Only session will be broadcast, but will cover the acceptance speeches of the Presidential and Vice Presidential nominees at a public meeting in Madison Square Garden Sunday.

The Columbia network, through Station WABC, will broadcast the program from 5 to 5:30 P. M., and from 5 to 6 o'clock.

Earl Browder, wiry, black-mustached former Kansas bookkeeper, is expected to be the Presidential candidates.

HARTFORD, CONN
COURANT

JUL 12 1936

COMMUNISM AND THE NEGRO

It Will Afford Him More Protection Than Other Parties

To the Editor of The Courant:—

I was indeed sorry to read several days ago a letter in the People's Forum, written by Clara Southergill, in which she attacked the Communist Party and Earl Browder, its presidential candidate. I realize that a reply is useless; people prejudiced and uninformed find it impossible to give impartial and intelligent attention to any question which, like Communism, is met with a violent and unreasoning emotional reaction by the mass of people.

For a collection of bald misrepresentations, I should preserve the following sentences from the letter: "Under Communism we would all be worse than slaves. Has Russia any freedom? Religion of all creeds prohibited. Marriage laws not enforced. Children are brought up as if in an orphan asylum while mothers and fathers work at tasks set for them by those in authority." It should be interesting to know where Clara Southergill gets her notion first, of communism, and second, of communism in Russia.

Be that as it may, the real irony of the letter is contained in the last paragraph. "I am sure when the Negroes study the character of the man and the party, they will do as their white brothers are doing in regard to all political parties, and that is not be carried away by the fanfare of hired bands, of flowery speeches (the cost of the Republican campaign is estimated at between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, and surely the Democrats will not be outdone), but vote for the man who has the interest of the people of this country in mind regardless of race or color, poor as well as rich, young and old."

Some years ago a negro woman was lynched in one of our patriotic and chivalrous southern States. A man who described it to an investigator said essentially, "You should have heard the wench howl when we strung her up. Best show I've had in years." The ordinary lynchings are now so commonplace as to be of small news value. Punishment of lynchers (of Negroes) is almost non-existent.

Negro schools throughout the South are a disgrace even to our educational system. Transportation over the frequently long distances to school, furnished for white children, is usually denied to the Negroes. In Kansas two dollars is allotted for the education of negro youth to every eleven dollars for the education of the white, and the estimate is that only twenty-five of every hundred negro youth attending school in the South are able to continue further than the sixth grade. Negro students are deliberately barred from southern State colleges. These facts could be multiplied indefinitely. In our progressive North the discrimination is less violent, but quite effective none the less. Hartford has just engaged its second negro teacher. That, I must admit is exceedingly broad-minded and tolgrant. Any negro going through our northern colleges has to overcome or ignore an intolerable amount of prejudice.

The communists have undoubtedly made a lot of enemies in putting up a negro for Vice-President. Even our liberal-minded northerners would hesitate to cast their votes for a negro. A negro on the Democratic (or Republican) ticket would be a request for defeat. "Their white brothers"—I am not sure that the relationship is complimentary to the Negroes—have paid no attention to their plight even in campaign promises, which no one expects to be fulfilled, anyway. If the Negroes of this country really took the advice of Miss Southergill's letter, they would raise the Communist votes in direct proportion to the amount of study they gave the question, always provided of course, that they were not kept from voting by intimidation—a usual occurrence in the South.

Russia is the only country in the world today where race prejudice is non-existent. That is a fact, not an opinion. Communism, as a little study will show Clara Southergill, is an ideology bigger than race, bigger than religious sects, bigger than economic classes. The very fact that Clara Southergill points out our "poor as well as rich," probably not knowing the implications of poverty, spiritual as well as physical, behooves us to give some serious and intelligent thought to this persecuted Communism. If it is "un-American" I am not sure that I am proud of America.

P. F. ASHTON.

Hartford, July 10, 1936.

Nashville, Tenn. Banner
July 1, 1936

THE COMMUNIST PARTY

Earl W. Browder, of Kansas, who Saturday outlined the objectives of American Communists as including "confidence and respect of the masses of workers and toilers," so widespread that "no enemy can attack us without rallying millions to our defense," now becomes the presidential nominee of the party. James W. Ford, Harlem Negro, is his running mate.

On Browder falls the mantle of William Z. Foster, three times the Communist candidate for President, and who has predicted a Soviet Government at Washington. Foster, in addressing the 710 Communist delegates at the New York convention, urged them to lay the foundation for a "great people's front party."

In substance, this was the plea of Browder, who warned that the major hope for Communist victory rests in alliance of the farm and labor element under the red banner. Pride in the enlistment of 50,000 members should not blind Communists to the goal of 40,000,000, Browder reminded the cheering delegates.

Concerning the policies of his party, as incorporated in part in the platform finally adopted, he called attention to the cooperation assured labor in its "fight against capitalism." Strikes and unrest he held to be the weapons most effectively wielded by Communist-inspired men.

For the first time in American history is communism and its related doctrines so openly avowed. Morris Childs, Illinois secretary, in presenting the report of the resolutions committee, obtained consent to send "revolutionary greetings" to the Communist International and to party organizations in Germany, China, Italy, Cuba, Canada, and practically every other nation. By another action, the convention went on record as demanding release of all political prisoners, and abolition of laws against criminal syndicalism.

One item of particular interest and significance is the report by the credentials committee, which shows how the delegates are divided. Of the 710, 70 per cent were native born. Eleven per cent were women. Fifteen per cent were Negroes.

A total of 215 had been arrested in the "class struggle," and 156 had been convicted at some time or another.

Of this material, and in a candidate chosen by such a group, the party hopes to evolve a political Utopia, through coordination of two legitimate and highly important and valuable groups of industry and citizens.

But these groups, the Communists will find to their dismay, are composed of thinking men and women swift to recognize the tenets of the party however lofty its demeanor. Those to whom the appeal will go will penetrate its thin disguise, and see beneath a glossy exterior and veneer the tendencies and trends it publicly disavows but privately indorses. They will see the destructive influences of hostility to established theories and policies. More, they will read between the lines of every speech a determination to destroy what it cannot control. Such is the record, the purpose and the way of communism.

By their fruits ye shall know them.

Selma, Ala. Times
July 10, 1936

THE COMMUNISTS AND PLATFORM

The fourth party tomake its appeal this year to the American electorate is the Communists. They will very probably run true to past records and poll a small vote.

The Communist National Convention held at New York City recently nominated Earl Browder, general secretary, and James W. Ford,negro leader from Harlem, as candidates for President and Vice-President, respectively. Their platformdemands:

Enactzment of Frazier-Lundeen Social Security bill; curtailment of the power of the Supreme Court; sharply graduated taxation upon incomes in excess of $5,000 a year; extension of WPA; thirty-hour week; increased educational and occupational opportunities for the youth; freeing of farmers from debts, unbearable taxation andforecloseures; dealth penalty for lynching; imprisonment of employers guilty of discharging workers for union or political activities; full and equal rights for negroes.

A Communist proposal of a general united front with the Socialist Party was rejected by the New York State Socialist organization, the latter favoring united action on specific issues rather than united election tickets.

Vote Communist!

FOR THIS PROGRAM:

1. Put America back to work—provide jobs and a living wage.
2. Provide unemployment insurance, old age pensions, and social security for all.
3. Save the young generation.
4. Free the farmers from debts, unbearable tax burdens and foreclosures. Guarantee the land to those who till the soil.
5. The rich hold the wealth of the country—make the rich pay.
6. Defend and extend democratic and civil liberties. Curb the Supreme Court.
7. Full rights for the Negro people.
8. Keep America out of war by keeping war out of the world.

The fight for these demands will organize and strengthen the people. It will give them deeper political experience and understanding. It will prepare them for the great decisions to come when it will be necessary to move forward to socialism.

For Negro Rights

REPUBLICAN Party forces are displaying a sudden solicitude for the Negro and his vote.

Of late the Republicans have been making a concerted drive to win Negro support for the Hearst-Landon ticket. The Herald Tribune, Republican-Liberty League organ, reflects this concentration in its article yesterday on Missouri and the Negro vote.

The Negro people can well ask themselves: What will be our fate should Landon come into power? As an oppressed minority, they will be the butt of the pro-fascist forces of discrimination and race hatred. Fifty per cent of the Negroes in St. Louis are now on relief, the Herald Tribune admits. It is against these very people that the Hearst-Landon-Liberty League combine has lashed out most viciously.

At the Landon acceptance speech ceremonies, the Negroes present were subject to jim-crow discrimination. When the Afro-American—Baltimore Negro newspaper — queried Landon about lynching, the Hearst candidate side-stepped the issue. Upon this great crime against the Negroes, Landon refused to comment.

The election of Landon would be a calamity for the Negro people. To prevent such a calamity, they can join to defeat this pro-fascist tool, by similar steps to those taken by the people of Harlem. Through the All-People's Party, they have there begun a fight for Negro rights and against those forces of reaction and oppression which Landon and the Republican Party represent.

Political — 1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic.

THE CASE AGAINST PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

AS THE CAMPAIGN DRAWS to a close it is well that summation of the issues be put before the readers of The New York Age.

In a general way, the Republicans have proved that there has been waste and extravagence in the handling of relief, resulting in an unwarranted increase in the national debt:

That President Roosevelt not only accepted the powers of the legislative branch of the government (Congress) which were given him temporarily in the fight against the depression, but he has sought to increase and enlarge the powers of the chief executive to the extent that he would become a more powerful dictator than Mussolini or Hitler were he allowed to get away with it.

That he has sought to undermine the U. S. Constitution by referring to it as outmoded — "A horse and buggy vehicle in an automobile age." And that he has put into positions of power such men as Harry L. Hopkins and Rex Tugwell who are out of sympathy with the American traditions and manner of government and who have expressed sympathy with and admiration for the Soviet government in Russia.

Specifically, The New York Age believes that President Roosevelt has not kept faith with the American Negro and should not get his suffrage because he is dominated by the southern section of his party which is bent on keeping the Negro down.

1. As far back as the administration of President Wilson, when the present Chief Executive was Assistant Secretary of the Navy, he condoned the imperialistic invasion of Haiti by the U. S. Marines and boasted that he wrote the new Haitian constitution, which brought that nation into subjugation to the United States. This wrong was partially righted by the withdrawal of the Marines and the returning of the government to the Haitian people, but there can be no compensation to the widows and orphans of brave Haitians who were shot down in defense of their country. Nor can it be denied that the American government still has a controlling influence over the finances and revenue of the Haitian government.

2. While Governor of New York and since he became President, Candidate Roosevelt has shown a desire to be friendly with white South. He has on numerous occasions referred to Georgia as his second home and claim to skill at all were classified as skilled as president of the Warm Springs Foundation for the treatment of paralysis, he allowed that organization to accept money from the Negro portion of the public for the support of this foundation, while at the same time their children were denied the benefits of its treatments.

3. Segregation and the separation of races in Washington, which gained much headway under the late President Wilson, have been allowed to grow under President Roosevelt's administration. So that southern representatives and senators control the local government in the District of Columbia and have issued orders that Negro employees in the various departments and bureaus must eat in separate dining rooms, use separate toilets, etc. from the whites. This segregation has been extended so that there is an advisor on Negro affairs in the Department of Commerce (a segregated appointment), twenty years by Charles W. Anderson, a Negro appointed by the President's illustrious cousin, Theodore Roosevelt and re-appointed by Taft, dropped by Wilson and reappointed by Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. Dropped by President Roosevelt, who has made no outstanding appointments of Negroes.

4. Under President Roosevelt the Negro has been treated as a ward of the government in much the same way as someone not quite able to take care of himself in the complex civilization of the South.

5. In the matter of political appointments, the President Roosevelt has shown the same lack of sympathy towards the aspiration of the Negro to a federal position in the South — the local where once the Negro had a Controller of Customs at New Orleans, several postmasterships, and federal paymasters — but he has also refused to name Negroes to posts separate in the North which they formerly held. A specific example is that of Collector of Internal Revenue for the Third District of New York, which position was held for nearly twenty years by Charles W. Anderson, a Negro appointed by the President's illustrious cousin, Theodore Roosevelt and re-appointed by Taft, dropped by Wilson and reappointed by Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. Dropped by President Roosevelt, who has made no outstanding appointments of Negroes.

6. Finally President Roosevelt has not given the Negro due consideration in the matter of social legislation such as the proposed of the motion of an anti-lynching bill. With both the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives controlled by the Democratic Party, the President refused to use his influence to have the Wagner-Costigan Anti-lynching bill made a law, nor would he order the use of "G-Men" in the investigation of lynching and prosecution of such lynching cases as one case in Florida where citizens from both Florida and Georgia took part.

All these things lead us to believe that the President is following the advice of his southern friends in the handling of the affairs of the Negro. These friends are responsible for present discriminatory laws in the South.

Contrast this record with that of the Republican party over a long period of years, from the days of Abraham Lincoln down. And add to this the assurance from Governor Landon that he will push through an anti-lynching bill as soon as he becomes President and will show no favoritism to any class of citizens because of race, color or creed, we feel that we owe it to ourselves and future generations to support the Republican ticket from top to bottom in this election.

Governor Landon stands for a government of laws and not individuals. He does not feel that he is above the constitution and will protect every right guaranteed the Negro under its terms. When such staunch friends as former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Col. William Hayward, Col. Arthur Little of New York, and leading Negro citizens of Kansas put their stamp of approval on Governor Landon as a square shooter, you

Political — 1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic.

THE CASE AGAINST PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

AS THE CAMPAIGN DRAWS to a close it is well that summation of the issues be put before the readers of The New York Age.

In a general way, the Republicans have proved that there has been waste and extravagence in the handling of relief, resulting in an unwarranted increase in the national debt:

That President Roosevelt not only accepted the powers of the legislative branch of the government (Congress) which were given him temporarily in the fight against the depression, but he has sought to increase and enlarge the powers of the chief executive to the extent that he would become a more powerful dictator than Mussolini or Hitler were he allowed to get away with it. That he has sought to undermine the U. S. Constitution by referring to it as outmoded — "A horse and buggy vehicle in an automobile age." And that he has put into positions of power such men as Harry L. Hopkins and Rex Tugwell who are out of sympathy with the American traditions and manner of government and who have expressed sympathy with and admiration for the Soviet government in Russia.

Specifically, The New York Age believes that President Roosevelt has not kept faith with the American Negro and should not get his suffrage because he is dominated by the southern section of his party which is bent on keeping the Negro down.

1. As far back as the administration of President Wilson, when the present Chief Executive was Assistant Secretary of the Navy, he condoned the imperialistic invasion of Haiti by the U. S. Marines and boasted that he wrote the new Haitian constitution, which brought that nation into subjugation to the United States. This wrong was partially righted by the withdrawal of the Marines and the returning of the government to the Haitian people, but there can be no compensation to the widows and orphans of the brave Haitians who were shot down in defense of their country. Nor can it be denied that the American government still has a controlling influence over the finances and revenue of the Haitian government.

2. While Governor of New York and since he became President, Candidate Roosevelt has shown a desire to be friendly with the white South. He has on numerous occasions referred to Georgia as his second home and as president of the Warm Springs Foundation for the treatment of paralysis, he allowed that organization to accept money from the Negro portion of the public for the support of this foundation, while at the same time their children were denied the benefits of its treatments.

3. Segregation and the separation of the races in Washington, which gained much headway under the late President Wilson, have been allowed to grow under President Roosevelt's administration. So that southern representatives and senators control the local government in the District of Columbia and have issued orders that Negro employees in the various departments and bureaus must eat in separate dining rooms, use separate toilets, etc. from the whites. This segregation has been extended so that there is an advisor on Negro affairs in the Department of Commerce (a segregated appointment), an advisor on Negro affairs in the Department of the Interior (also a segregated position), and an advisor on Negro affairs in the Department of Labor, and a specialist on Negro education — all following the methods used in the South in keeping the Negro apart and separate from the rest of the American citizenry.

4. Under President Roosevelt the Negro citizen has been treated as a ward of the government in much the same way as the Indian — as someone not quite able to take care of himself in the complex civilization of today. Moreover, this wardship has not been on par with that extended other portions of the citizenry in indigent circumstance. In many parts of the South one standard of pay is maintained for whites on WPA jobs and a lower standard for Negroes. And even in the North, this segregation has been prevalent, but in a more subtle manner. In New Jersey, Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania and even New York, most Negroes have been classified as unskilled laborers and given WPA jobs accordingly, while whites who had any claim to skill at all were classified as skilled so that they might receive higher pay. Even on the WPA housing projects being erected for Negro families most of the skilled mechanics have been white and the Negro mechanics have had to fight for the few jobs given them.

5. In the matter of political appointments, President Roosevelt has shown the same lack of sympathy towards the aspiration of the Negro. He has not only followed the prevailing custom of refusing to appoint any Negro to a federal position in the South — where once the Negro had a Controller of Customs at New Orleans, several postmasterships, and federal paymasters — but he has also refused to name Negroes to posts in the North which they formerly held. A specific example is that of Collector of Internal Revenue for the Third District of New York, which position was held for nearly twenty years by Charles W. Anderson, a Negro appointed by the President's illustrious cousin, Theodore Roosevelt and re-appointed by Taft, dropped by Wilson and reappointed by Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. Dropped by President Roosevelt, who has made no outstanding appointments of Negroes.

6. Finally President Roosevelt has not given the Negro due consideration in the matter of social legislation such as the promotion of an anti-lynching bill. With both branches of Congress under his domination for three and a half years, the President refused to use his influence to have the Wagner-Costigan Anti-lynching bill made a law, nor would he order the use of "G-Men" in the investigation of lynching and prosecution of such lynching cases as one case in Florida where citizens from both Florida and Georgia took part.

All these things lead us to believe that the President is following the advice of his southern friends in the handling of the affairs of the Negro. These friends are responsible for present discriminatory laws in the South. Governor Landon stands for a government with that of the Republican party over a long period of years, of laws and not individuals. He does not feel with Abraham Lincoln down that he is above the constitution and will protect every right guaranteed the Negro under its terms. When such staunch friends as former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Col. William Hayward, Col. Arthur Little of New York, and leading Negro citizens of Kansas put their stamp of approval on Governor Landon as a square shooter, you owe it to ourselves and future generations to support the Republican ticket from top to bottom in this election.

And add to this the assurance from Governor Landon that he will push through anti-lynching bill as soon as President and will show no favoritism to any race, color or creed, we feel that we owe it to ourselves to support the Republican ticket from top to bottom in this election.

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic

Booklet Tells How F. D. Has Helped

Afro-American
10-10-36

NEW YORK. — A booklet entitled "Has the Roosevelt New Deal Helped the Colored Citizen?" has been published by the National Colored Committee of the Good Neighbor League, and may be had free, simply by writing the National Colored Committee at 103 Park Avenue, New York City.

Detailed Information

The booklet gives detailed information on many phases of the Roosevelt administration, including:

The National Youth Administration, the Department of the Interior and Public Works Administration;

The Federal Educational Program, the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, the Treasury Department and the U.S. Health Service, the Post Office Department, the U.S. Department of Commerce, the Department of Agriculture and Rural Resettlement, the War Department, Department of Labor, Credit Unions under the Farm Credit Administration, and a partial list of colored citizens appointed to important positions under the New Deal.

Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., is chairman of the colored committee of the league.

Southerner Seeking Law To Prevent Public Office Going To Race

CHARLESTON, S. C. — The resentment of the part Negroes played in the recent convention of the Democratic party in Philadelphia is reflected by the following letter appearing in The News, daily newspaper:

Editor The News:

It seems from various and sundry comments reaching me these days, that the action of the Democratic convention in making a bold bid for the Negro vote has stirred up considerable interest in my oft repeated proposition to amend our state constitution to prohibit Negroes holding public office in this state coupled with the warning of much evil to follow failure to so provide.

One man writes: "I was sorry to see in the Press and Banner your statement declining the offer of many friends to furnish your campaign expenses to make the race for the House of Representatives. Your proposed amendment is badly needed and we know you would push it, if you were in the legislature. I heard a lawyer say that it conflicted with United States Constitution, but I don't believe he knows. Tell us about it in The News."

I have watched the present democratic acceptance of Negro suffrage slowly develop for many years, and the present situation is no surprise to me, as I have often warned of its approach and advocated making Negroes ineligible to hold office as a stop-gap to their budding political aspirations. As long as only the Republican party bids for the Negro vote, we could easily control the situation down here through our white primary system. But when Mr. Roosevelt ran as the Tammany candidate and put Farley in command, that Tammany trickster knew how to get the Negro vote and promptly got it for his candidate and is holding it tight now on the basis of "Whose bread I eat; his song I sing," and will deliver the almost solid Negro vote in November.

Now, our Southern people are "asleep at the switch," in my opinion and will awake at no very distant day to find the Negroes in the South in the full exercise of not only the suffrage now enjoyed by white people alone. For with both major political parties actively bidding for their political support it will be impossible to much longer maintain the present status quo, as both parties will afford them government protection in the exercise of the right of suffrage guaranteed them by the federal constitution, but now denied them by various subtifuges which cannot stand against determined federal opposition.

As to the constitutional question involved in each state making only white people eligible to hold office, by state constitutional amendment. I know some lawyers think it would conflict with the federal constitution, but I can find nothing in that instrument to prohibit and no lawyer who so expressed himself to me was able to point it out, so I am satisfied that we have the power to do that.

If I am incorrect in this, will appreciate it if some good lawyer will point out the error and prove it from the Constitution. Now in conclusion, it is plain that Roosevelt favors Negro suffrage, so let's get busy and scotch it now, for "he who would not when he should, may not when he would."

W. P. BEARD.

WITH BIAS IN O COLORED PEOPLE

Chicago, Aug. 25—The dual system of relief administered in those states where Negroes most need federal aid and a few thousand WPA jobs given impoverished colored people do not in any way compensate for the staggering increase in taxes both you and I are forcedly to pay out daily to the spendthrift Democratic New Dead administration.

This tax issue is not merely a white man's problem. It is of vital importance to every Negro who must pay rent and buy any commodity from hairpins to motor cars. It is particularly important because exorbitant taxes taken against their will from needy Negroes are used to fatten gluttonish politicians and high moguls on alphabet agencies, many of them filled to the gills with color prejudice.

As a matter of fact, Negroes pay out taxes to support party jobholders who spend a large portion of their time keeping these same Negroes in subordinate positions. Meanwhile they get nothing like their proportionate share of jobs in return. Their tax money actually is used against them.

That starving colored citizens have been either flatly refused federal relief or else given far less per person than that received by whites is no secret. It is also known that WPA and other alphabet agency jobs never have been given Negroes in direct proportion to the population and those who have been put on are as a rule classified in the lowest laboring class no matter what their skill, while workers have received less pay than whites because local federal officials think Negroes just simply shouldn't get what a white man does.

Talking with Assistant Chairman Arthur Curts, the other day, I pointed out that what few realize is it that not only the genera coored citizenry but those on relief and working on U. S. projects pay back a huge portion of their paltry pennies to the government in taxes. They are placed in the position of not only supplying the funds for their own jobs and relief but of helping give the cash needed to create thousands of better paid jobs which they do not get.

Even President Roosevelt himself admitted on September 2 of 1935 that "what is known as consumer's taxes, namely the invisible taxes paid by the people in every walk of life, fall RELATIVELY MUCH MORE HEAVILY UPON THE POOR MAN than on the rich man. In 1929 consumers' taxes represented only 30 per cent of the national revenue. Today they are 60 per cent . . ."

Since the Negro, taken collectively, does not fall into the rich man's class, this is a direct admission that you and I have had to pay more than our share of these increased taxes which the government has needed and will need for a long time to come to pay for this wild spree of federal spending.

Here are facts and figures which cannot be denied.

They prove that the family with a yearly income of from $200 to $2,000 pays more than $60 out of every $100 received by the federal government. Most of us fa in this class. Despite the "Sock the rich" ballyhoo of the Democrats, this shows that the majority of every $100 taves come out of the pockets of those least able to pay. Under the much-maligned Hoover administration, Negroes paid only $30 out of every $100 federal taxes—or less than half of their today's assessment.

If you pay $15 a month rent, your landlord has to pass on $3.60 for federal taxes alone; if your rent is $20, the U. S. government gets $4.80, and so on. Cigarette smokers who use a package a day pay the New Deal setup $21 yearly in taxes. Total tax on a $5 pair of man's shoes is 98 cents. For a dollar tie a buyer pays 20 cents in taxes. A woman pays 12 cents tax on a 60 cent pair of hose and $1.57 tax on an $8 dress.

Remember that YOU pay this, not the landlord or the manufacturer. They take this into consideration when establishing a sale price and pass the tax on to the buyer. This represents money you would not have to pay were it not for the extravagance of the Roosevelt administation. Those living off relief vouchers and funds pay the same taxes back to the government.

It's not a question of sentiment but a matter of good common sense for you to protect your limited earnings by voting for Governor Alfred M. Landon of Kansas and the Republican party who are bitterly opposed to federal waste and sworn to curb government extravagance. You simply can't afford to do otherwise.

DEMOCRATIC BODY ELECTS LEON JORDAN

Call

Local Organization Affiliated With National Committee

10-16-36

Negro Democratic headquarters were opened in the Thompkins building Monday, night, October 5, when an organization was set up by James P. Aylward, Democratic county leader.

Leon Jordan was elected president of the organization which is affiliated with the Jackson County Democratic organization and the national Democratic committee.

C. H. Astwood is vice president, Bernice Shakespear, secretary, and A. V. Monholland, treasurer.

Seven representatives were present from each of the three Democratic factions.

Three Factions Represented

From the Shannon faction were A. V. Monholland, Ed Wilson, Sam Royston, Dorsey Moore, John Baisley, J. J. Bates and Beatrice Shakespear.

From the Bourk faction: Mrs. Mazel Washington, George Goldern, Dr. L. M. Tillman, C. H. Astwood, Felix H. Payne, John Reynolds, Quincy J. Gilmore.

From the Pendergast faction: A. G. Nelson, Dr. T. A. Jones, Dr. Howard M. Smith, Frank Clark, Leon Jordan, William Maupin and R. D. Albrought.

Dr. William J. Thompkins, recorder of deeds from Washington, was present at the meeting and spoke.

NEGROES IN INDIANA BACKING ROOSEVELT

City Workers and Steel Mill Forces Are Also Reported Abandoning Landon.

MAIN FIGHT ON STATE RULE

Republicans Concentrate on State Offices and Say They Have Chance to Win.

By ARTHUR KROCK

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 16.—Defection of the Negro vote in a large proportion from its ancient party mooring in Indiana, and the plain intention of workers in the cities and the Calumet steel region to vote Democratic by an even larger majority, have persuaded competent observers and even the Republican workers here that the President will carry Indiana by 60,000 to 75,000 votes. His plurality in 1932 was 185,000.

Therefore the Republicans are concentrating on their State ticket, which has an excellent chance of election. Only lately have the candidates been mentioning the national aspirations of Governor Landon, so obvious was the localizing strategy.

The reason for the advantage of the Republican State ticket over the national is to be found in a combination of the methods and personality of the Democratic Governor, Paul V. McNutt. These methods have ranged from old Republican tactics of assessing the State employes to make up a factional McNutt war chest, to the imposition of a gross income tax which makes consumers pay twice, once on what they earn and once on what they buy.

Negro Vote Put at 80,000

Previously in normal Indiana elections, 1932 was not, labor has been divided, the white urban and rural population has split almost evenly, and the Republican plurality in the State was almost equivalent to the Negro vote, which now is estimated at 80,000. This year that vote is gone Rooseveltward, and frantic efforts to regain it seem to have been unavailing.

"We are wasting every dime we spend on these people," said a Republican organizer.

Some of the loss among the Negro groups has been regained by the Republicans in sections of the population such as have reacted against the New Deal in other States, farmers, business men and old-fashioned Democrats.

But these are at once offset by the industrial workers in the Lake region, where the polls are fantastic in the percentages of support they reveal for the President. The result is a Democratic State majority in the making, much reduced from 1932 but apparently impregnable.

In Indianapolis and Marion County the colore dvoters particularly have been the mainstay of the Republican organization. Experts predict a Democratic margin of 11,000 in the metropolis this year. Other cities and industrial regions are looked to for 45,000 more plurality, and there are still about 12,000 WPA workers uncounted.

Northern Areas Unaffected

There are bad spots, around South Bend, for example, where the farmers are reported off the reservation; and among the German Catholic sections in Southern Indiana, usually Democratic, where Father Coughlin's championship of the Lemke ticket is being strongly pressed. But among the northern voters of Irish Catholic affiliation the scouts report no material disaffection.

One technical complication besets the President's interests as differentiated from that of the State ticket. For political reasons the McNutt Legislature passed a law providing for separate national and State ballots, and then finding a tide against the State ticket in the cities, provided by law for voting machines in the cities.

It is hoped by the Republicans that this may increase their prospects somehow.

The Jeffersonian Democrats (ex-Senator Reed's organization) have been busy in Indiana, a natural activity in the State of the late Godfrey G. Gloom of Amity. But the organization has been on the watch for them, and here is a typical incident:

Republican county committees furnished names of Democrats believed to oppose the New Deal, and to all of them were sent letters on the Jeffersonian stationery. Postmasters are blamed for making lists of these for the regular organization, but, whether or not that is true, the presumed Jeffersonians received personal visits from Democratic leaders, who said:

"We understand you got a letter from that crowd of bolters. What do you intend to do?" The results, according to the regular Democrats, were generally pleasing.

Private and newspaper straw polls abound in Indiana. One has been showing a Democratic vote of 55 per cent in a region normally Republican by 5,000. In the Lake district 80 of 1,100 mill workers polled voted for Mr. Landon. Gary is reported to be 8 to 1 for the President, so far as industrial labor is concerned.

Roosevelt Signs in Parade

The Republicans would be proof against these discouraging returns, however, if it were not for their experience among the colored voters. For example, when Jesse Owens came here and was the central figure of a large colored "Landon parade," four of the nine automobiles bore Roosevelt signs.

The situation with respect to the State ticket is more interesting because it is less one-sided. Governor McNutt has nominated to succeed himself M. Clifford Townsend, a farm bloc leader, now Lieutenant Governor.

Opposed to him is a Republican member of the American Legion almost as powerful in that group as the Governor, who was a national commander. This is Raymond S. Springer, who proposes to repeal the gross income tax and whom Mr. McNutt defeated in 1932.

Indiana is tax-ridden. Governor McNutt has been a harsh boss, and the old Taggart faction, headed by Senator Van Nuys, has been ground under. The 2 per cent levy, more or less, on State employes has been used to operate the McNutt factional machine rather than the party as a whole.

The Governor's 1940 Presidential ambitions are among the issues, the understanding being that he (a former dean of the State University Law School), will become president of the university, while biding his time, unless one of the several Cabinet places for which he has been "mentioned" shall come to him.

The Governor is the type of man to precipitate a personal issue in any State. Able, handsome, bold, intellectual, he has governed in barrack fashion. To protests against the "2 per cent club" of State employes, he has answered that this is a better way of raising money than exchanging public favors with industrial and banking contributors.

To protets against the gross income tax, he has answered that he will welcome a better suggestion and is investigating several proposals now. To assertions by the minor party faction that the Democratic State ticket would lose by 150,000 this year, because of McNutt methods, if this were not a national election, he has replied with a smiling: "But this is a national year."

With his very practical henchman, Frank McHale, the Governor has proceeded with his political program in a way to elicit admiration from Tammany, from Boss Pendergast of Missouri, and from Pennsylvania Republicans who remember Penrose and Quay. Though a recruit from academic halls, Governor McNutt is definitely a pragmatist.

Government spending is disturbing the propertied classes of Indiana, including the farmers, though WPA, carefully guarded by Washington, has escaped unusual criticism and has many good works to show for its cost. While the social and religious splits which are disturbing other States are not invisible here, they do not seem to have produced an excess of feeling.

Tucker Offers Figures

The consensus that the President will carry Indiana by from 60,000 to 75,000 means a close result, and ordinarily the forecast would not lead a visiting observer into prophecy. But it comes from those who have personally investigated every disputed area in the State, notable among them—Robert G. Tucker of Indianapolis.

Mr. Tucker, State correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, has never made a wrong prediction on Indiana nationally, and seldom in State contests. On his surveys betting odds have been made for years. In complete familiarity with Indiana folkways, Mr. Tucker more nearly approaches those famous foreign correspondents of the Times of London, to whom nations were open books, than any other man in a similar position in the United States known to this writer.

That he has not the slightest doubt of the national result in Indiana this year, he more than fortifies the opinions of other experts. Mr. Tucker believes also that the Democrats will win nine of the twelve seats in the House of Representatives.

Democratic.

Political-1936
Party Affiliation-

YOUNG DEMOS PULL OFF LID AT BIG RALLY

Minor, Davis, and Cobbs In Bristling Speeches Stir Huge Crowd.

Characterized as one of the greatest demonstrations of Negro Democratic enthusiasm ever held in Cuyahoga County, more than three thousand persons jammed the auditorium of the Cotton Club, at 2226 E. 55th Street, Saturday night, where they heard the eloquent John Cobbs sing the praises of Franklin Delano Roosevelt—Thomas J. Davis, the praises of Martin L. Davey, and Norman S. Minor the obituary of Edwin D. Barry.

Minor ripped into the former safety director as far back as his history as a city official was known to reach, and in each instance brought out well-remembered facts that Barry had been a vicious Negro-hater throughout the entire history of his career. Minor urged the election of Martin L. O'Donnell.

John Cobbs, dealing with the question of our President, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, characterized him as the saviour of our age; the man who had found the "corner" Herbert Hoover spent four years looking for, and had safely turned it to put the nation on the soundest economic footing it has known in a decade.

Thomas J. Davis, organizer of the Ohio State Democratic League, in his enthusiastic appeal for the reelection of Governor Martin L. Davey, launched a vitrolic attack on John W. Bricker, the Governor's opponent, for his infamous ruling in the Doris Weaver case. Davis urged that Bricker be defeated, and cited the numerous instances in which Governor Davey has acted in favor of the Negro as no other Governor before him had done.

Davis brought out the fact that since the Governor's induction into office he had made no less than fifty-five prominent appointments to members of our group and numerous others of minor importance. These appointments range all the way from statistician in the Central office to assistant superintendent of Ohio State Penitentiary. The speaker was vigorously applauded when he urged his audience to eliminate taking chances by voting the straight Democratic ticket.

Judge Frank J. Lausche, running for election to the Common Pleas Bench on the non-partisian ballot, gave a fine demonstration of his enthusiasm in the meeting when he came forward to speak and got so warmed up on the subject of "Re-elect Roosevelt", that he forgot to tell his audience he was running for election to the judicial bench. Tom Davis, however, acting as chairman, picked the judge up and presented his cause to the people.

The meeting, sponsored by the Negro Democratic Council of Cuyahoga County, has aroused more enthusiasm in the cause of Democratic candidates than any other meeting to date, and it is annuonced by State Organizer Davis that a series of others of similar magnitude are to be held right up to the date before election.

"Killing two birds with one stone", the Council took advantage of the opportunity Saturday evening and held its installation of permanent officers. The officers are: Thomas J. Davis, 11th ward, chairman; Mrs. Zephyr Newlan, 18th ward, vice chairman; R. S. Starks, 16th ward, executive secretary; Tony Wright, 11th ward, cor. secretary; Chas. V. Carr, 17th ward, treasurer; Walter Williams, Sgt.-at-arms, and Grain McKinnon, 11th ward, chaplain.

John Carmock, Steve Kelley and Tony Wright, comprising the entertainment committee, deserve much credit for the efficient manner in which all activities were carried out. The meeting was closed with dancing and the serving of refreshments.

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

15,000 NEGROES PRESENT AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN TO HEAR PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT DEMOCRATIC MEETING

Richberg Assails Hearst For Attacking Program Of Pres. Roosevelt

RANSOM KEYNOTER

Cab Calloway, Michaux Steal The Show With Entertainments

By ALFRED A. DUCKETT

Uptown Harlem and downtown Brooklyn moved to the Madison Square Garden on Monday night, when an enthusiastic crowd of more than fifteen thousand listened to a rousing Roosevelt Rally sponsored by the Good Neighbor League.

The mass meeting, which was given in celebration of the seventy-fourth anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation, was characterized by addresses from prominent local and national Democratic figures and nationally known entertainers.

Opening the program at eight o'clock, the Monarch Elks Band, under the direction of Lieut. Fred W. Simpson, played several selections, one of the most significant being a special request "Happy Days Are Here Again," following which Elder Solomon Lightfoot Michaux, sensational radio preacher introduced his famous "Happy Am I Choir."

Garbed in white caps and gowns, the group of men and women who form the choir marched about the rostrum and seated themselves in a specally reserved section of the platform. To tumultous applause the radio preacher saluted the audience, gave them the benefit of his "million-dollar-smile" and then led the choir in a few marital hymns. The Elder presented the Rev. D. Ward Nichols, pastor of the Emanuel A. M. E. Church who in turn introduced the Rev. J. J. McNeil, pastor of the Harlem Community Church.

Rev. McNeil prayed eloquently stating that the Negro people feel that "God Almighty has sent a courageous and splendid leader in the person of Franklin Delano Roosevelt to guide the nation." The prayer was followed by a brilliantly rendered soprano solo by Mrs. Owens.

Rev. Nichols in a few short remarks preparatory to turning the program over to Elder Michaux spoke of the progress of the Negro "in which we are justfiably proud."

Michaux asked that we fight "not with carnal but with spiritual weapons."

"One thing," he said, "which I like about President Roosevelt is this—he never leaves God out of his addresses or his programs." He then led the choir in 'Are You Ready For The Battle," and additional selections which reflected a fighting spirit.

Celebrities Introduced

Rev. Nichols presented some of the celebrities present, among whom were Mrs. Bessye J. Bearden, Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue; Assistant District Attorney Richard E. Carey of New York Count; Aaron Smith, Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue; Daisy Reed, executive secretary of Utopia House; Assemblyman William T. Andrews of the 21st Assembly District; John Scott, president of the Metropolitan Relief Workers Guild; Alderman Eustace V. Dench, of the 21st Assembly District; W. C. Handy, noted composer, and Frank Wilson, prominent theatrical figure.

W. C. Handy summoned to the rostrum declared that he had come with a definite purpose in mind. Whimsically, he recalled that in 1915 he had written a song dedicated to the race to which he belonged, entitled "The Afro-American Hymn," at the same time composing the St. Louis Blues. How significant it was, he pointed out, that the St. Louis Blues, which he had thought so little of had remained until this very day in the hearts of the world, while the other creation had been almost discarded. And he proceeded to play the song, which in his own words, 'his race had almost forgotten to sing."

Further presentations were made of Edgar C. Brown, Special Assistant to the Director of the CCC in Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Cecelia Saunders, executive secretary of the 137th street YWCA, and Mrs. Emma Ransom, wife of Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom.

A highlight was reached in the evening's surprises when the Michaux chorus stood and turned to the rear of the rostrum, chanting a battle hymn, and pointing upward to two huge American flags suspended from the ceiling. The flags drew apart and the audience responded appreciatively as there slowly came into view a huge painting depicting Jesus Christ in the center as the Emancipator of Sin, Abraham Lincoln on the left as the Emancipator from Bondage, and Franklin Delano Roosevelt on the right as the Emancipator of Social Injustice.

Reads President's Message

The Rt. Rev. Richard R. Wright, former president of Wilberforce was presented by Rev. Nichols who lauded him as "a great Negro statesman." Bishop Wright, chairman of the Colored Division of The Good Neighbor League, read a telegram sent by the President and sent to the colored peoples of America. The President stated his appreciation of the opportunity of extending greetings to those taking part in the celebration and lauded "the personal and racial development and contribution to the material advancement of the country and the promotion of its ideals of the Negro."

The message further went on to extend hearty congratulations on the record the Negroes of America have made, and expressed the hope that "in the future as in the past, they will continue to show intelligence, industry and fortitude in striving for the best our democracy offers.'

Very warmly received were the Negro Melody Singers, under the capable direction of Juanita Hall. The Singers rendered "Great God Almighty" and were accorded generous applause. Following their selections, Clyde Barrie, of radio and concert fame, sang "Land Of Degredation."

Bishop Ransom Speaks

The guest speaker of the evening, Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom, of Wilberforce delivered an energetic and forceful speech. He claimed that no parallel in progress has ever been attained by any race of people which is comparable to that attained by the Negro race.

"The Negroes of America" he declared, "will never be emancipated or freed in spirit until they have conviction and courage enough to use the weapons placed in their hand. We must learn to use the ballot, and we must use it, not on the strength of traditions of the past, but to combat living issues of the present. We have the opportunity of casting what might be the decisive vote as to whether or not the social program inaugurated by Franklin Delano Roosevelt shall be allowed to continue."

The speaker declared that the Negro race had been more benefitted by the Roosevelt administration than by any other administration since the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation.

WPA Head Speaks

The next speaker of the evening was Donald S. Richberg, National Administrator of the WPA, who opened his speech with a biting barrage directed against William Randolph Hearst. As soon as Richberg mentioned the name Hearst, the Garden was filled with an almighty "boo" which lasted for several minutes.

"Hearst has dubbed me a revolutionist," he gibed. "But I have become so used to reading things that are untrue in the Hearst newspapers that I pay no attention. For the last thirty-two years I have raised my voice against, and opposed every form of Communism. Why two years ago over a national hookup I debated against Norman Thomas on the subject of 'Socialism.' If anything, I am too little revolutionist. I do remember having said some time ago that we were passing through an economic and social revolution, and I dare anyone with intelligence to dispute that. Hearst is an unconscious comedian. That is my conclusion. He doesn't know he's funny and he doesn't know how funny he is. I don't object to his being funny about me. I am used to it. But I do," and here the speaker raised his voice in eloquent indignation, "I do object to his being funny about the Presdent of the United States."

He continued to assail Hearst and the Liberty League, protesting against their monopolizing the good things of the earth to prevent the plain and simple people from enjoying life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"You see," he shouted, "the owners of the wealth of America exercising their liberty to direct the destiny of this nation, with more than 100,000,000 people, given absolutely no choice except to sit tight and take a joy ride to disaster, while American business and banking ran wild, looping the loop, until our cars all jumped the track at the top of 1929 and rolled crazily down the broken rails to 1933."

Richberg predicted that the American people would in November go to the polls and vindicate the leadership of President Roosevelt.

Cab Calloway Scores Hit

Probably no performer on that rostrum throughout the entire evening received a more overwhelming ovation than the next person presented —the King of Hi-de-Ho—Cab Calloway, who in characteristically entertaining style led his aggregation through "Copper Colored Gal O' Mine," "Frisco Flo," and "St. Louis Blues." It was noticeable that while a number of the reverend gentlemen on the platform, and noticeably The Elder of the Potomac regarded the goings-on of the King in rather sour manner, Bishop Ransom was one of the first to applaud the really marvelous rendition which Cab gave. Introducing the number, "St. Louis Blues," Cab referred to Handy as "the greatest of them all." As a gesture of appreciation the Father of the Blues, rose came across the stage and shook hands with Calloway.

Rex Ingram, 'Star of Green Pastures" was introduced and said a few words, after which Senator Robert S. Wagner to the tune of great applause was presented. The proponent of the anti-lynching bill refused to make a speech but declared energetically that he intended to pass the bill.

The spotlight was flashed on Harlem's new magistrate, Myles A. Paige who was seated in the upper tier. Congresswoman O'Dea made a few remarks regarding the progress of the Negro, as did Mrs. Bearden, after which as a fitting conclusion to the evening, Cab Calolway satiated the eager audience with his ever famous "Minnie the Moocher."

WORK OF GOOD NEIGHBOR LEAGUE GETS UNDERWAY

Will Sponsor Meetings Throughout Nation Among Both Colored and White. Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr. Former President of Wilberforce, and Rev. A. Clayton Powell, Sr., Pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church, N.Y., are Co-Chairmen.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt Was a Recent Speaker to the League at Commodore Hotel in New York. The Spirit of Franklin D. Roosevelt to be Emphasized.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1— Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., of the A. M. E. Church, and Rev. A. Clayton Powell, Sr., Pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church, in New York City, are Co-Chairmen of the Good Neighbor League, 103 Park Ave., New York City, which was organized upon the suggestion of President Roosevelt for spreading the doctrines of humanitarianism and racial co-operation throughout America.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was the principal speaker at a recent meeting of The Good Neighbor League, held at the Commodore Hotel in New York City. Before Nov. 3rd. The Good Neighbor League will sponsor a meeting in every Church in America. Colored and White, in order to crystallize The Good Neighbor spirit in the minds of the people.

"If there is any man in the world today who has adhered to the teachings of Christ in his treatment of all peoples regardless of race, creed or color, it is our noble President, F. Franklin D Roosevelt; in every instance, he has put humanity, the alleviation of suffering, the care of all people above politics," said Rev. Marshall L. Shepard, pastor of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church in Philadelphia.

Commenting on The Good League, Bishop Wright said, "The Government should be a Good Neighbor to its citizens as well as to private property. Before this administration, our government protected private property, but failed to care for its citizens, who own the Government.

"By protecting the interest of the laborers through wage security, old-age pensions, workmen's compensation and other social measures, our Government can bring to the Colored and White workers in America security and happiness. This is being a Good Neighbor, and this is what President Roosevelt is doing for the people."

Dr. Stanley High is one of the Executive Chairmen of the Good Neighbor League and is a member of the Board of the Cookman-Bethune College in Daytona, Fla. He is noted for his excellent work along educational lines for Colored people.

Estelle Sternberger, also Executive chairman, of the Good Neighbor League, is also Executive Director of the World Peace Ways.

The Co-Chairmen of the Good Neighbor League include George Foster Peabody, philanthropist, who has contributed extensively to Negro institutions; and Lillian D. Wald, internationally known social worker.

Other members of the Board of Directors, include: Patrick H. Callahan, Fannie Hurst, Curtiss Bach of Philadelphia; Charles Edison, Pres. of Thomas A. Edison Industries; Frank P. Graham, Pres. of University of North Carolina; Bishop R. C. Ransom of Wilberforce; Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron and Dr. Henry G. Leach.

From C. B. Powell, Publicity Director, Colored Division, Democratic National Campaign Committee, Biltmore Hotel, New York City.

Gerald L. K. Smith Says Roosevelt Is 'Leading Way To War On Side Of Soviet Russia'

By William B. Huie

Huey Long's "Mark Anthony," the 210-pound parson who wants to become the world's greatest rabble-rouser, was in Birmingham to make a speech today.

He is the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, here today with Rep. William Lemke, Union Party candidate for the presidency.

"If Roosevelt is re-elected," Gerald Smith began as he expanded at a breakfast table and ordered ham and eggs, "the South will be calling for Gerald Smith by next Summer.

"This boodle money will have run out by then, and if you want to know what will happen when it runs out, just imagine how things would be if it ran out now."

"When that money runs out, there will be a deliberate attempt to seize the South for Communism, and when that day comes, Gerald Smith will be the only man who can save us."

By this time, everyone in the Tutwiler Coffee Shop was aware that Gerald Smith was present, and while they listened Gerald Smith gulped his eggs and toast, ordered more coffee, shook his fists in the air and ripped into Roosevelt.

First Lady Rapped

"I'm a Democrat, and I'm for Bill Lemke because he's the only Democrat running. Roosevelt is only a tool in the hands of some hybrid organization headed by a former-prizefight promoter. His Administration will go down in history as the most corrupt we ever had.

"Mrs. Roosevelt, always a pink-tea Socialist, has done more to encourage Communism in the South than anyone else ever did.

"The real issue at stake in this campaign is not a national issue, but rather whether we shall have world revolution or not. I charge that Roosevelt is now unwittingly a party to a diabolical plot to enlist the United States in a war on the side of Soviet Russia."

'Blackmail' Charged

His eyes blazing and his hands waving constantly, Rev. Smith charged James A. Farley with attempting to have Father Coughlin expelled from the priesthood.

"Jim Farley, himself a Catholic," he said, "is spending money like water trying to make it appear that the church disproves of Father Coughlin's activities. He is using the same tactics he used to force us to have the Louisiana delegation endorse Roosevelt at the Philadelphia convention.

"Now let me tell you about that. The people in Louisiana are against Roosevelt, but the Farley machine had 12 of our men indicted, and held it over our heads and blackmailed us into giving lip-service to Roosevelt at Philadelphia."

26 NEGRO RALLIES BACK ROOSEVELT

Meetings Throughout the East Join Groups in Garden Here for New Deal Drive.

PRESIDENT ASKS VIGILANCE

Race Must Guard Freedom, Message Asserts—Richberg Assails Liberty League.

A nation-wide drive to enlist Negro voters in support of the New Deal got under way last night with a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden. The proceedings were broadcast over a national radio hook-up and were linked with twenty-five similar meetings in cities throughout the industrial Northeastern states.

The meetings were organized by the Colored Committee of the Good Neighbor League to celebrate the seventy-fourth anniversary of the issuance of the preliminary Emancipation Proclamation by Abraham Lincoln, as well as to endorse the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

After listening to a message from President Roosevelt which warned them that they must be constantly vigilant to maintain their liberty, the crowd at the meeting here adopted a resolution asserting that "we must emancipate ourselves from mere party names and party shibboleths even though this may shatter tradition and ancient loyalties."

"Real" Lincoln Spirit Urged

Urging Negro voters "not to be shackled by the slavery of dead issues of a day long past," the resolution exhorted them to join with forward-looking citizens, regardless of race, color or origin, to "carry forward the real spirit of Abraham Lincoln by supporting the social and economic program of our great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The speakers included Donald Richberg, Representative Caroline O'Day, Bishop R. R. Wright Jr. of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, chairman of the committee that arranged the meeting; Dr. Stanley High, director of the Good Neighbor League, and the Rev. A. Clayton Powell of the Abyssinian Baptist Church. An elaborate musical program was also offered.

Bishop Wright read the President's message, which follows:

The White House,
Washington.

My dear Bishop Wright:

I appreciate the opportunity of extending greetings to all those who are planning to participate in the celebration of the seventy-fourth anniversary of the issuance of the Preliminary Proclamation of Emancipation by President Lincoln.

It is an occasion for recalling the great progress which Negroes have made as citizens of our Republic. It also is an occasion for remembering that in the truest sense freedom cannot be bestowed, it must be achieved; and that there must be constant vigilance if it is to be maintained. The record which our Negro citizens have made in their own personal and racial development and their contribution to the material advancement of our country and to the promotion of its ideals are well known.

I heartily congratulate them on their record, and hope that in the future, as in the past, they will continue to show intelligence, industry and fortitude in striving for the best our democracy offers.

Very sincerely yours,
Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Liberty League Attacked

Mr. Richberg attacked the American Liberty League, whose lawyers, he said, "are principally engaged in preserving the liberty of a few men to wring their bread from the sweat of other men's faces." He charged that men of great wealth were very anxious to preserve "the right of a private property owner to dictate the amount of rent which he will demand or the wages he will pay."

"But when men and women are compelled by necessity to live in one kind of place and to work for one kind of employer, with no choice except to pay the rent demanded and to accept the wages offered—or else to starve—then the liberty of the property owner contains the power to enslave the worker," he said.

"And that sort of liberty is intolerable and cannot be preserved by a democratic government.

"We have learned in recent years that our economic system, under the unrestrained control of private owners, does not automatically keep all our workers employed producing and exchanging the necessities and comforts of daily existence. We have learned that it can get so out of order that as many as one-third of our working population can be thrown out of work, leaving them and their families dependent at first on private charity, but very soon upon the government."

Political—1936

Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Boast Huge New Deal Campaign Fund Be Asked To Influence Church Leaders

Political Somersaults of Rev. A. Clayton Powell and Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr , Are Considerad Very Significant

New York, Aug. 22 (Special Correspondence) — Despite the fact that President Roosevelt was rebuffed when he attemted, by personal letters a few months ago, to influence the church through its ministry, yet, it appears by a recent development that at least two prominent Negro ministers have succumbed to the subtle influences of the present occupant of the White House.

Under the clever pseudonym of "Good Neighbor League" (with headquarters on aristocratic Park avenue, New York city- the press statement announcing the political somersault of Rev. A. Clayton Powell was prepared and released. Bishop Wright's political pacrobatic stunt was not ushered into existence under such auspicious circumstances, but the general impression is that it also emanated from the same source.

It is common knowledge that prominent Negro Democrats openly boasted that Democratic National Chairman Farley has allocated a huge sum of money to be used to influence Negro ministers and through them, their communicants. One can hardly conceive the method by which the benefits of thish uge sum is to trickle down to the humble and unsuspecting lay members. The general impression is that the "deducts" will get it.

Since it became known that Rev. Powell had "turned Democrat," members of his church all over Harlem were seen huddling in groups and heard discussing in suppressed tones "the reason why" the reverend was suddenly converted to his new political faith. Everyone seemed to have his own opinion which he reserved to himself. Although Democratic members of his church were apparently gleeful, yet, even they appeared to doubt his action would prove beneficial to the peace and harmony of Abyssinia Baptist church. Republican members unhesitatingly denounced the pastor for his presto-political change of faith and declared, without reservation, that he was seriously impairing his influences as a religious leader. Should the Rev. Powell try to enforce his new-fangled political beliefs on his members, it is predicted that old Abyssinia Baptist church will be shaken to its very foundation.

Bishop Wright seems to be in a mort favorable poiston for he does not preside over any local church, but both AME ministers and laymen were heard expressing in bitter terms disapproval of his action. From the general expressions of discontent heard, it is safe to say the Bishop is fortunate in at least one respect and that is the General Conference of his church will not meet again for nearly four years. That body is the only one before which members can register their protest against the bishops.

There is, to all outward appearances, decided dissatisfaction among both AME and Baptist ministers over what they consider undue political activity on the part of these two ministers.

Although Rev. Powell's recital of this Damascus-like conversion to the Democratic faith disclosed that it took place at Washington in 1933, yet, he did not like the Apostle Paul, make an immediate pronouncement of his change of faith. He waited three long years before proclaiming his conversion. The scales seemed not to fall from his eyes until a honey-toned voice from Park avenue summoned him to a "more abundant life."

Roosevelt Has a Conference with Mitchell

"I have just had a very satisfactory conference with James Farley, W. Forbes Morgan, treasurer of the National Democratic Party, both in New York, and the President, himself, in Washington," Congressman Arthur Mitchell told the AFRO Wednesday.

"The President in conference yesterday, stated that his administration would be more liberal with the colored man as it grows in age," Mr. Mitchell said and added:

"He will visit the State of Illinois during his campaign, and make a special statement on the situation of the colored man in this country.

Powell Heads Democrats' Publicity Bureau

Prepared by National Democratic Committee, Biltmore Hotel, New York

The National Democratic Committee in New York City announced last week the appointment of Dr. C. B. Powell of New York City, publicity director of the Eastern and Western sections of the colored division of the National Democratic Campaign.

Dr. C. B. Powell, X-ray specialist in Harlem, is also chairman of the finance committee of the Victory Mutual Life Insurance Company of Chicago, president of the Community Personal Finance Corporation and co-publisher of the Amsterdam News.

Dr. Powell said, "It was through the efforts of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democratic party that the man lowest down who constitutes the masses, has been able to receive food, shelter and clothing, when the capital structure of the country was crumbling.

"His program during his short administration has given the colored man opportunity for cultural and economic progress which has advanced him thirty years."

Theatrical Star for F.D.

Mercedes Gilbert, star of the Langston Hughes's play "Mulatto" now at the Ambassador Theatre, New York, formerly active in Republican politics, today announced her intention to work for the re-election of President Roosevelt.

Miss Gilbert is a director of the newly organized Colored Actors' and Performers' Association with headquarters at 217-219 W. 126th Street, New York City, which boasts a membership of more than 700.

Good Neighbors

Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., of the A.M.E. Church, and the Rev. A. Clayton Powell, Sr., pastor of Abyssinian Baptist Church, in New York City, are co-chairmen of the Good Neighborhood League, 103 Park Avenue, New York.

Before November 3, the Good Neighbor League will sponsor a meeting in every church available in order to crystallize the Good Neighbor spirit in the minds of the people.

"If there is any man in the world today who has adhered to the true teachings of Christ in his treatment of all peoples regardless of race, creed or color, it is our noble President Franklin D. Roosevelt. In every instance he has put humanity, the alleviation of suffering, the care of all people above politics," said the Rev. Marshall L. Shepard.

C. B. POWELL

pastor of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church in Philadelphia.

Commenting on the Good Neighbor League, Bishop Wright said:

"By protecting the interest of the laborers through wage security, old-age pensions, workmen's compensation and other social measures, our Government can bring to the colored and the white workers in America security and happiness. This is being a good neighbor, and this is what President Roosevelt is doing for the people."

Roosevelt Aided Liberian

Lester A. Walton, U.S. Minister to Liberia, arrived in New York on the Ile de France on August 27, with his family on a sixty-day leave.

He said that under the Roosevelt administration the foreign policy of the United States has been most friendly and progressive toward the Liberian people.

He said further:

"The removal of the United States marines from Haiti, and the giving of the Haitians responsibility in the management of their financial affairs, is only one instance of the friendly and co-operative spirit of this administration's foreign policy.

"Another instance is the constructive work carried on by the Roosevelt administration in the Virgin Islands. Previously referred to by another administration as the Poorhouse of the World, the Virgin Islands now enjoys prosperity. Moreover, the masses of people, who were formerly disfranchised have full suffrage."

Says Withdrawal Of Relief Threatened By Democratic Workers

Threats to withdraw his relief, if he does not vote the Democratic ticket this year, have placed the Negro in a worse position than that occupied by his ancestors during slavery days, George E. Wibecan, director of the Negro Voters Division of the Republican State Committee, declared Monday as he opened campaign headquarters in the Liggett Building, 41 East 42nd street.

Mr. Wibecan announced appointment of Dr. Julia Coleman Robinson, active church and social worker of the 19th Assembly District, New York County, as co-chairman of the Division. After organizing their headquarters they prepared for an aggressive drive to carry to Negroes of the State the facts and issues of the campaign.

"We will try to bring Negro Democrats back to the Republican party," said Mr. Wibecan.

VANN IS SPECIAL ADVISOR TO FARLEY

NEW YORK (ANP)—James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee this week announced the appointment of Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh publisher, as special advisor to the Democratic National Campaign Committee.

"I have made this appointment for two reasons" he said, "first because I have known Bob Vann for a number of years and he did a fine job for us in the Presidential Campaign of 1932; second, because he has had experience in seven national campaigns, and you can't beat experience."

Reports have it that the appointment of Julian Rainey and Congressman Arthur Mitchell to head the eastern and western bureaus was Vann's suggestion.

Progressive Democrats Plan Meet In Florida

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 10—The Independent Progressive Democratic party, composed of a large group of colored voters will hold its annual convention and assembly here next week, it was announced by Dewey A. Richardson, State chairman. Headquarters of the organization have been opened in the Apollo Auditorium on Central avenue and Harrison street.

The executive committee of the organization has endorsed the Roosevelt administration it was made known and pledged support to party candidates. Mr. Richardson will organize a speakers' bureau in preparation for a State-wide campaign to be conducted by the group. He will be assisted by G. D. Rodgers of Bradenton, Fla., president of the Central Life Insurance Co., and a political leader of Manatee County and Prof. Perry V. Rooks of Clearwater.

MITCHELL HERE TO ORGANIZE

Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, Western Director of National Democratic Activities visited Indianapolis yesterday. Mr. Mitchell held conferences with Omer S. Jackson, state chairman; F. B. Ransom, National Director for Indiana, and other state officials and candidates, visited the Twelfth Ward Roosevelt headquarters and made other contacts while in this city.

Mr. Mitchell expressed surprise at the activity already in evidence preparatory to the campaign everywhere he went while in Indianapolis. While here, Mr. Mitchell effected all preliminary arrangements for the Indiana National set-up, and left by auto for Columbus, Ohio.

Democratic Fund Used to Influence Negro Ministers

NEW YORK—(Special)—Despite the fact that President Roosevelt was rebuffed when he attempted by personal letters a few months ago, to influence the church through the ministry, yet, it appears by a recent development, that at least two prominent Negro ministers have succumbed to the subtle influences of the present occupant of the White House.

Under the clever pseudonym of "Good Neighbor League" (with headquarters on aristocratic Park avenue New York city), the press statement announcing the political somersalut of Rev. A. Clayton Powell was repared and released. Bishop Wright's political acrobatic stunt was not ushered into existence under such auspicious circumstances, but the general impression is that it also emanated from the same source.

It is common knowledge that prominent Negro Democrats openly boasted that Democratic National Chairman Farley has allocated a huge sum of money to be used to influence Negro ministers and thru them, their communicants. One can hardly conceive the method by which the benefits of this huge sum are to trickle down to the humble and unsuspecting lay members. The general impression is that the "deducts" will get it.

Mutterings Heard

Since it became known that Rev. Powell had "turned Democrat," members of his church all over Harlem were seen huddling in groups and heard discussing in suppressed tones "the reason why" the reverend was suddenly converted to his new political faith. Everyone seemed to have his own opinion which he reserved to himself. Although Democratic members of his church were apparently gleeful, yet, even they appeared to doubt whether his action would prove beneficial to the peace and harmony of Abyssinia Baptist Church. Republican members unhesitantly denounced the pastor for his presto-political change of faith and declared, without reservation, that he was seriously impairing his influences as a religious leader. Should the Rev. Powell try to enforce his new-fangled political beliefs on his members, it is predicted that old Abyssinia Baptist church will be shaken to its very foundation.

Bishop Wright seems to be in a more favorable position because he does not preside over any local church, but both A. M. E. ministers and laymen were heard expressing in bitter terms disapproval of his action. From the general expressions of discontent heard, it is safe to say the Bishop is fortunate in at least one respect, and that is, the General Conference of his church will not meet again for nearly four years. That body is the only one before which members can register their protests against Bishops.

Ministers Dissatisfied

There is, to all outward appearances, decided dissatisfaction among A. M. E. and Baptist ministers over what they consider undue political activity on the part of these two ministers.

Although Rev. Powell's recital of his Damascus-like conversion to the Democratic faith discloses that it took place at Washington in 1923, yet, he did not, like the Apostle Paul, make an immediate pronouncement of his change of faith. He waited three long years before proclaiming his conversion. The scales seemed not to fall from his eyes until a honey-toned voice from Park avenue summoned him to a "More abundant life."

Rev. Powell is now free. He may now set forth from aristocratic Park avenue on his apostolic journey to expose "Those in high places who seek to line their nests with other people's money."

REV. POWELL QUITS DEMOCRATIC ORG.

Brands Good Neighbor League A Jim-Crow Organization

The Rev. A. Clayton Powell Sr., pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church, suddenly announced his resignation as chairman of the colored division of the Good Neighbor League, Democratic Rooseveltian re-election organization, Sunday morning.

He gave as his reason the League's Jim Crow policy as expressed by its segregated mass meeting staged in Madison Square Garden, Monday night.

Even previous to his formal resignation the duties of colored chairman had been shouldered by Bishop R. R. Wright of the AME Church who organized Monday night's meeting.

Rev. Powell declared from his pulpit Sunday that he had been misled as to the purpose of the Good Neighbor League. He said he had believed the League to be a body of both white and colored ministers interested in the promotion of the Good Neighbor policy, but said he could not support a segregated movement in the organization, such as the movement which culminated in Monday's meeting.

In some quarters it was indicated the congregation of Abyssinian Baptist Church had objected strongly to Rev. Powell's heading up the colored Good Neighbor League as a segregated body.

Neither Rev. Powell, sr., nor the Rev. Adam Powell, jr., were present at Madison Square Garden meeting Monday night.

COLORED DEMOCs Sets Up Offices with State Committee

New York, Sept. 5 (C) Julian D. Rainey of Boston has opened his office at 331 Madison ave. on the seventh floor along with offices of the Democratic State committee, where he is directing the drive among colored voters in the east. Charles P. Ray is secretary, Eve Munsey, assistant secretary Maxine C. Stockhouse and Evelyn Jones, Stenographers, and Edword Dodson, Clerk.

Democratic

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Report Dixie Congressman Insulted Race Democrats With Anti-Social Term

Says He Is Unaccustomer to Speaking at Meetings Attended By N----s; Race Democrats in N. J. Will Support Landon

PRINCETON, N. J.—A southern congressman stood up in front of a Democratic meeting held for William H. Smathers, New Jersey candidate for United States Senator, in this city last week and, noticing a group of colored Democratic leaders in the audience declared he was "unaccustomed to speaking at meetings attended by Niggers," that such attendance was not permitted in his part of the country and that he "hoped it would not be tolerated in New Jersey."

This was revealed here Tuesday night when Attorney Oliver Randolpn of Newark assailed the fact that Smathers had imported Southern Senators and Congressmen into New Jersey to aid in his campaign.

"Smathers had Pat Harrison of Mississippi speak for him Monday in Perth Amboy," Randolph said. "He had Congressman Byrnes of South Carolina boost his cause also at two Middlesex County meetings and Congressman Johnson insulted the entire race at a recent Princeton Democratic meeting when he referred sarcastically to 'Niggers' in the audience, as a result of which several leading Jersey Democrats walked out in a body. Congressman Johnson repeated the word 'Nigger' five times."

Further, Randolph added, "while Smathers was a judge in North Carolina Smathers gave a Negro a 99 year sentence for a slight, petty offense, proving what type of man he is."

Randolph urged his hearers to return Senator W. Warren Barbour to the United States Senate and reminded them of Barbour's fearless speech in support of the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill and his support of favorable appropriations for Howard University. Randolph asked that all Republican assemblymen, freeholders and city officials be returned to office.

The meeting was held by the Young Republicans of Princeton.

William A. Bradshaw, attorney in the Highway Department of Kansas, pointed to the fact that Governor Landon had given equitable distribution of state patronage and the rumor circulated by Democrats to the contrary was false and slanderous. He called Governor Landon one of the best executives the state had ever had. He closed his speech with an eloquent plea for the election of Governor Landon and Colonel Frank Knox.

(Released by Eastern Division of National Committee.)

House Gets Democratic Pay Bill

WASHINGTON

The payroll of the Democratic national committee for the week ending October 24, filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives, shows the following disbursements:

Ralph Mizelle, Bronx, New York, $100; Carrie B. Overton, 449 W. 153rd Street, New York $25; Mrs. Crystal Bird Fauset, of Philadelphia, $100; Alice Hoffman, 142 W. 140th Street, New York, $25; Evelyn Jones, 600 W. 141st Street, New York, $25; Eve Munsey, 54 E. 130th Street, New York, $25.

$200 for J. D. Rainey

Julian D. Rainey, of Boston, $200; Charles Ray, 152 W. 131st Street, New York, $50; Maxine Stackhouse, 36 St. Nicholas Place, New York, $25; Earl Brown, 180 W. 135th Street, New York, $100; Dorothy Saunders, 580 S. Nicholas Avenue, New York, $20; Dr. Mark L. De Leon, Mount Vernon, New York, $50; Harry Douglass, 205 W. 135th Street, New York, $25; Vernon Gardner, of the same address, $25; William K. Saunders, 2816 Eighth Avenue, New York, $50; William E. Taylor, 246 W. 150th Street New York, $50; Edward Ware, 205 W. 135th Street, New York, $25;

$75 to Percy Jones

Ollie Hightower, Cnicago, $20; Percy D. Jones, Chicago, $75; S. C. McAllister, Chicago, $25; Thomas J. Davis, Chicago, $25; T. W. Henderson, Chicago, $25; Nina Peck, Chicago, $17.50; Charles F. Davis, Chicago, $50; Hortense Dean, Chicago, $20; Henry U. Mease, Chicago, $50; Frances Brewton, Chicago, $20; O. B. Jefferson, Chicago, $50; S. C. Richard, Chicago, $20.

James Casey, Chicago, $40; Ina Dora, Chicago, $20; Gloria Wilson, Chicago, $20; Emma J. Gaston, Chicago, $20; Esther B. Smith, Chicago, $25; Sonnie Burford, Chicago, $30; Elizabeth Drayton, Chicago, $25; Harriet Fulson, Chicago, $25; Inez Steele, Chicago, $25; Mrs. Annie H. Mitchell, Chicago $50.

RETURN OF ROOSEVELT SEEN AID TO LIBERALS

Continued

Nixon Tells Political Scientist 'Red-Baiters' Have Received Setback.

Professor H. C. Nixon, of Tulane University, said yesterday liberalism "can find new encouragement in the sweeping re-election" of President Roosevelt.

"With so much liberal and labor support for the Roosevelt administration, and that support avowed and recognized." Nixon told the Southern Political Science Association, "illiberal minority elements, whether on or off the Roosevelt bandwagon, should henceforth be able to make little headway with red-baiting agitation."

Nixon, history and political science professor, is vice president of the S. P. S. A. A score of educators were listed for addresses at a three-day convention of the association.

Nixon said "the general improvement in race relations" and "a more vigorous opposition to lynching" were among "the finest items pointing toward liberalism in the south."

Taking cognizance, however, of industrial disputes which have led in some instances to bloodshed, he said it was "in danger in the sphere of economic relations, particularly with reference to civil rights for labor and labor leaders."

"There seem to be Red-baiters who make no distinction between progressive democracy and communism.

"Social scientists who venture beyond cloistered walls or beaten paths must run the risk of being branded as "Reds." In fact, a liberal today in the south might be defined as a person who has been called a Communist and isn't."

Nixon added that "a few teachers, a few editors, a few preachers and still fewer lawyers" were "refreshing minority voices."

"Liberalism in the south and in the nation can take heart," he said, in the return to the White House "of a President who was charged by patrioteers or profiteers with communistic and un-American proclivities, in the re-election of a President whose wife is listed in the Red network.

David Wilbur Knepper, of the Mississippi State College for Women observed that "the new south presents two significant challenges to academic political scientists and their brethren in the related fields."

"First," Knepper said, "the challenge to provide leadership in the rapidly expanding work of adult education. Second, the challenge of the demand for the best-trained young men and young women graduates of our institutions for service in state and local governmental agencies, together with in-service training of veteran civil servants."

SIX AT DEMOCRATS' MAYFLOWER DINNER

WASHINGTON—

Contrary to rumors that an unpleasant evening awaited colored members of the District's New York State Colored Democratic Club at a dinner given by the local white Democratic group at the Mayflower Hotel, last week, there was no discrimination.

The colored included: Mrs. Colista V. Chey, Emory B. Smith, Leon V. Condol, Lawrence Hays, Lucius O. Robinson and Conrad Clark.

Mr. Robinson, the president of the colored group, sat at the table with Mrs. Marion Buck, president of the white group; Assistant Attorney General Robert Jackson, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Stephen Gibbons, Public Printer Augustus E. Geigenback, and David Cohen, Mississippi author. all white.

What Democrats Spend in New York and Windy City

WASHINGTON.

The payroll of the Democratic National Committee for the period September 1 to October 21, filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives, shows the following disbursements:

Week ending September 19:

New York headquarters: Julian D. Rainey, 30 Edgecombe Avenue, New York, $200; Crystal B. Fauset, Biltmore Hotel, New York (1½ weeks at $100 a week), $150; Ralph Mizelle (1 week and 4 days at $100 a week), $166.67; Earl Brown, 180 West 135th Street (3 weeks and 2 days at $100 a week), $333.24; Oliver Harrington, 479 West 152nd Street (2 weeks at $30 a week), $60; Dorothy Saunders, 580 St. Nicholas Avenue (3 weeks and 2 days at $20 a week), $66.66.

Week ending September 26:

New York headquarters: Crystal B. Fauset, $100; Evelyn Jones, $25; Ralph Mizelle, $100; Julian Rainey, $200; Charles Ray, 152 West 131st Street, $50; Earl Brown, $100; Dorothy Saunders, $20; Dr. Mark L. De Leon, Mt. Vernon, New York (15 days at $50 a week), $125.

Week ending October 3:

Crystal B. Fauset, $100; Alice Hoffman, $25; Evelyn Jones, $25; Ralph Mizelle, $100; Eve Munsey, $35; Julian Rainey, $200; Charles Ray, $50; Maxine Stackhouse, $25; Earl Brown, $100; Dorothy Saunders, $20; Dr. Mark De Leon, $50.

Week ending October 10:

Crystal B. Fauset, $100; Alice

Hoffman, $25; Evelyn Jones, $25; Ralph Mizelle, $100; Eve Munsey, $35; Carrie B. Overton, 448 West 153rd Street, $25; Julian Rainey, $200; Charles Ray, $50; Maxine Stackhouse, $25; Earl Brown, $100; Dorothy Saunders, $20;

Dr. Mark De Leon, $50; George Jenkins, Mt. Vernon, New York, $40.83; William K. Saunders, 2816 Eighth Avenue, $58.33; James Stephens, 115 West 135th Street, $58.33;

William E. Taylor, 246 West 150th Street, $58.33; Vernon Gardner, 205 West 135th Street, $29.17; Edward Ware, 205 West 135th Street, $29.17; Harry Douglas, 205 West 135th Street, $29.17; George Douglas, Hotel Dumas, $29.17;

Chicago

Harold E. Bledsoe, Chicago headquarters, $75; Charles D Diggs, Chicago headquarters, $40 Percy D. Jones, Chicago headquarters, $75.

Week ending October 17:

Crystal B. Fauset, $100; Alice Hoffman, $25; Evelyn Jones, $25 Ralph Mizelle, $100; Eve Munsey $35; Carrie B. Overton, $25 Julian Rainey, $200; Charles Ray $50; Maxine Stackhouse, $25;

Earl Brown, $100; Dorothy Saunders, $20; Dr. Mark De Leon, $50; Harry Douglas, $25; Vernon Gardner, $25; George Jenkins, $35; George Lawson, $25; James Stephens, $50; William E. Taylor, $50; Edward Ware, $25; Harold E. Bledsoe, $75; Percy D. Jones, $75.

Democratic Advt. Bill Is $10,340

October Expenses Indicated in Report Filed in House.

$651 SPENT FOR BOSTON OFFICE

11-7-36

WASHINGTON.

The Democratic National Committee spent a total of $10,340 for newspaper advertising of which amount $1400 was spent during the week ending October 17, according to a report of party receipts and disbursements for the period of October 2 to 28, recently filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives.

Other amounts paid included $621.50 to Silas F. Taylor for the Boston office, and $738.54 to Ralph Mizelle for expenses in New York for the week ending October 24.

Baltimore Trip

Elmer A. Carter, editor of Opportunity magazine, received $20.30 for expenses to Baltimore, where he spoke at a meeting of the City-wide Young People's Forum.

Accounting Later

He received another advance of $2,500 on the same day he refunded the two previous advances, the report shows. The money is to be used for expenses and accounted for later.

Other disbursements made by the Democratic national committee include:

Julian D. Rainey, head of the eastern campaign among colored voters, New York headquarters, October 22, advance of $2,500 to be accounted for.

Theron B. Hamilton, a special assistant to the Attorney General, October 22, reimbursement for expenses incurred October 8-9: transportation from Washington to Columbus, $37.20; hotel, meals, telephone and miscellaneous expenses, $17.45; total, $54.65.

Julian D. Rainey, October 22, reimbursement for expenses incurred October 15-18: transportation from New York to Boston, Newport, and return, $28.30; hotel, meals, taxis, auto hire and tips, $32.75; total, $61.15.

$148 to Bishop Walls

Bishop W. J. Walls, 4736 South Parkway, Chicago, reimbursement for expenses incurred October 9-15: transportation from Chicago to Louisville, Evansville, Indianapolis, Columbus and return, $64; Indianapolis to Pittsburgh, $26; hotel, meals and taxis, $23; office rental, supplies, telephone, postage and miscellaneous expenses, $35.60; total, $148.60.

Mrs. Mary Cheney, 2588 Seventh Avenue, New York City, October 22, stenographic services, September 28 to October 3, $25.

Calvin's Newspaper Service, October 22, cuts, clippings, mats, mimeographing, and news writing service, $324.26.

William Chase, 2293 Seventh Avenue, New York City, cartoon service for week ending October 17, $25.

Dr. C. B. Powell, publicity director, colored division, Democratic national committee, reimbursement October 22 covering newspapers, messenger service and taxis, $22.11.

Newspaper advertising the week ending October 17 as follows: The AFRO-AMERICAN, $500; Cleveland Eagle, $50; Boston Chronicle, $100; Kansas City American, $50; Philadelphia Independent, $100; St. Louis Argus, $100; The New York Amsterdam News, $500.

W.Va. Man Paid

E. L. Powell, 916 First Avenue, Charleston, West Virginia, reimbursement of expenses incurred October 11-17, covering transportation from Norfolk to Charleston through Raleigh Logan, Huntington and return, room and meals, $46.50; salaries from October 19-25:

E. L. Powell, State director, $75; chairman, women's division, $20; chairman, first voters' division, $20; secretary, $20; clerical hire, $40; janitor, $10; total, $205.

Dr. Walter G. Alexander, State director, 48 Webster Place, Orange, N.J., reimbursement for expenses incurred October 12-17: auto hire, railroad fare and meals, $88.20; hall rental and advertising, $64; clericla services, messenger and janitor, $71; office supplies, printing and postage, $42.84; total, $266.04.

Theron B. Hamilton, October 22, reimbursement, transportation from Washington to Bluefield, Norfolk, Berkley, West Virginia, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and return, $57.01; hotel and meals, $48; total, $105.01.

Thomas H. R. Clarke, deputy recorder of deeds, Washington, D.C., reimbursement, transportation from Washington to York, Pa., and return, meals, taxis and tips, $6.

John T. Doles, Jr., 770 St. Nicholas Avenue, New York, transportation from New York to Hartford and return, hotel, meals, taxis and tips, $17.95.

Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh, October 22, reimbursement of expenses incurred September 29 to October 2: transportation from Pittsburgh to New York and return, $42.90; hotel, meals, taxis and tips, $29.30; total, $72.20.

Thomas H. R. Clarke, October 22, transportation from Asbury Park, Trenton and Washington, $9; hotel, meals, taxis and tips, $17.30; total, $26.30.

$50 to Mitchell

Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, Chicago, October 23, reimbursement for expenses incurred for speaking engagements in St. Louis and points in Southern Illinois October 17-18, $50.

Earl B. Dickerson, Chicago, October 23, reimbursement of expenses incurred October 13-14 for transportation from Chicago to Springfield and return, meals, taxis and tips, $43.92.

Elmer A. Carter, editor, Opportunity magazine, 1133 Broadway, New York, October 23, reimbursement, transportation from New York to Baltimore and return, $13.20; hotel, meals, telephone, taxis and tips, $7.10; total, $20.30.

Mrs. Crystal Bird Fauset, of Philadelphia, reimbursement, three round-trips from New York to Philadelphia, $19.20; meals, taxis, tips and office supplies, $28.61; total, $47.81.

$56 to Georgia Man

Percival Harris, Athens, Ga., October 23, reimbursement of expenses October 18-21, transportation from Athens, Ga., to Washington, D.C., Elizabeth, N.J., New York City and Asbury Park, $32.11; hotel, meals, taxis and telephone and telegram, $24.87; total, $56.98.

Harry C. Bragg, 409 Edgecombe Avenue, New York, October 23, transportation from New York to Morristown, $4.10.

Emory B. Smith, 1707 Second Street, Northwest, transportation, Washington to New York and return, $10.85; hotel, meals and taxis, $9.70; total, $20.55.

F. B. Ransom, Indianapolis, reimbursement, October 23, transportation from Indianapolis to Huntington, W.Va., and return, meals and taxis, $19.15.

William L. Houston, 615 F Street, Northwest, reimbursement for expenses incurred October 7-21: stenographic services, $50; postage and telephone, $14.29; total, $64.29.

$651 for Boston

Silas F. Taylor, 922 Tremont Street, Boston, October 27, reimbursement of expenses October 17-24: hall rental, $200; printing, advertising and postage, $143; auto service and hire, $81.25; meals and incidentals, $122.25; salaries: young director of first voters, clerical hire, typists and custodian, $105; total, $651.50.

Walter M. Murray, State director, 43 Martin Street, Hartford, Conn., October 27, reimbursement of expenses October 19-24: rally expenses, $94.03; auto hire, meals and tips, $53.33; office supplies, $28.55; salaries: Walter M. Murray, director, $50; Ruth Banks, women's division, $25; Alvin W. Napper, first voters' division, $25; total, $275.91.

Ralph Mizelle, Bronx, New York, October 27, transportation from New York to Greensboro, N.C., $40.54; auto hire, $98; meetings, $550; hotel, meals and incidentals, $43; distributing literature, $7; total, $738.54.

$367 for Rhode Island

John F. Lopez, 445 South Main Street, Providence, R.I., October 27, reimbursement of expenses October 19-24, auto hire, $100; stenographic and clerical hire, $102; meetings and incidentals for speakers, $135; postage, $30; total, $367.

John W. Dobbs, 540 Houston Street, Atlanta, Ga., October 27, reimbursement of expenses: transportation, $59.55; hotel, meals, taxis, tips and telegrams, $61.15; total, $120.70.

Guy R. Brewer, 728 St. Nicholas Avenue, New York, transportation, hotel, meals, taxis and telephone, $7.10.

$74 to Oxley

Lawrence A. Oxley, in charge of colored economics, United State Labor Department, October 27, expenses incurred through October 16, $74.55.

Dr. Walter G. Alexander, October 28, expenses October 19-24, covering auto hire, meals and transportation, $50.19.

Julian D. Rainey, October 28, expenses October 5-21, covering newspapers, office supplies and taxi fares, $4.94.

NEIGHBOR LEAGUE ADOPTS NEW TASKS

Education in Support of the President's Objectives to Be an Aim of Permanent Body.

SEEKS END OF BITTERNESS

Strong Feelings Aroused in the Campaign Must Be Replaced by Good-Will, Dr. High Says.

11-9-36

Plans for continuing the Good Neighbor League as a permanent organization were announced yesterday by Dr. Stanley High, its founder. The league was organized last March, chiefly to promote the re-election of President Roosevelt.

In outlining broader objectives for the league's future, Dr. High said it would seek to educate the people on fundamental public questions, especially those having a bearing on democracy, "as opposed to subversive movements," and "to build up a stronger sentiment in favor of those measures which have for their purpose the creation of better social conditions for all classes in this country, particularly the underprivileged and those whose resources are limited because of poverty, unemployment and illness."

The league, he said, also would seek to break down racial and religious prejudices and create broader concept of our international obligations.

Referring to hte recent campaign, Dr. High said another task was to assure the ending of the bitterness which the heat of the campaign had engendered.

"The unprecedented victory of President Roosevelt was a clear mandate from the vast majority of the people in America to continue the policies which he has established," he declared. "That mandate imposes upon him a tremendous responsibility, as well as upon every social-minded citizen in the United States.

"But the 18,000,000 people who opposed him could not have been altogether wrong. While some of them did not understand, large numbers disagreed on sincere grounds. It will be one of the imperative tasks now facing us to wipe out the bitterness of the recent campaign and to win the support of as many as possible of those who voted against the President's program for the broad purposes of social progress to which a majority of American citizens are committed.

"Fortunately, President Roosevelt has prepared the way for the accomplishment of this purpose by the constant emphasis upon the 'good neighbor' ideal, until it has become a classic in American life.

"The practical development of this ideal will create a new atmosphere in Americanism, which may become the basis of a great movement that will crystalize our social, economic and political ideals into a program which will challenge every American citizen.

"To this end the Good Neighbor League has been organized. It has already rendered a conspicuous service in this direction. It is not an experiment whose value needs to be tested. I nthe most practical fashion the league has demonstrated what may be done in a broader way if given the opportunity."

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic

New York Democrats Win Right To Run Own National Campaign

CONGRESSMAN ARTHUR W. MITCHELL (left), who will head Western division of Democratic national campaign among Negroes. Julian L. Rainey (right) heads Eastern division. Victory for Herbert Bruce (above), Harlem Democratic leader, is seen in national committee's decision to place New York State in separate category. Mr. Bruce is prominent among a group demanding that New Yorkers be given right to direct their share of campaign.

Democrats Get Heads for Drive—Local Leaders Heeded

The battle of the New York Democrats to balk domination by outsiders in the national campaign appeared to have been won yesterday, after the national committee announced plans for its set-up.

Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago was named director of the Western division, with Julian W. Rainey of Boston as the Eastern director. The Eastern set-up does not include New York State, and it is understood that leaders here will run their own campaign independently.

The decision of the national committee tends to indicate that the power of Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh publisher and former assistant attorney general, has waned. During the national convention at Philadelphia it was generally accepted that Mr. Vann, who deserted the Republicans in 1932, would direct the campaign among Negroes.

New York leaders, who represent officially and unofficially the largest concentration of Negro voters in the country, were reported doomed to have no part in directing the campaign with domination by leaders from other states.

Mr. Vann was bitterly opposed by Dr. William O. Thompkins, recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia and head of the National Association of Colored Democratic Clubs. A Philadelphia organization of Democrats informed Chairman James A. Farley that it would not work under or with Mr. Vann.

Resentment was particularly acute because veteran Democrats saw their service disregarded while a newcomer enjoyed an influence tantamount to national leadership.

The selection of Congressman Mitchell and Mr. Rainey is seen as a move to smooth the troubled waters at the sacrifice of Mr. Vann. It is likely, however, that the publisher may be offered some recognition which will not affect the position of the recognized leaders.

Mr. Mitchell was not particularly anxious to accept the post, because he is up for re-election and has as an opponent Oscar DePriest, who preceded him in Congress.

Mr. Rainey is a former assistant corporation counsel of Boston and has been active in Democratic leadership for years. He will have offices in the Biltmore Hotel here.

DANVILLE, ILL.
COMMERCIAL NEWS

JUL 19 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATIC WOMEN TO HAVE MEET

Regular meeting of Colored Women's Democratic Club Inc. will be held Monday evening at home of Mrs. Mary Perchman, 308 Lahr Street.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

By CLIFF MACKAY

Virginia's Last-Living State Senate Page

YOU PROBABLY thought it was a comparatively new thing for members of your race to vote the Democratic ticket. So did the writer until the last surviving Negro page boy in the senate chamber of Virginia assembly, "set the record straight."

He is R. G. Moseley, pioneer Virginian, of 830 Lexington Street. From page boy to school teacher, to railroad man, to postman, and now retired, his experiences have been as interesting as they have varied.

MR. MOSELEY

"It took a lot of nerve for a Negro to vote Democratic back then," Mr. Moseley reminiscensed, "but a few of them did and were ostracized and scorned by others of their race."

"So hostile were members of our race to the Democrats and so loyal were they to the party they believed was responsible for their freedom, I recall one colored Democrat who was actually excommunicated from his church after some brother deacons learned how he had voted."

It was late afternoon as we sat on the front porch of Mr. Moseley's comfortable home. Mild-mannered and unassuming, he held a briar pipe in his right hand, and with the left fondled the head of his four-year-old grandson, while recalling those stirring post-Reconstruction days in Virginia history.

to ever serve in the Virginia legislature.

The colored legislators, as did the white, all gathered at the bar in Ford's Hotel, where the issues were often more lively discussed than they were on the assembly floor.

"Everybody drank together and there was a general spirit of good fellowship," the veteran page declared, adding that in his opinion the color line has been drawn more tightly in recent years.

A registered voter in the state for thirty years, Mr. Moseley expressed the belief that the poll tax, more than anything else, has caused the apparent indifference of Negroes to the ballot. "When first given the ballot, our people were just not ready for it and as the result often abused the privilege," he said.

He visioned a reawakening on the part of colored citizens and predicted that the Negro vote in many states will be greatly sought after by both parties during the forthcoming Presidential election.

"Back in those earlier days of Virginia politics when there were no poll taxes or primaries, Negroes were both active and interested in the outcome of campaigns. The interest though, was largely confided to party, rather than issues and men," he said.

But the view of voters of our group will be just the opposite in 1936, he predicted. Instead of being centered on parties, it will be on the issues and the men who will carry them through. This new view, in Mr. Moseley's opinion, is a great improvement over the old. "If we had divided our party allegiance earlier, we would have been much further advanced politically," he said.

W. C. Cameron was governor of Virginia at that time and there were two major parties, the Democrats and Readjusters, in the state, Mr. Moseley recalled. When the Virginia General Assembly sat in the memorable session of 1881-2, ten Negroes were present in the House of Delegates and four in the Senate. Senators William McNorton of Yorktown, W. P. Mosseley of Goodson County, A. W. Jones and Wm. Stephens, whose counties were not recalled, all took active part in shaping the destiny of the Old Dominion during that trying period.

Besides himself, other pages still living who served in the House during that session are the Rev. George F. Bragg, Sr., now an Episcopal rector in Baltimore, and W. C. Pae, Mr. Moseley said. His brother, Willie Moseley, now deceased, was the first colored page 430 miles—more than four times around the world.

Baptist Church, Bute street.

He entered the postal service in 1902, and was retired on pension, April 31, 1934, after 31 years active service. During his long years in the postoffice as a carrier, he estimated that he averaged walking 3,530 miles a year or a total of 109,-

The father of six daughters, he has one grandson. He has served as a member of the vestry of Grace P. E. church for 30 years and is also a member of the Hiawatha Social and Beneficial Club and the Eureka lodge of Elks.

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic

New York Democrats Win Right To Run Own National Campaign

CONGRESSMAN ARTHUR W. MITCHELL (left), who will head Western division of Democratic national campaign among Negroes. Julian L. Rainey (right) heads Eastern division. Victory for Herbert Bruce (above), Harlem Democratic leader, is seen in national committee's decision to place New York State in separate category. Mr. Bruce is prominent among a group demanding that New Yorkers be given right to direct their share of campaign.

Democrats Get Heads for Drive—Local Leaders Heeded

The battle of the New York Democrats to balk domination by outsiders in the national campaign appeared to have been won yesterday, after the national committee announced plans for its set-up.

Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago was named director of the Western division, with Julian W. Rainey of Boston as the Eastern director. The Eastern set-up does not include New York State, and it is understood that leaders here will run their own campaign independently.

The decision of the national committee tends to indicate that the power of Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh publisher and former assistant attorney general, has waned. During the national convention at Philadelphia it was generally accepted that Mr. Vann, who deserted the Republicans in 1932, would direct the campaign among Negroes.

New York leaders, who represent officially and unofficially the largest concentration of Negro voters in the country, were reported doomed to have no part in directing the campaign, with domination by leaders from other states.

Mr. Vann was bitterly opposed by Dr. William J. Thompkins, recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia and head of the National Association of Colored Democratic Clubs. A Philadelphia organization of Democrats informed Chairman James A. Farley that it would not work under or with Mr. Vann.

Resentment was particularly acute because veteran Democrats saw their service disregarded, while a newcomer enjoyed an influence tantamount to national leadership.

The selection of Congressman Mitchell and Mr. Rainey is seen as a move to smooth the troubled waters at the sacrifice of Mr. Vann. It is likely, however, that the publisher may be offered some recognition which will not affect the position of the recognized leaders.

Mr. Mitchell was not particularly anxious to accept the post, because he is up for re-election and has as an opponent Oscar DePriest, who preceded him in Congress.

Mr. Rainey is a former assistant corporation counsel of Boston and has been active in Democratic leadership for years. He will have offices in the Biltmore Hotel here.

DANVILLE, ILL.
COMMERCIAL NEWS

JUL 19 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATIC WOMEN TO HAVE MEET

Regular meeting of Colored Women's Democratic Club Inc. will be held Monday evening at home of Mrs. Mary Perchman, 308 Lahr Street.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

By CLIFF MACKAY

Virginia's Last-Living State Senate Page

YOU PROBABLY thought it was a comparatively new thing for members of your race to vote the Democratic ticket. So did the writer until the last surviving Negro page boy in the senate chamber of Virginia assembly, "set the record straight."

He is R. G. Moseley, pioneer Virginian, of 830 Lexington Street. From page boy to school teacher, to railroad man, to postman, and now retired, his experiences have been as interesting as they have varied.

It was late afternoon as we sat on the front porch of Mr. Moseley's comfortable home. Mild-mannered and unassuming, he held a briar pipe in his right hand, and with the left fondled the head of his four-year-old grandson, while recalling those stirring post-Reconstruction days in Virginia history.

MR. MOSELEY

"It took a lot of nerve for a Negro to vote Democratic back then," Mr. Moseley reminisced, "but a few of them did and were ostracized and scorned by others of their race."

"So hostile were members of our race to the Democrats and so loyal were they to the party they believed was responsible for their freedom, I recall one colored Democrat who was actually excommunicated from his church after some brother deacons learned how he had voted."

W. C. Cameron was governor of Virginia at that time and there were two major parties, the Democrats and Readjusters, in the state, Mr. Moseley recalled. When the Virginia General Assembly sat in the memorable session of 1881-2, ten Negroes were present in the House of Delegates and four in the Senate. Senators William McNorton of Yorktown, W. P. Mosseley of Goodson County, A. W. Jones and Wm. Stephens, whose counties were not recalled, all took active part in shaping the destiny of the Old Dominion during that trying period.

Besides himself, other pages still living who served in the House during that session are the Rev. George F. Bragg, Sr., now an Episcopal rector in Baltimore, and W. C. Pae, Mr. Moseley said. His brother, Willie Moseley, now deceased, was the first colored page to ever serve in the Virginia legislature.

The colored legislators, as did the white, all gathered at the bar in Ford's Hotel, where the issues were often more lively discussed than they were on the assembly floor.

"Everybody drank together and there was a general spirit of good fellowship," the veteran page declared adding that in his opinion the color line has been drawn more tightly in recent years.

A registered voter in the state for thirty years, Mr. Moseley expressed the belief that the poll tax, more than anything else, has caused the apparent indifference of Negroes to the ballot. "When first given the ballot, our people were just not ready for it and as the result often abused the privilege," he said.

He visioned a reawakening on the part of colored citizens and predicted that the Negro vote in many states will be greatly sought after by both parties during the forthcoming Presidential election.

"Back in those earlier days of Virginia politics when there were no poll taxes or primaries, Negroes were both active and interested in the outcome of campaigns. The interest though, was largely confided to party, rather than issues and men," he said.

But the view of voters of our group will be just the opposite in 1936, he predicted. Instead of being centered on parties, it will be on the issues and the men who will carry them through. This new view, in Mr. Moseley's opinion, is a great improvement over the old.

"If we had divided our party allegiance earlier, we would have been much further advanced politically," he said.

After finishing his education at Baptist Church, Bute street.

He entered the postal service in 1902, and was retired on pension, April 31, 1934, after 31 years active service. During his long years in the postoffice as a carrier, he estimated that he averaged walking 3,530 miles—more than four times around the world.

The father of six daughters, he has one grandson. He has served as a member of the vestry of Grace P. E. church for 30 years and is also a member of the Hiawatha Social and Beneficial Club and the Eureka lodge of Elks.

PHILADELPHIA DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEEMEN OPPOSE THE APPOINTMENT OF R. L. VANN

PHILADELPHIA, July 1 7—The North Philadelphia Democratic Committeemen, headed by Edward Hazell, local president, at its regular meeting last week adopted a petition protesting the appointment of Robert L. Vann of Pittsburgh as director of campaign among Colored voters.

The petition is signed by 96 members of the organization of the total 121 members, and reads as follows:

July 3, 1936

Hon. James A. Farley
Chairman, Nat'l Dem. Committee
Washington, D. C.
Dear Mr. Farley:

We, the duly elected committeemen of Philadelphia, desire to bring to your atention a rumor that Robert L. Vann of Pittsburgh is to direct the campaign among the Colored voters of the country. If this rumor be factually founded we wish to enter our protest against this appointment.

Mr. Vann is very generally disliked in Philadelphia and throughout the state and we cannot work either with or under him.

We are members of the Nat'l Colored Democratic Assn., designated as "Unit 1 of Pennsylvania" and our activities have been greatly embarrassed through the political associates of Mr. Vann, because of his opposition to our organization.

Distrust of Mr. Vann is not confined to Philadelphia but extends throughout the state and we believe that it will do the President more harm than good among Negroes if he is appointed.

His open letter to the President was but another evidence of his lack of political capacity, an ineptitude which we cite as an illustration of his lack of common sense and the elements of true leadership.

Very truly yours,
Signed: Sworn to and subscribed before me this 7th day of July, 1936.
Ethel E. Moore
My commission expires end of next session of Senate.

UNION, S. C.
TIMES

JUL 16 1936

A PROBLEM WE MUST FACE

"Contains Real Threat"

(Barnwell People-Sentinel)

In condemning Senator Smith for his action, his critics have pointed out that in 1876, white Democrats applauded the speeches of Negro Democrats and that Senator Smith himself sat in the South Carolina legislature with Negro representatives from Georgetown. True, but in 1876 the white Democrats were desperately trying to restore white supremacy to a downtrodden and violated people and Senator Smith's protest was the initial effort to prevent a return to such unspeakable conditions. In 1876 we were trying to oust the Negro from politics—in 1936 the national Democratic party seems to be committed to the task of restoring the brother in black to a place in the political sun. And against such action we join Senator Smith and the other members of the South Carolina delegation in voicing formal protest against and vigorously opposing the effort. There are some things more important to the South than the election of a Democratic president and congress through the elevation of the Negro in politics.

There may be no real danger of political equality in the South in the very near future, but this latest development contains a very real threat, to say the least.

Mrs. Browning Dissents

In my opinion the People-Sentinel has this wrong. In 1876 the struggle was to rid South Carolina of radical rule by ousting the "carpet baggers" and "scalawags" from office and let them return to those who sent them. After this was accomplished when the Blue Coats were subdued, the negroes returned where they belonged, in the field with plow and hoe, and soon realized who was their friend, their old master.

As long as the true South Carolinians are to the fore there will always be white supremacy in this state.

When Wade Hampton was dying his last utterance was "God bless my people; God bless them all, both white and black."

One Who Remembers '76 and the Red Shirts—
Mrs. L. J. Browning.

Senator Guffey has stated that he was responsible for the Negro participation in the Democratic convention. He says the Democrats could not carry the election without the Negro vote. That's why he had a Negro to pray and another to speak in the recent convention. In other words, no matter what is involved, the repudiation of white supremacy, the interference with States' Rights, the question of equal suffrage, social equality—none of these things concerns Senator Guffey. All he is affte is the Nego vote, and he does not mind saying so. As we have pointed out, Senato Guffey admits and we believe it true, that the balance of power rests in the Negro vote in Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York and Ohio. The same thing would prevail in South Carolina if we had two parties of about equal strength. Whether we will it or not, this question will loom lager and larger upon the political horizon.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
EVENING POST
JUL 25 1936

DR. NURSE URGED AS AIDE IN DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

Appointment of Dr. Godfrey Nurse to head the Damocratic campaign among New York Negroes was urged upon James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, today by the New York State Colored Democratic League, of which the Harlem physician is chairman.

Political leaders backing Dr. Nurse's appointment include Herbert C. Bruce, Negro Tammany leader of the Twenty-first Assembly District; Walter Reifer of Queens County and Randal Tolliver of Westchester County.

PARTY REBELLION IN CHARLESTON

One does not expect rebellion against the Democratic party in Charleston, especially from the oldest daily newspaper in the South, The News and Courier. Yet The News and Courier is off the Democratic reservation, if we know our English language when we read it. From the beginning of the Roosevelt administration The News and Courier has opposed Roosevelt, condemning 98 per cent of his decisions, applauding about 2 per cent of them.

Since the nominations of the two parties, The News and Courier has put the heat on. It now says, because the Roosevelt administration is not anti-Negro, on which fact it bases its theory that the Democratic party is no longer the Democratic party:

> No reason remains that a South Carolinian should longer be the slave of party organization.

In another editorial The News and Courier expresses its enthusiasm for Governor Landon's acceptance address. Says that paper:

> It is heartening that Governor Landon declares unequivocally for government which would give business and industry an opportunity to catch their breath and move toward recovery without all sorts of interference. He pledges himself to do what the Roosevelt administration promised four years ago to do, but disregarded on the plea that the national emergency made reckless spendin gnecessary.

But The News and Courier realizes that revolt in South Carolina will mean nothing. Under South Carolina law, all who vote in Democratic primaries are lawfully bound to vote the Democratic ticket in November. The News and Courier therefore admits that South Carolina is safe for Roosevelt, but it continues to fight him on all fronts nevertheless.

Now it is not the purpose of The Advertiser to judge The News and Courier. The Advertiser respects and admires that newspaper and its great editor. The Advertiser is merely reporting an extraordinary turn in South Carolina history. What The News and Courier is doing is novel, and so interesting if futile.

OHIO DEMS COMMEND DAVEY FOR RACE JOBS

CLEVELAND, O., July 30—(By Leon Lewis for ANP)—Reflecting the enthusiasm of the older Ohio colored Democrats and mapping out a preliminary program for the coming November election, the Ohio League of Young Deocrmats this week "pointed with pride" to the recognition given the electorate of the state by Gov. Davey's appointment of numerous Negroes to positions of responsibility and trust.

From the office of Thomas J. Davis, state organizer of the League, it was learned that some of the Governor's appointments have been as follows: Three state liquor inspectors, two office clerks, (Department of Liquor Control), two liquor store cashiers; one liquor store manager, eight liquor store clerks, one claims manager (Highway Department), one inspector, cosotology board, one resident surgeon, state penitentiary; three investigators, State Highway Patrol; lady secretary, Industrial Commission; 10 investigators and examiners, Old Age Pension Department; a liquor agency contract to Waldo Tyler of Columbus, valued at $10,000, and many other positions as matrons, custodians and porters in the Highway Department.

Appearing here recently before the Literary Forum, Gov. Davey, commenting on his appointment declared: "I do not appoint Negroes to positions as a special favor to the race, but because they are qualified citizens of this state whose ability warrants recognition and appointment to the position. I am very proud of the type of service they are rendering the state." In the same meting, when asked if he had planned to appoint a Negro on the State Parole Board, he answered. "Yes."

YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO
VINDICATOR

JUL 25 1936

Dr. White Heads New Negro Dem Club Here

Organization of the Youngstown Negro Democratic Club, with Robert Cochran as president, was announced Friday.

Dr. J. S. White is vice president, and Cal Harrison, secretary.

Other officers are: Eugene Hill, assistant secretary; Clarence Mayfield, treasurer; Robert Payne, sergeant-at-arms.

Vice presidents were elected for each ward. They are: C. C. Harrison, first; Walter Jennings, second; George Memis, third; Joseph Velar, fourth; Robert Hunter, fifth; Whittier Miller, sixth; George Hick, seventh.

Dr. Clyde Hall was elected chairman of the executive committee. The club will be affiliated with the Negro State Club.

Members plan to join the national organization also. Another meeting will be held July 31 at 454 W. Federal St., when plans will be made for clubrooms.

Political — 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Democrats Jim Crow Missouri Delegate

N.Y. Negro Leaders Shun Session In Protest

By Alan Max
(Daily Worker Staff Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—The menacing figure of Jim-Crow stood beside Jim Farley as he opened the National Convention of the Democratic Party today.

Although through a last minute shift, it was decided to let the few Negro delegates sit with their state delegations, Carl Glass, of Missouri, found himself left out in the cold.

When Glass, the only Negro delegate from a border state—there are none at all from the South—went to sit with his delegation, he found every seat apparently occupied. But when other Missouri delegates arrived, room was quickly found for them. Several of the Missouri delegates, it turned out, had been sitting on two seats at once.

Protests

Glass, a "Democratic wheel-horse for twenty years" as he described himself, and attending his first convention, was permitted to remain standing in the aisle throughout the entire opening session.

The race segregation did not go unprotested. There was a silent protest against this symbol of the "lily-white" Southern wing which wields so much influence in the party and which constitutes one of the principle reasons for the party not effectively fighting Republican reaction. There was an outspoken protest too.

The silent protest was the absence of Herbert L. Bruce, Negro district leader of the 21st Assembly District in New York. He has deliberately stayed away as a mark of protest, knowing that the pitifully small group of three or four Negro delegates—and not so many more alternates — were to be jim-crowed in the convention hall—not permitted to sit with their state delegations, but seated, as in years past, by themselves.

Shun Sessions

Several other leading Negro Democrats from New York, who by custom should have been visitors at the convention, have purposely stayed away too. (And when Harry Austin, Negro delegate, arrived from New York last night, he brought with him the advice of Bruce to carry on the protest during the convention by refusing to vote. Whether Austin will subscribe to this policy, is not yet known.

The outspoken protest came from the Negro correspondents. When they received their press credentials at the beginning of the week, they discovered they were not to be seated at the main press table and afforded the full press services. The excuse was that they represented "only weekly papers."

The Negro reporters were not surprised. They were, however, indignant and, unlike the Negro delegates, not afraid to speak out. A delegation of correspondents from the Baltimore Afro-American, the Pittsburgh Courier and other Negro papers, visited Democratic headquarters yesterday. When they were unable to see anyone in authority, Robert Jones, of the Afro-American, immediately sent a protest telegram to the Democratic National Committee.

"At the 1928 convention in Houston, Texas," one of the Negro correspondents declared, "the Negro delegates were caged up together behind chicken wire. This year the chicken wire is invisible—but it's still here.

Farley Bid for Vote

Not that the party is not going out of its way to win the Negro vote. Mindful of how the Republican convention threw out entire Negro delegations in the hope of winning some Southern states to its reactionary banner, National Committee Chairman Farley made an unusual bid for the Negro vote by actually visiting the convention of the National Colored Democratic Association here Sunday.

True, Farley only spoke a few sentences. He was sure, he told the delegates, that "you will wholeheartedly support President Roosevelt this year, not because you are colored people but because you are American citizens." A polite reminder that they should not ask or expect anything from the Democratic Party that would meet the special needs of the Negro people.

But the very fact that the chairman of the Democratic Party said anything at all to these Negroes, was in itself an event. And as such it was hailed by Dr. William J. Tomkins, Edgar Brown and the other leading Negro Democrats. It is on them that the Democrats count to keep the rest of the Negroes in the party well in hand so that the administration may not be caused any undue embarrassment.

Resolution Issues

To what extent the administration will be embarrassed at all during the convention remains to be seen. If the platform committee is presented with the resolutions as drawn up late yesterday by the National Colored Democratic Association, there will be a certain amount of uneasiness in the upper ranks. But it is not yet known just how the resolutions will read after they pass through the hands of Dr. Tomkins, president of the Association.

Other resolutions call for abolishing the requirement that a photograph accompany civil service applications; and suffrage for the District of Columbia, where the 136,000 Negroes could elect a large percentage of the officials—the reason, of course, that the franchise was taken away twenty-two years ago.

But most important of the resolutions is for anti-lynching legislation. On the advice of the leaders of the Colored Democratic Association, this resolution has been watered down, substituting the phrase "mob murder" for "lynching"; omitting all direct reference to the Negroes and making no mention of the Wagner-Costigan and other anti-lynching bills whose passage was promised by the administration and which died with the passing of the 74th Congress.

Scottsboro an Issue

Not all the delegates to the Association convention, however, are pleased with having the anti-lynching resolution proposed to the platform committee in such a feeble form. Jasper R. Brown, chairman of the Fourth Congressional Democratic League of this city, told your correspondent that "you got to let the other fellow know you are determined."

"You can't feed a baby on one-quarter milk and three-quarters water," Brown said. "You've got to have all the butter fats. The trouble with these resolutions is that they have no butter fat in them."

Brown was indignant, too, over the failure to mention the Scottsboro Boys and Angelo Herndon in the resolutions. "We should demand everything that concerns the Negro people," he said.

New Deal Opener

JAMES A. FARLEY

Negro Rights Plan Urged Democrats

Roosevelt Criticized in Wire From Corona Opportunities Group

A sharp wire criticizing the Roosevelt administration for catering to Northern monopoly and the reactionary Bourbon South was sent to James A. Farley, on the eve of Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia, by the Committee for Equal Opportunities, 107-08 Northern Boulevard, Corona, Long Island. Farley is chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The wire proposed that planks protecting the rights of Negroes, social legislation, and guarantees of the rights of labor, be inserted in the platform. The retreat of the Roosevelt administration before Hearst — Liberty League — Republican reaction will spur the union of Negro people with other groups for independent political action, the wire stated:

The following provisions were urged for the Democratic platform: enforcement of legislation to carry out the intent of the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth amendments; a federal anti-lynching bill with teeth; social legislation without the discrimination against Negroes present in NIRA, AAA, and the Social Security Bill; a federal housing program eliminating segregation in replacing Negro slum quarters; abolition of the civil service requirement of photographs at examinations; guarantees of civil rights of labor to organize.

The wire was signed by Thomas A. Baker, Thomas B. Dennison, and Frank Martell, active leaders of the Committee for Equal Opportunities.

Ask Negro Rights

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 23.—A definite and decisive stand on the rights of labor, the Negro people and civil liberties was urged upon the Democratic National Convention, by the Philadelphia District of the International Labor Defense here today.

Proposals were made in a letter to Senator Joseph Robinson, chairman of the Democratic National Convention, insisting upon planks in the Democratic platform covering the right of labor to organize, strike and picket, the abolition of the inhuman chain-gang system, equal rights to Negroes, and the disbanding of all fascist and semi-fascist organizations.

Among the organizations which, according to the letter, should be dissolved are: the Ku Klux Klan, the Black Legion, the Crusaders, the Sentinels of the Republic; the Southern Committee to uphold the Constitution, the American Liberty League, and the Vigilante Bands.

The letter attacked the United States Supreme Court for nullifying social legislation and called for the granting of amnesty to all labor and political prisoners.

M. H. Wickman, acting District Secretary of the Philadelphia International Labor Defense, signed the letter.

Platform and New Majority Rule Bring Birth of New Party---White

Kansas Editor Sees Trend to Hamiltonian Doctrine, Alienation of South From Democratic Paths in Convention Actions.

By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—The new party under the old name was born today. Its new rules take the veto power from the old south, its new platform gives all reserve power to the President. It is, in essence and politically, the creature of Hamilton; its Jeffersonian ideal is to establish approximate economic equality even if it must deny to the average man much political liberty. The new party is a baby. Its features are not set, but they shine like an eugenic prophecy in its countenance—its rules, its platform, its candidates. Three days have been consumed in the accouchement—three days of twilight sleep, painless but dreary.

It is cribbed now. A definitely left-ist party, it is bred of three blood streams: first, the old south, a remote grandmother; second, the new Tammany, an all-American wigwam wherein the Irish rule the urban population, and third, in its blood is a strong strain of farm-labor radicalism! Franklin Roosevelt is its daddy as much as Thomas Jefferson was the father of the Civil War and post-war democracy and as much as Alexander Hamilton begot the republican party as it lived from Lincoln to Hoover.

"Crown Princes" Speak.

One might go further with the figure and say that the convention has heard the voice of the two crown princes of the new party, Governor George H. Earle and Senator Bennett Champ Clark. Bennett Clark tonight, presenting the report of the committee on rules, showed the convention an earnest, scholarly, well-balanced man with fine zeal and proper courage. He cut the umbilical cord that bound new democracy to its old mother by taking from the south, under the abrogation of the two-thirds rule, the right to veto a presidential nomination.

The two-thirds rule which passed out of the democratic party this evening when young Bennett Clark sat down amid the well-earned plaudits of the multitude, took away the democratic presidential nominations from Speaker Champ Clark in 1912 and William Gibbs McAdoo in 1924, which they won fairly by attaining and holding a majority in democratic national convention, but not a two-thirds majority.

The convention knew that young Clark, cast for the moment as a modern Hamlet, was avenging his father's political death. A fine, manly job he did of it, but, with his vengeance came also the death of the party his father loved and the birth of the party which may take the son to the place the father vainly coveted.

White Sees "No Flowery Path."

The new party has no flowery path before it. Franklin Roosevelt may probably will, be able to hold it together while he commands its fortunes. But the seeds of death are in it. Many of its members are bound to conflict. The city Tammany group of states needs the negro in its business as a voter. To hold him as a voter it must prosper him as a worker and as a citizen. Which is all right for the farmer-labor group in the north. But when "Cotton Ed" Smith raged to reporters, as he did this week, at having to sit under the altar of a colored preacher, listening to him invoke God's blessing on white men, and, further, when the delegates from the south fully realize that they no longer can hold their party to a policy of white supremacy even in the south without statess' rights, trouble will come into the new organization.

Another thing, the city Tammany, whether it is in Boston, Los Angeles, Chicago, New York, Houston or Atlanta, inclines naturally toward conservatism, a feudal conservatism. The money to operate every Tammany comes from the rich, whom the Tammany softly assess to control the poor. The attitude toward Franklin Roosevelt which the New York Tammany holds, and Al Smith's attitude does not seriously differ from that of his other sachems, is the universal feudal attitude which is never willing seriously to cripple the rich but always must furnish some kind of political pap to the poor, through political assessment of course, but always decent and moderate.

"South's Veto Gone."

The farmer-labor crowd is frankly radical. They would use taxation as a distributive agent more than will please the city democrats or the land owners who operate the feudal system in the south.

This whole new American political tendency is a reversion to feudalism, modern feudalism but typical of all feudalism—at its best a benevolent despotic paternalism. In the new party, the city Tammany rules through conservative feudalism. In the south, the landed aristocrat must maintain feudal relations with his sharecroppers. In the west, the farmer-labor group must set up a feudal relation with an all-wise, all-powerful government. In all three, the citizens surrender their political individualism for economic security. But here is the dismembering dynamite.

Under this set-up, the feudal south will have no reason to cling to the empty name of an extinct Jeffersonian party, for both the farmer-labor group and the Tammany group will be vastly more insistent upon treating the negro as a worker and not a serf and giving him social and political equality in the north and economic equality under the landlord with the whites of the south. In the twinkling of an eye, when young Bennett Clark sat down after proclaiming the new rules, even though they were sugar-coated expediency, the south lost its reason for loyalty to the new party. The south will probably not break away this year, but, with the veto gone, it can be ignored in the horse-trading which will be inevitable in the new democratic convention four years from now.

"Roosevelt and Hitler."

The platform of the new party will give to the President great reserve powers, powers purposely withheld from the delegates so that, as the head of the new, strong, Hamiltonian party, he might meet emergencies unfettered by platform promises. He is the platform—Der Fuehrer! This parallel of Roosevelt and Hitler, of course, is more or less literary. The differences between Germany and America are so deep that our brand of strongly centralized Hamiltonian government will not be the German nazi brand.

But if we do turn away from the old economic order, we must cement the new order with new political forms, we must abandon much of the old hampering political machinery of present-day America. The two-form economic feudalism, a republican democracy, cannot live in the same state. Hence, in the beginning, the party that sponsors the new feudal Hamiltonian idea must leave its leaders free. That the convention today has done. Its platform promises are few and general.

Changes in Parties.

Naturally, being the party in power, the democrats point with pride, and being the party out of power, the republicans view with alarm. Where the democrats strut, the republicans strafe in their platform, each about as foolishly as the other. Foolishly, because the forces of the system which are at work today are evident in the two parties, the republicans turning from Hamilton to the states' right doctrine under Jefferson and the democratic party picking up the fallen Hamiltonian banner. Those evolutionary forces will work their way out to their inexorable end.

Roosevelt and Landon are symbols. Roosevelt incarnates the new unhampered leadership which inspires hypnotic devotion with the lure of all its promises, Landon personifying the old average, middle-class, country-bred American. With the faults of its virtures! These two symbols, rather than the platforms and the economic forces struggling around them, will decide the battle of the year.

Senator Smith Quits Over Negro's Prayer; Convention Colleagues Let Him Go Alo

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—An assertion that he was "through" with the Democratic National Convention and "sick of the whole damn thing" was voiced angrily tonight by Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina after he had walked out of the political conclave in protest against the presence of Negroes.

While a Negro minister—the Rev. Marshall Shepard, pastor of Philadelphia's Mount Olivet Baptist Church—was opening the afternoon session with prayer, Senator Smith, followed by a few other South Carolina delegates, left the convention hall.

Officials said that it was the first time prayer had been offered at a Democratic convention by a Negro. It was followed immediately by the playing of "Dixie."

Explaining that he had departed because of the presence of the Negro clergyman and of about thirty Negro delegates, Senator Smith asserted that he was "going home" and that he would "do some talking."

Disagreement with the Senator's attitude was expressed promptly by Claud Sapp, chairman of the State delegation, who said:

"I don't care who prays for me. I'm willing for any one to pray for me who wants to."

He attributed Senator Smith's walkout to "a chip on his shoulder."

This development climaxed a stormy twenty-four hours of c sension between the Senator a Governor Olin D. Johnston, t State's National Committeeman.

Through a misunderstandi there was no ticket or delegat badge for Senator Smith when aerrived late yesterday from Jac sonville where he had attended the funeral of Senator Fletcher of Florida.

The trouble apparently had been straightened out late last night when a badge finally was sent to Senator Smith, too late for use for the keynote address, but the Senateor expressed renewed bitterness today.

"I have represented my State in the Senate for etwenty-seven years," he said, "and when I come to the convention of my party I find no badge, no reservations, no nothing."

The Senator also expressed resentment over the fact that he was not assigned to any of the convention's committees.

Governor Johnston, who had expressed a desire to let the matter drop, heatedly retorted that "he better be thankful he got here as a delegate."

Senator Smith said that he would not support "any political organization that looks upon the Negro and caters to him as a political and social equal."

Asserting that the present tendency of the Democratic party's administration was to seek the Negro vote, he added:

"We don't need it. I'm through

Political-1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

SOUTH BEND, IND.
NEWS TIMES

FEB 12 1936

PRECINCT HEADS DISCUSSED BY NEGRO VOTERS

Plans to promote the candidacies of precinct committeemen from the ranks of colored voters were discussed Tuesday night by republican and democratic political clubs.

First to announce his candidacy was John A. Searles, sixth precinct, Second district, following a meeting of the central committee of Colored Republican voters in the home of Dr. B. W. Streets, chairman of the organization. Talks on registration of voters and election laws will feature the next committee meeting with Melvin Ferguson of the Junior Republican club, in charge. It will be held at 114½ North Michigan street on March 10.

The St. Joseph County Colored Democratic club, meeting in the Harris cafeteria at 136 North Birdsell street, named a committee of four to investigate possibilities of obtaining at least two precinct committeemen in districts where colored voters reside. The committee members are Rev. R. W. Alexander, William Jordan, Albert Haynes and Leroy Fingers. Also discussed were plans to combine the men's and women's clubs. The next meeting will be held Feb. 25, the place as yet undecided.

Democratic Committeemen In Demand For Show-Down

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 28—There was much dissatisfaction and indignity among the members of the North Philadelphia Race Democratic committeemen organization assembled in regular session at its headquarters, 1519 North 20th street, last Friday evening, over the failure of the Democratic chieftains to keep their campaign promises in the matter of patronage distribution.

The committeemen from the 14th, 15th 20th, 22nd, 28th, 32nd, 38th, 41st, 47th wards representing over 100,000 colored people of Philadelphia's 223,000 are raising up in arms and protest against the policy and attitide of John B. Kelly, Democratic boss of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania, Governor George H. Earle.

Remembering Governor Earle's campaign pledges to the colored voters that he would support them in gaining ten per cent of amnies and positions given out by the Democratic party is the genuine reason for the reprisals.

In a letter written to John B. Kelly, who has been advanced from his Philadelphia contracting business to the secretary of the Pennsylvania State Department of Revenue, the committee of sixty Democratic committeeman, pointed out the facts that only two Race members have jobs out of one hundred nine vacancies that have already been filled to date. Where the Race is due representation of seventeen, it, in fact, has only two places, the other one hundred sixty seven being filled by white Democrats. It was also pointed out to Mr. Kelly that Federal allocation of WPA jobs and money and not being given to the colored population in proportion to the colored population's support at the last election.

The committeemen took exception to the reply which was sent through by a Mrs. R. B. DuVal, who has the title of secretary to the chairman. Kelly, himself the recipient of a $10,000 yearly plum, did not take even the trouble to dictate the reply.

Demand Showdown

The secretary stated in "her" reply that in due time, due consideration would be given to all the loyal colored Democrats who were loyal to the party at the last election, but that it takes a lot of time so that every deserving person would be treated alike.

Then to contradict herself and to make the committee ashamed of themselves for writing the letter, she said that the Negroes have jobs now that they have never had before. The jobs are assistant superintendent of the post office, deputy, attorney general and two high salaried employees in the comptroller's office. And to slam the committee further she even hinted that the North Philadelphia colored people should be satisfied and according to the ratio of committeeman in the ten wards that the colored populace have more than their just due.

The hitch to that statement is that there are plenty of white committeemen in the several wards that represented almost a solid black belt and neighborhood.

Edward R. Hazell, president of the North Philadelphia Negro Democratic Committeemen's organization also stated in the interview with The Chicago Defender correspondent that the organization is ready to take definite action pro or con after ascertaining whether or not John B. Kelly himself expressed the thoughts as advanced in the letter sent from Mrs. R. B. DuVal.

Austin Picked by Tammany for Democratic Convention

Mixed Assembly District Breaks All Precedents by Sending Harlemite as Delegate to Philadelphia Convention.

By EDGAR T. ROUZEAU

NEW YORK—Tammany conferred one of its highest honors last week on a Harlemite, William H. Austin, who was named a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia in June.

The honor was especially significant in view of the fact that the Twenty-first Congressional District, which Austin has been named to represent, made up of election districts in five assemblies and is predominantly white. This is the district in which the Republican party, for several years past has named a colored candidate for Congress, but always without success. Half of the white vote was always enough to swamp the colored vote.

Want Congressman

This recognition by Tammany has given rise to renewed hopes that a Harlemite may soon be designated to run for Congress on the Democratic ticket. Such a designation here would be tantamount to election, for the Twenty-first Congressional District is predominantly Democratic. The present representative of the district is a white Democrat, Joseph A. Cavagan.

The district is made up of seven election districts in the Thirteenth Assembly, seven in the Nineteenth Assembly, the entire forty-two election districts of the Twenty-first Assembly, about thirty-six out of the Twenty-second Assembly, and the entire ninety-two election districts from the Twenty-third Assembly. Only forty-six of the total are considered colored election districts.

How It is Done

The rights of five assembly district leaders must be considered in the selection of a delegate to the Presidential convention. In this instance, Tammany passed over the claims of Andrew B. Keating, leader of the Thirteenth; Harry C. Perry, leader of the Nineteenth; John J. Kelly, leader of the Twenty-second, and James H. Torrens, leader of the Twenty-third.

The honor was awarded to the Twenty-first Assembly District, controlled by Harlem's first colored Democratic leader, Herbert L. Bruce. It was Bruce who suggested the name of Mr. Austin to James J. Dooling, Tammany chief. Perry, in the Nineteenth Assembly, had to be satisfied with a colored alternate in the person of Percy Foster.

Establishes Precedent

Tammany's appointment marks the first time that a colored individual has ever been named to attend a Presidential convention as a delegate from New York State. A few have been named alternates before.

Austin will be traveling in fast company, for the list of Tammany delegates to the convention reads like a page from the Who's Who. Here are a few:

Alfred E. Smith, Presidential candidate in 1928; Samuel Levy, borough president of Manhattan; David H. Knott, president of the Knott chain of hotels; James J. Dooling, Tammany chief; George W. Olvany, former Tammany chief; Royal S. Copeland, New York's senior Senator; John P. O'Brien, former mayor; James J. Hoey, collector of Internal Revenue; Robert F. Wagner, U. S. Senator, and Max D. Steur, famous trial lawyer.

Other Delegates

The names of other delegates and alternates: are Bert Stand, secretary of Tammany Hall; John T. Dooling, chairman of the Tammany law committee; Joseph M. Hartfield, automobile magnate;

George W. Loft, persident of the Loft corporation (tearoom, restaurants, and candy stores), Grover A. Whalen, former police commissioner; Joab H. Blanton, former district attorney; Daniel L. Ryan, of the board of transportation; Michael J. Cruise, Charles A. Schneider, James Di Salvo, Philip Berolsheimer, Martha Byrne, Joseph T. Higgins, Anna Naughton, Timothy J. Sullivan, Thomas J. McMahon, Arthur J. W. Hilly, Rose M. Reese, Anthony Paladino, Nathan Burkan, James W. Gerard, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, George Gordon Battle, Phelps Phelps, Philip F. Donahue, Richard C. Patterson, and John Mullen.

Austin, a successful business man, is an appraiser who does considerable work for lawyers who specialize in surrogates court proceedings. He maintains an office downtown and lives in Strivers Row. His wife is Bernia Austin, the arbiter of Harlem society.

DAWSON NAMED CHAIRMAN OF COUNTY DEMOCRATS IN REGULAR MEETING AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

HAYWOOD MAKES KEYNOTE SPEECH PREDICTING VICTORY IN NEW PLANS OF ATTACK

3-7-36

Young Democrats To Receive Assistance From Older Heads

J. J. Dawson was unanimously elected county chairman of the Negro Democratic Central Committee Friday night, February 28, in a regular meeting of the County Democratic Central Committee, at the Christian church, 6th and Everest streets. Mrs. Ollie Brandon-Andrews was elected vice chairman and Ernest Ferguson was named secretary-treasurer.

Seventeen city and county precincts were represented in the meeting, including the townships of Choctaw, Lincoln, Crutcho and Deep Fork.

Dr. W. L. Haywood, county physician, delivered the keynote address to a very representative body of citizens. "I think we ought to compliment ourselves on the type of citizenship assembled here," declared Dr. Haywood. "I know that from a group of substantial citizens such as we number in this audience, there can come only that which is good," continued the keynoter.

J. J. Dawson, following his election and his corps of officers, announced that he was working in complete harmony with the white county organization, with whom he was in daily contact. Dawson is also a member of the state executive committee of the Negro Democratic Central Committee.

Plans are being laid for additional meetings over the county and according to Dawson, the older heads plan an intensified campaign to organize Democratic voters all over the county in cooperation with the League of Young Negro Democrats, with whom the older heads are in perfect accord.

"I think with the setup we have of old and young Democrats we will be invincible," declared Mr. Dawson. "Mr. Rhone and I are going to work out some fine plans by which the 100 per cent strength will be massed in the coming election."

Dawson said at an early date he hoped to have members of the county election board and other officials to visit his meetings and join in the general program to be fostered by the County Negro Democratic Central Committee.

Dawson exhibited a letter Tuesday from R. Q. Blakeney, Jr., secretary of the Oklahoma County Election Board, which read as follows:

"We have been handed a copy of the minutes of the meeting of your Central Committee, held Feb. 28, 1936, wherein is shown the election of J. J. Dawson as chairman; Mrs. Ollie Randolph, vice-chairman; E. T. Ferguson, secretary-treasurer.

"We are writing you this letter to congratulate each and every member of your Central Committee, and to inform you that this office recognizes the said officials as the duly elected and qualified officials of the Oklahoma County Negro Democratic Central Committee."

CAMDEN, N. J.
COURIER

FEB 26 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATIC CLUB ELECTS AT MORRISVILLE

Joseph Roberts was elected president of the Colored Men's Democratic Club of Morrisville at a meeting held at headquarters, Boulevard avenue, Pennsauken township, last night.

Others elected were James Bundy, vice president; Carroll Roberts, secretary; Howard Kellum, corresponding secretary; Robert McCrary, treasurer; Charles Mosley, sergeant-at-arms; Hanney Norris, prelate, and Charles Walker, executive committee chairman.

Oliver H. Bond, president of Negro Democracy of Camden County, was the principal speaker. Charging that the Negro had been "exploited by the ruthless politician," he urged "intelligent use of the ballot" to gain recognition.

Bond said the Republican party, to which the Negro had adhered since Civil War days, had done little for him and urged support of the Roosevelt administration.

"The Negro has gotten more from the Roosevelt administration than he received from the combined administrations of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover," Bond said

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.
NEW ERA

FEB 24 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATIC CLUB FORMED HERE

Hot Springs Negroes Say Republicans Have Departed From Lincoln's Principles; Pledge Support to Roosevelt Administration.

Charging that the Republican party has departed from the principles enunciated by Abraham Lincoln, Hot Springs negroes gathered last night at Harper's place, 424 Malvern avenue, and organized the Colored Auxiliary Democratic club a body pledged to support the Roosevelt administration.

George Porter, elected to head the body, presided over the organization meeting at which time the following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, the present administration under the logical head of President Roosevelt, has done so much to relieve suffering humanity. Whereas, no former administration has ever done what the present administration is now doing, during this depressed condition of the affairs of our country, for those who toil up through poverty.

"Therefore, Be Is Resolved—That we pledge our undivided support to the administration of President Roosevelt.

"Whereas, we have also note with pleasure the accomplishment of Senator Joe T. Robinson, and whereas, we find in all legislative acts, that he has been on the side with the common people, and whereas, we find in him the essential qualities of a statesman who has been tried and proven by the events of time, therefore, Be It Resolved—That we endorse him to the highest extent.

"Be It Also Resolved—That we pledge our support Hon. John L. McClellan whose works in his very first term of congress stand out as an exponent of a true representative of the people."

Logan Co. Negro Democrats Headed By Henry House

3-7-36

GUTHRIE, Okla. Mar. 2. The largest number of persons ever to meet at an organization of this kind among Negroes in the history of Logan county, were present in a meeting of Negro Democrats.

Henry House of Guthrie, was elected chairman. Other officers elected were Mrs. McLaurence of Langston, vice chairman; C. A. Chambers of Guthrie, secretary; H. Russell of Langston, treasurer.

It is expected that by the end of the week, approximately 250 Negroes will change their party affiliation from Republican to the Democratic ranks.

There are about 250 people in the county who are eligible for registration and are eager to register with the Democrats, when the time comes for registration books to open.

The future prospects of this organization seems to be at its utmost heights, and bigger and better things are hoped for within the next two years.

SOUTH BEND, IND.
TRIBUNE

FEB 29 1936

COLORED CLUBS PLAN BIRTHDAY

The 11th anniversary of the St. Joseph County Colored Men's Democratic club will be observed at a program and celebration March 12 in the Robert Johnson American legion post home, 1521½ West Washington avenue.

The affair was planned Friday evening at a joint meeting of three colored democratic clubs in the home of Mrs. Emma Gibson, 1231½ West Washington avenue, president of the St. Joseph County Colored Women's club. Henry P. Davis, president of the county men's club, and Philip Jordan, president of the Young Men's Colored Democratic club, took part.

OKLA. CITY, OKLA.
NEWS

FEB 27 1936

URGES NEGROES TO BACK ROOSEVELT

District of Columbia Recorder Addresses Club Here

Oklahoma Negroes were urged to support the Democratic party and the Roosevelt Administration in an address last night by Dr. W. H. Thompkins, recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, before the Negro Democratic Club here.

After pointing out that 75 per cent of the voting Negroes supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1932, the speaker voiced the hope that this support would be continued.

Executive Committeeman Elmer Deloisted said the club would work for a united front among Oklahoma Negroes in support of the present Administration.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

APR 6 - 1936

Negro Democrats Fail To Select Leader

The Allied Negro Democratic clubs of Passaic county at a special session held yesterday afternoon in the headquarters of the First Ward Negro Democratic club at 55 Arch street, failed to elect a county leader when one of the clubs affiliated with the league failed to send their delegates to the meeting. Through some reason or other the Fourth Ward Negro Democratic club failed to send representatives and business was continued in the interests of harmony without delegates from this club in attendance.

Chairman John Wald of Passaic presided and announced that another meeting will be held at the United Colored Democratic club, 303 Main street, Passaic, on Sunday afternoon, April 19, for the purpose of selecting a county leader. Mr. Wald also invited those delegates in attendance to the pre-Easter dance of his group on Saturday evening next.

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

First Negro in History To Be Sent from Iowa

Henry U. Mease, 1017 Thirteenth street, state chairman of the Iowa Negro Democratic League, was signally honored by being chosen first alternate delegate representing the Six Iowa district to the national Democratic convention, convening in Philadelphia, Pa., June 23. He has lived in Des Moines for the past seventeen years, coming here from Buxton, Iowa.

Mr. Mease's selection to this coveted post marks the first time that a Negro has represented Iowa at the party's national convention, and also carries with it the added honor of being the only Negro delegate chosen by either of the two major parties in Iowa.

Founder

Having been one of the founders of the local Roosevelt Negro Democratic club, Mr. Mease was corresponding secretary of the state organization for two years, and last June was elevated to head the state group at the Des Moines convention.

Under his administration, the organization has grown rapidly, until clubs are established in all of the principal cities of the state, and in the smaller communities wherein a representative number of Negroes reside.

Twelve For State

Twelve delegates were elected to attend the state convention, of which the following were in attendance: Mrs. Hazel Oliver, Mrs. Gertrude North, Lawrence Chapman and Mr. Mease of Des Moines: Frank A. and Mrs. Walker of Cedar Rapids,, Peter Russell and Miss Frankie Thomas of Fort Dodge, M. V. Beckley of Muscatine and Kenneth R. Drew and D. Edwin White of Burlington, Iowa. J. E. Mills of Waterloo, M. F. Johnson of Waterloo and two delegates from Sioux City were unavoidably detained from attending the convention.

Delegates and out of town visitors to the convention were feted by the Roosevelt Negro Democratic club at a banquet at the Blue Triangle Y. W. C. A. Friday evening, following the afternoon session of the convention.

Dan McEniry, prominent local democrat, and member of the central committee, addressed the group on party organization. Others appearing and giving brief talk swere: Henry U. Mease, John Beatty, D. E. Bueford, Mrs. Julia Shackleford ,M. E. Beckley, Quentin Mease and Frank A. Walker.

LEARNING AT LAST

Marion county Democrats wrote a new chapter in local political history when they wisely organized for effective action in the orthcoming election campaigns. At a banquet held several weeks ago party leaders, workers and others interested in race advancement through the polls carried out the first part of a comprehensive program that will ultimately achieve greater recognition of the rights of the colored wing of the party to share the rewards of success. Candidates for state and county offices were presented and a political inventory taken in regards not only to their general qualifications for the office each was seeking, but their genuine sympathy with the aims of colored people. The results of the weeding out process will be announced before primary day and party leaders and workers down to the last man will be pledged to help elect only those whose promises have been determined reliable.

Heading the organization, known as the Democratic Workers Council, is F. B. Ransom, one of the state's most distinguished figures, successful business man, champion of Negro rights, and a brilliant orator. Supporting him in other capacities are: Dr. Benjamin A. Osborne, most aggressive and uncompromising champion of the rights of Negro peoples and a firm believer in racial cooperation, Henry R. Wilson, brilliant Deputy Attorney General Henry J. Richardson, ardent foe of race prejudice and discrimination, and renowned attorney and progressive member of the state legislature. Scores of other highly reputable citizens, tired of the "Uncle Tom" tactics of individuals that have resulted in failure of the group to achieve anything worthwhile, are working harmoniously to extend the membership in the organization to include the overwhelming majority of colored Democrats in the county.

For probably the first time in political annals the colored members of a political party will present their demands for consideration with the support of the rank and file of the voters. Colored voters hold and have held for some time the balance of power on county politics. On the Democratic side the new organization represents an impressive answer to the charge that colored people cannot get together. What is more, it will take legitimate advantage of the opportunities inherent in possession of the balance of power to secure far more patronage for all classes of party followers on the basis of loyalty to Democratic principles and activity in election battles.

If their party wins, colored Democrats will be able to place many hundreds of party followers in lucrative positions in an equitable proportion to the service they shall render.

Colored Republicans would do well to follow the lead of the Democrats in effecting an organization that represents majority opinion and can effect fullest recognition for services rendered.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
WORLD-TELEGRAM

APR 17 1936

THE WHISPERERS FAIL TO WORRY

THE DEMOCRATS

In Fact, Campaign in South Is Expected to Help President in Election.

CALLED NEGRO'S FRIEND

Literature Pictures Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt in Company of Negro Groups.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Democratic chiefs are losing no sleep over the fact than anti-administration groups are spreading literature through the South accusing the President and Mrs. Roosevelt of being friendly to Negroes.

Instead of defeating him, such propaganda is more likely to increase his majorities in Northern States, they believe, and they point to the Chicago vote against Senator Borah—foe of the Anti-lynching bill—in support of this idea.

In Chicago the proportion of Negroes is more than three times as large as in the rest of Illinois. Mr. Borah lost Chicago but carried most of the other Illinois districts.

Renewed the Issue.

He had voted to sidetrack anti-lynching legislation when it was before the Senate, and early in this campaign he reiterated his belief that such legislation is unconstitutional. His opponents hammered this home to Chicago's Negro voters.

Testimony before the Senate Lobby Committee this week showed that Vance Muse, of the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution, and Alan Sheppard, of the Election Managers' Assn., have been preparing pamphlets showing the President, Mrs. Roosevelt and other administration officials photographed with Negroes, and selling them through the South. Similar sheets, published by the Women's World of Georgia, were laid on the seats of each delegate at the Talmadge "Grass-Roots" convention held in Macon last January.

Words and Pictures.

One sheet in possession of the committee shows the President receiving a delegation of colored Elks, who met in Washington last year for their annual convention. Another shows Mrs. Roosevelt attending a colored meeting at Howard University here.

liam Ward will preside. The meeting will be addressed by persons prominent in Democratic circles here.

PATERSON, N. J.
NEWS
APR 14 1936

Negro Democrats To Meet Tonight

The weekly meeting of the Passaic County Negro Democratic League will be held tonight at headquarters, 132 Governor street. President Will-

Dec Democrat

APR 13 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATIC CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

A political meeting under the

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

First Negro in History To Be Sent from Iowa

son of Waterloo and two delegates from Sioux City were unavoidably detained from attending the conven-

Henry U. Mease, 1017 Thirteenth street, state chairman of the Iowa

Negro Democratic League, was sig- Delegates and out of town visitors

July monored by being chosen first to the convention were feted by the alternate delegate representing the Roosevelt Negro Democratic club at Six Iowa district—the banquet at the Blue Triangle Y. W.

Democratic convention, convening in C. A. Friday evening, following the Philadelphia, Pa., June 23. He has afternoon session of the convention.

lived in Des Moines for the past sev- Dan McEniry, prominent local dementeen years, coming here from Bux- ocrat, and member of the central com-

ton, Iowa. mittee, addressed the group on party

Mr. Mease's selection to this cov- organization. Others appearing and ated post marks the first time that giving brief talk swere: Henry U.

a Negro has represented Iowa at the Mease, John Beatty, D. E. Bueford, party's national convention, and also Mrs. Julia Shackleford ,M. E. Beck-carries with it the added honor of ley, Quentin Mease and Frank A.

being the only Negro delegate chosen Walker.

by either of the two major parties in Iowa.

Founder

Having been one of the founders of the local Roosevelt Negro Democratic club, Mr. Mease was corresponding secretary of the state organization for two years, and last June was elevated to head the group at the Des Moines convention.

Under his administration, the organization has grown rapidly, until clubs are established in all of the principal cities of the state, and in the smaller communities wherein representative number of Negroes reside.

Twelve For State

Twelve delegates were elected to attend the state convention, of which the following were in attendance: Mrs. Hazel Oliver, Mrs. Gertrude North, Lawrence Chapman and Mr. Mease of Des Moines; Frank A. and Mrs. Walker of Cedar Rapids,, Peter Russell and Miss Frankie Thomas of Fort Dodge, M. V. Beckley of Muscatine and Kenneth R. Drew and D. Edwin White of Burlington, Iowa. J. E. Mills of Waterloo, M. F. Johnson champion of the rights of compromising champion of the rights of Negro peoples and a firm believer in racial cooperation, Henry R. Wilson, brilliant Deputy Attorney General Henry J. Richardson, ardent foe of race prejudice and discrimination, renowned attorney and progressive member of the state legislature. Scores of other highly reputable citizens, tired of the "Uncle Tom" tactics of individuals that have resulted in failure of the group to achieve anything worthwhile, are working harmoniously to extend the membership in the organization to include the overwhelming majority of colored Democrats in the county.

For probable first time in political annals the colored members of a political party will present their demands for consideration with the support of the rank and file of the colored voters hold and have held the balance of power on county and for some time to come On the Democratic side the new organization represents an impressive answer through the South accusing the charge that colored people cannot get What is more, it will take legitiing friendly to Negroes.

Instead of defeating him, such propaganda is more likely to increase his majorities in Northern States, they believe, and they point to the Chicago vote against Senator Borah —foe of the Anti-lynching bill—in support of this idea.

In Chicago the proportion of Negroes is more than three times as large as in the rest of Illinois. Mr. Borah lost Chicago but carried most of the other Illinois districts.

Renewed the Issue.

He had voted to sidetrack anti-lynching legislation when it was before the Senate, and early in this campaign he reiterated his belief that such legislation is unconstitutional. His opponents hammered this home to Chicago's Negro voters.

Testimony before the Senate Lobby Committee this week showed that Vance Muse, of the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution, and 'Alan Sheppard, of the Election Managers' Assn., have been preparing pamphlets showing the President, Mrs. Roosevelt and other administration officials photographed with Negroes, and selling them through the South. Similar sheets, published by the Women's World of Georgia, were laid on the seats of each delegate at the Talmadge "Grass-Roots" convention held in Macon last January.

Words and Pictures.

One sheet in possession of the committee shows the President receiving a delegation of colored Elks, who met in Washington last year for their annual convention. Another shows Mrs. Roosevelt attending a colored meeting at Howard University here.

NEWS

Dan Quinn Pfd

APR 13 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATIC CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

A political meeting under the auspices of the Bundesen Colored Democratic Club will be held at the Lyric Hall tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Prof. E. L. Williams and Lillard Maples are the speakers and Holsey Dabner's orchestra has been engaged to intersperse the program with its sparkling numbers.

The public is invited to attend.

APR 14 1936

Negro Democrats To Meet Tonight

The weekly meeting of the Passaic County Negro Democratic league will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at headquarters, 132 Governor street. President William Ward will preside. The meeting will be addressed by persons prominent in Democratic circles here.

THE DEMOCRATS

In Fact, Campaign in South Is Expected to Help President in Election.

CALLED NEGRO'S FRIEND

Literature Pictures Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt in Company of Negro Groups.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Democratic chiefs are losing no sleep over the fact than anti-administration groups are spreading literature through the South accusing the President and Mrs. Roosevelt of being friendly to Negroes.

PATERSON, N. J.
NEWS

APR 17 1936

THE WHISPERERS FAIL TO WORRY

NEW YORK, N. Y.
WORLD-TELEGRAM

Democratic.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

APR 10 1936

Roberto Addresses Negro Democrats

Gabriel C. Roberto, Democratic candidate for assembly was the guest speaker on Wednesday evening at the First Ward Negro Democratic club in its headquarters, 55 Arch street. President Walter F. Barbour, introduced the distinguished guest.

Mr. Roberto spoke of the qualifications of the entire ticket. He declared that he was pleased to be the speaker before such a large audience. Reviewing the work of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his administration he urged those in attendance to go to the polls on Primary Day and on Election Day in November and elect not only the President but an entire slate to uphold and help him carry out his work.

Jack Ackerman, leader of the First ward spoke on the candidacy of Michael DeVita who is seeking the Democratic aldermanic nomination in the First ward. Joseph Berman and Percy Allen Hutchinson also spoke.

Mr. Hutchinson spoke on the progress of the Negro people under the Democratic administration and in closing asked that his friends vote the entire Democratic ticket.

PATERSON, N. J.
NEWS

APR 10 1936

Roberto Addresses Negro Democrats

Gabriel Roberto, Democratic candidate for the Assembly, was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the First Ward Negro Democratic club at 55 Arch street, and urged support of the entire Democratic ticket in the coming campaign.

President Walter F. Barbour introduced the following speakers, who praised the ability of Michael De Vita, First ward Democratic aldermanic candidate; Jack Ackerman, Democratic leader of the First ward; Percy A. Hutchinson, Joseph Berman and J. Delaney, a member of the Alfred Negro Democratic club.

Members were told that the Polish First Ward Democratic club, the First Ward Democratic club and other organizations endorsed De Vita's candidacy as Democratic aldermanic candidate.

URBANA, ILL
COURIER

APR 6 1936

Colored Democrat To Speak Tonight

Harry A. Hawkins, colored Democratic leader of Springfield, and two of his field associates, will speak Monday night in the Church of God, Poplar and Beslin streets, in the interests of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen's candidacy for governor.

Hawkins and his aides are appearing unded the auspices of "Champaign County Regular Democratic club," which announces him as "the candidate for governor on the regular Democratic ticket." After the speaking, there will be a reception and refreshments.

The committee in charge is composed of Romeo Green, president of the Democratic downstate league; W. M. Snell, Jeff Gandy and Robert Ewing, all colored.

51 NEGROES call TO DEMOCRATS' January STATE MEET

Large Jackson County Delegation to Joplin Convention May 5

Fifty-one Negroes will be in the delegation of 720 from Jackson county to the Missouri state Democratic convention in Joplin, Tuesday, May 5.

In the delegation to be headed by Gil P. Bourk, new leader of the Welch Democratic faction, will be 25 Negroes.

The delegation was to have been headed by the late Casimir J. Welch, who died Friday, April 17.

The Negro delegates are: Q. J. Gilmore, Nannie Bunch, Dr. J. S. Wells, Ed. Ramsey, Alton Wright, Forrest Striman, Earl Smith, Charles Bryant, L. Z. Hudson, Edgar Irving.

Mayme Penn, Elijah Washington, Dr. J. O. Henley, Tressie Banks, William McAlester, William Evans, John G. Reynolds, Vivian Winn, Frank A. Young.

Charles Astwood, Fannie Sugg, Dorothy Starks, Ester Staples, Ben Swan, Joseph Todd.

Other Delegates

Other delegates are: Frank W. Murray, Morris Marks, Robert C. Stocker, Arelia Woods, John D. Burns, Walter H. Miller, Thomas Manfre, Henry McKissick, Edward Daugherty, Max Astosky.

Walter E. Lister, Jerome Walsh, Bernard Lillis, Charles M. Love, Claude Frazier, Harry Buckley, Lawrence Welch, John D. Stokes, Beryl L. Finley, J. J. O'Rourk, Jewell Head.

James H. Anderson, Pat Flannery, Frank M. Eviston, W. J. Teefey, Virgina Dana, Charles Sherrick, Horace A. Johnston, Andrew F. Wilson, Steno Gatto, Thomas Healer, George Clark, Walter Rainey, William Hornbuckle, Lucy Drummond, Anna Murphy, Sam Blair, Harry Sandler, E. P. Moriarty, Ronald Ringo, John W. Madden.

Of the 50 fourth ward delegates, headed by Preble Hall, the following are Negroes: George Golden, Dr. Howard M. Smith, Dr. L. W. Booker, George Moore, Mrs. Tessie Banks, Mozelle Washington, Dr. L. M. Tillman, Dr. D. M. Miller, Herbert Tyree, Dr. T. A. Jones, Beulah Tucker, Dr R. B. Fleming, Russell Holmes, Rose Allen, Joseph Wright, Phillip Cabell, W. J. Morton, Oscar Hardin, Rella Revelle, Dr. O. D. Pyles, O. B. Redmond, Frances Barber, Melvin Cooper, Lehman Walker, Viola Nelson, Frank McDaniel.

PATERSON, N. J.
NEWS

APR 21 1936

Rev. Riley Heads Negro Democrats

Paterson Clergyman Is Named New County Leader

Rev. George B. Riley of Paterson, an attache of the Internal Revenue department, under Col. William H. Kelly at Newark, was unanimously elected county leader by a large delegation from the Colored Democratic Clubs of Passaic county at a meeting held at the First Ward Colored Democratic club, 55 Arch street.

The Rev. Riley, who is standard-bearer of the Alpha Democratic league, was given the endorsement of the United Colored Democratic clubs of Passaic, First Ward Democratic Club of Paterson, his own organization, and representatives from Clifton and other municipalities in Passaic county.

Following a general call issued to all Colored Democratic organizations in the county, the meeting took place and was presided over by John Waller of Passaic. When the result of the meeting was tabulated, and Rev. Riley's election announced, the vote was ordered sent to County Chairman Mayor John Hinchliffe, of Paterson; Vice-Chairman Robert J. Neilley of Passaic; William P. Leary, leader of the municipal units, as well as the Board of Chosen Freeholders.

County gatherings will be called as required by Rev. Riley, who is recognized as the first Democratic Negro leader to bring the members of his race into the fold of the party and into active work in Passaic county, working originally under the leadership of the late Charles V. Duffy when he was county chairman. He recently served as chairman of the statewide banquet committee which honored the leader of the State Negro Democratic organization, Counsellor Hartgrove of Jersey City, assistant attorney-general.

Although he did not make any statement after his choice, Rev. Riley promised to look after both the interests of his race and of his party, promising to cooperate fully with the leaders. He held the view that cooperation by members of the Negro race will mean cooperation by the party with them.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

APR 23 1936

Negro Member of House Gets Democratic Ovation

Mitchell Warns Republicans of Change in Sentiment

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—House Democrats gave a standing ovation to Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, Democrat, of Illinois, only Negro member, at the conclusion of a speech today warning the Republican party it "no longer" had the Negro vote "in its vest pocket."

A half dozen times through the twenty-minute speech, Democrats applauded loudly.

"Only during the last four or five years have Negroes felt the Democratic party was a safe place to live and vote," Mitchell said.

Mitchell cited the Illinois primary demonstration for president Roosevelt as indicative of change.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA.
ADVERTISER

APR 21 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATS TO MEET THURSDAY

The last meeting of the Young Colored Democratic club before the primary will be held Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock at its Eighth avenue headquarters, it was announced today by L. N. Reaves, chairman. Representatives of the state young democratic organization will be present, Mr. Reaves said, as well as speakers of the labor unions. Candidates in the primary are invited to attend and speak, Mr. Reaves said.

LONGVIEW, WASH.
NEWS

APR 24 1936

Colored Young Men Form Bourbon Club

The Colored Young Men's Democratic club of Longview and vicinity, affiliated with a similar organization in Seattle, held its second weekly meeting Wednesday night, with W. L. Pinxton elected as president.

Oliver Smith was named secretary, and F. C. Hancock treasurer. Following the election, a general discussion of ideas and activities was held. Refreshments and entertainment followed the business session.

The club is to meet each Wednesday night at 843 Eighth avenue.

Democratic.

Political-1936
Party Affiliation.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.
CAPITAL NEWS

MAR 14 1936

John Bruner organized a strong Young Negro Democratic Club at Columbia Thursday night. He is to organize other clubs in Central Missouri towns. This is good political strategy. There is no reason under the shining sun why the negro voter should vote the Republican ticket. The old boys may be wedded to the G. O. P., but it is very evident that the young negro voters are not devoted to the pachyderm. The way they are trooping into Young Democratic Clubs argues much for their independence and future success politically. Keep up the good work, Mr. Bruner.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.
NEWS-TRIBUNE

MAR 23 1936

COLORED WOMEN TAKE OUT CHARTER TO AID DEMOCRATS

The Colored Women's Democratic and Political League of Rhode Island was chartered today by the Secretary of State with the following incorporators: Bertha G. Higgins, Alice D. Brannon, Dora B. Mayfield, Pauline B. Turner, Alice M. Johnson, Elizabeth Dozier, Prudence C. A. Higgins, Henrietta Armstrong, Ethel A. Garcia.

Its purpose is to "organize colored clubs throughout the State and work for the perpetuation of the Democratic party and its policies, Americanization and good citizenship.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

MAR 17 1936

Negro Democrats Hold Open House Tomorrow

Open house will be held by the First Ward Negro Democratic club tomorrow evening when they open their new headquarters at Arch and North First streets. President Walter F. Barbour will preside over the ceremonies. All members and friends have been invited to attend.

County Counsel Harry L. Schoen will be the master of ceremonies and is expected to introduce the following speakers: Postmaster Thomas L. Kelley; Prosecutor Arthur C. Dunn; Overseer of the Poor James O'Gorman, Mayor John V. Hinchliffe; Chief of Police John A. Murphy; Commissioner Boris Hertzberg; Judge Vincent C. Duffy, Jr., Acting Captain of Detectives James J. Smith; Lawyer Theodore D. Rosenberg; Jack Ackerman, Jack Walsh, Edward J. O'Byrne, president of the Charles V .Duffy league; Michael De Vita, Democratic candidate for alderman in the First ward and others.

Entertainment and refreshments will be served.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
March 24, 1936

Tammany Negro Democrats

A correspondent of The News and Courier tells of the organization of the "Tammany Hall Colored Democracy", or club, in New York city.

In the fact of it is nothing to surprise. In the Northern and Border States the Democrats have acquired the majority of the negro voters and it is natural that negro Democrats organize, as white Democrats in great cities often do by racial groups.

The fact is suggestive. Encouraged by the Northern white Democrats and engineered by the Northern negro societies, (the Society for the Advancement of the Colored People, for example,) it is not unlikely that negro Democrats will organize clubs in the South. Members of these Southern clubs might still be excluded from voting in white primaries, but one can think of no device by which a qualified negro elector can be prevented from voting the Democratic ticket if he wants to vote it.

It would be embarrassing to white Democratic politicians to prevent negroes from voting in South Carolina for Franklin D. Roosevelt and other Democratic candidates next November, or in November, 1938.

Were a numerous negro Democratic party organized in the South the national Democracy would in time help and protect it. "There is a New Deal for negroes", said Secretary Ickes, speaking to negroes in Chicago, and he is a member of the president's cabinet.

We tell our people of South Carolina that a national movement for the admission of negroes into political activity in the South as well as the North has begun.

It is led and guided by negroes of astuteness and ability and it has the sympathy of Northern Democratic politicians.

Men like Senators Wagner of New York and Guffey of Pennsylvania mean to coddle the negro vote in their states, and they will assist the efforts of the negroes to obtain political recognition in the South rather than offend their Northern negro constituents.

Senator Wagner, a Tammany Hall Democrat, was one of the sponsors of Walter White's so-called "anti-lynching bill", however it would probably cause more lynchings.

The white people of South Carolina, many of them, do not like to hear this. It is embarrassing to their congressmen, some of whom know what is going on but do not dare raise their voices against it.

If the Northern negroes and their white advisers organize Southern negroes as Democrats, what could Southern white Democrats do about it?

No kind of law can be enacted to prevent a negro being a Democrat.

In the long run, for Democrats to stop Democrats from voting would be a puzzling task.

CLEVELAND, OHIO
PLAIN DEALER

MAR 3 - 1936

Urges Negro Candidate.

Editor Plain Dealer—Sir: It has come to my attention that the local scanning committee of the Democratic party has been considering granting a vigorous out-and-out indorsement to some colored candidate for the state Legislature. My understanding is that the purpose of such a move would be to increase the party's chances of a larger vote in the colored wards.

As an ardent Democrat, I heartily indorse such a move. With great numbers of colored citizens who have benefitted from the new liberalism of the Democratic party, both in Washington and in Ohio, it seems to me to be a wise move to appeal to these people through the agency of a Negro Democrat as an indorsed candidate for the Legislature.

The indorsement and support given to Arthur W. Mitchell, Chicago congressman, went far toward strengthening the Democratic party for Mayor Kelly's landslide victory last fall. The result is that Chicago's South Side, thickly populated with Negroes, is no longer the certain property of the Republican party.

There must be in Cuyahoga County a great number of rank and file Democrats who have thought about and deplored the Republican domination of the Negro vote to the constant detriment of the Democratic party's effort for victory.

Cleveland. J. A. COBBS.

POLITICIAN TO START SOON ON TOUR OF SOUTH

Galveston Texas
Dispatches

3-28-36

William Lambert Will Speak In Interest Of Roosevelt

GALVESTON. — William Lambert, nationally known advocate of New Dealism, president of the colored wing of the New Deal Association of Staten Island, New York, and orator of note, who has spent the season in Galveston as the guest of his brother, Walter, announced to the press that he is now ready to begin his Southern state tour in the interest of the Roosevelt administration.

Mr. Lambert's tour will embrace Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, and Florida, touching important points in each state. He is a firm supporter of organized labor and is especially interested in the activities of the International Longshoremen's Association.

According to credentials, Mr. Lambert ranks with the nation's best politicians and is thoroughly capable of serving in the capacity mentioned. He is a personal friend friend to Hon. Robert L. Vann, editor of The Pittsburgh Courier, and former assistant U. S. Attorney, Roscoe Conklin Simmons, nationally known orator; George Schuyler, nationally known writer and Oscar DePriest, former congressman.

Mr. Lambert was sent to the Southern states by his organization.

PEORIA, ILL.
JOURNAL

MAR 19 1936

Negro Democrats Name Officers for Central Illinois

Dr. E. P. Bouldin was elected president of the Central Illinois Democratic league of Negro voters at a meeting Tuesday night at the community center, 108 South Globe st.

Other officers named were Lynch Conway, vice president; Leonard Crooks, secretary; Warren Vinston, assistant secretary, and Oscar White, treasurer.

The league has 289 members pledged to support President Roosevelt for re-election and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen of Chicago for Democratic nomination for governor. Plans for mass meetings will be made later.

CAMDEN, N. J.
COURIER

MAR 27 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRACY TO HOLD BANQUET

City and County Officials Invited to Annual Event Tonight

The United Negro Democracy of Camden County will hold its second annual banquet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Third Ward Democratic Club, 305 Benson street.

Oliver H. Bond is president of the organization. James L. Johnson, Jr., will be toastmaster.

Invited guests include: City Commissioner George E. Brunner and Mrs. Emma E. Hyland, state committee members; City Commissioners Mary W. Kobus and Frank J. Hartmann, Jr., Edward J. Kelleher, former state committeeman; Miss Marie V. Kelley, WPA office manager; Judge Frank F. Neutze, Albert S. Marvel, county Democratic chairman; Meyer Wessell, former member of the Camden Board of Education; Henry De Mott Young, District WPA director; Miss Margaret Kerney, WPA Women's Division supervisor; Robert Wren and Mrs. Catherine Corbett, county committee members from Pennsauken; B. H. Stavely, of Haddonfield; Mrs. Bertha Shippen Irving, Haddonfield postmaster; Russell Allen, Philadelphia deputy coroner; Assistant Attorney General Robert Hartgrove, of Jersey City; Sergeant McCloud, of Atlantic City; W. A. Smith, state supervisor National Youth Administration; Harry Dailey, former county committeeman from Pennsauken. Prosecutor Samuel P. Orlando; Judge Joseph Varbalow, Freeholder Anthony F. Marino.

Music will be furnished by the WPA orchestra directed by Eldon Raynor.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

APR 1 1936

Gavin Proves To Be An Active Candidate

Addresses Mountain View And Negro Democratic Clubs

The Mountain View Democratic club at Mountain View, and the Passaic County Negro Democratic league were visited by John A. Gavin, candidate for the sheriff, last evening, during the meetings in their respective headquarters.

JOHN A. GAVIN

This is the first time that Mr. Gavin has appeared before these organizations, and he pointed with pride to the wonderful response and attendance the clubs have at this time of the year. "Nothing can please the candidates more than to see the work of your leaders and yourselves espousing the Democratic cause," he said.

"Naturally we try to cover as much ground as possible, and attempt to meet as many people as is humanly with one's means, but we, the candidates, admit that without these groups we would be absolutely at an end. You are the people who are our workers and who make the personal contact for us.

"As I have said, it is still a bit early to tell you of our issues, and at this time I can safely state that we of the Democratic party stand on our past record, from our great President Franklin D. Roosevelt down to the smallest office on the organization ticket.

"The acts of our officers whom you have elected previously under the Democratic standard speaks for itself, and it is a known fact that the equal to their standard of government has never been approached by any other party in the history of the county and country. We stand for a sound business like government, and one that will truly represent the people who have put their faith in us."

In closing he said that he was very happy to speak to the members and would take the privilege of coming again in the near future to address the clubs in detail on the vital issues of the campaign.

ST. JOSEPH, MO.
GAZETTE

MAR 31 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATS MEET.

About 225 attended the meeting of the Negro Democratic Club of the First and Second wards last night at 1117 Douglas street. Principal speakers on the program were Leo Lewis, James Bradley, Raymond Walker and Henry B. Harris. The meeting was presided over by John Wilson, president.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

APR 1 1936

First Ward Negro Democrats Meet Tonight

A meeting of the First Ward Negro Democratic club will take place this evening in headquarters at 55 Arch street, to complete plans for a card party which is to be held tomorrow evening. President Walter F. Barbour requests all members to attend and make returns this evening.

The committee in charge of the card party follows: Susie Boyret, chairman; Mrs. Nash, Mrs. Randion, M. Hassenback, Mrs. Walter F. Barbour, and Mr. Randion. Players are requested to bring their own cards. Refreshments and gifts will be provided.

PATERSON, N. J.
NEWS

MAR 26 1936

O'Byrne Addresses Negro Democrats

Edward J. O'Byrne, president of the Charles V. Duffy league, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Passaic County Negro Democratic league, held in headquarters, 132 Governor street.

Mr. O'Byrne has been elected as an alternate to the Democratic National convention to be held in Philadelphia, and in his speech he outlined the procedure taken to nominate the Democratic candidate.

The speaker declared that President Roosevelt would be nomnated for the presidency.

In conclusion, he said that the President was doing all in his power to aid the people of the nation and that it was his desire to relieve unemployment.

Mr. O'Byrne's talk was enthusastically received, and the Rev. Vernell Bland, who introduced the speaker, asked him to return and address the group when the campaign is in full swing.

CHESTER, PA.
TIMES

APR 22 1936

The Negro Vote

Certain Democratic leaders in Washington are reported to be secretly gratified at evidence adduced before the Senate lobby investigating committee to the effect that the New Deal is being accused in the south of frie ndliness toward Negroes. These leaders believe that the accusation will cost the President votes only in the south, which is sure to go Democratic in any event. And if northern Negroes become convinced that President Roosevelt is sympathetic to the problems of their race, many of them may be tempted to abandon their traditional Republicanism in national elections, and vote the Democratic national ticket in November.

It is as difficult to generalize on the Negro vote as on the woman vote, because ballots cannot be identified. Such evidence as exists indicates that most Negroes are still inclined to vote in national elections for the party which emancipated their race from slavery.

Maryland, with a 16.9 per cent. Negro population in 1930, has the largest proportion of Negroes of any state in which most Negroes may vote. The Negro vote of Maryland is supposed to be largely responsible for the fact that the state usually goes Democratic in state and local elections, but is doubtful in national elections. Maryland, south of the Mason and Dixon Line, voted for Harding in 1920, Coolidge in 1924, and Hoover in 1928. Delaware, another state south of the Mason and Dixon Line with a large Negro population, is usually considered safely Republican. It was one of the 6 states which voted for Hoover in 1932.

The 1930 census showed that Manhattan borough of New York had 12. per cent. Negroes in its population, whereas the percentages in the other four boroughs which compose New York City ranged only between 1 and 2¾ per cent. In 1932 Hoover did better in Manhattan than in New York City as a whole. In the assembly district of the Harlem section which is largely Negro, Hoover received almost two-thirds as many votes as Roosevelt, whereas in the city as a whole he received only about 40 per cent. as many.

In Chicago, two wards which are largely Negro went more than 3 to 1 for Hoover in 1932, although the city as a whole went 7 to 5 for Roosevelt.

In the recent presidential primaries in Illinois, Senator Borah lost Chicago but carried most of the districts in the remainder of the state. His opponents had stirred up sentiment against him among the Negro voters because he had voted against the pending federal anti-lynching bill on the grounds that it was unconstitutional. Borah is supposed to have done better outside of Chicago than in the city because of this factor as well as because of the operation of the Chicago Republican machine for Knox. The proportion of Negroes in the population is more than three times as large in Chicago as in Illinois outside of Chicago.

Democratic.

Political-1936
Party Affiliation.

LANCASTER, PA.
Intelligencer Journal

APR 2 1936

TWO Negro Democratic committeemen in Philadelphia had a fist fight at a party meeting there. Who says the world do not move?

Okfuskee County Young Democrats Elect Delegates

All Organized Precincts Represented

BOLEY, Apr. 9.—L. A. Hill, county chairman of the Okfuskee county League of Young Negro Democrats held a meeting Saturday, April 4, when the county precinct officers for the purpose of electing delegates to attend the state convention at Oklahoma City which convenes April 11. Every organized precinct in the county was represented in the meeting. The following delegates were elected:

J. T. Abram, county secretary; E. T. Addison, Columbus Bruner, T. A. Douglass, A. D. Jones, F. D. Brooks, L. G. Ashley, Pearline Dunn, Velma Dolphin, S. L. Ayers, Mrs. E. T. Addison, Mrs. G. B. Thomas, Cecilie Tyree and J. D. Black. Of this number there will be only ten regular delegates. The others named will serve as alternates.

Mr. Hill is to be commended for his trying efforts and persevering attitude toward perfecting this county organization. The organization is growing rapidly.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.
DEMOCRAT

APR 2 - 1936

The executive committee of the Arkansas Negro Democratic Association will meet at 8 tonight at Room 208, Mosaic building, with Bishop A. Thomas Denby, vice president of the National Negro Democratic Association, as principal speaker. J. M. Robinson, state association president, will preside.

PEORIA, ILL.
STAR

MAR 26 1936

Negro Democrat Club Organized

At a special meeting Tuesday night officers were elected for the "Progressive Negro Democrats of Central Illinois Club." This club boasts a membership of 300. The following officers were elected:

Dale Robinson—president.
James Carter—vice president.
Dr. Askers—treasurer.
Harold Cruse—secretary.

Resolutions were adopted endorsing Gov. Horner.

Raleigh, N. C. Observer
April 3, 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATS TO HOLD CONFERENCE

Wake Forest, April 2.—The Negro Voters' League of Wake Forest, through its chairman and secretary, Luther L. Tuck and Arthur A. Young, announces a Negro Democratic rally to be held in the Wake Forest Negro high school auditorium Sunday April 5th, at 3 o'clock p. m. Attorney Conrad O. Pearson, consultant on Negro affairs, with the Works Progress Administration, and Attorney F. J. Carnage, of Raleigh, will be the principal speakers for the occasion.

EDWARDSVILLE, ILL.
INTELLIGENCER

MAR 21 1936

YOUNG NEGRO VOTERS INDORSE BUNDESON

At a meeting of young Edwardsville Negroes last night, an auxiliary of the Junior Downstate Voters League was formed and an endorsement of the Regular Democratic Organization, headed by Dr. Herman H. Bundeson of Chicago, decided upon.

The following officers were elected: Herald Spiller, president; Ralph Robinson, vice president; and Francis Burt, secretary. Approximately fifteen young voters attended the meeting.

Harlan Watson, a downstate organizer of the League, addressed the group.

MOUNT VERNON, ILL.
REGISTER NEWS

APR 8 - 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATS HEAR PROF. WILLIAMS

Colored Democrats of the city heard Professor Williams of East St. Louis discuss state and national politics in an address at the county court house last night. The meeting was sponsored by the Democratic state central committee, backing Dr. Herman N. Bundesen and the "regular" slate in the primary campaign.

Prof. Williams attacked the administration of Gov. Henry Horner and praised the candidacy of Dr. Bundesen. Referring to the national campaign, he charged that Republican presidential aspirants "are advocating a return to the same old policies that got us into the depression in which President Roosevelt found the nation when he took office."

Prof. Williams was introduced by Lillard Maples, widely known colored Democrat from Cairo.

PASSAIC, N. J.
HERALD-NEWS

APR 11 1936

Colored Democrats to Open Quarters Tonight

Water Commissioner Robert J. Neilley, Passaic vice-chairman of the Democratic County Committee, and other prominent local Democrats have been invited to attend the opening of the new headquarters of the United Colored Democratic Club at a sociable tonight in the clubrooms at 803 Main Avenue.

Freeholder Augustine M. King, Judge Walter H. Gardner and presidents and members of local Democratic organizations have also been invited to be present.

John Wallen, organizer of the club, announced that the headquarters would serve as a center for colored residents where information about WPA projects would be supplied.

The club will meet every second and fourth Monday of the month while the Woman's Auxiliary will hold its meetings every third Tuesday. Socials will be held in the headquarters every Saturday night.

KANSAS CITY, MO.
STAR

APR 10 1936

A NEGRO JEFFERSON DANCE.

Democratic Club's Event a Part o Nation-Wide Celebration.

The United Negro Democratic Club of Kansas City will give a dance Monday night at the Crystal Palace ballroom, Twelfth street and Woodland avenue, in observance of Jefferson's birthday anniversary. The dance here is a part of a nation-wide program under the direction of the Democratic national committee. Felix Payne is president of the Kansas City organization. Other officers are Dr. L. M. Tillman, vice-president; Thomas J. R. Wilson, secretary; Dr. Howard Smith, chairman of the board of directors. Funds obtained will go to the Democratic national committee.

WICHITA, KAN.
EAGLE

APR 26 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATS HOLD SESSION HERE

Sedgwick County Young Men's Club Sponsors Rally and Program This Week

The Sedgwick county Young Colored Men's Democratic club is sponsoring a rally and program in Wichita Monday and Tuesday in connection with the state Democratic convention which will bring 300 young colored Democrats here, according to W. Johnson, state organizer.

The Young Colored Men's Democratic club holds charters from the state and national party organizations, the first issued in the United States to a colored Democratic organization, according to Johnson. While the club at Wichita was the first, others are being formed in several Kansas cities.

The activities will be at the Masonic hall, 615½ North Main. Monday at 8 p. m. there will be an old-fashioned political rally with speeches by Dr. Earl Ransom, Mrs. Galena French, Rev. Payton, Attorney Reynolds and Neal Caldwell.

A ball is scheduled for Tuesday night, from 9 o'clock to 1 a. m. The committee on arrangements is made up of John Long, Dr. H. N. Sims, John Robinson, F. Davis, C. Williams, D. Gunther and W. Johnson Johnson said.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

APR 21 1936

Democratic Colored Clubs Elect Mr. Riley

The Rev. George B. Riley of Paterson, deputy collector of internal revenue under Col. William H. Kelly at Newark, was unanimously elected a county leader by a large delegation from the colored Democratic clubs of Passaic county at the First Ward Colored Democratic club, 55 Arch street, Sunday.

Standard-bearer of the Alpha Democratic league, Mr. Riley was given the endorsement of the United Colored Democratic clubs of Passaic, First Ward Democratic club of Paterson, his own organization, and representatives from Clifton and other municipalities in Passaic county.

Following a general call issued to all colored Democratic organizations in the county, the meeting took place and was presided over by John Waller of Passaic. When the result of the meeting was tabulated, and Mr. Riley's election announced, the vote was ordered sent to County Chairman Mayor John V. Hinchliffe of Paterson, Vice-Chairman Robert J. Nealey of Passaic, and William P. Leary, leader of the municipal units.

County gatherings will be called as required by Mr. Riley. Mr. Riley recently served as chairman of the State-wide banquet committee which honored the leader of the State Negro Democratic organization, Counsellor Hartgrove of Jersey City, assistant attorney-general.

Mr. Riley promised to look after both the interests of his race and of his party, promising to co-operate fully with the leaders.

BARTLESVILLE, OKLA.
ENTERPRISE

APR 27 1936

A POLITICAL BLUNDER

Certain Democratic leaders in Washington are reported to be secretly gratified at rumors that the new deal is being accused in the south of unfriendliness toward Negroes. These leaders believe that the accusation will cost the president votes only in the south, which is sure to go Democratic in any event. And if northern Negroes become convinced that Roosevelt is sympathetic to the problems of their race, many of them may be tempted to abandon their traditional Republicanism in national elections, and vote the Democratic ticket in November.

Despite the fact that comparatively few Negroes exercise the franchise in southern states, the Negro vote in the country as a whole is not a factor to be ignored. Maryland, with a 16.9 per cent Negro population, usually goes Democratic in state and local elections, but nationally it went for Harding in 1920, for Coolidge in 1924, and for Hoover in 1928. Delaware, another state south of the Mason and Dixon line which permits Negroes to vote, likewise is usually considered safely Republican in national elections.

The 1930 census showed that Manhattan borough of New York had 12 per cent Negroes in its population, whereas the percentages in the other four boroughs which compose New York City ranged only between 1 and 2¾ per cent. In 1932 Hoover did better in Manhattan than in New York City as a whole. In the assembly district of the Harlem section which is largely Negro, Hoover received almost two-thirds as many votes as Roosevelt, whereas in the city as a whole he received only about 40 per cent as many.

The recent presidential primary in Illinois is another case in point. Senator Borah's opponents stirred up sentiment against him among the Negro voters because he had opposed a federal anti-lynching bill on the grounds that it was unconstitutional. Borah lost Chicago, where the Negro vote is more than three times as large as it is in all the rest of Illinois, although he carried most of the districts in the remainder of the state.

SCRANTON, PA.
SCRANTONIAN

APR 26 1936

Negroes Will Never Vote Democratic

Certain Democratic spell-binders in Washington have been secretly chuckling among themselves over the idea that the New Deal is being accused in the South of friendliness toward negroes. These leaders believe that the accusation will cost the President votes only in the South, which is sure to go Democratic in any event. And if Northern negroes become convinced that President Roosevelt is sympathetic to the problems of their race, many of them may be tempted to abandon their traditional Republicanism in national elections, and vote the Democratic national ticket in November.

It is as difficult to generalize on the negro vote as on the women vote. The 1930 census showed that Manhattan borough of New York had 12 per cent. negroes in its population, whereas the percentages in the other four boroughs which compose New York City ranged only between 1 and 2¾ per cent. In 1932 Hoover did better in Manhattan than in New York City as a whole. In the assembly district of the Harlem section, which is largely negro, Hoover received almost two-thirds as many votes as Roosevelt, whereas in the city as a whole he received only about 40 per cent. as many. In Chicago, two wards which are largely negro, went more than 3 to 1 for Hoover in 1932, although the city as a whole went 7 to 5 for Roosevelt.

It is apparent that the Democratic fixers and backroom roustabouts are chuckling in vain if they are counting on the votes of the colored men. When the negro casts a vote against the party that emancipated his race from slavery, it will be evidence that the younger generations have not been properly brought up.

COLUMBIA, MO.
MISSOURIAN

APR 27 1936

The Negro Vote

CERTAIN Democratic leaders are reported to be secretly gratified at evidence adduced before the Senate lobby investigating committee to the effect that the New Deal is being accused in the South of friendliness toward Negroes. These leaders believe that the accusation will cost the president votes only in the South, which is sure to go Democratic in any event.

And if northern Negroes become convinced that President Roosevelt is sympathetic to the problems of their race, many of them may be tempted to abandon their traditional Republicanism in national elections, and vote the Democratic national ticket in November.

It is as difficult to generalize on the Negro vote as on the woman vote, because ballots cannot be identified. Such evidence as exists indicates that most Negroes are still inclined to vote in national elections for the party which emancipated their race from slavery.

Maryland, with a 16.9 per cent Negro population in 1930, has the largest proportion of Negroes of any state in which most Negroes may vote. The Negro vote of Maryland is supposed to be largely responsible for the fact that the state usually goes Democratic in state and local elections, but is doubtful in national elections.

Maryland, south of the Mason and Dixon Line, voted for Harding in 1920, Coolidge in 1924, and Hoover in 1928. Delaware, another state south of the Mason and Dixon Line with a large Negro population, is usually considered safely Republican. It was one of the 6 states which voted for Hoover in 1932.

The 1930 census showed that Manhattan borough of New York had 12 per cent Negroes in its population, whereas the percentages in the other four boroughs which compose New York City ranged only between 1 and 2¾ per cent. In 1932 Hoover did better in Manhattan than in New York City as a whole. In the assembly district of the Harlem section which is largely Negro, Hoover received almost two-thirds as many votes as Roosevelt, whereas in the city as a whole he received only about 40 per cent as many.

In Chicago, two wards which are largely Negro went more than 3 to 1 for Hoover in 1932, although the city as a whole went 7 to 5 for Roosevelt.

In the recent presidential primaries in Illinois Senator Borah lost Chicago but carried most of the districts in the remainder of the state. His opponents had stirred up sentiment against him among the Negro voters because he had voted against the pending federal anti-lynching bill on the grounds that it was unconstitutional.

Borah is supposed to have done better outside of Chicago than in the city because of this factor as well as because of the operation of the Chicago Republican machine for Knox. The proportion of Negroes in the population is more than three times as large in Chicago as in Illinois outside of Chicago.

Democratic.

Political-1936
Party Affiliation.

Spartanburg, S. C. Journal
June 26, 1936

More Than One Smith

Here are two headlines from different cities which makes front page news in Thursday's morning papers: "Senator Smith Quits as Negro Prays" and "Al Smith Leaves His New York Home—Bound Where?" The first headline hails from Philadelphia where the national Democratic convention is being held. The second comes from New York City.

So it appears that more than one Smith can assume the walking out habit whenever the spirit moves. Al Smith, although not located, according to the dispatch, is not supposed to be in attendance on the convention, but one thing is certain, the presence of negro delegates there or a negro's participation in the opening exercises would scarcely deter him from taking his seat. Al Smith has been in active politics in a state where the negro vote counts for about forty years and there would be no shock to his sensibilities by any such incident as is reputed to have stirred the senior senator from South Carolina to vigorous protest.

The action of the senior senator might find its counterpart in the comment of the Queen Mother on the play Hamlet had presented before the court: "Methinks the lady doth protest too much."

HUTCHINSON, KAN.
HERALD
JUN 27 1936

MORE PRAYER

When Mrs. Roosevelt was seen strolling on the arms of two Negro cadets, the solid south, where the spirit of the Klan still burns, was incensed. This week, when a Negro preacher took the rostrum at the Philadelphia convention to offer prayer, South Carolina's Ellison D. Smith stomped from the hall in white pigmented anger.

The preacher, turning the other cheek and reaching for coals of fire, merely said: "Brother Smith needs more prayer."

More prayers, too, were wanted by the new dealers, the more intelligent of whom saw in the incident a further example of the break by the present administration with the Democratic party of the past. The new deal appeal is calculated for the city voters of the north, many of whom are colored, rather than for the ancient south where the Negro is still more or less disenfranchised. Yet the new dealers cannot afford to antagonize Dixie, which remains the basis of Bourbon electorial support.

If the New Dealers do not find a solution for this dilemna, they may find the solid south in bed even with those "damnyankee, black-loving carpetbaggers," the Republicans.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
Morning Wall St. Journal

JUN 26 1936

DEMOCRATS—

The Democratic convention in Philadelphia last night adopted its platform for the coming Presidential election.

The convention also abolished the two-thirds rule for nomination of canadidates. This rule had been in use 104 years and had enabled the traditional "Solid South" to veto a nomination.

A fist fight broke out in the balcony when a group of Al Smith supporters from the Bronx flaunted Smith banners while a body of Young Democrats was leading a demonstration for President Roosevelt. The Smith banners were torn up. There were bruises and some arrests.

Meanwhile Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina took another "walk." He protested when a negro, Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, of Chicago, was recognized to make a speech in favor of Roosevelt's election. Two members of the South Carolina delegation walked out with Senator Smith.

Coincident with the Philadelphia proceedings, Young Democrats in New York petitioned Governor Lehman to run for reelection.

According to word from the White House, President Roosevelt's acceptance speech will be short, possibly under 4,000 words.

* * *

LANDON—

Some 3,000 persons greeted Governor Landon as he arrived at Estes Park, Colo., yesterday. The Republican presidential nominee plans to spend a 12-day vacation at a ranch five miles from there.

* * *

NORRIS AND BORAH—

Senator Norris, classified as a Republican from Nebraska, yesterday promised his full campaign support to President Roosevelt. He indicated that he might take the stump for the President.

Senator Borah, classified as a Republican from Idaho, again declined to reveal his plans for the campaign. He said that he had not been asked to align himself with the new Union Party. The Idaho Senator held that the Supreme Court should not be above "discussion and criticism."

* * *

UNION PARTY—

Representative William Lemke, Union Party candidate for President, conferred at Royal Oak, Mich., yesterday with Father Coughlin, his sponsor.

At Philadelphia, Dr. Townsend said it was "doubtful that his following would nominate a man to run for the Presidency." He reiterated that a decision on whether or not Townsendites would back Representative Lemke must await the July convention of his movement. He did say, however, that they would not "endorse and support a party that does not include the Townsend program in its platform."

* * *

LABOR—

Disorders marked the labor front again yesterday. At Gadsden, Ala., a mob attacked organizers of the United Rubber Workers. John Brophy, director of the Committee for Industrial organization, appealed to President Roosevelt and Governor Bibb Graves of Alabama to intercede in these attacks. Word from Gadsden earlier this week told of increased activity by union organizers there in rubber, steel and textile plants.

Strikers at the Wheeling Steel plant at Portsmouth, Ohio, broke into company grounds and destroyed 60 feet of track on a railroad siding. Common Pleas Judge B. F. Kimble authorized Sheriff Arthur Oakes to deputize 100 special officers to maintain order at this plant.

* * *

COURTS—

The Work Relief Act of 1935 was upheld by Justice Joseph W. Cox of the District of Columbia Supreme Court. St. Louis taxpayers had appealed against continuance of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Park in that city, holding that this project would cause "undue hardships" by raising tax rates.

Chief Justice Alfred Wheat of the District of Columbia Supreme Court made permanent an injunction which restrains Western Union from turning telegraphs to and from the law firm of Silas Strawn over to the Senate lobby committee.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
June 28, 1936

South Carolina's Protest

The unanimous protest of the South Carolina delegation against participation of negroes in the program of the national Democratic convention was not a personal protest against negroes. The delegation contained no "negro haters." It was composed of men and women who are kind to negroes, who wish them well and help them.

The protest was against the national Democratic party declaring itself a national negro political party in defiance of the position of Southern Democrats.

In local and state politics Democrats have many years courted the negro vote, especially in Northern states. To that the South has raised no objection. For the FIRST TIME the Democrats in a national convention have extended the negroes full recognition.

The recognition is national and official. It is not less so than was the choice of Lynch, a Mississippi negro, by the Republicans to preside over a national convention fifty years ago. What has taken place in Philadelphia is complete change of policy of the national Democratic party toward the negroes and toward the South.

The national Democratic party cannot invite negroes of one section to participation in party affairs and deny it to them in another. To ask Mitchell and the Chicago negroes to support the national Democratic party and tacitly or openly, to approve the exclusion of negroes from the Democratic party in South Carolina would be to insult the negroes, to tell their Northern leaders that they are fools and dupes. It would be nonsensical. A "Force bill" will probably be introduced in congress and Northern Democrats and Republicans will vote for it.

Some of us know that in South Carolina and the South it is necessary that white men control political affairs, without negro interference, and we know that unless we make plain that we shall resist at any cost, even to the point of withdrawal from the national Democratic party, the national Democratic party, in power in congress and the White House, will coerce the South as the Republicans coerced it between 1867 and 1877.

The solid array of Northern Democrats on the Wagner-Costigan bill, with the president's acquiescence, put the South on plain notice as to what to expect.

Shall we Southerners surrender control of our state affairs in order to get offices and "benefits"? That is the question.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
POST DISPATCH

JUN 28 1936

A Southern Paper's View

From the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch.

IF "Cotton Ed" Smith is so excited over the presence of Negro delegates on the floor of the Democratic national convention, why doesn't he walk out of Congress because of the presence there of Representative Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago?

Representative Mitchell is a Negro Democrat who represents Negro constituents. The Negro delegates at Philadelphia likewise represent members of their race. Apparently Senator Smith, who is "sick and tired of the whole damn thing," feels that Negroes aren't entitled to representation in Congress, at national conventions, or anywhere else, unless they are represented by whites.

Most particularly, he objects to being prayed over by a Negro minister, although Chairman Sapp of the South Carolina delegation remains unperturbed at the thought of having a colored pastor invoke the divine blessing upon him.

Fundamentally, Senator Smith is proceeding on an erroneous premise, namely, that "political equality means social equality." What makes him think so? Does the fact that a Negro mail carrier or barber exercises the franchise, after paying his poll tax and registering, mean "intermarriage and the mongrelizing of the American race," as was so luridly proclaimed by the South Carolina Senator, as he took a walk?

We do not think so. Senator Smith has the ante-bellum attitude which holds that the Negro must always remain a helot, exercising few civil rights, taking no part in the affairs of his Government, content to leave all such matters to the white race. The Senator is not aware, apparently, that times have changed in the last three-quarters of a century—that the Negro is a citizen, entitled to the rights of a citizen.

If the Negro is able, in the face of the manifold handicaps which beset him, to improve his business, educational, economic and political status, we say, More power to him! We are not quaking at the thought of Negro delegates at Philadelphia, and neither should we feel that Southern civilization had been endangered if a colored pastor asked the Almighty to forgive us our sins, which probably are far too numerous anyway.

INTERVIEW DR. LOUIS RANSOM

(Special correspondent for the Kansas American Weekly interviews Dr. J. Louis Ransom and received the following statement:

Dr. J. Louis Ransom is a prominent Kansas physician and surgeon. He lives in Topeka, Kansas, and is a highly respected leader in civic and church circles. At the Thirtieth General Conference Session of the A. M. E. Church, Dr. Ransom was a member of the Episcopal Committee and served as chairman of the sub-committee of the Episcopal Committee known as the Publicity Committee, and it is assumed that he speaks with authority relative to the proceedings of that body.

Incidently this news writer wishes to state that Attorney Dorsey Green, of Kansas City, Kans., Mrs. Mayme Bolin, of Emporia, Kans., and Dr. J. Louis Ransom of Topeka, Kans., are the colored representatives of this state to the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia. It is understood that this entire delegation are members of the African Methodist Episcopal Church. The public will recall that four years ago the officials of the A. M. E. Church under the leadership of that princely man, Rt. Rev. J. A. Gregg, broke with Governor Alf M. Landon on the Western University question and thousands of members of the church with their friends opposed the reelection of Governor Landon two years ago. It remains to be seen to what extent the reaction of that fight will have upon the Republican Campaign in Kansas to elect Governor Alf M. Landon as President of the United States.

EUGENE LUCAS.

Birmingham [illegible] Age-Herald

Another Smith Walk

This Democratic convention is suffering a variety of Smith walks. Al Smith took his without ever reaching Philadelphia. But Senator Ellison D. Smith did his right from the convention floor. He and "one or two others from the South Carolina delegation," according to The Associated Press, made from the floor when a Negro minister offered the invocation Wednesday. And Thursday he declared he would walk out "whenever a Negro had a part."

This action speaks for itself. That it was the product of emotion and not reason seems incontestably apparent. If there were any doubt about it, this excerpt from the senator's own remarks would be conclusive evidence to The Age-Herald: "Political equality means social equality and social equality means intermarriage and that means the mongrelizing of the Negro race."

Even the cautious Associated Press, in its news account of the incident, Thursday ventured the assertion that the outburst of Senator Smith was "the culmination of a train of circumstances reaching even back before the convention." Senator Smith is not in harmony with certain New Deal policies. Then he arrived late at the convention to find his delegate badge temporarily given to another. Then there was this colored minister praying. That was too much for the senator.

For a time it appeared he was going to Carolina right away. But later he said he would stay at least long enough to vote against the abrogation of the two-thirds rule. Perhaps he will cool off enough to see the show through. Let it be hoped so, at any rate.

Inter-racial problems are difficult enough when those who strive to solve them work in full possession of their reason. Approached emotionally, they are tremendously magnified. Walkouts on them will never help.

STATESVILLE, N. C.
DAILY

JUN 26 1936

Will Do Some Talking.

"I will not support any political organization that looks upon the negro and caters to him as a political and social equal. I'm through. I'm sick and tired of the whole damned thing. I'll go home and do some talking." That is Senator Ellison D. Smith's blast as he stalks out of the Philadelphia convention when the second day's session was opened by prayer from a negro minister.

Smith has served for twenty-seven years in the United States Senate from South Carolina and will be wanting to go back again, and this little incident will serve well his purpose, for there is no appeal so effective in that state as race prejudice. Governors and representatives have ridden into office on this dependable old nag, and the prospects are that they will continue to do so. Senator Smith walked out of the national convention, but that doesn't mean that he has taken a permanent stroll from the Democratic party. He will be found traipsing up and down the state extolling its virtues and cashing in on the race issue just as Cole Blease and other South Carolinians have done before him.

Doubtless the selection of a negro minister to offer the morning prayer was a political gesture that will not be without its reward in November, but these honors are usually bestowed for the self-same purpose.

Granting that the delegates assembled at Philadelphia needed the prayers of a Christian ambassador, there is no reason to believe the Lord would take into consideration the color of his skin before bolstering the wisdom and intelligence of the group, as the supplicant probably asked for.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.
OBSERVER

JUN 26 1936

THIS WAS UGLY.

We would be disposed to give Senator SMITH and the other South Carolina delegates to the Democratic convention the benefit of every conceivable doubt for walking out because a negro minister made a prayer if such doubts could be imagined.

Their conduct bespeaks an intolerance that is even grotesque.

And, with all of South Carolina's devotion to the crusading faith of White Supremacy, it is difficult to make ourselves believe that the people of that State in this advanced day will be disposed to tender Senator SMITH much applause for such behaviour.

Fortunately for the South and for the nation as well, such fiercely reacting sentiments do not generally exist among a citizenry that has, happily, outgrown such racial prejudices.

GASTONIA, N. C.
GAZETTE

JUN 26 1936

SENATOR SMITH

The general opinion hereabouts is that Senator Smith overdid the thing about the negro preacher. It might be said, too, that many folks are disgusted at the bid for the negro vote being made by the party chiefs. It is all contrary to good old Southern Democracy, but times are changing and we must go along with them or be left in the lurch. The old fire-eating South Carolina senator expressed the sentiments of his native South Carolina, perhaps, and that of a good many other Southerners, but there was no need to make it so plain, blunt and brazen as to draw such a large amount of unfavorable publicity. He could have expressed his resentment in other ways that would have been as effective and not quite so offensive.

Political - 1936

Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Mr. President, We're with You All the Way — Mitchell

It is my conception that the party which we represent here today was not founded for a single mission, which accomplished, left it drifting with no fixed star or principle to guide it. It was born and has lived to uphold great fundamental truths of government that need always to be lifted and enforced.

This administration came into power with the distinct understanding that the forgotten man should be remembered and that the government should function, not only for the rich and powerful, but for the hungry and helpless. It was dedicated to the task of helping the underprivileged in which group millions of American citizens find themselves today.

No thinking American was surprised a few years ago when a former Republican Vice President went to a Republican President and from the coffers of our treasury received a so-called loan of ninety million dollars for what was said to have been a defunct bank. This is the way the Republican Party does things. That party always lends a listening, attentive and sympathetic ear to the cries and the requests of the rich and the privileged; not so with the Democratic Party. It is the party of the common people and stands for a square deal for all the people.

One of the most startling events in the recent political life of this nation was an humble happening in the delta of Mississippi in Harris, a farmer, living near Columbus, Miss., in some way heard that this humanitarian administration had as a part of its program the lending of money to distressed home owners.

This poor farmer, unlettered dressed in overalls, sold a cow from his farm, and with the price of the cow, called President Franklin Roosevelt at the White House, and said to him: "I am about to lose my farm through the foreclosure of a mortgage. I have no money with which to pay the mortgage. I understand that this government, through you, will help people in my condition. Will you not help me?"

Had Cash in 30 Days

Within less than thirty days, money with which to pay this mortgage had been provided through the activities of this party and this man was once more a happy farmer, a happy contented husband, and father—a satisfied and progressive American citizen, realizing in his heart that under the Democratic Party, this is a government that reaches down and helps the forgotten man—the underprivileged citizens, be they white or black.

This is but one of the millions of incidents where the government, through the Democratic Party, has reached out a helping hand and saved deserving but helpless families. When has this government been so close to the common people as it is at this very hour? You will be interested to know that while Harris has kept faith with the government and met his payments, Mr. Dawes has defaulted and suit has been filed against him by the government.

There is no doubt in my mind but that under this administration my group has been given the largest opportunity to share in the benefits and protection of the government that has come to it for four decades.

The Democratic Party, as constituted today, has said to the colored people through the conduct of its program and through the action of our great President, that any American, whether white, black, yellow or brown, who is good enough to fight and die for his country, should be given the largest and fullest opportunity to work and live for his country, and no privilege or opportunity vouchsafed to American citizens by the constitution, should be denied him.

No GOP Ship Now

There was a time when the late Frederick Douglass said, "That in so far as the Negro was concerned, the Republican Party was the ship and all else the sea." That might have been true in his day, but certainly it is not true today.

The Republican Party may be the ship, but I say to you, the ship is on fire and like the Morro Castle is burning to the water's edge. The safety of my people consists in taking a life belt and plunging into the sea. By so doing, there is hope through the rescue agencies of the Democratic Party.

The so-called generous attitude of the Republican Party toward the colored people ended thirty years ago. The Grand Old Party long since deviated from its ancient doctrine of human rights in quest of material prosperity. It grew cold and indifferent toward its black ward and beneficiary and insisted upon weaning him In the meantime the Democratic Party has been gradually growing, not only less hostile, but more friendly and considerate towards my group.

Mr. chairman and fellow citizens, these twelve million struggling colored people in this country have forgotten the economic condition in which the Democratic Party found them in 1933 after having witnessed the Hoover prosperity in which we had neither chicken nor pot.

For three long tragic years we heard the voice of a Republican President, reflecting the sentiment of his party, telling us that prosperity was just around the corner. We discovered to our everlasting disappointment that prosperity was around the corner but was going the other way. We know who saved the day. We know how our great President threw himself and the government between the American people and actual starvation.

At his inauguration he said that he would see that no American citizen starved; that promise has been kept, and instead of being a nation disgruntled and dissatisfied people, ready to get at each other's throats, we are fast becoming a nation of contented, and employed people, working for the advancement of our country.

Won't Bite the Hand

You ask me now that the crisis is virtually passed, what will be the attitude of my people in the coming election? I answer in these words: "The Negro of America is a grateful people. We never have and we never will bite the hand that helps us."

Out of the turmoil of deliberate misrepresentation and vicious, cruel and unwarranted attacks, will more than thirty million grateful Americans march on the third of November to say to the greatest President who has lived that "We are with you, and by the Grace of God, you shall serve us another term."

Among these millions of grateful voters you will see more than three million of colored American voters marching breast to breast with you to the great victory that awaits the faithful and the true.

We shall stand with you in this matter as Crispus Attucks stood with the little group on State Street in Boston in pre-revolutionary days. We shall stand as that valiant group of colored soldiers stood with General Jackson in the battle of New Orleans.

We shall stand as the colored soldiers stood with Theodore Roosevelt in his famous charge on San Juan Hill. We shall stand as the colored soldiers stood side by side with you in the World War, and faced the German cannon in Argonne Forest. History shows that we have always stood by our friends. We will not fail now.

The name of Franklin Delano Roosevelt is indelibly stamped upon the mind and heart of every colored man in this country. We look upon him as our greatest friend and benefactor. Our final word: "Mr. President, we are with you all the way."

NEW YORK, N. Y.
SUN

JUN 30 1936

The South's Problem.

Delegates from the Solid South to the Democratic national convention will have much to explain to their constituents. Abolition of the two-thirds rule has seriously curtailed their power in national party affairs. The veto so long possessed by the Democratic leaders from the Black Belt is lost to them. It is promised that they shall have a larger number of delegates, but that this concession will compensate them is questionable. It will be impossible to establish a new enduring schedule of representation in a national convention that will confer on one section the advantages the Southern States have enjoyed under the two-thirds rule. It is within the authority of any national convention to re-establish it; there is at present no discussion of a purpose to set it up again four years hence.

The prominence given to Negroes in the convention will alarm many Southern whites. Senator SMITH of South Carolina was not lonely in his gesture of resentment when a Negro clergyman prayed for the white man's party. In all parts of the country below Mason and Dixon's Line, in many districts of the border States and wherever Southern whites are domiciled, the Senator's withdrawal won warm applause. In those regions where the scandals of black delegations and black and tan delegations to Republican national conventions are familiar the appearance of a Negro, no matter how estimable he may be, in a list of Democratic speakers raises a prospect that seriously disturbs many persons.

Beyond the field of the national convention, but profoundly important in the conditions created by the race issue in the Southern States, is the legal status of Negroes brought about by the decision in the Scottsboro case, in which the Supreme Court held that qualified Negroes were entitled to sit on grand juries and that their exclusion from these was cause for reversing State court decisions. There are ways to get around this; for example, the grand jury system may be abolished and trial on information filed by the prosecutor may be substituted for it. This has been done in Michigan and is under intermittent discussion in other States. The necessity of considering such changes, however, is evidence of the increasing complexity of the race issue where it is most acute and where equality would mean not an occasional Negro in public office but submergence of the whites.

That the Negroes in the South have now backing from several intelligently directed organizations is evidenced by the activities which took the Scottsboro case to the Supreme Court and are potent factors in the current agitation affecting crop-sharers. The family resemblance of these interventionists to the Abolitionists is obvious. As the race issue is the permanently predominant issue in all the Southern States, the relation of court decision, agitation and curtailment of the power of the South in Democratic conventions is plain, and the task imposed on the white leaders in the South is equally clear.

Century-Old Cajan Issue Is Raised In Local Election Contest At Chatom

CHATOM, ALA., July 4.—(Special).—The 100-year-old Cajan issue has again come to the front in Washington County with a contest filed before the Washington County Democratic Executive Committee regarding the nomination of Commissioner-elect Johnson as a member of the county board of revenue.

Mr. Johnson received a five-vote majority over the contestant, Loper and Loper is contesting the nomination on the grounds, it is learned, that negroes voted in the Democratic primary.

Atty. Ed Turner is representing Johnson who received the nomination while Adams and Gilmore of Grove Hill and Jim Granade, of Chatom are representing Loper, the contestant.

While the Cajan issue has not been brought directly into the contest, as a matter of fact Cajanism is the issue Washington County has been torn for years in a political and social war by the Cajan issue. The genealogy of the Cajans of Washington County has been a matter of dispute for generations.

The Cajans, so far as can be learned are a people who descended from the French soldiers who occupied adjacent sections of Alabama following Bienville's occupation of what is now Mobile. French garrisons were established along the rivers including the Tombigbee and Alabama some distance above Mobile and including the territory now known as Washington County. These French soldiers married Indians and descendants of the former Spanish occupationists. In the melting pot was thrown the colored races and there has been argument pro and con for more than 100 years that many of the inhabitants of certain sections of Washington and Mobile Counties have negro blood in their veins. There has never been any proof to this effect but the genealogy of the descendants of the French occupationists has always constituted both a racial and political issue in this section.

It is understood that the defeated candidate will contest Johnson's nomination on the ground that negroes voted in the Democratic primary, a white primary. The county committee Monday will hear the evidence as to whether or not negroes voted and the genealogy of those voting in the primary and whose votes will be challenged at the hearing will bring up the Cajan issue.

NEW DEALERS DODGE LYNCH BILL PLANK

'Negro Question' Is Bee in The Collar of Delegates From Far South

By Russell C. Caution

PHILADELPHIA.—(Special) — The national Democratic convention became suddenly preoccupied when faced with the problem of assuring some action on the passage of the anti-lynch bill before congress.

It is now a known fact that the convention renominated Franklin Delano Roosevelt for the Democratic candidate for the presidency to succeed himself, and John Nance Garner of Texas, for the vice presidency to succeed himself.

But the convention did some things that are still puzzling to the voters in states like New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois where the Negro vote is not only worth catering to but worth having.

As a bait for the Negro vote, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader and permanent chairman of the convention, presented the Rev. Marshall Shepard, pastor of the Mount Olivet Baptist Tabernacle, Forty-second and Walnut streets and a member of the Pennsylvania state legislature as a Democrat, to open the session last Wednesday with the divine blessing.

Southerners Balk

This move caused a wide spread move of discontent among the delegates from Dixie as no Negro had ever invoked the divine blessing on a Democratic convention in 100 years, according to historians of the party.

Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina raised the Negro question when Dr. Shepard prayed and "walked out" on the convention.

"I feel sympathy and pity for Senator Smith," the pastor said, "and pray to God that he may be emancipated from his prejudices."

He added that if Senator Smith "is looking for a party without Negroes it looks like he will have to form his own little party right there in South Carolina."

From the senator came the comment:

"I don't have to form my own party. The party already exists. It was born in the red-shirt days of the reconstruction period, when the gentlemen of South Carolina donned red shirts to rid our state of carpetbaggers, scalawags and Negroes."

In Columbia, meanwhile A. S. Salley, state historian, said Mr. Smith had served with a Negro Democrat in the South Carolina house in 1898-1900.

Senator Smith, who had announced that he was "through" with the convention, later said he would walk out "whenever a Negro has a part."

He added he was back to fight abrogation of the two-thirds rule.

"I've got a good notion to take the floor and give them hell," he told reporters. "This is nothing but an attempt to crucify the Democratic South."

At the Democratic National committee, officials explained that the Negro minister was chosen in line with an effort "to include representatives of all congregations" and that the racial question had not been discussed.

Representative Mitchell of Chicago, only Negro member of Congress and a delegate to the convention, said: "Senator Smith is a man of the old school and represents that thought among white people which is fast passing away."

The next move in the quest of Negro votes was made when Congressman Arthur Mitchell, who is from the first district of Illinois, the richest congressional district in the United States and the Democrat who defeated Oscar DePriest first Negro to be congressman from Illinois, made what was to have been a short speech to the delegates and the convention on Thursday evening.

Also this move on the part of Senator Joseph Robinson didn't set quite so well with the Negro Democrats who had expected and who were certain that the New Dealers would have Mitchell second Mr. Roosevelt's nomination.

Governor Homer of Illinois seconded Mr. Roosevelt's nomination for the Prairie state.

Mitchell's subject was on the state of the Union. He delivered the same address to the convention, which also was heard by the radio listeners, as he had previously given out as an advanced copy of his (Mitchell's) seconding speech, pledging Mr. Roosevelt 3,000,000 Negro votes.

Duck Anti-Lynch Bill

It was pointed out that the Republicans had Roscoe Conklin Simmons, nationally known Negro orator of Chicago, to second the nomination of Herbert Hoover at the Chicago convention in 1932 and Perry Howard, Washington attorney and national committeeman from Mississippi, to second the nomination of Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas at the recent Cleveland meeting of the Republicans.

Following Senator Ellison D. Smith's "walkout" after the Rev. Shepard had offered prayer, the convention went on record as not wanting to "upset" the delegates from below the Mason and Dixon line any further.

Senator Robinson was asked whether he would favor an amendment to the constitution to permit legislation along the lines of the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynch bill.

The permanent chairman was stunned by the audacity of the questioner but pulled himself together long enough to abruptly answer "I am not going to say anything about it now—not till this convention is over. There's plenty of time for that!"

From his tone he indicated that it would be no use to question him further on the subject.

James Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee and postmaster general had no disposition to talk about the anti-lynching measure. Running the convention left little time for him to think of legislative policies, he 'might" make some comment later but suggested "seeing soe of the boys?"

Senator Smith, known as "Cotton Ed" took his second walk when Mitchell spoke. He is one of the senators who battled successfully for an entire week last year to crush the supporters of the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynch bill. He was assisted by Senator Hugo Black of Alabama at the time. It might be well to remember now that Black was one of the drafters of the Democratic convention platform.

Senator Tom Connally who also aided inthe filibuster joined Senator William E. Borah, Republican from Idaho, and who wanted to be the Republican party's nominee for the presidency this year, in declaring the Costigan-Wagner bill unconstitutional.

Connaly said at the convention that he did not believe the Costigan-Wagner bill or any other measure of that nature could be constitutional.

Against an Amendment

"Would you favor an amendment to the constitution to make such legislation constitutional?" he was asked.

"Of course not," he replied, we're putting lynching down, if they'll just let us alone. We rarely have a lynching in Texas."

Senator Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania said he supported the Wagner-Costigan bill and that he did not "think a constitutional amendment is necessary" to permit such legislation. If such an amendment were necessary, he added, "I'd be in favor of submitting it to the people."

Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana declared unequivocally that he would favor an amendment to permit federal anti-lynching legislation.

Gov. Henry Horner of Illionis declared: 'Naturally I'm in favor of every means that can possibly be used to prevent and discourage lynching. I would favor an amendment to the federal constitution permitting federal legisilation to accomplish this."

However, the Illionis governor would not like to see such an amendment take away from the states the right to prevent and punish this "abhorrent crime."

Winston, N. C., Free Press
June 25, 1936

Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, a veteran of the upper branch of Congress, is reported to have stalked out of the Philadelphia convention Wednesday because a Negro minister was called on to pronounce the invocation over one of the sessions. We should think the senator was old enough to know better than to make a spectacle of himself after that fashion, and we agree with chairman of the South Carolina delegation, Claude Sapp, who is quoted as saying in reference to the incident, "I'm willing for anybody to pray for me who wants to."

MADISON, WIS.
CAPITAL TIMES

JUN 28 1936

Bad Manners

SEN. ELLISON D. SMITH of South Carolina apparently wants to fight the Civil war all over again. Twice he walked out of the Democratic national convention at Philadelphia because a Negro was permitted to speak.

The last time Sen. Smith took a walk he said he was gone for good because of the convention's "acceptance of the Negro on terms of political equality."

The 15th amendment to the constitution of the United States, Sen. Smith should be informed, reads as follows

"The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude."

The fire-eating, stiff-necked senator from South Carolina succeeded in doing nothing more than make himself ridiculous by his stupid hostility.

He sought to raise a racial issue when there was nothing involved. He displayed bad taste and worse manners.

Democrats of the type of Sen. Smith are responsible for the continued disfranchising of the Negro in the South and the denial to the Negro of opportunities for bettering their condition.

It ill behooves them to grow indignant when Negroes who have overcome the handicaps that face their race are given recognition.

Political-1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Negro Democratic Organization Holds 12th Quadrennial Meeting, Pledges Support To Roosevelt

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—With the unanimous reelection of Dr. William J. Thompkins as its national president, the National Colored Democratic Association closed its twelfth quadrennial meeting Monday in the auditorium of the O. V. Catto Lodge of Elks, 763 accredited delegates attended the three-day convention .

The conference went on record as pledging $25,000 to the National Committee of the Democratic Party which opened its national convention here Tuesday morning. The money was pledged from receipts of sales of a booklet entitled "The Roosevelt New Deal and the Colored Citizens" which will be edited by Edgar G. Brown and distributed to members of the National Colored Democratic Association, as its contribution to the reelection of President Roosevelt, June 22nd.

Officers Elected

Officers elected were: Dr. William J. Thompson, president; Mrs. Bessye J. Bearden, New York, first vice-president; Edward R. Hazell, Pennsylvania, second vice-president; Dr. J. A. Somerville, California, third vice-president; Thomas J. Davis, of Ohio, fourth vice-president and state organizer; Edgar G. Brown, Pennsylvania, secretary; Thomas H. R. Clarke, Washington, D. C., corresponding secretary; Truly Hatchett, Maryland, treasurer; J. E. Stephens, New York, general organizer; Mrs. Theodora V. Jones, California, women's organizer; Miss M. Griffin, Pennsylvania, assistant women's organizer; Harry Leland, Nebraska, sergeant- at-arms; William H. Kelly, Pennsylvania, assistant sergeant-at-arms; Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom, Ohio, historian; Bishop E. T. Demby, Arkansas, national chaplain; Miss Lula Parks Hill, Kansas, regional organizer.

The conference opened Saturday at the O. V. Catto Elks' Lodge auditorium when the following resolution was adopted and forwarded to President Roosevelt:

The Resolution

"The National Colored Democratic Association organized in 1892 to represent the constitutional rights, the progressive political interests and the economic and social welfare of the 12,000,000 American Negroes in the United States, assembled in their twelfth quadrennial meeting, sends its official and unanimous expression of good cheer and the fullest measure of devotion to our President, the modern Saviour of the greatest civilization in the world.

"Here, at the opening session today in the City of Brotherly Love and the site of the historic shrine where the founder of the Democratic Party and the author of the Declaration of Independence wrought so nobly we take renewed courage from the inspiration of your leadership of the nation during the past three years.

"The principles of 'Equal Rights for all—special privileges for none' first penned by the immortal Thomas Jefferson, was the concluding declaration of the 1932 Democratic platform. Upon it you achieved the Party's most glorious victory and have carried on as Chief Executive no less triumphantly. The humanitarian spirit, policy and performance of your administration bespeak the rebirth of a new freedom and security for all mankind and the establishment of the Good Neighbor Policy at home and abroad.

"The submerged and underprivileged one-tenth have truly felt the divine mission of your stewardship, for whom we express eternal gratitude and loyalty.

"With continued hope and promise these same patriotic Americans will go forward to sell the unprecedented and over-whelming vote of confidence which will be religiously and prayerfully deposited in the ballot box by those millions of souls who will ever look to you as their greatest Emancipator.

"Be It Resolved that the Declaration of the 1932 Democratic Platform in the immortal words of Thomas Jefferson, founder of the Party 'Equal Rights for all—special privileges for none.' In the administration of the New Deal the humanitarian spirit, policy and performance of President guarantees the continuance of the constiutional rights of all American citizens."

At the same time the convention unanimously passed a resolution named Dr. William J. Thompkins, president, as the "number one, fighting, never quit Democrat of America."

On Sunday, two of the Democratic party's chief startegists opened their drive to capture the Negro vote in the coming election, when Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and W. Forbes Morgan, secretary, appeared as feature speakers at a rally held in the Pearl Theatre.

The importance of their visit was stated by Dr. Thompkins who said:

"This is the first time in the history of our nation that a national officer of a major party has addressed a Negro meeting of this kind."

Acting as temporary chairman of the meeting, Edgar G. Brown, in introducing Postmaster Farley, praised the Democratic chairman for his recognition of Negro citizens and declared:

"I have been informed that more than 1200 Negroes have been given jobs in the postal service throughout the country in the last 30 days."

In addressing the meeting Mr. Farley said.

"I know that you and those of your color are wholeheartedly supporting President Roosevelt, not because of your color, but as American citizens. What the President has done and has tried to do will assure his reelection, in my opinion, by a greater majority than last time. I am deeply grateful for your efforts of the past and shall be for what you will do from now until election day to bring about a victory that is surely ours."

The appeal of the New Deal for support of Negro voters was made by Mr. Morgan, however, in a lengthy address which was critical of the Republican Party and its attitude to the Negro.

Said Mr. Morgan:

"It is a pleasure to come here today and to have the opportunity of seeing with my own eyes the interest which members of the colored race are taking in vital problems which affect the future of our country. This is an important age, politically, in which we live. We find significant and far-reaching changes in sociology and economics taking place all around us, and whether we want them or not, these changes materially affect our daily lives. The rule of life is growth and development and we may as well recognize that fact.

"The very existence of the National Colored Democratic Association is a wholesome thing for the members of the colored race and a wholesome thing for the United States of America. To me it means that the colored race has come of age politically; that no longer may you be considered a sort of appendage to one of the major political parties, no matter what that party may happen to be.

"It is not my purpose to inquire into the reasons or to scorn at the traditions which have bound so many of your race to membership in the Republican Party in the past. But I do say that any debt of loyalty you may have owed has been amply repaid, and that from now on it is your duty to yourselves and your duty to the country to examine with critical eye the claims of any and all political parties before announcing your allegiance. The presence of such a fine representative gathering here today is visible evidence that you intend to pursue such a policy.

"Never forget that the acquisition of liberty carries with it responsibilities; otherwise it soon degenerates into license.

"Remember that the right of citizenship is the greatest of all human gifts and must not be bartered away like a mess of pottage.

"As a Democrat I have no hesitancy in urging those of you here today to consider fully the claims for your suffrage put forth by both major parties.

"It is my honest belief that your admiration for our great President Franklin D. Roosevelt will increase beyond measure if you study all the vital things that he has done in the short space of three year to better the lot of the common men and women in this country."

Highly Entertained

Many attractives were arranged for the enjoyment of the delegates. On Saturday a sightseeing tour of the city was enjoyed and in the evening a smoker was given for the men at the Perry Elk's Home while at the same time a bridge party was given for the women.

Sunday noon, a parade was held, the line of march starting at 11th and Poplar streets, then to the Pearl Theatre where the mass meeting was held. On Monday night a dance and reception was held at the Ambassadors Ballroom, 1710 North Broad street, with a floor show featuring Charlie Gaines Parrish Club orchestra.

Dr. Thompkins Claims Favor of Jim Farley

Supporters Say He'll Keep Leadership of Colored Democrats.

OUSTER SOUGHT BY VANN FORCES

Pa. and N.Y. Groups Behind Pittsburgher.

PHILADELPHIA — Supporters of Dr. William J. Thompkins, recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, claimed victory on Saturday in the contest to have him recognized by the national committee of the Democratic party as leader of colored units throughout the country.

The leadership fight began when Dr. Thompkins's position was contested by delegations from Pennsylvania and New York. The two Eastern groups supported Robert Vann, Pittsburgh attorney and publisher, for recognition.

The quiet but heated contest was waged throughout the five-day session of the party's national convention.

Thompkins's Backers Numerous

Mr. Thompkins, president of the National Negro Democratic Association, said to have been organized in 1892, was backed by a large number of Democrats from every section of the country. His followers contend that he should be recognized as spokesman for colored Democrats because of his position in the administration.

Democrats of Pennsylvania, who back Mr. Vann, point to his achievement in Western Pennsylvania, his close contact with the administration and his legal and business ability.

Mr .Vann and several of his aides refused to take part in the three-day session of the association held here immediately before the convention.

A majority of the thirty-two delegates to the convention were drawn into the fight between the two men. Unaware of the undercurrent, several delegates from Western States endorsed each of the men before discovering that a heated contest was on.

Farley's Approval Claimed

Dr. Thompkins, who with many of his followers participated in the demonstrations following the renomination of President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner claims to have won the approval of Postmaster James Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

He has made several good-will trips throughout the country in the interest of the Roosevelt administration.

The first indication of the contest between the two men came with the Vann faction's refusal to participate in the association meeting, which they said was to aid Dr. Thompkins.

Supporters of each of the men buttoned-holed the colored delegates and alternates in an effort to secure endorsement. A few of the delegates declined to support either.

Life-Long Democrat

In a statement to the AFRO, Dr Thompkins said he has been a Democrat all his life and has led the campaign to have colored delegates elected to the Democratic National Convention. He was former owner of a Kansas City weekly newspaper.

Dr. Thompkins said further:

"In reference to the walk-outs by Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, I believe there should be more colored delegates and alternates before we begin a campaign of agitation.

"We demand our rights as members of the party and believe that any attempt by Southerners to have us jim crowed or insulted is in violation of the principles of the party.

"The fight waged in connection with my recognition as president of the largest colored Democratic organization was led by reactionaries who have been kicked out of the Republican party. If they continue trying to enforce the old customs that are practiced in the Republican party, we are lost before we start.

"In other words, instead of trying to find out how much can I get out of the Democratic party, it must be figured in terms of how much can I do for the party. We have to share the liabilities as well as the assets.

"It costs money to maintain a dignified citizenship and to believe in the principles of any party. When we assume our obligations squarely, we will get our share of the profits. Until we do that, there is little that we can actually, demand conscientiously."

Anderson, S. C., Independent Trib
June 26, 1936

NEGROES AT THE CONVENTION

Whoever was responsible for the appearance, for the first time, of a negro on the program of the Democratic National Convention unquestionably made a blunder. It is bad enough to have negroes in the convention as delegates from the "Black Belts" which went Democratic in the last election, and elsewhere, but the leadership that projected any single one of them into a conspicuous place did not contribute anything to party harmony in the South.

However, it seems that the incident was over-emphasized by Senator Smith, who is very cool on the New Deal. Whether his attitude is due to his failure to land a place in the Roosevelt cabinet as secretary of agriculture, or whether it is inspired by a feeling of envy because of the prominent part taken in administration affairs by James F. Byrnes, junior senator, is a matter of conjecture. It would seem that the real cause for Senator Smith's explosion was portrayed in his declaration: "I am sick and tired of the whole damned thing" — rather than of the appearance of a negro preacher who offered a brief prayer! He seems to object to "the whole damned thing."

In South Carolina, negroes vote in the Democratic primary, when they establish proven allegiance to General Wade Hampton. This does not mean, that they are regarded as socially the equal of the white people. They may be permitted to vote, under the conditions laid down, and their votes count, but white people do not take them into their parlors or offices and sit them down along side their families to discuss political matters and how they shall vote.

There was a time, too, in the South, when negroes and whites worshipped under the same roof. Many of the old time churches, in slavery days, had a balcony in which the faithful slaves sat during church services, joining in the singing and worshipping with the white people. This could not have been construed, by the fartherest stretch of the imagination, as social equality for the blacks.

Senator Smith served in the General Assembly of this state with two negroes, from Georgetown county. This condition did not give rise to the suspicion that he or any other of the white members felt they were socially equal to the whites. The negroes were there due to political conditions that made it necessary to have a fusion ticket to avoid outright control in the densely populated black districts going to the negroes. In fact, several negroes were in attendance at the Constitutional Convention in 1898.

We feel the expression from Chairman Ben T. Leppard, to the effect that the negroes will not constitute a problem, "socially or politically" in South Carolina, is sound. A vast majority of the people of this state agree with Senator Smith's statement that negroes receive fair treatment as long as they stay in their places. They are assured of that, whether the senior senator stays in the convention or "takes a walk" with another well known man by the same name.

A negro preacher on the platform in Philadelphia, however, is not as bad for South Carolina as Joe Tolbert in the patronage saddle in this state.

Columbia, S. C. State
June 27, 1936

With Deep Regret.

It is with genuine and deep regret that we heard the pronouncement by the veteran South Carolina senator made at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia, "I'm through."

Senator Smith has long been honored by his people. The latest honor was when they sent him as a delegate to this convention. So serious a step as that taken at Philadelphia should have been taken only as the result of mature judgment, not upon impulse, especially when that impulse was incited by irritation over another matter.

It may be accepted, we think, as true that had Senator Smith's withdrawal from the Democratic convention been in harmony with "Southern sentiment" on the race question he would have been joined by some other delegates from some other Southern state from Virginia to Texas. Surely there were present in that great representative gathering equally devoted Democrats and Southerners. Yet, when the irritated Senator Smith walked, every other delegate, from the dignified Carter Glass of Virginia to the free-speaking Texans, kept their seats.

What was the occasion for this one man stampede? The only Negro in congress is a Democrat from Illinois. "Politics"—the everlasting "politics"—with which Senator Smith has been familiar for full forty years, evidently suggested to the convention management that a speech by the Negro congressman, Mitchell, to a Democratic convention might impress several hundred thousand Negro voters in such states as Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey. So Mitchell began speaking and Smith walked out.

Were this action in defense of a principle, nothing in criticism would be found about it here. We would applaud it, whatever the cost to the party. But it was not in defense of a principle. In 1876, 1878 and 1880, South Carolinians, including Wade Hampton, not only listened to but applauded Negro Democrats addressing Democratic rallies. In the Black Belt the Negro who would speak at a Democratic convention or other gathering was held in high esteem by whites loyal to their heritage; and neither Wade Hampton nor any one of those other Democrats suffered from the virus of "contamination."

Since that period Southern Democrats have addressed Negro gatherings in the South, and Negroes—notably Booker T. Washington—have addressed meetings of white Southerners without lowering a bar to social equality. Every congressman from the South must sit in the hall of the house of representatives with Negro congressmen on terms of "political equality." Not one of them has dreamed of "walking out."

In South Carolina legislatures and constitutional conventions dominated by Democrats there have been Negro members who have spoken and been given respectful attention by men who fought in the bloody battles of the Sixties and in the political battles of the Seventies.

We deplore Senator Smith's course at Philadelphia.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
AGE HERALD

JUN 26 1936

Another Smith Walk

This Democratic convention is suffering a variety of Smith walks. Al Smith took his without ever reaching Philadelphia. But Senator Ellison D. Smith did his right from the convention floor. He and "one or two others from the South Carolina delegation," according to The Associated Press, made from the floor when a Negro minister offered the invocation Wednesday. And Thursday he declared he would walk out "whenever a Negro had a part."

This action speaks for itself. That it was the product of emotion and not reason seems incontestably apparent. If there were any doubt about it, this excerpt from the senator's own remarks would be conclusive evidence to The Age-Herald: "Political equality means social equality and social equality means intermarriage and that means the mongrelizing of the Negro race."

Even the cautious Associated Press, in its news account of the incident, Thursday ventured the assertion that the outburst of Senator Smith was "the culmination of a train of circumstances reaching even back before the convention." Senator Smith is not in harmony with certain New Deal policies. Then he arrived late at the convention to find his delegate badge temporarily given to another. Then there was this colored minister praying. That was too much for the senator.

For a time it appeared he was going to Carolina right away. But later he said he would stay at least long enough to vote against the abrogation of the two-thirds rule. Perhaps he will cool off enough to see the show through. Let it be hoped so, at any rate.

Inter-racial problems are difficult enough when those who strive to solve them work in full possession of their reason. Approached emotionally, they are tremendously magnified. Walkouts on them will never help.

Democratic

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Scottsboro, Ala. Sentinel
July 2, 1936

A CHANGING DEMOCRATIC PARTY

BY EDITOR OF THE SENTINEL

Those who followed closely the trend and political activity of the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia last week, when President Roosevelt and Vice-President Garner were renominated without opposition to be the party candidates this year, could not help feeling the party of Jefferson had advanced far into new thought territory and much of the staid dignity of the past had been left behind in the enthusiasm, or perhaps seeming expediency, of the present national situation.

Regardless of any theories advanced or propaganda spread by the Republican party, it is the opinion of neutral observers that the Democrats will win again in November and lead the government another four years. The harmony in the Republican party bids fair to become ominous to the Democratic hopes four years from now, the G. O. P. has little ground for actual belief it will retake the national leadership this year.

It is now nationally assumed as a fact that both labor and agriculture will support to a big majority President Roosevelt and his policies. Little business will also stand with the Democrats because conditions are really becoming better and better every day throughout the country.

The surest indication of all of a Democratic victory is the apparent lack of interest in politics of the average man and woman in all sections of the country. Precedent has firmly established that where there is this peaceful attitude, the administration in power is usually satisfying the majority of people well enough that they do not demand a change of government at the time and are willing to let "well enough" rock along for a while.

The platforms of the two parties are enough alike to be used by either side by exchanging emblems. The added "fireworks" of the campaigns are the Republicans screaming of the waste and dangerous practices of the Democrats and in return the Democrats are yelling their heads off for "the little man" and claiming the Republicans are wanting to hang him to the nearest tree, or something like that.

The trend of both parties is turning away from established organizations headed by certain emblems.

The Civil War is now entirely out of the argument, it seems. The highest negro official in the United States (Congressman Arthur Mitchell from Alabama and Chicago) stood up in the Democratic convention last week and made a rousing Democratic speech to the plaudits of Democrats from all over the country, including almost unanimously the Southern delegations.

Such a thing as this would have been astounding even ten years ago and the convention would have blown up and been shattered.

No sensible Southern people now want or have ever wanted to deny the intelligent and law-abiding negro the right to vote, or to have a voice in the government. It was the effort of white people to use the gullible negroes for their own political gain that has stood highest in the way of negro voting suffrage.

Frankly, the Democratic party is the party in which the Southern negro belongs, even if his Northern brothers find their affiliation strongest with the Republican party. The greater friction in the South would come from a negro vote whose suffrage was entirely alien to local needs and local ambitions.

So last week in Philadelphia, the Democratic party nationally gave the negro voting suffrage and invit d him into the party folds. This may cause apprehension among many Southern white people, but it can be accepted as something permanent, for it will remain that way.

As far as the individual negroes in the convention are concerned, no complaint could be registered by the South on that point. Arthur Mitchell, the Chicago negro Democrat, who defeated the nauseating Oscar DePriest for Congress, is considered by Southern white leaders as being the finest influence in the lives of American negroes since Booker T. Washington. Mitchell is an Alabaman and was educated at Tuskeegee along the Booker T. Washington line. He is without vanity or pomp and has the respect of all his white colleagues in Congress. Such negroes as Mitchell can go far toward solving the future relations of the races in America.

Now, as we have taken the negroes into our Democratic fold, what will be the future and greatest fighting issue on the Republicans in the South? Since the Civil War the Republican party has been portrayed in the South as the party of racial equality and Democratic children were taught that the Republicans were trying to make us all black down here! Periodical outbursts would kindle the fires again and off we would go for another decade. When I was a boy I remember the horror of Teddy Roosevelt eating dinner with Booker T. Washington! And such!

But now the shoe is on the other foot and the Republicans in the South are finding themselves a bit amused and enthused. From now on out the Republicans down here can organize and work and build up the party lines with never a fear of the Democrats yelling, or even whis- both the Republican and Democratic parties are now in

Democratic

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Scottsboro, Ala., Sentinel
July 2, 1936

A CHANGING DEMOCRATIC PARTY

BY EDITOR OF THE SENTINEL

Those who followed closely the trend and political activity of the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia last week, when President Roosevelt and Vice-President Garner were renominated without opposition to be the party candidates this year, could not help feeling the party of Jefferson had advanced far into new thought territory and much of the staid dignity of the past had been left behind in the enthusiasm, or perhaps seeming expediency, of the present national situation.

Regardless of any theories advanced or propaganda spread by the Republican party, it is the opinion of neutral observers that the Democrats will win again in November and lead the government another four years. The harmony in the Republican party bids fair to become ominous to the Democratic hopes four years from now, the G. O. P. has little ground for actual belief it will retake the national leadership this year.

It is now nationally assumed as a fact that both labor and agriculture will support to a big majority President Roosevelt and his policies. Little business will also stand with the Democrats because conditions are really becoming better and better every day throughout the country.

The surest indication of all of a Democratic victory is the apparent lack of interest in politics of the average man and woman in all sections of the country. Precedent has firmly established that where there is this peaceful attitude, the administration in power is usually satisfying the majority of people well enough that they do not demand a change of government at the time and are willing to let "well enough" rock along for a while.

The platforms of the two parties are enough alike to be used by either side by exchanging emblems. The added "fireworks" of the campaigns are the Republicans screaming of the waste and dangerous practices of the Democrats and in return the Democrats are yelling their heads off for "the little man" and claiming the Republicans are wanting to hang him to the nearest tree, or something like that.

The trend of both parties is turning away from established organizations headed by certain emblems.

The Civil War is now entirely out of the argument, it seems. The highest negro official in the United States (Congressman Arthur Mitchell from Alabama and Chicago) stood up in the Democratic convention last week and made a rousing Democratic speech to the plaudits of Democrats from all over the country, including almost unanimously the Southern delegations.

Such a thing as this would have been astounding even ten years ago and the convention would have blown up and been shattered.

No sensible Southern people now want or have ever wanted to deny the intelligent and law-abiding negro the right to vote, or to have a voice in the government. It was the effort of white people to use the gullible negroes for their own political gain that has stood highest in the way of negro voting suffrage.

Frankly, the Democratic party is the party in which the Southern negro belongs, even if his Northern brothers find their affiliation strongest with the Republican party. The greater friction in the South would come from a negro vote whose suffrage was entirely alien to local needs and local ambitions.

So last week in Philadelphia, the Democratic party nationally gave the negro voting suffrage and invit d him into the party folds. This may cause apprehension among many Southern white people, but it can be accepted as something permanent, for it will remain that way.

As far as the individual negroes in the convention are concerned, no complaint could be registered by the South on that point. Arthur Mitchell, the Chicago negro Democrat, who defeated the nauseating Oscar DePriest for Congress, is considered by Southern white leaders as being the finest influence in the lives of American negroes since Booker T. Washington. Mitchell is an Alabaman and was educated at Tuskeegee along the Booker T. Washington line. He is without vanity or pomp and has the respect of all his white colleagues in Congress. Such negroes as Mitchell can go far toward solving the future relations of the races in America.

Now, as we have taken the negroes into our Democratic fold, what will be the future and greatest fighting issue on the Republicans in the South? Since the Civil War the Republican party has been portrayed in the South as the party of racial equality and Democratic pering, "tar baby" at them.

The Republican party in the South from now on will children were taught that the Republicans were trying to ouldlikely hang out a sort of "lily white" flag and blow the make us all black down here! Periodical outbursts would otherhorn for recruits, and they will get much more considerakindle the fires again and off we would go for another oftion than ever before, because the Democrats themselves decade. When I was a boy I remember the horror of ing-have "broken their own swords" in this section in trying Teddy Roosevelt eating dinner with Booker T. Washingto capture negro votes in the Eastern states.

The national Democratic party will be weaker in the South from now on, although the South will remain "solid" for Roosevelt this year.

Frankly, it would not be a wild prophecy to say that both the Republican and Democratic parties are now in their last stages of decay as far as old lines are concerned, and the United States will in the next decade see the voting tendency of the nation one of entire independence, selecting men or aims from time to time with little thought or care what sort of emblem headed the ticket, or whether any emblem at all was there.

But now the shoe is on the other foot and the Republicans in the South are finding themselves a bit amused and enthused. From now on out the Republicans down here can organize and work and build up the party lines with never a fear of the Democrats yelling, or even whis-

Roosevelt and Garner have the Government for another four years and 1940 will bring us even stranger tendencies than this year. What the morrow holds in the way of American leadership and policies is not yet in sight, but no students of national life predict we will return again to the set principles of either old party.

The Democratic party is changing and after this November election the Republican party will begin rapid changes to meet the requirements of the future if they are to win again.

Batesburg, S. C., News
July 1, 1936

The negro question, so emphatically injected into the Democratic picture at the Philadelphia convention, may play an important part in the senatorial campaign now in progress in South Carolina. We have heard no loud protest from Senator Byrnes against negroes taking prominent parts in the convention. We can't conceive of South Carolinians voting for a man to represent them in the United States senate who approves Mr. Farley's methods of pushing negroes forward in Democratic conventions in order to get the negro vote in doubtful states, in utter disregard of Democratic traditions and the wishes of Southern Democrats.

Dr. Thompkins Is Slated to be No. 1 Democrat

Robert Vann and Julian Rainey Are Out For Negro Leadership

PHILADELPHIA — Now that the Democratic National Convention is over and the party has adopted its platform for the next four years, the big issue among Negroes is who will direct the campaign among the colored voters.

The big fight for power in this field is between Dr. William J. Thompkins, Kansas City, Mo.; Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Julian D. Rainey, Boston, Mass.

Each one is vying against the other for leadership in the campaign. No longer do they, in company with Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, Columbus, Ohio, work together as the prominently styled Big Four.

Whatever group is selected to conduct the campaign among Negro voters will not be styled again as the Big Four, James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, told reporters at a press conference here. The campaign will be run on a basis similar to that of 1932, he said, but they will not be known this time as the "Big Four," Farley said.

Dr. Thompkins, whose plum for his activities in the western field in 1932 netted him the position of recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, is the probable and logical one of the three to head up the committee.

It is commonly conceded that his work with the party did not stop with his appointment to an important position, but has continued throughout the New Deal administration, and has spread into more than 30 states, where he has expounded the New Deal philosophy since becoming recorder of deeds in Washington.

His efforts to organize all Negro Democrats into a solid phalanx was a slight success. Considering the opposition he had to contened with from Vann, who styled the organization a jim-crow one, the National Colored Democratic Association meeting in Philadelphia was a success.

That Farley and W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the National Democratic Committee, attended the association and addressed the delegates, is evidence that they paid no attention to Vann's opposition.

1,000 at Meeting

The mass meeting at which these two big wigs spoke was the most colorful of its kind ever held. At least a thousand persons were present. Whether Farley regards Dr. Thompkins as the No. 1 Negro Democrat of the country or not, the association which he heads looks upon him as such, and so voted at its closing session.

There is no doubt that Dr. Thompkins has the larger following of Vann or Rainey, and could, in all probability, muster more Negro votes for the Democratic party than Vann and Rainey combined.

Philadelphia Eagle
July 2, 1936

The Democratic convention had a Protestant, a Jew, a Catholic and a Negro to open sessions with prayer. Sort of trying to be all things (religious) to all men that more votes might be gathered thereby.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
CHRONICLE

JUN 26 1936

It Won't Be Done This Way

THE DEMOCRATS are represented as trying to line up the Negro voters of the "doubtful" States, New York, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, where they may hold the balance of power, in the hope of delivering them to the Democratic side.

The choice of States is significant. In these States the Negroes do vote and their votes are counted. Long years of Republican State administrations have secured them the actual exercise of this constitutional right. Now, as voters who do vote, they have the same right as any other voters to vote either way. And the Democrats say they want them.

If so, there is a very easy way to get them. Let the Democratic State governments of Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and the rest, encourage and protect the Negro voters of their States in the actual exercise of their right of franchise, as the Republican State governments of the contested States have long done.

Then, when the Negroes owe to the Democratic party the free exercise of their right to vote in Georgia, they may requite this favor by voting Democratic in Indiana.

It might be an experiment worth trying.

But don't get excited, either for or against it. It won't be done.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
July 1, 1936

Entirely Consistent

The adoption of the negro by the national Democratic party is entirely consistent with the principles of the New Deal.

Were The News and Courier a New Dealer it would of course stand for the recognition of the negroes in politics, for their admission into Southern Democratic primaries and to vote in general elections. Any other position would be nonsensical and irrational.

If we are to have centralization (One Big State), federal control and regulation, by amendment of the constitution or otherwise, of agriculture and industry, "social security" and so on, the obliteration of race lines in politics is inevitable. The only alternative would be for the New Dealers to disfranchise the negroes and move them out of the country.

If we South Carolinians are ready for this "new order" as outlined in the Philadelphia platform, let us face it like men. Let us not fool ourselves. The sooner we invite the negroes into our primaries the easier will it be to keep them out of the hand of the "Tieless Joes".

The News and Courier is not ready for the new order. It is not a New Dealer. The News and Courier is for South Carolina first, state rights and a white man's party.

Since the adoption of the negro by the national Democratic party, most of the New Deal politicians and federal office-holders in South Carolina are trying to ride two horses in opposite directions. In a little while they will have to open their mouths. They can't ride two horses. Even now they are suffering horribly. They are being torn asunder, and their hearts are breaking at the prospect of losing their jobs. Poor, poor creatures!

You cannot have a national New Deal and draw the color line. You cannot have the New Deal and separate the races in the cotton mills—not long.

And there is not a prominent New Deal politician in South Carolina with the courage of the New Deal's convictions. Not one.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
July 1, 1936

The Hot Potato

(From The Greenville News.)

Senator Smith's "walk-out" on the Democratic national convention was a protest against the official recognition given negroes in the program and affairs of the national party.

His attitude in that respect receives the support of the South Carolina delegation which has unanimously adopted a resolution of protest against the placing of negroes on the convention program.

The incident, however, simply makes it clear that while the Democratic party in South Carolina is a "white man's party", the same is not true of the national Democratic party. No national political party in this country today is projected on a "lily white" basis. The negro has become a factor in political affairs in the East. There are 200,000 in Philadelphia, over 300,000 in New York; 200,000 in Chicago and 100,000 in Detroit. And they vote, and run for office. Whether it be that the national parties—all of them—are merely catering to this negro vote, or whether they profess to be only abiding by constitutional provisions in giving the negro political recognition, the fact is that the negro is receiving it, and the Democratic party, it must be conceded, has gone further than ever in symbolizing this recognition this year in its convention program.

Political – 1936

Party Affiliation.

Democratic

ADA, OKLA.
NEWS
JUN 26 1936

Negro delegates to a Democratic convention, a negro minister opening said convention with prayer and a walkout by some delegates who still cling to former notions. That is a rather mixed picture but it is what happened at Philadelphia Wednesday. All of which is a reminder that the game of politics has changed and that hereafter the Democrats are going to dispute with the Republicans for the negro vote in many states. The only negro congressman is a Democrat from Chicago and still further concessions will be made from time to time to line the negroes up. As long as the colored vote was conceded to be the exclusive property of the Republicans the Democrats drew the line pretty closely but now that the negroes are realizing that by dickering with both parties they can get more out of it than sticking to the Republicans through thick and thin it puts a new face on matters. Since the great exodus of negroes from the South during and since the war they hold the balance of power in a number of states with large electoral votes. Hereafter the two old parties in those states will do some lively stepping to line up the negroes. Yes, times and conditions have changed.

June 28, 1936

THE RACIAL INCIDENT

Apprehensive that Senator Smith of South Carolina had "spilled the beans" when he exploded because a colored brother had been called on to lead in prayer, the master minds of the convention got busy and rushed Congressman Mitchell, colored delegate from Chicago onto the platform in an effort to pour oil on the troubled waters. Mitchell gave a good account of him self, making one of the best speeches of the convention. Incidentally, it might be kept in mind that there are 3,000,000 negro voters in the country, making up the balance of power in such states, as Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and to affront them needlessly would be bad strategy that no party wants to be guilty of.

Dothan, Ala. Eagle
June 26, 1936

FUTILE FULMINATION

Senator Smith, of South Carolina, who indignantly left the Convention because a Negro opened the afternoon session with prayer, made a spectacle of himself.

The Senator might do well to recall the concluding lines of that famous classic, "An Ode To A Skull":

. . . . Who knows? That tongue may plead for thee, When Times unveils Eternity!

And as for his protest that Negro delegates were seated at the Convention, does not the gentleman know that both major political parties make strong bids for the Negro vote in the East and Middle-West?

If he takes a walk, just where'n'ell will he go?

DES MOINES, IA.
TRIBUNE

JUN 25 1936

THE RACE ISSUE RAISED.

Senator Ed Smith of South Carolina ("Cotton Ed") stalked out of the Democratic convention in anger because a Negro preacher was allowed to send a prayer to God on the convention's behalf.

The senator fumed and stomped, and said he would not be "a party to the recognition of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments" to the Constitution —the amendments which give the Negroes the right to vote and which prohibit the states from discriminating against them on account of color or their previous condition of slavery.

LINCOLN.

(Incidentally, that prohibition accomplishes nothing, because the southern states just shift their discrimination to other grounds, such as lack of education, nonpossession of property, or nonpayment of a cumulative poll tax.)

—

Politically, "Cotton Ed's" outburst upsets the apple cart.

Here a Democratic administration for the first time was making a real effort to break the Republican party's hold on the Negro vote in states where there is permitted to be a Negro vote.

SMITH.

Not only the prayer by a Negro delegate but also the plan to have President Roosevelt's nomination seconded by another Negro delegate are signs of what is being attempted.

And, since the Republican hold on the Negro vote has been based wholly on the civil war and on the discriminatory attitude of the south, there was much to applaud in the effort to break down these barriers.

But "Cotton Ed's" heated revolt practically sinks the scheme.

The northern Negro vote is NOT going to the Democratic ticket in 1936—not after this episode.

—

Apart from the politics of it, there is of course the reality of the social problem.

The Tribune often wonders just what the relation between the two races would be in the south today if slavery had been allowed to go out of existence gradually, as Lincoln wanted it to, instead of as the incidental result of a bitter war.

It wonders, too, how much of the long record of bitter race prejudice in the south traces back to the reconstruction period after the civil war—the period during which northern carpetbaggers, supported by northern military power, set up governments in part of the south in which Negroes, until recently slaves, were installed as political masters of the whites.

Of course they were only nominally masters. Northern whites used them as tools.

But it was a terrible period, accounting we are convinced, in no small degree for the retribution the white south took after carpetbagging days were over and for the stern, illegal measures taken ever since then to keep the Negroes repressed.

Moreover, the fact that their emancipation came not through their own efforts and not after adequate educational and political preparation, but as a result of the accident of war between their masters and their masters' northern foes, has certainly not contributed to the wellbeing of the southern Negroes.

—

All that is history now. The Tribune believes that inter-racial conditions and attitudes are improving.

But the problem is not going to be solved in the next year or two, any more than it has been fully solved in the last century.

The call is still going to be for tolerance, patience, kindliness, restraint and understanding on each side as to the difficulties the other side faces.

BUT THE WHITES WHO RUN THIS COUNTRY HAVE GOT TO MAKE MIGHTY SURE THAT THEIR POLICIES PROVIDE FOR STEADY IMPROVEMENT OF THE BASIC CONDITION OF THE NEGRO PART OF THE POPULATION.

That is justice, for one thing.
It is prudence, for another.

CAMDEN, N. J.
POST

JUN 22 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATS SCHEDULE PARLEYS IN CONVENTION WEEK

Delegates From 38 States to Assemble Tomorrow at Phila. Lodge Hall

GROUP HERE TO ATTEND

Delegates from 38 states will assemble for the National Negro Democratic Convention coincident with the Democratic Convention, opening in Philadelphia tomorrow. The Negro convention will hold sessions daily at O. V. Catto Elks' Auditorium, Sixteenth and Fitzwater streets, Philadelphia.

Six delegates and six alternates will attend from Camden county. Miss Alice P. Harris, second vice president of the United Negro Democracy, heads the Camden delegation. Other members are Raymond L. Johnson, Miss Mildred Yemmans, Dr. Howard E. Primas, Carl A. Egerton and James L. Johnson, Jr.

Alternates are Miss Armelia Collier, Miss Grace Jones, Miss Mary V. Robertson, Madison Morton, Mrs. Rose Williams and George T. Robinson.

Among the national Negro political leaders who will arrive in Philadelphia before the Democratic convention opens is Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh publisher of a Negro newspaper, who, according to reports, will head the Roosevelt campaign throughout the country among Negroes.

Other visitors will be Eugene Kinckle Jones, adviser on Negro affairs to the United States Department of Commerce; Edgar G. Brown, special assistant to the director of the emergency conservation works program, and Dr. William J. Tompkins, District of Columbia recorder of deeds, who directed the campaign of the late President Woodrow Wilson among the Negroes throughout the West. All are active supporters of the New Deal.

Lawrence A. Oxley, of North Carolina, commissioner of conciliation in the United States Department of Labor, has been in Philadelphia for a week attending to what he characterizes as "advance work" in connection with Negro activities.

In the Philadelphia participation Deputy Attorney General J. Austin Norris, Representative Marshall E. Shepard, Joseph H. Rainey, state athletic commissioner; Mrs. Somerville Fauntleroy, interracial consultant in the state department of welfare; Dr. J. Max Barber, a law enforcement officer in the state department of public instruction, and Fletcher M. Amos, an alternate delegate to the convention and former Democratic leader of the 47th ward, will be most prominent.

Members of the Philadelphia committee detailed to make arrangements for Negroes who will attend the convention estimate that more than 5000 will be in attendance during the week.

Albany, Ga., Herald
July 1, 1936

GOVERNOR TALMADGE'S "SUPPORT" OF THE DEMOCRATIC PROGRAM.

The Democratic Governor of Georgia refuses to see anything good in the Democratic President of the United States, who has just been nominated by his party for a second term, or in the party which nominated him. For a little while it appeared that the Governor had really repented of his political apostasy, for he announced that he would stand on the Philadelphia platform and support the nominees.

But not for long. He now makes the ridiculous charge that because Negroes were allowed to sit in the Philadelphia convention as delegates from several of the Northern states, the convention established "social equality and political equality."

He blames the Democratic party for the presence of Negroes in Philadelphia hotel lobbies and other public places, and charges that Southern newspapers "are printing just as little about this Negro domination and equality with the Negroes as they can get by with."

Which leads to the natural query: Will the Georgia Woman's World, one of the pro-Talmadge and anti-Roosevelt organs which was widely distributed in this state last year, print the pictures which the Governor seems to think should be printed and circulated? Will it and the Governor join hands to appeal to the baser passions and prejudices of Georgians? We shall see.

As a matter of fact this latest (but not the last) outbreak of Governor Talmadge is on a par with those which have preceded it. He has called the President of the United States a "Communist" who should be driven from power, yet the man so attacked was nominated at Philadelphia last week with a unanimity and enthusiasm unparalleled.

The Governor of Georgia announced several months ago that he would see to it that a Georgia delegation opposed to Franklin D. Roosevelt represented this state in the Democratic National Convention. He engaged a suite of rooms in a Philadelphia hotel for his delegation, then attempted to prevent the holding of a presidential preferential primary in Georgia by having his state executive committee fix the entrance fee at $10,000. Georgia Democrats promptly raised that amount (and more) and paid the fee. Governor Talmadge did not dare enter a primary against the President, so an uncontested Roosevelt delegation was sent to Philadelphia from Georgia. This is the only Southeastern state whose Governor did not attend that great gathering of the nation's Democrats.

And now, having viewed that gathering from afar, and with the dregs of disappointment embittering his soul, the Governor of Georgia seeks to fan into flame the embers of racial prejudice in his own state. It is a pitiful example of willingness to injure Georgia for the sake of possible brief political advantage.

We would like to assure the Governor of Georgia that it will not be necessary for him to call out his personal bodyguard in order to prevent "social and political equality" in Georgia. Georgia newspapers have made no attempt to suppress any Philadelphia convention news. On the contrary, they have given in full the story of Senator Ellison Smith's convention antics, though they have not printed the pictures which Governor Talmadge will no doubt manage to present though the Woman's World or other publications.

It was not the Philadelphia convention that raised the "political and social equality" issue in Georgia, but Governor Eugene Talmadge, whose hatred of President Roosevelt and all for which his program stands is known throughout the nation. His is the lone voice of bitterness that's raised in all the South.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERAL-TRIBUNE

IUL 2 1936

Negroes Fight Choice of Vann As Farley Aid

New York State League Hits at 'Carpetbaggers' From Outside 'Chiseling In'

Would Run Own Affairs

The New York State Colored Democratic League sent telegrams yesterday to Postmaster General James A. Farley and Senator Robert F. Wagner protesting against the selection of Robert L. Vann, publisher of "The Pittsburgh Courier" and former Assistant United States Attorney General, by Mr. Farley to manage the national campaign among Negroes.

The Colored Democratic League was organized last spring to assure local Negro Democrats of a voice in New York party councils during the campaign. They apprised Mr. Farley of their desire to take charge of their local affairs before and during the convention.

Sees Trouble for Farley

Herbert L. Bruce, Negro Tammany leader of the 21st Assembly District, also telegraphed to Mr. Farley and Senator Wagner, requesting an appointment with them to discuss the question of Negro leadership in the campaign, but he said he was ignored by the national chairman and the Senator. Bruce refused to attend the national convention because of discrimination against Negroes in the hotels in Philadelphia.

Commenting on the treatment of local Negro Democrats by Mr. Farley, Mr. Bruce said, "The National Democratic party is faced with a serious problem. New York Negroes will not submit to carpetbaggers from other states chiseling in on our organization, dictating to us and running the whole show for Jim Farley or anybody else. The colored Democrats in Harlem and the rest of the city and state have done more for the party and are better organized than any other groups in the country. We don't care who runs the show outside of the state, but we demand absolute control of New York and a share in the national set-up. If we don't get it, Mr. Farley will have plenty of trouble on his hands.

Strong for Local Tickets

Many Negro Democratic leaders in Harlem not only resent the fact that the national bosses ignored their requests to be permitted to manage the local campaign among the Negroes, but they are disgusted because Vann and his assistant, Julian D. Rainey, of Boston, were Republicans until a few years ago. Moreover, Vann and Rainey are looked upon as political opportunists, who have no organizations and who cannot deliver a single vote, except their own, in any election.

Although the Negroes in New York have voted the Democratic ticket in local elections for many years, they have not been as strong in their support of the national ticket because of the power of the South in the party. Many local colored Democrats have often gone into a polling booth with all intentions of casting their ballots for the Democratic nominees in a presidential election, only to change their mind at the last minute and vote the Republican ticket, because of their bitter resentment against the southern Democrats. In spite of the relief program of the national government, it has not removed in the least the rancor the Negroes hold against southern white Democratic leaders like Senators Ellison D. Smith and Thomas Connally.

The New York State Colored Democratic League is headed by Godfrey Nurse, Harlem physician. Herbert L. Bruce has thrown his entire district organization behind it. The league is organized in every county in the state, and some of its sponsors are Randall Tolliver, president of the Westchester County Democratic Club; Walter Reifer, leader of the Queens County United Colored Democratic Club; A. J. Smithaman, Erie County; Alex Corse, Nassau County; John Cheney, Greene County; Richard Sydnor, Dutchess County, and the Rev. H. J. Johnson, Tompkins County.

THE NEGRO AS AN ISSUE

Because a Negro minister delivered an invocation at the Philadelphia convention, because a Democratic Negro Congressman delivered an address in support of President Roosevelt, because there were some Negro delegates in the convention, "Cotton Ed." Smith, the South Carolina demagogue walked out of the convention.

Senator Joseph F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, was in the convention. He is a candidate for reelection and has two opponents. Such Carolina candidates for office speak in droves at county seats, in accordance with a provision of the law.

Recently two of Byrnes's opponents, in a joint meeting, asked him why he did not leave the convention, just as Smith did. Byrnes replied that he was appealing to the reason and not the prejudice of Carolinians—as if that would get a Carolina politician anywhere, especially when an ordinarily conservative and moderate newspaper like The Charleston News and Courier is devoting columns of editorial space to criticisms of Roosevelt because under him the Democratic party has alienated the Northern Negro vote from the Republicans for the first time in history.

In Georgia Gene Talmadge, contemplating his struggle with Dick Russell for the Senate, names "race equality" as one of the "issues".

We Southern Democrats are too low-down to go through a State political campaign without making the helpless Negro a scapegoat in a white man's contest.

Political—1936

Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

JEFFERSON RE-ELECTED HEAD OF NEGRO DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE; 300 IN ATTENDANCE

Beach Register 3-12-36

LOCAL DRUNKARDS ATTEMPT TO BREAK UP MEETING; POLICE QUIET THEM

Resolutions Adopted Asking Separation of Taft Institutions

Sixty members of the Negro Democratic State Central Committee, representing 38 counties, met in the Slaughter Hall Saturday, re-electing O. B. Jefferson, Oklahoma City, as the chairman of the organization.

More than 300 citizens and Democrats in the carious counties mingled with the members of the committee, and at the close of the sessions were served with beer, sandwiches and other delicacies of the season.

Trouble broke in the sessions when the credentials committee reported the name of J. J. Dawson as county chairman of Oklahoma county. About four drunk local fellows, who were supporting J. H. Broach, Luther, and who heads a rump Democratic club, created an uproar and sought to break up the sessions, but were quieted when officers appeared on the scene.

Dawson was seated as the county member of the Negro Democratic Central Committee. The fact that Dawson is also recognized by the County Democratic Central Committee placed Dawson in an unquestioned position of authority in Democratic circles in Oklahoma county.

Four other contests, coming d Seminole, iPttsburgh and sa counties, were easily set- i and harmony prevailed among delegates.

A spirited contest was stated between William Hazel, Boley and O. B. Jefferson, for the chairmanship. E. W. Tolliver, Ardmore, president of the Oklahoma League of Young Negro Democrats, presided, and was able after much spirited debate to conclude this phase of the work.

Hazel, following his defeat, was immediately upon his feet pledging himself to harmony and said that his only reason for running was an endeavor to cement the various factions. "I'm licked and I want to take the first step in the direction of harmony," declared Hazel.

Others who addressed the convention were Rev. D. C. Miller, Coalgate; W. M. Thomas, Cushing; Lon McNeal, Eufaula; Mrs. Josie Moton, Oklahoma City.

The convention went on record asking the Governor and the State Board of Affairs for "the removal of the Negro incorrigible girls from the grounds and campus of the orphans at Taft" and "the complete separation and control, supervision and administration of the Deaf, Blind and Orphan Institute from that of the State Hospital for Negro Insane."

The complete roster of officers follows:

O. B. Jefferson, Oklahoma City, chairman; Mrs. Pearl Howard, Langston, vice chairman; J. Henry Ferguson, Oklahoma City, secretary; W. E. Mitchell, Ardmore, treasurer.

Executive Committee: J. C. Evans, Okmulgee, chairman; Mrs. Ollie Randolph, Oklahoma City; C. R. Buford, Taft; Mrs. D. S. A. Davidson, Pauls Valley; W. R. Fields, Watonga; William Hazel, Boley; Henry House, Guthrie; A. R. Jefferson, Atoka; Rev. D. C. Miller, Coalgate; W. E. Mitchell, Ardmore; W. M. Phillips, Duncan; Rev. William Thomas, Cushing; E. W. Tolliver, Ardmore; E. W. Warrior, Checotah; F. R. Williams, Tulsa.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
March 6, 1936

Breckinridge Democrats

Colonel Henry Breckinridge, candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, speaking in Baltimore, denounced New Dealers as "political adventurers bent upon the destruction of American civilization." His platform calls for "the faithful performance of the repudiated covenants of the Democratic platform of 1932." Some of us Democrats in South Carolina would like to vote for a Democrat of the Breckinridge stamp, but we shall have no opportunity to do so. Mr. Roosevelt was for the primary in Kentucky, but his supporters are against it in South Carolina. Colonel Breckinridge is of Southern ancestry (the Kentucky Breckinridges), he is a graduate of Harvard, was a soldier in the World War and participated in battles, he is a Presbyterian and a distinguished lawyer. He will be voted for in primaries in Ohio and other states. In choosing a Democratic candidate for president the voice of a negro Democrat in Ohio counts for more than that of a white Democrat in South Carolina. The negro Democrats of Ohio will not vote for Breckinridge.

NEWS

Belleville, Ill

MAR 3 - 1936

Negro Politicians Would Drop Charge

A motion to quash the indictment was filed in circuit court late yesterday by three Negro Democratic politicians of Brooklyn, under indictment for conspiracy in connection with the school election last April.

The motion sets out seven reasons why the indictment should be quashed. It charges the indictment is insufficient at law, indefinite and states no charges but mere conclusions.

The three indicted are: Will Ward, committeeman in the village; George Calhoun, secretary of the Board of Education; and Alfred Campbell, member of the Board of Education.

TRUCE SEEN IN DEMOCRAT CLUB

Register 3-21-36

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 21—(Special)—Democrats of St. Joseph County gathered at an anniversary celebrating the founding of the club which was held in the Robert Johnson post American Legion Home which is located at 1521½ West Washington street. All differences were forgotten as the groups got together.

Douglas Coker presided as chairman of the meeting. Other participating were George D'Armond chairman of the program committee, and the Rev. R. B. Alexander who introduced Mr. Schock.

Cooperating organizations were the Colored Women's Democratic club and the Young Men's Colored Democratic club. Following the meeting, music for dancing was provided by the Hill orchestra. A luncheon was served.

The speakers of the evening were: George A. Schock, WPA attorney and former Democratic county chairman, and George N. Beamer, former city judge.

Mulberry, Fla., Press
March 5, 1936

Negro Democrats Will Hold Meeting in Tampa

Southern negro Democrats will meet in Tampa April 2 to celebrate the birthday of Thomas Jefferson and to hear speakers laud the federal Administration for its interest in advancing welfare of negroes. Tampa was selected for the convention because it was here that the first negro Democratic party of the South was organized.

Robert S. Vann, former attorney general and editor of the Pittsburgh Courier, has been invited as the principal speaker. The meeting will be held at the Apollo auditorium.

The committee in charge of arrangements comprises Dewey A Richardson, J. C. Howe, G. D Rodgers, R. L. Saunders and Dr J. J. Mallette.

NASHVILLE, TENN.
BANNER

MAY 22 1936

Negro Democrats Map Campaign

Tennessee's Negro Democrats planned an active campaign today following a recommendation by the State convention yesterday that Dr. William J. Thompkins, of Washington, D. C., president of the Baloteers Union, have charge of the drive. The local union, of which Benny Scales is chairman and composed of S. P. Hickman of Memphis and W. D. Allimono of Nashville, offered a resolution that would draft Thompkins for the work.

Composed of 7,262 members, the Tennessee organization was formed in 1928. Its officers are planning to have Dr. Thompkins speak in the larger cities of the State between now and August.

PATERSON, N. J.
NEWS

MAY 27 1936

Negro Democrats To Meet Tonight

A regular meeting of the First Ward Negro Democratic club will be held at headquarters, 19 North Main street, tonight. President Walter F. Barbour asks all members to attend.

1100 Democrats At Dinner Observe Cleveland Day

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—The most spectacular and vociferous demonstration in several decades occurred at the Fitzgerald Auditorium, Wednesday night, when Eugene W. Leggett, of the first ward was proposed by John P. Freeman as the next Democratic candidate for State Assemblyman. It was the occasion of the Cleveland Day dinner, over eleven hundred loyal Democratic workers gathering around the festive board in the spacious auditorium to partake of the nine course banquet served by Bud Wright and Alonzo Cadley. The dinner was sponsored by the Negro Democratic Clubs of Atlantic County.

Prominent speakers on a lengthy program were John P. Freeman, who spoke on "Roosevelt on Parade." Robert Carter, whose topic was "Life and Achievements of Cleveland"; State Senator Wm. H. Smathers chose "Equal Opportunity for the Negro," and Chas. I. Lafferty, county democratic leader who told of the improved civic betterments planned for the Northside. Eugene Leggett took "Cleveland and the March of Democracy" for his topic, while Mrs. Roberta Dixon held the attention of the throng on her masterful discourse on "The Progress of Negro Women." Other speakers were Mrs. Paulina Matthews Martin, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Miss Parthenia Tanner, Roland Peeler and Abe White.

Mr. Leggett, chairman of the executive committee of the clubs, presided. John P. Freeman, Reginald Pipes, Emmett Woodson, Harold S. Carr and Robert Carter were members of this committee.

An excellent musical program was rendered by the WPA orchestra directed by Maurice A. Williams.

Mrs. Margaret Leggett, wife of the chairman was presented with a basket of flowers by Mrs. Paulina Martin, on behalf of the ladies of the committee on arrangements.

PROMINENT GUESTS

Among the prominent Democrats attending the dinner were Chas. I. Lafferty, chairman of the Atlantic County Democratic Executive committee. Senator Wm. Smathers, City Commissioner Wm. F. Casye, Judge Robert L. Worke, Mrs. Mamie R. Stone, state committeewoman; Daniel Bell, state committeeman; Thomas C. Stewart, postmaster; Wm. Surran, chairman of the county board of elections; Mrs. Irene Popper, supervisor of WPA projects; Edward M. Hooker, Mrs. Irma Adams, Hammonton; Alfred Whitehead, secretary County Democratic committee; Edward J. O'Keefe, Howard Reed.

Representatives of County Democratic Clubs were Daniel Bedford, president of the Samuel Ward Club, first ward; and Mrs. Mary Pettus, president of the Ladies auxiliary; Earl Blake, president of the second ward club and Mrs. Ethel Johnson, president of the Ladies auxiliary, John Stewart, president of the third ward club and Mrs. Lola Smith, president of the Ladies auxiliary; Walter Williams, president of the Young Men's Progressive Club; Roland Peeler, president of the Golden Eagle Dem. club of Pleasantville; Abe White, president Farmington Dem. Club; Wewey Waters, leader Democratic Clubs of Egg Harbor City and Mrs. Dewey Waters, president of the Ladies auxiliary.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Working on the sub committee with the executive committee were Miss Parthenia Tanner, Mrs. Paulina Martin, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Mrs. B. B. Sousa, Mrs. Lola Smith, Mrs. Roberta Dixon, Mrs. Fannie Conquest, Mrs. Ethel Johnson, Mrs. Elizabeth Blake, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilkins.

William Walker, Daniel Bedford, Alfred Haughton, John Stewart, Jno. Morgan, Wilson Widgeon, Chester Russell, Preston Moore, Wm. E. Blake, Roland Peeler, Dewey Waters, Abe White, Wm. O. Price, Russell Catlett, Wm. Moseley, Edward Wilkins, Joseph S. Gauntt, Wm. Fitzgerald, James Hinton, Stewart Reeves, Benjamin Simms, Walter Williams, Emmett Woodson and Thomas Jackson.

—Cooking School April 22-24

Democratic Club Of South Kinloch

The Original Democratic Club of Kinloch, held its annual election Sunday, March 22, as follows: S. J. Vivian, President; Lee Vincent, Vice - President; Earl Simms, Secretary; Robert Smith, treasurer; Wm. Thomas, Sergeant - at - Arms; Advisory Board: Dr. W. R. Arthur, Wm. Jordan, Charles Held; Executive Committee: Willis Payne, chairman; William Cornish, Vice-Chairman; S. Johnson, William Tate, James Greer, Leslie Swaizey, Charles Magee; Entertainment Committee: A. Muldrow, M. Clay, G. White, A. Jackson, E. Nelson; Finance Committee—George Jordan, chairman; William Ingo, L. C. Simpson; Membership Committee: Harold Oglesby, chairman, W. Hughes, J. Turner.

Next meeting will be held at 3:00 p. m., March 29, at Tabernacle Baptist Church on Carson Road.

MARION COUNTY DEMOCRATS TO HOLD BANQUET

Who's who in Democratic circles among local sepia politicians will be uncovered in a big spread among the regulars of Marion County next Thursday night at the Walker Casino when the Mayor of Indianapolis, supported by a number of gubernatorial candidates will appear in a speaker's role.

The committee completed plans to entertain the first 1,000 loyal party supporters to arrive; the purpose as is outlined, will be to inform the delegates of the various problems which the voter faces and introduce the candidates many of whom will be present.

The speakers on the program are: John W. Kern, Mayor and the following candidates for governor, E. Kirk McKinney, Pleas Greenlee, and Clifford M. Townsend, Lt. Governor. The committee invited these particular candidates in order that they might throw some light on their personal stand towards the Negro of Indiana.

It is freely stated that this banquet meeting will be the biggest political affair in the history of Marion County from the stand point of early predictions. Many folk are making their reservations now.

Another angle the group plans to take up will be registration of qualified voters in order that few if any votes will be lost because of residence in any precinct. Job holder, officials, workers, and party supporters are falling in line to help the body put forth its best effort to elect the entire Democratic ticket next fall from the president down to the smallest office.

With F. B. Ransom as general chairman of arrangements, and Dr. B. J. Osborne, general secretary, those helping to put over the banquet are as follows on committees:

Decorations: Grant Hawkins, chairman; Edna Young, Minnie Turner, Ethel Ealy, Marie Long.

Reception: Mercer Mance, James Hill, Joe Harris, Mildred Nelson, Vergie Dunville, Clarence Stewart, Edwin Knox, Clarence Turner, Carolyn Hill, Henry Walker, Cleota Alexander, Thomas Hibbitt, John Streets, Glasgow Knox, Lucinda Lightfoot, Grace Owens, Bernice Fuqua, J. Wallace Hall, R. B. H. Smith.

Banquet Arrangements: Dr. Sirdastian Meriwether, chairman; Leo Chavers, Marian Grubbs, Herschel Williams, Averett Corley, W. J. West, Chas. Monger, Chas. Epps, Luella Gilmore, Susie Knox, Elizabeth Douglass.

Publicity: Edward Kelseau, chairman; Vernon Anderson, Archie Ransom, John Medders, Vernon Johnson, Lee Johnson.

Invitations: Mrs. J. T. V. Hill, chairman, Wm. Wooden, Eugene Armstrong, Alonzo Mitchell, Henry Walker, Marian Grubbs, Elizabeth Douglas, B. J. Johnson, Marie Long, Bessie Allen, Frances Roby, William Hawkins, Henry R. Wilson, Jr., Vernon Anderson, Sirdastian Meriwether, Benjamine Osborne.

T. Fisher Heads FDR Campaign Locally

Journal and Guide Bureau

NEWPORT NEWS, Va.—Hugh T. Clark, state chairman of the National Colored Democratic League has appointed Attorney T. W. Fisher local campaign manager of the Roosevelt-Garner Campaign drive. City headquarters are located at 2501 Jefferson Avenue, Senate Building, room two.

During the months of September and October renowned political speakers will be presented to this community by the Colored Democratic League.

Ohio Dem. Leaders Gather At Capital To Greet Governor

Columbus, O., April 13.—Through the Ohio State Demoratic League, whose membership is composed of the Negro Democrats of Ohio, Govevrnor Martin L. Davey entertained in his office in the State Capital leading Negro Democrats from the entire state.

Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom of the A. M. E. church of Ohio who acted as master of ceremonies told Governor Davey that "the Negroes of Ohio were not unmindful of the many things he as Governor had done for the race and that appreciation would be demonstrated when the voters went to the polls on election day.

Among some of the things enumerated were the many appointments he gave to members of the group. Briefly they are: Liquor inspectors, Old Age examiners, and Insurance inspector, Assistant publicity director, an assistant physician at the Ohio Penitentiary, inspector of Cosmethology(woman); foremen on Highway department, hundreds of workmen on highways, inspectors of highway, aside from retaining most all of the appointees inherited from a previous Democratic administration.

This meeting heralded an occasion never before seen in the history of Negro Democracy in Ohio. Sixty representative men and women from throughout the state paying homage to the most democratic Governor Ohio has ever had. Cincinnati sent Dr. Lee E. Payne, John N. Brooks, William B. Wallace, William Laws, James C. Seymour, Miss Dora Goodlett, Mr. James Jackson, Mrs. Marian Hubbard, Carlisle Hughes and Randall Moss. Wilberforce University sent Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom, Steward Ransom and Paris V. Sterrett.

From Cleveland: Charles Carr, Thomas Davis, Eugene Richardson, Lawrence Dooley, S. C. McAllister, A. H. Martin, John W. Carmack, and Jesse Owens. From Columbus, E. B. Paxton, Joseph L. Bowman, George Christian, Dr. Harold F. H. Dickinson, Miss Emma Girdy, Joseph Leatherbury, B. F. Steward, Percy D. Jones, Frank Shearer and Percy L. Jones.

Oberlin: James Godette; Lorain, Herbert Towles; Newark, B. C. Cunningham; Portsmouth, C. L. Ross, while from Washington, D. C., came Dr. Eugene Brown.

Toledo sent a delegation composed of Dr. F. S. Randolph, Dr. Eugene D. Clark, Joseph Wilson, Edward Hunt, Milton Senior, Benjamin Andrews and Benjamin H. Fisher. Mrs. Sarah Green from Springfield, and C. L. Scott from Lima.

Following the meeting in the afternoon a cabaret party was held in the beautiful grill room of the Litchford hotel where more than two hundred enjoyed the evening. Several acts sent by the local night clubs sandwiched themselves between dance numbers furnished by Earl Hoods splendid radio and dance band.

Democratic.

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation

THE CITY DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY BAR

The city democratic committee has met and fixed a date of the city primary election to be held November 7th. Thus far no public statement has been made as to lifting the traditional bar against Negro participation.

Negro Labor News
10-24-36
Houston, Texas

It is paradoxical that some of Houston's and Texas' most outstanding citizens and political leaders are touring the nation aiding in the country's most spectacular fight for a more liberal "democratic form of government" and are especially interested in the re-election of President Roosevelt on his interest in the "forgotten man" platform, and yet over ten thousand qualified voters and taxpayers will be barred from participation in the city democratic primary which is tantamount to the election of all city officers. The sole reason is that these voters are black. It has been discovered recently that hundreds of mulatto Negroes are voting in closely contested primary elections. Several candidates, it is reported, have been elected by this type of vote.

The white primary is a political device and is created for and used effectively in the disfranchisement of Negro citizens. With the exception of Houston and Beaumont, the larger cities in Texas do not conduct partisan primary elections. Negroes exercise their rights of suffrage at San Antonio, Galveston, Dallas, Fort Worth and Port Arthur. In all of these cities progress and better racial relation are rapidly improving.

There is no denying of the fact that the disfranchisement of the Negroes in Houston has a definite effect upon the economic, civic and general living conditions of the race. By not having right of suffrage has been responsible for so few Negroes being employed in any department of a city government notwithstanding the fact that the race represents approximately 25 percent of the population. Negroes are denied membership in practically all unions and in many instances there is an unfair assessment of property and unequal distribution of municipal funds. The living conditions among Negroes are said to be worse than any city in the entire country. The streets are unpaved and neglected; inadequate lighting of residential sections, lack of sanitation, certain sections without sewerage, no provisions made for parks, playgrounds, recreational centers, etc., are some of the evils the race lay to city primary.

One of the outstanding candidates in the city election is Richard H. Fonville, a well-known druggist and former president of the Houston School Board. As president of the School Board, Mr. Fonville gained the confidence and respect of the leading Negroes by his fair play and liberal policies toward providing for Negro education. The Negro vote in trustee election played a part in returning him to office as long as he desired. Had these Negroes not been denied the right to vote, no doubt, Mr. Fonville would have been mayor of Houston two years ago. The election was lost only by 580 votes and there are more than that number of Negro school teachers eligible to vote.

In times like these, when mad politicians are doing every conceivable thing to get in power, who knows that if Mr. Fonville is nominated in the city primary that he will not have to enter a contest with some influential independent candidate who may not be able to serve and preserve the best interest of our city as well as Mr. Fonville. What will be the alternative for the Negro? Could any self-respecting Negro support Mr. Fonville in the general election after being denied the right to vote for him in the primary?

It might be expedient for the fair-minded white citizens of Houston who stand for justice and fair play, for better racial relations, and the preservation of our constitutional form of government, to help unshackle the Negro citizens by working for the abrogation of the democratic city primary. By denying the Negro the right to vote leaves him with no weapon to protect himself as a citizen and is creating a spirit of hatred between the majority and minority groups which is smouldering fire at all times.

We Stand With Roosevelt

AN EDITORIAL

FOUR years ago the JOURNAL AND GUIDE expressed confidence in FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT'S intentions to do something for the "forgotten man" in American life, and accordingly supported him for the Presidency. After three years and seven months of Mr. ROOSEVELT'S leadership and direction of government we are convinced that it would be a grave mistake to take the reins of government from his hands at the expiration of his first term.

Journal & Guide
10-31-36
Norfolk, Va.

We believe that four years more of ROOSEVELT'S leadership, and of the application of his political, social and economic philosophy to the treatment of our national problems will be good for all of the American people.

We concede that the New Deal, formulated by Mr. ROOSEVELT, has not been a wholly successful process. Like Christianity, and other religions and philosophies underlying the approximation of social justice, the New Deal has never been fully tried.

Even where the technicalities of our organic law did not intervene to abort the New Deal process. fixed customs, unwritten laws, class prejudice, evasion and circumvention operated to prevent it from giving all of the American people a horizontal lift in living standards and relief from economic insecurity. Under the very nature of our government, with its delegation of power to states and municipalities with their varied sectional political traditions and dogmas, Mr. ROOSEVELT was powerless to make the New Deal as effectve as he intended it to be.

Its failure to function for all the people was not due to any dereliction on Mr. ROOSEVELT'S part. Where failure has occurred it has been due to obstructions erected by powerful financial and political groups, whose exercise of special privileges and whose continued control of the sources of wealth, and whose power to continue the exploitation of the working classes and underprivileged people depended upon their control of government.

Despite these obstructions, set up by the privileged classes, the New Deal has been remarkably successful in saving from ruin, not only the great common people of America, but their common enemy, the privileged classes themselves.

Having been saved from ruin the latter classes are once more secure in their wealth and power, and fear that they will be called upon to pay in just taxation for their salvation. Wishing to shift the burden of taxes back to where it has always rested—upon the bended backs of consumers—they are now violently opposing President ROOSEVELT. We are supporting him primarily because they are opposing him, and because their return to power, will bring to the common people and the underprivileged people of America a return to the so-called "American way of life"; a system of exploitation that brought them to the brink of ruin; that took away their jobs; that reduced their wages; that put their homes and farms in jeopardy and placed millions of these on the auction block; that caused them to lose their savings in banks and building and loan associations; that depreciated their mortgage notes and bonds; that turned peace and contentment into a state of panic and raised the hideous spectre of revolution.

Now that he has, in a large measure, revitalized business, lifted agriculture and industry out of the dumps, made bank deposits safe; made home ownership possible once more and restored confidence in government we see no good reason why he should not be given another four years in the White House. ROOSEVELT'S way is the better "American way of life."

We stand with ROOSEVELT.

Democratic.

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation

THE CITY DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY BAR

The city democratic committee has met and fixed a date of the city primary election to be held November 7th. Thus far no public statement has been made as to lifting the traditional bar against Negro participation.

It is paradoxical that some of Houston's and Texas' most outstanding citizens and political leaders are touring the nation aiding in the country's most spectacular fight for a more liberal "democratic form of government" and are especially interested in the re-election of President Roosevelt on his interest in the "forgotten man" platform, and yet over ten thousand qualified voters and taxpayers will be barred from participation in the city democratic primary which is tantamount to the election of all city officers. The sole reason is that these voters are black. It has been discovered recently that hundreds of mulatto Negroes are voting in closely contested primary elections. Several candidates, it is reported, have been elected by this type of vote.

The white primary is a political device and is created for and used effectively in the disfranchisement of Negro citizens. With the exception of Houston and Beaumont, the larger cities in Texas do not conduct partisan primary elections. Negroes exercise their rights of suffrage at San Antonio, Galveston, Dallas, Fort Worth and Port Arthur. In all of these cities progress and better racial relation are rapidly improving.

There is no denying of the fact that the disfranchisement of the Negroes in Houston has a definite effect upon the economic, civic and general living conditions of the race. By not having right of suffrage has been responsible for so few Negroes being employed in any department of a city government notwithstanding the fact that the race represents approximately 25 percent of the population. Negroes are denied membership in practically all unions and in many instances there is an unfair assessment of property and unequal distribution of municipal funds. The living conditions among Negroes are said to be worse than any city in the entire country. The streets are unpaved and neglected; inadequate lighting of residential sections, lack of sanitation, certain sections without sewerage, no provisions made for parks, playgrounds, recreational centers, etc., are some of the evils the race lay to city primary.

One of the outstanding candidates in the city election is Richard H. Fonville, a well-known druggist and former president of the Houston School Board. As president of the School Board, Mr. Fonville gained the confidence and respect of the leading Negroes by his fair play and liberal policies toward providing for Negro education. The Negro vote in trustee election played a part in returning him to office as long as he desired. Had these Negroes not been denied the right to vote, no doubt, Mr. Fonville would have been mayor of Houston two years ago. The election was lost only by 580 votes and there are more than that number of Negro school teachers eligible to vote.

In times like these, when mad politicians are doing every conceivable thing to get in power, who knows that if Mr. Fonville is nominated in the city primary that he will not have to enter a contest with some influential independent candidate who may not be able to serve and preserve the best interest of our city as well as Mr. Fonville. What will be the alternative for the Negro? Could any self-respecting Negro support Mr. Fonville in the general election after being denied the right to vote for him in the primary?

It might be expedient for the fair-minded white citizens of Houston who stand for justice and fair play, for better racial relations, and the preservation of our constitutional form of government, to help unshackle the Negro citizens by working for the abrogation of the democratic city primary. By denying the Negro the right to vote leaves him with no weapon to protect himself as a citizen and is creating a spirit of hatred between the majority and minority groups which is smouldering fire at all times.

We Stand With Roosevelt

AN EDITORIAL

FOUR years ago the JOURNAL AND GUIDE expressed confidence in FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT'S intentions to do something for the "forgotten man" in American life, and accordingly supported him for the Presidency. After three years and seven months of Mr. ROOSEVELT'S leadership and direction of government we are convinced that it would be a grave mistake to take the reins of government from his hands at the expiration of his first term.

We believe that four years more of ROOSEVELT'S leadership, and of the application of his political, social and economic philosophy to the treatment of our national problems will be good for all of the American people.

We concede that the New Deal, formulated by Mr. ROOSEVELT, has not been a wholly successful process. Like Christianity, and other religions and philosophies underlying the approximation of social justice, the New Deal has never been fully tried.

Even where the technicalities of our organic law did not intervene to abort the New Deal process. fixed customs, unwritten laws, class prejudice, evasion and circumvention operated to prevent it from giving all of the American people a horizontal lift in living standards and relief from economic insecurity. Under the very nature of our government, with its delegation of power to states and municipalities with their varied sectional political traditions and dogmas, Mr. ROOSEVELT was powerless to make the New Deal as effectve as he intended it to be.

Its failure to function for all the people was not due to any dereliction on Mr. ROOSEVELT'S part. Where failure has occurred it has been due to obstructions erected by powerful financial and political groups, whose exercise of special privileges and whose continued control of the sources of wealth, and whose power to continue the exploitation of the working classes and underprivileged people depended upon their control of government.

Despite these obstructions, set up by the privileged classes, the New Deal has been remarkably successful in saving from ruin, not only the great common people of America, but their common enemy, the privileged classes themselves.

Having been saved from ruin the latter classes are once more secure in their wealth and power, and fear that they will be called upon to pay in just taxation for their salvation. Wishing to shift the burden of taxes back to where it has always rested—upon the bended backs of consumers—they are now violently opposing President ROOSEVELT. We are supporting him primarily because they are opposing him, and because their return to power, will bring to the common people and the underprivileged people of America a return to the so-called "American way of life"; a system of exploitation that brought them to the brink of ruin; that took away their jobs; that reduced their wages; that put their homes and farms in jeopardy and placed millions of these on the auction block; that caused them to lose their savings in banks and building and loan associations; that depreciated their mortgage notes and bonds; that turned peace and contentment into a state of panic and raised the hideous spectre of revolution.

Now that he has, in a large measure, revitalized business, lifted agriculture and industry out of the dumps, made bank deposits safe; made home ownership possible once more and restored confidence in government we see no good reason why he should not be given an-four years in the White House. ROOSEVELT'S way is the better erican way of life."

We stand with ROOSEVELT.

"Sunflowers Will Die in November When the Ballots Begin to Fall" Is New Harlem Theme Song

Darker Manhattan Predicts a New Deal Landslide as Election Day Nears; Roosevelt Still Tops in AFRO Straw Vote.

New York

	This Week	Previous Total	Total
Roosevelt	423	308	731
Landon	159	114	273
Browder	11	1	12
Thomas	9	0	9

NEW YORK — Harlem's theme song, "Sunflowers Die in November," took on the aspect of wishful thinking this week, a corps of AFRO reporters conducting a street straw poll on the Presidential election discovered as Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal proved almost three to one favorites to win in the colored section of Manhattan.

At the close of four weeks of polling during which 1,025 Harlemites were questioned, the Democratic candidate was found to have received a total of 731 votes.

The Republican candidate, Alfred M. Landon, was second with 273 votes, Earl Browder, Communist candidate received 12 and Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate, 9.

One for Lemke

William Lemke, Union party candidate, whose name was ruled off the ballots in New York State last week, received one vote during the four weeks' polling.

Polls were taken at various points along Lenox, Seventh and Eighth Avenues in New York and Along Dean, Pacific and Fulton Streets in Brooklyn.

Rout GOP Speakers

Indications that the AFRO poll is a pretty accurate forecast of the actual voting which will take place next Tuesday were seen in the general attitude of local residents, who, on several occasions have evinced hostility to Republican sound trucks and caravans which have invaded Harlem.

Sound trucks parked along Seventh and Lenox Avenues remained more or less unnoticed as recordings of popular bands blared from the loud speakers, but as soon as those in charge changed to political anti-New Deal speeches, passersby and tenants of neighboring houses started booing loudly and admonishing the truck attendants to "get away with that bunk."

The strenuous open air campaigning of both major parties in the Harlem districts, coupled with the fact that the local registration is reported to have been fully twice as large as any before, were felt to give promise that the election next Tuesday will be a very bitter one.

Although issuing the usual pre-election predictions of victory, Harlem Republican headquarters had little else to say. Democratic leaders, however, expressed jubilant confidence, in some quarters, openly expressing the opinion that F. D. would win in a landslide.

Jesse Gets Poor Hand

A strong indication of Roosevelt's strength in Harlem was seen at the Brown Bombers' football game, last Sunday at Dyckman Oval when Jesse Owens, Olympic star, who has been publicized as a Landon supporter, met with a rather cool reception despite the fact that he was present as guest of honor and made the kickoff of the game.

Hecklers in the bleachers yelled, "Jesse is trying to keep Roosevelt beefsteaks out of Harlem." The crowd roared, and Jesse looked embarrassed.

Impromptu music has entered the campaign and street corner crowds are singing election ditties to popular tunes which get laughs from crowds on the corners.

Sunflower Song

One of the gayest of Harlem campaigners is a well-known local character who attracted a crowd at the corner of 125th Street and Lenox Avenue, singing the following parody which he was selling at five cents a sheet:

Sunflowers will die in November
When the ballots begin to fall;
Because we shall remember
What Roosevelt did for us all.

He found us hungry and gave us relief,
He gave us gladness where Hoover left grief;
He gave us jobs and he gave us repeal;
That's why we're voting for the New Deal.

Landon Bridge Falling Down

Another ditty that got a laugh was "Landon Bridge Is Fallin' Down." It goes:

I know that I shall never see
A party like the G.O.P.
They took our jobs and starved us out,
Until we gave Hoover the rout.
Now that depression's on the wane,
They ask us to put them back again.
Knox, Knox! Who's there? Landon.
Landon who?
Landon bridge is fallin' down,
fallin' down, fallin' down,
Landon bridge is fallin' down on election day.

Give Reasons

Hundreds of Harlem voters gave the AFRO reasons for supporting the various candidates. Some of their statements follow:

MISS ALICE THOMAS, 416 Convent Avenue: "Roosevelt in 1932 and in 1936. Because of his ability."

WILLIAM H. BIGGS, 208 W. 111th Street, retired postal clerk: "I am for Landon. Business will be benefited by a change."

Deserves Second Chance

THE REV. D. WARD NICHOLS, 209 Edgecombe Avenue: "Roosevelt is my choice, because he is a man of the common people and deserves another chance."

MRS. PEARL ESPOSA, 2340 Seventh Avenue: "Landon. I think he is the best man."

ROY JACKSON, 213 W. 135th Street, cook: "Roosevelt. I got something out of him."

EDGAR BLACK, 1451 Fifth Avenue, porter: "Roosevelt. He has caused me to earn a few more cents with shorter hours at work."

Two Brothers in CCC

FRED LARKINS, 63 W. 115th Street, handy man: "Roosevelt. He gave my two brothers a job in CCC camps. In 1932 I voted for Hoover."

CHARLES W. MITCHELL, 574 St. Nicholas Avenue, former minister to Liberia: "Landon is the best man for the job."

RANDOLPH EDWARDS, 68 W. 139th Street, barber: "Roosevelt—When he went into office the breadline went into oblivion."

INEZ WILSON, 200 W. 135th Street, WPA co-ordinator: "Roosevelt, because he offers the best policies, a happy medium between radicalism and conservatism."

ALLENE WILLIAMS, 2399 Seventh Avenue, hairdresser: "Roosevelt. I just like him."

Has Helped Country

WILLIAM BROWN, 239 W. 141st Street, barber: "Roosevelt. He has helped the country more than any other President."

ALMA TILLMAN, 2581 Eighth Avenue, manicurist: "Roosevelt, because it appears to me things are better since he was made President."

MAUDE EDMEAD, 218 W. 63rd Street, field worker: "Roosevelt—Struggling against innumerable odds, Roosevelt has treated new conditions not according to precedent, but as they presented themselves."

WIN CARROLL, 2268 E. 87th Street: "Roosevelt—America! Why change?"

Hates Tugwell

RAYMOND ALDRIDGE, 316 W. 142nd Street, porter: "I'm for Landon. He is the better man and I want to get rid of Tugwell."

For Landon

MRS. PEARL ALDRIDGE, 316 W. 142nd Street: "I'm for Landon. I believe he will carry out his pledges."

CHARLES BALTIMORE, 413 W. 142nd Street, business man: "Landon, because he is the best man. Under this administration my business cannot progress. In 1932 I voted for Hoover."

ARNOLD VORAY, 220 W. 178th Street, salesman: "Roosevelt, because he has been the Negro's greatest benefactor since Lincoln."

Roosevelt Tried

DR. HYACINTH A. DAVIS, 203 W. 136th Street, physician: "Roosevelt. Whatever may be his shortcomings he honestly tried to aid the masses sorely hit by the depression."

C. A. AUSTIN, 153 W. 142nd Street, journalist: "Roosevelt. The Roosevelt system is the best suited to the economic situation facing us."

GEORGE HENDERSON, 2581 Eighth Avenue, shoe shiner: "Roosevelt. He did a lot for poor people. He will continue to do more."

CHESTER HAUGHTON, 300 W. 140th Street, barber: "Roosevelt, simply because things look brighter since he has been in office."

Bartender Talks

M. RUFFOLO, Washington Heights, bartender: "I am for Roosevelt. My reason is I'm a Democrat."

ANTHONY FERGUSON, 2228 Seventh Avenue: "Put me down for Roosevelt. He saved America from a revolution."

MRS. BESSIE BROWN, 65 W. 143rd Street, housewife: "I am for Landon because his policy towards the Negro is the best."

MISS MOZELLA H. BRANSFORD, 140 W. 139th Street, beautician, unemployed: "I am tired of taxation without representation. We pay for relief with taxes. I want Landon."

Too Many Reasons

THOMAS McGILL, 2370 Seventh Avenue, chauffeur: "I'm for Roosevelt and have too many reasons to explain."

THERON HAMILTON, 210 W. 135th Street, messenger: "I am for Roosevelt. When in Rome do as the Romans do. I'm in New York City and New York is for Roosevelt."

MISS THELMA MORELAND, 234 W. 142nd Street, clerk: "I prefer Roosevelt. He has proven his ability to manage national as well as international affairs. In 1932 I voted for F. D. Roosevelt."

IRVIN YOUNG, 550 W. 172nd Street: "I am for Landon because I want to vote for Judge Bleakly for governor and I don't want to split my ticket."

Democratic

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation

Clanton, Ala., Banner
July 23, 1936

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND THE NEGRO

For two-thirds of a century now the Democratic party has wielded a black bludgeon with which to club into submission the white electorate of the South. In fact, the Democratic party in the South has maintained its very existence through fanning the fires of race hatred, through appeals to passion and prejudice. It has posed as the champion of racial purity, even though the practices of some of its individual members have been strangely at variance with that pose. It has proclaimed itself the defender of Anglo-Saxon rule, overlooking the fact that in the North it is the party of the alien and the radical. It has consistently used the black man as a bludgeon to coerce the voter and has sought to brand as outcasts and traitors to the blood all who have dared to oppose it. It has never to this good day hesitated to resort to an appeal to the baser passions of man, where the appeal to reason has failed.

Today, with the 1936 presidential campaign getting under way, we are being treated to a strange and startling spectacle. The old familiar bludgeon appears to have been laid aside, until after election day at least; and in its place, a caressing hand has been laid on the shoulder of the hitherto despised black brother. It appears that we may actually go through a national election in Alabama without hearing much, if anything, about the heel of the Ethiopian on the neck of the Caucasian, and all the old familiar bedtime stories hitherto used to scare the faithful into the fold.

What is the meaning of it all? Does it indicate a real outpouring of brotherly love, a Christian spirit of tolerance, of peace on earth, good will to men? Sad to say, we fear it does not. It simply signifies that the Democratic party has hopes of garnering in some black votes in the North, and is trimming its sails accordingly. The Socialistic doctrines of the New Deal have found a ready response among the radical fringe of the negro race, as of the white. Now that it scents an opportunity of utilizing the black man to further its political aims, the Democratic party suddenly discovers, or pretends to discover that it has been mistaken all along about the Black peril. It seems that the negro is a menace only so long as he is not a Democrat; let him vote "right", and he becomes, as a race, worthy of the love and affection of the Democrats. So we witness the strange spectacle of even Southern Democrats flirting openly with their former untouchables. All the proud boasts and noble fulminations about white supremacy and protecting our homes and firesides from the Ethiopian menace—all cast to the winds for the sake of some black ballots in Harlem and Chicago.

There was something pathetic in the walk-out of Senator Ed Smith from the Philadelphia convention. From that great gathering of the host of democracy, with its colored preacher praying, its colored Congressman orating amidst wild applause its colored delegates stamping, strode forth this solitary figure from the Palmetto State, sole surviving white hope, although symbolizing the departure of a dead tradition, a lost ideal. There were no cheers for this futile gesture; on the contrary, fellow Democrats rushed into print to condemn a course of action which they would have been first to applaud, in the days before they found it expedient to grease and swallow the Senegambian.

Even the esteemed Montgomery Advertiser, whose editor sat in that convention with his black brother Democrats, has since carried an editorial branding the discredited Carolinian as a demagogue. Said the Advertiser sarcastically, "We Southern Democrats are too low down to go through a State political campaign without making the helpless negro a scapegoat in a white man's contest."

The Advertiser should know well whereof it speaks, for it is only a few short years since its columns were opened to appeals to race hatred in the effort to defeat Hoover. Only yesterday the Advertiser sounded the old battlecry, and Democratic orators depicted the horrors to come if the black man should be allowed to get out of hand. Among these orators applauded by the Democracy of Alabama, was the unspeakable Bilbo, who repeated in this state the base libel against Hoover, charging him with having danced with a negress. Today, the old battle flag is furled, and the Advertiser and its ally, The Birmingham News, unite to denounce Senator Smith for daring to uphold the dying traditions of a decaying Democracy.

So the Democratic Party wipes out the color line within its own ranks and stands forth to do battle on the issues of the campaign. We believe that time will show this to be a mistaken step, and that the negro votes gained in Northern States will be dearly bought. For the white people of the South are conservative at heart, and as between the radicalism of Roosevelt and the Americanism of Landon, there is no question where they belong. History will show that when the Democratic party took over the negro, it signed its own death warrant in these Southern States. For, however much we may decry the use of the black bludgeon, it was undeniably effective, and with it laid aside the Democracy of the South is left disarmed and ineffective.

Southern white men and women are coming more and more to realize that, while the radical doctrines of the New Deal are a menace in the nation as a whole, they are particularly dangerous in the South with our large illiterate colored population. Before going to the polls in November, every Southern white man should ask himself, and answer for himself: What party or group today, in 1936, is contributing most to racial unrest and bad feeling and future trouble in the South? Every Southerner who is honest with himself knows the answer.

The greatest menace to Southern institutions today lies in the twin perils of the New Deal and Communism. For three years and more, agents of the New Deal have been spreading discontent among the idle and shiftless negro element, making them believe that the world owes them a living, that they should depend on the next "draw" on relief rations rather than honest work. The New Deal emissaries have prepared a fertile field for the seed of Communism, whose stealthy agents are abroad in the South, sowing the doctrines of armed revolt and bloodshed and racial intermixture. Whether intentionally or accidentally, the "parlor pinks" of Mr. Roosevelt and the straight red disciples of Lenin and Stalin are working hand in hand in the South, a fact apparent to any observant Southerner.

As for the Republican party, it does not conceive it to be the function of government to support in idleness either lazy and shiftless negroes, or lazy and shiftless whites. In the South, as in the nation as a whole, the Republican party stands forth as the great bulwark against the encroachments of the socialist Roosevelt, who would enrich the slothful by robbing the thrifty through class legislation, and the Communist Foster who would go just a step further and plunge us into the throes of class revolution.

POCATELLO, IDAHO
TRIBUNE
JUL 26 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATIC CLUB HOLDS MEET

The Negro Democratic club of Pocatello met at 654 N. Fifth Thursday night with William Jones presiding and a large attendance.

All members were reported much interested in the coming primary and general elections and several made short talks. Business was completed and another meeting called for next Monday at 8:30 p. m.

Officers of the organization include Ira Harrison, secretary, and William Jones, president. Jones reported general cooperation of the entire organization.

Democratic

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation

Clanton, Ala., Banner
July 23, 1936

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND THE NEGRO

For two-thirds of a century now the Democratic party has wielded a black bludgeon with which to club into submission the white electorate of the South. In fact, the Democratic party in the South has maintained its very existence through fanning the fires of race hatred, through appeals to passion and prejudice. It has posed as the champion of racial purity, even though the practices of some of its individual members have been strangely at variance with that pose. It has proclaimed itself the defender of Anglo-Saxon rule, overlooking the fact that in the North it is the party of the alien and the radical. It has consistently used the black man as a bludgeon to coerce the voter and has sought to brand as outcasts and traitors to the blood all who have dared to oppose it. It has never to this good day hesitated to resort to an appeal to the baser passions of man, where the appeal to reason has failed.

Today, with the 1936 presidential campaign getting under way, we are being treated to a strange and startling spectacle. The old familiar bludgeon appears to have been laid aside, until after election day at least; and in its place, a caressing hand has been laid on the shoulder of the hitherto despised black brother. It appears that we may actually go through a national election in Alabama without hearing much, if anything, about the heel of the Ethiopian on the neck of the Caucasian, and all the old familiar bedtime stories hitherto used to scare the faithful into the fold.

What is the meaning of it all? Does it indicate a real outpouring of brotherly love, a Christian spirit of tolerance, of peace on earth, good will to men? Sad to say, we fear it does not. It simply signifies that the Democratic party has hopes of garnering in some black votes in the North, and is trimming its sails accordingly. The Socialistic doctrines of the New Deal have found a ready response among the radical fringe of the negro race, as of the white. Now that it scents an opportunity of utilizing the black man to further its political aims, the Democratic party suddenly discovers, or pretends to discover that it has been mistaken all along about the Black peril. It seems that the negro is a menace only so long as he is not a Democrat; let him vote "right", and he becomes, as a race, worthy of the love and affection of the Democrats. So we witness the strange spectacle of even Southern Democrats flirting openly with their former untouchables. All the proud boasts and noble fulminations about white supremacy and protecting our homes and firesides from the Ethiopian menace—all cast to the winds for the sake of some black ballots in Harlem and Chicago.

There was something pathetic in the walk-out of Senator Ed Smith from the Philadelphia convention. From that great gathering of the host of democracy, with its colored preacher praying, its colored Congressman orating amidst wild applause its colored delegates stamping, strode forth this solitary figure from the Palmetto State, sole surviving white hope, although symbolizing the departure of a dead tradition, a lost ideal. There were no cheers for this futile gesture; on the contrary, fellow Democrats rushed into print to condemn a course of action which they would have been first to applaud, in the days before they found it expedient to grease and swallow the Senegambian.

Even the esteemed Montgomery Advertiser, whose editor sat in that convention with his black brother Democrats, has since carried an editorial branding the discredited Carolinian as a demagogue. Said the Advertiser sarcastically, "We Southern Democrats are too low down to go through a State political campaign without making the helpless negro a scapegoat in a white man's contest."

The Advertiser should know well whereof it speaks, for it is only a few short years since its columns were opened to appeals to race hatred in the effort to defeat Hoover. Only yesterday the Advertiser sounded the old battlecry, and Democratic orators depicted the horrors to come if the black man should be allowed to get out of hand. Among these orators applauded by the Democracy of Alabama, was the unspeakable Bilbo, who repeated in this state the base libel against Hoover, charging him with having danced with a negress. Today, the old battle flag is furled, and the Advertiser and its ally, The Birmingham News, unite to denounce Senator Smith for daring to uphold the dying traditions of a decaying Democracy.

So the Democratic Party wipes out the color line within its own ranks and stands forth to do battle on the issues of the campaign. We believe that time will show this to be a mistaken step, and that the negro votes gained in Northern States will be dearly bought. For the white people of the South are conservative at heart, and as between the radicalism of Roosevelt and the Americanism of Landon, there is no question where they belong. History will show that when the Democratic party took over the negro, it signed its own death warrant in these Southern States. For, however much we may decry the use of the black bludgeon, it was undeniably effective, and with it laid aside the Democracy of the South is left disarmed and ineffective.

Southern white men and women are coming more and more to realize that, while the radical doctrines of the New Deal are a menace in the nation as a whole, they are particularly dangerous in the South with our large illiterate colored population. Before going to the polls in November, every Southern white man should ask himself, and answer for himself: What party or group today, in 1936, is contributing most to racial unrest and bad feeling and future trouble in the South? Every Southerner who is honest with himself knows the answer.

The greatest menace to Southern institutions today lies in the twin perils of the New Deal and Communism. For three years and more, agents of the New Deal have been spreading discontent among the idle and shiftless negro element, making them believe that the world owes them a living, that they should depend on the next "draw" on relief rations rather than honest work. The New Deal emissaries have prepared a fertile field for the seed of Communism, whose stealthy agents are abroad in the South, sowing the doctrines of armed revolt and bloodshed and racial intermixture. Whether intentionally or accidentally, the "parlor pinks" of Mr. Roosevelt and the straight red disciples of Lenin and Stalin are working hand in hand in the South, a fact apparent to any observant Southerner.

As for the Republican party, it does not conceive it to be the function of government to support in idleness either lazy and shiftless negroes, or lazy and shiftless whites. In the South, as in the nation as a whole, the Republican party stands forth as the great bulwark against the encroachments of the socialist Roosevelt, who would enrich the slothful by robbing the thrifty through class legislation, and the Communist Foster who would go just a step further and plunge us into the throes of class revolution.

POCATELLO, IDAHO
TRIBUNE
JUL 26 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATIC CLUB HOLDS MEET

The Negro Democratic club of Pocatello met at 654 N. Fifth Thursday night with William Jones presiding and a large attendance.

All members were reported much interested in the coming primary and general elections and several made short talks. Business was completed and another meeting called for next Monday at 8:30 p. m.

Officers of the organization include Ira Harrison, secretary, and William Jones, president. Jones reported general cooperation of the entire organization.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUL 30 1936

Bogus Primary Petition Brings Arrest of Five

Negroes Accused of Acting as Witnesses to Paper With Forged Signatures

Filed in Harlem District

McGowan Calls Case Most Brazen in His Memory

Five men, witnesses to an allegedly fraudulent petition in the primary elections of last spring, have been indicted, arrested, and freed in bail of $2,500 each, according to a letter received yesterday by Edward J. McGowan, chief clerk of the Board of Elections, from District Attorney William C. Dodge.

"This was one of the most brazen attempts to get away with a fraudulent petition," Mr. McGowan said, "that I have seen during my thirty years in the Board of Elections. The petition included 160 signatures, all in what was unquestionably the handwriting of one person and all according to the jury, obtained the same day. This practice of filing false petitions has to stop and I am going to do all in my power to send every one of these men to jail."

The petition designated Gavin A Steele, a Negro, and Miss Etta Beck as members of the Democratic State Committee in the 19th Assembly District in opposition to the candidates named by Harry C. Perry, Democratic leader of the district. Since the Board of Elections is without power to rule on suspected forgeries, the petition was taken to the Supreme Court by the regular Democratic organization in the district. Justice Philip J. McCook ruled that the petition lacked the required number of valid signatures and it was voided.

Thomas B. Dyett, Deputy Assistant District Attorney, said that 372 subpoenas were issued by the May grand jury in investigating the alleged fraud, but only 106 persons were located because, he said, many of the addresses in the petition were fictitious. Of these, forty-one testified before the grand jury.

Those arrested, according to the District Attorney's office, are: Abraham Thomas, forty years old, of 3 West 118th Street; Philip Badillo, thirty-six, of 75 East 119th Street; Alex Joseph, thirty-seven, of 168 Lenox Avenue; James Ward, forty-one, same address, and Joseph Ford, forty-seven, of 23 West 119th Street.

Eleven indictments were named against the five men, all of whom are Negroes, according to Mr. Dyett, and all of whom except Joseph, who is a clerk, are unemployed. The indictments were for perjury and forgery.

Perry was seated as leader of the 19th, the upper Harlem district, last winter. He was recognized by James J. Dooling despite the fact he twice failed to win a majority of the votes of the county committeemen in the district. Protests were filed, to no avail, by Martin J. Healy, ousted leader and Perry's predecessor, and by Fred D. Dickens, Negro candidate.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUL 30 1936

Drive for Negro Vote Is Opened By Democrats

Farley Names Mitchell, Colored Representative, Western Campaign Chief

Rainey Directs in East

75 P. C. of 3,000,000 To Be Won, Leaders Say

The Democratic National Committee started a powerful drive yesterday to capture the Negro vote of the nation for the re-election of President Roosevelt.

After a conference at committee headquarters in the Biltmore with Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, of Illinois, Negro member from the Loop district of Chicago, Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic National Chairman, announced a nation-wide set-up to bring the Negroes into the Democratic map.

There will be an Eastern and Western division of campaign for the Negro vote. Mr. Mitchell, born in Alabama, will be head of the Western division, with headquarters in Chicago.

Julian D. Rainey, born in North Carolina, former Assistant Corporation Counsel of the City of Boston, will be in charge of the Eastern division with headquarters at the Biltmore. New York State is not included in either division.

Mr. Rainey and Mr. Mitchell were in Harvard together. Mr. Rainey's territory, in addition, to the Eastern seaboard, will include the Southern states, in which the Democrats do not need and do not expect to make much effective progress with the Negro vote, with the possible exception of the States of North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Mr. Mitchell, who is regarded by Mr. Farley as the top expert statistician of the Democratic party, estimated that the defection of Negro voters from the Republican party in 1932 was so great that President Roosevelt got between 55 and 60 per cent of what was normally a solid Republican Negro vote. Under an intensive organization and amenable national policy, he calculated that the Democrats this year could take 75 per cent of the Negro vote.

Mr. Mitchell already thought well of President Roosevelt's attitude toward the Negro and received from Mr. Farley assurance that there would be no change in the President's views or policies so far as the Negro is concerned.

Mr. Mitchell estimated that, outside the Southern states, there are about 3,000,000 Negro voters, and that these voters, if brought to the polls solidly, could hold the balance of power in 158 Congressional Districts in twenty-three states.

He pointed out that there are 30,000 Negro voters in seven counties in Massachusetts; 6,000 in two counties in Minnesota, and 5,000 in two counties in Rhode Island, which could bear a powerful influence upon the election in those states.

Democrats Name Site For Negro Division Work

Herald 8-1-36

National Chairman James A Farley announced today at Democratic headquarters the set up of the Colored Division of National country divided as follows: Eastern Campaign Committee, with the Division, under the management of Julian D. Rainey, former assistant Coporation Counsel of Boston, and the Western Division with headquarters in Chicago under the supervision of Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, Representative of the First District of Illinois.

New York is not included in the foregoing set up but will be managed by members of the local organizations.

The names of State Directors will be announced by the Chairman of the Democratic State Committees.

Mr. Rainey said that he will be pleased to receive all persons interested in the reelection of President Roosevelt, at Headquarters to be established in New York after August 15.

Congressman Mitchell is already engaged in conducting his own campaign for reelection from his law offices located at 417 East 47th Street in Chicago, and can be reached at that address until the opening of the regular offices in Chicago late in August.

VANN, THOMPKINS WILL NOT HEAD NEGRO DEMOCRATS

Congressman Mitchell and Attorney Rainey Given Important Posts

NEW YORK. — It has been definitely announced that Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, congressman from the first district of Illinois and candidate to succeed himself in congress in the coming election has been placed in control of the Democratic Negro setup in the west with headquarters in Chicago. Mitchell is opposed in the coming election by former Congressman Oscar DePriest.

The Negro setup in the east with headquarters at the Hotel Biltmore in New York city will be in charge of Julian D. Rainey, prominent Boston attorney and former assistant district attorney.

Vann Objectionable

It had been announced by a Pittsburgh paper of which Robert L. Vann is editor, that Vann would be in charge. This announcement was met with rumors that all was not well in New York and although former Postmaster James Farley was ready to name Vann, Philadelphia Negro Democrats served notice on Farley that Vann was not only objectionable to them but they refused to work with him.

Vann and Dr. William J. Thompkins, Kansas City, recorder of deeds both sought to head the Negro setup. Thompkins was accused by the easterners of having "tricked" Farley into addressing what the postmaster general thought was a meeting of Negro Democratic delegates in Philadelphia the Sunday prior to the Democratic convention. Instead, after he had spoken, Farley learned that only a handful of Negroes came from different states to attend Thompkins "rump meeting" and the balance of the audience had come in to hear Farley partly because there was no admission charge and others were rounded up by "Big Bill's" henchmen to making a showing for Thompkins.

Vann pooh-poohed the meeting and refused to attend. So did Rainey.

Later, it became known that Vann, although a member of the Negro bar association which is meeting in his home town from August 6 to 8 and most of whom are Republicans, will be absent during the meeting and will not entertain them in his $50,000 home as planned in the schedule of the association, printed and sent out.

In Berlin

Vann is in Berlin to "cover" the Olympic games. When the games are over, he will return to the states.

Thompkins was in Kansas City last week, presumably to vote. He remained over after attending the funeral of his wife's mother.

New Yorkers will not stand for either Vann or Thompkins. The first is looked upon as an "outside man" coming in to tell the Harlem Negroes what to do. Thompkins is looked upon as a man all for himself. The so-called National Colored Democratic roganization is, said by New Yorkers, to be Thompkins "hand picked" affair and no one pays any attention to it but a few folk whom the Kansas City doctor has under his wing.

Democratic.

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
June 30, 1936

New Deal and the Negro

To The News and Courier:

At the Democratic convention at Philadelphia just over, the old line Democratic form of government was thrown overboard, and the captain of the ship and his entire crew are headed for the rocks or some dangerous reef just under the water line.

It seems that the South is "asleep at the switch" the Wagner-Costigan special is rushing on toward Dixie, to slap down social equality, defiance of white supremacy on a sovereign people, it looks to an old fashioned Democrat, the sons of the Confederate soldiers, that we will have the awful days of 1866 to '76 to fight over again.

The News and Courier wrote a red signal warning to South Carolinians in its Sunday issue of June 28 on the front page. Read it carefully and try to appreciate its real meaning.

The News and Courier has for several years stood up against the Roosevelt administration, the centralizing of government at Washington, the spending of millions on stupid "boondoggling" and billions on useless projects, that do not relieve the suffering of the people, except those swinging on the coattails of the administration, and doing anything to hold down their jobs, the principle of our forefathers, who battled for it at Chancellorsville and the "Wilderness", the faith in state rights that gave us Robert E. Lee and "Stonewall" Jackson, the Democracy of John C. Calhoun is now in the hands of Roosevelt, Roper, Jim Farley and last of all, Dr. Tugwell, and a raft of political parasites just sucking the very life blood out of the true old time Democratic party that South Carolinians could honestly be proud of, but today what a farce, what a travesty, is facing the Southern people this fall in the New Deal negro flirting national Democratic party.

I will close with just a few lines from a man that had more brains and philosophy in his makeup than the entire bunch at Philadelphia including the South Carolina delegation, with the exception of Senator Ellison D. Smith, who had the manhood to walk out of the convention hall; Senator Smith has the respect of all true South Carolinians. The great English poet of Stratford on Ayon said, "'Tis true, 'tis true, and pity 'tis, 'tis true" and so we can say today of that political circus now over with, thank God for that and "pity 'tis, 'tis true".

JOHN GRIMBALL WILKINS.
Charleston.

Atlanta, Ga. Journal
June 30, 1936

CONVENTION SAW SOCIAL EQUALITY, TALMADGE SAYS

Negroes' Part Assailed. Abrogation of Rule Is Called Blow Also

Governor Talmadge charged Tuesday the Democratic national convention in Philadelphia established "social equality and political equality."

"No Republican administration ever has forced the negroes on the southern people as did the convention at Philadelphia," Governor Talmadge said.

The Georgia governor, who has campaigned against the New Deal in various states, recently announced he would support the candidates nominated in 1936 as well as the platform.

"The New Deal papers of Georgia and the south are printing just as little about this negro domination and equality with the negroes as they can get by with," Governor Talmadge said.

"The northern papers are carrying the pictures of the negro delegates conspicuously on the front pages.

"It is news.

"Why don't the papers of Georgia give Georgia the news, and the southern papers give the news as to what happened up in Philadelphia?

"When they abolished the two-thirds rule, it was the last chance and the last hope of the south to ever have any controlling power in the convention.

"When they insisted on boards and bureaus dictating the internal affairs of the separate states, it is going back on the very foundation stone of Democratic principles.

"When they flaunted negroes in the hotels and dining rooms, and had them making dominating speeches to our southern people, it was saying to us:

" 'You don't amount to anything anyway. We will buy you. We will make you associate with the negro, and make you like it.'

"There are thousands and thousands of good white women and men in the south who will register their protest against this outrage."

Columbia, S. C. State
July 1, 1936

What the Negro Wants.

To the Editor of The State:

I regret very much the attitude expressed at the Democratic convention by the senior senator of South Carolina of the presence of Negroes attending the convention at Philadelphia.

I do think that the senator has nothing to fear when it comes to social equality in South Carolina or elsewhere in the South. I lived in Philadelphia for four years and I know about New York City and other Northern cities. Negroes are in politics in these places and do not worry about social equality in the way of intermarrying. Whenever you find a case of intermarriage, it is of the sorry class of white and Negro. Surely the Southern Negro could enter the Democratic party in the South and never think of intermarrying of the races. All the Southern Negro wants is to enter politics in the South for protection in the courts and an even break when it comes to the spending of the taxes he pays year after year, both federal and state. "Takes without representation" is what the Southern Negro is thinking about.

Also I think the senator is very much un-American in the way he states his views on this most sacred constitution of the United States.

E. W. VANCE.
Cashier Victory Savings Bank.
Columbia.

Union, S. C., Times
June 30, 1936

While Col. William C. Harllee and Thomsa P. Stoney in their campaign speeches, are lambasting the National Democratic Convention for its recognition of Negroes, Harold C. Ickies, secretary of the interior, tells the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People what the New Deal has done and is intending to do for the Negro. Says he: "President Roosevelt has realized as no other president since Lincoln seemed to realize, that the mere existence in the federal constitution of the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth, is no guarantee of their enforcement."

From this we gather that the present administration has set itself to enforce those amendments and overthrow the white supremacy of the South. It is not a very hopeful picture that one's mind obtains when the declarations of Mr. Ickes are understood.

Chattanooga, Tenn. News
July 2, 1936

Talmadge Again Uses His Old Stand-by

HE WOULD be a blind idealist indeed who did not realize that racial prejudice is a potent vote-getter in any Southern State. It is one of Gene Talmadge's chief stocks in trade, and we are not surprised that he says the Philadelphia Convention "forced the Negroes on the Southern delegates" and "put the New Deal on record for Social Equality," both of which charges are absurd.

"They flaunted Negroes in hotels and dining rooms and had them make nominating speeches to Southern people," he says.

Cousin Gene apparently expected Philadelphia to change its customs and adopt a Jim Crow law for the duration of the convention. As for nominating speeches, the Negro Congressman from Illinois, an Alabama Negro and Democrat by the way, was scheduled to make an important address, but out of deference to sensitive Southerners, the plan was changed and he made an unimportant talk instead.

Such tactics disgust most newspaper readers of today, but back in the hills and down in the canebrakes, there are thousands who hang on Gene's words, and we should not be surprised to see a few fiery crosses burned on the hills behind Jeeter Lester's place.

Dawson, Ga., News
June 11, 1936

CAROLINA DEMOCRATS PICK NEGRO DELEGATE

FIRST MEMBER OF HIS RACE TO BE CHOSEN TO THE STATE CONVENTION.

Dr. L. T. Delaney, of Raleigh, a negro, has been accorded the distinction of being the first member of his race to be chosen as a delegate to the North Carolina state democratic convention. He is also a member of his precinct executive committee and was named a delegate to the Wake county convention, where he was chosen, with three white men from his district, to attend the state meeting.

In 1900 the democrats of North Carolina disfranchised negroes by the passage of a constitutional amendment containing the "grandfather clause," which provided that no person could register to vote who could not read and write the constitution of the United States in English, provided this should not apply to those whose grandfathers could vote in any state prior to January 1, 1868.

Greensboro, N. C., News
June 30, 1936

DEMOCRATIC CLUB IS FORMED BY NEGROES

Officers were installed at a meeting last night in the local offices of the North Carolina Mutual Insurance company of the Young Negro Democratic club of Greensboro. They are W. F. Frazier, president; T. O. Wyche, vice president; J. Archibald Joyner, treasurer, and Edward Campbell, sergeant at arms.

Atkinson, Cheek And Loser Get Backing In All Parts Of County

Intense Interest in Men and Issues Draws Majority of Race into Democratic Primary

Colored Nashvillians enthusiastically enrolled in the Democratic party on Thursday of last week and played a not inconspicuous part in determining the results of one of the most heated political battles ever waged in the city and state.

Given a new lease on their political lives as a result of the recent election probes and efforts made to insure every voter having his vote counted as cast, men and women put forth valiant efforts in drives to win victories for their favorite candidates for office.

The sharp division of sentiment as between the men offering for leading offices, resulting in colored men and women taking sides just like white voters, completely routed the "race issue" from the different contests, and colored men and women worked for their favorites under happier conditions than very probably has ever been the case in a local election.

Colored workers were seen in many parts of the city and county going out and bringing in voters, instructing them how to mark their ballots and doing all of the things which are resorted to to win an election. Through it all, however, there was in evidence a degree of good sportsmanship seldom witnessed in a political contest.

The race for Congress from the Fifth District was the overshadowing contest. Three well known men, each of whom had his following of colored supporters, clashed in a battle, the reverberations of which will doubtless be heard for years to come. As this is written the victory for the congressional seat graced so long by the late Joseph W. Byrns is being claimed by the Hon. Richard M. Atkinson, former attorney-general of Davidson county, and one of the most colorful political campaigners of the state. It is being claimed that "on the face of the returns" General Atkinson is the winner by the very narrow margin of 13 votes. His total vote for the seven counties of the district is given as 14,144.

The Hon. Will T. Cheek, popular business man and civic leader of Nashville, who very probably amassed a majority of the colored vote of the district, came through according to latest reports with a total of 14,131 votes, and therefore fell only 13 votes behind Gen. Atkinson.

Gen. J. Carlton Loser made a gallant and spectacular race and not a few of his colored supporters backed his chances with the "coin of the realm." Gen Loser's vote was 12,530.

Next in importance to the hectic congressional race was the race of candidates for the legislature in this county. The contest between the People's Ticket and the New Deal Ticket was another close affair. While the People's Ticket, supported as it was by Mayor Hillary E. Howse, got a majority of the colore voters, there were many of the friends of this ticket who broke over the traces to back two popular "New Dealers," in persons of Messrs. Thomas L. Cummings and Andrew D. Tanner. These were the two men who accomplished the unusual feat of breaking the administration slate.

Mr. Cummings made a telling campaign and won supporters of both races in making the charge that the People's Ticket planned to put through some sort of a "ripper bill" to displace Judge Chester K. Hart. Voters rallied to Mr. Cummings and sent him to the legislature to make sure no such a bill is passed. Judge Hart has led the crusade to make elections clean in the city and no issue is more important in the minds of the honest and upright colored people of

Greenville, S. C. News
July 21, 1936

Public Disgusted

(Hartsville Messenger)

The people of South Carolina are pretty well disgusted with the senatorial candidates Stoney and Harllee in their repudiation and denunciation of the platform of the Democratic party, State and National, and of the accomplishments of the present democratic administration.

The platform adopted by the state democratic convention of South Carolina on May 20, 1936, recites: "We take pride in the glorious accomplishments of the National Administration which since March 4, 1933, has moved boldly and swiftly to bring order out of the chaos and confusion left as a legacy by the Republican party. We especially commend the National administration for putting human rights and needs first and for its insistence upon the Golden Rule being applied in the administration of Federal Relief." In addition to the platform, a special resolution endorsing the renomination of Roosevelt gave full approval to the policies of the National Administration under the New Deal.

Almost every statement made by Messrs. Stoney and Harllee in their campaign are arguments for voting against Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democratic National administration. It is no credit to Mr. Stoney that in spite of his denunciation of almost everything that the Democratic National administration has favored, he says he will vote for the democratic nominee, holding his nose while doing so.

But the most revolting effort of Mr. Stoney, and one that many of his friends consider unworthy of him, is his effort to smear Byrnes on the negro question. In Stoney's political speeches, he is quoted as charging by inference that Byrnes shared the responsibility, or at least the knowledge, that two negroes were to have a minor part in the National convention, and, having this knowledge, gave no evidence of displeasure. Mr. Stoney could get the facts if he wanted them, but apparently he is interested not in facts, but is interested only in arousing prejudice regardless of facts. Such an attitude is surprising to many friends of Mr. Stoney. Senator Byrnes could answer Stoney if he chose to by telling him that he knew nothing about the plan to have the two negroes speak at the Democratic convention, that he was not in the Hall when either of them spoke, but was working on the platform in a committee room at the time. Senator Byrnes is too much of a gentleman to answer such slanderous attacks and his position on racial matters is too well known in South Carolina to need any defense.

The people of South Carolina will not be mislead in the efforts of Stoney and Harllee to discredit a Democratic administration that has done more to restore the economic life of the Nation, and particularly of the agricultural South, than any preceding administration and they are proud of the fact that Senator Byrnes, confidant and good friend of President Roosevelt, has played a leading part in the accomplishments of this administration.

Norfolk, Va. Pilot
August 9, 1936

At the Southern Wailing Wall

Mr. Mark Sullivan has written several pieces lately viewing with vicarious alarm the organized effort of the National Democratic Committee to capture the Negro vote in certain large Northern cities and certain Northern States, notably Pennsylvania where, conceivably, the Negro voters may this year hold the balance of power. In his latest discussion of this development, Mr. Sullivan asks:

> How will the Southern Democrats feel about that? . . . Not to solicit the Negro vote, indeed to discourage his voting, is a first principle and universal practice of the Democratic party in the South. This attitude of Southern Democrats is now negatived by the Northern Democratic leaders who dominate the party in the nation as a whole. The situation contains many kinds of political and social dynamite. One wonders if the Negroes as a race will be wise to accept the solicitation of the Northern Democratic leaders, to change their party affiliation and to do it as a self-conscious mass-action.

One wonders also about the real reason for all this Republican keening at the Southern wailing wall. Mr. Sullivan is honest enough to admit that for seventy years before it occurred to the Northern Democratic leaders to organize the Negro vote. Northern Republican leaders solicited, organized and manipulated the Negro vote, North and South, without Democratic competition. But that was different, he argues. There was a logical and sentimental reason for the old alliance between Negro voters and the Republican party. There is no such reason for dissolving this alliance and forming a Negro-Democratic alliance in its place, he argues. "Political action taken consciously as a body by any group is always a disturbing phenomenon."

Since until very recently Northern Republicanism has used the political position of the Negro in the South chiefly as a text for sharp lectures on the South's flagrantly unconstitutional denial of the Negro's suffrage rights, it is confusing to be warned now by one of its most habile spokesman that the action of Northern Democratic leaders may soon produce a situation making the continuance of the South's discouragement of Negro voting impracticable. The South is not accustomed to this Northern praise for its attitude to "an old and unhappy question" (Mr. Sullivan's words) and is likely to look for a hidden reason for this new-born solicitude.

It will be found without difficulty in the fact the Republican leaders are resentful of the fact that the Negro vote has, for the first time in the country's history, ceased to be their private property and is becoming politically footloose. Mr. Sullivan is several years behind the times in his discovery that the Republican mortgage on the Negro vote has run out. Illinois elected a Democratic Negro Congressman in 1934—some two years before the present alarming effort at mass-conversion.

Negroes have been moving from the Republican into the Democratic party in the South for at least a dozen years—in response to the elemental fact that only through making themselves valuable to Southern Democratic organizations, the sole dispensers of public improvements, could they hope to translate their political activity into economic benefit. We are familiar with this phenomenon in the South. Being familiar with it and all its implications we are not as alarmed by it as is Mr Sullivan who seems to have discovered it for the first time.

Democratic.

Political—1936
Party Affiliation.

Campaign Expenses

Items Including Travel and Advertising Filed in House

WASHINGTON

Democratic expenditures, according to the report of the Democratic National Committee for the period September 1 to October 21, filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives, were as follows:

Traveling Expenses

Julian D. Rainey, director of the Democratic campaign among colored voters in the East, New York headquarters, August 28-29, transportation, New York, Boston, Providence, Newport, and return, $28; meals, taxicabs and tips, $8; total, $36.

Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, director of the Democratic campaign among colored voters in the West, Chicago headquarters, reimbursement of expenses for the week ending August 29; transportation, stenographic work, postage, taxicabs, telegrams, telephone, hotel, meals and special intelligence work in Indiana, Illinois, Kansas and New York, $284.45.

Julian D. Rainey, August 31, transportation, New York to New Haven and return, $5.40; meals for State leaders, $17.80; hotel, taxicabs and tips, $11.60; total, $34.80.

Julian D. Rainey, September 4-7, transportation from New York to Boston and Springfield and return, $27.50; hotel, meals, taxicabs and tips, $32.10; total, $59.60.

Advertising

Advertising in the following newspapers in the weeks of September 3 and 10:

The AFRO-AMERICAN, $1,000; the New York Amsterdam News, $1,000; St. Louis Argus, $200; Philadelphia Independent, $200; Christian Recorder, Philadelphia, $50; Calvin's News Service, August 29 to September 10, addressing and mimeographing, $229.05.

Earl Brown, New York, August 29-31, transportation from Washington to New York, $8.05; room, meals, taxicabs and tips, $23.55; total, $31.60.

Dr. C. B. Powell, director of publicity, eastern colored voters' division, Democratic National Committee, reimbursement of expenses incurred for postage, newspapers and mats, September 4-10, $45.28; advance to be accounted for $50, total $95.28.

Traveling Expenses

Julian D. Rainey, August 9-10, reimbursement covering transportation to Baltimore and return, hotel and meals, $33.30.

Robert Vann, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, spec assistant to James A. Farley, chairn of the Democratic National Committee, reimbu ent of transportation covering two trips from Pittsburgh to New York and return, $74.40; hotel, meals, taxicabs and tips, $64.50; total, $138.50.

Elder Michaux

Elder L. Michaux, 1712 R Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C., expenses in connection with bringing choir to Madison Square Garden, mass meeting, New York City, September 21, $624.

Julian D. Rainey, reimbursement of expenses incurred from August 19 to September 17 covering office supplies, $5.45.

Advertisement

Advertising in the following newspapers in the week of September 19: The St. Louis Argus, $100; Philadelphia Independent, $100; Cleveland Eagle, $50; The Boston Chronicle, $50; The New York Amsterdam News, $500; the AFRO-American, $500.

Calvin's News Service, addressing and mimeographing, September 12-13, $114.90.

Mrs. Crystal Bird Fauset, of Philadelphia, September 3-16, two round-trips from New York to Philadelphia, meals and telephone, $9.75.

Dr. C. B. Powell, reimbursement of expenses covering taxicabs, newspapers, telephone and carfare week of September 12, $16.

Robert L. Vann, advance to be accounted for $2,500.

Representative Mitchell

Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, reimbursement of expenses, August 29 to September 19, transportation, $105; stenographic work, $225; telegrams, telephones and postage, $90; organizing and intelligence work, $245; furniture rental, stationery and supplies, $348; total, $1,013.

Robert L. Vann, transportation from Pittsburgh to New York and return, hotel, meals, taxicabs and tips, $75.90.

Ralph E. Mizelle, Bronx, New York, transportation from New York to Hartford and return, $7; New York to Baltimore and return, $13.20; New York to Charleston, West Virginia, and return, $59.26; automobile hire, $71; hotel; meals, and tips, $85; total, $235.46.

Travel

Julian D. Rainey, transportation from New York to Boston and return, $20; meals, taxicabs and tips, $12.40; total, $32.40.

Calvin's News Service, messenger service, mimeographing, clipping service and releases for period ending September 26, $125.80.

Dr. C. B. Powell, reimbursement of expenses for week ending September 26, covering taxicabs and newspapers, $10.25.

Advertising

Advertising for the week of September 26, The Newark Herald, $50; the AFRO-AMERICAN, $500; the Cleveland Eagle, $50; the Boston Chronicle, $50; the Kansas City American, $50; Philadelphia Independent, $100; the Amsterdam News, $500.

Dr. Walter G. Alexander, Orange, N.J., reimbursement for expenses incurred September 21 to 26: Salary for director, $75; final payment on rent, $60; hire of 10 public service buses, Jersey City, $167; automobile hire, meals and tips for four speakers, $68.20; clerical, messenger and janitor service, $71; postage, signs, telephone and office supplies, $85.95; total, $589.15.

Ralph Mizelle, September 20 to 25, transportation from Wilmington, Del., to Norfolk, Va., and return, $25; New York to Buffalo and return, $31.20; hotel, meals, automobile hire and tips, $133; total, $189.20.

Theron B. Hamilton, 654 Girard Street, Northwest, Washington, D.C., August 16, transportation from Washington to Detroit and return, $44.50; hotel, meals, telephone and miscellaneous expenses, $28.25; total $72.75.

Other Expenses

Julian D. Rainey, September 26 to 27, transportation, New York to Boston and return, $20; taxicabs, meals and tips, $11.05; total, $31.05.

Mrs. Crystal Bird Fauset, September 18 to 19, two trips from New York to Philadelphia and return, $7.20; meals, taxicabs and miscellaneous expenses $9.25; total, $16.55.

P. B. Young, Norfolk, Va., transportation to New York and return, $35.50; hotel, meals, taxicabs and tips, $9, total, $44.50.

Reimbursement for salaries, rent, office expenses and transportation in connection with the colored division headquarters set up in Chicago and branch offices under the auspices of Representative Arthur W. Mitchell in September:

Indianapolis Branch Office, F. B. Ransom, director (service gratis); Henry R. Wilson, organizer, $25; Benjamin A. Osborne, office assistant, $20; Ollie Hightower, stenographer, $20; total, $85.

Michigan Branch Office: Harold Bledsoe, State Director $75; organizer, $30; stenographer, $20; total, $125.

For Ohio

Ohio Branch: Percy D. Jones, State

Ohio Branch Office: Percy D. Jones, State Director, $75; S. C. McAllister, organizer, $25; Thomas J. Davis, organizer, $25; Dr. Lee Payne, assistant organizer, $25; Nina Peck, stenographer, $17.50; total, $167.50.

Nebraska Branch Office: Charles F. Davis, State Director, $50; stenographer, $20; total, $70.

Iowa Branch Office: Henry U. Mease, state director $50; stenographer, $20; total, $70.

For Illinois

Illinois Branch Office, Cook County: James Casey, organizer for youth groups, $40; Ina Dora, office worker, $20; Gloria Wilson, stenographer, $30; Emma J. Gaston, stenographer, $37.50; Esther B. Smith, clerk, $30; Sonnie Burford, utility man, and Vivian Burleigh, stenographer, $60.

Evarena Hayden, stenographer, $25; Elizabeth Drayton, office worker, $25; Down State: J. A. Marshall, director, office expense, $25; stenographer, $20; incidentals, $5; stationery, $47.70; stamps, $25; telegrams, $15; distilled water service, $11.32; printing, $270; office decorations, $6.92.

Robert L. Vann, reimbursement, September 22-24, transportation from Pittsburgh to New York and return, $36.90; hotel, meals, taxicabs and tips, $33.50; total, $70.40.

For Advertising

Advertising in the week of October 3: the AFRO-AMERICAN, $500; Cleveland Eagle, $50; Boston Chronicle, $50; Kansas City American, $50; Philadelphia Independent, $50; the New York Amsterdam News, $500; St. Louis Argus (September 26 and October 3), $200; Calvin's News Service, $197.70.

Dr. C. B. Powell, October 3, taxicabs, $9; messenger service and newspapers, $3.39; total, $12.39.

Robert Vann, advance to be accounted for, $2,500; Julian Rainey, expenses in behalf of the Democratic National Committee, Sept. 14 through Oct. 3, for newspapers, $4;

W. F. McGuinn, Baltimore, expenses, Oct. 8, New York to Baltimore, and meals, taxi, tips, $20.70;

Thomas R. Smith, Baltimore, expenses Oct. 8, New York trip, $20.70;

William J. Houston, Sept. 13 through Oct. 3, stenographic serviccs, $75; postage, stamps, phone calls, $15.25, total $90.25;

E. L. Powell, Charleston, W.Va., branch office salaries, director, $75; secretary and chief stenographer, $40; chairman, women's division, $20; chairman, first voters' division $20; janitor and clerical help, $65; total $220.

E. L. Powell, Sept. 28 through Oct. 3, transportation from Charleston to Layland, Fairmont, Beckley, Huntington, Logan, and return, $60; hotels and meals, $11; total, $71;

Julian D. Rainey, Sept. 29, auto hire for meetings in New Jersey, $6.80; transportation from New York to Boston and return, $15.80; meals, taxis, tips, $9.50;

E. L. Powell, Oct. 1 through Oct. 10: transportation, Charleston to Mullens and return, $20; Charleston to Wheeling to Pittsburgh and return, $20; printing and distribution of pamphlets, $80; Charleston to Bluefield, Welch, Beckley and return, $15; auto hire, $14; placards and distribution, renting furniture, hauling and entertainment, $70; total, $235.16;

E. L. Powell, State director, salary, $75;

C. B. Powell, New York, expenses through Oct. 9, taxis, newspapers and messenger service, $16.07;

The Crisis, 69 Fifth Avenue, advertisement in the October issue, $180;

Calvins Newspaper Service, New York, clipping, mimeography and special writing services, $188.48;

AFRO-AMERICAN, advertising for week ending Oct. 10, $500; Cleveland Eagle, $50 Boston Chronicle, $50; Kansas City American, $50; Philadelphia Independent, $100; Amsterdam News, $500; St. Louis Argus, $100;

Julian D. Rainey, transportation: New York to Boston and return; New York to Philadelphia and return $26.40; hotels, meals, taxis and tips, $19.; hotel, $45.40;

NEGRO DEMOCRATS OF MISSOURI TO HAVE BIG RALLY

Saturday, Oct. 31, Representatives Of The United Negro Democracy Of Missouri, Will Gather At Clayton Courthouse. Major Lloyd C. Stark Will Address The Convention

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct 27.—The United Negro Democrats of Missouri will hold its State Convention at Clayton, St Louis County, Missouri, Saturday, October 31, 1936.

The morning session will be held in the County Court Room first floor of the courthouse at 10 a. m. and the afternoon session will be held in the Circuit Court rooms, second floor, at 3 p. m.

Major Lloyd C. Stark and Attorney-General Roy McKittrick will speak immediately following a county-wide parade. Other speakers will be the president, Felix Hall Payne, Kansas City; Mrs. Pearl Ruby Perdeau, Chairman, Negro Women's Division of Missouri and the Executive Secretary, Thos. J R. Wilson.

The State Democratic Campaign Committee, the State and County Democratic Committees, the City and State Negro Divisions of the campaign and all other Democratic organizations are co-operating splendidly, to assist in making this meeting the greatest in the history of the state organization.

Dr. William R. Arthur, Kinloch, is General Chairman; Dr. Wm. R. Williams, St. Louis, is Master of Ceremonies and Victor J. Stuart, is Marshall of the parade.

The General Committee is composed of the following:

Webster Groves: Jos. L. McLemore, St. Louis:
Wm. H. Parker, St. Louis; Howard
Salmon, Woods, Sikeston; torney Wm. Curtis Robinson, Fulton; Delilah Ida Boyd, Brentwood
Rev. S. D. Woods, Sikeston; torney Wm. Curtis Robinson, Fulton; Delilah Ida Boyd, Brentwood
David M. Grant, St. Louis; S. O Louis; Conda A. McPike, Bowl- Roberson; Proctor Galbreath, Fulton.
Gordon. Richmond; Dr. O. Sing Green; Mrs. Nellie Young, Thompson, Carl Glass, St
McClelland, St. Louis:; Fred D Kansas City; Dr. C. Lopez Mc- Blue, Mexico; Louis; Mamie Rodgers. Webster
Ferguson. Sedalia; Ethel M Allister, Emanuel Johnson, Web- Louis; W. G. Eulenberg.
Bowles, St. Louis; Arthur Fos-ter Groves; Elmer V. Mosee, St. Charleston; Isaac Hooker, New ter, Caruthersville; Carl Abbott Louis; Ethelen Hoard, Jefferson Madrid; Mrs. Hettie Ogelsby, Sedalia; Mrs. E. C. Curtis City; Jos. E. Mitchell, St. Louis Kinloch; W. G. Mosely, Jeffer-
Springfield; M. Stevens, Joplin Mo.; Wm. A. Swanson, St son City; Matilda Rice, Well
Rosetta W. Gibson, Kansas City; Louis; Lon Brown, Jefferson City; Ada M. Boyd, Platte City,
Ralph Pickett, Monroe City; At. City; Bea Hurt, St. Louis; Pre- ston:

Political—1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Campaign Expenses

Items Including Travel and Advertising Filed in House

WASHINGTON

Democratic expenditures, according to the report of the Democratic National Committee for the period September 1 to October 21, filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives, were as follows:

Traveling Expenses

Julian D. Rainey, director of the Democratic campaign among colored voters in the East, New York headquarters, August 28-29, transportation, New York, Boston, Providence, Newport, and return, $28; meals, taxicabs and tips, $8; total, $36.

Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, director of the Democratic campaign among colored voters in the West, Chicago headquarters, reimbursement of expenses for the week ending August 29; transportation, stenographic work, postage, taxicabs, telegrams, telephone, hotel, meals and special intelligence work in Indiana, Illinois, Kansas and New York, $284.45.

Julian D. Rainey, August 31, transportation, New York to New Haven and return, $5.40; meals for State leaders, $17.80; hotel, taxicabs and tips, $11.60; total, $34.80.

Julian D. Rainey, September 4-7, transportation from New York to Boston and Springfield and return, $27.50; hotel, meals, taxicabs and tips, $32.10; total, $59.60.

Advertising

Advertising in the following newspapers in the weeks of September 3 and 10:

The AFRO-AMERICAN, $1,000; the New York Amsterdam News, $1,000; St. Louis Argus, $200; Philadelphia Independent, $200; Christian Recorder, Philadelphia, $50; Calvin's News Service, August 29 to September 10, addressing and mimeographing, $229.05.

Earl Brown, New York, August 29-31, transportation from Washington to New York, $8.05; room, meals, taxicabs and tips, $23.55; total, $31.60.

Dr. C. B. Powell, director of publicity, eastern colored voters' division, Democratic National Committee, reimbursement of expenses incurred for postage, newspapers and mats, September 4-10, $45.28; advance to be accounted for $50, total $95.28.

Traveling Expenses

Julian D. Rainey, August 9-10, reimbursement covering transportation to Baltimore and return, hotel and meals, $33.30.

Robert Vann, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, special assistant to James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, reimbursement of transportation covering two trips from Pittsburgh to New York and return, $74.40; hotel, meals, taxicabs and tips, $64.50; total, $138.50.

Elder Michaux

Elder L. Michaux, 1712 R Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C., expenses in connection with bringing choir to Madison Square Garden, mass meeting, New York City, September 21, $624.

Julian D. Rainey, reimbursement of expenses incurred from August 19 to September 17 covering office supplies, $5.45.

Advertisement

Advertising in the following newspapers in the week of September 19: The St. Louis Argus, $100; Philadelphia Independent, $100; Cleveland Eagle, $50; The Boston Chronicle, $50; The New York Amsterdam News, $500; the AFRO-American, $500.

Calvin's News Service, addressing and mimeographing, September 12-13, $114.90.

Mrs. Crystal Bird Fauset, of Philadelphia, September 3-16, two round-trips from New York to Philadelphia, meals and telephone, $9.75.

Dr. C. B. Powell, reimbursement of expenses covering taxicabs, newspapers, telephone and carfare week of September 12, $16.

Robert L. Vann, advance to be accounted for $2,500.

Representative Mitchell

Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, reimbursement of expenses, August 29 to September 19, transportation, $105; stenographic work, $225; telegrams, telephones and postage, $90; organizing and intelligence work, $245; furniture rental, stationery and supplies, $348; total, $1,013.

Robert L. Vann, transportation from Pittsburgh to New York and return, hotel, meals, taxicabs and tips, $75.90.

Ralph E. Mizelle, Bronx, New York, transportation from New York to Hartford and return, $7; New York to Baltimore and return, $13.20; New York to Charleston, West Virginia, and return, $59.26; automobile hire, $71; hotel; meals, and tips, $85; total, $235.46.

Travel

Julian D. Rainey, transportation from New York to Boston and return, $20; meals, taxicabs and tips, $12.40; total, $32.40.

Calvin's News Service, messenger service, mimeographing, clipping service and releases for period ending September 26, $125.80.

Dr. C. B. Powell, reimbursement of expenses for week ending September 26, covering taxicabs and newspapers, $10.25.

Advertising

Advertising for the week of September 26, The Newark Herald, $50; the AFRO-AMERICAN, $500; the Cleveland Eagle, $50; the Boston Chronicle, $50; the Kansas City American, $50; Philadelphia Independent, $100; the Amsterdam News, $500.

Dr. Walter G. Alexander, Orange, N.J., reimbursement for expenses incurred September 21 to 26: Salary for director, $75; final payment on rent, $60; hire of 10 public service buses, Jersey City, $167; automobile hire, meals and tips for four speakers, $68.20; clerical, messenger and janitor service, $71; postage, signs, telephone and office supplies, $85.95; total, $589.15.

Ralph Mizelle, September 20 to 25, transportation from Wilmington, Del., to Norfolk, Va., and return, $25; New York to Buffalo and return, $31.20; hotel, meals, automobile hire and tips, $133; total, $189.20.

Theron B. Hamilton, 654 Girard Street, Northwest, Washington, D.C., August 16, transportation from Washington to Detroit and return, $44.50; hotel, meals, telephone and miscellaneous expenses, $28.25; total $72.75.

Other Expenses

Julian D. Rainey, September 26 to 27, transportation, New York to Boston and return, $20; taxicabs, meals and tips, $11.05; total, $31.05.

Mrs. Crystal Bird Fauset, September 18 to 19, two trips from New York to Philadelphia and return, $7.20; meals, taxicabs and miscellaneous expenses $9.25; total, $16.55.

P. B. Young, Norfolk, Va., transportation to New York and return, $35.50; hotel, meals, taxicabs and tips, $9, total, $44.50.

Reimbursement for salaries, rent, office expenses and transportation in connection with the colored division headquarters set up in Chicago and branch offices under the auspices of Representative Arthur W. Mitchell in September:

Indianapolis Branch Office, F. B. Ransom, director (service gratis); Henry R. Wilson, organizer, $25; Benjamin A. Osborne, office assistant, $20; Ollie Hightower, stenographer, $20; total, $85.

Michigan Branch Office: Harold Bledsoe, State Director $75; organizer, $30; stenographer, $20; total, $125.

For Ohio

Ohio Branch: Percy D. Jones, State

Ohio Branch Office: Percy D. Jones, State Director, $75; S. C. McAllister, organizer, $25; Thomas J. Davis, organizer, $25; Dr. Lee Payne, assistant organizer, $25; Nina Peck, stenographer, $17.50; total, $167.50.

Nebraska Branch Office: Charles F. Davis, State Director, $50; stenographer, $20; total, $70.

Iowa Branch Office: Henry U. Mease, state director $50; stenographer, $20; total, $70.

For Illinois

Illinois Branch Office, Cook County: James Casey, organizer for youth groups, $40; Ina Dora, office worker, $20; Gloria Wilson, stenographer, $30; Emma J. Gaston, stenographer, $37.50; Esther B. Smith, clerk, $30; Sonnie Burford, utility man, and Vivian Burleigh, stenographer, $60.

Evarena Hayden, stenographer, $25; Elizabeth Drayton, office worker, $25; Down State: J. A. Marshall, director, office expense, $25; stenographer, $20; incidentals, $5; stationery, $47.70; stamps, $25; telegrams, $15; distilled water service, $11.32; printing, $270; office decorations, $6.92.

Robert L. Vann, reimbursement, September 22-24, transportation from Pittsburgh to New York and return, $36.90; hotel, meals, taxicabs and tips, $33.50; total, $70.40.

For Advertising

Advertising in the week of October 3: the AFRO-AMERICAN, $500; Cleveland Eagle, $50; Boston Chronicle, $50; Kansas City American, $50; Philadelphia Independent, $50; the New York Amsterdam News, $500; St. Louis Argus (September 26 and October 3), $200; Calvin's News Service, $197.70.

Dr. C. B. Powell, October 3, taxicabs, $9; messenger service and newspapers, $3.39; total, $12.39.

Robert Vann, advance to be accounted for, $2,500; Julian Rainey, expenses in behalf of the Democratic National Committee, Sept. 14 through Oct. 3, for newspapers, $4;

W. F. McGuinn, Baltimore, expenses, Oct. 8, New York to Baltimore, and meals, taxi, tips, $20.70;

Thomas R. Smith, Baltimore, expenses Oct. 8, New York trip, $20.70;

William J. Houston, Sept. 13 through Oct. 3, stenographic services, $75; postage, stamps, phone calls. $15.25, total $90.25;

E. L. Powell, Charleston, W.Va., branch office salaries, director, $75; secretary and chief stenographer, $40; chairman, women's division, $20; chairman, first voters' division $20; janitor and clerical help, $65; total $220.

E. L. Powell, Sept. 28 through Oct. 3, transportation from Charleston to Layland, Fairmont, Beckley, Huntington, Logan, and return, $60; hotels and meals, $11; total, $71;

Julian D. Rainey, Sept. 29, auto hire for meetings in New Jersey, $6.80; transportation from New York to Boston and return, $15.80; meals, taxis, tips, $9.50;

E. L. Powell, Oct. 1 through Oct. 10: transportation, Charleston to Mullens and return, $20; Charleston to Wheeling to Pittsburgh and return, $20; printing and distribution of pamphlets, $80; Charleston to Bluefield, Welch, Beckley and return, $15; auto hire, $14; placards and distribution, renting furniture, hauling and entertainment, $70; total, $235.16;

E. L. Powell, State director, salary, $75;

C. B. Powell, New York, expenses through Oct. 9, taxis, newspapers and messenger service, $16.07;

The Crisis, 69 Fifth Avenue, advertisement in the October issue, $180;

Calvins Newspaper Service, New York, clipping, mimeography and special writing services, $188.48;

AFRO-AMERICAN, advertising for week ending Oct. 10, $500; Cleveland Eagle, $50 Boston Chronicle, $50; Kansas City American, $50; Philadelphia Independent, $100; Amsterdam News, $500; St. Louis Argus, $100;

Julian D. Rainey, transportation: New York to Boston and return; New York to Philadelphia and return $26.40; hotels, meals, taxis and tips, $19.; hotel, $45.40;

NEGRO DEMOCRATS OF MISSOURI TO HAVE BIG RALLY

Saturday, Oct. 31, Representatives Of The United Negro Democracy Of Missouri, Will Gather At Clayton Courthouse. Major Lloyd C. Stark Will Address The Convention

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct 27.—The United Negro Democrats of Missouri will hold its State Convention at Clayton, St Louis County, Missouri, Saturday, October 31, 1936.

The morning session will be held in the County Court Room first floor of the courthouse at 10 a. m. and the afternoon session will be held in the Circuit Court rooms, second floor, at 3 p. m.

Major Lloyd C. Stark and Attorney-General Roy McKittrick will speak immediately following a county-wide parade. Other speakers will be the president, Felix Hall Payne, Kansas City; Mrs. Pearl Ruby Perdeau, Chairman, Negro Women's Division of Missouri and the Executive Secretary, Thos. J R. Wilson.

The State Democratic Campaign Committee, the State and County Democratic Committees, the City and State Negro Divisions of the campaign and all other Democratic organizations are co-operating splendidly, to assist in making this meeting the greatest in the history of the state organization.

Dr. William R. Arthur, Kinloch, is General Chairman; Dr. Wm. R. Williams, St. Louis, is Master of Ceremonies and Victor J. Stuart, is Marshall of the parade.

The General Committee is composed of the following:

Rev. S. D. Woods, Sikeston; Jos. L. McLemore, St. Louis; David M. Grant, St. Louis; S. O'Louis; Conda A. McPike, Bowl-Curtis Robinson, Fulton; Delilahlda Boyd, Brentwood Howard Gordon, Richmond; Dr. O. Sing Green; Mrs. Nellie Young Thompson, McClelland, St. Louis; Fred DKansas City; Dr. C. Lopez McBlue, Mexico; Cari Glass, St Ferguson. Sedalia; Ethel MAllister, Emanuel Johnson, Web Louis; Mamie Rodgers, Webster Bowles, St. Louis; Arthur Fos-ter Groves; Elmer V. Mosee, St Groves; W. Eulenberg, ter, Caruthersville; Carl Abbott Louis; Ethelen Hoard, Jefferson Sedalia; Mrs. E. C. Curtis City; Jos. E. Mitchell, St. Louis Hooker, New Springfield; M. Stevens, Joplin, Mo.; Wm. A. Swanson, St Louis Madrid; Mrs. Hettie Ogelsby, Rosetta W. Gibson, Kansas City, Louis; Lon Brown, Jefferson City; W. G. Mosely, Jeffer- Ralph Pickett, Monroe City; At City; Bea Hurt, St. Louis; Preston; Ada M. Boyd, Platte City. Matilda Rice, Well

Harlem 'in Bag' for Roosevelt, Even Republicans There Admit

Landon Will Be Lucky to Hold Rival to 2 to 1, Observers Agree—Relief Checks an Insurmountable Argument in Section That Provides 21 Per Cent of City's Welfare Lists.

A Landon-Knox banner drifts lazily over Lenox Avenue north of 135th Street, but even Republican spokesmen in the teeming Negro section agree that the ticket hasn't much chance in Harlem.

A survey of leaders in social welfare, politics, journalism and religion—and of passers-by and loiterers on side street stoops—indicated yesterday that while Tammany expects to roll up a 4-1 majority for the President over his main rival, the Republicans are battling to hold the lead down to 2—1.

No individual queried would predict a Landon victory in the "Black Metropolis," although Republicans generally were hopeful and even confident of teh result nationally.

The issue of relief clearly is paramount in the minds of Harlem organizers and each party has sought to interpret it advantageously. Because of the obviously available argument that "if Roosevelt's beaten, you'll lose what you're getting now," Democrats have had a distinct edge from the beginning.

Predominate on Relief Rolls

For although Harlem's Negroes make up only 4½ per cent of the city's population, the Urban League of 202 West 136th Street points out that more than 21½ per cent of New York's relief cases are within its still-spreading borders.

With 202,000 heads of families and single persons receiving aid through the WPA and 180,000 through the ERB, the percentage estimated by James V. Hubert, executive secretary of the league, indicate that at least 84,000 individuals are on relief in Harlem. That does not include dependents, but since in the great majority of cases they are ineligible to vote, they need not be considered in a pre-election study.

The fact remains that in the Nineteenth and Twenty-first Assembly Districts — predominantly Negro — 65,376 persons signified their intention of voting next Tuesday. Some of them are whites. There are also sizeable Negro communities in the Eleventh, Thirteenth, Seventeenth, Twenties and Twenty-second Districts. It is held reasonable that under average weather conditions between 60,000 and 70,000 Harlem Negroes will go to the polls (Democrats put it as high as 100,00), and that the great majority of them either will have been on relief directly or will have come indirectly into contact with its benefits.

Thus it has been comparatively easy for Tammany, with its increasingly-perfected local organizations, to bring to bear effectively the warning that "relief stops if Landon wins." Republicans have countered with a plea for "relief from relief," and have insisted that Roosevelt's defeat means jobs, not handouts—although they are careful to stick to the letter of their candidate's pronouncement that relief will not stop where it is needed.

But they have encountered the simple human response, "Let well enough alone"—especially when "well enough' has come to mean a regular sum of money which every recipient is made to realize comes directly from the present administration.

Mr. Hubert, a Republican personally, although the Urban League is non-partisan, declared there was "no question" about a Roosevelt majority in Harlem. "Everybody on relief is going to vote for the Democratic party," he said. "The Republicans are doing very little."

He said his wife was active in Republican circles and reported to him the difficulty encountered in the Negro section in Jamaica by Landon workers.

Hopes to Cut Margin Down

At the office of the Landon Volunteers, 2,352 Seventh Avenue, Mrs. Bessie Brown, assistant chairman of the unit, conceded the problem of the G. O. P. An office worker was confident the Democratic margin would be whittled down by election day—the office is preparing a last-minute door-to-door drive to sell the idea that jobs are preferable to relief—but Mrs. Brown had no hopes of cutting that margin much below 2—1. She was convinced that Democratic relief administrators, as well as political workers, were making emphatic the dependence of continued aid upon Democratic votes.

Admitting that relief played a large part in the campaign in Harlem, Dr. Clilan B. Powell, since January publisher of The Amsterdam News, argued that it did not tell the whole story. Outspokenly a Democrat, with the newspaper actively for Roosevelt, Dr. Powell and his colleagues held that Democratic dominance in Harlem began years before Roosevelt went to Washington and that it was based on sounder organization and fairer tactics.

Democratic spokesmen conceded that many of the older Harlem clergymen were for Landon. Observers minimized the rôle of Father Divine and his "angels" in the election. None put the potential voting strength of the flock at more than 2,000, although all conceded that efforts had been made to get its support. Divine has remained consistently nonpartisan.

Communist and Socialist appeals were expected by both major parties to help Roosevelt, on the ground that leftist oratory always struck harder at Landon than at the President. Neither minority party was thought to have made much progress since 1932, although each was confident of a good showing.

As for the man in the street: Not a single sunflower was noted on an all-afternoon tour of Harlem, except in Landon Volunteer Headquarters. Roosevelt buttons were not profuse, but Roosevelt labels or pictures were seen in a great many windows.

Taking into consideration the "silent vote," which Republicans hope will swell their total, and a possible swing to Landon based on intense door-to-door work between now and Tuesday, it is difficult to see how the Kansan con do better than get one vote to the President's two in the section whcih is one of the most crowded, most unhealthy adn most economically maladjusted in the city.

CAMPAIGNING ON RELIEF

THE COLORED DIVISION of the Democratic National Campaign Committee has gotten out a booklet summing up the achievements of the New Deal. The booklet contains 16 pages, 13 of which are given over to a summary of the jobs given Negroes under the WPA, the PWA, the CCC and Housing Administration.

In discussing the various projects of the Roosevelt Administration, the TVA and Boulder Dam were touched on lightly. The TVA is the Tennessee Valley Authority, which has completed Muscle Shoals and the other power plants along the Tennessee River. Except for a few colored laborers, they don't give Negroes jobs. Boulder Dam is the project where the N. A. A. C. P. had to protest to Secretary Ickes before even Negro laborers could get jobs.

Thoughtful Americans will not countenance the New Deal taking credit for the relief jobs given the Negro during the past three and a half years. These jobs were supposed to have been given to all in need regardless of race or politics. For Negro Democrats to claim them as political patronage is to belie the statement of President Roosevelt who has repeatedly asserted that there was no politics in the administration of the relief funds.

The pamphlet concludes by saying:

"In choosing between Roosevelt and Landon, the colored citizens should consider what the two men represent. President Roosevelt represents the idea of the "Good Neighbor"—doing unto others as you would be done by. Landon represents the idea of individualism—everyone for himself, and to get all he can for himself—not matter how his getting affects his fellow men. The Landon idea of 'Individualism is bad for the colored man in America because the colored man has an unequal chance in the economic world. The Negro is already handicapped, because of his color, and if opportunities come only to those who can 'take' them, then the Negro is behind at the beginning of the race. But if we are living under a government that preaches and practices that all should have an opportunity to get some of the better things of life—as President Roosevelt has preached and practiced for the past three and a half years—that is the best system for all minority groups, which means that it is the best system for all minority groups, which means that it is the best system for the Negro group."

Too long the impression has gone abroad that President Roosevelt has a monopoly on progressiveness. Governor Landon has pledged that relief will be continued to those in need, that the best features of the social security legislation will be kept and that the Republican Party will not be derelict in its duty to see that an opportunity for work will be provided for all. The days of rugged individualism are gone, regardless of who wins. There is bound to be a certain amount of government regulation and cut-throat practice eliminated.

The circular gotten out by the Colored Division of the Democratic National Campaign Committee is a definite appeal to class prejudice. Let us repudiate this un-American appeal and take a stand that relief jobs are not to be considered as political patronage—a crumb to the faithful of the party, and those who happen to be of the opposite faith allowed to starve.

Go to the polls Election Day and vote for the election of Landon and Knox and the entire Republican ticket and you'll get a square deal.

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Quitman, Ga., Free-Press
July 16, 1936

An Unpardonable Sin

Stoops To Conquer

GOVERNOR OF GEORGIA

Eugene Talmadge, who is caustically rebuked by Editor Henry McIntosh, of the Albany Herald, for insulting white women of Georgia.

Defend White Women

EDITOR HENRY M'INTOSH

Brilliant Editor of The Albany Herald, Former Brooks County Boy, who ably defends white women of Georgia from unpardonable insult.

In a ringing editorial in his newspaper, The Albany Herald, Henry T. McIntosh, brilliant south Georgian and former Quitman citizen, rebukes Governor Eugene Talmadge for injecting the race question into state politics as the latter catches at straws in his race against United States Senator Russell. The editorial which appears in a current issue of the Herald follows:

THIS IS UNPARDONABLE.

We are amazed at the efforts of Governor Talmadge to intensify racial prejudice in Georgia. If there is anything we do not need it is that.

The statement is made by Governor Talmadge, in a signed article in his personal political organ, The Statesman, that during the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia, Southern white women "ate at the same tables" with negroes.

That is not true. Every white person and every colored person in Georgia knows it is not true. Governor Talmadge knows it is not true. Yet in his effort to discredit the Democratic party and those who attended the national convention at Philadelphia he is perfectly willing to offer a deliberate affront to Southern white women, and to offer a large contribution to the cause of race prejudice.

The white and colored people of Georgia get along well together. They understand each other. Our negro citizens have no desire for social equality, the best element among them very sensibly preferring to work for that which is attainable—the uplift of their own people, that they may be happier, more prosperous and more useful citizens.

Of course Governor Talmadge is a politician. He is holding one high office and running for another. He is doing everything in his power to discredit the President of the United States and the Democratic administration. He calls himself a Democrat, but is co-operating with the Republican party.

And in the hope of gaining some trifling political advantage (though exactly how we do not see) he is willing to offer, in his newspaper, a studied affront to the white women of his own and other Southern states.

Perhaps you can understand it. We cannot.

Batesburg, S. C., News
July 2, 1936

PARTY LOYALTY CARRIED TOO FAR!

We wonder if The Coumbia State, and several other daily papers in the state, who will just not see anything to get "het" up over in negroes taking prominent parts in the Democratic convention and in other party councils, felt no resentment at all when they read what an ignorant negro politician from Chicago said of Senator Ed Smith, when Mr. Smith refused to take part in a Democratic convention after being put on an equality with this negro Mitchell and other so-called negro Democrats by Jim Farley, with the sanction, no doubt, of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The negro Mitchell, referring to Senator Smith, said:

"I fear the senator is ignorant and steeped in prejudice. He belongs, probably, to the Ku Klux Klan, at least in mentality. I have no confidence in his statesmanship and the sooner we get rid of his type the better. He is a digrace to his state and to our party."

Senator Smith is Southern gentleman, no matter who agrees with his politics; he has served the state of South Carolina for twenty-seven years in the United States senate, which indicates that a majority of the people of the state do approve of his manner of representing them in Washington; he is a WHITE man, with all the refinement, intelligence and traditions of the ruling race of the world for hundreds of years back of him. His race in the South established the Democratic party as a white man's party and gave their lives in defense of the principles the party has stood for through the years until Farley and his fellow New Dealers took it over, and invited the negro in and gave him prominent places in the party's councils.

The negro who gave out the above-quoted interview to the press is less than 150 years removed from the African jungles. If the government of this great country was left entirely to Mitchell and his race, without white influence, it would not be long before America would revert back to savagery or something worse. But this negro, with supreme contempt, refers to the man who has ably represented the state of South Carolina in the United States senate for more than a quarter of a century as ignorant and steeped in prejudice, and as a disgrace to "OUR" party, and some of the state's daily papers pretend they see nothing in it to resent or get excited over, and, moreover, criticise Senator Smith for his action.

We know these South Carolina editors do not wish social or political equality with the black man, which makes their positions all the more baffling. They may think they are taking the patriotic and broad-minded view of the situation; but if they are, we thank God we are "ignorant and steeped in prejudice," no less than Senator Smith.

ATLANTIC, IA.
NEWS TELEGRAPH
JUN 29 1936

With Reservations.

The Roosevelt administration has made many overtures to the d man and large groups of colored voters have supported the Deal ticket, both in 1932 and since. This switch in the political de of colored voters hase been quite largely brought about th the administration of relief, as many colored people in differ- arts of the country have been on the relief rolls and their ncy has been to credit the administration for that fact.

t the Philadelphia convention a number of Negroes spoke to the tes and in one or two instances Negro preachers delivered the tion incident to the opening of the convention on different days. on one of these occasions that United States Senator "Cotton mith of South Carolina, a southerner with rather a Bourbon philosophy regarding the colored man, left the convention hall in high dudgeon because he did not want a Negro praying for him. Subsequently, he repeated the action when other Negro speakers appeared upon the platform. Mr. Smith holds the views of the old south. Individually the southerner treats the Negro better than the northerner

Democratic.

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Quitman, Ga., Free-Press
July 16, 1936

An Unpardonable Sin

Stoops To Conquer

GOVERNOR OF GEORGIA

Eugene Talmadge, who is caustically rebuked by Editor Henry McIntosh, of the Albany Herald, for insulting white women of Georgia.

Defend White Women

EDITOR HENRY M'INTOSH

Brilliant Editor of The Albany Herald, Former Brooks County Boy, who ably defends white women of Georgia from unpardonable insult.

In a ringing editorial in his newspaper, The Albany Herald, Henry T. McIntosh, brilliant south Georgian and former Quitman citizen, rebukes Governor Eugene Talmadge for injecting the race question into state politics as the latter catches at straws in his race against United States Senator Russell. The editorial which appears in a current issue of the Herald follows:

THIS IS UNPARDONABLE.

We are amazed at the efforts of Governor Talmadge to intensify racial prejudice in Georgia. If there is anything we do not need it is that.

The statement is made by Governor Talmadge, in a signed article in his personal political organ, The Statesman, that during the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia, Southern white women "ate at the same tables" with negroes.

That is not true. Every white person and every colored person in Georgia knows it is not true. Governor Talmadge knows it is not true. Yet in his effort to discredit the Democratic party and those who attended the national convention at Philadelphia he is perfectly willing to offer a deliberate affront to Southern white women, and to offer a large contribution to the cause of race prejudice.

The white and colored people of Georgia get along well together. They understand each other. Our negro citizens have no desire for social equality, the best element among them very sensibly preferring to work for that which is attainable—the uplift of their own people, that they may be happier, more prosperous and more useful citizens.

Of course Governor Talmadge is a politician. He is holding one high office and running for another. He is doing everything in his power to discredit the President of the United States and the Democratic administration. He calls himself a Democrat, but is co-operating with the Republican party.

And in the hope of gaining some trifling political advantage (though exactly how we do not see) he is willing to offer, in his newspaper, a studied affront to the white women of his own and other Southern states.

Perhaps you can understand it. We cannot.

Batesburg, S. C., News
July 8, 1936

PARTY LOYALTY CARRIED TOO FAR!

We wonder if The Coumbia State, and several other daily papers in the state, who will just not see anything to get "het" up over in negroes taking prominent parts in the Democratic convention and in other party councils, felt no resentment at all when they read what an ignorant negro politician from Chicago said of Senator Ed Smith, when Mr. Smith refused to take part in a Democratic convention after being put on an equality with this negro Mitchell and other so-called negro Democrats by Jim Farley, with the sanction, no doubt, of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The negro Mitchell, referring to Senator Smith, said:

"I fear the senator is ignorant and steeped in prejudice. He belongs, probably, to the Ku Klux Klan, at least in mentality. I have no confidence in his statesmanship and the sooner we get rid of his type the better. He is a digrace to his state and to our party."

Senator Smith is Southern gentleman, no matter who agrees with his politics; he has served the state of South Carolina for twenty-seven years in the United States senate, which indicates that a majority of the people of the state do approve of his manner of representing them in Washington; he is a WHITE man, with all the refinement, intelligence and traditions of the ruling race of the world for hundreds of years back of him. His race in the South established the Democratic party as a white man's party and gave their lives in defense of the principles the party has stood for through the years until Farley and his fellow New Dealers took it over, and invited the negro in and gave him prominent places in the party's councils.

The negro who gave out the above-quoted interview to the press is less than 150 years removed from the African jungles. If the government of this great country was left entirely to Mitchell and his race, without white influence, it would not be long before America would revert back to savagery or something worse. But this negro, with supreme contempt, refers to the man who has ably represented the state of South Carolina in the United States senate for more than a quarter of a century as ignorant and steeped in prejudice, and as a disgrace to "OUR" party, and some of the state's daily papers pretend they see nothing in it to resent or get excited over, and, moreover, criticise Senator Smith for his action.

The Roosevelt administration has made many overtures to the colored man and large groups of colored voters have supported the New Deal ticket, both in 1932 and since. This switch in the political attitude of colored voters hase been quite largely brought about through the administration of relief, as many colored people in different parts of the country have been on the relief rolls and their tendency has been to credit the administration for that fact.

At the Philadelphia convention a number of Negroes spoke to the delegates and in one or two instances Negro preachers delivered the invocation incident to the opening of the convention on different days. It was on one of these occasions that United States Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina, a southerner with rather a Bourbon philosophy regarding the colored man, left the convention hall in high dudgeon because he did not want a Negro praying for him. Subsequently, he repeated the action when other Negro speakers appeared upon the platform. Mr. Smith holds the views of the old south. Individually the southerner treats the Negro better than the northerner

We know these South Carolina editors do not wish social or political equality with the black man, which makes their positions all the more baffling. They may think they are taking the patriotic and broad-minded view of the situation; but if they are, we thank God we are "ignorant and steeped in prejudice," no less than Senator Smith.

ATLANTIC, IA.
NEWS TELEGRAPH
JUN 29 1936

With Reservations.

does, because he understands him and accepts the role of father confessor and mentor which the white employer in the south essays when he employs Negro help. Collectively the southerners keep the Negro "in his place." We of the north profess great love for the colored man collectively at times but individually we do not know how to treat him. There is fault in the viewpoint of the people of both sections toward the Negro. The colored race has advanced in our generation and is not at all the same as were the Negroes of the old south. But the attitude of the southerner is traditional. He resents the presence of a Negro in any posiiton of comparative authority. The Roosevelt attitude complicates matters for him. The New Dealers want the colored vote and so placate the colored voters. For fifty years following the civil war the vast majority of colored voters voted the republican ticket. The way they vote makes no difference below the Mason and Dixon line because the votes are not counted and in many states state laws are so framed as to make it impossible for colored people to qualify as electors. In the north their votes count. That is about the story of the complication which presents itself to those democrats of the solid south who are traditionally democrats because originally the "black republicans" of the north championed the Negro cause. Now they are confronted by an administration of their own party doing the same thing they objected to on the part of the republicans.

One of the little inconsistencies of the situation, however, is that the New Deal congress has persistently defeated anti-lynching legislation which had the support of the president and the president's wife. To this extent the south still controls. To this extent the administration has refused the colored man its friendship, or has given him friendship with reservations. Quite evidently, the south prefers to handle the Negro in its own way, even though the administration seeks to coddle him. All in all, it is somewhat of a mixed-up condition. It would be one of the whirligigs of time is some day the southerner should bolt his party because it had taken a leaf from the republican book of the past by gathering the Negro to its bosom. Politics, as it has been remarked, makes strange bedfellows. It does, and, more than that, it creates strange situations.

COMMISSIONER J. H. RAINEY OF PENNSYLVANIA GIVES PRINCIPAL SPEECH TO HOOSIER DEMOCRATS

Congressman Mitchell Refuses To Speak To the Assembly; Three Hundred Seventy Attend; Local Men Take Spotlight At Convention

Indianapolis Recorder

(By LEE A. JOHNSON)

HOTEL WADDY, WEST BADEN, Ind., July 11.—Some three hundred and fifty brown-skinned "New Dealers" gathered here for some unknown purposes and sat through excessive heat to hear various speakers of the Democratic rank and mingle with others who came from every county in Indiana.

The chief attraction was to have been Congressman Mitchell of Illinois, and Joe Rainey, Commissioner of Pennsylvania; previously it had been stated that Mr. Clifford Townsend, nominee for governor would be present, but at the last minute, it was known by those in the "know" that the Democratic candidate would not be on the grounds.

Mitchell Refuses To Speak

The congressman from Illinois came by motor to the grounds of Hotel Waddy, but learning that first Joe Rainey was to make an address and other circumstances, bid the group "adieu" and did not as much as say "how do you do" to the three hundred folk who had come all the way to West Baden to get a glimpse of him; he promptly drove off leaving the body stunned.

To Joe Rainey, goes the credit of stealing the show, pure sportsmanship on his part and a good speech set him in with the Indiana Democrats for saving the day for the Indiana Negro Democratic Central Association.

The Congressman wondered why the district congressman was not present at the meeting when he arrived, and stated that he would leave rather than make the same political blunders that Oscar DePriest made by speaking in everybody's district where other congressmen were not expected.

Fleming, Cable Heroes

Early in the morning a large bus arrived carrying sixty some odd guests of Henry Fleming and Dr. Theodore Cable from Marion County along with several car loads of guests. This, the largest delegation of the convention, was well over one-third contributed by Marion County, including the private cars.

In his speech before the body in the first session, Fleming stated that "I am proud of an organization of this kind which can think for itself, gather in such large numbers, with the ideals it has. There is no organization of this kind which can function unless it gets the backing of the people."

Attorney F. Louis Spearling chairman of the City Organization in Gary, Ind., and editor of the Gary American, was the next speaker, who at length emphasized the importance of the Negro through organization in politics.

Dr. Theodore Cable, who was a delegate to the national Democratic convention at Philadelphia spoke; in his talk he stated, "the political structure is built from the precinct committeeman up", and stressed the importance of this fact. In concluding, he said, "we in Indiana should stick to Roosevelt and Townsend and out county candidates on the Democratic ticket."

John Hinton, Indiana Harbor, was another to take the floor during the first session which adjourned until evening when several state officials came over, including Congressman Boehne, Evansville; Mrs. Emery Scholl, state vice chairman; Peter Hines, candidate for state treasurer; Paul Stump, clerk in the supreme and appelate courts; Mrs. Ruth Smith, secretary to the state treasurer, and John Gould, a deputy state clerk.

The only apparent business that the body had before it was the passing on resolutions which was done in the executive meeting with a few changes, as recommended by the committee.

Among the 300 delegates and visitors, a few names of persons obtained were: Joe Harris, Mrs. Pearl Maxey, Mrs. Adele K. Davis, Miss Lennis D. Berry, Mrs. Evelyn Woodson, Mrs. Sarah A. Duke, Rolland Dorsey, Mrs. Rhoda Hanley, Atty. F. W. Littlejohn, Miss Virgie Dunnville, Mrs. Hattie Butler, Raymond Butler, Mrs. Jennie Settles, Mrs. Susie Knox, Mrs. Sarah Taylor, S. H. Ferguson, Bennie H. Weaver Wm. Walker Sr., Theodore Smith, Palmer Richardson, Alphonzo Smith, R. S. Coleman, Mrs. Rebacca Woods, Mrs. Brown, C. F. Johnson, all of Indianapolis; Dr. R. D. Ferguson and C. S. Smith, Richmond; W. J. Rice, Taylor Burnsides, A. F. Williams, L. J. Rice of Crawfordsville; Dr. J. J. Hoover, Dr. D. A. Hoover, Mrs. Lucile Lewis, Mrs. Cinderella Blade, Mrs. Dolly Hood, Mrs. Roberts all of Terre Haute; Dr. D. A. Bethea, Hammond; Mrs. Alto M. Griffin, J. E. Griffin, Mrs. Viola Glenn, Perk Glenn, Dr. J. C. Davis all of Marcie; Mrs. L. K. Phillips, Mrs. Viola Charlton, Mrs. Naomi Phillips, Mrs. Zella Tuggle, Fort Wayne; Harry St. Clair, Gary; John Hinton, East Chicago, Ind; C. Backer, Gary; Atty. E. Louis Sperling, Gary; H. H. Hucles, Frank N. Woods, Mrs. Hallie E. Hayes, Alderman Robt. Anderson, D. T. Caldwell, Thomas A. Painter, all of Gary; Atty Mrs. T. E. Graves, Michigan City; Mrs. Mildred Cole, Dr. Raymond King, Dr. J. H. Wilson, Rev. Alex Pope all of Evansville; Atty. M. M. Mance, Alphonzo Mitchell, Dr. C. A. Toles, Mrs. Lena Ramey, Anderson; J. W. Geater, Anderson, Atty. E. L. Johnson, Indianapolis; Mrs. Eunice Roberts, Terre Haute; Mrs. Abie T. McKinney, French Lick, and many others whose names were not obtained.

Several Meetings Planned

It was learned authoritatively that the Indiana Negro Democratic Central Association has planned several other state rallies in other counties, winding up in Indianapolis early in the fall prior to the election. The next place of meeting will be Gary, then Evansville, and Indianapolis.

Greer, S. C. Citizen
July 1, 1936

'TWIXT DEVIL AND SEA—

If they were not frought with such dire possibilities to the Democratic party, the recent happenings which have brought the race question into national politics, would be ludicrous. It will take a lot of party loyalty on the part of the southerner and a world of diplomatic talent in the north to avoid some unsavory and unpleasant situations in the future. While the north cannot offend the negro vote, they must have the suppor of the southerner if they hope to retain control of the national admniistration. And, when the northerner insists on giving full prominence and recognition to the negro, as happened at the Philadelphia convention, he removes one of the original and most important reasons for a "Solid South". In fact, the party was conceived, nurtured and matured in the soil of racial problems which could only be solved by the procedure which was adopted fifty years ago. That solution, however, was arrived at on a purely academic premise; but now, that we are faced with a condition instead of a theory, the problem again promises to be one of no small proportions.

As the Citizen remarked a few weeks ago, it would seem the better strategy for the southern statesmen to soft-pedal the matter for the time being and avoid the bitter vituperation which has been so popular with the politician for the past half century. Already the colored man has succeeded in formenting bitterness in certain sections of the north, as illustrated by the demonstration made by Ford, the Communist leader in New York City.

It is our opinion that the negro must be appealed to through his reason, and his reasoning faculties cannot function when the primitive instincts have been aroused by what he is likely to consider unfair neglect and abuse in the realm of politics. This is especially true since he is just beginning to realize that his race can possibly hold the balance of power in political councils in certain sections of the nation.

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

BECKLEY, W. VA.
RALEIGH-REGISTER

JUN 30 1936

PRESS COMMENT

A CIVILIZED NATION?

The action of a South Carolina senator in walking from the Democratic convention hall because a Negro offered prayer, together with news reports of terrorist activities in Arkansas, drives home the feeling that progressive America still has a long way to go before she can call herself civilized.

The outburst at the convention can be excused on the flimsy grounds of custom. The south still hasn't gotten over the idea that the Negro is free, a citizen of the United States. Until that idea is wiped out completely, the very worthy campaign which aims at education and betterment of conditions for the Negro will be stuck on a snag.

But it's a different story in Arkansas. There, it isn't a case of some old southern dignity being insulted. Much worse. It's a case of cruel, bloody slave law, mob violence and Fascist methods.

Even the editor of a paper lauds this rule by whip in the land of cotton.

An editorial in the Earle, Ark., Enterprise says:

"Tenants are all on the job, and day laborers are plentiful, and glad to work for 75 cents a day, instead of the $1.50 demanded by the union.

"It is true that a few foreign agitators representing the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union have felt the sting of a backband applied where it would do the most good. This method has produced results where all other methods less drastic have failed.

"The greatest hue and cry arises from the fact that a white woman was forced to endure the indignity of a light whipping. Opinions vary as to the wisdom of this act. It is hard for us to condone the action. However, there is no doubt but what the woman was completely out of her place. Assisting in conducting a Negro funeral is no place for a white woman in the South."

There in Arkansas has been an attempt to qualify these terroristic activities on the grounds of the old South's feeling against the Negro. Such handling of the Negro would be excused, even praised, in a lot of southern regions. But back of it is the fact that in the South there are almost twice as many white croppers and tennants as there are black.

The Philadelphia Record says:

"It is not a race problem. . . . Nor is it merely an economic problem, though the difference between the $4.50 a week planters are paying and the $9 a week pickers are asking may be the difference between bringing children up in fair health or drooping with pellagra.

"It is above all a political problem.

"Taken in connection with the murder and flogging of union organizers in Tampa by the Klan and the murder of union automobile organizers by the Black Legion in Detroit and the mob violence of hired vigilantes on the Pacific Coast, it spells a menace of major proportions to human liberty in America.

"If workers can be flogged and driven to work at the point of guns, if fundamental liberties can be crushed, in Arkansas, how soon before workers are flogged and driven to their work in Birmingham and in West Virginia—and in Philadelphia?

"The South has become the training ground for the forces of Fascism, the use of the whip to enslave labor and cut its wages.—Fairmont Times.

Statesville, N. C., Record
June 30, 1936

The Negro In Politics

A South Carolina senator walked out of the Democratic National convention hall in Philadelphia because of the presence of negroes, he said. In explaining more fully his action, he said that political equality would lead to social equality and that social equality would lead to racial intermarriage and that racial intermarriage would lead to the mongrelizing of the white race.

The senator certainly was looking far ahead. He probably was looking much farther ahead than his deductions would ever materialize.

We do not think that racial equality is the thing to advocate in the United States now or in any future generation within the scope of our imagination, although there is no positive assurance that the white race will always be in the ascendancy.

It is a matter of generally known history that our forefathers brought the negroes here from another continent as savages and made slaves of them. Later they were set free and allowed to remain in the country to shift for themselves. They have done remarkably well under the circumstances to have advanced to their present state of civilization. Certainly, if there were no other barriers, they have not reached that state of refinement that would permit of social equality; but, as we see it, that has little to do with giving them a voice in their part of the government as we have made citizens of them.

The South Carolina senator and others who object to the presence of negroes in politics should remember that the very thing which gives us our present political system was our forefather's revolt against "taxation without representation". Giving the negroes citizenship amongst us, permitting them to own property and collecting taxes from them on that property and then denying them the privilege of any voice in the government is nothing less than taxation without representation.

Giving the negro a voice in his part of the government does not necessarily mean that we are making equals of them. Even if we allow that it is making political equals of them, it does not mean that we accept them as social equals, and that we would be compelled to give them our daughters in marriage as the gentleman from South Carolina sees it.

Since we have kept the negroes here after setting them free from slavery, made citizens of them, permitted them to own property, and accept their money as taxes to help pay the expense of our government, it is our opinion that we should not retard their advancement; although this does not mean that we should accept them in inter-marriage or social intercourse.

Many of us are mighty strong for foreign missions. We want to send missionaries to Africa, China, and other places to promote advancement among what we consider inferior races. It seems rather inconsistent that we should harbor members of an inferior race right here among us and do so little to promote their advancement. It seems that we even do worse by retarding their advancement by holding them down in every way.

PINE BLUFF, ARK.
COMMERCIAL
JUL 1 - 1936

NATIONALIZING DEMOCRACY

The Democratic convention at Philadelphia, though most of its program and its doings were preordained, nevertheless saw two developments that may prove to be far more significant in the long run than was apt to appear on the surface.

In the first place, the party abrogated the 104-year-old two-thirds rule that had stood since it was sponsored by the Andrew Jackson forces in 1832. As has been shown in these columns already within the recent past, the rule rarely had any practical bearing on the selection of a candidate, but it did possess symbolical importance and carried some psychological values. In the popular mind it was supposed to allow the states of the so-called Solid South to veto the nomination of a man representing interests directly prejudicial to strictly southern interests. In other words, it helped somewhat in establishing and maintaining the notion that Democracy was a regional affair that from time to time succeeded in forming coalitions outside in sufficient number to win an election.

The second thing of an unusual nature and potential significance was at the convention. A Negro minister opened the convention with prayer on one occasion and With both political parties bowing and scraping to the colored brother, the old excuse for maintaining the solid south seems to have been erased. The Negro vote looks just as good to one party as to the other and the time may be close at hand when the southern Democrats will let the black citizens exercise their constitutional right of suffrage, as a play-up to the Negroes of the north.

NORFOLK, NEB.
NEWS
JUL 2 1936

One is free to like it or not, as Senator Cotton Ed Smith of South Caro-

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

BECKLEY, W. VA.
RALEIGH-REGISTER

JUN 30 1936

PRESS COMMENT

A CIVILIZED NATION?

The action of a South Carolina senator in walking from the Democratic convention hall because a Negro offered prayer, together with news reports of terrorist activities in Arkansas, drives home the feeling that progressive America still has a long way to go before she can call herself civilized.

The outburst at the convention can be excused on the flimsy grounds of custom. The south still hasn't gotten over the idea that the Negro is free, a citizen of the United States. Until that idea is wiped out completely, the very worthy campaign which aims at education and betterment of conditions for the Negro will be stuck on a snag.

But it's a different story in Arkansas. There, it isn't a case of some old southern dignity being insulted. Much worse. It's a case of cruel, bloody slave law, mob violence and Fascist methods.

Even the editor of a paper lauds this rule by whip in the land of cotton.

An editorial in the Earle, Ark., Enterprise says:

"Tenants are all on the job, and day laborers are plentiful, and glad to work for 75 cents a day, instead of the $1.50 demanded by the union.

"It is true that a few foreign agitators representing the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union have felt the sting of a backband applied where it would do the most good. This method has produced results where all other methods less drastic have failed.

"The greatest hue and cry arises from the fact that a white woman was forced to endure the indignity of a light whipping. Opinions vary as to the wisdom of this act. It is hard for us to condone the action. However, there is no doubt but what the woman was completely out of her place. Assisting in conducting a Negro funeral is no place for a white woman in the South."

There in Arkansas has been an attempt to qualify these terroristic activities on the grounds of the old South's feeling against the Negro. Such handling of the Negro would be excused, even praised, in a lot of southern regions. But back of it is the fact that in the South there are almost twice as many white croppers and tennants as there are black.

The Philadelphia Record says:

"It is not a race problem. . . . Nor is it merely an economic problem, though the difference between the $4.50 a week planters are paying and the $9 a week pickers are asking may be the difference between bringing children up in fair health or drooping with pellagra.

"It is above all a political problem.

"Taken in connection with the murder and flogging of union organizers in Tampa by the Klan and the murder of union automobile organizers by the Black Legion in Detroit and the mob violence of hired vigilantes on the Pacific Coast, it spells a menace of major proportions to human liberty in America.

"If workers can be flogged and driven to work at the point of guns, if fundamental liberties can be crushed, in Arkansas, how soon before workers are flogged and driven to their work in Birmingham and in West Virginia—and in Philadelphia?

"The South has become the training ground for the forces of Fascism, the use of the whip to enslave labor and cut its wages.—Fairmont Times.

Statesville, N. C., Record
June 30, 1936

The Negro In Politics

A South Carolina senator walked out of the Democratic National convention hall in Philadelphia because of the presence of negroes, he said. In explaining more fully his action, he said that political equality would lead to social equality and that social equality would lead to racial intermarriage and that racial intermarriage would lead to the mongrelizing of the white race.

The senator certainly was looking far ahead. He probably was looking much farther ahead than his deductions would ever materialize.

We do not think that racial equality is the thing to advocate in the United States now or in any future generation within the scope of our imagination, although there is no positive assurance that the white race will always be in the ascendancy.

It is a matter of generally known history that our forefathers brought the negroes here from another continent as savages and made slaves of them. Later they were set free and allowed to remain in the country to shift for themselves. They have done remarkably well under the circumstances to have advanced to their present state of civilization. Certainly, if there were no other barriers, they have not reached that state of refinement that would permit of social equality; but, as we see it, that has little to do with giving them a voice in their part of the government as we have made citizens of them.

The South Carolina senator and others who object to the presence of negroes in politics should remember that the very thing which gives us our present political system was our forefather's revolt against "taxation without representation". Giving the negroes citizenship amongst us, permitting them to own property and collecting taxes from them on that property and then denying them the privilege of any voice in the government is nothing less than taxation without representation.

Giving the negro a voice in his part of the government does not necessarily mean that we are making equals of them. Even if we allow that it is making political equals of them, it does not mean that we accept them as social equals, and that we would be compelled to give them our daughters in marriage as the gentleman from South Carolina sees it.

Since we have kept the negroes here after setting them free from slavery, made citizens of them, permitted them to own property, and accept their money as taxes to help pay the expense of our government, it is our opinion that we should not retard their advancement; although this does not mean that we should accept them in inter-marriage or social intercourse.

Many of us are mighty strong for foreign missions. We want to send missionaries to Africa, China, and other places to promote advancement among what we consider inferior races. It seems rather inconsistent that we should harbor members of an inferior race right here among us and do so little to promote their advancement. It seems that we even do worse by retarding their advancement by holding them down in every way.

PINE BLUFF, ARK.
COMMERCIAL
JUL 1 - 1936

NATIONALIZING DEMOCRACY

The Democratic convention at Philadelphia, though most of its program and its doings were preordained, nevertheless saw two developments that may prove to be far more significant in the long run than was apt to appear on the surface.

In the first place, the party abrogated the 104-year-old two-thirds rule that had stood since it was sponsored by the Andrew Jackson forces in 1832. As has been shown in these columns already within the recent past, the rule rarely had any practical bearing on the selection of a candidate, but it did possess symbolical importance and carried some psychological values. In the popular mind it was supposed to allow the states of the so-called Solid South to veto the nomination of a man representing interests directly prejudicial to strictly southern interests. In other words, it helped somewhat in establishing and maintaining the notion that Democracy was a regional affair that from time to time succeeded in forming coalitions outside in sufficient number to win an election.

The second thing of an unusual nature and potential significance was the presence of Negroes at the convention. A Negro minister opened the convention with prayer on one occasion and Representative Mitchell of Chicago addressed the assembled hosts. All this amounted to no more than an open admission that the party needs colored votes this time in many of the states of the east and middle west. Again the distinct tendency is to break down whatever impression has prevailed that Democracy was a thing dominated by the close at hand when the southern Democrats will let the black citizens exercise their constitutional right of suffrage, as a play-up to notions of the South. One is free to like it or not, as Senator Cotton Ed Smith of South Carolina most emphatically did not, but it would be a mistake not to see the intimations and implications.

NORFOLK, NEB.
JUL 2 1936

The immediate repercussions of these two matters will be small, presumably, but they do seem to serve as indications that the United States, here a little and there a little, is preparing for political division along some sort of new lines. We lump it for convenience and for lack of better words under the general heads of Liberalism and Conservatism. Those words, of course, mean different things at different times and in different countries. At the moment in this country the struggle is defined as for or against the New Deal.

It may be that far worse things could happen to us politically than some such realignment. Many sections of this nation are cursed by the fact that party adherence is so overpoweringly predominant. In a democracy things go better when there is a near balance of power between parties and when the one in office knows that any sins it commits will almost certainly bring retribution at the polls. As matters stand, the Republicans are cheering for states' rights and the Democrats want more power for the central government. If that can happen, probably anything can. It should be interesting to see.

—Commercial Appeal.

Democratic Confab Fall Short Of Mark Several Local Delegates Say; Many Folk Left Meeting Disgruntled, Displeased

In the oponion of several Marion County followers of the Indiana Negro Democratic Central Association, a golden opportunity to become the most important political organization of Negroes has slipped.

This opinion was voiced because of the glaring failures and general muddle of the program by which the convention was to have been run along with many inconveniences that the visitors had to undergo while in West Baden.

It was pointed out that the lack of political experience was one thing; promiscuous inviting of national speakers was another, too many factions over which there was no control was another, and no one really to blame for the whole thing but the officials of the body.

Congressman Mitchell shouldn't be wholly blamed for his not speaking to the three hundred persons who had assembled, because it is not known what he had been told or under what circumstances he had been invited; the least thing in the cause of the party could have been his appearance at the hotel. All went well, until that afternoon session which should have been held on the inside instead of in the dark: there were no lights on the grounds and the speakers could not see the faces of their audience as they spoke, then on top of all that, it was learned in the interview that other things were going on which were disapproved by many of those present.

The most remarkable thing of the political group was that there was no open hostility on the floor and everything appeared to be moving in an harmonious way; even those who carried grievances moved to make the meeting as successful as possible.

The interviewed went on, "from the stand point of numbers, the meeting was an indication of what can and will be done under proper circumstances, and planning. It shows that Indiana Negroes are alert, on their toes, and ready to put over the campaign for Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Clift Townsend, however, if we expect to act in a body, we'll have to do some reorganizing, plan better meetings with greater significance.

Democrats May Split Campaign Funds Between Vann, Thompkins

Bishopville, S. C., Messenger
July 9, 1936

By FLOYD J. CALVIN

An urgent telegram, which bore signs of being a distress signal, from Dr. Willam J. Thompkins at Washington to one of his Harlem lieutenants, summoning him to the capital last weekend gave rise to speculation that the Democrats might, for the sake of harmony, divide the campaign funds between Robert L. Vann and Julian D. Rainey, the new "Bg 2" and Dr. William J. Thompkins, president of the Colored Democratic Association.

Insiders say Dr. Thompkins has not taken the announcement of Vann as leader of the campaign "lying down", but is continuing his fight to get full recognition for his organization. If the funds are not divided, it is believed many Negro votes will be lost to the Democrats through continued fighting between the two rival factions.

Dr. Thompkins considers himself the "No. 1" colored Democrat of America, and Vann considers himself "The Chief", and there you are. Neither, it s believed, will work wth the other, as there are certan basic differences between them.

Vann, it is claimed, considers Thompkins' organization as "Jim Crow", while Thompkins, it is said, considers Vann nothing more than a clever individual who has only a newspaper to his credit. He is said to insist that a national organization is worth more than a newspaper to the party.

Just what the outcome will be is still debatable. Both men apparently stand high with Big Jim Farley.

BECKLEY, W. VA.
RALEIGH-REGISTER

JUL 8 - 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATS TO ORGANIZE CLUB

Negro Democrats will effect the organization of a Democratic club, at Neely's Hall, East Beckley, July 16, it was announced today.

The Rev. D. A. Twyman said today that the Reverend J. Edmond and others were inviting "all Democratic men and women" to attend the organization meeting.

"Everyone's burdens," said Twyman, "have been lightened by the New Deal."

What Other Editors Have to Say

Greenville News:

Numerous South Carolina Democrats undoubtedly would prefer to feel that the national party of which they are members rather discourages active participation in political affairs by Negroes. Convention affairs however, do not encourage continuation of that belief. That must be set down as a mere statement of fact. And as to what, if anything, should be done about it we have seen no constructive suggetion.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
July 9, 1936

Forthright and Sound

Wilson W. Harris, formerly a representative of this state, left the Democratic convention twice last week in protest against the presence and prominence of Negroes.

"By his action Senator Smith, whether they desired it or not, put the South Carolina delegation 'on the spot'—it had to show its hand. Smith was the leader—he did not wait to see what action others would take. He displayed a courage and honesty and fearlessness that other Southern senators and delegates (Senator Byrnes included) did not possess. He did not dodge, evade, or indulge in ambiguous phrases," says the Clinton Chronicle of which he is editor.

"The protest of Senator Smith (followed by that of others from his state) was not a personal objection but a protest against the national Democratic party openly declaring itself a national Negro political party in defiance of the traditions and position of Southern Democrats. It was the first time the Democrats in a national convention had given full recognition to Negroes."

One of the purest and best men, a Confederate veteran, that we have known in South Carolina was Dr. Job J. Boozer. We think he would, were he living, approve what The Chronicle has said. Wilson Harris is his grandson.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
WORLD TELEGRAM

JUN 24 1936

A demand for protection of share croppers in the South was presented by Gardner Jackson, chairman of the National Committee on Rural Social Planning.

H. L. Mitchell, of the Southern Share Croppers' Union, made a similar appeal.

Hugo Farmer, of Arizona, committee member, urged a broad federal highway construction program to stimulate employment.

J. L. Ransom, of Topeka, Kan., speaking for Negro delegates, urged planks giving Negroes "all the benefits enjoyed by others."

Adherence to the St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty was urged by Senator F. Ryan Duffy (D., Wis.), who said it would "do much to solidify our part of the country for the Democratic Party," and would offset third party strength.

UTICA, N. Y.
OBSERVER DISPATCH

JUL 3 - 1936

Negro Democrats Elect Officers

The Oneida County Colored Democratic League announces it will take an active part in the coming campaign.

At a meeting at 505 Jay Street, last night, officers were elected and a talk on the recent Democratic convention in Philadelphia was given by A. Fay Bennett, a delegate.

Officers elected were: President, Albert Ebo; vicepresident, Mrs. Venus Robertson; secretary, Edward Frank; treasurer, Edward Edmundson.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.
JOURNAL

JUN 22 1936

7th Ward Voters To Honor Caston

Seventh Ward Colored Democratic Voters will honor Robert J. Caston, ward leader, at a banquet at the Elks Club, No. 285 Clarissa Street, Wednesday evening.

Robert Holland, general chairman of arrangements, is assisted by David Parker and John Howard of the Colored Democratic Voters and by members of he Lehman Women's Club under the presidency of Metta V. Caston.

Political—1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Birmingham, Ala. News
July 11, 1936

The Negro As An Issue In Political Campaigns

The Montgomery Advertiser, reviewing an ugly incident and its aftermath, makes a very blunt comment on an old but not honored Southern political practice. It begins:

"Because a Negro minister delivered an invocation at the Philadelphia convention, because a Democratic Negro congressman delivered an address in support of President Roosevelt, because there were some Negro delegates in the convention, 'Cotton Ed' Smith, the South Carolina demagogue, walked out of the convention."

The episode is having its political consequences in South Carolina, where Senator Joseph F. Byrnes is a candidate for reelection and has opposition. Senator Byrnes was in the convention when Senator Smith walked out.

"Recently," The Advertiser continues, "two of Byrnes' opponents, in a joint meeting, asked him why he did not leave the convention, just as Smith did. Byrnes replied that he was appealing to the reason and not the prejudice of Carolinians—as if that would get a Carolina politician anywhere, especially when an ordinarily conservative and moderate newspaper like The Charleston News and Courier is devoting columns of editorial space to criticisms of Roosevelt because under him the Democratic party has alienated the Northern Negro vote from the Republicans for the first time in history."

Furthermore, The Advertiser notes, in Georgia Gene Talmadge, contemplating his struggle with Dick Russell for the Senate, names "race equality" as one of the "issues."

And here is The Advertiser's blunt comment:

"We Southern Democrats are too low-down to go through a state political campaign without making the helpless Negro a scapegoat in a white man's contest."

Something like that needs to be said. Of course, The Advertiser knows that there are many Southern Democrats who are above thinking of the Negro as an issue in political campaigns. Possibly the majority of them are above it—though such an estimate might be a trifle optimistic. But certain it is that there are enough Southern Democrats that low-down to cause some politicians—who are no better than they are in this respect—to use the Negro "issue" as a vote-catcher.

Senator Smith's walk-out at the convention was much deplored in the South. Many Southern newspapers branded it as the narrow-minded, small-spirited and altogether ugly act that it was. One great pity of it was that, coming from a Southern senator and being so widely publicized, it might be taken in other sections of the country as being representative of the South's attitude, when in fact it was not. Yet, when we see such use being made of the incident in South Carolina, we must reflect sorrowfully that it did represent the attitude of all too many Southerners.

We can, however, take some satisfaction in the knowledge that this sort of thing is becoming less prevalent. The Negro "issue" does not figure as much in political campaigns in the South now as it did even a few years ago. The time will come when no demagogue will seek to win votes in this way. For the day will come when there are comparatively so few who can be influenced by such an appeal to prejudice, and so many who object to it, that politicians will realize its unpopularity. Then will die an "issue" that should have had no place in Southern politics since the end of Reconstruction.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
July 9, 1936

Time for the Talk Is Limited

When Senator Byrnes declares "I will not only vote for Roosevelt but will talk the way I vote," he means every word of it, he is a sincere man, but circumstances beyond his control will prevent him from carrying out his purpose. Already Senator Byrnes is not talking, or not always, as he votes, as when, for example, he joined in the protest of the South Carolina delegation against the prominence of negroes in the Philadelphia convention.

That was defiance of the national Democratic and Roosevelt program, and when the showdown comes on this question, as soon and surely it will, Senator Byrnes will stand with his South Carolina people shoulder to shoulder with Harllee and Stoney.

A new "Democratic" party was launched in Philadelphia by the convention and by Mr. Roosevelt's speech of acceptance. Mr. Byrnes has assisted with loyalty to Mr. Roosevelt in the events leading up to it. So have Robinson of Arkansas, Harrison of Mississippi and most of the Southerners. Others, like Glass and Byrd of Virginia, Bailey of North Carolina, Smith of South Carolina, with George of Georgia moving toward them, have opposed the trend but, seeing nowhere else to go, they stick to the party organization, cursing it under breath.

All of these Southerners in a little while will be pulling together, because this new "Democratic" party is as antagonistic to the South as the "Radicals" were in 1867.

One hears, for instance, that Senator Robinson is to be appointed to the supreme bench if a vacancy occurs. We doubt it. Mr. Roosevelt perhaps would like to appoint him, he likes the Senator and has no anti-Southern feeling, but he knows that the party upon which he is dependent, which seemingly has captured him, this new "Democracy," with its "liberal" leaders like Wagner, and its "labor" leaders would probably read the riot act and stop his confirmation by the senate. The pressure of the Northern negroes against his confirmation would count with Wagner, Van Nuys, the other Northern and Western Democrats as it does for the Wagner-Costigan bill, and soon or late Mr. Byrnes will awake some fine morning to find himself in the same boat. The Democratic party, as Mr. Broun has said, "is split through the middle."

Nothing more is going on now than desperate effort to postpone the split. The plan is to let things rock, reelect Roosevelt and hope for the best. That would at least mean another four years before the present officeholders were on the street or back to the plowstock. Never mind about the future.

Further, it should be said that Robinson, Harrison, Byrnes, Russell, Bankhead, Shepard and such Southerners, are respectable fellows, the kind that have kept the mouthing demagogues and mountebanks from gaining ascendancy in many Southern states.

These gentlemen, and we use the word "gentlemen" with deliberation, are not all happy in their Washington lives. They have had to crouch and fawn and swallow and struggle against betraying themselves with wry faces many a time in the last three years, and The News and Courier has sometimes been sorry for them. Well, if they can get in for another four years, perhaps all will be well and the present Southern set-up is not uncomfortable. These men are quite aware that they are not and cannot be true disciples of the new Democratic party, with which the Northern controllers believe with Mr. Broun, "something could be done if it could get rid of the Democrats."

The Southern people are not informed and will not be of what is going on beyond them. Mr. Harrison, Mr. Robinson and the rest will persuade them that things will go on as usual and what they say will be emphasized by drippings of a few millions from the treasury, Mr. Roosevelt's national treasury. They do not understand that men like Governor Earle, a millionaire of an "old Philadelphia family," is now the champion of the Pennsylvania negroes (he gave them the civil rights law by which a negro can prosecute a hotel keeper for refusing a room to him), and is, for the moment, the "Crown Prince" of the "people" upon whom the reelection or defeat of Mr. Roosevelt will turn.

Mr. Byrnes, possibly, can "talk Roosevelt" a few months longer, but it is likely that after that he can no more talk Roosevelt than can Mr. Roosevelt himself talk the Roosevelt of 1932. Everybody knows that Mr. Roosevelt cannot do that. A new "Democratic" party has been created. A new body, new bones, bowels, blood, and brains are under the old skin and scalp.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
June 30, 1936

Ickes to the Negroes

One cannot agree with Mr. Ickes that the Southern negroes have been a group of peculiar sufferers. They certainly have not been at the hand of the Southern white people.

We hold that in the history of the world, not nearly so much for any other group of Africans has been done as for Southern negroes, whether in slavery or in freedom, by Southern white men. We Southerners have not accepted them as Mr. Ickes and the national Democratic convention do, as political equals, and we separate them in industries, such as cotton mills. From those policies we shall not depart.

From the use of the ballot Southern negroes have nothing at this time to gain; indeed there is no supreme healing in the ballot for anybody.

For the present and probably for long years or centuries to come, the Southern negroes will be safer under the political guardianship of the white people than they would be as guardians of themselves. Their assent the last half century to white government is convincing evidence that they believe this themselves, and it is only under the agitation by outsiders and foreigners, of whom Secretary Ickes is an example, that they show signs of discontent. If we are to accept the testimony of lifelong champions of the negroes, such as Mr. Oswald Garrison Villard, no group of them of similar numbers in the South is so hardly treated as are those in New York city, however their votes in New York are sought by Democrats and Republicans alike.

It is universally conceded by the world's thinkers, exclusive of the officeholding politicians, that the granting of the ballot to the negroes as a race after 1865 was a monstrous blunder. When Charles Dickens, intense abolitionist, came to Baltimore, the town in which Mr. Ickes spoke, in 1867, and saw the elevation to the full stature of citizenship of the black people as a sequel to their emancipation, his amazement and disgust were equal to the hatred that all his life he had cherished for slavery.

In the South as in the North are unjust employers. They are the exceptions. Nine of every ten white employers of Southern negroes do and have always done the best possible for them. Indeed the Southern whites, so far from being exploiters of the negroes, have been kept poor in the struggle to carry them along.

The national Democratic party sixty years after the failure of Stevens, Wade, and Sumner, has had a sudden revelation that it must revive their dead policy.

The new method is soft-spoken. It is to deceive, it is to delude the Southern whites, in contrast to the bludgeoning by the "Black Radicals" of the '70s.

The motive and the plan are the same. It is to get the votes of the negroes concentrated in the great Northern cities.

In those cities, Pittsburgh for example, Democratic leaders are bribing and corrupting them, and the ways of Mr. Ickes's party associates in Chicago, whether he suspects it or not, are and will be no better than were those of his fellow citizen, "Big Bill" Thompson, former Republican mayor and boss of his town.

Edgefield, S. C. Advertiser
July 8, 1936

Senator Smith's Walk-Out at Convention

The Press and Standard has heard many comments by local people and nearly everyone of them agrees that Senator Smith voiced a proper protest. A few think his action was not proper. Characteristic of the comments were remarks made by J. M. Benton who served in the Red Shirt campaign in 1876. He said that any man who went through this campaign and witnessed what the white people of the South had to endure then, will commend Senator Smith's action. County officials discussing it think that his action was a proper expression of resentment as to the attitude of the people of South Carolina who have been taught to believe that the Democratic party was the white man's party, made so by the stirring drama enacted when the members of that party were trampled down just after the War Between the States, and which party was instrumental under Wade Hampton in redeeming the state from Negro and carpet bag rule. The Southern Negro has been partisan since for the Republican party, feeling in most cases bitterly against the Democratic party. Now that this party has the loaves and fishes to dispense there is a is a marked tendency for the negroes, particularly in the North, to try to curry favor with the hand that dispenses favors which is now the Democratic party. We fear that there is little of genuine conversion on the part of the negro race, and that the spoils is what most of them are after. Should the Republican party have as good a chance to win as the Democratic party they would be flocking to the standards of that party.

It has been stated that the invitations to the negroes who took part in the program at the National convention was an exemplification of cheap politics, and in that we are forced to concur. The great Democratic convention need not have invited a Negro minister to lead in prayer on the occasion of the assembling of the convention for a session. The Negro congressman was not even a delegate to the convention, nor has he been an outstanding member of his race. These were invited to appear on the program for the effect their appearing would have on the Negro vote of the nation, particularly in the Republican or border states. Insofar as this is true it was an exemplification of cheap politics. Should it result in a split in the Southern states, and it may so result, then it will not prove to have been "cheap politics."

The Press and Standard feels no bitterness about the occasion. We have the highest regard for the members of the Negro race who have been able to achieve success, and there are many who have done so to their credit and to the credit of the race. These we commend. We hope they will continue to so do. We have been taught that the Democratic party was the party of the white race. It has heretofore been accepted as such. Our fathers kept this party alive in the South. In fact the South for many years was the Democratic party save for a few white citizens of the North who remained true to the principles enunciated by Jefferson. The South and Southern feelings should have been considered by the makers of the program. We have a feeling of resentment against this affront to the true and loyal Southern sentiment—the Democratic sentiment. And, feeling as we do about it, we can only commend Senator Smith, Mayor Maybank and the other South Carolinians who "walked" at the convention.

So far as going to hear Negro orators in the South, that is not an analogous case. The editor of the Press and Standard has done this many times and we shall be glad to do so on other occasions. We have done this with no feeling of restraint. It was perfecting proper for us to have done so. No one can offer any just criticism for our having done this, nor can they in the future. We were there in the interest of the Negro race. We desired to show by our presence that we commend the race for its advancement and for the exemplification of ability on the part of outstanding members. In the field of politics and in social equality we must draw the line. The Southern Negro understands this and they themselves would not have it otherwise. The races are living together in South Carolina in perfect amity and with a complete understanding of the mutual problems facing the races. There is no danger to the whites nor to the Negroes in this relationship. It is best that it be as it is with us, at least for the present.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
TIMES

JUN 30 1936

THE NEGRO IN THE SOUTH.

Two incidents which have occurred recently accent the problem of the Negro in the South, a problem which is essentially one for which the Southern white people will have to provide a solution. Senator Ellison D. Smith, of South Carolina, marched out of the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia in protest against the presence of Negroes. A Negro preacher — the Rev. Marshall Sheppard, of Philadelphia—was opening the Convention's afternoon session with prayer when Senator Smith and several other members of his State's delegation walked out of the hall. Asserting later that he was "sick of the whole damn thing," Senator Smith added:

> The situation in the South before and since the Civil War makes it impossible for the South to recognize and accept the Negro as an equal political factor.

Another incident which occurred this week reflects a point of view which, if not characteristic of the "new south" of which Grady spoke, is indorsed by more important people than Senator Smith can count among his followers. At the Institute of Regional Development at the University of North Carolina, in Senator Smith's sister State, one of the speakers was Professor J. Y. Mitchell, the only Negro member of the Institute. Professor Mitchell is a graduate of the Agricultural and Technical College at Greensboro, N. C. He taught school for six years and since 1917 he has been a County and District Farm Demonstration Agent. A special dispatch to The New York Times from Chapel Hill said of Professor Mitchell's address that it received the most applause of all that were delivered at last Monday's session of the Institute. Commenting on the Negro educator later, Dr. B. O. Williams, of Clemson College, which is in Senator Ellison Smith's State of South Carolina, asserted:

> One man like that is worth more to the South than all the "pressure groups" ever organized to deal with this question.

Professor Mitchell, in his Institute address, agreed with Dr. Guy Johnson of the University of North Carolina, who had preceded him, in asserting the belief that certain research work and work with Negroes could best be done by those of their own race. Both men expressed the opinion that graduate instruction should be made available to Negro students. Dr. Johnson, among other things, suggested that States "get together and work out plans" for the establishment of high standard regional schools for Negro graduate students.

It is impossible to imagine a greater contrast than is provided by the viewpoint of Senator Smith, and the viewpoint of the educators who met at the University of North Carolina to solve regional problems in education. If Senator Smith had based his withdrawal from the Democratic Convention on the one question of Negro participation there would be more cause for disappointment than exists. It develops that Senator Smith had already protested because there had been provided him, to use his own words, "No badge, no seat, no nothing." He felt slighted. He was "sick of the whole damn thing" before the Negro preacher began his prayer. That was, so to speak, the final blow.

On the other hand, in South Carolina and other Southern States, there are men and women who believe that to develop this section it is necessary to provide for the Negro educational advantages which will enable him to serve his race and discharge ably those responsibilities which citizenship lays upon him. The spirit of enlightened Southerners did not march with Senator Smith out of the Convention Hall in Philadelphia; that spirit has been, and will continue to be, represented by a desire to see both races, each in its particular sphere, progress in education and toward prosperity.

Political—1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Norfolk, Va. Pilot
June 26, 1936

The Lone White Knight

His patience already strained by a misunderstanding concerning seating reservations for him at the convention, Senator Smith, of South Carolina, lost what remained of it when a Negro minister began invoking God's guidance for the afternoon session. He stalked angrily out of the hall, although the chairman of the State's delegation refrained from joining the walkout, observing later that he was willing for anybody to pray for him who wants to.

It appears that this was the first time a Democratic convention was opened with prayer by a Negro clergyman—perhaps also the first time a Democratic national convention had seated Negro delegates. In South Carolina Democratic conventions, things like that are not done. Therefore, Senator Smith thinks, things like that hadn't oughter be done by national Democratic conventions. The Cole Blease-"Pitchfork" Tillman-"Cotton Ed" school of Southern statesmen is profoundly convinced that it cornered the truth about the Negro's place in American politics many years ago, that nothing that has happened in the last thirty years has altered matters one way or the other, and that its edicts on this subject should run to the Delaware, the Susquehanna and the Penobscot, with the same force that they run to the Ashley, the Cooper and the Santee.

This is not the place to examine the supremely perplexing Southern race question. It poses quandaries that defy the best thought of the best-intentioned members of both races. The episode that led to Senator Smith's sad walkout on the Word of God was not one of them.

Negro delegates had been seated because they came armed with credentials from constituencies whose right to be represented in the convention by delegates of their own choosing was as unassailable as the like right of Senator Smith's constituency. A Negro minister had been called to the rostrum by party authorities accountable to all the States of the American union and not merely to one or a dozen of them. It should be a matter of serious thought to Senator Smith, as he reflects on his one-man strike against the engulfment of Caucasian purity, that not one other Southern statesman of his eminence saw in this situation anything to become steamed up about; or any reason for making it the excuse for an ill-mannered demonstration in the midst of a devotional rite.

MITCHELL TAKES WALK IN INDIANA

Mystery Marks Sudden Departure of Congressman After Rainey Arrives—Democrats Pledge Loyalty to Roosevelt and Support to Vann.

WEST BADEN, Ind., July 16—Negro Democratic leaders from every precinct in Indiana convened here last Saturday in a one-day session at which plans for rolling up an overwhelming Negro vote for President Roosevelt and the New Deal were outlined, and at which pledges of support to Robert L. Vann, editor of The Courier, recently appointed to direct the national campaign for Roosevelt among the Negroes of the country, were made.

A highlight of the program was the attack made upon Negro Republican leadership that has "betrayed the trust of the Negro" by Joseph H. Rainey, a member of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, the principal speaker.

"A new day shot through with hope for the Negro in the future has dawned," Rainey said.

He recounted the benefits accruing to the Negro through operation of the WPA and the Resettlement Administration, citing positions in the "higher bracket" occupied by the Negro as a direct result of the impartiality of New Deal directors.

Bolstering his argument with impressive figures, Rainey hailed President Roosevelt as "the greatest humanitarian in the history of America." He lauded Governor George H. Earle, of Pennsylvania, as a courageous State executive, who has "translated the love for humanity, regardless of race, color or creed, into action that has resulted in more recognition being given Negroes in Pennsylvania than has been true in any previous administration."

Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell of Illinois, motored to the meeting, but left shortly before the session opened. Considerable mystery marked his sudden and dramatic departure.

However, an official of the Indiana State Democrtic Association, who refused to permit publication of his name, and two other sources considered reliable, connected the appearance of Rainey as a representative of Governor Earle and Robert L. Vann with the departure of Congressman Mitchell.

One of the sources was emphatic in asserting that Congressman Mitchell resented the projection of Mr. Vann into the picture through Rainey being slated as the principal speaker.

"The Congressman stated that he could not take part in the program because no county or State leaders were present," this source stated. "But privately he told a member of the association that he couldn't see Rainey being drawn into the picture."

Both county and State Democratic party leaders did attend the sessions, however, thereby recognizing the association as the accredited political machinery of the State.

The leadership of Henry Fleming, of Indianapolis, was lauded by delegates in attendance.

"The day of the Negro blindly supporting a political party because of some old fogey idea about what it is supposed to have done for the Negro long years ago, before your time or mine, is out today," Fleming said.

"Today the salvation of the Negro is sticking with the party that has definitely done something for him. There are none who can say that the Democratic party, through its New Deal setup hasn't done more for the Negro than any political party in the history of this country. It's time for Negroes to start repaying the New Deal for some of the fine things it has done for us as a group," he continued.

Among others taking an active part on the program were: Judge Tenola Graves, William Walker, William Moore, J. J. Hoover, president of the association; George Russel, of Gary, Dr. Ted Cable, I. L. Rice, secretary of the association and V. N. Knox.

Jim-Crow Charge Answered by Dr. Wm. Thompkins

Tells Critics He Will Preside Again In 1940, If His Health Permits

Dr. William J. Thompkins, recorder of deeds, and president of the National Colored Democratic Association, this week, in a prepared statement, answered charges that have been hurled at his organization which termed it a jim-crow one.

The charges were made by Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh publisher, and several other Democrats who have been vieing with Dr. Thompkins for the leadership in the Democratic campaign among colored voters.

Corley Spoke

The national Colored Democratic Association held its twelfth quadrennial session in Philadelphia, just prior to the regular Democratic Convention. It was addressed by Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Secretary W. Forbes Morgan.

While the association was in session, a daily paper quoted Vann as issuing a statement to the effect that the association was jim-crow.

Dr. Thompkin's complete answer follows:

"The National Colored Democratic Association was incorporated in the year 1892 and has been operating under a Constitution which requires it to meet every four years at the place where the Democratic National Convention is held.

"The recent quadrennial sessions of the organization held at Philadelphia is therefore no departure from the constitutional procedure and in conformity with past practices.

"The Constitution of the organization was made by its members to suit their own conveniences and they held no concultations with the general public in its formulation.

Not True

"The statement which has been going the rounds of the press that it was a 'jim crow' meeting designed to impress the leaders of Democracy with the prower and prestige of the organization is quite untrue.

"The National Call was issued by [illegible] as required by law and if there are those who cry that the meeting of Delegates from many sections of the country was an improverised 'jim crow' movement, they do so maliciously and untruthfully.

"If every assemblage of colored men and women in the nation were to be called off because of the fear that they would be designated as coming within the "jim crow" category, our educational and religious life would be halted and most of our economic activities would come to an end.

Is Growing

"The National Colored Democratic Association is growing rapidly in the number of its charter organizations from California to New York. It was organized and designed to promote the political and material welfare of the race which it has done and will continue to do.

"Should I be among the living in 1940, and health permitting as its duly elected President, I will preside at its next quadrennial session in whatever city the National Convention is held."

PARSONS, KAN.
SUN
JUL 6 - 1936

Hard Fight Ahead

The Democratic organization in Kansas is carrying the fight to the Republicans this year, which means, that with Governor Landon heading the national Republican ticket, Kansas is to see one of the hardest campaigns in its history.

The Democrats made a campaign to change the party designations of a large number of Republicans and they seem to have been successful. In this county 347 voters changed their party allegiance on the registration books and two-thirds of that number were Republicans who have become Democrats—at least in name. Of the number changed 100 were Negro voters who have become members of a New Deal

Negro club and who filed all their changes in one bunch last week. A few years ago the colored vote was conceded to the Republicans —just a matter of Abraham Lincoln and the Civil war. In these days the Democrats are out gunning for the colored voters and they seem to be having some success.

The AP has been carrying stories about the large gain in Democratic registration in most of the Kansas counties. In Sedgwick, for example, 1,951 voters changed party affiliations and 1,802 of them were Republicans who changed over to Democrats.

It is natural that the Republicans should lose some, perhaps a lot of voters, in getting back to something like a November lineup of the party strength. In past campaigns it has been notorious that Democrats registered as Republicans because the big primary fights have been in the Republican primary. After the primary the Democrats voted their own ticket except for Capper who usually gets all the votes. This year the interesting fights are in the Democratic primary and not in the Republican, so it is natural for a lot of Democrats to get back home.

Still, that doesn't explain the 100 colored voters who changed party allegiance here last week. They never have been Democrats. Their change means that some colored Democrats have been doing a lot of pre-primary work. But if the Democrats are to challenge the Republicans even in the colored precincts of the state this year you can tell the world there's going to be a fight.

WEST POINT, MISS.
Daily Times Leader

JUL 3 - 1936

...the Negro Vote.

Because Chairman Joe Robinson called on Marshall Sheppard, negro minister, to deliver the invocation at one of the sessions of National Democratic convention in Philadelphia, Senator Ellison D. Smith, of South Carolina, walked out of the hall.

Commenting on this action, Senator Smith is quoted as saying:

"The situation in the south before and since the Civil War makes it impossible for the south to recognize and accept the negro as an equal political factor.

Candidly, we believe Senator Smith is super-sensitive on a subject which is better understood by most Southern men.

We heard the prayer delivered by the Negro preacher.

It was earnest and sincere, and directed to the same God who guides and directs the destinies of all races and all creeds.

If Senator Smith wanted to walk out, he should have done so when Mitchell, a Negro congressman from Chicago, addressed the convention, and not when an humble and earnest Negro preacher asked Divine blessings on the assembled delegates.

While it is true that the South has never recognized the Negro as an equal political factor, we must remember that the Nation has, and that the Democratic party in the approaching campaign is confronted by a condition and not a theory. The Negro vote is important in several of the States. In Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania, the Negro probably holds the balance of power between the two parties. Those in charge of the convention appreciate this situation, and Chairman Joe Robinson, who is a resident of the Deep South, exercised excellent judgment in giving this slight recognition to a race which has heretofore been antagonistic to the Democratic party.

Mitchell, the Negro congressman who addressed the convention, represents a solidly Negro district in Chicago. He is a Democrat, and the successor of a Negro Republican who was a vicious influence in Washington.

Other Congressmen tell us that Mitchell has at least one attribute of greatness. He is humble.

Democratic Activity In Memphis Described

MEMPHIS, Tenn, (ANP)—The fact of huge Negro mass meetings, held in the heart of the Mid-South, for the purpose of participating in a Democratic primary, was provided here last week. Numerous civic organizations in Negro wards sponsored meetings at which thousands of colored organizations were in attendance. The primary campaign ended Thursday, August 6.

The meetings were planned and directed by the colored ward and civic club leaders. The speakers and moving spirits in the meeting were Negro leaders. All of the meetings were characterized by enthusiastic support of Gordon Browning for Governor.

The Women's Auxiliary of the East End Civic Club is the largest, and reputedly the best organized club of this sort among the colored people of Memphis. Its membership numbers more than 2,000. At the meeting staged by the women's group, more than 5,000 persons were present.

Reverend A. D. Bell, pastor of the Mount Moriah Baptist Church, made the principal speech of the evening. He stressed the desirability for Negroes to participate in the political and civic affairs of the city, and urged them to fall in line with all persons and policies which would lead to the best development of themselves and their locality.

Espy Leads St. Louis Nominees To Legislature

Pulls Major Surprise as Negroes Display Voting Power Other Victors

While Mayor Dickmann clearly demonstrated his control of the Democratic party in the primary Tuesday, some interesting upsets featured the battles within the Republican ranks and a final tabulation disclosed that Negro leadership in St. Louis wards had been increased by one committeewoman, Mrs. Sabra W. Parker, widow of the late Rev. J. H. Parker, master of the Pleasant Green Baptist Church, winning over her rival in the fifth ward Republican fight by more than 1,000 votes.

It was Attorney Henry D. Espy, president of the St. Louis branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who pulled the major surprise of the day, leading the entire field of the nine candidates for the G. O. P. nomination as representative from the third district.

Victory Eignificant

Espy polled 6,895 votes while another Negro, Daniel W. Euell, former deputy sheriff and World War veteran, came in third on the ticket. Euell was backed by Langston Harrison as was Walthal Moore, the former state legislator, who tallied 4,334 votes to finish in sixth place. Espy and Euell will have as their running mates Mrs. Charles Passmore and J. G. Bernstein. The Rev. E. N. Bryant, editor of the United World, local religious periodical, finished close behind Moore.

DEMOCRATS OF ST. LOUIS MEET GREAT DEFEAT

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 14 — The 1936 primary elections here last Tuesday left the Democratic aspirants of the Race out in the cold, while nine followers of the GOP came through as winners. Five other Republican candidates were also relegated to the "also rans."

The Sixth ward was the center of interest, with the 19th, 20th and 23rd wards in spirited contests. The prime winners on the Republican ticket were Henry D. Espy, young lawyer, and Daniel W. Euell, legion veteran. Espy led the entire Third district with 6,895 votes, while Euell ran third with 5,392.

Harrison Wins Over Gregg

Perhaps the most interesting battle was in the Sixth ward between the Regulars who supported the veteran Langston Harrison for committeeman and the Progressives who supported Dr. E. G. Gregg. It was a clean-cut victory for Harrison who received 1,892 to 1,361 votes for Dr. Gregg. Mrs. Luella Shabe, incumbent committeewoman was re-elected, defeating the Progressives' dynamic Mrs. B. Campbell McClendon 1,860 to 1,354.

In the Sixth ward the Race Democrats engaged in a bitter but losing fight with Mayor Dickmann's division supporting John Moroney (white) against the Civic League's Race candidates, A. Macec May and Mrs. Bessie Guenther.

Negro Democrats Promoting Plans

The state executive committee of the Iowa Negro Democratic league met Thursday, August 6th, to formulate plans for promoting the campaign. Several policies were shaped and will be announced later. Henry J. Mease, state chairman, was named as national committeeman from Iowa.

A publicity committee was named, which consists of Arthur Taylor, Cedar Rapids, chairman; Lawrence Chapman and Mrs. Hazel Oliver of Des Moines. Montrose Johnson of Cedar Rapids and W. Lawrence Oliver of Des Moines were named to the National Speakers bureau. Other out of town representatives were: Elmer Smith and Frank Walker

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

MORE ON THE PLATFORM

The Birmingham News calls the Democratic platform the greatest ever written. Surely it expresses the loftiest idealism, the greatest hope for the common man of any The Advertiser can remember. In contrast to the Republican effort it is a masterpiece of clarity and unity of purpose. It naturally makes an appeal to every class of voters, but there is no hodge-podge, dilly-dallying approach to the problems weighing so heavily upon the American people. It is a new day in the Democratic party, a new Democratic party, not in objective and principles, however.

The great question that must at first hanker the minds of thoughtful persons is how far will government paternalism go? Will the government become increasingly collective to the extent that human initiative will be destroyed? Will every flea-bitten, improvident soul, who isn't worth his salt, be protected by the strong arm of government? A cursory reading of the platform may lead one to that belief, but more careful consideration will indicate that the government intends to step in only after all individual effort has failed, only after circumstances over which the individual has no control have wrought destruction. And then it is time for government to take an active hand in common protection of its citizens.

Naturally The Advertiser is pleased to note that farm tenancy is recognized as a national problem. It is a disease that the States are powerless to remedy. The government in Washington only has the power to reclaim thousands of acres of land and millions of men and women who are helpless in their extreme poverty and ignorance.

"We recognize," the platform reads, "the gravity of the evils of farm tenancy, and we pledge the full cooperation of the government in the refinancing of farm indebtedness at the lowest possible rates of interest and over a long term of years."

When the Bankhead bill is revived at the next session of Congress, will it not be put on the Administration's "must" list? The future of the South, and of the whole nation, is threatened unless tenancy, the great breeder of unrest and of possible revolution, is eradicated.

On the subject of the tariff the platform was not so explicit, it seems to The Advertiser, as it might have been. While it said in effect that it would continue to support Secretary Hull and his reciprocal trade agreements it also attempts to make a bid to conservative strength. Nevertheless it is generally recognized that one of the chief issues of the campaign is the tariff question. The Republicans have demanded outright repeal of the Reciprocal Trade Act, the most important single effort on the part of the Administration to break down those artificial barriers which throttle trade and breed war. The Republicans would have us accept the philosophy of protection which was in a large measure responsible for the Hoovera of 1929.

The plank on the civil service is reassuring to those supporters of the President who have had their allegiance challenged so often by the antics of the Hon. James Aloysius Farley.

Even arch opponents of the party must realize that this platform is something startlingly original and remarkably idealistic. It is the philosophy of the New Deal, from the pens of its staunchest supporters. While platforms, as such, mean very little, one has faith in this one because it truly represents the ideas and the hopes of the man who has steered the Ship of State over high waves and through narrow straits in the last three and a half years. And let it be remembered that there are few scars on the hull, too.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
July 31, 1936

The Young Play with Fire

The "Greenville County Young Democratic club" a few weeks ago "went on record as favoring" a federal constitutional amendment providing for the regulation of working hours and wages in the various industries and appointed a committee to "contact" candidates for United States senator and representatives on the subject. To its question Coloniel Harllee made a candid reply opposing the suggestion, and a similar reply was sent to the committee by Thomas P. Stoney from which we quote:

"I believe that regulation of the working hours and wages in industry is a matter that comes properly within the jurisdiction of the individual states. I believe that the Senators and Representatives whom the Democrats of South Carolina elect to the Legislature are much better able to regulate these matters than the Federal Government in Washington. We do not want in South Carolina to have strangers from Washington come in our midst and run our affairs. We do not want our people to be ruled by the high hand of Federal high salaried snoopers, inquisitors, administrators, boards and commissions not responsible to the working men and women whom they would regulate. In short, I am opposed to conferring upon the Federal Government the power that belongs to the states. To do so would be a confession of governmental bankruptcy on the part of South Carolinians. I, for one, do not feel that our people are so helpless that they are unable to solve their own problems.

"In conclusion, I might point out that my views on this subject conform to the views which President Franklin D. Roosevelt voiced when he made the following statement:

"'Let us remember that from the very beginning differences in climate, soil conditions, habits and mode of living in states separated by thousands of miles rendered it necessary to give the fullest individual latitude to the individual states. Remembering that the mining states of the Rockies, the fertile savannahs of the South, the prairies of the West and the rocky soil of the New England states created many problems, introduced many factors in each locality which have no existence in others, it is obvious that almost every new or old problem of government must be solved, if it is to be solved to the satisfaction of the people of the whole country, by each state in its own way.'"

Thus, plainly and beyond dispute, Thomas P. Stoney has politely exposed the Greenville County Young Democratic Club as repudiating the opinion of President Roosevelt, unless, indeed, by this time, the president has repudiated himself. Anyway, Mr. Stoney has covered the subject and left the Greenville County Young Democratic club hanging between a State Rights Roosevelt and New Deal Roosevelt as Mahomet's coffin hung between heaven and earth.

If Senator Byrnes and the candidates for the house have replied to the question, The News and Courier would be pleased to print what they said.

The amendment desired by the Greenville County Young Democratic Club could hardly be framed without leaving to congress and the president the right to prohibit separation of the races in Greenville county's cotton mills.

If the Club can frame an amendment for regulation of hours and wages that will insure continuance of that separation, it would perform a public service by so doing If its members imagine that abolition of state regulation of hours and wages in industries can be effected without yielding to congress and the president complete control of industry they are young indeed. Secretary Ickes, Senators Wagner, Guffey, and all other Northern senators of whatever party (except Borah, Republican) will not neglect to heed their negro constituents guided by Walter White of the Society for the Advancement of the Colored People.

The textile workers in Greenville county do not want negroes by their sides as they operate spindles and looms, and the Young Democratic Club, which does not want it, should at least reassure these workers and explicitly tell them how an amendment could be framed that would leave to them the safety that they now enjoy.

Young people too often play with fire and, unless watched, may not only burn themselves but burn the house down over their elders, including workers in the mills.

Johnson City, Tenn. Chronicle
August 7, 1936

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1936, By The Baltimore Sun)

—o—

NEW DEAL AND THE NEGROES

Further examination of the extent to which class appeal rather than party appeal underlies the New Deal campaign forces the conclusion that Dr. Tugwell knew exactly what he was talking about in that Los Angeles speech months ago, so bitterly denounced at the time, but now somewhat generally forgotten.

—o—

In fact, if the writings and utterances of Dr. Tugwell are reviewed it will be seen that so far as the ideas, aims and general trend of the Roosevelt Administration are concerned he has been almost uniformly right. It is possible to prove that he has known more about these in advance than anyone else. Some contend that he has known a few of them before Mr. Roosevelt himself. In any event he certainly forecast the present class appeal campaign with striking accuracy when he declared "our strategy" should be to formulate a "workers-farmers alliance." He knew about that ahead of Mr Farley and called upon the workers and farmers to "surge forward" against "business greed."

—o—

Almost from the date of that deliverance the efforts of the New Deal political managers have been concentrated upon cementing this alliance and with, they believe, no inconsiderable success. It is true that since the Landon nomination the cement seems to have loosened a little as regards the farmers, but if the attitude of the more conspicuous professional labor leaders is accepted as the yardstick, the workers end is pretty well along—at least in the union field. The loudest and most blatant of the Roosevelt boosters are Mr. Lewis, said to be the most powerful of union labor leaders, and his pompous and loquacious aide, Major Berry, with his so-called "Labor's Non-Partisan League," the publicity for which has been very highly organized, indeed.

—o—

Hardly a day goes by without a statement of some sort emanating from the source denunciatory of Governor Landon and eulogistic of Mr. Roosevelt. The Berry claims of the number of union labor votes "in the bag" for the President have now passed the three-million mark. They have grown more than a million in a month. It may be that paid professional labor leaders will not be able to deliver the labor vote with the solidity claimed, but it is none the less true that Mr. Roosevelt has the big and supposedly influential leaders with him—has had for more than a year—and so completely that they did not even wait until the Republicans had nominated a candidate before formally declaring for him and appropriating money out of their union treasuries for his campaign.

—o—

The interesting thing now, however, is that the New Dealers have added a great racial group to the workers and farmers for their special appeal—to wit, the Negroes in the great industrial cities. A drive in this direction under Mr. Farley such as has never before characterized a Democratic campaign is being made. At New Deal headquarters there are more Negro aides coming and going than anyone ever saw before. The new Negro Congressman from the Loop district in Chicago, Arthur Mitchell, after conferences with Mr. Farley, announces a nation-wide set-up to bring the Negroes into the New Deal camp. Various Negro division heads are appointed. There are to be Eastern and Western divisions. Negro leaders in many States have already been designated by the Democratic chairman. A great deal of money is to be spent on Negro organization. Mitchell expresses approval of the Roosevelt policies and particularly of the Roosevelt attitude toward the Negro.

—o—

It is conceded that the hopes of carrying a number of States now depend upon the Negroes. In particular this is true of Pennsylvania. There the idea is to combine the Negro vote—nearly 300,000—with the labor vote deliverable through Mr. Lewis, and an amazingly intensive drive to solidify the Negroes is being made. The Mitchell estimate given Mr. Farley is that there are at least 3,000,000 Negro votes which can be swung to Mr. Roosevelt in the debatable States. This is about seventy-five per cent. of the total and, Mitchell thinks, enough to elect him. All of this fits into the New Deal worker-farmer strategy. It may be a little hard on those Southern Democrats, Democratic this time, for racial reasons, but then the appeal to the Negroes is not to be made in their section and the argument is that Negro support in the debatable States is needed to make up for the swing of anti-New Deal Democrats to Governor Landon. Anyhow it is a unique combination which it is sought to form under the Democratic label. No one can tell how effectively it can be done. Certainly if the workers and the farmers are solidly for Mr. Roosevelt and he gets seventy-five per cent. of the voting Negroes besides, there is not much use in holding an election. He's home.

THOMPKINS NAMED FARLEY ADVISER

NEW YORK — Dr. William J. Thompkins, of Kansas City, Mo., has been appointed one of the personal advisors on colored affairs to Chairman James A. Farley.

Dr. Thompkins is perhaps the oldest colored Democrat in America and was recently voted A-No. 1 Democrat of America by the National Colored Democratic Association in its Twelfth Quadrennial session in Philadelphia. Dr. Thompkins will direct the colored affairs in Missouri and will make a tour of all strategic points of large colored centers.

Conference of National Colored Committee of Good Neighbor League Reveals Strong Support for President Roosevelt

NEW YORK CITY—The National Committee of the Good Neighbor League was formally launched on Wednesday, September 2nd, at an executive organization session held at the League headquarters, 103 Park avenue, New York, which was attended by Negro delegates representing thirteen States and the District of Columbia. The Committee went on record as favoring the re-election of President Roosevelt and the furthering of the Good Neighbor League Program.

It was stated by many of the Committee members that never before had there been so great a unity among the colored people of the country in their desire to bring about better social and economic conditions, and that the legislation introduced by present administration was rapidly bringing this about, particularly through the efforts of President Roosevelt.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was a caller at the League headquarters at the time of the meeting, gave an informal talk in which she expressed the hope that the National Colored Committee would carry on as a permanent body pledged to further the good neighbor ideal. She also pointed out that the Churches of America could render a great service in fostering good-neigbhorliness among all groups in the country. Dr. Stanley High, Director of the Good Neighbor League, also addressed the delegates.

At the meeting Mrs. Roosevelt was entertained by the singing of the "Southernaires Radio Quarteete" and "The Chairoteers Chorus." The meeting was preceded by a luncheon at the Harlem Y.M.C.A.

Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., of Philadelphia and Dr. A. Clayton Powell, Pastor of the Abyssinian Church of New York City, are the co-chairmen of the National Colored Committee, which consists of outstanding leaders of the colored race in the United States. The Committee will function as a division for the re-election of President Roosevelt. Its headquarters will be in the same building as those of the Good Neighbor League, and branch offices will be established in a number of states.

Dr. Powell, in accepting the co-chairmanship of the committee, pointed out that four years ago he had been nominated as elector-at-large by the New York State Republican Convention, but that now he feels that the country as a whole as well as his own group would be best served by the re-election of President Roosevelt.

Bishop Wright, in an address to the delegates, said that the Government had been a good neighbor under President Roosevelt, and that "never in the history of our nation has the program of a President s closely coincided with the program of the Christian religion."

The Committee, which is organized on a national basis, is composed exclusively of Negro educators, editors, clergymen asd business and professional men, and includes both men and women. Its members are: Willis O. Tyler, Los Angeles, Calif.; Rev. A. Chester Clark, Wilmington. Del.; Dr. T. M. Lewis, Wilmington; Hon. F. B. Ransom and the Rev. Marshall A. Talley, Indianapolis, Ind.; Fred Lewing, Harry A. Pace Mrs. Nannie Reed, Mrs. Edith S. Sampson and the Hon. Robert R. Taylor, Chicago Ill.; Prof. G. A. Gregg, Kansas City. Kan.; R. J. Reynolds, Topeka, Kan.; Hon. J. E. Mitchell, St. Louis, Mo.; Dr. L. L. Berry, Mrs. Lena DeFrantz. Dr. H. Binga Dismond. Rev. O. Clay Maxwell, Rev. J. J. McNeil, Rev. D. Ward Nichols, Dr. C. B. Powell, Dr. P. M. H. Savory and J. J. Allen, New ner, Nashville Tenn.; Thomas, York City; Rev. S. T. Boyd, Mor- Young, Norfolk, Va.; I. J. K. Wells ristown. N. J.; Bishop Reverdy C. Charleston, W. Va.; and Dr. R. W. Ransom D. Ormonde Walker and Brooks,G. T. N. Gray, Elder Solo- Miss Hallie Q. Brown, Wilberforce, mon Lightfoot Michaux. Emory B. Ohio. Rev. H. Y. Arnett, Irving K. Smith and Dr. Carter G. Wood- Merchant, Rev. Marshall L. Shep- son, Washington, D. C. pard and Rev. I. N. Patterson, Philadelphia, Pa.; Dennis L. Joy-

—o—

Almost from the date of that deliverance the efforts of the New Deal political managers have been concentrated upon cementing this alliance and with, they believe, no inconsiderable success. It is true that since the Landon nomination the cement seems to have loosened a little as regards the farmers, but if the attitude of the more conspicuous professional labor leaders is accepted as the yardstick, the workers end is pretty well along—at least in the union field. The loudest and most blatant of the Roosevelt boosters are Mr. Lewis, said to be the most powerful of union labor leaders, and his pompous and loquacious aide, Major Berry, with his so-called "'Labor's Non-Partisan League," the publicity for which has been very highly organized, indeed.

—o—

Hardly a day goes by without a statement of some sort emanating from the source denunciatory of Governor Landon and eulogistic of Mr. Roosevelt. The Berry claims of the number of union labor votes "in the bag" for the President have now passed the three-million mark. They have grown more than a million in a month. It may be that paid professional labor leaders will not be able to deliver the labor vote with the solidity claimed, but it is none the less true that Mr. Roosevelt has the big and supposedly influential leaders with him—has had for more than a year—and so completely that they did not even wait until the Republicans had nominated a candidate before formally declaring for him and appropriating money out of their union treasuries for his campaign.

—o—

The interesting thing now, however, is that the New Dealers have added a great racial group to the workers and farmers for their special appeal—to wit, the Negroes in the great industrial cities. A drive in this direction under Mr. Farley such as has never before characterized a Democratic campaign is being made. At New Deal headquarters there are more Negro aides coming and going than anyone ever saw before. The new Negro Congressman from the Loop district in Chicago, Arthur Mitchell, after conferences with Mr. Farley, announces a nation-wide set-up to bring the Negroes into the New Deal camp. Various Negro division heads are appointed. There are to be Eastern and Western divisions. Negro leaders in many States have already been designated by the Democratic chairman. A great deal of money is to be spent on Negro organization. Mitchell expresses approval of the Roosevelt policies and particularly of the Roosevelt attitude toward the Negro.

—o—

It is conceded that the hopes of carrying a number of States now depend upon the Negroes. In particular this is true of Pennsylvania. There the idea is to combine the Negro vote—nearly 300,000—with the labor vote deliverable through Mr. Lewis, and an amazingly intensive drive to solidify the Negroes is being made. The Mitchell estimate given Mr. Farley is that there are at least 3,000,000 Negro votes which can be swung to Mr. Roosevelt in the debatable States. This is about seventy-five per cent. of the total and, Mitchell thinks, enough to elect him. All of this fits into the New Deal worker-farmer strategy. It may be a little hard on those Southern Democrats, Democratic this time, for racial reasons, but then the appeal to the Negroes is not to be made in their section and the argument is that Negro support in the debatable States is needed to make up for the swing of anti-New Deal Democrats to Governor Landon. Anyhow it is a unique combination which it is sought to form under the Democratic label. No one can tell how effectively it can be done. Certainly if the workers and the farmers are solidly for Mr. Roosevelt and he gets seventy-five per cent. of the voting Negroes besides, there is not much use in holding an election. He's home.

THOMPKINS NAMED FARLEY ADVISER

NEW YORK — Dr. William J. Thompkins, of Kansas City, Mo., has been appointed one of the personal advisors on colored affairs to Chairman James A. Farley.

Dr. Thompkins is perhaps the oldest colored Democrat in America and was recently voted A-No. 1 Democrat of America by the National Colored Democratic Association in its Twelfth Quadrennial session in Philadelphia. Dr. Thompkins will direct the colored affairs in Missouri and will make a tour of all strategic points of large colored centers.

Conference of National Colored Committee of Good Neighbor League Reveals Strong Support for President Roosevelt

NEW YORK CITY—The National Committee of the Good Neighbor League was formally launched on Wednesday, September 2nd, at an executive organization session held at the League headquarters, 103 Park avenue, New York, which was attended by Negro delegates representing thirteen States and the District of Columbia. The Committee went on record as favoring the re-election of President Roosevelt and the furthering of the Good Neighbor League Program.

It was stated by many of the Committee members that never before had there been so great a unity among the colored people of the country in their desire to bring about better social and economic conditions, and that the legislation introduced by present administration was rapidly bringing this about, particularly through the efforts of President Roosevelt.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was a caller at the League headquarters at the time of the meeting, gave an informal talk in which she expressed the hope that the National Colored Committee would carry on as a permanent body pledged to further the good neighbor ideal. She also pointed out that the Churches of America could render a great service in fostering good-neigbhorliness among all groups in the country. Dr. Stanley High, Director of the Good Neighbor League, also addressed the delegates.

At the meeting Mrs. Roosevelt was entertained by the singing of the "Southernaires Radio Quarteete" and "The Chairoteers Chorus." The meeting was preceded by a luncheon at the Harlem Y.M.C.A.

Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., of Philadelphia and Dr. A. Clayton Powell, Pastor of the Abyssinian Church of New York City, are the co-chairmen of the National Colored Committee, which consists of outstanding leaders of the colored race in the United States. The Committee will function as a division for the re-election of President Roosevelt. Its headquarters will be in the same building as those of the Good Neighbor League, and branch offices will be established in a number of states.

Dr. Powell, in accepting the co-chairmanship of the committee, pointed out that four years ago he had been nominated as elector-at-large by the New York State Republican Convention, but that now he feels that the country as a whole as well as his own group would be best served by the re-election of President Roosevelt.

Bishop Wright, in an address to the delegates, said that the Government had been a good neighbor under President Roosevelt, and that "never in the history of our nation has the program of a President s closely coincided with the program of the Christian religion."

The Committee, which is organized on a national basis, is composed exclusively of Negro educators, editors, clergymen asd business and professional men, and includes both men and women. Its members are: Willis O. Tyler, Los Angeles, Calif.; Rev. A. Chester Clark, Wilmington. Del.; Dr. T. M. Lewis, Wilmington; Hon. F. B. Ransom and the Rev. Marshall A. Talley, Indianapolis, Ind.; Fred Lewing, Harry A. Pace Mrs. Nannie Reed, Mrs. Edith S. Sampson and the Hon. Robert R. Taylor, Chicago Ill.; Prof. G. A. Gregg, Kansas City. Kan.; R. J. Reynolds, Topeka, Kan.; Hon. J. E. Mitchell, St. Louis, Mo.; Dr. L. L. Berry, Mrs. Lena DeFrantz. Dr. H. Binga Dismond. Rev. O. Clay Maxwell, Rev. J. J. McNeil, Rev. D. Ward Nichols, Dr. C. B. Powell, Dr. P. M. H. Savory and J. J. Allen, New ner, Nashville Tenn.; Thomas, York City; Rev. S. T. Boyd, Mor- Young, Norfolk, Va.; I. J. K. Wells ristown. N. J.; Bishop Reverdy C. Charleston, W. Va.; and Dr. R. W. Ransom D. Ormonde Walker and Brooks,G. T. N. Gray, Elder Solo- Miss Hallie Q. Brown, Wilberforce, mon Lightfoot Michaux. Emory B. Ohio. Rev. H. Y. Arnett, Irving K. Smith and Dr. Carter G. Wood- Merchant, Rev. Marshall L. Shep- son, Washington, D. C. pard and Rev. I. N. Patterson, Philadelphia, Pa.; Dennis L. Joy-

Political - 1936

Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

MAY 15 1936

Negro Democrats Meet

The First Ward Negro Democratic club met Wednesday at 19 North Main street, with President Walter F. Barbour, presiding. Zoning Commissioner Boris Hertzberg, president of the First Ward Democratic club was the speaker.

Others who spoke on behalf of the candidates were: Jack Ackerman, Samuel Pulver, Mrs. Ruth S. Jones, and Vice-president Jack Stapp.

May 14, 1936

Back twenty years ago when a Southern negro began to get ahead a little and his head began to swell and he wanted to enjoy social equality with white people, he pulled stakes and set out for the North where he had heard that everything was "chicken" for the colored man. White folks he had heard, would say "Mister" to him, and eat at the same table, etc., etc. But it didn't take him long to find out that a negro up North often ate at no table at all and that it didn't help his hungry stomach a bit for white folks to call him "Mister." So they came back South as fast as they could get back. Now, after these many years, negroes are about to be convinced that the Democrats are their best friends and are preparing to vote the Democratic ticket where they are qualified to vote at all.

Wilson, N. C., Times
May 16, 1936

UNUSUAL ACTIVITY OF STATE NEGROES AROUSES INTEREST

CAUSING CONCERN

Negroes In Raleigh and Wake County Are Taking Unusual Interest In Democratic Affairs and Their Activity In Precint Meetings and Expected Activity In County Convention Arouses Comment.

Times Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

(By J. C. BASKERVILL)

Raleigh, May 16—The unusual interest which the negroes here in Raleigh and Wake county are taking in Democratic affairs and their activity in the precinct meetings and expected activity in the county convention here today, are causing both comment and some concern in political circles here. The negro leaders frankly admit that their principal reason for this interest and activity in Democratic affairs is that they are convinced they have nothing to hope for from the Republican party and that the "New Deal" in Washington, as well as the "New Deal" being promised by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, one of the four Democratic candidates for the nomination for Governor, looks very attractive to them—more attractive than anything the Republicans have ever offered them.

At least two negro delegates will sit in the Wake county Democratic convention here this afternoon, having been elected as delegates in precinct meetings here last Saturday, while an effort will be made by the Rev. G. A. Fisher, rector of St. Ambrose Episcopal Church (negro) to have additional negro delegates seate dfrom another negro precinct. He told newspapermen here yesterday that but for the fact that the precinct meeting chairman set up his watch last Saturday and held the precinct meeting and adjourned it before the negro delegation arrived, they would have elected several more negro delegates to the county convention. Fisher also predicted that at least four negro delegates would be elected to the state Democratic convention to be held here in June—two from Wake county and at least two from Durham county.

The two negro delegates who have already been elected to the Wake county Democratic convention, being held here today, are F. J. Carnage and Dr. L. T. Delaney, negro physician, whose brother holds an important job in New York City under Mayor Fiorello Laguardia.

Chattanooga, Tenn. Times
May 21, 1936

Democrats and Negro Voters.

From the Greensboro (N. C.) Daily News.

The Raleigh News and Observer says that "for the first time in recent years" a Negro was selected by the Wake county convention as delegate to the democratic state convention, and the Daily News bureau has it that Dr. L. T. Delaney, is the first one ever. Dr. Delaney, a precinct committeeman of years' standing, it appears, is something of a party veteran. The event was altogether harmonious, and in harmony with the ambition recently voiced on the floor of the house at Washington by Representative Arthur Mitchell, of Illinois—an expression heartily cheered by his white party colleagues—with respect to an aggressive campaign in twenty-three states having 2,400,000 Negro voters, where "Negroes are permitted to vote, and where their votes are counted." Representative Mitchell said: "We are going to give the democratic party and the great president that I love so dearly the largest vote that any Negro group has ever given a president of the United States."

There was some apprehension that in the Wake county convention, and in the Durham, sour notes might be sounded. But the Herald reports that in Durham, also, all was serene. * * *

And it is not as if the Negro vote in the democratic primary was an altogether negligible quantity. More and more, those conducting primary campaigns look for votes where they may be had. One vote, if counted at all, counts for just as much as another.

HERALD

E. Moline Ill

MAY 15 1936

Colored Democratic Club Receives Charter From League

The colored Democratic club of East Moline has received its charter from the Downstate Democratic league, it has been announced by Willard Burrell, president. Presentation was made at a recent meeting of the club, at which Nathaniel Burrell of Indianapolis, Ind., and George Wilson of East Moline spoke. Dr. Robert H. Beverly of Springfield, is president of the Downstate league.

Officers of the East Moline club follow:

President—Willard Burrell.

First vice president—John Williams.

Second vice president—Ernest Williams.

Secretary—Sybil Blake.

Treasurer—Mary E. Burrell.

Committee chairmen — George Wilson, L. J. Williams, John Robinson.

Anyone desiring to become a member of the club is asked to notify Mrs. L. J. Williams, 318 Eleventh street, East Moline.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

MAY 22 1936

Alpha Negro Democrats Will Meet Tonight

Alpha Negro Democratic league will hold their regular meetings at 132 Governor street, the headquarters now occupied by the Fourth Ward Negro Democratic club beginning tonight. A large and enthusiastic attendance is expected. The league will have as their guest the members of the Fourth Ward Negro Democratic club and together will lay plans for a membership drive. The First Ward Negro Democratic club will also be present.

The county leader, Rev. Riley will address the clubs and suitable resolutions will be adopted and forwarded to John V. Hinchliffe for his stand in declaring that America is for Americans and that an Italian celebration at Sanday Hill would not be permitted.

Nashville, Tenn Banner
May 22, 1936

Negro Democrats Map Campaign

Tennessee's Negro Democrats planned an active campaign today following a recommendation by the State convention yesterday that Dr. William J. Thompkins, of Washington, D. C., president of the Baloteers Union, have charge of the drive. The local union, of which Benny Scales is chairman and composed of S. P. Hickman of Memphis and W. D. Allimono of Nashville, offered a resolution that would draft Thompkins for the work.

Composed of 7,262 members, the Tennessee organization was formed in 1928. Its officers are planning to have Dr. Thompkins speak in the larger cities of the State between now and August.

OBSERVER
Greenville S. C
5/22/36

FACED TWO WAYS.

The Southe Carolina Democratic convention whooped it up for Roosevelt, as expected its membership being so largely of those who have received, are receiving or hope to receive federal benefits. The pre-convention determination of its leaders was that it should exude harmony and it exuded gobs of harmony. The lion and the lamb lay down together for the state highway row was kept out of the picture and without dissent the convention put some very discordant elements in the delegation to the national convention and bound them to harmony by the unit rule. The convention was a one hundred per cent triumph for the new deal. Or, was it?

The convention, seemingly unanimously, adopted two resolutions which apparently were not on the cut and dried program the convention put thru on greased skids. One set the convention on record against the proposed child labor amendment to the national constitution, an amendment which has been pending before the legislatures of this country for many years without getting the approval of the three-fourths needed to make it a part of the national constitution. Was not the unanimous opposition to that amendment opposition to the very heart of the new deal, which is that the national government shall take supreme and sole charge of matters which under the constitution of the United States as it now stands are wholly within the reserved powers of the states to handle? Does not President Roosevelt favor that amendment as in line with what he tried to do with the NRA, AAA and Guffey laws, which the supreme court of the United States said were attempts by the national government to exercise a power not conferred on it by the national constitution—and the national government cannot legally exercise any powers not specifically granted it in that document? The supreme court voided a child labor law passed years ago, voided it as an exercise of powers not granted congress. Congress in those days had some respect for the constitution and, instead of trying to evade it by passage of some new law on the subject, attempted to have the constitution amended so as to give the national government control of child labor.

And the convention, also apparently unanimously, passed a resolution opposing passage of the anti-lynching law, introduced in congress by two northern senators, who class themselves as Democrats and who try to win the support of the large number of negro voters in their states by championing legislation favored by those negro voters, even tho the legislation they want is obviously contrary to the federal constitution. Does not the president favor the Wagner-Costigan anti-lynch law? Certainly he has never said a word against it, while his wife openly champions it. The speech which defeated that proposition was made by Wm. E. Borah, who believes in state's rights and champions honest obedience to the federal constitution. Borah, tho he chooses to class himself as a Republican, proved beyond answer that the Wagner-Costigan bill was an attempt to exercise powers not conferred on congress by the constitution which gave congress the only powers it has any lawful right to exercise. The state Democratic convention was true to South Carolina Democracy when it opposed the anti-lynching bill, but its opposition to it was not in line with the supposedly unanimous approval of the new deal in its entirety.

Durham, N. C. Herald
May 10, 1936

Negroes Follow Suit And Nominate Nine Delegates

Radical Changes Are Made In Democratic Ranks As 10 Union Candidates And One Negro Gain Executive Committee Posts—Results May Be Contested

A change in Democratic party control in Durham appeared not unlikely yesterday as organized labor asserted its strength by an unexpected attendance at precinct meetings and the election of several of its own members to the county executive committee.

Negroes in the city also bestirred themselves to hitherto unexercised political activity by descending on the courthouse precinct and electing James T. Taylor, a member of the race, precinct chairman. They also named nine of their members delegates to the county convention which will be held next Saturday.

At least 10 out of the 30 members of the Democratic executive committee elected yesterday at precinct meetings are either affiliated with organized labor or are known to have leanings toward the group. Whether the 10 labor members will be able to exert sufficient influence on other members to dictate the choice of a new county chairman was considered problematical last night.

R. M. Gantt, county Democratic chairman attended the Five Points precinct meeting at the Junior high school yesterday afternoon and saw Gilbert Shaw, president of the central labor union, elected precinct chairman.

In previous years little interest has been shown in precinct meetings here, despite the fact party control originates there. The decision of organized labor and the Negro population to exercise their voice in Democratic party affairs was interpreted yesterday as indicative of dissatisfaction with existing party control.

Word that organized labor planned to participate in most of the precinct meetings reached local Democratic party heads yesterday several hours before the time set for the sessions. In some precincts sufficient strength was mustered by the administration to out-vote the labor participants. In others the administration failed by a narrow margin.

Ralph W. Eddins, who was elected precinct chairman at Bragtown, changed his registration from a Republican to a Democrat with the opening of the books yesterday morning. Eddins was the Republican opponent of Sheriff E. G. Belvin two years ago.

Negroes who were elected convention delegates from the courthouse precinct are J. T. Taylor, T. D. Parham, J. H. Wheeler, W. J. Kennedy, Jr., E. G. Spaulding, W. D. Ellis, H. M. Michaux, G. W. Cox, and H. C. Davis. Four white delegates were named. They are W. B. Bagwell, C. V. Parrish, P. J. Parrish and J. W. Jones. T. D. Parham, Negro, was elected precinct secretary.

Delegates from the various precincts will meet next Saturday to select delegates to the state Democratic convention. Precinct chairmen, who constitute the new Democratic executive committee, will meet on the same day to elect a county chairman.

At least one of the precinct elections will be protested, it was learned last night. A. P. Aldridge was reported to Chairman Gantt as having been elected chairman of the Brady's store precinct but labor leaders claimed last night that the credentials are held by I. E. Jacobs.

Precinct chairmen elected yesterday are as follows:

West Durham, south side—T. J. Eudy.
Hunt's store—J. K. Roberson.
Lakewood—S. E. Blaine.
Syke's store—S. R. High.
West Durham, N. S.—W. P. Sneed.
Broad street—A. H. Borland.
Five Points—Gilbert Shaw.
Eakes' store—B. M. Watkins.
Cash's store—G. W. Munford.
Fuller school—Sigmund Meyer.
Dry Bridge, S. S.—W. C. McKinney.
Dry Bridge, N. S.—Mel J. Thompson.
East Durham, N. S.—Kelly Stuart.
East Durham, S. S.—E. D. Williams.
Brady's store—A. P. Aldridge or I. E. Jacobs.
Courthouse—James T. Taylor.
Bethesda—Ralph W. Eddins.
Bragtown—Robert Holleman.
Nelson—C. C. Edwards.
Hillandale—E. L. Tilley.
Couch's store—John L. Dunnagan.
Cox's store—Dave W. Andrews.
Rougemont—Arthur L. Carver.
Mangum's store—Ollie Mangum.
Bahama—Clifton Ball.
Gorman—Robert H. Shaw.
Suitt's store—J. C. Nichols.
Ray's store—H. D. Martin.
Horner's store—J. C. Jester, Jr.
Pickett's Mill—I. D. Darnell.

Mocksville, N. C., Record
June 10, 1936

Democrats Choose Negro As Delegate.

Wake county Democrats in convention at Raleigh, recently, for the first time in the history of the party elected a negro as a delegate to the state convention that convenes at Raleigh June 12.

Dr L. T Delaney, Raleigh negro surgeon, who has been active in Democratic affairs in Raleigh for sometime, being a member of the county executive committee, was unanimously elected a delegate to the state convention. Not a voice of protest was heard against the "brother in black's" selection.

Democrats have for years voted negroes in the Raleigh city election and it is no surprise that the race is now demanding a seat at the council table.

It is to be hoped that Delaney will be given a seat in the convention beside Congressman Harold Cooley, of the fourth district who sought to revive the race issue in a speech in Randolph county two years ago even going so far as to call the Republican party the "nigger party."

It is estimated there are at least 15,000 negroes eligible to vote in the state this year and that all of them will vote, a majority of them being lined up with the Democratic party.

There were no negro delegates in attendance on the state Republican convention held at Raleigh in March.
—Union Republican.

OBSERVER

Hoboken NJ

JUN 3 - 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATS HOLD INSTALLATION

Progressive Group and Its Auxiliary Induct New Staff.

Freeholder John V. Kenny installed the newly elected officers of the Progressive Negro Democracy of Hudson County at a meeting of the organization held last night at its headquarters, Ideal Hall, Atlantic street and Jackson avenue, Jersey City.

Officers of the men's group who were installed are James O. Randolph, president; Herman Delaney, vice president; Royal Massie, secretary; Christopher Coles, treasurer; Paul Carter, sergeant-at-arms, and Robert Black, assistant sergeant-at-arms.

The officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary are Miss Teresa M. Sinclair, president; Mrs. Maud Brooks, first vice president; Mrs. M. Allen, second vice president; Mrs. Luly Cannon, third vice president; Mrs. Elsie Sanderlin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Helen Williams, financial secretary; Mrs. L. Jackson, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Nellie Darnell, treasurer, and Mrs. Anna Randolph, chaplain.

Miss Teresa Maloney, Assemblywoman from Hudson County, was invited to install the officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary. Mrs. Sinclair is committeewoman of the Thirteenth District of the Eighth Ward. Mr. Randolph was re-elected, as was Mrs. Sinclair.

Freeholder Patrick J. Donnelly, leader of the Eighth Ward, was the guest speaker. He spoke of the success and strength of an organization when there is unity. Other speakers were Counselor Charles Carter, Charles Austin, Chris Rossey, principal of Public School No. 14; Mrs. Louise Cornell, president of the Woman's Progressive Club, and August Tabb. Dr. Maurice Hallard was master of ceremonies.

A program of entertainment followed. Mrs. Coes rendered a vocal selection, Theodore Brighthaut offered a solo, and music was furnished by the Silver Tone Quartet. The Ladies' Auxiliary prepared a collation which was served after the meeting. Herman Delaney was chairman of the program and was assisted by Royal Massie, Mrs. Nellie Darnell and Miss Lolita Lynn.

Democratic.

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation.

LOCAL DEMOCRATS GET INTO ACTION

10-22-36

Real Campaign Gets Under Way as Nat'l Speakers Invade St. Louis. Mrs. Lizzie McDuffie, Lawrence A. Oxley, Congressman Mitchell Among Headliners. David M. Grant Broadcasts

Left to right, standing—Judge Frank S. Bledsoe, William Swanson, Judge George L. Vaughn, Atty. Joseph L. McLemore. Seated—Jordan W. Chambers, Mrs. Ethel Bowles, Atty. David M. Grant, Elmore V. Mosee, Dr. Oral S. McClellan.

An intensive drive is being made in St Louis to better acquaint the public with the political issues which will in many instances, affect the entire lives of many men women and children. In order to make the drive most effective, the local campaign committee headed by David M. Grant and Mrs. Ruby Pearl Perdeau, brought in some speakers from Democratic National committee over the week end. The first big meeting was held last Friday night, October 16, at the Y. W. C. A. Auditorium, with Mrs. Lizzie McDuffie, special assistant at the White House, and Mrs. Rosetta Gibson of Kansas City, Missouri as guest speakers. Mrs Gibson delivered an address which evoked much thought, as she pointed out the many benefits that the Negroes have received under the New Deal program and urged her hearers to vote not only for Mr Roosevelt, but for the entire Democratic ticket in the state.

Mrs McDuffie, who was introduced by Editor J. E. Mitchell of the St. Louis Argus. discussed many of the high points in the lives of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, which touched the lives, hopes and aspirations of the colored people. In the beginning of her talk she gave some valuable information about the monetary system of the nation and exalted her hearers to give more attention to stock markets and the meaning of money.

In discussing President and Mrs. Roosevelt as "I know them," Mrs McDuffie held her audience with rapt attention, as she dramatically told of her experience and that of her husband who is the President's valet, as to the attitude of the chief executive of the nation and his wife, toward our group. She said that the President was broad in his sympathies for our race and that the chief executive often inquired concerning our well being. "President Franklin D. Roosevelt has a christian heart. Before he was inaugurated in 1933, he went to the church and prayed for divine guidance; he keeps a bible at his bedside, and reads from it every night before going to sleep."

Mrs. McDuffie also paid a glowing tribute to Mrs. Roosevelt, the wife of President Roosevelt, telling of her consideration for others, regardless of race or creed. "I know whereof I speak, because my husband and I are there each day, and can see the President and Mrs Roosevelt in action. My husband is the last to see the President at night and the first to see him in the morning." Some of the things she said were of a confidential nature, as she expressed, which seemed to increase the interest of her hearers, and finally she said, "I do not see how anyone could conscientiously vote against the President. because of the good he has done for the people and the good he is doing for the nation."

The speaking was preceded by moving pictures on what he called the "Contrast," by Dr O. S. McClellan, Superintendent of the City Hospital No 2, and a member of the Democratic campaign commitee, Negro Division. Congressman Thomas C. Hennings corroborated many of the things that Mrs. McDuffie had said about the heart and soul of the President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Lawrence Oxley Speaks

Saturday night, at the Harlem Hall in South Kinloch Park, Lieut Lawrence Oxley, of the United States Department of Labor, addressed a large audience. He very forcibly told of the benefits the New Deal had been to the people of the nation, and because the Negroes are part of this great nation they were included n the New Deal program. He told of how the President had helped the business man by helping the laboring man, and giving employment to the unemployed, so that they might earn money and spend it where they pleased. He exalted his hearers to keep the ebb and flow of the money channels open by supporting President Roosevelt's New Deal program. Mr. Oxley's address was followed by a talk by Mrs. McDuffie.

Congressman Mitchell Speaks

Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the Hibernian Hall, Congressman Arthur Mitchell of the First Illinois District, spoke before an enthusiastic audience. His address was in an optimistic vein as he expressed his confidence that President Roosevelt would be reelected November 3rd. As to himself he had no fear of not being reelected to Congress over his opponent, Oscar De Priest. He urged the voters in the Eleventh Congressional District of Missouri to return Thomas C. Hennings to Congress He stated that he and Mr. Hennings had worked together on many occasions.

Grant Broadcasts

As a climax of the week end activities, David M. Grant, director of local division of Democracy, spoke for thirty minutes over radio station WIL, during which time he extolled the many other virtues of the New Deal program, and pointed out the weaknesses of the Landonites. He paid his respects to Col. Roscoe C Simmons as "Orator De Luxe, who has been delivering the same campaign address for twenty years and the Piece De Resistance."

In speaking of the New Deal, Mr Grant referred to it as "An Administration that has saved one million homes from foreclosure; assisted hundreds of thousands of young men and women n the requests for education and knowledge; rehabilitated in civilian conservation camps one half million of young men, who but a scant four years ago could be seen on the highways and byways of this land, thumbing a ride to God only knows where. An administration that has launched and supported the WPA, a housing administration for the poor, the insurance of the bank deposits of the little fellow; that has attempted to raise the cultural level of all of us thru theatre projects, music and the arts; work relief from the works progress administration for the man or woman of family unable independently to land a job at a living wage. And the Negro has shared. He has and is amply sharing this very night."

Now Go Ahead, Mr. President

AN EDITORIAL

There could be but one honest interpretation of the unprecedented sweep of the New Deal victory at the polls Tuesday, and that is that the people have spoken and said, "Go ahead, Mr. President."

Nor with the issues so clearly set forth by both the government administration and the opposition, can any one honestly fail to interpret the direction in which the people want him to go, nor the things they wish him to do.

This election has been a clear-cut mandate. It has been an unmistakable answer to reaction and the old order. It has been a constitutional way of saying that the great majority of the people of these United States want to move towards humanitarian progress and will take newly-carved-out roads to that goal despite the selfish stalling of the privileged forces of reaction.

The election, perhaps to Mr. Roosevelt himself, no less than to the country at large, was a shocking revelation of the thundering surge of the masses. No New Deal partisan would have thoughtfully prophesied such an avalanche of sentiment on the clear-cut issues involved.

The record and personality even of Mr. Roosevelt will not fully explain the outpouring Tuesday. There were other mighty forces which the new administration, we hope will take fully into consideration. It will be just as important to understand the issues the voters struck out against as to understand issues they defended.

FIRST OF ALL, COLORED VOTERS in this election, despite reactionary oldtimers, emphasized their absolute divorce from the one-party idea. If this election did not wipe out the Republican party, its leaders will never forget the vengeance lashed out against it for its negligence of racial interests in its hey days.

The maudlin tears, the references to ancient affection and interest which burst forth on voters' ears during the last few weeks of the campaign, and even the marshalling of a great section of the ministerial profession in a desperate effort to halt the divorce proceedings, had no effect.

The voters paid them no mind.

But if the Democratic party, now thrust into power by the greatest avalanche of votes ever cast in this country, fails, as did the Republicans, to meet with courage and action the demands of the colored voters, these colored voters still have up their sleeves the same weapon they used last Tuesday.

The idea is, the colored voters will never again be chained to any party.

* * * *

SECOND, COLORED VOTERS are now positive that what they want is unabridged, undiluted and complete American citizenship.

The core of the leadership which pulled the colored masses from Republican moorings was the militant type which fits into the leftward trend of New Deal principles. The old leaders were willing to accept a few political crumbs flung as to dogs from the bounteously-spread tables of the mighty lords of privilege.

But the new idea behind the political upsurge of the colored voters is unmistakably to brush aside any leaders who will compromise, by one iota, their fundamental American rights. This, Mr. Roosevelt, we hope will keep fully in mind.

The colored voters who joined this New Deal procession now understand that the President has a clear mandate, with power to act, and if his promise that there shall be "no forgotten races" was the word of an honest man, he now has full opportunity to make good.

His slashing victory gives him more power than any President has ever before had in this country. His opponents left nothing undone in making clear this very thing.

They accused Mrs. Roosevelt of being an advocate of racial amalgamation.

They said Roosevelt was tending towards communism.

They branded him a flouter of the Constitution and said that he had ripped the traditional Americanism to shreds.

The Hearsts, the Coughlins, the Talmadges, the "Cotton Head" Smiths of South Carolina, the DuPonts and Henry Fords all branded him a wasteful spendthrift when he staved off starvation in the depression crisis.

But the voters have said, "so what?"

Among our own group the Republican partisans and anti-New Deal leaders criticized his relief program, calling it a scheme to shunt colored labor onto a jobless reservation where it would be kept in perpetual bondage.

They also helped drag the red herring of communism across the trail and hung up a hobgoblin of fear against the South's control of the Roosevelt administration. But the colored voters gave them the horse laugh and cast their votes for Roosevelt.

What they wanted was a New Deal. They realized that in this new deal they may get some bad cards, but they also knew that in the old Republican ranks the cards had been so stacked against them that they stood a better chance with any other kind of hand.

* * * *

SO NOW, MR. ROOSEVELT, GO AHEAD with your program.

Let it not be said of you after January that by one act or a single subterfuge you failed to act towards wiping out the American disgrace of racial discrimination in all New Deal administration.

This should mean a complete equalization of jobs and relief to all workers without regard to race or creed.

Your new appointments should comprise a proportionate number of colored citizens and this should obtain from top to bottom. The economic opportunity for our citizens should be so broadened that, carpenters compared with carpenters, sharecroppers with sharecroppers and white-collar workers with white-collar workers, there should be absolutely no difference in per capita wages and opportunities between colored and white.

This is what we interpret your statement on "no forgotten races" to mean. This is what we shall expect of the New Deal administration.

Democratic.

Political-1936
Party Affiliation

WELL-ORGANIZED DEMOCRATIC MACHINE SWEEPS STATE

(By LEE A. JOHNSON, Democratic State Committee)
(Negro Bureau, Dept. of Publicity)

No man could ask for a greater tribute than that which was accorded Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Democratic standard-bearer, who was swept back into office as President of the United States of America. He was a near unanimous choice by the people with Indiana right in the front seat of the band-wagon.

M. Clifford Townsend, Indiana's chosen first citizen succeeded Governor Paul V. McNutt in the state's executive office carrying the Rev. Marshall A. Talley, our own candidate for state representative on the Democratic ticket to the lower house to succeed Atty. Henry J. Richardson, Jr.

According to figures received in the office of the state Negro bureau from seventeen counties where the bulk of the Negro vote was registered, predictions of 75 per cent to be delivered to the Democratic party held true.

When it became apparent that another landslide was in progress, Henry A. Fleming, chairman of the state bureau said, "We are thankful for the response of the citizens of Indiana who responded so gratfully, the victory was won by the boys in the trenches who put their all into the battle to bring out the vote for our ticket. I am sure that the faith that they put in us will mean much to the race and the party will not fail them at such a critical time as this."

F. B. Ransom, who was in charge of the national campaign in Indiana said, "Roosevelt's re-election was undoubtedly the will of the people. We are very grateful for the support of the Negro in Indiana and the loyalty shown our great leader despite the overwhelming odds which we had to fight to bring the party this great victory."

Atty. F. W. Littlejohn, chairman of the Marion County campaign said, "I am happy for the support of our county citizens in bringing about another landslide for the Democratic party. Their support will go down in history as the greatest tribute which humanity can offer a candidate."

Tabulations giving the percentages of the state Negro vote for Democratic candidates came in as follows:

Lake county, Gary, Ind., led the state in percentages of majority of the Negro vote cast for the Democratic candidates with 90 per cent followed closely by Indianapolis, Marion county, which was given credit for 80 per cent. Other results were: Terre Haute, Vigo county, 75 per cent; Evansville, Vandeberg county, 75 per cent; Ft. Wayne county, 70 percent; Mt. Vernon, Posey county, 60 per cent; Princeton, Patoka, Lyles of Gibson county, Richmond, Wayne county, 70 per cent; Muncie Delaware county, 73 per cent; Anderson of Madison county, 75 per cent; New Albany of Floyd county, 75 per cent; Jeffersonville of Clark county, 70 per cent; Marion of Grant county, 60 per cent; Petersburg of Jennings county, 50 per cent; and Henry county, 60 per cent.

Rev. Robert E. Skelton, D. D., who was in charge of the state speaker's bureau stated that his faithful group of men filled the majority of their assignments and played an important part in informing the citizens of Indiana of the principal issues of this campaign and that the Democratic party will back these principals in every respect.

As early as one half hour after the polls had closed, messages began to pour in congratulating the bureau for its efforts in handling the state and national campaigns and commending the leaders for the vast organization which was set up on so short a time and got down to business immediately.

Mrs. Rhoda A. Hanley was in charge of the women's work in the state campaign and was quoted, "we women worked day and night to bring this big victory about and happy to know that our work was not in vain". Mrs. Elizabeth Hodge who was in charge of the county women's work also commended her group for its unfailing effort in bringing out the voters to the polls.

DEMOCRATS RECEIVE HUGE FUNDS IN CAMPAIGN

PROVIDED BY REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE, EASTERN DIVISION

THOUSANDS SPENT — FARLEY'S NATIONAL COMMITTEE LIBERAL.—RAINEY TOPS LIST WITH $200 A WEEK AND EXPENSES. CRYSTAL BYRD FAUSET SECOND.

NEW YORK CITY—The "slush fund" used by the Democratic party in their campaign to re-elect President Franklin D. Roosevelt reached an all time high in this election.

Small fortunes were paid to newspapers, some of them, of Republican faith for years. Robert L. Vann, publisher of the Pittsburgh Courier received a total of $5295.20. The Amsterdam News received $3400. The Afro-American was paid $3000.

Outstanding leaders in various sections can buy a few new cars on the cash received. Dr. W. G. Alexander of Orange N. J. received $1650.00. Silas F. Taylor, better known as "Shag" Taylor, Boston Democratic leader received $3,179.00. William Murray of Conn. received $763.67.

Atty. Ralph Mizelle of New York received $857.16. John Lopez of Rhode Island was paid $788. E. L. Powell of Charleston W. Va. was paid $1339.

Publication of some of the Democratic figures last week created a sensation in political circles. The payments were credited by Republican leaders for being a cause of much of their fight against Governor Alfred Landon.

10-31-36

Weekly Payroll

Democratic National Committee
New York and Washington Hdqtrs.
Sept. 1, 1936 to Oct. 1, 1936

Julian D. Rainey, Democratic National Committee, Hotel Biltmore, N. Y.
$200 a week

Mrs. Crystal Byrd Fausett, Democratic National Comm., Hotel Biltmore, New York City.
$100 a week

Ralph Mizelle, 1555 Inwood ave., Bronx, N. Y.
$100 a week

Mark DeLeon M.D., 45 W. 3rd ave. Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
$50 a week

Charles F. Ray, 153 D. 131st st., New York City.
$50 a week

Earl Brown, 180 W. 135th st., New York City
$100 a week

William K. Saunders, 2816 8th ave., New York City.
$50 a week

James Stephens, 115 W. 135th st., New York.
$50 a week

William E. Taylor, 246 W. 150th st.
$50 a week

Shephard E. Grain, 66 St. Nicholas pl., New York.
$40 a week

Charles Dodson, 83 St. Nicholas pl.
$25 a week

Maxine C. Stackhouse, 35 St. Nicholas pl., New York.
$25 a week

Alice Hoffman, 142 W. 140th st., N. Y.
$25 a week

Winifred Norman, 44 Bradhurst ave., New York.
$25 a week

Ed. Ware, 205 W. 135th st., N. Y. City.
$25 a week

Democratic National Committee

Payments—Sept. 1 to Oct. 21, 1936

Silas F. Taylor, 932 Tremont st., Boston.

September 19	$260.29
October 1	262.63
October 1	272.80
October 9	447.00
October 15	526,25
October 16	531.85
October 21	620.00
	$3,179.30

Water Murray, 49 Martin st., Hartford, Conn.

October 9	$200.00
October 14	162.92
October 15	53.89
October 15	48.18
October 21	298.68
	$763.67

Harry C. Bragg, 409 Edgecombe ave., New York.

October 21	$17.36

Ralph E. Mizell, 1555 Inwood ave., Bronx, New York.

September 23	$235.46
September 29	189.70
October 7	205.20
October 20	226.80
	$857.16

John Lopez, 445 S. Main st., Providence, R. I.

October 9	$268.00
October 14	250.00
October 20	270.00
	$788.00

George Murray, 794 Tremont st., Boston, Mass.

October 20	$117.00

E. L. Powell, 91 First ave., Charleston, W. Va.

September 29	$138.00
September 29	290.00
September 29	210.00
October 9	71.00
October 9	220.00
October 12	235.16
October 16	175.00
	$1,339.16

Dr. Walter G. Alexander, 48 Webster pl., Orange, N. J.

September 18	$153.50
September 29	589.15
October 7	524.48
October 14	382.97
	$1,650.10

C. B. Powell, 2368 Seventh ave., N. Y.

September 11	$45.28
September 11	50.00
September 19	16.00
September 29	10.25
October 5	12.39
October 15	16.07
	$149.99

Julian Rainey.

September 4	$36.00
September 4	34.80
September 10	59.60
September 11	33.30
September 19	5.45
September 18	68.10
September 25	32.40
September 30	31.05
October 7	4.29
October 9	32.10
October 15	45.40
	$382.49

William L. Houston, N. Y.

October 9	$90.25

Marshall L. Shepard, Phila.

October 20	$33.00

Theoron B. Hamilton, Wash.

September 30	$72.75

Emory B. Smith, Wash.

October 20	$16.67

S. E. Grain, N. Y.

October 9	$98.88

W. F. McGuinn, Balt.

October 9	$20.70

Thomas Smith, Balt.

October 9	$20.70

Elder L. Michaux, Wash. D. C.

September 11	$624.00

R. L. Vann, Pittsburgh.

September 11	$138.90
September 23	75.90
September 19	2,500.00
November 3	70.40
November 7	2,500.00

	$5,295.20
Mrs. Crystal Byrd Fauset, Phila.
September 19	$9.75
September 20	16.65
	$36.40
Earl Brown, 180 W. 135th, N. Y.
September 11	$3,160.00
Cong. Arthur Mitchell, Wash., D. C.
September 4	$284.45
September 22	1,013.00
September 22	1,210.24
	$2,508.39
For Chicago office and branch offices in Indiana, Mich., Ohio, Neb. and Iowa
Democratic Press Service
N. Y. Amsterdam News	$3,400.00
Afro American	3,000.00
Phila. Independent	600.00
St. Louis Argus	600.00
Kansas City American	250.00
N. Y. News	250.00
Cleveland Eagle	200.00
Newark Herald	50.00
Boston Chronicle	300.00
Calvin Newspaper Service	$855.91

Texas Negroes Support Roosevelt

Negro Republican Hard To Find in Houston

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 12. Last Tuesday Roosevelt completely broke the frozen loyalty of Negroes, which Republicans have kept on ice since Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation and which Roosevelt cracked in 1932. Once broken, Negroes' support and loyalty melted and became hot surging support that poured into the Roosevelt avalanche from North, South, East and West.

In Houston Wednesday it was harder to find a Negro Republican down town than it is to find the proverbial needle in the haystack. Some like Joe Robinson hied them to Brenham and other furrin countries. Others just took and hid—yes, they were probably under the bed when sought. The few who were surprised before they could duck away had become Democrats overnight or were boasting independence.

J. M. Burr was ragged and bedeviled until he was haggard. He still owes several nice sized bets. Speaking of bets, Doctors Leon Peacock, Arthur Jones and the writer ran up on Willie (good looking) Gillam and O. K. Manning in Wilson's drug store with more money than sense. We bet them Landon would not win and then rubbed it in by betting Landon wouldn't carry Illinois, Knox's state, or Missouri, the adjoining state to Kansas. Wednesday we collected all bets. Dutch Dibble, treasurer of the Republican party, also has two beautiful shirts to lay on the altar of repentance.

Comment

Alphonse Mills: "I told you Roosevelt was going to snow him under. Where are those ragged Republicans? Let's hunt 'em!"

Dr. P. D. Foster: "Well, since the Democrats have won by such an overwhelming vote, it will be necessary for us all to work for one common good."

Hobart Taylor: "I think it's exactly right. I think it's the voice of the people, who realize that Roosevelt is conscientious in what he is trying to do, and that it is for the good of everybody."

Alex Green: "I think it's just fine, and I think everything will work out all right, in all of our favors."

H. G. Jackson: "It came out just as I expected and I am sure Roosevelt will succeed in his undertaking in the next four years."

J. J. Green: "It has always been my conviction that the election would end as it did. It came out just as I predicted that it would."

H. P. Carter: "It was not a landslide as I expected and predicted but an avalanche. I am glad to have done my bit."

William Robinson: "Expresses by opinion of what the country thought of him (Roosevelt)."

R. R. Grovey: "The acceptance by Negro Democratic leaders in Houston and Texas, the principles of the Democratic party means one of two things. It either brings to the Democratic leaders the greatest challenge to secure from the white leaders full and unrestricted suffrage, or it means the complete surrender of our desire for suffrange for fee and small relief checks."

Dr. W. M. Drake: "Very highly pleased. Think it's just what it should have been. I think the people of the United States would have been very ungrateful if they had not returned him (Roosevelt) for the good he has done in his administration."

NORTHERN COLORED VOTERS OVERWHELMINGLY ENDORSE ROOSEVELT, NEW DEAL PROGRAM

America's colored voters living in eastern, northern, and western urban centers decided decisively in favor of President Roosevelt and the New Deal and their local and state democratic tickets in the record-breaking ballot "battle of a century" Tuesday. Estimates based on election returns, unofficially tabulated, indicate that approximately 70 per cent of the 1,500,000 colored voters, who participated in the great political struggle Tuesday decided in favor of their Democratic tickets of all varieties without thought of "scratch."

The most intensive drive in the political history of the nation was made for this block of votes by the major parties in every section outside the South where colored voters were accredited by the contestants as holding the balance of power in a close election. As President Roosevelt swamped his Republican opponent, Governor Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, with a record-breaking plurality of 10,000,000—gaining for him 523 electoral votes to 8 for Landon, col-joined the Democratic march to ored Democratic candidates of na-overwhelming local and national tional and local prominence rodevictory. For the first time in the the "Donkey bandwagon" to vic-history of the state, the large col-tory.

Mitchell Re-elected

Leading in national importance was Arthur W. Mitchell, Chicago, who was returned to the House of Representatives from the First Congressional district of Illinois by a crushing defeat of the man he unseated two years ago, ex-Congressman Oscar DePriest, Republican. In the bitterly fought and stubbornly waged contest that almost upended Chicago's famous Southside, Mitchell gathered 35,350 supporters to 28,162 for DePriest. Colored Democrats returned to the Illinois Assembly by Chicago's colored voters were: Charles Jenkins, Richard Harewood, Ernest Greene, and Wiliam Warfield.

Five Win in Pa.

Over in Philadelphia, Pa., five race men were selected to sit in the Pennsylvania legislature. These were, the Rev. Marshall A. Sheppard, pastor of the Mt. Olivet Baptist church, re-elected; Dr. Edwin Thompson, Samuel Holmes, John Biggerman, and William Allmond. Defeated Republicans, up for re-election were Hopson Reynolds and Richard Cooper. Sixty-six per cent of the 225,000 Negroes of this notable old Republican stronghold colored populations of this city and Pittsburgh voted Democratic by decisive majorities.

Democrats Win State Posts

Chester Gillispie, Cleveland, Republican candidate for the Ohio egislature went down to defeat as he city's colored wards grabbed he donkey's tail. The race took some consolation for loss of an assembly seat in the election of Harry Davis as member of the charter commission.

Defeat of John Adams, Republican of Omaha, Nebraska, leaves that state without its colored representative in the state's law making body, colored voters showing an 8 to 5 preference for Roosevelt and his Democratic running mates or local tickets.

In Detroit, the Democratic landslide frustrated hopes of Charles Roxborough, brother of the manager of Joe Louis and state senator for the honor of representing Michigan's first Congressional District in the national lower house, being defeated by a white Democrat. Charles Diggs, colored Democrat, unofficial returns show was elected in the third senatorial district.

Assistant City Counselor William Towers, Kansas City, Kansas, won the race for state legislature from a white Democrat to succeed Dr. William Blount. Colored voters in Gov. Landon's home state were two to one for President Roosevelt.

In New York, William Andrews and Robert Justice, Democrat were re-elected to the state assembly.

Negroes Acclaim Roosevelt

The huge inroads made by President Roosevelt in formerly colored Republican territory in 1932 and maintained and increased this year attest his popularity among the Northern Negroes of the nation. Factors accounting for this unprecedented defection of Negroes for traditional Republican affiliation are seen in CCC camps, WPA and PWA, social security and other relief measures. The general belief among colored voters of the nation, as shown by election returns, was that President Roosevelt's New Deal was not only what the descriptive term implies, but the squarest and most promising deal the race has received since the dark days of slavery.

Political-1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

BOSTON MAN IS HONORED

Democrats Send Baumann to National Convention

Samuel Connor Baumann, Jr., formerly of Boston and now of Los Angeles, Calif., was elected delegate on May 5 from the 14th Congressional district of California, to the Democratic National Convention to be held in Philadelphia, Penn., in June. Mr. Baumann has the distinction of being the first Negro delegate of either party ever elected in the history of th west.

Hon. James A. Farley, Postmaster General, personally named Mr. Baumann as his choice to help carry the banner of Franklin D. Roosevelt to the people of California. Because of Mr. Baumann's political prominence in that state, he was elected by a ten to one vote. Mr. Baumann is also a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the California Assembly, 62nd district; he has complete cooperation and national recognition of the Democratic party.

Mr. Baumann completed his education at the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and immediately left for Los Angeles, Calif., where he became a successful business man in the Pharmaceutical field acquiring a host of friends who rallied to his support at the polls.

His success may be attributed in a way to family tradition—he is the grandson of Judge James C. Baumann, formerly of Louisiana, once nominated for Congress, and who stood up so valiantly against the persecution of the Negroes by the Ku Klux Klan element of the lawless South.

He is the son of Samuel C. Baumann, assistant cashier of the Boston Post Office, Postal Cashier's section, who rose to that distinction several years ago by thirty six years of hard work and faithful service.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Baumann, Jr., and young son, expect to visit Boston after the Democratic convention.

SAMUEL BAUMANN, JR.
NASHVILLE, TENN.

TENNESSEAN

MAY 10 1936

EDITOR TO ADDRESS NEGRO DEMOCRATS

Dr. Thompkins, New Deal Campaigner, to Appear Here May 24

Dr. William J. Thompkins, editor of the Kansas City American, Recorder of Deeds in Washington, D. C., and prominent negro lecturer, will address the New Deal Progressive League of Nashville at the Bijou theater May 24, in the interest of the reelection of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Thompkins was recommended to the local negro organization by the Democratic National committee, which recognizes the Nashville organization, originated here in 1934.

The local organization of negroes is headed by Jasper C. Horne as president; the Rev. A. A. Bennett as vice-president; T. J. Darden as recording secretary, and B. W. Doyle as secretary-treasurer.

Congressman A. W. Mitchell of Chicago, the only Democratic negro congressman, addressed a large audience here in May, 1935, in celebration of the first anniversary of the local organization.

Only qualified negroes are eligible to membership in the league.

The organization has made an active fight in support of elimination of the fee-grabbing system in Davidson county; indorsed the probe of the fraudulent registrations in Nashville; and will support President Roosevelt for reelection, its officials announce.

REGISTER

Luther, Okla.

APR 30 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATIC CLUB HOLDS ROUSING MEETING

The Negro Democratic Club of Oklahoma county, of which J. H. Broach, Luther, is chairman, and Mrs. Willie M. Miller of Oklahoma City is secretary, held a rousing meeting Tuesday night at Slaughter Hall in Oklahoma City. Several candidates for various offices were present and were introduced.

This organization has a membership at present of about 1200 members and it is rapidly growing. Its objects are to better the political and economical condition of the Negroes. The organization is in efficient hands and we have no doubt it will prove a great benefit to that race.

We want to congratulate organizers of this club upon their stand to be and remain unboughtable, but to work always for better government and the improvement in every way of the Negro race.

May 7, 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRAT

Representative Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago, only Negro Congressman, who sits on the Democratic side of the House, predicts that Negro voters in twenty-three States will give the President a heavy vote.

ERIE, PA.

TIMES

MAY 5 - 1936

NEGRO [illegible] MEETING

The Erie county Negro Democratic committee will hold its semi-monthly meeting at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Hotel Pope, 1318 French st. Democratic nominees are requested to appear. Roland Williams is president and Mrs. Jessie Pope is secretary.

ST. JOSEPH, MO.

NEWS-PRESS

MAY 12 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRATS MEET.

William Gordon, better known as Country, will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Sixth Ward Negro Democratic Club at 8:30 o'clock tonight at 1724 Messanie street. Refreshments will be served. George L. Williams is president of the club.

Columbus, Ga. Enquirer-Sun
May 21, 1936

South Carolina Gives Support To Roosevelt

Columbia, S. C., May 20—(AP) The South Carolina democratic convention today instructed its delegates to the national convention to cast their 16 votes for the renomination of President Roosevelt.

The meeting was harmonious. No contests for office developed, and elections were unanimous.

The convention, meeting under a flag of truce on the highway issue, elected officers and transacted its major business unanimously.

The 367 delegates ignored differences between Governor Olin Johnston, whom they elected national committeeman according to precedent, and the highway commission.

The convention reelected State Chairman B. T. Leppard of Greenville and Mrs. L. H. Jennings of Columbia, national executive committeewoman; voted recognition of the young democrats by electing four of their leaders national alternates-at-large; and opposed the election of legislators to office by the general assembly.

It re-adopted the 1934 platform with three minor changes that brought it up to date; approved resolutions opposing the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill and the child labor amendment; and adopted measures consenting to changes in the national constitution provided they did not infringe on state rights.

United States Senator James F. Byrnes, the keynoter, said in reply to campaign charges of extravagance and unconstitutionality that the legacy of the Hoover administration prevented democratic budget-balancing and that most republicans supported New Deal legislation later held unconstitutional.

TEXAS DEMOCRATS AGAIN

The attorney general of Texas has assured the Democratic Central Committee of that state that the resolution barring Negroes from the Democratic primaries in 1934 holds good. In short he says, "go ahead, you need not fear any participation on the part of Negro voters."

Several years ago the legislature of Texas passed a law barring Negroes from the Democratic primaries but it was declared unconstitutional. Later the party passed a resolution barring Negroes from the Democratic primaries. A lawsuit followed and the United States Supreme Court held that a party had the right to prescribe the qualifications of its members.

The Bystander has felt that the Supreme Court was wrong on this question failing to look at the matter from a practical standpoint. The practical application of the decision is that it excludes Negroes from participation in the government. Eventually this ruling is going to be changed just as was the one when they held in the famous Leo Frank case that as long as the lower court went through the motion the Supreme Court could not go back of the trial to determine whether the due process clause of the constitution had been violated. However in the Arkansas Riot cases the court took the opposite view from that in the Frank case.

However, the attitude of Texas Democrats remains that they want no Negro votes even though they would aid in keeping them in power. It might be interesting to note that Vice President Garner comes from Texas and is Democratic National Committeeman from that state. Whether he is in accord with his state central committee on the Negro vote or no The Bystander is unable to say.

Colored Democrats Named at Springfield

FOUR ELECTED TO DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE — MRS. WORTHY CHOSEN AMONG THE SEVENTEEN PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS

Julian D. Rainey, Dr. Silas F. Taylor, Mrs. W. O. Taylor, and Mrs. Mabel Worthy were elected members of the Democratic State Committee during the recent convention in Springfield. Seventeen presidential electors were chosen by the convention, among them being Mrs. Mabel Worthy. In the November election, Mrs. Worthy's name will appear on the ballot in this group, which includes Mrs. Louis Howe, John F. Fitzgerald and other well known Democrats. There are the names against which the party voters will mark their crosses in voting for President and Vice-President.

DEMOCRATS AT BANQUET

Collector Maynard and Philbin Among Speakers

One of the most successful meetings held by Negro Democrats in the state, was the Get Together reception and dinner tendered by the Massachustts Colored Men's Democratic Club to the Pre-primary endorsed candidates for Senator, Governor and other state offices, Monday evening, June 15, at Estelle's, Tremont Street, Boston.

Besides representatives of various factions of local Democrats there were present for the first time in the history of Mass. politics representatives of Negro Democratic clubs from Worcester, New Bedford, Lowell, Lynn, Arlington and Cambridge.

David D. Kenney, President, presided and after welcoming the guests introduced Dr. William Worthy as master of ceremonies. Among other things Dr. Worthy told the candidates that the one and greatest need to stimulate interest in the Democratic party among colored voters, was patronage. He stressed the small amount of favors the group had received. However, he praised Joseph A. Maynard, Collector of the Port of Boston, for having recently promoted six men in his own department with substantial increases in salaries.

The speakers were: Philip Philbin candidate for Lt. Governor; Thoma H. Buckley, State Auditor and can didate for re-election; Joseph A Maynard, Collector of the Port o Boston; Atty. Cyril F. Butler wh represented Hon. Charles F. Hurle candidate for governor; Frank Du sey, former representative and a present a cashier in the City Collector's department; Mrs. Mabel R. Worthy, President of the Mass. Colored Women's Democratic Club; Julian D. Rainey, Victor Bynoe of the young Democrats, and Silas F. Taylor. Also Dr. Lloyd Marshall of Worcester; Barney Monteiro of New Bedford; Mrs. Rebecca Wilson, Lowell; Thomas E. Pierce, Arlington, and Joseph A. Dorsey, Cambridge.

Highlights Of Pre-Convention Activities Of Democratic Party

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 19— The citizens of Philadelphia are worked up over the coming convention. Hundreds of long distance cars are to be seen daily passing throughout our city's business district. Hotels have long reached the quota for living quarters. Two of the largest institutions in the city were bought up two weeks ago and from reports many of the smaller hotels are fast reaching their limit.

The citizens of the city of brotherly love have planned many affairs among events being: a moonlight boat ride down the historic Delaware Monday, June 22; Wednesday a general reception at O. V. Catto hall; Thursday, June 25, a tea at Marion Tea Room given by the Women's Second Congressional club and Friday night a smoker for the district men.

These events are sponsored by the committee of the general entertaining, O. Austin Norris, Joseph Rainey, Rev. Marshall Sheppard, Mrs. Crystal Fausett, aided by many local citizens.

Mrs. Austin Norris says there will be seated in this convention at least eighteen Race leaders; of this number Philadelphia will have two representatives in the persons of Fletcher Amos and Wilson Jones. Robert Vann of Pittsburgh; N. C. Hubert Thompson, the District of Columbia; Roscoe C. Bruce of New York City, will be among the early arrivals for the convention.

A call for the meeting of the National Democratic League composed of active working Democrats throughout the United States will be called at the O. V. Catto hall. New York will likely have the largest delegation attending both conventions.

Several groups have engaged headquarters in the central sections for the housing of their groups. The public waiters association has been taken over by the Harlem, New York, group.

Other sites have been partly engaged. The women are planning many affairs. Mrs. Crystal Byrd Fausett is aiding in the boat ride; Mrs. M. Mosell Griffin, president of the Democratic Women of the Second Congressional District, will entertain the delegates at the Marion tea room. Among those who are sponsoring this affair are Mrs. Florence Summers, Mrs. May Bradley, Mrs. Alice Anderson, Miss Carter, Mrs. Mae Fisher and others.

The YWCA, 1605 Catherine street, has been engaged by the committee for headquarters. Mrs. Byrd Fausett and a group of ladies will be in charge.

Representatives of the Race will be found engaged in every department at convention hall. Colored boys as ushers, clerks in office force and a large number of young men engaged to care for the comfort of the visitors.

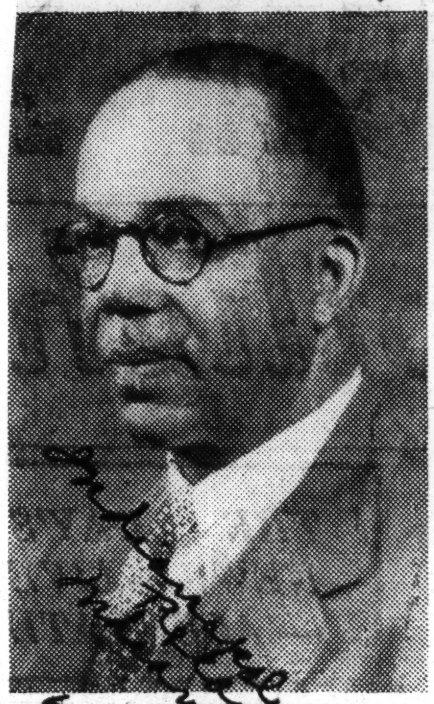
The Hon. Jack Kelly has through his local organization tried to see that no stone was left unturned to give the Negro full recognition.

The banquet held in the city's finest hotel, the Belview Stratford was well attended by Negro women. This was a general get-together of the city's active women Democrats and at the affair an outline of the convention procedure was touched upon from every angle. We were given complete details.

Mrs. D. Belle Tousett engaged as supervisor of supervisors on the various city projects will speak at the Citizens Club, on Sunday.

James Ross of Buffalo, New York, was in the city making plans for a delegation of at least 200 Democrats from upper New York state.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS



DR. SAMUEL R. BLACKWELL

Taking an active part in the Democratic State convention which nominated Clifford Townsend, as the party's nominee for governor, were Dr. S. R. Blackwell, political sage and leader of Gary and Judge Tenola E. Graves, aggressive leader from Michigan City. Following the convention, which was held here Tuesday, Dr. Blackwell as chairman called a meeting of the colored state central committee where plans were discussed for a big pow-wow to be held in West Baden next month. Both men were strong supporters of the administration candidates and predict victory for the ticket in the fall elections. Both will attend the national convention in Philadelphia next week.

JUDGE TENOLA E. GRAVES

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NEWS

JUL 11 1936

The Negro As An Issue In Political Campaigns

The Montgomery Advertiser, reviewing an ugly incident and its aftermath, makes a very blunt comment on an old but not honored Southern political practice. It begins:

"Because a Negro minister delivered an invocation at the Philadelphia convention, because a Democratic Negro congressman delivered an address in support of President Roosevelt, because there were some Negro delegates in the convention, 'Cotton Ed' Smith, the South Carolina demagogue, walked out of the convention."

The episode is having its political consequences in South Carolina, where Senator Joseph F. Byrnes is a candidate for reelection and has opposition. Senator Byrnes was in the convention when Senator Smith walked out.

"Recently," The Advertiser continues, "two of Byrnes' opponents, in a joint meeting asked him why he did not leave the convention, just as Smith did. Byrnes replied that he was appealing to the reason and not the prejudice of Carolinians—as if that would get a Carolina politician anywhere, especially when an ordinarily conservative and moderate newspaper like The Charleston News and Courier is devoting columns of editorial space to criticisms of Roosevelt because under him the Democratic party has alienated the Northern Negro vote from the Republicans for the first time in history."

Furthermore, The Advertiser notes, in Georgia Gene Talmadge, contemplating his struggle with Dick Russell for the Senate, names "race equality" as one of the "issues."

And here is The Advertiser's blunt comment:

"We Southern Democrats are too low-down to go through a state political campaign without making the helpless Negro a scapegoat in a white man's contest."

Something like that needs to be said. Of course, The Advertiser knows that there are many Southern Democrats who are above thinking of the Negro as an issue in political campaigns. Possibly the majority of them are above it—though such an estimate might be a trifle optimistic. But certain it is that there are enough Southern Democrats that low-down to cause some politicians—who are no better than they are in this respect—to use the Negro "issue" as a vote-catcher.

Senator Smith's walk-out at the convention was much deplored in the South. Many Southern newspapers branded it as the narrow-minded, small-spirited and altogether ugly act that it was. One great pity of it was that, coming from a Southern senator and being so widely publicized, it might be taken in other sections of the country as being representative of the South's attitude, when in fact it was not. Yet, when we see such use being made of the incident in South Carolina, we must reflect sorrowfully that it did represent the attitude of all too many Southerners.

We can, however, take some satisfaction in the knowledge that this sort of thing is becoming less prevalent. The Negro "issue" does not figure as much in political campaigns in the South now as it did even a few years ago. The time will come when no demagogue will seek to win votes in this way. For the day will come when there are comparatively so few who can be influenced by such an appeal to prejudice, and so many who object to it, that politicians will realize its unpopularity. Then will die an "issue" that should have had no place in Southern politics since the end of Reconstruction.

Who Are in the Democratic Party?

If by any one criterion more than another, Negro education may be seen to break down, it is in understanding American politics. Government stands for control, and in this country since colonial days, that control has been exercised by men courageous, shrewd, bold and organized enough to get the benefits. In 1776, they secured the support of so many of the masses and the political wisdom of Englishmen at home, as to create specific control through widened hope and opportunity for a larger number. Always the exercise of suffrage has been more or less restricted. When former freedmen were needed to assure control to another group, they were directed how to vote.

In every economic change, some few Negroes were used as stalking horses for the others. Negroes were traditionally Republicans, but never really, "in the Party."

Today, due to the popularity of Governor Alfred Smith and the ability of the men chosen to represent the Democrats in 1928, many men and women of color switched their allegiance to the Democrats, and registered it by voting for Roosevelt and Garner in 1932. South of Pennsylvania, the Negro is not recognized politically by the Democratic Party. He was rejected from the primary of that Party in Texas. He has been with that party in North Carolina for some 30 years, hence it is in the border states and the north that registration and organization of Negroes within the folds of the Democratic Party must take place to secure recognition within it.

This situation has placed Dr. R. W. Thompkins as the head of Negro Democrats, for he has been consistently aligned with it in his home state of the middle west, and behind him others may build an organization that will supply the numbers, resources and understanding of ideas vital to being, in a party."

The meeting staged by him in Philadelphia during the Democratic National Convention, was in line with what must be done in modern political movements, just as the meetings held here in Washington under the auspices of the National Democratic League, headed by Dr. F. O. Williston, an old North Carolina democrat, was a center of influence that must spread to gather members and resources in every section. Thus and thus alone may the Negro come into the Democratic Party, (as he has never been in the Republican party in all its history). Those meetings were recognized by the national Democratic party leaders, hence became official. Once in the party, lawmaking may be influenced.

Politics is the handmaid to economics, and there must be an investment to assure adequate return exactly as in any other venture: an investment of money, time and intelligence. The economic position of the colored people in America ranges their need of the policies inaugurated by Democratic Party control of government. As they come to understand that, they move into citizenship through suffrage. They do not stand among those great corporate and financial interests served by the Republicans, but among the rank and file of this country.

Highlights Of Com. Rainey's Speech

WEST BADEN, Ind., July 11.—[illegible] breaking of the shackles [illegible] truly held the under[illegible] turns on him, whether we think of that dark and [illegible] which the [illegible] of the sixteenth century, the exploitations of the seventeenth century, the expanding plantation [illegible] in the sixteenth, the swelling commerce of the eighteenth, or the fight for freedom in the nineteenth.

Joseph H. Rainey, Commissioner of Pensions, was the first Negro to speak in the house of representatives. He went on in eulogy delegates and seventy privileged [illegible] of the Negro's part in the vention held by the Indiana Negro [illegible] less abhorrent than that of the nation, politically, Democratic Central Association [illegible] chattel slavery. ways showing the which commenced here at the Waddy "I am here as a living refuta- ways showing the Hotel [illegible] tion that the "New Deal", con- New Deal to the opening [illegible] address, ceived, nurtured and guided by [illegible] painting the Negro the commissioner said, "I am here the hand of that greatest of humanitarians, Franklin Delano Roo- today not as the personification of sevelt, has failed to knuckle down and in many ways showing the individual achievement, but rather as the benefits of the New as the symbol of the wider and more [illegible] opportunities to even of life—with an eye single to Negro which the Negro is becoming [illegible] fairness, equity and opportunity creasingly heir under the benefi- for all groups that comprise the cient heritage of what has come cosmopolitan citizenry of the to be popularly known as the "New greatest country on the face of Deal".

"I am glorying in a new found knowledge of the new meaning of America in relation to the possi- Negro is a central thread of Amer- and later, said: "Dramatically, the the globe."

The speaker drew great applause

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NEWS

JUL 11 1936

The Negro As An Issue In Political Campaigns

The Montgomery Advertiser, reviewing an ugly incident and its aftermath, makes a very blunt comment on an old but not honored Southern political practice. It begins:

"Because a Negro minister delivered an invocation at the Philadelphia convention, because a Democratic Negro congressman delivered an address in support of President Roosevelt, because there were some Negro delegates in the convention, 'Cotton Ed' Smith, the South Carolina demagogue, walked out of the convention."

The episode is having its political consequences in South Carolina, where Senator Joseph F. Byrnes is a candidate for reelection and has opposition. Senator Byrnes was in the convention when Senator Smith walked out.

"Recently," The Advertiser continues, "two of Byrnes' opponents, in a joint meeting asked him why he did not leave the convention, just as Smith did. Byrnes replied that he was appealing to the reason and not the prejudice of Carolinians—as if that would get a Carolina politician anywhere, especially when an ordinarily conservative and moderate newspaper like The Charleston News and Courier is devoting columns of editorial space to criticisms of Roosevelt because under him the Democratic party has alienated the Northern Negro vote from the Republicans for the first time in history."

Furthermore, The Advertiser notes, in Georgia Gene Talmadge, contemplating his struggle with Dick Russell for the Senate, names "race equality" as one of the "issues."

And here is The Advertiser's blunt comment:

"We Southern Democrats are too low-down to go through a state political campaign without making the helpless Negro a scapegoat in a white man's contest."

Something like that needs to be said. Of course, The Advertiser knows that there are many Southern Democrats who are above thinking of the Negro as an issue in political campaigns. Possibly the majority of them are above it—though such an estimate might be a trifle optimistic. But certain it is that there are enough Southern Democrats that low-down to cause some politicians—who are no better than they are in this respect—to use the Negro "issue" as a vote-catcher.

Senator Smith's walk-out at the convention was much deplored in the South. Many Southern newspapers branded it as the narrow-minded, small-spirited and altogether ugly act that it was. One great pity of it was that, coming from a Southern senator and being so widely publicized, it might be taken in other sections of the country as being representative of the South's attitude, when in fact it was not. Yet, when we see such use being made of the incident in South Carolina, we must reflect sorrowfully that it did represent the attitude of all too many Southerners.

We can, however, take some satisfaction in the knowledge that this sort of thing is becoming less prevalent. The Negro "issue" does not figure as much in political campaigns in the South now as it did even a few years ago. The time will come when no demagogue will seek to win votes in this way. For the day will come when there are comparatively so few who can be influenced by such an appeal to prejudice, and so many who object to it, that politicians will realize its unpopularity. Then will die an "issue" that should have had no place in Southern politics since the end of Reconstruction.

Who Are in the Democratic Party?

If by any one criterion more than another, Negro education may be seen to break down, it is in understanding American politics. Government stands for control, and in this country since colonial days, that control has been exercised by men courageous, shrewd, bold and organized enough to get the benefits. In 1776, they secured the support of so many of the masses and the political wisdom of Englishmen at home, as to create specific control through widened hope and opportunity for a larger number. Always the exercise of suffrage has been more or less restricted. When former freedmen were needed to assure control to another group, they were directed how to vote.

In every economic change, some few Negroes were used as stalking horses for the others. Negroes were traditionally Republicans, but never really, "in the Party."

Today, due to the popularity of Governor Alfred Smith and the ability of the men chosen to represent the Democrats in 1928, many men and women of color switched their allegiance to the Democrats, and registered it by voting for Roosevelt and Garner in 1932. South of Pennsylvania, the Negro is not recognized politically by the Democratic Party. He was rejected from the primary of that Party in Texas. He has been with that party in North Carolina for some 30 years, hence it is in the border states and the north that registration and organization of Negroes within the folds of the Democratic Party must take place to secure recognition within it.

This situation has placed Dr. R. W. Thompkins as the head of Negro Democrats, for he has been consistently aligned with it in his home state of the middle west, and behind him others may build an organization that will supply the numbers, resources and understanding of ideas vital to being, in a party."

The meeting staged by him in Philadelphia during the Democratic National Convention, was in line with what must be done in modern political movements, just as the meetings held here in Washington under the auspices of the National Democratic League, headed by Dr. F. O. Williston, an old North Carolina democrat, was a center of influence that must spread to gather members and resources in every section. Thus and thus alone may the Negro come into the Democratic Party, (as he has never been in the Republican party in all its history). Those meetings were recognized by the national Democratic party leaders, hence became official. Once in the party, lawmaking may be influenced.

Politics is the handmaid to economics, and there must be an investment to assure adequate return exactly as in any other venture: an investment of money, time and intelligence. The economic position of the colored people in America ranges their need of the policies inaugurated by Democratic Party control of government. As they come to understand that, they move into citizenship through suffrage. They do not stand among those great corporate and financial interests served by the Republicans, but among the rank and file of this country.

Highlights Of Com. Rainey's Speech

WEST BADEN, Ind., July 11.—Refuting [illegible] Joseph H. Rainey, Commissioner of Pensions, three hundred and seventy delegates and visitors to the convention held by the Indiana Negro Democratic Association which convened here at the Waddy Hotel [illegible]

[illegible] opening [illegible] address, the commissioner said, "I am here today not as the personification of individual achievement, but rather as the symbol of the wider and more fruitful opportunities which the Negro is beginning to enjoy. The whole story of the common man, the Negro's part in the bilities of the common man, the ican history. The whole story turns on him, whether we think of the dark and [illegible] breaking of the shackles truly held the under- of the sixteenth century, the ex- which bondage but in the sixteenth century, the expanding plantations of the seventeenth, the swelling commerce of the eighteenth, or the fight for freedom in the nineteenth.

[illegible] went on in eulogy [illegible] Negro's part in the [illegible] nation, politically, [illegible] ways showing the [illegible] the New Deal to the

"I am glorying in a new found [illegible] The speaker drew great applause knowledge of the new meaning of [illegible] and later, said: "Dramatically, the America in relation to the possi- Negro is a central thread of Amer-

Democrats to Split if Vann is Appointed to Head Campaign Among Colored Voters

Farley Told Pittsburg Mar
Farley Told Pittsburgh Mar
groes Will Not Cooperate

OPEN LETTER WRITTEN TO PRESIDENT CITED

Publisher Recently Severely Criticized Administration in Newspaper

James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was told last week by the Philadelphia Negro Democratic Committeemen's Organization that it definitely would not work with or under Robert L. Vann, who is reported to be slated to head the Democratic campaign among colored voters.

The letter, which was notarized and signed by more than 300 members of the organization, charged that Vann is disliked, not only in Philadelphia but by Negroes everywhere, and that "he would do the President more harm than good among Negroes if he is appointed."

Open Letter Cited

The organization cited as evidence of Vann's "lack of political capacity and ineptitude," the open letter to the President which he published in a Pittsburgh newspaper, of which he is the editor, in which the President was taken to task on several issues.

The full text of the letter to Mr. Farley follows:

"We, the duly elected committeemen of Philadelphia desire to bring to your attention, a rumor that Robert L. Vann, of Pittsburg is to direct the campaign among the colored voters of the country. If this rumor be factually founded we wish to enter our protest against this appointment.

Is Disliked

"Mr Vann is very generally disliked in Philadelphia and throughout the State, and we can not work either with or under him.

"We are members of the National Colored Democratic Association, designated as Unit No. 1 of Pennsylvania, and our activities have been greatly embarrassed through the political associates of Mr. Vann, because of his opposition to our organization.

Lacks Common Sense

"Distrust of Mr. Vann is not confined to Philadelphia but extends throughout the State and we believe it will do the Presidency more harm than good among Negroes if he is appointed.

"His open letter to the President was but another evidence of his lack of political capacity and ineptitude which we cite as an illustration of his lack of common sense and the elements of true leadership."

Other letters protesting the contemplated appointment of Vann were sent to John B. Kelly, chairman of the Democratic City Committee; David Lawrence, chairman, State Democratic Committee; George Earle, Governor of Pennsylvania; Senator Joseph Guffey, and W. Forbes Morgan, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES

JUN 22 1936

HOLDS PRESIDENT HAS AIDED NEGROES

W. F. Morgan Tells Philadelphia Group Treatment Is Better Under Roosevelt.

NEGRO STATEMENTS CITED

Representative Mitchell and Council of Bishops Praised Recognition of Race.

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, Negro Democrat of Illinois, and a resolution of the Bishops' Council of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, were quoted today by W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the Democratic National Committee, as showing that the Negroes of the United States had received better treatment from the Roosevelt administration than from Republican administrations.

Mr. Morgan spoke at a meeting of the National Colored Democratic Association at the Pearl Theatre. He was preceded by National Chairman James A. Farley, who thanked the members of the association for their support of Democratic candidates and principles in the past and expressed confidence in a continuance of that support at the coming election.

Mr. Morgan declared that the debt of loyalty owed by Negroes to the Republican party had been paid and quoted Representative Mitchell as having said in a recent speech:

"Mr. Roosevelt has appointed more Negroes to responsible governmental positions than the last three Republican administrations taken together."

The resolution adopted by the Council of Negro Bishops, Mr. Morgan said, noted the tendency of the administration at Washington to recognize merit without regard to race, color or condition, and continued:

"We hail with unfeigned pleasure the recognition extended to so many of our people by President Roosevelt and petition him to carry on his work so well begun, to keep open the door of hope, to insure social justice to every citizen, to give to one and all the same equality of opportunity, full and complete enjoyment of all constitutional guarantees, equal and exact justice before the law."

Mr. Morgan added that the President had shown that he did not tell the Negroes one thing before election and pursue a different course afterward.

"He has produced without deviation," Mr. Morgan said, "to see that the colored man, as far as lies in his power, is conceded his economic rights and is given equal opportunity with all others in the great work of rehabilitation."

BROOKLYN, N. Y.
TIMES UNION

JUL 11 1936

PLAN RATIFICATION FETE

A ratification meeting will be held by the Regular Colored Democratic Association of Kings County of which Wesley L. Young is leader, at their headquarters, 452 Nostrand ave. on July 14th, at which time the nominations of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Vice-President John N. Garner will be ratified. It will be under the auspices of the Ever Ready Club, a women's auxiliary of the county organization, of which Mrs. Lutie Lytle Cowan, is the supervisor.

LOUISVILLE, KY.
COURIER-JOURNAL

JUL 6 - 1936

THE NEGRO AT THE CONVENTION.

To the Editor of The Courier-Journal.

I natice in this morning's Courier-Journal that Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller of Pennsylvania assumed responsibility for having the Rev. Marshall T. Shepard offer a prayer at the Democratic Convention in Philadelphia. I wish to congratulate her on doing so and also whoever had the Negro Congressman make his good speech. I think Senator E. D. Smith is the one to be blamed instead of any of the above.

Irvington, Ky. EDITH LEWIS.

SENATOR SMITH'S COURSE

The Messenger, regardless of what others say to the contrary, goes on record as endorsing the course taken by Senator Ellison D. Smith, at the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia, in resenting the important role given Negroes in the convention by "taking a walk". It was bad taste, in the first place, in seelcting a Negro to open in prayer. Why was it done? The reason is obvious. It was a play for the Negro vote—nothing else. We can not endorse that sort of "politics". One South Carolina delegate made the remark that he "didn't care who prayed for him". That may be well and good in its place, and very praiseworthy. But would this same delegate have any objection to a Negro preacher opening the South Carolina Democratic Convention with prayer? To a Negro preacher opening a session of the General Assembly with prayer? We venture to say that he would. Some may say it was an 'expediency'. But do expedients always work out to the best advantage? We say no. In the final analysis, and it doesn't take much to analyze, the placing of Negroes in important roles at the convention was a "crucifixion of the Democratic party" in order to obtain the Negro vote.

And it was entirely unnecessary, and even if necessary it would have been wrong, and smacking of the principle "votes at any price."

WELL SAID, MR. CAVALIER

Pertinent indeed were the observations made by Thomas Lomax Hunter distinguished columnist of the Richmond Times Dispatch, relative to the "walk" taken by U. S. Senator Ellison D. Smith from South Carolina at the "New Deal" Convention in Philadelphia because he could not endure a praying Negro.

Mr. Hunter senses the difference between a praying and a thinking Negro when he says: Planet

"A Southern Negro hater, stalking out of the meeting in high dugeon, was one of the high spots in the convention. Let us hope that, with Senator Smith, racial hate and racial prejudice stalked forever out of our Democracy. The senator expressed himself in a time-worn phrase when he spoke of "liking a Negro in his place." By that phrase, racial prejudice means that it likes a Negro in an inferior subordinate and servile place. 7-25-36

"It would be well for us to realize right now that the Negro is not going to be content with that sort of "place." Richmond, Va. He is going to demand, and has a right to demand, a place in keeping with his talents. Those who ask that he be content to accept a position of racial inferiority, take the white man's praise and tolerance on such conditions, are thinking in terms of yesterday.

"Uncle Remus and Uncle Tom, and all the other old uncles of Southern dialect literature, were lovable characters, but they are not the models to whom the modern Negro looks or should look. Old Massa's in the cold, cold ground, and, with him, is gone his faithful Negro bodyservant.

"Senator Smith, walking indignantly out of the New Deal convention, was a most ludicrous figure and I hope that even the Negroes whose presence offended his sense of propriety had the wit to laugh at him, and even to pity him."

Well said, Mr. Cavalier. The sooner the Hunnish-rulers of our benighted Southland and their Negro sycophants recognize this fact, the sooner peace, good-will, prosperity and happiness will come to all who dwell therein.

Political-1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

GREENSBORO, N. C.
NEWS

MAY 19 1936

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES AND NEGRO VOTERS.

The Raleigh News and Observer says that "for the first time in recent years" a negro was selected by the Wake county convention as delegate to the Democratic state convention, and the Daily News' bureau has it that Dr. L. T. Delaney is the first one ever. Dr. Delaney, a precinct committeeman of years' standing, it appears, is something of a party veteran. The event was altogether harmonious, and in harmony with the ambition recently voiced on the floor of the house at Washington by Representative Arthur Mitchell, of Illinois—an expression heartily cheered by his white party colleagues—with respect to an aggressive campaign in 23 states having 2,400,000 negro voters, where "negroes are permitted to vote, and where their votes are counted." Representative Mitchell said "We are going to give the Democratic party and the great President that I love so dearly the largest vote that any negro group has ever given a President of the United States."

There was some apprehension that in the Wake county convention, and in the Durham, sour notes might be sounded. But the Herald reports that in Durham, also, all was serene. There was apprehension that the Young Negro element might appear in numbers and aggression, and the tale would have gone out especially into the east that this aggression had come in championing the McDonald cause with unrestrained fervor. It had been projected that ancient prejudices might prove to be deeper and stronger even than hatred of the sales tax in those eastern precincts. or at least that an agitation of mixed and conflicting emotions would be stirred.

Speculations to this effect produced disquiet up this way, and especially in Greensboro, a spot where it may be said that relatively the peace of God rests upon the relations of white and black. What the Young Negro contingent, which has its representation here also, has to say about it does not appear. Leaders amongst those who follow the courses of composition and peace are not without suspicion of a purpose to "drag the negro in"—"we were in hopes they could get along without doing that," some of them say. But whether the negro issue should get into the campaign fortuitously or be introduced by design, it is a thing to be dreaded by negro people disposed to peace. The wrath of a section aroused by stirring of ancient prejudices can be a fearful thing, and it can spread, and it can quickly undo the patient labor of years.

Secondarily, there is a regret at these implications on the part of followers of Hoey, and of Graham, and the latter are said to be especially numerous and influential in Greensboro. The reasoning may be something like this: If it is norated that Dr. McDonald, by reason of his attitudes toward racial matters, is poison to the violent type of eastern white, or wherever that type may be found, it may be concluded by the Young Negro element everywhere that he is the very man for them, and this may tend to create a racial solidarity that will work against the other candidates amongst negro voters.

And it is not as if the negro vote in the Democratic primary was an altogether negligible quantity. More and more, those conducting primary campaigns look for votes where they may be had. One vote, if counted at all, counts for just as much as another.

WILSON, N. C.
TIMES

MAY 18 1936

NEGROES GIVE UP ATTEMPT TO CRASH WAKE CONVENTION

FAIL TO GET BACKING

Group Had Boasted That It Would Attend Wake County Democratic Convention Saturday and Force Election of at Least Two Negro Delegates to State Convention

Times Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel

(By J. C. BASKERVILL)

Raleigh, May 18.—The group of negroes here which had been boasting that it would attend the Wake County Democratic Convention here Saturday and force the election of at least two negro delegates to the State Democratic Convention, failed to show up. The result was that the convention was entirely harmonious and the question of negro participation was not injected into its deliberations.

Before the convention was held, the Rev. G. A. Fisher, negro rector of St. Ambrose Episcopal Church here, stated that he and a group of negroes from Precinct 16 would protest against the seating of the white delegation from that precinct and ask that a negro delegation be seated instead. He also predicted that at least two negro delegates to the state convention would be named from Wake county and two from Durham. The Rev. Mr. Fisher admitted that he and his group of younger negro leaders are supporting Dr. Ralph W. McDonald for the Democratic nomination for Governor because they regard him as being more liberal in his attitude towards the negroes than any of the other candidates. He said that he and his group of younger negroes are "definitely opposed to the old leadership both in the colored and white races in North Carolina."

The reason Fisher failed to appear at the county convention here Saturday was because he could not get any of the more substantial leaders in the precinct to join with him and make a protest, according to W. H. Sawyer, one of the principal white leaders in Precinct 16.

"None of the better element among the negroes in this precinct, which includes Shaw University, and in which most of the negro professors in Shaw and in the colored high school here live, would join in with Fisher or make any protest," Sawyer said. "They told me that they were perfectly satisfied to leave the situation in the hands of the white delegates and that they had complete confidence in the white delegates named in the precinct meeting."

Sawyer said he had heard that the Rev. Mr. Fisher worked until midnight Friday night trying to get together a group that would make a protest, but that none would agree to go with him to the county convention to make a public protect, so that he was compelled to abandon it.

Mitchell To Second F.R.'s Nomination

Chicago Congressman Signalled For High Honor.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 18. — Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, of Chicago, will second the nomination of President Franklin D. Roosevelt to succeed himself as chief executive of this country at the Democratic National Convention here next week.

It is also learned from reliable sources that Attorney Robert L. Vann, editor-in-chief of the Pittsburgh Courier, will head up the campaign among Negroes.

If the Democrats Are Wise

With the national party conventions out of the way, next week, and the election a few months away, the usual scramble for leadership in the campaign is inevitable.

If the voters and the press are to have confidence in such leaders as may be appointed to speak for them, both parties might well manifest greater wisdom than has heretofore been manifest. 6-20-36

Four years ago the Democratic National Committee named a group of four to conduct the Roosevelt campaign. After the election they appeared with a program. Then they agreed to disagree, accepted Federal posts and went their several ways.

Nothing more has been heard of "the program," and, so far as is known, the public and the press have not been taken into their confidence as to what has become of it.

Some excuse for the mistakes of four years ago may be found in the fact that the Democrats were in a new situation and had been out of power for sixteen years. Colored voters who deserted the G.O.P. and cast their ballots for Mr. Roosevelt understood that and were willing to wait for a better deal.

Today, Mr. Roosevelt's party knows who its friends are. It knows what the colored citizens want and who are the real leaders.

If the Democratic National Committee is wise, it will not choose its 1936 campaign committee offhandedly, but with its eyes wide open to what happened in 1932.

If the New Deal is to succeed in the present campaign, it is plain that it cannot repeat this mistake, that it must choose leaders whose motives are not mercenary and selfish, who can be relied upon to keep their promises, and who can command the respect and trust of the voters by staying on the job and working for the public interest, after the party has won its victory.

Greenville, S. C. Piedmont
June 10, 1936

Negro Voters Must Be 81, Endorsed By 10 Whites

Democratic Party Rules Require Proof Of Support For Wade Hampton Back In 1876 Election

If a negro votes in the Democratic primary this summer and does it according to the rules he must be 81 years old, a life-long Democrat, and "endorsed" by 10 white men, all approximately as old as himself!

Take it from the county's party rules—

"Negroes applying for the right to vote in the Democratic primaries must produce a written statement of 10 reputable white men, who shall swear that they know to their own knowledge that the applicant or voter voted for General Wade Hampton in 1876, and has voted the Democratic ticket continuously ever since."

If the 1876 election were a voter's first, he was then at least 21 years old and has now reached the ripe old age of 81. Likewise, the 10 white men who could know of their own knowledge that he voted for Hampton in 1876 would also be close to the octogenarian class.

For white voters the rules aren't quite so strict, and the only requirement for voting in the primary is that the name of the voter must be placed on the club roll in his precinct by July 30, according to J. M. Wells, county secretary.

Club books are now open in nearly all precincts and will remain open through July 30, Mr. Wells said, pointing out that in order to enroll a person must have been a resident of the state for two years, the county for six months, and the voting precinct for 60 days prior to the time of the first primary.

When he enrolls, the voter must write his name, age, occupation and address on the book, or have the person in charge write it for him and then make his mark. On voting, his name will be checked against that on the club rolls, and he will pledge himself to support the nominees of the party, state and national.

CITIZEN
JUN 11 1936

UNITED COLORED DEMS HOLD OUTING ON JULY 4th

Officers and members of the United Colored Democratic Club of which Clarence Marshall is president, with their wives and friends, will hold an outing to Far Rockaway Beach on Saturday, July 4.

The following committee has been named to arrange the event: John Wallen, William Brunson, Irving Jackson, Wilkinson Coffey, Bert Collins, Henry Blake, James Harris and Raymond De Groot.

It has been decided by the club to hold its meetings every second Monday of the month.

LOUISVILLE, KY.
TIMES
JUN 10 1936

Chandler Forces Win Party Posts

Credentials Committee Seats 196 Delegates, Putting Mayor In Control.

OTHER TESTS TO TAYLOR

The credentials committee of the Democratic State Convention in session at the Armory, Wednesday recommended unseating delegations from seven counties and from three legislative districts in Jefferson County, but decided in favor of the organization faction in the fight for 196 seats in the Fifty-first Legislative District here. The organization by the decision received a majority of the 362 convention votes in this district.

The delegation seated as a result of the hotly contested meeting at the State Fairgrounds remains seated under the ruling. However, in the Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth and Fifty-seventh Legislative Districts, also in Jefferson County, the committee decided in favor of the anti-organization faction. Shackelford Miller, Jr., Jefferson County member of the committee, filed a minority report giving an opinion that the contestants should be given seats on the convention floor, but later withdrew it.

SILENT ON REASONS.

The committee attached no reason to the report to supplement its findings in any of the cases.

Delegations unseated were those from Daviess, Magoffin, Logan, Union, Trigg, Monroe and Taylor Counties and in the Sixty-fourth legislative district (Kenton County). The changes had no effect on Chandler Administration's control of the convention, leaders pointed out.

The delegation from Fayette County with seventy-nine votes on the convention floor was split, giving each faction one-half vote by seating an equal number from each side.

In the Fifty-ninth Legislative District in Trimble County, the committee recommended that the delegates already seated be declared the authorized delegates from the district.

MILLER, TAYLOR TESTIFY.

At the hearing of the Fifty-first District contest, Mayor Miller, testifying for the administration group, said they had three times as many delegates present as did the opposition. He said an engineer surveyed the building and by a blueprint, which showed the square feet on either side of a divisional line, estimated the anti-administration delegates numbered 3,000 and his side between 8,000 and 9,000. He said the opposition was "given an even break."

E. Leland Taylor, heading the anti-administration faction, contended the mass convention was "an absolute fraud." He introduced affidavits seeking to show that P.W.A. workers were taken to the meeting regardless of where they lived; crowds were given free transportation from other districts and given free lunch and beer; city employes taken "bodily" to the convention; Louisville Water Company workers taken to the convention in street cars and that at least 200 Negroes and "prostitutes" from near Seventh and Liberty were hauled to the convention in twenty-five automobiles.

He said it was impossible under the circumstances to conduct a fair count because the crowd rushed the doors and that when Owsley Brown, chairman, was notified, he declared Mayor Miller elected permanent chairman. He estimated his group outnumbered legitimate opponents two to one.

Mayor Miller entered a categorical denial to the charges. Four other witnesses corroborated his testimony.

Disturbances in the lobby led to the arrest of four men, County Patrolman M. J. Byrne, Charles Barker, 50, marriage bureau clerk; Edward Briscoe, 38, and Carl Russman, a deputy clerk in Police Court, on minor charges.

SENATOR SMITH QUITS CONVENTION FOR GOOD

Constitution

Defeat of Two-Thirds Rule and Negro's Speech Are 'Too Much.'

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—(AP)—Senator Smith, of South Carolina, walked out of the democratic national convention again tonight when a negro spoke from the platform saying this time he was gone "to stay gone."

Smith repeated his march from the convention hall when Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, only negro member of congress, addressed the convention.

"This is another dose," the veteran South Carolina senator angrily said, as he stalked off the floor. "I have had enough. This time I am leaving the convention to stay gone."

"I'm through."

Mayor Burnet Maybunk, of Charleston, who walked out with Smith yesterday when the Rev. Marshall Shepard, a Philadelphia negro minister, offered the invocation at the opening of Wednesday morning's session, did not join the senator tonight.

Smith said two members of the South Carolina delegation—C. Frank Clyburn, of Kershaw, and T. R. Smith, of Orangeburg—walked out with him.

"They told me they were leaving for good," the senator said.

"I don't care what the convention might do or say," the senator asserted. "Things have occurred that in my opinion have humiliated the south.

"These are the abrogation of the two-thirds rule and acceptance of the negro on terms of political equality."

The senator said he would leave Philadelphia tomorrow afternoon for his home in Lynchburg, S. C.

"I want to get a good night's rest and then I'm going to do down and see how my cotton is getting along."

Political - 1936

Party Affiliation.

Democratic

Democratic Big Four Uncertain of Status as 1936 Campaign Looms

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of several articles on prominent Democratic leaders. They will deal with the origin, history, and present affairs of the group, with speculation as to their future. They are known as the Big Four. The man behind the secenes, whose publicity built them up will also be pictured for the first time.

By FLORENCE M. COLLINS

There is discord in the tunes of the Democratic Big Four Quartet which did its number in the Roosevelt campaign of 1932. At that time the quartet sang the part songs in perfect harmony—to the commendation of the Democratic high command.

With one member of the troupe practically out on the picture, and another silent, the two who are left singing the ditties seem to be attempting to drown each other in the finale—perhaps their swan song.

The Big Four, named in order of the above references are: Dr. Joseph L. Johnson of Columbus, O.; Julian D. Rainey of Boston; Robert L. Vann of Pittsburgh, and Dr. William J. Thompkins of Kansas City, Mo.

The fight for leadership among colored party ranks in the present campaign is between Thompkins, now recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, and Vann, Pittsburgh editor, who recently resigned from the patronage position of assistant to the United States Attorney General.

District Leaders Anticipated

A statement released by Mr. Vann, to the effect that he will be the standard-bearer in the Democratic Presidential campaign, has been disputed by Dr. Thompkins, who says that Vann may be the leader of his own district.

But it has been definitely learned that the campaign managers have not been officially chosen, and that, in all liklihood, no one person will hog it all. Districts will be allocated to certain leaders, Thompkins declares, inferring that he will have the Midwest.

The Pittsburgh editor called Dr. Thompkins's convention of the Colored Democratic Association in Philadelphia, immediately preceding the Democratic National Convention, a jimcrow affair, and the doctor came back with the retort that his group was bowing to no interference from the outside, and that if it is labeled jimcrow, every colored gathering, by the same reasoning, is jimcrow.

Before making any predictions or conjectures as to how the pie may be sliced among the Big Four, if at all, for the coming election show, let us go into reminiscenses of the origin and history of this illustrious quartet.

Johnson Was Nucleus

Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, the most unsung of the group during the Roosevelt regime was the nucleus about which the Big Four grew up. He was the ranking colored Democratic leader during the Wilson campaign, after which he was rewarded with the post of Minister to Liberia.

When Johnson was sent out by the party to locate key men for the Roosevelt campaign, he gathered together the other three—Vann, Rainey, and Thompkins—who were regarded as kingpins in local Democratic circles, but not nationally known political figures.

Vann Switched from GOP

Vann's tie-up with the minority party at that time came as a surprise to laymen generally and to many in political fields. He had forfeited his connection with the Republican party in 1928, when it was alleged that while he was working for this group, he ran advertisement in his paper for the Democrats.

For his Republican efforts he had been promised the job of assistant to the Attorney General under Hoover, the story goes. However, it is alleged, when the time came to dish out this plum, Walter F. Brown, white, then Postmaster General and patronage dispenser, passed him over for the aforementioned rumored irregularity.

His sudden shift to the Democratic Party, at the suggestion of Johnson, bore out his reputed retort to Brown at that time, "I'll see you in 1932."

Rainey was recommended to the ranks by Governor Curley, white, then mayor of Boston. The former was at that time assistant district attorney. Thompkins, the Kansas City physician, was selected because of his strategic position in the Midwest, where he published a weekly newspaper.

Rumblings After Election

These men worked shoulder to shoulder during the campaign, and were highly commended by the white Democratic leaders for the harmony they displayed. However, from the moment of Roosevelt's election, numerous incidents occurred to demonstrate that all was not peaches with the troupe—that their unison had been disrupted.

Their political career took altogether different courses from those that had been predicted. The first of them to receive a plum was Vann, who got his Justice Department position in the New Deal Administration—the job that had been denied him by the GOP.

Thompkins Wanted V.I. Post

Dr. Thompkins came into the picture nearly two years later as recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia. It is said by close-ins that although he has filled this job with credit to himself and the Administration, he had been ambitious for bigger fish—governorship of the Virgin Islands.

This accomplishment was frustrated by his own former political allies, as well as the fact that the New Deal could not make up its mind whether the time was ripe to hand out such exalted positions to the darker race—a decision which might have been reached in his favor if there had been more encouragement from those who had played the game with him.

Rooseveltians even made Vann's appointment with reluctance, it is related. It was said to have been postponed from time to time, which actions led observers to believe that at this early date all was not well with the Big Four.

Then, Vann's sudden resignation from his position last December helped to confirm this belief.

Rainey to Be Heard From

Rainey has said very little during the last few years, but he is considered a dominant figure in the forthcoming campaign. He has kept his feet away from the fire of dissension and many look up to him as one who will carry the torch of Democracy for the reason that his silence has made no enemies.

The most lonely figure, of whom much has been expected and little heard from, is Dr. Johnson, the father of the quartet, who was the only national light at the time of its incipiency. He was scheduled to get one of the highest positions in the New Deal hand-out, that of Minister to Liberia.

He dallied a while with his opportunity, however, until it was lost to him when he finally made up his mind. job, it is said, because he felt himself too old to go to Liberia.

Lester Walton, New York newspaperman, finally got the appointment.

So far he has not received a juicy plum in the Roosevelt Administration, and from all indications, he will have little to say concerning the plans for the campaign—unless it be that his State organization decides to use him in Ohio.

Vann also had his secret ambition.

WICHITA, KAN.
EAGLE
JUL 14 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATS OPEN HEADQUARTERS

Headquarters for the colored division of the Young Democrats of Sedgwick county have been opened at 1001 East Fifteenth. John Long is president of the unit.

The office will be open daily from 3 p. m. to 8 p. m. until the campaign is ended in November. The phone number is 3-5851.

Regular meetings of the colored division will be held on Tuesday evenings at the hall. Interesting programs are being planned. The unit will be open to the public in general.

Atlanta, Ga. Georgian
June 30, 1936

TALMADGE RAPS PLATFORM, END OF 2-3 RULE

Sharp criticism of the platform adopted at the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia was expressed Tuesday by Governor Talmadge in an editorial in his weekly publication, The Statesman.

The Governor, who recently announced he would support the party's nominees but reserved the right to criticize acts of the administration, wrote in part:

Well, the convention in Philadelphia is over.

They abolished the two-thirds rule. They wrote this into their platform.

They also wrote into their platform the management of the internal affairs of the states by boards and bureaus in Washington.

This plank in the platform is the death knell of the sovereignty of states.

There were a great many negro delegates at the Philadelphia convention. Along with the negro delegates there were a great many negro visitors and newspaper reporters.

SOCIAL EQUALITY

These negro delegates and newspaper reporters stopped at the same hotel with our white ladies and our white men from the South. They ate at the same tables. They stood around in the same hotel lobbies, chatting.

In other words, social equality and political equality was established at the convention in Philadelphia.

A negro preacher, Rev. L. Marshall Shepard, of Philadelphia, led in prayer.

Senator Ellison D. Smith, delegate-at-large from South Carolina, walked out—but came back.

Then a negro delegate, Arthur W. Mitchell, of Chicago, seconded the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for President. At this juncture the same delegate from South Carolina, Senator Ellison D. Smith, walked out again, tore up his credentials, said that he was through and that he was going back to South Carolina and tell the people just what was going on at Philadelphia.

MORE ACTIVITY

But the negro activity was not over. A negro delegate, Carl Glass, from St. Louis, Mo., seconded the nomination of Vice President John N. Garner, of Texas.

We people in the South have always been taught that to register that we are Democrats, that we remained solidly Democratic, that we would split if we had negro delegates sent down here on the front pages. It is news.

Why don't the papers of Georgia give Georgia the news, and the Southern papers give the Southern people the news as to what happened up in Philadelphia?

When they abolished the two-thirds rule, it was the last chance, the last hope of the South to ever have any controlling power in the conven-

Political - 1936

Party Affiliation.

Democratic

Democratic Big Four Uncertain of Status as 1936 Campaign Looms

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of several articles on prominent Democratic leaders. They will deal with the origin, history, and present affairs of the group, with speculation as to their future. They are known as the Big Four. The man behind the secenes, whose publicity built them up will also be pictured for the first time.

By FLORENCE M. COLLINS

There is discord in the tunes of the Democratic Big Four Quartet which did its number in the Roosevelt campaign of 1932. At that time the quartet sang the part songs in perfect harmony—to the commendation of the Democratic high command.

With one member of the troupe practically out on the picture, and another silent, the two who are left singing the ditties seem to be attempting to drown each other in the finale—perhaps their swan song.

The Big Four, named in order of the above references are: Dr. Joseph L. Johnson of Columbus, O.; Julian D. Rainey of Boston; Robert L. Vann of Pittsburgh, and Dr. William J. Thompkins of Kansas City, Mo.

The fight for leadership among colored party ranks in the present campaign is between Thompkins, now recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, and Vann, Pittsburgh editor, who recently resigned from the patronage position of assistant to the United States Attorney General.

District Leaders Anticipated

A statement released by Mr. Vann, to the effect that he will be the standard-bearer in the Democratic Presidential campaign, has been disputed by Dr. Thompkins, who says that Vann may be the leader of his own district.

But it has been definitely learned that the campaign managers have not been officially chosen, and that, in all liklihood, no one person will hog it all. Districts will be allocated to certain leaders, Thompkins declares, inferring that he will have the Midwest.

The Pittsburgh editor called Dr. Thompkins's convention of the Colored Democratic Association in Philadelphia, immediately preceding the Democratic National Convention, a jimcrow affair, and the doctor came back with the retort that his group was bowing to no interference from the outside, and that if it is labeled jimcrow, every colored gathering, by the same reasoning, is jimcrow.

Before making any predictions or conjectures as to how the pie may be sliced among the Big Four, if at all, for the coming election show, let us go into reminiscenses of the origin and history of this illustrious quartet.

Johnson Was Nucleus

Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, the most unsung of the group during the Roosevelt regime was the nucleus about which the Big Four grew up. He was the ranking colored Democratic leader during the Wilson campaign, after which he was rewarded with the post of Minister to Liberia.

When Johnson was sent out by the party to locate key men for the Roosevelt campaign, he gathered together the other three—Vann, Rainey, and Thompkins—who were regarded as kingpins in local Democratic circles, but not nationally known political figures.

Vann Switched from GOP

Vann's tie-up with the minority party at that time came as a surprise to laymen generally and to many in political fields. He had forfeited his connection with the Republican party in 1928, when it was alleged that while he was working for this group, he ran advertisement in his paper for the Democrats.

For his Republican efforts he had been promised the job of assistant to the Attorney General under Hoover, the story goes. However, it is alleged, when the time came to dish out this plum, Walter F. Brown, white, then Postmaster General and patronage dispenser, passed him over for the aforementioned rumored irregularity.

His sudden shift to the Democratic Party, at the suggestion of Johnson, bore out his reputed retort to Brown at that time, "I'll see you in 1932."

Rainey was recommended to the ranks by Governor Curley, white, then mayor of Boston. The former was at that time assistant district attorney. Thompkins, the Kansas City physician, was selected because of his strategic position in the Midwest, where he published a weekly newspaper.

Rumblings After Election

These men worked shoulder to shoulder during the campaign, and were highly commended by the white Democratic leaders for the harmony they displayed. However, from the moment of Roosevelt's election, numerous incidents occurred to demonstrate that all was not peaches with the troupe—that their unison had been disrupted.

Their political career took altogether different courses from those that had been predicted. The first of them to receive a plum was Vann, who got his Justice Department position in the New Deal Administration—the job that had been denied him by the GOP.

Thompkins Wanted V.I. Post

Dr. Thompkins came into the picture nearly two years later as recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia. It is said by close-ins that although he has filled this job with credit to himself and the Administration, he had been ambitious for bigger fish—governorship of the Virgin Islands.

This accomplishment was frustrated by his own former political allies, as well as the fact that the New Deal could not make up its mind whether the time was ripe to hand out such exalted positions to the darker race—a decision which might have been reached in his favor if there had been more encouragement from those who had played the game with him.

Rooseveltians even made Vann's appointment with reluctance, it is related. It was said to have been postponed from time to time, which actions led observers to believe that at this early date all was not well with the Big Four.

Then, Vann's sudden resignation from his position last December helped to confirm this belief.

Rainey to Be Heard From

Rainey has said very little during the last few years, but he is considered a dominant figure in the forthcoming campaign. He has kept his feet away from the fire of dissension and many look up to him as one who will carry the torch of Democracy for the reason that his silence has made no enemies.

The most lonely figure, of whom much has been expected and little heard from, is Dr. Johnson, the father of the quartet, who was the only national light at the time of its incipiency. He was scheduled to get one of the highest positions in the New Deal hand-out, that of Minister to Liberia.

He dallied a while with his opportunity, however, until it was lost to him when he finally made up his mind. job, it is said, because he felt himself too old to go to Liberia.

Lester Walton, New York newspaperman, finally got the appointment.

So far he has not received a juicy plum in the Roosevelt Administration, and from all indications, he will have little to say concerning the plans for the campaign—unless it be that his State organization decides to use him in Ohio.

Vann also had his secret ambition.

WICHITA, KAN.
EAGLE
JUL 14 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATS OPEN HEADQUARTERS

Headquarters for the colored division of the Young Democrats of Sedgwick county have been opened at 1001 East Fifteenth. John Long is president of the unit.

The office will be open daily from 3 p. m. to 8 p. m. until the campaign is ended in November. The phone number is 3-5851.

Regular meetings of the colored division will be held on Tuesday evenings at the hall. Interesting programs are being planned. The unit will be open to the public in general.

Atlanta, Ga. Georgian
June 30, 1936

TALMADGE RAPS PLATFORM, END OF 2-3 RULE

Sharp criticism of the platform adopted at the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia was expressed Tuesday by Governor Talmadge in an editorial in his weekly publication, The Statesman.

The Governor, who recently announced he would support the party's nominees but reserved the right to criticize acts of the administration, wrote in part:

Well, the convention in Philadelphia is over.

They abolished the two-thirds rule. They wrote this into their platform.

They also wrote into their platform the management of the internal affairs of the states by boards and bureaus in Washington.

This plank in the platform is the death knell of the sovereignty of states.

There were a great many negro delegates at the Philadelphia convention. Along with the negro delegates there were a great many negro visitors and newspaper reporters.

SOCIAL EQUALITY

These negro delegates and newspaper reporters stopped at the same hotel with our white ladies and our white men from the South. They ate at the same tables. They stood around in the same hotel lobbies, chatting.

In other words, social equality and political equality was established at the convention in Philadelphia.

A negro preacher, Rev. L. Marshall Shepard, of Philadelphia, led in prayer.

Senator Ellison D. Smith, delegate-at-large from South Carolina, walked out—but came back.

Then a negro delegate, Arthur W. Mitchell, of Chicago, seconded the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for President. At this juncture the same

It is news.
Why don't the papers of Georgia give the news, and the Southern papers give the news as to what happened in Philadelphia?
When they abolished the two-thirds rule, it was the last chance, the last hope of the South to ever have any conservative, conspicuously trolling power in the convention.

When they insisted on boards and bureaus dictating the internal affairs of the separate states, it is going back on the very foundation stone of Democratic principles.

When they flaunted negroes in the hotels and dining rooms and had them making dominating speeches to our Southern people, it was saying to us! "You don't amount to anything, anyway. We will buy you. We will make you associate with the negro, and make you like it."

There are thousands and thousands of good white women and men in the South who will register their protests against this outrage.

On Saturday, July 4, we will have our meeting in McRae, Ga. I hope that as many as possible can come.

I am going to talk to the people of Georgia, and the nation, from the bottom of my heart.

The entries will be closed. At that time you will know who is running for office, and next week I will give you the platforms in The Statesman.

FULTON, MO.
SUN GAZETTE
JUL 27 1936

Fulton Negro Democrats Elected New Officers

At a recent meeting of the Negro Democratic Club of Fulton, Howard "Jack" Brown was elected president. Other officers named included the following: First vice-president, Harvey Henderson; second vice-president, Curtis Robinson; secretary, Amiel Lynes; treasurer, Raymond Bagby.

An unusually large number of nembers were out for the meeting to help transact the regular business of the club. Attorney W. B. Whitlow, of Fulton, chairman of the Callaway County Democratic Committee, was present and made an interesting talk.

The Prayer That Made Senator Smith Insult Twelve Million Negroes

Rev Marshall L. Shepard, pastor of Mt. Olive Baptist Church, Philadelphia, and a member of the legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, offered the invocation opening the third session of the National Democratic convention, Wednesday noon, June 24. His prayer follows:

"Most Holy and All Wise God, our Heavenly Father, we worship and admire Thy name for the manifold blessings, that Thou dost bestow upon the children of men. We pray Thy blessed benediction upon the convention, officers, delegates and visitors.

"Grant Thou a realizing sense of Thy presence that they may be guided by Thy wisdom and supported by Thy never failing strength Bless the President of these United States, and all officers of our government.

"We are indeed thankful for the significant contribution that both the President and Mrs. Roosevelt have made to the general welfare and happiness of the masses of citizens throughout this nation. May our country be an agent of good-will and true holiness that shall cover the earth as the waters cover the bosom of the mighty deep.

"Now, as we shall proceed with the work of this convention, may the words of our mouths and the meditations of our hearts be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord, our Strength and our Redeemer."

RAINEY OUT TO GET VOTES

Will Take Charge of Campaign in the East

New York—National Chairman James A. Farley announced at Democratic headquarters the set up of the Negro division of the National Campaign Committee, with the country divided as follows: Eastern division, under the management of Julian D. Rainey, former assistant Corporation Counsel of Boston, and the Western division with headquarters in Chicago, under the supervision of Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, representative of the First District of Illinois.

New York City is not included in the foregoing set-up but will be managed by members of the local organizations.

The names of state directors will be announced by the Chairman of the Democratic State Committees.

Mr. Rainey said that he will be pleased to receive all persons interested in the reelection of President Roosevelt at Headquarters to be established in New York after August 15.

Congressman Mitchell is already engaged in conducting his own campaign for reelection from his law offices located at 417 East 47th St. in Chicago, and can be reached at that address until the opening of the regular offices in Chicago late in August.

ATTY. JULIAN D. RAINEY
NEW YORK, N. Y.
SUN

JUL 30 1936

Farley Organizes Drive for Negro Vote

A drive to capture the Negro vote for President Roosevelt is being started by the Democratic National Committee.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, announced today that he will establish Negro divisions of the national committee in the East under Julian D. Rainey of Boston and in the West under Representative Arthur W. Mitchell of Illinois.

In New York city members of the local organizations will manage their own campaign among the Negro voters, he announced, though the Eastern headquarters will be here.

DEMOCRATS START CAMPAIGN

THE COCK-SURE ATTITUDE of Democratic politicians in the presidential campaign has been replaced by a more serious demeanor and a realization that a fight is in the offing. Instead of holding back their campaign plans until September, as had been originally planned, the New Dealers announced their various set-ups and personnel last week and have already gotten down to work.

Of special interest to our group is the announcement that Chairman James A. Farley has appointed two separate advisory chairmen for the Negro voters instead of giving Bob Vann, editor of The Pittsburgh Courier, complete control of getting out the Negro vote. It seems that Mr. Vann's announcement from Philadelphia during the Democratic National Convention that he would be in charge of the Negro group was a bit premature. Attorney Julian Rainey of Boston (one of the Big Four in 1932) and Congressman Arthur Mitchell of Chicago have been named advisory chairmen for the East and West, respectively.

Negro Democrats in New York made the most strenuous objection to the selection of Mr. Vann to handle the national campaign and also objected to any outsider telling the New Yorkers how to vote and the bringing in of paid workers from other sections to help get out the vote. Led by Herbert Bruce, the scrappy leader of the 21st District, they pointed out to Chairman Farley that Negroes have been voting the Democratic ticket in Harlem longer and in larger numbers than in most other American cities and their past service to the party entitled them to at least the consideration of directing their own campaign.

In the present set-up New York City will not be included in the territory that Mr. Rainey will control. Co-operating with the state and county chairmen, the Negroes here are busy perfecting plans for a strenuous campaign. It is expected that Dr. Godfrey Nurse, who was a presidential elector in 1932, will be made the general chairman for the Harlem group and other members of the committee will be announced in a few days. Headquarters for the Democratic National Committee are at the Hotel Biltmore in New York, while the Republican campaign will be managed largely from Chicago where Chairman Hamilton has set up headquarters.

We are waiting to see just how the G. O. P. will handle the Negro vote and whether they will match the budget that the Democrats have set aside for enrolling a larger number of Negroes this year.

tion.

When they insisted on boards and bureaus dictating the internal affairs of the separate states, it is going back on the very foundation stone of Democratic principles.

When they flaunted negroes in the hotels and dining rooms and had them making dominating speeches to our Southern people, it was saying to us! "You don't amount to anything, anyway. We will buy you. We will make you associate with the negro, and make you like it."

There are thousands and thousands of good white women and men in the South who will register their protests against this outrage.

On Saturday, July 4, we will have our meeting in McRae, Ga. I hope that as many as possible can come.

I am going to talk to the people of Georgia, and the nation, from the bottom of my heart.

The entries will be closed. At that time you will know who is running for office, and next week I will give you the platforms in The Statesman.

FULTON, MO.
SUN GAZETTE
JUL 27 1936

Fulton Negro Democrats Elected New Officers

At a recent meeting of the Negro Democratic Club of Fulton, Howard "Jack" Brown was elected president. Other officers named included the following: First vice-president, Harvey Henderson; second vice-president, Curtis Robinson; secretary, Amiel Lynes; treasurer, Raymond Bagby.

An unusually large number of nembers were out for the meeting to help transact the regular business of the club. Attorney W. B. Whitlow, of Fulton, chairman of the Callaway County Democratic Committee, was present and made an interesting talk.

The Prayer That Made Senator Smith Insult Twelve Million Negroes

Rev Marshall L. Shepard, pastor of Mt. Olive Baptist Church, Philadelphia, and a member of the legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, offered the invocation opening the third session of the National Democratic convention Wednesday noon, June 24 and his prayer follows:

"Most Holy and All Wise God, our Heavenly Father, we worship and admire Thy name for the manifold blessings that Thou dost bestow upon the children of men. We pray Thy blessed benediction upon the convention, officers, delegates and visitors.

"Grant Thou a realizing sense of Thy presence that they may be guided by Thy wisdom and supported by Thy never failing strength Bless the President of these United States, and all officers of our government.

"We are indeed thankful for the significant contribution that both the President and Mrs. Roosevelt have made to the general welfare and happiness of the masses of citizens throughout this nation. May our country be an agent of good-will and true holiness that shall cover the earth as the waters cover the bosom of the mighty deep.

"Now, as we shall proceed with the work of this convention, may the words of our mouths and the medi-tations of our hearts be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord, our Strength and our Redeemer."

RAINEY OUT TO GET VOTES

Will Take Charge of Campaign in the East

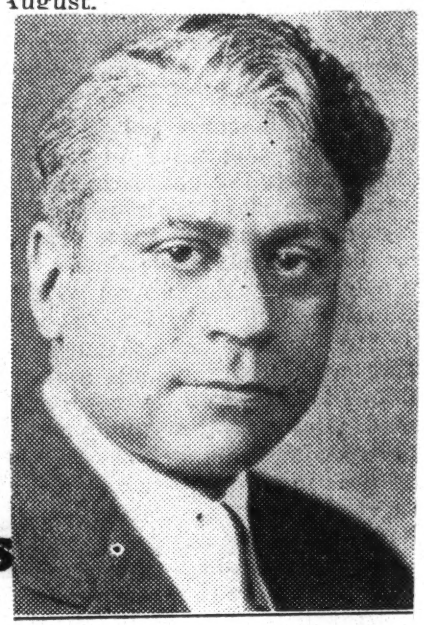
New York—National Chairman James A. Farley announced at Democratic headquarters the set up of the Negro division of the National Campaign Committee, with the country divided as follows: Eastern division, under the management of Julian D. Rainey, former assistant Corporation Counsel of Boston, and the Western division with headquarters in Chicago, under the supervision of Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, representative of the First District of Illinois.

New York City is not included in the foregoing set-up but will be managed by members of the local organizations.

The names of state directors will be announced by the Chairman of the Democratic State Committees.

Mr. Rainey said that he will be pleased to receive all persons interested in the reelection of President Roosevelt at Headquarters to be established in New York after August 15.

Congressman Mitchell is already engaged in conducting his own campaign for reelection from his law offices located at 417 East 47th St. in Chicago, and can be reached at that address until the opening of the regular offices in Chicago late in August.



ATTY. JULIAN D. RAINEY
NEW YORK, N. Y.
SUN

JUL 30 1936

Farley Organizes Drive for Negro Vote

A drive to capture the Negro vote for President Roosevelt is being started by the Democratic National Committee.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, announced today that he will establish Negro divisions of the national committee in the East under Julian D. Rainey of Boston and in the West under Representative Arthur W. Mitchell of Illinois.

In New York city members of the local organizations will manage their own campaign among the Negro voters, he announced, though the Eastern headquarters will be here.

DEMOCRATS START CAMPAIGN

THE COCK-SURE ATTITUDE of Democratic politicians in the presidential campaign has been replaced by a more serious demeanor and a realization that a fight is in the offing. Instead of holding back their campaign plans until September, as had been originally planned, the New Dealers announced their various set-ups and personnel last week and have already gotten down to work.

Of special interest to our group is the announcement that Chairman James A. Farley has appointed two separate advisory chairmen for the Negro voters instead of giving Bob Vann, editor of The Pittsburgh Courier, complete control of getting out the Negro vote. It seems that Mr. Vann's announcement from Philadelphia during the Democratic National Convention that he would be in charge of the Negro group was a bit premature. Attorney Julian Rainey of Boston (one of the Big Four in 1932) and Congressman Arthur Mitchell of Chicago have been named advisory chairmen for the East and West, respectively.

Negro Democrats in New York made the most strenuous objection to the selection of Mr. Vann to handle the national campaign and also objected to any outsider telling the New Yorkers how to vote and the bringing in of paid workers from other sections to help get out the vote. Led by Herbert Bruce, the scrappy leader of the 21st District, they pointed out to Chairman Farley that Negroes have been voting the Democratic ticket in Harlem longer and in larger numbers than in most other American cities and their past service to the party entitled them to at least the consideration of directing their own campaign.

In the present set-up New York City will not be included in the territory that Mr. Rainey will control. Co-operating with the state and county chairmen, the Negroes here are busy perfecting plans for a strenuous campaign. It is expected that Dr. Godfrey Nurse, who was a presidential elector in 1932, will be made the general chairman for the Harlem group and other members of the committee will be announced in a few days. Headquarters for the Democratic National Committee are at the Hotel Biltmore in New York, while the Republican campaign will be managed largely from Chicago where Chairman Hamilton has set up headquarters.

We are waiting to see just how the G. O. P. will handle the Negro vote and whether they will match the budget that the Democrats have set aside for enrolling a larger number of Negroes this year.

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic

Cite His Fairness To Race As Deserving Of Increased Negro Vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio—July 15—With 372 registered delegates in attendance from populous centers of the state, the fourth annual convention of Ohio Negro Democrats got under way here Saturday at the Crystal Slipper ballroom marking the largest and most representative of Negro Democrats ever assembled.

Every county in Ohio was represented when the keynote address, by Chairman Norman S. Minor of Cleveland, eulogizing President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Governor Martin L. Davey and their attitude toward the Negro, rocked the hall with applause, it being almost fifteen minutes before the chairman could restore enough quiet to proceed with the meeting.

Besides adopting a series of resolutions in which the party was strongly urged to pass anti-lynching legislation, and an open endorsement was given to the candidacy of Governor Davey for re-election, the convention also went on record as condemning the discriminatory practices employed in the administration of direct relief.

The full text of the resolutions as signed by Norman S. Minor, Cleveland, chairman; Marion S. Hubbard, Cincinnati, secretary; Dr. Lee E. Payne, Cincinnati; Joseph Bowman, Columbus, Mary Ann Eady, Washington Court House, Grace Murray, Steubenville, Robert Hall, Cincinnati; Wynfield Bailey, Springfield Laura Buck, Lima, Benjamin H Fisher, Toledo; William T. McKnight, and Thelma V. Lucas, is as follows:

Whereas, the Ohio State League of Democratic Clubs, composed of many Democratic organizations functioning among Negroes in the State of Ohio, are in convention assembled, and whereas, the representatives of such bodies are mindful of the many factors comprising the political equation which touches so directly all of Ohio's citizens; and further whereas these representatives desire to voice their convictions with reference to achievements of Democratic philosophy in the recent past, and the expectations which we anticipate that the philosophy will provide for in the future, be it resolved as follows:

We endorse the New Deal and the political philosophy as expressed in President Roosevelt's acceptance address made in Philadelphia, June 29, 1936. We endorse the platform as adopted by the National Democratic Convention.

Whereas, in our economic fabric, Negroes have been extremely vulnerable to industrial exploitation. we particularly endorse the Social Security Program which guarantees to every citizen social and economic protection.

We recommend that this administration use its influence in securing passage of a Federal Anti-Lynching Bill, and further we endorse the principles of the Costigan-Wagner Anti-Lynch bill and pledge our untiring efforts and support to secure the passage of such a measure.

Whereas, the Ohio State Democratic League, is the only state-wide Negro organization functioning in every community where Negroes reside, it is urged that the Ohio State Democratic League conduct the National Democratic Campaign among Negroes in Ohio.

It is the sense of this Convention that we endorse the administration given the State of Ohio by Governor Davey during the past two years, and we further endorse Governor Davey for his fairness and courage in dealing with the colored citizens of the State and the equitable manner in which he has dispensed patronage.

We favor state monopoly in the dispensing of alcholic beverages.

Whereas, a recent Federal Survey has shown that there is a proportionately large number of Negroes engaged in industrial employment, we recommend and sincerely urge that Negroes be appointed to serve in every department of the Industrial Commission of Ohio.

Whereas, the Negro is adversely affected by the present economic conditions of this state, we urge the passage of adequate and impartial social security legislation.

We endorse the present Sales Tax Program as an emergency measure and recommend that the legislature will at the earliest possible date supplant this same with a new equitable tax program.

Department of Commerce:

Being cognizant of the value to Negro insurance companies thru the capable performance of the duties assigned to the Negro examiner of the Insurance Dept., we suggest to the administration that the program already instituted in that field be extended to include within the Department of Commerce, a simular program with the end in view of gaining and spreading information concerning business conducted by Negroes, and we believe that such a program will encourage existing business and will attract new business into the State of Ohio.

Highway Department:

Whereas, the State Highway Department is employer of the greatest number of people in any state department, and has under its control the letting of construction contracts, we especially recommend and sincerely urge that Negroes be given equality of opportunity in every phase of the work in this Department.

Departments of Welfare and Health:

Whereas, the appointment of a Negro physician to the staff of the Ohio State Penitentiary, and the able performance of his duties has resulted in a marked improvement of conditions and relationships of the Negro prisoners, we therefore sincerely urge that these policies be extended to include all the divisions of the departments of Welfare and Health.

This convention condemns the pernicious and discriminatory practices employed in the administration of direct and work relief based upon consideration of race and color where it exists in the State of Ohio, and recommend that the administration take immediate measures to eliminate this evil.

We re-affirm our stand in the soundness and justice of the civil rights statutes of Ohio and urge its observance and enforcement whenever necsssary."

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUL 16 1936

Negroes Hold Pennsylvania Political Power

Having Demanded Rights, They Now Are Wooed by Leaders of Both Parties

Vann in Moses Role

Aid of Farley Mistrusted by Many of Own Race

By Earl Brown

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—The Negro politicians in Pennsylvania have risen as a new force in the state's uncertain political future. Assuming the leadership of their race's destiny, which formerly was commanded by the lily-white leaders, they are demanding from both major parties not only jobs but a voice in party decisions.

The Negroes stand in an enviable position in the state's politics. With patronage and relief, the Democrats are now trying to make sure that no Negro will become alienated because of a lack of either. The Republicans in the cities, where they are still in power, have also made some overtures to the colored leaders in order to protect their small majority and to regain the confidence of Negroes who have turned Democratic.

Vann Rises as Leader

Playing the role of a political Moses for the redemption of his people in the western end of the state is Robert L. Vann, publisher of "The Pittsburgh Courier" and former special Assistant United States Attorney-General. Not only is he a power in Pennsylvania, but he is the outstanding colored Democrat in the country, because of the strength of his newspaper among the colored voters and his influence with James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. At the national convention in Philadelphia, Farley named Vann to manage the Negro end of the national campaign.

The foremost colored Democrat in eastern Pennsylvania is the Rev. L. Marshall Shepard, member of the State Legislature from Philadelphia, and pastor of the Mt. Olivet Baptist Church. He is the preacher who caused Senator Ellison D. Smith, of South Carolina, to take a walk from the convention when he opened it with prayer on the second day.

Between Vann and Shepard are about fifty men and women in both parties holding important Federal, state and city jobs. They are the active workers who devote part of their time to marshalling the black voters, on whom the success of either party might depend in October.

Homer Brown, of Pittsburgh, and Hopson Reynolds, of Philadelphia, Negro Republican members of the state legislature, are two of the most popular politicians in the state. They are convinced that the Republicans will get a majority of the colored votes in the November election. Reynolds was said to have made the most brilliant speech heard in the state House of Representatives for a century when he championed the passage of the state civil rights bill. He is an undertaker, and like practically all successful Negro business men, he is unalterably opposed to the New Deal.

Sees Republican Victory

"The Negro and white Democrats in the state have made a lot of noise, but we are still in the lead," he said. "I predict that instead of gaining votes the Democrats will lose thousands before election day.

"It is a crime for a political party to trade votes for relief jobs, especially with my people, who are only pawns in the hands of wild, unscrupulous politicians. Not only will the Democratic leaders pay dearly for their folly, but in the end the people in this state will find themselves holding an empty bag, when the hysteria of spending money like drain from the sky for political purposes ends."

Many by both parties, said, "I received more than with the white leaders. sylvania observers contend that Democratic votes in Pittsburgh when the Democrats lose the Negro vote I was elected to the Legislature, because will be one of the chief reasons Vann opposed me than I would n Led by Herbert L. Bruce, Tam- have if he had favored my indorsey leader of the 21st Assembly ment."

Robert L. Vann is the political party for a political party. Selected by Pennsylvania of his race. paradox of Postmaster General Farley to run their the New York Negroes have Vann, an indefatigable worker, is a joying the good will of Senator Josephmany leaders, already revolted against the naming former North Carolina Negro who has F. Guffey, David L. Lawrence, Secre- District, Vann to head the colored end of tary of the State of Pennsylvania, already succeeded as a newspaper publisher, Postmaster General Farley's campaign. and has gone as far in modern Amerwho are only and has gone as far in modern Amerunscru- national campaign among the Ne- Vann will be the speaking of Vann, Homer Brown, groes for the second time, and en- lican politics as any Negro. sons. Selected by Herbert L. Bruce, Tam- was indorsed for the 21st Assembly ment."

Robert L. Vann is the political leader of the 21st Assembly party for a political party. Selected by Pennsylvania of his race. paradox of Postmaster General Farley to run their the New York Negroes have Vann, an indefatigable worker, is a joying the good will of Senator Josephmany leaders, already revolted against the naming former North Carolina Negro who has F. Guffey, David L. Lawrence, Secre- District, Vann to head the colored end of tary of the State of Pennsylvania, already succeeded as a newspaper publisher, Postmaster General Farley's campaign. and has gone as far in modern Amerwho are only and has gone as far in modern Amerunscru- national campaign among the Ne- Vann will be the speaking of Vann, Homer Brown, groes for the second time, and en- lican politics as any Negro. sons. Selected by Herbert L. Bruce, Tam- was indorsed for the 21st Assembly ment."

"When I left North Carolina, all I They assert that he has played against who was indorsed for the Legislature

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic

Cite His Fairness To Race As Deserving Of Increased Negro Vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio—July 15—With 372 registered delegates in attendance from populous centers of the state, the fourth annual convention of Ohio Negro Democrats got under way here Saturday at the Crystal Slipper ballroom, marking the largest and most representative of Negro Democrats ever assembled.

Every county in Ohio was represented when the keynote address, by chairman Norman S. Minor of Cleveland, eulogizing President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Governor Martin L. Davey and their attitude toward the Negro, rocked the hall with applause, it being almost fifteen minutes before the chairman could restore enough quiet to proceed with the meeting.

Besides adopting a series of resolutions in which the party was strongly urged to pass anti-lynching legislation, and an open endorsement was given to the candidacy of Governor Davey for re-election, the convention also went on record as condemning the discriminatory practices employed in the administration of direct relief.

The full text of the resolutions as signed by Norman S. Minor, Cleveland, chairman; Marion S. Hubbard, Cincinnati, secretary; Dr. Lee E. Payne, Cincinnati; Joseph Bowman, Columbus, Mary Ann Eady, Washington Court House, Grace Murray, Steubenville, Robert Hall, Cincinnati; Wynfield Bailey, Springfield Laura Buck, Lima, Benjamin H Fisher, Toledo; William T. Mc Knight, and Thelma V. Lucas, is as follows:

Whereas, the Ohio State League of Democratic Clubs, composed of many Democratic organizations functioning among Negroes in the State of Ohio, are in convention assembled, and whereas, the representatives of such bodies are mindful of the many factors comprising the political equation which touches so directly all of Ohio's citizens; and further whereas these representatives desire to voice their convictions with reference to achievements of Democratic philosophy in the recent past, and the expectations which we anticipate that the philosophy will provide for in the future, be it resolved as follows:

We endorse the New Deal and the political philosophy as expressed in President Roosevelt's acceptance address made in Philadelphia, June 29, 1936. We endorse the platform as adopted by the National Democratic Convention.

Whereas, in our economic fabric, Negroes have been extremely vulnerable to industrial exploitation. we particularly endorse the Social Security Program which guarantees to every citizen social and economic protection.

We recommend that this administration use its influence in securing passage of a Federal Anti-Lynching Bill, and further we endorse the principles of the Costigan-Wagner Anti-Lynch bill and pledge our untiring efforts and support to secure the passage of such a measure.

Whereas, the Ohio State Democratic League, is the only state-wide Negro organization functioning in every community where Negroes reside, it is urged that the Ohio State Democratic League conduct the National Democratic Campaign among Negroes in Ohio.

It is the sense of this Convention that we endorse the administration given the State of Ohio by Governor Davey during the past two years, and we further endorse Governor Davey for his fairness and courage in dealing with the colored citizens of the State and the equitable manner in which he has dispensed patronage.

We favor state monopoly in the dispensing of alcholic beverages.

Whereas, a recent Federal Survey has shown that there is a proportionately large number of Negroes engaged in industrial employment, we recommend and sincerely urge that Negroes be appointed to serve in every department of the Industrial Commission of Ohio.

Whereas, the Negro is adversely affected by the present economic conditions of this state, we urge the passage of adequate and impartial social security legislation.

We endorse the present Sales Tax Program as an emergency measure and recommend that the legislature will at the earliest possible date supplant this same with a new equitable tax program.

Department of Commerce:

Being cognizant of the value to Negro insurance companies thru the capable performance of the duties assigned to the Negro examiner of the Insurance Dept., we suggest to the administration that the program already instituted in that field be extended to include within the Department of Commerce, a simular program with the end in view of gaining and spreading information concerning business conducted by Negroes, and we believe that such a program will encourage existing business and will attract new business into the State of Ohio.

Highway Department:

Whereas, the State Highway Department is employer of the greatest number of people in any state department, and has under its control the letting of construction contracts, we especially recommend and sincerely urge that Negroes be given equality of opportunity in every phase of the work in this Department.

Departments of Welfare and Health:

Whereas, the appointment of a Negro physician to the staff of the Ohio State Penitentiary, and the able performance of his duties has resulted in a marked improvement of conditions and relationships of the Negro prisoners, we therefore sincerely urge that these policies be extended to include all the divisions of the departments of Welfare and Health.

This convention condemns the pernicious and discriminatory practices employed in the administration of direct and work relief based upon consideration of race and color where it exists in the State of Ohio, and recommend that the administration take immediate measures to eliminate this evil.

We re-affirm our stand in the soundness and justice of the civil rights statutes of Ohio and urge its observance and enforcement whenever necsssary."

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUL 16 1936

Negroes Hold Pennsylvania Political Power

Having Demanded Rights, They Now Are Wooed by Leaders of Both Parties

Vann in Moses Role

Aid of Farley Mistrusted by Many of Own Race

By Earl Brown

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—The Negro politicians in Pennsylvania have risen as a new force in the state's uncertain political future. Assuming the leadership of their race's destiny, which formerly was commanded by the lily-white leaders, they are demanding from both major parties not only jobs but a voice in party decisions.

The Negroes stand in an enviable position in the state's politics. With patronage and relief, the Democrats are now trying to make sure that no Negro will become alienated because of a lack of either. The Republicans in the cities, where they are still in power, have also made some overtures to the colored leaders in order to protect their small majority and to regain the confidence of Negroes who have turned Democratic.

Vann Rises as Leader

Playing the role of a political Moses for the redemption of his people in the western end of the state is Robert L. Vann, publisher of "The Pittsburgh Courier" and former special Assistant United States Attorney-General. Not only is he a power in Pennsylvania, but he is the outstanding colored Democrat in the country, because of the strength of his newspaper among the colored voters and his influence with James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. At the national convention in Philadelphia, Farley named Vann to manage the Negro end of the national campaign.

The foremost colored Democrat in eastern Pennsylvania is the Rev. L. Marshall Shepard, member of the State Legislature from Philadelphia, and pastor of the Mt. Olivet Baptist Church. He is the preacher who caused Senator Ellison D. Smith, of South Carolina, to take a walk from the convention when he opened it with prayer on the second day.

Between Vann and Shepard are about fifty men and women in both parties holding important Federal, state and city jobs. They are the active workers who devote part of their time to marshalling the black voters, on whom the success of either party might depend in October.

Homer Brown, of Pittsburgh, and Hopson Reynolds, of Philadelphia, Negro Republican members of the state legislature, are two of the most popular politicians in the state. They are convinced that the Republicans will get a majority of the colored votes in the November election. Reynolds was said to have made the most brilliant speech heard in the state House of Representatives for a century when he championed the passage of the state civil rights bill. He is an undertaker, and like practically all successful Negro business men, he is unalterably opposed to the New Deal.

Sees Republican Victory

"The Negro and white Democrats in the state have made a lot of noise, but we are still in the lead," he said. "I predict that instead of gaining votes the Democrats will lose thousands before election day.

"It is a crime for a political party to trade votes for relief jobs, especially with my people, who are only pawns in the hands of wild, unscrupulous politicians. Not only will the Democratic leaders pay dearly for their folly, but in the end the Negro people in this state will find themselves holding an empty bag, when the hysteria of spending money like drain from the sky for political purposes ends."

Robert L. Vann is the politicalthem with the white leaders. Many by both parties, said, "I received more Pennsylvania observers contend that Democratic votes in Pittsburgh when Democrats lose the Negro vote I was elected to the Legislature, be- will be one of the chief rea- cause Vann opposed me than I would Led by Herbert L. Bruce, Tam- have if he had favored my indorse- leader of the 21st Assemblyment."

Selected byPennsylvan- his race. Postmaster General Farley to run their the Dem- national campaign among the Ne-Vann will groes for the second time, and en-sons. Led joying the good will of Senator Josephmany lead- F. Guffey, David L. Lawrence, Secre-District, th- already re- tary of the State of Pennsylvania; Governor George H. Earle and Mrs.of Vann t- Emma Guffey Miller, Vann is dis-the party's many Negro politicians. Speaking of Vann, Homer Brown, trusted by ican politics as any Negro. was indorsed for the Legislature "When I left North Carolina, all I had was on my back. Now I have everything a poor man could want, including my recently acquired $50,000 estate outside of Pittsburgh." he told me in his modern newspaper office.

Coming to Pittsburgh from the South, he studied law at the University of Pittsburgh. When he completed his course, he began to publish "The Pittsburgh Courier." At first he was a staunch Republican, but he went over to the Democrats in 1932, and according to William Randolph, Negro lawyer in Pittsburgh, it was because "he had nowhere else to jump."

In the last Presidential election, Vann succeeded in selling to Farley the idea of his newspaper backing Roosevelt. He also campaigned for Roosevelt in Ohio, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania, and in his home state he started the political organizations which now exist among the Negroes. He was rewarded by being named Special Assistant Attorney General.

Sent Correspondent to Ethiopia

Soon after the Italo-Ethiopian War began, Vann resigned his position in the Department of Justice and returned to Pittsburgh to manage his paper. He sent the only Negro correspondent to Ethiopia to cover the war, and mainly because of the war news he carried in "The Courier" its circulation trebled. It is now 150,000.

Commenting on the political set-up in Pennsylvania, he predicted, "The Democrats will sweep the state. The Negroes are now emancipated in Pennsylvania. We have taught them the value and the intelligent use of the ballot. They look up to Roosevelt as a deliverer from bondage; he is the second American emancipator.

"In 1932, Senator Guffey, David Lawrence, Governor Earle, Mrs. Emma Guffey and I organized the Negroes in this state. We made progress then and we know we'll win this November."

If any Negro in Philadelphia succeeds in leading a majority of the Negro voters into the Democratic party it will be the Rev. Marshall Shepard, who is Governor Earle's favorite Negro politician in the state.

"Shep," as he has been called since he left the cotton fields of North Carolina to come North to be educated, once stole the show from Governor Earle and Senator Guffey, when they were at a Democratic rally in the Academy of Music in Philadelphia. When the huge, blue-black Rev. Shephard finished his speech, the white audience applauded him for five minutes; and the next day the newspapers carried his speech in full.

From then on "Shep" was a power in the Democratic party. He ran for the state Legislature in 1934 from Philadelphia's black belt, and he won by a fair majority. He is the first Negro Democrat ever elected to the Legislature in Pennsylvania.

"The Negroes must wake up politically," he said. "For seventy years we have slavishly followed one party, and we have got nowhere. We must fight to become an integral part of the body politic and not divorce ourselves from the American economic and political battles. Our recent political gains in Pennsylvania are the direct result of entering the Democratic party. As long as we voted only the Republican ticket we were ignored by everybody. Now every one wants us and is willing to give us something in return for our support."

It was through the demands of the preacher that Governor Earle ordered each state department head to make jobs for Negroes even if it necessitated creating new bureaus. After the Democrats got into power in 1934, the Negroes charged that they forgot their promises of patronage and it was Shepard's plea to the Governor that made places on the state pay roll for Negroes.

Among the other key politicians in Philadelphia are Austin Norris graduate of the Yale Law School and leader of the 7th Ward. He is a member of the Democratic City Committee and passes on patronage for Negroes; Crystal Byrd Fauset, W. P. A. executive and head of the Women's Democratic Organization; Joseph Rainey, State Boxing Commissioner; Walter Gay, Assistant United States District Attorney; Mrs. Somerville Fauntleroy, interracial consultant for the state; Otis Brooks, revenue collector; John Francis Williams, attorney in the State Banking Department, and Theodore Spaulding, attorney in the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

In Harrisburg, W. Justin Carter, lawyer, and Mrs. Betty M. Jackson, supervisor of the Visiting Housekeepers Project, W. P. A., are the organizers for the Democrats. Robert Vann's chief lieutenants in Pittsburgh are Paul Jones, State Compensation Referee, and Bertham (Slim) Hamilton, Assistant Attorney General of the United States. The most effective Negro political organizer in Alleghany County is Cumberland Posey, of Homestead. All over the state his vote-getting abilities are the envy of his colleagues.

Pennsylvania Negro Leader

Associated Press photo

The Rev. L. Marshall Shepard

Race Is Front Line For Roosevelt Says Penna. Leader

7-18-36

Joseph Rainey Speaks At Indiana Democratic Convention

Special to Journal and Guide

WEST BADEN, Ind.—"The Negro is bearing musketry in the front line of the cohorts that with President Roosevelt are bearing down on the ramparts of Republican misrule," Commissioner Joseph H. Rainey, of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission told delegates gathered here Saturday for the Indiana State Negro Democratic Convention.

"Loyalty following the leadership of the finest Governor it has ever been the good fortune of the old Commonwealth to have, fighting shoulder to shoulder with one in whom courage is a dominant attribute, Negro Pennsylvanians are rallying their energies to stay in the fight for the duration of the war. They hail Governor H. Earle as one who has translated the spirit of love for all humanity within his heart into action favoring the Negro group that is without precedent," the speaker continued.

"Truly, there is a mysterious cycle in human events. Assuredly, under the present governmental setup the Negro American has a rendezvous with destiny.

"There has probably been no greater challenge to the forces of reaction, no more stirring defy to the exploiters of human kind, no more adamant refusal to give ground to those agencies that would elevate one portion of American citizenry at the expense of the other than President Roosevelt's acceptance speech."

"Those of our racial group who seek merely to falsely secure their future with the Judas Iscariot gold of group betrayal, those of our racial heritage who have so steeled their hearts against the cries of millions of Negro infants pitifully crying in their mother's arms for only an opportunity in life, those of like complexion to yours and mine, who have yet to place the democracy of political freedom above the tryanny of personal aggrandizement, let them harken with us to a precept of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"For charity, literally translated from the original means love, the love that understands, that does not merely share the wealth of the giver, but in the true sympathy and wisdom that helps men to help themselves."

COVINGTON, VA.
VIRGINIAN

JUL 1 01936

Colored Voters To Support Roosevelt

At an enthusiastic gathering held by Ronceverte colored voters on Tuesday, a "Roosevelt for President—Holt for Governor" club was formed.

Several colored Democrats, in addressing the newly formed club, promised to put forth their best efforts in furthering the Democratic cause among the colored population of Ronceverte and Fort Spring district.

The following were elected as officers of the organization: Charles Allen, president; Banks Scott, vice president; William Sheffey, treasurer; P. Scott, secretary.

The club unanimously adopted a resolution to "Promote the Welfare of Their Race Through the Principles of the Democratic Party."

A meeting will be held each month.

Newport News Democrats Plan Mammoth Festival For Campaign Funds

N. C., by train after spending a week at Bay Shore Hotel as the guest of her husband.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Giles of Columbus, Ohio, after spending two weeks at Bay Shore Hotel, Buckroe Beach, have returned to their home, stopping enroute at Harper's Ferry, W. Va.

Noah Rider, recent graduate of Hampton Institute Department of Music, arrived a few days ago from Greensboro, N. C., to be the house guest of Walter Ridley. Mr. Rider will remain in this section during the summer. He has appointed to direct the music department at Palmer Memorial Institute, Sedalia, N. C., for the term of 1936-37. Mr. Rider was an instructor in the Greensboro High School last term.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va.—Plans are now under way for a mammoth "Roosevelt Mardi Gras" to be held Friday, July 24, under the auspices of the Negro Democratic Club of Newport News. The object of this entertainment is to raise funds for the Roosevelt Campaign.

A meeting was held at 2414 Madison Avenue by the executive committee on Wednesday night to arrange for this event, at which time Joe Richman, vice chairman of the city Democratic executive committee was present. Tentative plans for the Mardi Gras include a parade, a program of addresses with speakers of national prominence and a ball game.

This club, which is said to be the largest Negro Democratic organization in Virginia, has about six hundred members and this effort will be the first of its kind to stimulate interest among the city's colored voters.

Officers are Hugh T. Clark, president; Dr. I. B. McEachin, first vice president; Peter S. Ridley, second vice president; William Jordan, secretary; T. D. Elliott, assistant secretary; Leroy F. Ridley, treasurer; Oscar L. Faulk, assistant treasurer; Robert Cheesman, sergeant at arms and I. F. Long, chaplain. N. B. Clark is chairman of the advisory committee which includes Richard Montague, William Jordan, O. L. Faulk, Dr. McEachin, and L. F. Ridley. The registration committee includes Attorney J. L.

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
July 15, 1936

The Only Two Courses

The national Democratic party cannot and does not expect to gain and hold the negro vote in Northern states without protecting the negroes in voting in the Southern states. In present conditions a negro in South Carolina cannot be a "Democrat," for a "Democrat" excluded from the Democratic primaries would as well be in Ethiopia. That Walter White and the Society for the Advancement of the Colored People would cooperate with the Democratic party in the North while the Democrats of the South continue practically to disfranchise negroes as Democrats is incredible, and that the national Democrats do not mean to allow this to go on is what Mr. Ickes, member of the Roosevelt cabinet and presumably a spokesman for Mr. Roosevelt, meant when he told the negroes that there "is a new deal for the negroes" and that Mr. Roosevelt is the first president since Lincoln to recognize that the "war amendments" unless enforced would as well not be in the constitution. Mitchell, the negro Democrat of Chicago now in congress, and Wagner, the foreign-born and "liberal" Tammany senator, tell them practically the same thing. That the national Democratic party can adopt the Northern negroes and deny Southern negroes admission to the party is the plainest nonsense.

What are Southern white men, those in South Carolina, going to do about it? They have got to do something about it, if not this year, certainly in four years. The exclusion of negroes from the Southern primaries will cost Mr. Roosevelt thousands of negro votes in the North next November, and if Messrs. Harrison, Robinson, Byrnes and other Southern Roosevelt leaders do not know this they are duller men than we take them to be. In respect of the negro the Southern leaders are in truth working against Roosevelt's election, and if they do not know it they are slow-witted. The Northern negro Republicans and white Republicans are this day making the most of it.

The Southern white men should form a Southern white men's Democratic party acting as an independent bloc in the Electoral College and in congress. That is what they should do about it. That is The News and Courier's deliberate and unqualified opinion. There is no objection to third parties. There is no objection to independence. Mr. Roosevelt's hope of reelection is in independents—independent Republicans like Secretaries Ickes and Wallace. We Southern white men are the only party slaves left in the country, and our reason and excuse for it has departed with the conversion of the national Democratic party to the national Republican attitude toward the negroes.

The News and Courier does not believe that the masses of the Southern negroes are fit for political activities or will be in many a long year. Oh yes, General Hampton appealed to the negroes and Judge Orr before him believed that the respectable white Southerners should go in and guide the negroes. Both were honest and both were mistaken. General Hampton's course in 1876 was wise, fortunate, expedient, served an excellent purpose, but the Hampton method of that year not modified by his realistic lieutenants would not have resulted in victory. The News and Courier is convinced that participation of millions of negroes in political affairs in the South would produce demoralization of both races, corruption of both, and chaos.

But suppose The News and Courier is wrong—the only other course is for the Southern Democrats to accept the negroes as Democrats, try to lead them in right paths, and take up where Hampton left off fifty-six or fifty-eight years ago. The "leaders" and the newspapers that scoff at The News and Courier as a finder of spooks won't tell the people what to do. They are for winning the election for Byrnes, for letting things rock. They are going to dodge the question, dodge all grave and emergent questions just as long as they can—just as long as the handouts to towns, classes, office-holders do not give out. Therefore The News and Courier, on the postulate that they are right and it is wrong, that the persuasion of the negro in the Hampton manner that they cite is practicable, tells them what the people should do, takes the guidance from them, does the job for them that they pass up.

In this state are a few negroes (not many though they may be 500, 1,000 or 2,000 in 900,000) who can be relied upon as men of intelligence and character. That small minority will "class" with any race and is composed of distinctly superior persons. We have eight or ten of these men in mind as we write. Among them are not the majority of negro preachers—your preacher, black or white, ceases to be trustworthy when he enters politics, though among the negro preachers are a few first rate men judged by any standard.

The small minority of superior negroes, some of them members of professions—doctors, lawyers, teachers—and some of them merchants, now regard themselves as political outcasts. That is what they are. The "better white men," the chosen leaders, ignore them, and they chafe under the treatment. You would were you one of them.

cultivate these worthiest of the negro leaders while there is time. If they are right and The News and Courier is wrong, they had better call a state convention and invite them now to enroll in the Democratic primary and vote. This they will have to do a little later anyway or cut loose from the national Democratic party, and, meanwhile, they are forcing these men to go to the "Joe" Tolbert camp. There is no other camp open to them. While we doubt that the best negroes can lead the negro masses, it seems worth while to give them a chance—there is no other way to save the negro masses from falling into the hands of ignorant and corruptible negro leaders and depraved but cunning white men. Once 150,000 or 100,000 negroes (about 300,000 in the state can read and write) shall be admitted to vote in primaries and other elections, we shall have a dirtier period in politics than ever we had in the seventies. Be it remembered that the white leaders of this day are, as a rule, puny, miserable creatures by comparison with those that redeemed the state in 1876.

We repeat: The News and Courier is for an independent white men's Democratic party, but the national Democratic party is for a mixed party in the South. If our "Democracy" intends to abide with it, we do what those who are too lazy or indifferent neglect to do. We advise the white people in their "emergency" and tell them what seems the best and only ways of dealing with the new situation.

We believe in locking the gates of hell before it begins trying to break loose.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
July 5, 1936

Riders of Two Horses

The weekly press of South Carolina so far is not only outspoken but nearly unanimous in opinion about the "new order"—and strange order—of the national Democratic party in respect of the negro voters. This paragraph is from a strong editorial of The Laurens Advertiser, of which Allison Lee is the editor:

"Senator Byrnes and the other South Carolina New Dealers, mostly office holders, who paraded the aisles of the Philadelphia convention whooping it up for a Northern Democratic machine that had ignored southern tradition both on the racial question and the time-honored two-thirds rule, made a lame attempt to appease opinion back home by protesting tardily against negroes appearing on the program in the future, but they will live to regret the day that they did not do, as Senator Smith rightly did, express their resentment in no uncertain terms when such resentment would have counted."

It seems fair, or would be generous, to have in mind that leading politicians, especially those active in national politics, Senator Byrnes and Executive Committeeman Johnston for examples, as long as they are devoted to the cause, personal and political, of President and Candidate Roosevelt, are in a sorely embarrassing predicament.

They wish to reelect Mr. Roosevelt. It is highly important to South Carolina that it have allotments for "relief" and public works, and thousands of men are dependent upon the Roosevelt administration for salaries and jobs.

Mr. Roosevelt and his Northern supporters are pleading and wrestling with the Northern negroes for their votes—indeed, the great concessions they have made to these negroes, tantamount to a somersault in historic Democratic national policy, would indicate that they look for an exceedingly close contest in November in many states where negroes are numerous in the cities.

How can a Democrat of South Carolina, a Roosevelt Democrat, speak out loudly the old, and, we believe, the living and resolute South Carolina feeling on this question without playing into the hand of Landon and the Republicans?

Would not former Congressman DePriest, Republican negro, fling any utterance by Governor Johnston against national Democratic coddling of negroes into the teeth of Congressman Mitchell, negro and Democrat, of Chicago, who defeated him?

The News and Courier, like The Advertiser, takes the "narrow" view. It is for South Carolina first. It may be of no consequence, but The News and Courier has lost faith in the professed friendship of the Northern Democratic leaders for South Carolina and the South. We believe they would look indifferently upon the return of the era of bedlam to the South that the Republicans created seventy years ago in order to gain the negro vote in their states and districts.

But we should not be too hard on our friends who are trying to ride two horses in opposite directions.

Washington, N. C. News
July 15, 1936

DEMOCRATS WILL GET NEGRO VOTE

Republican Candidate Said to Have Offended Some Negro Leaders

The Daily News Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, July 15.—Despite the kins of the Republi- and west. But for local consump- ve Committee is said tion it is regarded as well here y indifferent to this to eschew the negro vote. The Republicans generally think the Democrats they can profit by get all the negro votes for the Democrats carry the state ticket and nearly all for the national.

(Chairman Meekins' father, Judge Isaac M. Meekins of Elizabeth City, voted and spoke for the constitutional amendment of 1900 disfranchising the bulk of licans are not going to make any effort to get those votes for state or national tickets.

William Grissom, Republican candidate for Governor of some of the negro leaders last week when he said the negroes in vote the Democratic ticket as a matter of safety, that they find an easy literacy test if they vote Democratic and tough going if they don't.

vote and Republican offended believe that they have brothers in black as a This attitude of the national learned in Raleigh, cans greatly needing their share comes to Raleigh that the Republican vote in the north,

State Chairman Wil-

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
July 15, 1936

The Only Two Courses

The national Democratic party cannot and does not expect to gain and hold the negro vote in Northern states without protecting the negroes in voting in the Southern states. In present conditions a negro in South Carolina cannot be a "Democrat," for a "Democrat" excluded from the Democratic primaries would as well be in Ethiopia. That Walter White and the Society for the Advancement of the Colored People would cooperate with the Democratic party in the North while the Democrats of the South continue practically to disfranchise negroes as Democrats is incredible, and that the national Democrats do not mean to allow this to go on is what Mr. Ickes, member of the Roosevelt cabinet and presumably a spokesman for Mr. Roosevelt, meant when he told the negroes that there "is a new deal for the negroes" and that Mr. Roosevelt is the first president since Lincoln to recognize that the "war amendments" unless enforced would as well not be in the constitution. Mitchell, the negro Democrat of Chicago now in congress, and Wagner, the foreign-born and "liberal" Tammany senator, tell them practically the same thing. That the national Democratic party can adopt the Northern negroes and deny Southern negroes admission to the party is the plainest nonsense.

What are Southern white men, those in South Carolina, going to do about it? They have got to do something about it, if not this year, certainly in four years. The exclusion of negroes from the Southern primaries will cost Mr. Roosevelt thousands of negro votes in the North next November, and if Messrs. Harrison, Robinson, Byrnes and other Southern Roosevelt leaders do not know this they are duller men than we take them to be. In respect of the negro the Southern leaders are in truth working against Roosevelt's election, and if they do not know it they are slow-witted. The Northern negro Republicans and white Republicans are this day making the most of it.

The Southern white men should form a Southern white men's Democratic party acting as an independent bloc in the Electoral College and in congress. That is what they should do about it. That is The News and Courier's deliberate and unqualified opinion. There is no objection to third parties. There is no objection to independence. Mr. Roosevelt's hope of reelection is in independents—independent Republicans like Secretaries Ickes and Wallace. We Southern white men are the only party slaves left in the country, and our reason and excuse for it has departed with the conversion of the national Democratic party to the national Republican attitude toward the negroes.

The News and Courier does not believe that the masses of the Southern negroes are fit for political activities or will be in many a long year. Oh yes, General Hampton appealed to the negroes and Judge Orr before him believed that the respectable white Southerners should go in and guide the negroes. Both were honest and both were mistaken. General Hampton's course in 1876 was wise, fortunate, expedient, served an excellent purpose, but the Hampton method of that year not modified by his realistic lieutenants would not have resulted in victory. The News and Courier is convinced that participation of millions of negroes in political affairs in the South would produce demoralization of both races, corruption of both, and chaos.

But suppose The News and Courier is wrong—the only other course is for the Southern Democrats to accept the negroes as Democrats, try to lead them in right paths, and take up where Hampton left off fifty-six or fifty-eight years ago. The "leaders" and the newspapers that scoff at The News and Courier as a finder of spooks won't tell the people what to do. They are for winning the election for Byrnes, for letting things rock. They are going to dodge the question, dodge all grave and emergent questions just as long as they can—just as long as the handouts to towns, classes, office-holders do not give out. Therefore The News and Courier, on the postulate that they are right and it is wrong, that the persuasion of the negro in the Hampton manner that they cite is practicable, tells them what the people should do, takes the guidance from them, does the job for them that they pass up.

In this state are a few negroes (not many though they may be 500, 1,000 or 2,000 in 900,000) who can be relied upon as men of intelligence and character. That small minority will "class" with any race and is composed of distinctly superior persons. We have eight or ten of these men in mind as we write. Among them are not the majority of negro preachers—your preacher, black or white, ceases to be trustworthy when he enters politics, though among the negro preachers are a few first rate men judged by any standard.

The small minority of superior negroes, some of them members of professions—doctors, lawyers, teachers—and some of them merchants, now regard themselves as political outcasts. That is what they are. The "better white men," the chosen leaders, ignore them, and they chafe under the treatment. You would were you one of them.

cultivate these worthiest of the negro leaders while there is time. If they are right and The News and Courier is wrong, they had better call a state convention and invite them now to enroll in the Democratic primary and vote. This they will have to do a little later anyway or cut loose from the national Democratic party, and, meanwhile, they are forcing these men to go to the "Joe" Tolbert camp. There is no other camp open to them. While we doubt that the best negroes can lead the negro masses, it seems worth while to give them a chance—there is no other way to save the negro masses from falling into the hands of ignorant and corruptible negro leaders and depraved but cunning white men. Once 150,000 or 100,000 negroes (about 300,000 in the state can read and write) shall be admitted to vote in primaries and other elections, we shall have a dirtier period in politics than ever we had in the seventies. Be it remembered that the white leaders of this day are, as a rule, puny, miserable creatures by comparison with those that redeemed the state in 1876.

We repeat: The News and Courier is for an independent white men's Democratic party, but the national Democratic party is for a mixed party in the South. If our "Democracy" intends to abide with it, we do what those who are too lazy or indifferent neglect to do. We advise the white people in their "emergency" and tell them what seems the best and only ways of dealing with the new situation.

We believe in locking the gates of hell before it begins trying to break loose.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
July 5, 1936

Riders of Two Horses

The weekly press of South Carolina so far is not only outspoken but nearly unanimous in opinion about the "new order"—and strange order—of the national Democratic party in respect of the negro voters. This paragraph is from a strong editorial of The Laurens Advertiser, of which Allison Lee is the editor:

"Senator Byrnes and the other South Carolina New Dealers, mostly office holders, who paraded the aisles of the Philadelphia convention whooping it up for a Northern Democratic machine that had ignored southern tradition both on the racial question and the time-honored two-thirds rule, made a lame attempt to appease opinion back home by protesting tardily against negroes appearing on the program in the future, but they will live to regret the day that they did not do, as Senator Smith rightly did, express their resentment in no uncertain terms when such resentment would have counted."

It seems fair, or would be generous, to have in mind that leading politicians, especially those active in national politics, Senator Byrnes and Executive Committeeman Johnston for examples, as long as they are devoted to the cause, personal and political, of President and Candidate Roosevelt, are in a sorely embarrassing predicament.

They wish to reelect Mr. Roosevelt. It is highly important to South Carolina that it have allotments for "relief" and public works, and thousands of men are dependent upon the Roosevelt administration for salaries and jobs.

Mr. Roosevelt and his Northern supporters are pleading and wrestling with the Northern negroes for their votes—indeed, the great concessions they have made to these negroes, tantamount to a somersault in historic Democratic national policy, would indicate that they look for an exceedingly close contest in November in many states where negroes are numerous in the cities.

How can a Democrat of South Carolina, a Roosevelt Democrat, speak out loudly the old, and, we believe, the living and resolute South Carolina feeling on this question without playing into the hand of Landon and the Republicans?

Would not former Congressman DePriest, Republican negro, fling any utterance by Governor Johnston against national Democratic coddling of negroes into the teeth of Congressman Mitchell, negro and Democrat, of Chicago, who defeated him?

The News and Courier, like The Advertiser, takes the "narrow" view. It is for South Carolina first. It may be of no consequence, but The News and Courier has lost faith in the professed friendship of the Northern Democratic leaders for South Carolina and the South. We believe they would look indifferently upon the return of the era of bedlam to the South that the Republicans created seventy years ago in order to gain the negro vote in their states and districts.

But we should not be too hard on our friends who are trying to ride two horses in opposite directions.

Washington, N. C. News
July 15, 1936

DEMOCRATS WILL GET NEGRO VOTE

Republican Candidate Said to Have Offended Some Negro Leaders

The Daily News Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, July 15.—Despite the 50,000 supposed negro voters in North Carolina available for the 1936 presidential election, news comes to Raleigh that the Republicans are not going to make any effort to get those votes for state or national tickets.

Gilliam Grissom, Republican candidate for Governor offended some of the negro leaders last week when he said the negroes in vote the Democratic ticket as a matter of safety, that they find an easy literacy test if they vote Democratic and tough going if they don't.

Chairman Meekins' father, Judge Isaac M. Meekins of Elizabeth City, voted and spoke for the national amendment of 1900 disfranchising the bulk of C. Meekins of the Republican Executive Committee is said totally indifferent to this and Republicans generally that they can profit by the Democrats carry the state ticket and nearly all for ers in black a season.

(Chairman Meekins' attitude does not fit well the national scheme, it is ed in Raleigh, the Republi- greatly needing their share ne negro vote in the north negro voters and prescribing a literacy test. The Judge never rated well after that and both when his honor's appointment was up for Senate confirmation in Washington, and when his name was proposed to the Cleveland national convention, negro organizations opposed him.

The Republicans are rebuked by negro leaders for trying to keep "lily white" their party and Mr. Grissom is accused of playing into that sentiment. It is conceded that neither Governor Landon nor Mr. Grissom will have much help from North Carolina negroes.

Columbia, S. C. State
July 2, 1936

THE NEWS AND COURIER, SENATOR SMITH, BUNCOMBE AND OBSESSIONS.

The News and Courier, unrelenting enemy of the New Deal, and frank and persistent opponent of Roosevelt, champions Senator Smith's course at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia, which course The State deplored.

Commenting upon a paragraph in The State's editorial on that subject (but ignoring the facts that Wade Hampton invited and sought Negro votes; that Negroes have addressed gatherings of whites in the South and vice versa, and that no one from any other Southern state joined Smith in his walk-out), The News and Courier says:

> The News and Courier is aware that its utterances from day to day about the "Negro question" please Chairman Hamilton, (Republican), as Smith's action has pleased him. Shall we be silent? Will you?

Does not the Charleston paper desire to please Chairman Hamilton? Has it not eliminated from its mind any sense of responsibility for the success of the Democratic party as led by Roosevelt? Did it not oppose the renomination of Roosevelt and express the opinion that South Carolinians were of its way of thinking? Have not scores of its editorials unequivocally condemning administration policies and acts been reproduced with evident satisfaction in Northern Republican newspapers? Why, then, should The News and Courier now hesitate to express itself in terms pleasing to the chairman of the national Republican organization, Mr. Hamilton!

Mark well, we are not censuring The News and Courier. It knows what it feels, and it is its right freely to give expression to its beliefs. But when our Charleston contemporary raises the "Negro question" in assuming the South is menaced by a possible Negro vote, we are in a puzzling predicament. For we cannot question The News and Courier's intelligence, and we would never wish to doubt its sincerity, and yet it seems to us impossible for any intelligent and sincere person to believe in that ghost; to be frightened by the shaking of those old bones tied together with strings, and brought forth to scare children and other simple minded folk.

Babies born after the breath of life passed out of the Republican party in South Carolina are now grandfathers and grandmothers. Babies born after Negroes in the South had recognized the futility of their old carpet-bag leadership, and had quietly accepted the inevitable government and rule by the whites of the South, are now white haired men and women.

And yet the old skeleton is dragged out and strings pulled in an attempt to make the bones rattle! We discern in such attempt neither statesmanship nor sportsmanship!

Self-respect does not permit us to practice buncombe. That is for the politicians. Funk and Wagnalls gives this definition: "Buncombe—Bombastic speech making or any specious utterance for political effect (Probably from a remark of a member of congress from Buncombe county, North Carolina, that he was 'talking only for Buncombe')." That politician was, at least, honest in his frankness. He was "talking," not what he believed, but for its effect upon his folks back home. But he had the frankness to admit it was "buncombe."

When The News and Courier says "the national Democratic party having appealed to the Negro vote, having recognized the Negroes in the national convention, Senator Smith cannot resent it without giving aid and comfort to the national Republican party," the implication is that the Democratic party only now under Roosevelt, has "appealed to the Negro vote." We fear the obsession against Roosevelt is obscuring our friend's sense of justice. It should know, if it does not, that ever since there have been important blocks of Negro votes in Eastern and Midwestern states, the Democratic party has appealed to them—through published statements, through special literature and through public speakers. But the first, most direct and urgent appeal by a Democrat for Negro votes that we can recall was made in South Carolina by Gen. Wade Hampton in the Year of Our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Seventy Six!

Assuming for the moment that the Ark holding the Covenant made by Southerners to maintain white supremacy was in the self-imposed keeping of Senator Smith at Philadelphia, is it not alarming to note that not one Democrat from any other state in the South offered him support!

No, contemporary, obsessions are warping to judgment.

Tarboro, N. C., Wklv. Southerner
July 2, 1936

The Smith Walk-Out

Without going into the matter of whether Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina did or did not make a fool of himself in his two walk-outs from the Democratic National Convention because a Negro preacher of Philadelphia offered a prayer and a Negro Congressman from Illinois made a speech, it nevertheless can be pointed out that the presence of the Negroes was decidedly unfortunate from the political standpoint.

As we say, we do not seek to pass judgment here on the right or wrong of Senator Smith's attitude, except to say in passing that perhaps his action makes him appear foolish, but the fact remains that not only Senator Smith but any number of other Southern delegates as well do feel the presence of the racial line distinctly, and that therefore, the question of right or wrong notwithstanding, it is unfortune that the antagonism of the Southerners was fired when the firing of it was so unnecessary.

The point is simply that it should have been known ahead of time that some Southern delegates would resent the situation. Better management of the convention, in which all things are supposed to be as harmonious as possible, would have averted this unharmonious incident. This would have been entirely possible. Senator Smith and other Southerners who feel themselves to be insulted by forced racial equality would have remained calm had the Negro problem been non-existent.

Greensboro, N. C., News
July 11, 1936

NEGRO EDITOR TAKES REPUBLICAN TO TASK

Reply to Candidate For Governor Points to Democratic Recognition.

ACCUSATIONS REFUTED

Daily News Bureau and Telegraph Office
411 Wachovia Bank Bldg., Fayetteville St.

Raleigh, July 13.—North Carolina negroes vote the Democratic ticket because by doing so they participate in public affairs, H. I. Fontello-Nanton, editor of the Carolina Tribune and a chain of negro papers, declares in his current issue in reply to a recent statement by Gilliam Grissom, Republican candidate.

The Tribune quotes Mr. Grissom who says "The negro vote will run about 50,000, but that will all be Democratic because they have to pass a literacy test, and if they don't say they'll vote Democratic they don't pass the test."

The paper resents the "attempt to whitewash the Republican party in this state," and declares that Mr. Grissom "throws in his lot with the Ananias club. Everybody who has been closely associated with politics in North Carolina knows that the reason the negroes vote the Democratic ticket in this state is because those of Mr. Grissom's ilk are either afraid of the negro vote, or they are pledged to the 'lily white' politics of the deep south." The paper continues:

"To say that negroes will be denied the right to vote in North Carolina unless they vote the Democratic ticket is a misrepresentation of the facts in the case, and a blow below the belt to the Democracy of the state. To insinuate that negroes cannot pass the literacy test is an insult to negroes and a calumny against the educational system of this section of the country."

The paper then declares negroes cannot serve their purpose under Republican banners, but do help to elect men in the Democratic party and secure representation in county and state conventions. As Republicans they have no voice in party affairs, and only help to pile up votes for a national candidate who promptly forgets the existence of negroes after he is elected to the White House."

The Tribune did not take sides in the recent governorship race but it is committed to the Roosevelt administration and finds a substantial hope therein. Mr. Grissom throughout his life has been distinguished for his kindness to the race. But the paper doesn't like his cracks at the dominant Democracy.

'Big Chief' Of Courier Back From Confab

With Farley

Robert L. Vann, the "Big Chief" of America's Best Weekly, returned from Washington [illegible] Wednesday evening after conference with James A. Farley, "Big Chief" of the Democrats.

Immediately upon his arrival he conferred with Democratic leaders in Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and New York.

Mr. Vann has accepted the Negro Democrats. Roosevelt campaign among leadership of the national

Political-1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic -

DOTHAN, ALA.
EAGLE

JUL 8 - 1936

ONE ON TALMADGE

The Albany Herald doesn't waste any time in spanking the red gallused Eugene Talmadge, governor of the Cracker State and candidate for the United States Senate for what the Albany journal calls a "studied affront to the white women of his own and other Southern States."

The contumacy of the Hon. Eugene is his statement, over his signature in his own political organ, The Statesman, that during the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia, Southern white women "ate at the same tables" with Negroes.

But a Negro minister prayed for the body politic of Democrats, Southern and Northern alike, and the only Negro Congressman, a Democrat, made a ripsnorting campaign speech from the convention rostrum and pledged his race to march "breast to breast" and so forth, under the pure white banner of Democracy.

And there has been very little said about that.

But under the caption, "This Is Unpardonable," The Herald goes on to say:

"We are amazed at the efforts of Governor Talmadge to intensify racial prejudice in Georgia. If there is anything we do not need it is that.

"The statement is made by Governor Talmadge, in a signed article in his personal political organ, The Statesman, that during the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia Southern white women 'ate at the same tables' with Negroes.

"That is not true. Every white person and every colored person in Georgia knows it is not true. Governor Talmadge knows it is not true. Yet in his effort to discredit the Democratic party and those who attended its national convention at Philadelphia he is perfectly willing to offer a deliberate affront to Southern white women, and to offer a large contribution to the cause of race prejudice.

"The white and colored people of Georgia get along well enough together. They understand each other. Our Negro citizens have no desire for social equality, the best element among them very sensibly preferring to work for that which is attainable—the uplift of their own people, that they may be happier, more prosperous and more useful citizens.

"Of course Governor Talmadge is a politician. He is holding one high office and running for another. He is doing everything in his power to discredit the President of the United States and the Democratic administration. He calls himself a Democrat, but is co-operating with the Republican party.

"And in the hope of gaining some trifling political advantage (though exactly how we do not see) he is willing to offer, in his newspaper, a studied affront to the white women of his own and other Southern States.

"Perhaps you can understand it. We cannot."

Charleston S. C. News & Courier
July 3, 1936

Let Roosevelt Lay the Ghost!

The meat of difference between The News and Courier and The Columbia State is in this from The State with which we flatly disagree: "But when our Charleston contemporary raises the 'negro question' in assuming the South is menaced by a possible negro vote, we are in a puzzling predicament. . . It seems to us impossible for any intelligent and sincere person to believe in that ghost."

The "negro question" has been raised by the Costigan-Wagner bill, supported by every Northern Democrat in the senate and two from border states—for the time defeated by a Southern filibuster.

It has been raised by the action of national Democratic leaders in placing negroes in prominent posts in the Philadelphia convention.

It has been raised by the presence of negro delegates, for the first time, thirty-two, from eight or ten states, in that convention. The Negro congressman and Democrat, Mitchell, raises it when he suggests that "our party" get rid of men of the type of Smith—and the whole South Carolina delegation supported Smith in principle by a resolution of protest.

On the heels of the convention a member of the president's cabinet, addressing negroes, raised it by naming President Roosevelt as the first president since Lincoln to realize that the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments are dead unless enforced, and if that does not mean that the president wants them enforced, what does it mean? Would not all the Northern Democrats in congress vote for a "force bill" to insure negro voting in the South if the president asked it? They voted for the Wagner-Costigan bill to a man.

The "negro question" is not a "ghost." The Northern Democrats are breathing life into its body and mean to plague the South. That is the evidence. The News and Courier holds that the South faces a crisis as it did until the defeat of the "Lodge bill," with the Northern Democrats united against it. Formerly, every Northern Democrat stood with the South. Now none does. The State is of contrary opinion. It is a difference of opinion as to facts. Let it go at that. If The News and Courier's facts are wrong, it has no case. It challenges denial of the facts.

More than a week ago The News and Courier mentioned that Hampton appealed to the negro voters in 1876—it is an authority on that bit of history. ((The State overlooked the article.) The Hampton Democrats resorted to persuasion (that was Hampton's personal method), bribery and intimidation of negroes in 1876 and elected some of them to offices. The negroes were in a majority of more than 30,000 in 1876.

The whole matter is one of numbers, and it is not one of "negro supremacy." In the North the negroes are virtually confined to great cities. They are enough to decide closely contested elections. Generally they are segregated. In New York state 450,000 negroes in 13,000,000 people do not seriously disturb the average man's tranquillity, however politicians of both parties corrupt them. The present spectacle of both great parties struggling for the votes of these minorities is sufficient proof of the danger that they are to clean politics.

In South Carolina are about 475,000 white adults and about 400,000 negroes of whom about 300,000 (see the census report) are literate. The negroes are everywhere in the state—majorities in twenty-five of forty-six counties. Of them a very small minority are men and women of fine sense, information, character. The great mass is well meaning, kindly, highly emotional, ignorant, easily led. If they vote, who will lead them? Not The Columbia State or The News and Courier. Not their own best representatives. We think we could name a conspicuous apologist for lynching who is the most popular and influential white man among the negro masses in South Carolina—who could do more with the negroes in a day than The News and Courier's and The State's editorials together could do with them in a year.

The granting of unrestricted suffrage to the negroes—which Lincoln opposed—was the most colossal blunder ever committed by an English-speaking people. Does Great Britain compel the South African Union to allow its millions of negroes to vote? Does it in any colony give colored races equal political rights with white men? That the Republican North tried to do seventy-one years ago. This day the Democratic North revives the plan.

If The News and Courier sees a "ghost" it can be laid. The State cannot lay it. Franklin Roosevelt can. He can assure the South that not while he is president will any federal legislation interfere with the South's handling of its political affairs if his veto will stop it. He can say that he will veto the Costigan-Wagner bill if passed and kill it. President Roosevelt can lay the ghost—lay it in one short, straight-forward sentence.

And with affectionate consideration for The State, abiding always, we conclude that what it says is unimportant as long as Franklin Roosevelt won't back it up in words so plain that a wayfaring man though accused of seeing spooks cannot err therein. Franklin Roosevelt, not The State, is the authority on this ghost. The State' testimony is secondary and not admissible. Call Franklin Roosevelt!

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
July 9, 1936

THE NEGRO AS AN ISSUE

Because a Negro minister delivered an invocation at the Philadelphia convention, because a Democratic Negro Congressman delivered an address in support of President Roosevelt, because there were some Negro delegates in the convention, "Cotton Ed." Smith, the South Carolina demagogue walked out of the convention.

Senator Joseph F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, was in the convention. He is a candidate for reelection and has two opponents. Such Carolina candidates for office speak in droves at county seats, in accordance with a provision of the law.

Recently two of Byrnes's opponents, in a joint meeting, asked him why he did not leave the convention, just as Smith did. Byrnes replied that he was appealing to the reason and not the prejudice of Carolinians—as if that would get a Carolina politician anywhere, especially when an ordinarily conservative and moderate newspaper like The Charleston News and Courier is devoting columns of editorial space to criticisms of Roosevelt because under him the Democratic party has alienated the Northern Negro vote from the Republicans for the first time in history.

In Georgia Gene Talmadge, contemplating his struggle with Dick Russell for the Senate, names "race equality" as one of the "issues".

We Southern Democrats are too low-down to go through a State political campaign without making the helpless Negro a scapegoat in a white man's contest.

Political-1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic -

DOTHAN, ALA.
EAGLE

JUL 8 - 1936

ONE ON TALMADGE

The Albany Herald doesn't waste any time in spanking the red gallused Eugene Talmadge, governor of the Cracker State and candidate for the United States Senate for what the Albany journal calls a "studied affront to the white women of his own and other Southern States."

The contumacy of the Hon. Eugene is his statement, over his signature in his own political organ, The Statesman, that during the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia, Southern white women "ate at the same tables" with Negroes.

But a Negro minister prayed for the body politic of Democrats, Southern and Northern alike, and the only Negro Congressman, a Democrat, made a ripsnorting campaign speech from the convention rostrum and pledged his race to march "breast to breast" and so forth, under the pure white banner of Democracy.

And there has been very little said about that.

But under the caption, "This Is Unpardonable," The Herald goes on to say:

"We are amazed at the efforts of Governor Talmadge to intensify racial prejudice in Georgia. If there is anything we do not need it is that.

"The statement is made by Governor Talmadge, in a signed article in his personal political organ, The Statesman, that during the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia Southern white women 'ate at the same tables' with Negroes.

"That is not true. Every white person and every colored person in Georgia knows it is not true. Governor Talmadge knows it is not true. Yet in his effort to discredit the Democratic party and those who attended its national convention at Philadelphia he is perfectly willing to offer a deliberate affront to Southern white women, and to offer a large contribution to the cause of race prejudice.

"The white and colored people of Georgia get along well enough together. They understand each other. Our Negro citizens have no desire for social equality, the best element among them very sensibly preferring to work for that which is attainable—the uplift of their own people, that they may be happier, more prosperous and more useful citizens.

"Of course Governor Talmadge is a politician. He is holding one high office and running for another. He is doing everything in his power to discredit the President of the United States and the Democratic administration. He calls himself a Democrat, but is co-operating with the Republican party.

"And in the hope of gaining some trifling political advantage (though exactly how we do not see) he is willing to offer, in his newspaper, a studied affront to the white women of his own and other Southern States.

"Perhaps you can understand it. We cannot."

Charleston News & Courier
July 3, 1936

Let Roosevelt Lay the Ghost!

The meat of difference between The News and Courier and The Columbia State is in this from The State with which we flatly disagree: "But when our Charleston contemporary raises the 'negro question' in assuming the South is menaced by a possible negro vote, we are in a puzzling predicament. . . It seems to us impossible for any intelligent and sincere person to believe in that ghost."

The "negro question" has been raised by the Costigan-Wagner bill, supported by every Northern Democrat in the senate and two from border states—for the time defeated by a Southern filibuster.

It has been raised by the action of national Democratic leaders in placing negroes in prominent posts in the Philadelphia convention.

It has been raised by the presence of negro delegates, for the first time, thirty-two, from eight or ten states, in that convention. The Negro congressman and Democrat, Mitchell, raises it when he suggests that "our party" get rid of men of the type of Smith—and the whole South Carolina delegation supported Smith in principle by a resolution of protest.

On the heels of the convention a member of the president's cabinet, addressing negroes, raised it by naming President Roosevelt as the first president since Lincoln to realize that the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments are dead unless enforced, and if that does not mean that the president wants them enforced, what does it mean? Would not all the Northern Democrats in congress vote for a "force bill" to insure negro voting in the South if the president asked it? They voted for the Wagner-Costigan bill to a man.

The "negro question" is not a "ghost." The Northern Democrats are breathing life into its body and mean to plague the South. That is the evidence. The News and Courier holds that the South faces a crisis as it did until the defeat of the "Lodge bill," with the Northern Democrats united against it. Formerly, every Northern Democrat stood with the South. Now none does. The State is of contrary opinion. It is a difference of opinion as to facts. Let it go at that. If The News and Courier's facts are wrong, it has no case. It challenges denial of the facts.

More than a week ago The News and Courier mentioned that Hampton appealed to the negro voters in 1876—it is an authority on that bit of history. ((The State overlooked the article.) The Hampton Democrats resorted to persuasion (that was Hampton's personal method), bribery and intimidation of negroes in 1876 and elected some of them to offices. The negroes were in a majority of more than 30,000 in 1876.

The whole matter is one of numbers, and it is not one of "negro supremacy." In the North the negroes are virtually confined to great cities. They are enough to decide closely contested elections. Generally they are segregated. In New York state 450,000 negroes in 13,000,000 people do not seriously disturb the average man's tranquillity, however politicians of both parties corrupt them. The present spectacle of both great parties struggling for the votes of these minorities is sufficient proof of the danger that they are to clean politics.

In South Carolina are about 475,000 white adults and about 400,000 negroes of whom about 300,000 (see the census report) are illiterate. The negroes are everywhere in the state—majorities in twenty-five of forty-six counties. Of them a very small minority are men and women of fine sense, information, character. The great mass is well meaning, kindly, highly emotional, ignorant, easily led. If they vote, who will lead them? Not The Columbia State or The News and Courier. Not their own best representatives. We think we could name a conspicuous apologist for lynching who is the most popular and influential white man among the negro masses in South Carolina—who could do more with the negroes in a day than The News and Courier's and The State's editorials together could do with them in a year.

The granting of unrestricted suffrage to the negroes—which Lincoln opposed—was the most colossal blunder ever committed by an English-speaking people. Does Great Britain compel the South African Union to allow its millions of negroes to vote? Does it in any colony give colored races equal political rights with white men? That the Republican North tried to do seventy-one years ago. This day the Democratic North revives the plan.

If The News and Courier sees a "ghost" it can be laid. The State cannot lay it. Franklin Roosevelt can. He can assure the South that not while he is president will any federal legislation interfere with the South's handling of its political affairs if his veto will stop it. He can say that he will veto the Costigan-Wagner bill if passed and kill it. President Roosevelt can lay the ghost—lay it in one short, straight-forward sentence.

And with affectionate consideration for The State, abiding always, we conclude that what it says is unimportant as long as Franklin Roosevelt won't back it up in words so plain that a wayfaring man though accused of seeing spooks cannot err therein. Franklin Roosevelt, not The State, is the authority on this ghost. The State' testimony is secondary and not admissible. Call Franklin Roosevelt!

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
July 9, 1936

THE NEGRO AS AN ISSUE

Because a Negro minister delivered an invocation at the Philadelphia convention, because a Democratic Negro Congressman delivered an address in support of President Roosevelt, because there were some Negro delegates in the convention, "Cotton Ed." Smith, the South Carolina demagogue walked out of the convention.

Senator Joseph F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, was in the convention. He is a candidate for reelection and has two opponents. Such Carolina candidates for office speak in droves at county seats, in accordance with a provision of the law.

Recently two of Byrnes's opponents, in a joint meeting, asked him why he did not leave the convention, just as Smith did. Byrnes replied that he was appeal-ing to the reason and not the prejudice of Carolinians—as if that would get a Carolina politician anywhere, especially when an ordinarily conservative moderate newspaper like The Charleston News and Courier is devoting columns of editorial space to criticisms of Roosevelt because under him the Democratic party has alienated the Northern Negro vote for the first time in history.

In Georgia Gene Talmadge, contemplating his struggle with Dick Russell for the Senate, names "race equality" as one of the "issues". We Southern Democrats are too low-down to go through a State campaign without making the helpless Negro a scapegoat in a white man's contest.

EDITORIAL OF THE WEEK

PARTISAN NEGROES

THAT history was made at the Democratic National Convention, there is no question. Things were done in Philadelphia over which every Negro should feel good. But here in the neck of the woods where we bear the burden and the heat of the day, where we are often made weary and depressed, the one thing we are hearing more than anything else is that one Democrat, a white delegate from South Carolina, walked out of the convention when a colored minister of Philadelphia arose to offer the invocation Wednesday morning of convention week.

Seated on the Democratic National Convention floor were thirty-two Negro delegates and twelve alternates, one from Kentucky. A colored minister, a member of the Pennsylvania State Legislautre, was asked to deliver the invocation. Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, of Illinois, was scheduled to second the nomination of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, but not being a delegate, he was asked to address the convention. Another Negro, Carl Glass, a delegate from Missouri, was placed on the committee to notify Vice-President John N. Garner of his nomination. And at a meeting of the National Democratic Organization held in Philadelphia Sunday before the Democratic National Convention, James A. Farley, chairman and W. Forbes Morgan, secretary, respectively, of the Democratic National Committee, addressed the colored Democrats with a force and in a vein of sincereity which equalled that of anything we have ever heard from Republican leaders.

All of this was history-making, which should have read good to all Negroes, regardless of political affiliation or preferment. It is progress which should encourage Negroes, North East, South and West.

These are facts, but many of us are too dumb, too afraid we will lose some of the few crumbs we pick up as they fall from the Republican table; too narrow and too partisan to see any bad in the Republican Party or any good in the party of the Democrats. —Louisville Leader.

MAKING POLITICAL HISTORY

POLITICAL HISTORY was made in Ohio last week when more than three hundred Negro Democrats, delegates from every county in Ohio where Negroes reside, gathered in the fourth annual convention of the Ohio State Democratic League.

Time was when a Negro Democrat in Ohio was a "rare bird"; but with the Negro in Ohio awakening to the possibilities that lay ahead of him in hooking up with the new Democratic party—revitalized and liberalized by its new and capable leadership—the scene in Ohio has changed.

Negroes in Ohio became curious, first of all, about how the Negro in other populous states like New York and Illinois, and in many large northern centers, was managing to blaze a new trail in political recognition. New York City with its long line of Negro office-holders: tax commissioners, civil service commissioner, judges, etc., amazed the Negro in Ohio, until he checked up and ascertained that these positions, never opened to Negroes in Ohio under Republican regimes, were the order of the day in New York City, where Negroes have learned to vote Democratic.

So, in Ohio today, witness the more than three hundred Negro delegates, at an enthusiastic rally of Negro Democrats in Ohio's capital city, splitting the rafters with shouts of approbation for the splendid administrations of the Democratic standard-bearers: President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Governor Martin L. Davey!

When all is said and done, the Negro in this new day has his ears attuned to every political whisper that points for him the way out of political stagnation that came as a natural result of voting solidly for the Republican party—because his forefathers had so voted. The Negro knows and understands now that no other racial or national group in America entrusts their "political eggs" in one basket—however roomy that basket may be. He has noted that other groups are "in"—whoever is "in"—Republicans or Democrats—and he has made up his mind to try out the system of intelligently splitting his vote. Negroes in Ohio may have been reluctant in the past to break away from the party of Abraham Lincoln—but today, with the recognition they have reecived both from the national and state administration in Ohio, there is a new conviction abroad among them. That conviction is that the time has come for Negroes to try the Democratic party with at least the same loyalty as they did the Republicans—and watch results!

Martin L. Davey is going to be re-elected governor of Ohio—and Negroes plan to aid materially in his re-election.

HERALD

Dillon S C

JUL 6 - 1936

Editorials

Nothing to Get Excited About

IT has been said in these columns time and again that the north does not think like the south and neither does the west think like the north or the south. This is a big country and each of the several sections has its own way of looking at things.

The south knows the colored man and has its own peculiar way of handling the race question. Other sections of the nation do not understand the colored man quite so well as the south, and neither does the colored man understand the viewpoint other sections take of the relations between the races.

There is perhaps not another section in the world where two distinct races get along quite so well as right here in the south. It is because the white and colored men of the south know and understand one another.

If the Democratic National Convention had been held in the south and a southern colored preacher or speaker had been offered a place on the program he would have declined. He would have told the program committee that this was a white man's convention and it would be out of place for a colored man to make himself too conspicuous.

Let Maine, New York, Illinois, Ohio or any other northern or mid-western state handle the race question to suit itself. That is each state's right and privilege. The south will continue to handle the race question to suit itself because that is the south's right and privilege. When men do not think alike they cannot be expected to act alike.

If anybody in the world knows the colored man it is the southern white man and if anybody in the world knows the white man it is the southern colored man. There is no race problem where such thorough understanding exists.

When two distinct races inhabit the same section it is lack of understanding that breeds trouble.

supposed to be some degree of decency and intelligence in the political parties.

John D. M. Ham- Let this be the beginning and the ...the Democratic end of racial and religious questions ...ing racial and re- in this presidential campaign. ...he campaign adds Race and religion are not issues. ...ction made earlier The great majority of American peo- ...that this is going ple do not wish them ever to be. The ...dential race. political leaders of both parties ...newspaper knows, should have more sense than to think ...ges are unfound- otherwise. ...ney are—and, of ...e that they are— ...such extraneous ...mpaign are open ...demnation. ...1936 and there is

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald July 16, 1936

Not Issues

The assertion by John ...ilton Monday that the ...leadership is injecting r... issues into the ca... by James A. Farley that ...to be a bitter presidentia... So far as this newsp... Mr. Hamilton's charges a... ed in fact. If they a... course, it is possible tha... those who injected such ... matters into the campai... to the severest condemna...

EDITORIAL OF THE WEEK

PARTISAN NEGROES

THAT history was made at the Democratic National Convention, there is no question. Things were done in Philadelphia over which every Negro should feel good. But here in the neck of the woods where we bear the burden and the heat of the day, where we are often made weary and depressed, the one thing we are hearing more than anything else is that one Democrat, a white delegate from South Carolina, walked out of the convention when a colored minister of Philadelphia arose to offer the invocation Wednesday morning of convention week.

Seated on the Democratic National Convention floor were thirty-two Negro delegates and twelve alternates, one from Kentucky. A colored minister, a member of the Pennsylvania State Legislautre, was asked to deliver the invocation. Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, of Illinois, was scheduled to second the nomination of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, but not being a delegate, he was asked to address the convention. Another Negro, Carl Glass, a delegate from Missouri, was placed on the committee to notify Vice-President John N. Garner of his nomination. And at a meeting of the National Democratic Organization held in Philadelphia Sunday before the Democratic National Convention, James A. Farley, chairman and W. Forbes Morgan, secretary, respectively, of the Democratic National Committee, addressed the colored Democrats with a force and in a vein of sincereity which equalled that of anything we have ever heard from Republican leaders.

All of this was history-making, which should have read good to all Negroes, regardless of political affiliation or preferment. It is progress which should encourage Negroes, North East, South and West.

These are facts, but many of us are too dumb, too afraid we will lose some of the few crumbs we pick up as they fall from the Republican table; too narrow and too partisan to see any bad in the Republican Party or any good in the party of the Democrats. —Louisville Leader.

MAKING POLITICAL HISTORY

POLITICAL HISTORY was made in Ohio last week when more than three hundred Negro Democrats, delegates from every county in Ohio where Negroes reside, gathered in the fourth annual convention of the Ohio State Democratic League.

Time was when a Negro Democrat in Ohio was a "rare bird"; but with the Negro in Ohio awakening to the possibilities that lay ahead of him in hooking up with the new Democratic party—revitalized and liberalized by its new and capable leadership—the scene in Ohio has changed.

Negroes in Ohio became curious, first of all, about how the Negro in other populous states like New York and Illinois, and in many large northern centers, was managing to blaze a new trail in political recognition. New York City with its long line of Negro office-holders: tax commissioners, civil service commissioner, judges, etc., amazed the Negro in Ohio, until he checked up and ascertained that these positions, never opened to Negroes in Ohio under Republican regimes, were the order of the day in New York City, where Negroes have learned to vote Democratic.

So, in Ohio today, witness the more than three hundred Negro delegates, at an enthusiastic rally of Negro Democrats in Ohio's capital city, splitting the rafters with shouts of approbation for the splendid administrations of the Democratic standard-bearers: President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Governor Martin L. Davey!

When all is said and done, the Negro in this new day has his ears attuned to every political whisper that points for him the way out of political stagnation that came as a natural result of voting solidly for the Republican party—because his forefathers had so voted. The Negro knows and understands now that no other racial or national group in America entrusts their "political eggs" in one basket—however roomy that basket may be. He has noted that other groups are "in"—whoever is "in"—Republicans or Democrats—and he has made up his mind to try out the system of intelligently splitting his vote. Negroes in Ohio may have been reluctant in the past to break away from the party of Abraham Lincoln—but today, with the recognition they have reecived both from the national and state administration in Ohio, there is a new conviction abroad among them. That conviction is that the time has come for Negroes to try the Democratic party with at least the same loyalty as they did the Republicans—and watch results!

Martin L. Davey is going to be re-elected governor of Ohio—and Negroes plan to aid materially in his re-election.

HERALD

JUL 8 - 1936

Editorials

Nothing to Get Excited About

IT has been said in these columns time and again that the north does not think like the south and neither does the west think like the north or the south. This is a big country and each of the several sections has its own way of looking at things.

The south knows the colored man and has its own peculiar way of handling the race question. Other sections of the nation do not understand the colored man quite so well as the south, and neither does the colored man understand the viewpoint other sections take of the relations between the races.

There is perhaps not another section in the world where two distinct races get along quite so well as right here in the south. It is because the white and colored men of the south know and understand one another.

If the Democratic National Convention had been held in the south and a southern colored preacher or speaker had been offered a place on the program he would have declined. He would have told the program committee that this was a white man's convention and it would be out of place for a colored man to make himself too conspicuous.

Let Maine, New York, Illinois, Ohio or any other northern or mid-western state handle the race question to suit itself. That is each state's right and privilege. The south will continue to handle the race question to suit itself because that is the south's right and privilege. When men do not think alike they cannot be expected to act alike.

If anybody in the world knows the colored man it is the southern white man and if anybody in the world knows the white man it is the southern colored man. There is no race problem where such thorough understanding exists.

When two distinct races inhabit the same section it is lack of understanding that breeds trouble.

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
July 16, 1936

Not Issues

The assertion by John D. M. Hamilton Monday that the Democratic leadership is injecting racial and religious issues into the campaign adds Race and religion are not issues. made earlier The great majority of American people is going do not wish them ever to be. The race. political leaders of both parties knows. should have more sense than to think unfound- otherwise.

So far as this newspaper knows, Mr. Hamilton's charges are unfounded in fact. If they are—and, of course, it is possible that they are—those who injected such extraneous matters into the campaign are open to the severest condemnation.

This is the year 1936 and there is

Political – 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

THE PARTY PLATFORMS

Beside the Democratic platform adopted at Philadelphia let us put the program shaped two weeks ago at Cleveland, in order to find out what purposes the two parties have in common, what policies they disagree upon and what alternatives they have now offered to the country.

I

In the important field of fiscal policy both parties agree that the national budget must be balanced. The Republicans promise to balance it at once, "by cutting expenditures drastically," but do not say which expenditures they will cut. The Democrats declare that they are "determined to reduce expenditures," and are being helped to do so by the recovery of business. They promise no immediate end to borrowing, but pledge a budget balanced "at the earliest possible moment."

On the money question the Republicans take over the Democratic pledge of 1932 in favor of "a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards." They make no reference either to "gold" or the "gold standard." But Governor LANDON'S telegram to the Cleveland convention interprets a sound currency as meaning a currency convertible into gold, though not so convertible "until and unless" this can be done "without "penalizing our domestic economy and "without injury to our producers of "agricultural products and other raw "materials."

The Democratic platform likewise promises "a sound currency." To this it adds that the currency should be "so "stabilized as to prevent the former "wide fluctuations in value" which are injurious alike to creditor and debtor. But as to how this is to be accomplished, whether by the more familiar method of control of credit or by some other means, the platform does not say.

Neither the Republican nor the Democratic money plank is entirely definite in its commitments. Neither speaks of silver. But neither holds any promise for the inflationists.

II

To the question of farm policy both parties devote more space than is given to an attempt to clarify their views on the currency. The Republican farm plank offers thirteen kinds of Federal assistance to the farmer. The Democratic plank is not so long, but it is ample. The more important proposals on both sides may be summarized as follows:

The Republicans favor "removal of restrictions on production," while the Democrats want just so much production as foreign and domestic markets will absorb. The Republicans advocate still higher tariffs on farm products than those which now exist, and the Democrats promise "adequate protection * * * against unfair competition." The Republicans favor a soil conservation program, with "reasonable benefits to cooperating farmers," and the Democrats claim to have launched just such a program and to have voted the money for the "benefits." The Republicans also favor a second set of "benefits," in this case to be paid to farmers on that portion of their crops domestically consumed—as compensation for the fact that the tariff does not give them adequate protection. Here the Democrats refrain from entering a competitive bid.

From this it will be seen that the chief points of disagreement as to farm policy are two: first, the Republicans are more eager than the Democrats to be rid of production control at once; second, they promise to pay two "benefits" instead of one.

Neither party has any compunction about drawing on the Treasury for funds with which to subsidize agriculture in this manner, and neither expresses any fear that a vested interest is being created here which may trouble the American Republic for generations.

III

In the field of social legislation and reform measures the two parties march fairly close together for some distance. The Republican party pledges itself to a social security program such as the Democratic party has already enacted, though it does not approve the way the Democrats have done it. Both parties favor additional legislation for the protection of labor. Both pledge a continuance of Federal expenditures for relief of unemployment, though here the Republicans favor Federal grants-in-aid, to be spent at the discretion of local authorities, while the Democrats prefer work-relief projects, at prevailing wages, to be directed by the Federal Government in cooperation with the States and cities.

Both parties promise vigorous efforts to protect small business men against trusts and monopolies: the Republicans going so far as to pledge the enactment of such new legislation "as is necessary to make it impossible for private "monopolies to exist in the United "States"; the Democrats become involved in an apparent contradiction by declaring against "cutthroat competition" and yet promising to strengthen the anti-trust laws. Both parties pledge themselves to preserve and extend the civil service: the Republicans pointing out that in this matter the Democratic record has been indefensible, while the Democrats, who had no civil service plank in their 1932 platform, now incorporate one, in effect pledging themselves to make up for lost time by applying the merit system to "all non-"policy making positions in the Federal "service."

Not only do the purposes of these reform planks closely parallel one another at many points; a further point of agreement is that both parties hope to accomplish their reforms within the Constitution as it now stands. Governor LANDON'S telegram to the Cleveland convention is the only mention, on the Republican side, of a possible amendment of the Constitution; the Democratic party says that it "will continue to seek to meet" social questions without a constitutional change. If time shows that they cannot be effectively settled in this manner, the party will seek "a clarifying amendment" to give the State and national Legislatures, "each within its proper jurisdiction," power "to regulate com-"merce, protect health and safety and "safeguard economic security."

IV

Finally, there is the question of foreign policy. In this field, unfortunately, both parties have retreated from positions they occupied four years ago. In 1932 both parties pledged themselves to "implement" the Kellogg Pact, by providing for American consultation with other nations in case of a threat of war, and both favored American membership in the World Court. Now neither party mentions "implement-ing" the Kellogg Pact. On the World Court, the Republicans specifically repudiate their pledge of 1932. The Democrats do not go that far. They simply say nothing on the question. Nor do they mention the war debts.

The chief point of disagreement between the two parties in matters of foreign policy is that the Democratic party at least keeps the door open to economic, if not to political, cooperation with other nations in the world, while the Republicans want to slam this door abruptly. For the Republicans at Cleveland described as "dangerous" the Reciprocal Tariff Act under which Secretary HULL has concluded a long series of trade treaties, and promised to repeal this legislation, though it has proved to be the most effective effort yet made by any nation to break down barriers to trade. The Democrats pledge themselves to continue to "seek by mutual agreement "the lowering of those tariff barriers, "quotas and embargoes which have "been raised against our exports."

Disagreement at this point constitutes an outstanding difference in the position of the two parties. Here the Republican emphasis is primarily on the home market; the Democratic emphasis is on foreign markets as an outlet for our wheat and cotton and motor cars. The Republicans call for more "protection," the Democrats for more trade. The Republicans start from the assumption that as an economic unit the United States can be essentially self-contained. The Democratic party is willing to accept the inexorable logic of a situation which boils down to this: that unless the United States buys more goods abroad, it cannot sell more goods in foreign markets, and that unless it disposes of its surplus output in this manner, the domestic surplus of farm products and manufactures will again increase, and the country will once more find itself experimenting with "production codes" and "crop controls" and other forms of "regimentation," regardless of whether Democrats or Republicans are in power.

---

ing for a few days. Last year he set up headquarters in Brooklyn to take part in that borough's celebration. This year his plans are more ambitious. He expects shortly to move his offices to the old Bartow homestead on the shore of Pelham Bay, in the Bronx, and to conduct city affairs from there throughout July and August.

This new local "Summer White House" is almost in the extreme northeast corner of the city. It stands on park land owned by the city half-way between Hunters Island and Orchard Beach, where Commissioner MOSES' men have been busy. It is forty-five minutes from Times Square, and Staten Island politicians who want to see the Mayor on public business will have to devote most of the day to the journey there and back. But there isn't much business around City Hall in the Summer, and the new offices will not only be far more accessible to Bronx officials but will be a great convenience to the Mayor personally, as it will give him a cooler place to work in and will enable him to spend several nights each week at his Summer home in Westport. The new Triborough Bridge should afford ready access to official visitors from Brooklyn and Queens.

STRONGER THAN PLATFORMS

In one respect both of the national conventions this year have been timid and disappointing. They have seemed to be under a sort of panic fear regarding anything that might be called international. On that subject scarcely a whisper was permitted in either platform. Yet for years both parties have been trying, in one way or another, to be internationally-minded. They felt the force and pressure of great events forcing America into contact with all the rest of the world, and undertook to bring this country into full and needed cooperation with other nations. Plans and proposals differed, but the matter itself was one which Republicans and Democrats alike felt that it was impossible to evade. This year, however, both parties either ignored or openly repudiated—as the Republicans did—their previous professions and promises. One who judged only by reading the party platforms of 1936 might be excused for concluding that America existed apart and aloof in a world of her own.

This is a great let-down from the pride and complacency with which Americans used to regard the emergence of their nation as truly a world Power. It began long ago in our acts and words. At the Congress of Berlin, which fixed the peace terms after the war between Russia and Turkey, the American Government had a representative. President THEODORE ROOSEVELT had no hesitation whatever in stepping forth as an equal of any of the accredited rulers on this earth. He sent an Ambassador to the Algeciras conference, which settled the Moroccan question as between France and Germany, Italy and England. When the propitious moment came for intervention in order to bring the war between Japan and Russia to a close, THEODORE ROOSEVELT, with the entire approval of the American people, offered his good services and brought about the Peace of Portsmouth. In those day, and especially after the Great War, in which America bore her part, our citizens had a true if somewhat exaggerated feeling of national self-congratulation over the great part which their country was playing in the world. But today, if we were to take the silence or the open retreat of the national conventions as a correct index of public sentiment, we would seem suddenly to have been smitten with "the craven fear of being great."

This turning of our backs upon what seems to be a glorious and ambitious rôle may be explained as a natural reaction to disturbed and distressing conditions in some parts of the world today. People say that we must do nothing to get ourselves entangled in that unhappy mess. An intense spirit of exclusive nationalism has for the time being risen in this country, as in so many others. But these things cannot last indefinitely. There are economic forces stronger than political platforms which will, in the end, have their way. International complications and dangers cannot be checked at the water's edge. No matter what our party leaders may say, or refuse to say, we shall have to take practical measures to deal with practical issues forced upon us in various forms from across the seas. This will be true, no matter which party is successful in the Presidential election. Platforms may propose, but the irresistible march of civilization will dispose.

note that despite the "pressure of heavy taxes," there has been a greater number of donors, though the society's income has not been increased. Whatever "benefits may come of centralization in social work," they are largely lost "by their lack of availability to "the people they are intended to "serve." The Children's Aid Society should have free way and support in ministering as it does directly to the child that needs its friendly aid.

DEMOCRATS TO BURY HATCHET IN WEST BADEN DURING CONVENTION

(By Lee Johnson)

With national and state Democratic conventions out of the way one more convention will put the finishing touches on the big campaign to be launched this summer and fall by that party in effort to elect its slate of officials. The State Central Committee of the association of Negro Democratic clubs will convene in Hotel Waddy in West Baden, Ind., July 11-12, to set its organization to work for the election.

Many delegations from all over the state are expected to arrive from the important counties where Negro votes is heaviest to hear leading white and colored Democrats, and arrange the program.

This convention will also serve as a "bury-the-hatchet" meeting between all factions to effect a smooth organization.

By way of comparison, it has been said that in Indiana, Negroes have about one of the largest and strongest political organizations [illegible] a similar meeting earlier in the year attracted over five hundred persons at which time Dr. William J. Thompkins was the principal speaker.

The program has not been announced by the committee in charge of arrangements, but will be ready for publication before the meeting will be called to order by the state chairman, Dr. J. J. Hoover, of Terre Haute. Henry Fleming, Indianapolis, is chairman of the central committee. Dr. Hoover, recently appointed Lee A. Johnson, Indianapolis, as chairman of confirmed by the central committee. The group is sanctioned and the publicity committee which was recognized by the state committee, white.

D. C. Dem'crats Pay Tribute to Dr. Thompkins

Recorder of Deeds Given Testimonial By New Deal Association

Dr. William J. Thompkins, Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia, and president of the National Democratic Association, was tendered a testimoial banquet by the New Deal Young Democratic Club of the District of Columbia, at the Whitelaw Hotel, last Tuesday evening.

Attorney Emory B. Smith acted as toastmaster and introduced several persons prominent in Democratic circles who lauded the work that Dr. Thompkins has done for the Democratic party and his accomplishments at the Recorder of Deeds office.

Mrs. Naomi Smith sang "Homing," and Mrs. Helen Louise Clarke sang the "Kashmiri Song." An original dance was presented by Miss Thelma Norrine Smith.

A beautiful basket of flowers was presented to the guest of honor on behalf of the club by Mrs. Irene McDaniel.

The menu served by Robert Gidney, caterer, consisted of fruit cocktail, celery and olives, half spring chicken, candied yams, carotts and peas, hot home-made holls, lettuce and tomato salad, ice cream, cake and demi-tasse.

Members of the club are:

Mrs. Irene McDaniel, president; Mrs. Claire Harris Coleman, first vice president; Maurice Frye, second vice president; Miss Iris G. Holt, secretary;

Attorney Benjamin F. Sears, legal counsel;

Miss Theodora V. Jones, organizer.

Miss Ida Delores Mack, Miss Lucille Johnson, Miss Jane Boston, Miss Theodosia Boston, Miss Blanche Naylor, Miss Lauretta Naylor, Miss Viola Perry, Miss Beatrice Queen, Mrs. Francis Burrell Mrs. Helen Louise Clark;

Mrs. Isabelle Marcellus, Mrs. Leola James, Mrs. Estella Tyler, Lawrence Frye, Louis Roy, II Walter Tyler, Virgil Nixon, Clarence Coleman, Arthur Wilson, Sylvester Coleman, II.

Sponsors were Mrs. Agnes Fleming, Mrs. Helen Cross, Mrs. Bertha Frye, Mrs. Georgia Roy, and Mrs. Katherine Berry.

Hostesses were Mrs. Irene McDaniel, Mrs. Dorothy C. Newton, Miss Ida Dolores Mack, Miss Theodora V. Jones and Miss Iris G. Holt.

Arrangement committee was: Mrs. Elsie Robinson, Mrs. Florence M. Scott, Miss Theodsia Boston, Miss Elizabeth Briggs, Mrs. Agnes Fleming, Theodore S. Botts, Louis T. Brown, Mack D. Rowe, Meredith Lee.

Advisory-Treasurer committee: Joseph E. Fleming, and Attorney Benjamin F. Sears.

Entertainment committee—Mrs. Helen James Clarke.

Cigarette girls: Mrs. Claire Harris Coleman and Miss Lucille Johnson.

NEGRO HOLDS SMITH IN NEED OF PRAYER

Pastor Comments on 'Walk-Out' of South Carolinian, Who Resents Remark.

SENATOR BACK IN SESSION

South Is Being Crucified, He Says, as He Defends the Two-thirds Rule.

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—A statement by a Negro minister that Senator Smith's "walkout" from the Democratic convention indicated that "Brother Smith needs more prayer produced a reply from the South Carolina legislator that "I don't need anybody to pray for me except myself."

The clergyman, the Rev. Marshall Shepard, pastor of a Negro Baptist Church here, precipitated Mr. Smith's departure from the convention yesterday when he offered the invocation.

"I feel sympathy and pity for Senator Smith," the pastor said, "and pray to God that he may be emancipated from his prejudices."

He added that if Senator Smith "is looking for a party without Negroes it looks like he will have to form his own little party right there in South Carolina."

From the Senator came the comment:: :: : :

"I don't have to form my own party. The party already exists. It was born in the red-shirt days of the reconstruction period, when the gentlemen of South Carolina donned red shirts to rid our State of carpetbaggers, scalawags and Negroes."

In Columbia, meanwhile, A. S. Salley, State historian, said Mr. Smith had served with a Negro Democrat in the South Carolina House in 1898-1900.

Senator Smith, who had announced that he was "through" with the convention, later said he would walk out "whenever a Negro has a part."

He added he was back to fight abrogation of the two-thirds rule.

"I've got a good notion to take the floor and give them hell," he told reporters. "This is nothing but an attempt to crucify the Democratic South."

At the Democratic National Committee, officials explained that the Negro minister was chosen in line with an effort "to include representatives of all congregations" and that the racial question had not beend iscussed.

Representtaive Mitchell of Chicago, only Negro member of Congress and a delegate to the convention, said: "Senator Smith is a man of the old school and represents that thought among white people which is fast passing away."

DESERVING RECOGNITION

CLEVELAND and Ohio appreciates the recognition that has come to Thomas J. Davis and Attorney Charles V. Carr in their election to places of national importance in the councils of Negro Democrats. This recognition is timely and well-deserved, because both of these young men have given splendid service to the cause of the Democratic party in Cleveland and Ohio.

In the case of Mr. Davis, state-organizer for the Roosevelt-Davis Clubs and leader of the Ohio State Democratic League, who came to Cleveland sometime Congratulations to both gentlemen!

Political-1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Tampa, Fla. Tribune
April 17, 1936

By What Right?

By what right or authority does the State Democratic Committee establish a rule that only white persons are permitted to register as Democrats?

It is our impression that the state primary law permits a qualified voter to declare his party affiliation at the time of registration, and that the voter's statement is accepted as true in that particular. A Tampa negro leader, who has voted the Democratic ticket for years, advises us that there are more than 1000 negro voters in this county, who have voted the Democratic ticket in the past and will vote it again this year. We do not believe the State Committee, or any other body less than the Supreme Court, has the authority to decree that a negro, otherwise qualified to vote, is to be disfranchised unless he registers as a Republican, a Socialist, an independent, a Communist, or whatnot. Equivalent to saying that he forfeits his vote if he chooses to be a Democrat.

This dictatorial ruling of the State Committee should be set aside by the courts. It should be ignored by Supervisors of Registration.

JOPLIN, MO.
GLOBE

APR 22 1936

Negro Democrats to Meet.

A meeting of the Jasper County Negro Democratic Club will be held at the Unity Baptist church, East Seventh street, at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. Plans for taking care of Negro delegates to the democratic district and state conventions here May 5 will be discussed. R. Stenett is chairman of the group while E. B. Huffon is secretary.

HASTINGS, NEB.
TRIBUNE

APR 28 1936

A Political Blunaer

CERTAIN democratic leaders in Washington are reported to be secretly gratified at rumors that the New Deal is being accused in the South of friendliness toward Negroes. These leaders believe that the accusation will cost the president votes only in the South, which is sure to go democratic in any event. And if northern Negroes become convinced that Roosevelt is sympathetic to the problems of their race, many of them may be tempted to abandon their traditional republicanism in national elections, and vote the democratic ticket in November.

Despite the fact that comparatively few Negroes exercise the franchise in southern states, the Negro vote in the country as a whole is not a factor to be ignored. Maryland, with a 16.9 per cent Negro population, usually goes democratic in state and local elections, but nationally it went for Harding in 1930, for Coolidge in 1924, and for Hoover in 1928. Delaware, another state south of the Mason and Dixon Line which permits Negroes to vote, likewise is usually considered safely republican in national elections.

The 1930 census showed that Manhattan borough of New York had 12 per cent Negroes in its population, whereas the percentage in the other four boroughs which compose New York City ranged only between 1 and 2¾ per cent. In 1932 Hoover did better in Manhattan than in New York City as a whole. In the assembly district of the Harlem section which is largely Negro, Hoover received almost two-thirds as many votes as Roosevelt, whereas in the city as a whole he received only about 40 per cent as many.

The recent presidential primary in Illinois is another case in point. Senator Borah's opponents stirred up sentiment against him among the Negro voters because he had opposed a federal anti-lynching bill on the grounds that it was unconstitutional. Borah lost Chicago, where the Negro vote is more than three times as large as it is in all the rest of Illinois, although he carried most of the districts in the remainder of the state.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
STAR

APR 25 1936

The Negro Voters.

The Democratic party has become the party of the Negro, Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, the first Negro Democratic member of the House, declared in his first address to that body, recently delivered. The colored voters, he said, have turned their backs upon the Republican party, which, he said, had made the Negroes many promises but has done nothing for them. The great mass of the colored voters will, Mr. Mitchell predicted, flock to the standard of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in November.

Mr. Mitchell may be correct in his estimate of what the men and women of his race will do next November, although his statement was partisan. The Roosevelt administration has put millions of them on the relief rolls. It has recognized them in appointments to public office. And there seems reason to believe that the Democratic party confidently expects the colored voters to vote the party ticket in some of the great States of the North and the Middle West. In some of these States the Negro population has grown to an extent that it may well hold the balance of power in an election.

Where is it these colored people will vote next November? It is in States that have normally been Republican ever since the Civil War—in New York, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana, for example. Their votes will be few and far between in the Democratic "solid South." And yet the great bulk of the Negro population of the country is to be found in these Southern States. The Negro still is knocking at the door for the right of franchise there.

According to Mr. Mitchell the Negro has weighed the Republican party in the balance and found it wanting. He turns, therefore, to the party of Franklin D. Roosevelt and away from the party of Lincoln. Further, Mr. Mitchell said, "there is absolutely no truth in the statement that Abraham Lincoln was elected to free the Negro slaves" and that the colored people have now found that out. He quoted from the platform on which Lincoln was elected and from Lincoln's own inaugural address to prove his point. However, it probably will be admitted by Mr. Mitchell that Abraham Lincoln did free the slaves, and that Lincoln declared before he was elected President that the Nation could not continue to exist "half free and half slave."

The speech by Mr. Mitchell, in which he predicted a mass movement by the colored voters from the Republican to the Democratic party, was accorded an ovation by the Democratic members of the House. They rose and cheered him, Northern and Southern Democrat alike. It was an amazing spectacle, in a way. It may be the forerunner of political changes of considerable importance.

The colored voter, as the white voter, should be concerned primarily with good government, with efficient government and with justice toward all. If, however, the voters generally are to be bribed by Government checks and Government relief, the outlook for the country is not bright.

Colored Citizens Of North Carolina Mostly Democrats

Durham, N. C., April 30 (ANP) —Since the Democratic party controls affairs of the state, most of the qualified Negro voters in North Carolina are Democrats and there is little possibility of any colored delegates to the Republican National convention, the Associated Negro press learned this week.

Leaders of the state, now in the midst of a registration drive, believe that Negro participation in Democratic politics will insure more official consideration and better race relations. Many have qualified as voters and the registration is slowly increasing.

Qualifications for becoming a registered voter in North Carolina include the age of 21 years or over, residence in the state for one year and the precinct four months and reading and writing the Constitution of the United States with oral interpretation unnecessary.

Kansas Democrats Name Two Negro Alternates

BOSTON LAWYER ELECTED TO DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

First Negro Elected to Wyoming Democratic Meet

WICHITA.—Dr. J. R. Ransom of Topeka and Dorsey Green, Kansas City, Kas., attorney, were elected at-large from Kansas to the national Democratic convention in Philadelphia in June, on a "Pledge to Roosevelt" slate.

BOSTON, Mass. (ANP)—Julian D. Rainey, attorney here, was elected to the first Negro ever to be elected to the state Democratic convention in Philadelphia.

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo.—The Hooks presidency of the Negro Progressive Association of Wyoming, is elected to be the first Negro ever to be elected to the state Democratic convention in Philadelphia.

Rev. H. Hooks also is a delegate-at-large to

Political-1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Tampa, Fla. Tribune
April 17, 1936

By What Right?

By what right or authority does the State Democratic Committee establish a rule that only white persons are permitted to register as Democrats?

It is our impression that the state primary law permits a qualified voter to declare his party affiliation at the time of registration, and that the voter's statement is accepted as true in that particular. A Tampa negro leader, who has voted the Democratic ticket for years, advises us that there are more than 1000 negro voters in this county, who have voted the Democratic ticket in the past and will vote it again this year. We do not believe the State Committee, or any other body less than the Supreme Court, has the authority to decree that a negro, otherwise qualified to vote, is to be disfranchised unless he registers as a Republican, a Socialist, an independent, a Communist, or whatnot. Equivalent to saying that he forfeits his vote if he chooses to be a Democrat.

This dictatorial ruling of the State Committee should be set aside by the courts. It should be ignored by Supervisors of Registration.

JOPLIN, MO.
GLOBE

APR 22 1936

Negro Democrats to Meet.

A meeting of the Jasper County Negro Democratic Club will be held at the Unity Baptist church, East Seventh street, at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. Plans for taking care of Negro delegates to the democratic district and state conventions here May 5 will be discussed. R. Stenett is chairman of the group while E. B. Huffon is secretary.

HASTINGS, NEB.
TRIBUNE

APR 28 1936

A Political Blunaer

CERTAIN democratic leaders in Washington are reported to be secretly gratified at rumors that the New Deal is being accused in the South of friendliness toward Negroes. These leaders believe that the accusation will cost the president votes only in the South, which is sure to go democratic in any event. And if northern Negroes become convinced that Roosevelt is sympathetic to the problems of their race, many of them may be tempted to abandon their traditional republicanism in national elections, and vote the democratic ticket in November.

Despite the fact that comparatively few Negroes exercise the franchise in southern states, the Negro vote in the country as a whole is not a factor to be ignored. Maryland, with a 16.9 per cent Negro population, usually goes democratic in state and local elections, but nationally it went for Harding in 1930, for Coolidge in 1924, and for Hoover in 1928. Delaware, another state south of the Mason and Dixon Line which permits Negroes to vote, likewise is usually considered safely republican in national elections.

The 1930 census showed that Manhattan borough of New York had 12 per cent Negroes in its population, whereas the percentage in the other four boroughs which compose New York City ranged only between 1 and 2¾ per cent. In 1932 Hoover did better in Manhattan than in New York City as a whole. In the assembly district of the Harlem section which is largely Negro, Hoover received almost two-thirds as many votes as Roosevelt, whereas in the city as a whole he received only about 40 per cent as many.

The recent presidential primary in Illinois is another case in point. Senator Borah's opponents stirred up sentiment against him among the Negro voters because he had opposed a federal anti-lynching bill on the grounds that it was unconstitutional. Borah lost Chicago, where the Negro vote is more than three times as large as it is in all the rest of Illinois, although he carried most of the districts in the remainder of the state.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
STAR

APR 25 1936

The Negro Voters.

The Democratic party has become the party of the Negro, Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, the first Negro Democratic member of the House, declared in his first address to that body, recently delivered. The colored voters, he said, have turned their backs upon the Republican party, which, he said, had made the Negroes many promises but has done nothing for them. The great mass of the colored voters will, Mr. Mitchell predicted, flock to the standard of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in November.

Mr. Mitchell may be correct in his estimate of what the men and women of his race will do next November, although his statement was partisan. The Roosevelt administration has put millions of them on the relief rolls. It has recognized them in appointments to public office. And there seems reason to believe that the Democratic party confidently expects the colored voters to vote the party ticket in some of the great States of the North and the Middle West. In some of these States the Negro population has grown to an extent that it may well hold the balance of power in an election.

Where is it these colored people will vote next November? It is in States that have normally been Republican ever since the Civil War—in New York, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana, for example. Their votes will be few and far between in the Democratic "solid South." And yet the great bulk of the Negro population of the country is to be found in these Southern States. The Negro still is knocking at the door for the right of franchise there.

According to Mr. Mitchell the Negro has weighed the Republican party in the balance and found it wanting. He turns, therefore, to the party of Franklin D. Roosevelt and away from the party of Abraham Lincoln. Further, Mr. Mitchell said, "there is absolutely no truth in the statement that Abraham Lincoln was elected to free the Negro slaves" and that the colored people have now found that out. He quoted from the platform on which Lincoln was elected and from Lincoln's own inaugural address to prove his point. However, it probably will be admitted by Mr. Mitchell that Abraham Lincoln did free the slaves, and that Lincoln declared before he was elected President that the Nation could not continue to exist "half free and half slave."

The speech by Mr. Mitchell, in which he predicted a mass movement by the colored voters from the Republican to the Democratic party, was accorded an ovation by the Democratic members of the House. They rose and cheered him, Northern and Southern Democrat alike. It was an amazing spectacle, in a way. It may be the forerunner of political changes of considerable importance.

The colored voter, as the white voter, should be concerned primarily with good government, with efficient government and with justice toward all. If, however, the voters generally are to be bribed by Government checks and Government relief, the outlook for the country is not bright.

Colored Citizens Of North Carolina Mostly Democrats

Durham, N. C., April 30 (ANP)—Since the Democratic party controls affairs of the state, most of the qualified Negro voters in North Carolina are Democrats and there is little possibility of any colored delegates to the Republican National convention, the Associated Negro press learned this week.

Leaders of the state, now in the midst of a registration drive, believe that Negro participation in Democratic politics will insure more official consideration and better race relations. Many have qualified as voters and the registration is slowly increasing.

Qualifications for becoming a registered voter in North Carolina include the age of 21 years or over, residence in the state for one year and the precinct four months and reading and writing the Constitution of the United States with oral interpretation unnecessary.

Kansas Democrats Name Two Negro Alternates

BOSTON, Mass. (ANP)—Julian D. Rainey, attorney here, was elected to the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia. Dr. J. R. Ransom of Topeka and Dorsey Green, Kansas City, Kas., attorney, were elected alternates to the recent primary convention in Philadelphia. Rainey, the first Negro elected to the Democratic convention from Kansas, was among the few successful candidates in the recent primary election which was featured by the arrest and conviction of two Negroes for the first time in many years. Rainey, is also a delegate-at-large to the national Democratic convention.

Wyoming Democrats Elected to First Negro Elector

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo.—The Rev. H. Hooks, president of the Sweetwater county, is the first Negro ever elected to the state Democratic convention of Wyoming. The Rev. Mr. Hooks also is a candidate for delegate-at-large to the national Democratic convention in Philadelphia.

Sylvester, Ga., Local
April 30, 1936

NEGRO DEMOCRAT GIVEN OVATION BY BRETHREN

House Democrats on Wednesday of last week gave a standing ovation to Representative Mitchell, a Democrat of Illinois, the only negro member of the House, at the conclusion of a speech warning the Republican party that it "no longer" had the negro vote in its "vest pocket."

"Only during the last four or five years have negroes felt the Democratic party was a safe place to live and vote," Mitchell said.

Prominent Democrat Invites Negro Voters To "Come On In"

WASHINGTON, D. C. May 14

A division of the colored vote between the two major parties is "a wholesome thing for the members of the colored race and a wholesome thing for the United States of America,' says Hon. W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the Democratic National Committee. Mr. Morgan made the declaration in a speech to the Colored National Democratic League recently, which he addressed on the topic, 'Colored Citizens and the New Deal."

Declaring he would not scoff at the traditions 'which have bound so many of your race to membership in the Republican Party in the past," Mr. Morgan continued: "But I do say that any debt of loyalty you may have owed has been amply repaid, and that from now on it is your duty to yourselves and your duty to the country to examine with critical eye the claims of any and all political parties before announcing your allegiance. The presence of such a fine representative gathering here tonight is a visible evidence that you intend to pursue such a policy.

"As a Democrat I have no hesitancy in urging those of you to consider fully the claims for your suffrage put forth by major parties. It is my honest belief that your admiration for our great President Franklin D. Roosevelt will increase beyond measure if you study all the vital things that he has done in the short space of three years to better the lot of the common men and women in this country. I ask you to look at the record and to contrast it with the measure of empty promises now being broadcast by his political opponents.

"I suppose some of you are a bit skeptical; no doubt if you are accustomed to the ways of politics, you have in mind past experiences when men came before you in election years to pay lip service to the glories of the colored race and to mumble glib promises of what will be done for you at some future unnamed time. We are all more or less acquainted with tactics of that sort and if you are a bit doubtful of promise-makers I can hardly blame you.

"There is only one acid test to apply to the words of any man who comes amongst you to discuss political happenings and political conditions in this country. There is no one who can get away from the implications of this simple question: 'What is the record?' What has your party done to fulfill its promises to the Negro race in the past?'

I'm going to answer the question at the outset of my remarks and I am going to call as my first witness, the Honorable Arthur W. Mitchell, a member of the House of Representatives from the State of Illinois, a colored man and a Democrat who, in his public service, has compiled an unblemished record that reflects credit upon his race, his party and his country. Said Mr. Mitchell in a recent speech:

"'Mr. Roosevelt has appointed more Negroes to responsible governmental positions than the last three Republican administrations taken together.' In support of that statement, Congressman Mitchel went on, in the speech to which I have reference, and he named the men and women of your race who have been appointed to public office by the present occupant of the White House. He headed the list' with Dr. William J. Thompkins, the present Recorder of Deeds here in Washington, about, whose fitness for that position, or any position of trust requiring ability and character, you are familiar through long personal acquaintance.

"As Congressman Mitchell pointed out, President Roosevelt did not tell you one thing before election and pursue a different course after he had succeeded in winning your suffrage. He has proceeded without deviation to see that the colored man, as far as it lies in his power, is conceded his economic rights and is given equal opportunity with all others in the great work of rehabilitation....

"I wish to point out a significant fact. It is my wish to call to your attention the manner in which the cause of the colored man has been advanced in the past few years by the dignity, the kindness and the rare tact exhibited by Congressman Mitchell, by Dr. Thompkins and by other colored men and women in the performance of their official duties. They have brought credit upon themselves and credit upon their people. This record of substantial accomplishment will do more than all the words ever spoken to justify the continuance and expansion of the policy, now employed by the Roosevelt administration, of recognizing colored men and women of ability in making appointments to office....

"I am going to quote you now a resolution adopted on February 21 last by the Bishops' Council of the African Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States, Africa and the West Indies. This resolution, as reported in the Kansas City Times, said:

"'We seek to cultivate interracial good-will and to resist all incitations to race hatred, prejudice and unrest. Without regard to political affiliation or party alignments we have noted the tendencies of the present administration at Washington to recognize merit without regard to race, color or condition.

"We hail with unfeigned pleasure the recognition extended to so many of our people by President Roosevelt and petition him to carry on his work so well begun, to keep open the door of hope, to insure social justice to every citizen, to give to one and to all equality of opportunity, full and complete enjoyment of all Constitutional guarantees—equal and exact justice before the law."

Pledged to F.D.

JULIAN D. RAKE

Boston attorney elected at the recent primary as an alternate delegate at-large to the National Democratic Convention on "Pledge to Roosevelt" slate.

2 N. C. DEMOCRATS GO TO CONVENTION

RALEIGH, N.C.—Dr. L. T. Delaney and Fred J. Carnage were elected delegates to the Democratic State Convention, last week.

In another precinct a group headed by the Rev. G. A. Fisher, attempted to nominate candidates to the convention but did not get to the auditorium where the election was held in time.

It is expected that H. C. High, who filed his candidacy for justice of the peace on the Democratic ticket, will be elected.

Anniston, Ala. Star
May 14, 1936

Borah Likes Walking, Too

It looks like the motorists of this nation are going to be hard put in June to keep from running over pedestrians if all those threatening "to take a walk" carry out their avowed intentions.

Disgruntled Senator Borah seems on the verge of leading a goodly section of his Republican followers on a little hiking trip around the Elephant convention after the displeasing results of the Ohio primaries were reported.

One cannot help but wonder at two possibilities in this connection. One is the possibility of stirring up serious trouble in the plainly evident attempt to corral the Negro vote through a prejudicial appeal for support of the anti-lynching bill. It now becomes quite apparent that the Old Line Republicans are attempting to make a national issue between the two political parties out of this measure.

The second conjecture is just what Senator Borah will say to Al Smith if they happen to meet in the middle of the road on their "little walk."

Local Colored Democrats Vote

Wednesday afternoon, colored citizens of the District of Columbia will cast their ballots for national committeeman and alternate to the coming National Democratic Convention at Philadelpha, next June.

U Street, Washington's "Lenox Avenue," will witness another unusual sight. Headed by Dr. F. D. Williston who has been allied with the national Democratic party for 30 years, through a period when it was a disgrace to be a member of the party, young men and women who have shifted their allegiance based upon that of their grandfathers, and others who will cast their first ballot for a continuance of the Roosevelt regime, will march up independently and sincerely and place in the ballot boxes their expression of a citizen's sovereign will as to how he would be governed.

It is history making. It will be as was said of the acclaim given by the united Democratic House of Representatives to Representative Arthur Mitchell's address, April 22, "an amazing spectacle."

This primary is under the direction of the National Colored Democratic League, an official organization.

Political-1936

Democratic.

Party Affiliation.

OMAHA, NEB.
WORLD HERALD

Meeting of

JAN 5 1936

Negro Democrats Meet.

The Nebraska Negro Democratic club will meet Wednesday night at 2401 Burdette street to elect officers. All members are asked by the secretary, Lydia Rogers, to attend.

Washington, D. C. Post
January 12, 1936

Colored Democrat Rally To Hear Legislators

Representative Thomas Ford, of California, and Representative Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia, will be among speakers to address a rally of the Allied Colored Democratic Clubs, Inc., Wednesday night at 1211 U street northwest.

Others to speak include Miss Theodora V. Jones, California; Dr. William J. Thompkins, Kansas City, Mo., and Lieut. William Oxley, of the United States Labor Department.

Name Race Alderman Officer Of Council

GARY, Ind. Jan. 14 (ANP)—Robert Anderson, 29, youngest alderman here and only Negro member of the city council of nine, was elected vice-president of the city council at the first regular meeting of the year last Monday night. Anderson, a Democrat, is said to be the only Negro in America to ever hold such a position.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
REPUBLICAN

JAN 4 1936

Weakness or Strength?

Senator Borah has made himself enough of an active candidate to invite direct and active attack. In spite of claims that he would run well in that state, vigorous opposition to him is now being fostered among Ohio's numerous Negro population. A Negro leader of some evident standing, who has been a state civil service commissioner, has issued a warning that Borah's nomination "would mean the certain loss of the pivotal northern states by the Republicans." To this he has added: "Nominate Borah and watch the stampede of colored voters to the Democratic or independent ranks." The direct cause of this bitter opposition to Borah is his own frankly declared opposition, on constitutional grounds, to the Costigan-Wagner antilynching bill.

Without entering any argument as to Borah's fitness, or lack of it, for the presidency, the Ohio situation suggests the question whether, in their search for a candidate, the Republicans will in the end turn to one who, being without weaknesses or inviting points of attack, is also colorless and without strength. It was the charge of the late James Bryce in his "American Commonwealth" that that is the kind of candidate whom our American political system tends to produce. But, unless the situation changes between now and next November, and unless the opposition to Franklin Roosevelt assumes the proportions of the opposition to Woodrow Wilson in 1920, when, although not the nominee, his was the real defeat, it will not be that kind of a candidate who can prevent Mr Roosevelt's reelection.

HARTFORD, CONN.
COURANT

JAN 19 1936

Dinner of Young Negro Democrats January 24

The Young Negro Democratic Club will hold a good-will dinner January 24 at the Bethel AME Church, 22 Winthrop Street. John M. Bailey, former Police Court judge, will be the speaker.

Representing the club at the speakers' table will be Walter Johnson, editor of the Hartford Advocate, a newly organized Negro weekly. Other speakers will be Alderman Nathan Promisle and Rev. W. K. Hopes, pastor of the Bethel church.

Henry T. Mitchell will act as toastmaster, and Boce Barlow, chairman, is making the arrangements.

The Young Negro Democratic Club was formed in 1933 with a total of six members, a number which has since grown to 350.

Others on the committee in in charge of arangements include Horace R. Lee, president of the organization; Gordon Jackson, Henry T. Mitchell and Ralph Martin. Ticket sale indicates an attendance of 250 persons.

YONKERS, N. Y.
HERALD STATESMAN

JAN 15 1936

Prominent Democrats To Address Negroes

Democratic leaders of Westchester County will be guests of the United Colored Democracy at a conference in the New Rochelle Elks' Club on Friday night, Florenz Hough, president of the united group, announced today.

State Senator James A. Garrity and County Chairman William Cronin of Yonkers and Assemblyman Hugh Lavery of Ossining will be among the speakers.

Mr. Hough said that the meeting has been called to create interest among Negroes in political activities and civic affairs.

PATERSON, N. J.
NEWS

JAN 18 1936

Negro Democrats to Entertain State Unit

The Alpha Negro Democratic League of Passaic County will hold final elections of the complete slate of candidates at the next regular meeting at 173 Twelfth avenue. Announcement was made by the committee on balloting at the regular meeting held last night.

Plans were made to entertain the state organization at 145 Broadway, Sons of Veterans hall, tomorrow. The state group is headed by Assistant Attorney General Robert S. Hartgrove, of Jersey City.

The state unit will give a testimonial dinner to the New Jersey leader of Colored Democrats, Mr. Hartgrove. The dinner is to be held at Jersey City, February 21.

Rhone Heads County League Of Young Democrats

Jess Larson, secretary of the School Land Commission and president of the League of Young Democrats, was present Thursday evening, Jan. 16, Slaughter's Hall, and delivered a gripping speech to a group of young men, who later organized a League of Young Negro Democrats. Letcher A. Hill, county supervisor of Separate Schools, presided at the meeting.

Cheer after cheer rent the big hall as the more than 100 present gave approval to the fine sympathetic, understanding talk made by Mr. Larson, who in addition to his public duties in the political realm, is a member of the N. A. A. C. P.

The School Land secretary talked about cooperation among Negroes and the power and effectiveness of the Negro vote if it would organize itself and vote together.

The following officers were elected for the County League of Young Negro Democrats: president, P. H. L. Rhone, Oklahoma City; vice president, Mrs. Lydia Dunn Jackson, Oklahoma City; secretary, E. F. Jones, Arcadia; treasurer, Eddie Williams, Oklahoma City; assistant secretary, Eugene Richardson. Other important committees were appointed and the organization will soon be in full operation.

Muskogee Picks William Hazel For Democratic Chief

2-8-36

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Feb. 6 Indications here point to a swing towards William Hazel of Boley, as choice of Muskogee county Negro Democratic Central Committee. This sentiment developed Tuesday night when new officers were elected in the county.

Col. H. C. McCormick, superintendent of the Insane Asylum, was outstanding for the influence he wielded in the meeting, and by his skillful maneuvers was able to whip into shape a county organization composed of many hitherto warring factions. Many are beginning to characterize the Major as the "Ambassador of Goodwill."

Many who attended the meeting were in favor of asking Chairman O. B. Jefferson, Oklahoma City, to call the next meeting of the Negro Democratic Central Committee in Okmulgee, as it is nearer the center of the Negro population of the state.

Every precinct in the county was present in spite of the inclement weather. The following officers were elected:

Chairman, Pliney Twine; vice, Mrs. L. E. Escoffery or Mrs. Webster. Secretary, Adolph Williams, Mrs. R. B. Bowers or a Taft selection. Treasurer, Dave Dinwiddie. Credential Committee: S. E. Edwards, J. Bernard Smith, C. E. Corbett, Foster Williams, C. G. Lowe, Mrs. Martha Jones and Mrs. Emma Coggs.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y
STANDARD STAR

FEB 4 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATS INSTALL NEW STAFF, ACCEPT 15 MEMBERS

James S. Harris, merchant, was installed as president of the Colored Peoples' Democratic League last night, at the monthly meeting at the home of Miss Alice Harrell 21 Clinton Avenue.

He succeeded Thomas H. Watkins, County Committeeman, and president of the league for the past two years, who declined renomination.

David M. Ellis was inducted as vice-president to succeed Mrs. Helen Dunnham, Mrs. Virginia Harris as secretary to succeed Christopher Grant, and Mrs. Grace Stockton as treasurer to succeed Thomas Blue.

Seventeen new members were accepted. Members of the league's Executive Board were also inducted.

NEWARK, N. J. NEWS

JAN 25 1936

Essex Negro Democrats Consolidate Several Units

The Essex County Negro Democratic Association was formed last night at a meeting of fifty ward and district Democratic leaders at 11 Boston street. Roger W. Tucker was named temporary chairman.

The organization aims to combine Negro Democratic groups in the county. Those consolidated at the meeting last night were the Afro-American Democratic Organization of Essex County, S. S. Stewart Association, Suburban Democratic Association and the Essex County Democratic Association of Clubs.

The object is to support Negro candidates and legislation advancing the status of Negro citizens. A mass meeting will be called soon to elect permanent officers.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. STANDARD STAR

JAN 18 1936

COUNTY NEGROES BACK ROOSEVELT

United Colored Democracy in Session Pledges Support

President Franklin D. Roosevelt today had been pledged the full support of the United Colored Democracy of Westchester County in his campaign for reelection.

At a meeting of the Democracy last night at Elks' Home, 137 Winyah Avenue, President Roosevelt was praised for his active administration and plans for an active campaign in his favor were formulated. All County units were present.

It was also indicated the Democracy would sponsor the circulation of political and civic instruction among Negro voters of the County.

The by-laws of the organization were read and following a period of discussion, amendments were adopted.

A dinner will be held Feb. 21 in Yonkers to which all Negroes enrolled in the Democratic party have been invited. Further plans for the affair will be announced in the near future.

Florence Hough presided at the meeting, and Dr. Leon W. Scott represented the New Rochelle delegation.

Units from Mount Vernon, Ossining, White Plains, Mount Kisco and Yonkers were in attendance.

HARTFORD, CONN. COURANT

JAN 26 1936

Negro Democrats Invited To Get Ready For '36

An appeal for early preparation for the coming national election was voiced to about 75 members of the Colored Democratic Club of Hartford Friday evening by former Police Court Judge John M. Bailey.

The club met in the Bethel AME Church on Winthrop Street for a good will dinner. Other speakers were Charles Fentner, captain of the thirty-second precinct; Joseph Conlin, deputy sheriff of Hartford County; Walter Johnson, editor of the Hartford Advocate, a Negro weekly; and Rev. W. K. Hopes, pastor of the church.

Judge Bailey thanked the club for their work in the past city election and said: "We've got another election ahead, the election of President Roosevelt and we've got to get started immediately."

The speaker said that the coming election entailed not only the election of the national but also the state slate.

Rev. Mr. Hopes pointed out that Negroes were not looking for charity but opportunity. He pleaded for the abolition of race discrimination.

Mr. Conlin traced the history of the club, from its founding in [illegible] with a membership of less than 10 to its present enrollment of more than 400.

Henry T. Mitchell was toastmaster and Boce Barlow was chairman of the committee which arranged the affair. Others on the committee were: Horace R. Lee, president of the club, Gordon Jackson, Henry T. Mitchell and Ralph Martin.

An entertainment program followed the address.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. STANDARD STAR

FEB 3 1936

COLORED DEMOCRATS TO INSTALL TONIGHT

James S. Harris Will Replace Watkins as Head

Installation of the new staff of officers of the Colored Peoples Democratic League will take place tonight at the monthly meeting at the home of Miss Alice Harrell, 21 Clinton Avenue.

Thomas H. Watkins, County Committeeman and president of the league for the past two years, will preside. He declined renomination.

James S. Harris will formally accept the office of president. David M. Ellis, Mrs. Virginia Harris, and Mrs. Grace Stockton will assume the positions of vice president, secretary and treasurer respectively.

The retiring staff consists of Mr. Watkins, Mrs. Helen Dunn Hamn, vice president; Christopher Grant, secretary; and Thomas Blue, treasurer.

Seventeen new members will be admitted tonight. Members of the league's Executive Board will also take office.

HARRISBURG, PA. PATRIOT

FEB 7 1936

YOUNG NEGRO DEMOCRAT CLUB ORGANIZED HERE

The Young Negro Democratic Club of Greater Harrisburg met recently and organized. The following are the officers: President, John B. Snow; first vice-president, Miss Lillian Potter; second vice-president, Roy Keys; third vice-president, Mrs. Hannah Warrick; secretary, James A. Greene; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ruby Moore; financial secretary, Lorenzo Rowland; recording secretary, Mrs. Rella Morris; chaplain, Grover Johnson; treasurer, Ivan Williams; membership committee chairman, James A. Greene, and activities committee chairman, William Williams.

Leadership

DESPITE REAMS of warnings that a white Democratic leader would continue to rule the Nineteenth assembly district unless Negroes were fully aware of their strength and were led by a courageous and sincere candidate, the leadership has gone to Harry C. Perry, white.

Mr. Perry was chosen leader Monday night by less than a majority of the county committee of the district. Supporters of Fred D. Dickens, numbering 197, refused to vote when their man was denied a nomination.

In denying Mr. Dickens the right to be voted upon, Tammany took advantage of what well-informed lawyers term her legal right to make rules for conduct of the organization. The election meeting was held to be a continuation of a previous one in which neither of the primary candidates, Mr. Perry, Martin J. Healy and Civil Service Commissioner Ferdinand Q. Morton, could muster a majority.

Mr. Morton withdrew last fall, and he says he quit because he doubted he could win, was satisfied that he had fought honestly for the principle of Negro leadership, where Negroes predominate, and because Mayor LaGuardia asked him to soft pedal on politics. Mr. Morton is not a LaGuardia appointee, and it doubtful that the Mayor could force him to resign if the Commissioner defied him.

Thus we find Harlem still clamoring for the leadership for a Negro, with expert legal and political opinion maintaining that the desire is not likely to be fulfilled until 1937.

We are inclined to believe that Mr. Morton did his people a great disservice by dropping out. We believe that he could have won had he persisted and convinced the majority of the Negro committeemen (they are 90 per cent of the total in the district) that he was sincere and consecrated to achieving a victory.

His lack of firmness of purpose is largely responsible for the failure of Negro Democrats in the district to be led by one of their own race.

DEMOCRATS TO HAVE NEGRO AS DELEGATE

Austin Believed First for National Convention

For the first time in the history of the state, and perhaps of the nation, a Negro will sit as delegate in a Democratic national convention. William H. (Harry) Austin, prominent Harlem attorney, will be one of the representatives of the Twenty-first Congressional district.

Mr. Austin was elected Tuesday night at a conference of leaders of the Twenty-first, Thirteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-second, and Twenty-third Assembly districts, which make up the Congressional district. His naming was the result of long agitation, and particularly in recent months, by Herbert Bruce, Democratic chief of the Twenty-first.

Former Mayor John P. O'Brien will be the other delegate. The alternates are John Mullen, white, of the Tammany law committee, for Mr. O'Brien, and Percy Foster of Leader Harry C. Perry's Nineteenth district organization for Mr. Austin.

Mr. Austin is prominent in legal circles and has an extensive civil practice with his brother, E. O. Austin. He made one unsuccessful race for an aldermanic post.

The delegate chosen by the Twenty-first district for the Democratic state convention is Thomas B. Dyett, assistant district attorney, who was re-elected. Marie Brown, recording secretary of the county committee of the Twenty-first district Democratic organization of Herbert Bruce, is the alternate. She was co-leader in the old Beavers Democratic organization.

H. U. Mease Iowa Alternate To Democratic Convention

DES MOINES.—Henry U. Mease, 1017 Thirteenth street, state chairman of the Iowa Negro Democratic league, was chosen first alternate delegate representing the Sixth Iowa district to the Democratic convention in Philadelphia in June.

Mease has lived here for the last 17 years, coming here from Buxton, Iowa.

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic.

GREENVILLE, S. C.
PIEDMONT

JUN 10 1936

Negro Voters Must Be 81, Endorsed By 10 Whites

Democratic Party Rules Require Proof Of Support For Wade Hampton Back In 1876 Election

If a negro votes in the Democratic primary this summer and does it according to the rules he must be 81 years old, a life-long Democrat, and "endorsed" by 10 white men, all approximately as old as himself!

Take it from the county's party rules—

"Negroes applying for the right to vote in the Democratic primaries must produce a written statement of 10 reputable white men, who shall swear that they know to their own knowledge that the applicant or voter voted for General Wade Hampton in 1876, and has voted the Democratic ticket continuously ever since."

If the 1876 election were a voter's first, he was then at least 21 years old and has now reached the ripe old age of 81. Likewise, the 10 white men who could know of their own knowledge that he voted for Hampton in 1876 would also be close to the octogenarian class.

For white voters the rules aren't quite so strict, and the only requirement for voting in the primary is that the name of the voter must be placed on the club roll in his precinct by July 30, according to J. M. Wells, county secretary.

Club books are now open in nearly all precincts and will remain open through July 30, Mr. Wells said, pointing out that in order to enroll a person must have been a resident of the state for two years, the county for six months, and the voting precinct for 60 days prior to the time of the first primary.

When he enrolls, the voter must write his name, age, occupation and address on the book, or have the person in charge write it for him, and then make his mark. On voting, his name will be checked against that on the club rolls, and he will pledge himself to support the nominees of the party, state and national.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUN 22 1936

Farley Making Bid to Capture Negroes' Votes

Unprecedented Democratic Drive Finds Him Pleading for Their Aid at Polls

'Lily White' Tradition Out

'Debt to Republicans Paid,' Philadelphia Rally Told

By Leland Stowe
A Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—An unprecedented Democratic drive to capture the majority of 4,250,000 Negro votes next November was begun by two of the party's chief strategists here today.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and W. Forbes Morgan, secretary, brushed aside the "lily white" traditions of Southern Democracy and made direct appeals for widespread support from Negro voters in the coming campaign. They appeared as featured speakers at a rally of more than 500 delegates of the National Colored Democratic Association in Pearl Theater this afternoon. The importance attached to this event was expressed by Dr. William J. Tompkins, president of the National Colored Democratic Association, when he declared:

"This is the first time in the history of our nation that a national officer of a major party has addressed a Negro meeting of this kind."

As a further indication of the Democratic party's new policy of increased hospitality toward Negro voters, it was pointed out that from thirty to forty Negro delegates from eight or more states have been officially designated to serve at this convention, whereas Negroes were chosen only as alternates at Chicago in 1932.

Another bit of evidence along these lines was revealed by Edgar Brown temporary chairman of the Pearl Theater rally. Introducing Postmaster General Farley, Mr. Brown praised the Democratic chairman for his recognition of Negro citizens of ability and added:

"I have been informed that more than 1,200 Negroes have been given jobs in the postal service throughout the country in the last thirty days."

Both this statement and the Postmaster General were received with enthusiastic acclaim. Mr. Farley made no references to his party's special services to the Negroes but spoke on the plane of co-operation and triumph in November.

"I know that you and those of your color are wholeheartedly supporting President Roosevelt, not because of your color, but as American citizens," Mr. Farley said. "What the President has done and has tried to do will assure his re-election, in my opinion, by a greater majority than last time. I am deeply grateful for your efforts of the past and shall be for what you will do from now until Election Day to bring about a victory that is surely ours."

The real appeal of the New Deal for Negro support was voiced by Mr. Morgan as spokesman for the Democratic National Committee.

"It is not my purpose," Mr. Morgan said, "to inquire into the reasons or scoff at the traditions which have bound so many of your race to membership in the Republican party in the past. But I do say that any debt of loyalty you may have owed has been amply repaid, and from now on it is your duty to yourselves and to the country to examine with critical eye the claims of any and all political parties before announcing your allegiance."

RECORD
Rahway, N. J.
6/16/36

Democrats Elect Charles Syers

Charles Syers was elected president of the Colored Democratic Club Friday evening during a meeting in Fourth Ward headquarters. Other officers named were Clarence Jackson, vice president; LaVerne Ellis, secretary and Leroy Hippert, treasurer.

Mayor Barger and City Chairman James J. Kinneally were guests.

Forsyth, Ga., Advertiser
June 18, 1936

Carolina Democrats Pick Negro Delegate

Dr. L. T. Delaney, of Raleigh, a Negro, has been accorded the distinction of being the first member of his race to be chosen as a delegate to the North Carolina state democratic convention. He is also a member of his precinct executive committee and was named a delegate to the Wake county convention, where he was chosen with three white men from his district, to attend the state meeting.

In 1900 the democrats of North Carolina disfranchised Negroes by the passage of a constitutional amendment containing the "grandfather clause," which provided that no person could register to vote who could not read and write the Constitution of the United States in English, provided this should not apply to those whose grandparents could vote in any state prior to January 1, 1868.

Carolina Group Walks Out Over Negro Question

Cotton Ed' Smith, Already Irked Over Credentials, Quits As Black Prays

Chip On Shoulder

Breach With Gov. Johnston Blamed; Senator Avers He'll Stick With Party

By PAUL BARKLEY

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.— (AP) — An assertion that he was "through" with the Democratic national convention and "sick of the whole damn thing" was voiced angrily tonight by Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina after he had walked out of the political conclave in protest against the presence of negroes.

While a negro minister—the Rev. Marshall Sheppard, pastor of Philadelphia's Mt. Olivet Baptist Church—was opening the afternoon session with prayer, Senator Smith, followed by a few other South Carolina delegates, left the convention hall.

Officials said that was the first time prayer had been offered at a Democratic convention by a negro. It was followed immediately by the playing of "Dixie."

Explaining that he had departed because of the presence of the negro clergyman and of about 30 negro delegates, Smith asserted he was "going home" and would "do some talking."

Disagreement with Smith's attitude was expressed promptly by Claud Sapp, chairman of the State delegation.

"I don't care who prays for me," he asserted. "I'm willing for anyone to pray for me who wants to."

He attributed Smith's walkout to "a chip on his shoulder."

24 Hours Of Squabbling

This development was a climax to a stormy 24 hours of dissension between the Senator and Gov. Olin D. Johnston, the State's national committeeman, over seating arrangements for Smith.

Through a misunderstanding, there was no ticket or delegate's badge for Smith when he arrived late yesterday from Jacksonville where he had attended the funerla of the late Senator Fletcher of Florida.

The trouble apparently had been straightened out late last night when a badge finally was sent to Smith—too late for use for the keynote address of Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, but the Senator expressed renewed bitterness today.

"I have represented my State in the Senate for 27 years," he said, "and when I come to the convention of my party I find no badge, no reservations, no nothing."

The Senator also expressed resentment over the fact that he was not assigned to any of the convention's committees.

Johnston, who had expressed a desire to let the matter drop, heatedly retorted, "he better be thankful he got here as a delegate."

Questions Parried

The Governor declined to discuss the possibility of a political break with Smith, and parried questions as to whether he would oppose the Senator for renomination in the State's Democratic primaries in 1938.

"That is two years ahead," he explained.

"Before his walk-out from the convention," Smith said "you will always find me under the Democratic banner."

Giving his views about the presence of negroes, Smith said:

"The situation in the South before and since the Civil War makes it impossible for the negro to recognize and accept the place than I have. But realizing the for the South to recognize and accept the place than I have. But realizing the negro as an equal political factor. unspeakable danger inherent in this "Political equality means social equality and will not be a party cial equality means inter-mar- to the recognition of the 14th and 15th ity and social equality means the mongrelizing of amendments. riage and that means the mongrelizing of the right the American race.

"We don't need it," he declare
"Nor will I support any political or through so far as I'm concern anization that looks upon the negro and caters to him as a political and so cial equal."
Smith said the present tendency of the Democratic Party's administration was to seek the negro vote.

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic.

GREENVILLE, S. C.
PIEDMONT

JUN 10 1936

Negro Voters Must Be 81, Endorsed By 10 Whites

Democratic Party Rules Require Proof Of Support For Wade Hampton Back In 1876 Election

If a negro votes in the Democratic primary this summer and does it according to the rules he must be 81 years old, a life-long Democrat, and "endorsed" by 10 white men, all approximately as old as himself!

Take it from the county's party rules—

"Negroes applying for the right to vote in the Democratic primaries must produce a written statement of 10 reputable white men, who shall swear that they know to their own knowledge that the applicant or voter voted for General Wade Hampton in 1876, and has voted the Democratic ticket continuously ever since."

If the 1876 election were a voter's first, he was then at least 21 years old and has now reached the ripe old age of 81. Likewise, the 10 white men who could know of their own knowledge that he voted for Hampton in 1876 would also be close to the octogenarian class.

For white voters the rules aren't quite so strict, and the only requirement for voting in the primary is that the name of the voter must be placed on the club roll in his precinct by July 30, according to J. M. Wells, county secretary.

Club books are now open in nearly all precincts and will remain open through July 30, Mr. Wells said, pointing out that in order to enroll a person must have been a resident of the state for two years, the county for six months, and the voting precinct for 60 days prior to the time of the first primary.

When he enrolls, the voter must write his name, age, occupation and address on the book, or have the person in charge write it for him and then make his mark. On voting, his name will be checked against that on the club rolls, and he will pledge himself to support the nominees of the party, state and national.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUN 22 1936

Farley Making Bid to Capture Negroes' Votes

Unprecedented Democratic Drive Finds Him Pleading for Their Aid at Polls

'Lily White' Tradition Out

'Debt to Republicans Paid,' Philadelphia Rally Told

By Leland Stowe
A Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—An unprecedented Democratic drive to capture the majority of 4,250,000 Negro votes next November was begun by two of the party's chief strategists here today.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and W. Forbes Morgan, secretary, brushed aside the "lily white" traditions of Southern Democracy and made direct appeals for widespread support from Negro voters in the coming campaign. They appeared as featured speakers at a rally of more than 500 delegates of the National Colored Democratic Association in Pearl Theater this afternoon. The importance attached to this event was expressed by Dr. William J. Tompkins, president of the National Colored Democratic Association, when he declared:

"This is the first time in the history of our nation that a national officer of a major party has addressed a Negro meeting of this kind."

As a further indication of the Democratic party's new policy of increased hospitality toward Negro voters, it was pointed out that from thirty to forty Negro delegates from eight or more states have been officially designated to serve at this convention, whereas Negroes were chosen only as alternates at Chicago in 1932.

Another bit of evidence along these lines was revealed by Edgar Brown temporary chairman of the Pearl Theater rally. Introducing Postmaster General Farley, Mr. Brown praised the Democratic chairman for his recognition of Negro citizens of ability and added:

"I have been informed that more than 1,200 Negroes have been given jobs in the postal service throughout the country in the last thirty days."

Both this statement and the Postmaster General were received with enthusiastic acclaim. Mr. Farley made no references to his party's special services to the Negroes but spoke on the plane of co-operation and triumph in November.

"I know that you and those of your color are wholeheartedly supporting President Roosevelt, not because of your color, but as American citizens," Mr. Farley said. "What the President has done and has tried to do will assure his re-election, in my opinion, by a greater majority than last time. I am deeply grateful for your efforts of the past and shall be for what you will do from now until Election Day to bring about a victory that is surely ours."

The real appeal of the New Deal for Negro support was voiced by Mr. Morgan as spokesman for the Democratic National Committee.

"It is not my purpose," Mr. Morgan said, "to inquire into the reasons or scoff at the traditions which have bound so many of your race to membership in the Republican party in the past. But I do say that any debt of loyalty you may have owed has been amply repaid, and from now on it is your duty to yourselves and to the country to examine with critical eye the claims of any and all political parties before announcing your allegiance."

RECORD
Rahway, N. J.
6/16/36

Democrats Elect Charles Syers

Charles Syers was elected president of the Colored Democratic Club Friday evening during a meeting in Fourth Ward headquarters. Other officers named were Clarence Jackson, vice president; LaVerne Ellis, secretary and Leroy Hippert, treasurer.

Mayor Barger and City Chairman James J. Kinneally were guests.

Forsyth, Ga., Advertiser
June 18, 1936

Carolina Democrats Pick Negro Delegate

Dr. L. T. Delaney, of Raleigh, a Negro, has been accorded the distinction of being the first member of his race to be chosen as a delegate to the North Carolina state democratic convention. He is also a member of his precinct executive committee and was named a delegate to the Wake county convention, where he was chosen, with three white men from his district, to attend the state meeting.

In 1900 the democrats of North Carolina disfranchised Negroes by the passage of a constitutional amendment containing the "grandfather clause," which provided that no person could register to vote who could not read and write the Constitution of the United States in English, provided this should not apply to those whose grandparents could vote in any state prior to January 1, 1868.

Carolina Group Walks Out Over Negro Question

Cotton Ed' Smith, Already Irked Over Credentials, Quits As Black Prays

Chip On Shoulder

Breach With Gov. Johnston Blamed; Senator Avers He'll Stick With Party

By PAUL BARKLEY

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.— (AP) — An assertion that he was "through" with the Democratic national convention and "sick of the whole damn thing" was voiced angrily tonight by Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina after he had walked out of the political conclave in protest against the presence of negroes.

While a negro minister—the Rev. Marshall Sheppard, pastor of Philadelphia's Mt. Olivet Baptist Church—was opening the afternoon session with prayer, Senator Smith, followed by a few other South Carolina delegates, left the convention hall.

Officials said that was the first time prayer had been offered at a Democratic convention by a negro. It was followed immediately by the playing of "Dixie."

Explaining that he had departed because of the presence of the negro clergyman and of about 30 negro delegates, Smith asserted he was "going home" and would "do some talking."

Disagreement with Smith's attitude was expressed promptly by Claud Sapp, chairman of the State delegation.

"I don't care who prays for me," he asserted. "I'm willing for anyone to pray for me who wants to."

He attributed Smith's walkout to "a chip on his shoulder."

24 Hours Of Squabbling

This development was a climax to a stormy 24 hours of dissension between the Senator and Gov. Olin D. Johnston, the State's national committeeman, over seating arrangements for Smith.

Through a misunderstanding, there was no ticket or delegate's badge for Smith when he arrived late yesterday from Jacksonville where he had attended the funerla of the late Senator Fletcher of Florida.

The trouble apparently had been straightened out late last night when a badge finally was sent to Smith—too late for use for the keynote address of Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, but the Senator expressed renewed bitterness today.

"I have represented my State in the Senate for 27 years," he said, "and when I come to the convention of my party I find no badge, no reservations, no nothing."

The Senator also expressed resentment over the fact that he was not assigned to any of the convention's committees.

Johnston, who had expressed a desire to let the matter drop, heatedly retorted, "he better be thankful he got here as a delegate."

Questions Parried

The Governor declined to discuss the possibility of a political break with Smith, and parried questions as to whether he would oppose the Senator for renomination in the State's Democratic primaries in 1938.

"That is two years ahead," he explained.

"Before his walk-out from the convention," Smith said "you will always find me under the Democratic banner."

Giving his views about the presence of negroes, Smith said:

"We don't need it," he declar
"There isn't a man in America that discrimination against them.)
"Nor will I support any political or since the Civil War makes it impossible has more regard for the negro in his for the South to recognize and accept the that looks upon the negro negro as an equal political factor.
ers to him as a political and so-
"Political equality means social equal-
cial equal."
ity and social equality means inter-mar-thing, I cannot and will not be a party riage and that means the mongrelizing to the recognition of the 14th and 15th of amendments. Smith said t the American race.
(Giving negroes the right
Democratic Pa
to vote and pledging there will be no seek the negro

RACIAL PLANK IS SOUGHT FOR "NEW DEAL" PLATFORM

Farley and Morgan Address Members of National Colored Democratic Association—Thompkins Re-elected President.

By EDGAR T. ROUZEAU
Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, June 25—The National Colored Democratic Association, assembled here in its twelfth quadrennial session, passed a resolution Monday morning at the home of the O. V. Catto Lodge of Elks to evolve a plank of nation-wide significance to the Negro and to fight for its inclusion in the platform of the national Democratic party, which is convening here this week.

The plank, if passed in its entirety by the resolutions committee of the Democratic party, will carry an appeal for the Scottsboro boys, and put the party on record for protection of Southern sharecroppers from mob violence. The party would also be pledged to passage of an anti-lynching law, abolishment of civil service rules requiring photographs as a means of racial identity, and would obligate all members in Congress to work for legislation enfranchising the citizens of the District of Columbia.

Work On Plank

At a late hour Monday night, after the association had adjourned sine die, a special committee appointed by Dr. William J. Thompkins, recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia and president of the association, was still working on the wording of the plank. It was to be presented to the resolutions committee of the national Democratic party early Tuesday.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, national chairman of the party, and W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the Democratic National Committee, speaking Sunday afternoon at a mass meeting of the association at the Pearl theater, received the pledge of the association to work for the re-election of President Roosevelt. The association agreed to raise $25,000 as a contribution to the Democratic party.

Quotes Mitchell

Mr. Morgan quoted Congressman Arthur W. Mitchel, Democrat of Illinois and the Bishops' Council of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, to the effect that Negroes had received more benefits from the present regime than from any previous Republican administration. He read the following from a recent speech by the Chicago solon:

"Mr. Roosevelt has appointed more Negroes to responsible governmental positions than the last three Republican administrations taken together."

Mr. Morgan added that the President "has tried, without deviation, to see that the colored man, as far as lies in his power, is conceded his economic rights and is given equal opportunity with all others in the great work of rehabilitation."

Mr. Farley paid tribute to Dr. Thompkins for "his many, many years of labor to the party" and referred to him as "my beloved friend."

Dr. Thompkins, who was also paid a tribute by Mr. Morgan, declared that over 25,000 colored storekeepers throughout the country had benefitted under the "great recovery movement."

Nearly Million Operators

He said that there were over "882,000 colored farm operators, who, under the old Farm Loan Board, were unable to obtain the favorable credit facilities of the Republican setup, but who had been put on the road to success by the reorganized and improved credit facilities of the New Deal."

David Grant, city counselor of St. Louis, Mo., delivered an address in support of President Roosevelt. Others who spoke on the program were Emory B. Smith, Washington, D. C.; Bessye J. Bearden, New York City; James H. B. Evans, Washington, and Assemblyman William T. Andrews, New York.

At the opening session Saturday night the following telegram was sent to the President in behalf of the association:

"Here at our opening session today, we take renewed courage from the inspiration of your leadership of the nation during the last three years. The principle of 'Equal rights for all; special privileges for none,' first penned by Thomas Jefferson, was the concluding declaration of the 1932 Democratic platform.

"Upon it you achieved the party's most glorious victory and have carried on as Chief Executive no less triumphantly." The telegram was signed by Dr. Thompkins and David Grant, St. Louis; Thomas H. R. Clark, Washington, D. C.; T. V. Jones, California; Edgar G. Brown, Pennsylvania, and Richard E. Carey and Mrs. Bearden, New York.

Thompkins President

Dr. Thompkins was re-elected president for a second term. Mrs. Bessye J. Bearden, Edward R. Hazell of Pennsylvania, Dr. J. A. Somerville of California, and Thomas J. Davis of Ohio were named to the four vice presidential posts. Other officers were as follows:

Edgar G. Brown, secretary; Thomas H. R. Clark, Washington, D. C., corresponding secretary; Truly Hatchett, Maryland, treasurer; James E. Stephens, New York, general organizer; Miss Theodora E. Jones, California, women's organizer; Miss M. Griffin, Pennsylvania, assistant women's organizer; Harry Leland, Nebraska, sergeant-at-arms, and William H. Kelly, Pennsylvania, assistant.

Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom of Ohio was named historian; the Rt. Rev. E. T. Denby, Arkansas, national chaplain; Miss Lula Parks Hill, Kansas, regional organizer. The president was empowered to appoint committeemen from the various States. The New York State Colored Political League and a city-wide Philadelphia organization were granted charters by the association.

CARL GLASS NAMED MEMBER NOTIFICATION COMMITTEE

PHILADELPHIA, June 25—Carl Glass, a deuty sheriff in St. Louis, Mo., was named on Monday as the Missouri member of the notification committee, which will apprise Vice-President Garner of his renomination. He was selected at a caucus of the Missouri deelgation, with Governor Guy B. Park of Missouri presiding.

Mr. Glass, a native of Kentucky, has been a member of the Democratic Party for the past 25 years. He is president of the Sixth Ward Democratic organization and financial secretary of the Central Democratic organization, both of St. Louis.

WALK-OUT SENATOR RETURNS TO SESSION

Smith Back Avowing Intent To 'Give 'Em Hell'

SHOWS SUPPORTING WIRES

Carolinian Claims Negro's Presence, Two-Third Rule Fight Is Attempt To Crucify Democratic South

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Senator E. D. Smith of South Carolina, describing himself as a "reconstruction Democrat," returned today to the Democratic national convention which he left yesterday in protest against negro participation.

Smith, who walked out when a negro minister offered invocation and announced he was "through," said he was back to fight abrogation of the two-thirds rule and may take the floor to "give 'em hell," he said. "This is nothing but an attempt to crucify the Democratic south."

Telegrams Exhibited

Smith expressed satisfaction over reaction from the south to his "walk out."

"I'm back because the black cloud has been lifted," he said. "But whenever a negro takes a part in the activities of this convention I'll walk out again."

Smith exhibited about a score of telegrams from the south congratulating him over his walkout.

One from Ludowici, Ga., said "congratulations. Keep walking as long as negro prays or stays."

Daniels Is Silent

From W. H. Perrin, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, of Union, S. C., came the following:

"Congratulations on your walk. I admire your spirit."

"We rejoice in your stand for white government and self government in South Carolina," telegraphed J. Ross Hanahan, Charleston business man.

Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico and Raleigh, N. C., newspaper publisher, chatted with Smith on the convention floor today. He declined comment on Smith's "walkout."

Sat With Negro In Carolina Assembly

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 25.—(AP)—South Carolina's state historian cited records today as showing that Senator E. D. Smith, who walked from the national Democratic convention when a negro prayed, once sat in the South Carolina Legislature with a negro member.

A. S. Salley, secretary of the State Historical Commission, said Smith served as a representative in 1898-1900 along with R. B. Anderson, negro Democrat from Georgetown County.

Anderson, he said, "was elected by the white people on a fusion platform, to prevent the negroes from getting all the offices," and had served as a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1895.

"A great many of the most respectable white people of the early 80's sat in the Legislature with a dozen Democratic negroes. Ben Tillman served in the constitutional convention with negroes, both Democratic and Republican," the historian said.

"It was this constitutional convention that excluded the negro from voting. As Joseph W. Barnwell of Charleston, the eminent lawyer who served in the radical Legislature, put it, 'We don't want the negro an arbiter in white men's squabbles.'"

Under present party rules, negroes may vote in the Democratic primary only if they voted for Gen. Wade Hampton for governor in 1876, when radical rule was upset.

Path of the Negro People

TWO appeals were made over the week-end to the Negro voters of the nation. Two widely differing paths were indicated to the Negro people.

W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the Democratic National Committee, urged Negro voters not to walk with Al Smith into the camp of the Liberty League, but to stick to Roosevelt and the Democratic Party.

At the same time the Negro people of Harlem were taking a walk on their own from both old political parties and joining with Latin-American and American-born workers and middle-class people in forming a progressive and independent All People's Party.

The Negro people should not permit their hatred of the Liberty League and the Hearst-controlled Republican candidates to be utilized into support of the Democratic Party. They should not forget that the Democratic Party in the South fosters Jim-Crowism. The People's Party of Harlem, which demands the death penalty for lynchers and has endorsed the American Youth Act and the Frazier-Lundeen Social Insurance Bill, has pointed a path for the Negro people everywhere, the path of joining with those forces which are working for the formation of a Farmer-Labor Party.

Political—1936
Party Affiliation

Democratic.

Young Ohio Demos Laud Gov. Davey

By LEON LEWIS

CLEVELAND, O., July 30. (ANP)—Reflecting the enthusiasm of the older Ohio colored Democrats and mapping out a preliminary program for the coming November election, the Ohio League of Young Democrats this week "pointed with pride" to the recognition given the electorate of the state by Governor Davey's appointment of numerous Negroes to positions of responsibility and trust.

From the office of Thomas J. Davis, state organizer of the League, it was learned that some of the Governor's appointments have been as follows: Three state liquor inspectors, two office clerks, (Dept. of Liquor Control) two liquor store cashiers, one liquor store manager, eight liquor store clerks, one claims manager (Highway Dept.) one inspector, Cosmotology Board; one resident surgeon, State Penitentiary, three investigators, State Highway Patrol; lady secretary, Industrial Commission, ten investigators and examiners, Old Age Pension Department, a liquor agency contract to Waldo Tyler of Columbus, valued at $10,000, and many other positions as matrons, custodians and porters in the Highway Department.

Appearing here recently before the Literary Forum, Governor Davey, commenting on his appointment declared: "I do not appoint Negroes to positions as a special favor to the race but because they are qualified citizens of this state whose ability warrants recognition and appointment to the position. I am very proud of the type of service they are rendering the state." In the same meeting, when asked if he had planned to appoint a Negro on the State Parole Board, he answered "Yes."

Dr. W. J. Thompkins and Vann Given State Posts by Farley to Prevent Split in Party

Recorder of Deeds to Have Charge of Missouri, Vann to Head Up Pennsylvania

OTHER STATE HEADS TO BE NAMED LATER

Move of National Chairman Dissolves "Big 2" of Negro Leaders

National Chairman James A. Farley, announced today at Democratic Headquarters the set up of the colored division of the National Campaign Committee, with the country divided as follows: Eastern Division, under the management of Julian D. Rainey, former assistant corporation counsel of Boston, and the Western Division with headquarters in Chicago under the supervision of Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, Representative of the First District of Illinois.

New York City is not included in the foregoing set up but will be managed by members of the local organizations.

To Name State Leaders

The names of state directors will be announced by the chairman of the Democratic State Committees.

Mr Rainey said that he will be pleased to receive all persons interested in the reelection of President Roosevelt, at headquarters to be established in New York after August 15.

Congressman Mitchell is already engaged in conducting his own campaign for reelection from his law offices located at 417 East 47th Street in Chicago, and can be reached at that address until the opening of the regular offices in Chicago late in August.

According to information from reliable sources received by The Tribune, Dr. William J. Thompkins, recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia and rated No. 1 in the party councils, will only have charge of the State of Missouri, it is said.

Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh publisher who was rated No. 2 and was slated to head the campaign among Negroes, will have charge of the State of Pennsylvania. Vann is to work under Rainey and Thompkins under Mitchell.

Changed His Mind

Mitchell stated some time ago that he would not take part in the campaign as he would devote all his time to his own campaign for reelection in Chicago. However, he was persuaded to change his decision at the instance of Farley.

Thompkins and Van were called the "Big 2" of the party and both were fighting for the honor of heading up the campaign among Negroes. Many Democrats were opposed to Vann and recently the party leaders in Philadelphia wrote Farley that they would bolt rather than work under Vann. On the other hand Thompkins was being boosted all over the country.

To save a split in the ranks Farley compromised by selecting Mitchell and giving the "Big 2" lesser posts.

Growth In Colored Democratic Vote Seen In Primary

A healthy growth in the colored Democratic vote in Norfolk was revealed in the Democratic Primary Tuesday.

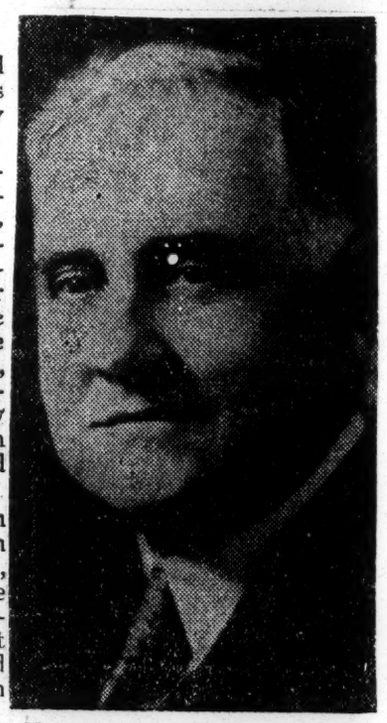
In this contest covering the Second Congressional District and including the cities of Norfolk, Portsmouth, Suffolk, and Franklin, Norman R. Hamilton, Portsmouth publisher was nominated for Congress. Mr. Hamilton won the nomination over Representative Colgate W. Darden, Jr. incumbent, by a majority of 1,783 votes, although Mr. Darden carried every county and city in the district with the exception of Portsmouth and Norfolk County.

Although colored citizens vote in ten of the city's 32 precincts in small numbers, the heaviest vote, with the exception of that in the 21st precinct, was cast in the combined 6th and 7th, at the Holt Street School at Fenchurch and Holt Streets, and the 8th and 9th at the courthouse.

On the basis of more than 300 colored votes polled at the 21st, something like 900 additional votes would remain to be cast at the other precincts by Negro voters, although due allowances must be made for the fact that a majority of Negro voters are not normally Democratic.

Growth of the local Negro Democracy is seen by way of comparison with the total number of votes cast particularly in the August 1933 primaries in which four delegates to the Virginia General Assembly were nominated. At that time the 109 votes polled in the 21st precinct were said to be a record for that precinct. The total was significant in view of the fact that the vote was divided between fourteen candidates.

In the combined 6th and 7th precincts in the August 1933 primaries a total of 374 votes were polled, and in the combined 8th and 9th, there were 222. In Tuesday's primary however, the numbers had increased to 507 and 259 respectively.



NORMAN R. HAMILTON

Just what part the Negro vote played in the primary in other sections of the Second District could not be immediately learned. Its significance was felt mostly however in the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth where considerable interest was manifested in the contest.

The total vote in the district was Hamilton, 17,226; Darden, 15,443, while the total vote cast was 32,840.

Colored supporters of Mr. Hamilton, headed by S. H. Bell, held a mass meeting Friday night of last week at the Palais Royal Casino, when a strenuous appeal was made for the Portsmouth candidate. A similar meeting was held by the special Roosevelt-Darden committee Monday night at the Dunbar School on Princess Anne Road. The meeting was presided over by Attorney Walter L. Davis, chairman of the committee.

In addition to Mr. Bell other members of the "Hamilton for Congress" executive committee were:

Dr. D. W. Byrd, William J. Kemp, Mrs. P. J. Chesson, Mrs. A. B. Green, Jr., Attorney J. M. Harrison, C. C. Dogan and W. H. Thorogood.

The personnel of the advisory board of the special Roosevelt-Darden committee is as follows: Dr. R. J. Brown, Rev. B. B. Evans, Thomas Frazier, A. J. Tice, George Ward, W. T. Mason, Dr. J. Q. A. Webb, Attorney W. W. Foreman, Mrs. Annie L. Craig, Miss Beuna V. Kelley, Mrs. Mattie H. Javins, Mrs. Helen Q. Dancy, Mrs. Anne McNorton Brooks, Dr. W. P. Collette, Dr. A. J. Wells, Attorney I. N. Wilson, and Dr. G. H. Williamson.

In a statement to the Journal and Guide Wednesday morning Mr. Bell expressed his appreciation to local voters for the support given his setup during the campaign. His statement, in full, is as follows:

"The 'Hamilton for Congress' club uptown sincerely appreciates the splendid support the voters showed in the recent primary and thanks them graciously for supporting Mr. Norman R. Hamilton as representative of the Second Congressional District. The members of the executive and advisory committees also wish to thank the workers for their loyal and undivided support during Mr. Hamilton's campaign for nomination."

Officials of the Citizens Democratic Club and members of the special Roosevelt-Darden campaign comimttee, likewise expressed their appreciation for the loyal support given Mr. Darden's candidacy. Mr. Davis, chairman of the committee could not be reached for a statement as this was written.

Lexington, S. C. Dispatch-News
July 16, 1936

"CONTAINS REAL THREAT"

In condemning Senator Smith for his action, his critics have pointed out that, in 1876, white democrats applauded the speeches of negro democrats and that Senator Smith himself sat in the South Carolina legislature with negro representatives from Georgetown. True, but in 1876 the white democrats were desperately trying to restore white supremacy to a down trodden and violated people and Senator Smith's protest was the initial effort to prevent a return to such unspeakable condition. In 1876 we were trying to oust the negro from politics—in 1936 the national democratic party seems to be committed to the task of restoring the brother in black to a place in the political sun. And against such action we join Senator Smith and the other members of the South Carolina delegation in voicing formal protest against and vigorously opposing the effort. There are some things more important to the south than the election of a democratic president and congress through the elevation of the negro in politics.

There may be no real danger of political equality in the south in the very near future, but this latest development contains a very real threat, to say the least.

BISHOP R. R. WRIGHT CHOSEN TO HELP MAKE DRIVE FOR ELECTION OF ROOSEVELT AND GARNER TICKET

New Dealers Make Strategic Move in Effort To Halt Drift of Colored Voters to Landon

New York—Aug. 13 (Calvin Ser.)—In a quickwitted move to match Republican strategy in naming an outstanding minister to head the Landon-Knox drive among colored citizens, the Democrats came back this week with the announcement that they have gone the Republicans one better by giving real "Brain Trust" recognition to the Negro in naming a holder of the Ph. D. degree to Roosevelt campaign leadership—Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., who is co-chairman with Dr. A. Clayton Powell, pastor of Abyssinian Baptist Church in Harlem, of the Good Neighbor League drive among Negroes.

Bishop Wright, whose recent elevation to the highest office in the A. M. E. Church, was hailed as ushering in a new era in the growth and development of Negro business, education, and fraternal cooperation, is noted for his learning, high scholarship, and his actual achievements as an educational and business administrator. As editor, author, college president, minister, banker, and as an advocate for many years of the Negro developing his own latent and inherent business and educational abilities, his coming into the political arena in defense of the Roosevelt New Deal is ragarded by observers as ushering in a new day when "double-crossing" bosses will be relegated to the rear, and the real interests of the race will get a hearing before the bar of highest authority. No one would doubt that, if President Roosevelt is reelected under the aegis of Bishop Wright and Dr. Powell, not selfishness, but true racial statesmanship, as in the days of Frederick Douglass, would again become the vogue.

The Good Neighbor League, with headquarters at 103 Park Avenue, is preparing offices at its headquarters for the colored executives, which it is expected they will occupy the latter part of this week. The League's executive chairmen, Patrick H. Callahan, Stanley High, and Mrs. Estelle Sternberger, are all interested in the educational and economic development of the Negro.

The Wright family of Philadelphia, which was founded by Major R. R. Wright, Sr., now in his 82nd

Democratic Party's Leader Lauded By Walton

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Lester A. Walton, Envoy Extraordinary of the United States to Liberia, who arrived here last weekend on the Ile de France with his family for a sixty-day leave of absence from his official duties in Monrovia, when interviewed about conditions in Liberia, said that under the Roosevelt admnistration the foreign policy of the United States has been most friendly and progressive toward the Negro people.

He further stated: "The removal of the United States marines from Haiti, and the giving of the Haitians responsibility in the management of their financial affairs, is only one instance of the friendly and cooperative spirit of this administration's foreign policy.

"Another instance is the constructive work carried on by the Roosevelt administration in the Virgin Islands. Previously referred to by another administration as the 'Poorhouse of the World,' the Virgin Islands under the present administration enjoys prosperity. Moreover, the masses of people, who were formerly disfranchised in the Virgin Islands, now enjoy the full suffrage privilege, because of an administrative measure enacted by this administration."

U. S. INTERESTED

In concluding, he said, "The resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Liberia after a lapse of five years, and the appointment of a minister, who for the first time is serving as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary and acting in these capacities for his government, show the deep interest this administration is taking in the Liberian people.

"At no time in history have relations between the two governments been more cordial than now; and at no time have the Liberians looked to the United States government for sympathetic cooperation more than now."

Mr. Walton will return to Monrovia to resume his official duties at the expiration of his leave of absence.

From 1921 to 1931, he was a feature writer on the New York World. He was also former managing editor of the New York Age. In 1933, he went to Liberia as a newspaperman and observer to study the economic, political, and educational conditions of the country. From there he went to Geneva, where he attended the sessions of the international committee which formulated the League of Nation's plan of assistance for Liberia.

Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., of the A. M. E. Church, and the Rev. A. Clayton Powell, Sr., Pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church in New York City, are co-chairmen of the Good Neighbor League, 103 Park Avenue, New York City, which was organized upon the suggestion of President Roosevelt for spreading the doctrines of humanitarianism and racial co-operation throughout America.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was the principal speaker at a recent meeting of The Good Neighbor League, held at the Commodore Hotel in New York City. Before November 3rd, The Good Neighbor League will sponsor a meeting in every church in America, colored and white, in order to crystallize The Good Neighbor spirit in the minds of the people.

BACK ROSSEVELT

"If there is any man in the world today who has adhered to the true teachings of Christ in his treatment of all peoples regardless of race, creed or color, it is our noble President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, in every instance, he has put humanity, the alleviation of suffering the care of all people above politics," recently said the Rev. Marshall L. Shepard, pastor of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church in Philadelphia.

Commenting on The Good Neighbor League, Bishop Wright said, "The Government should be a good neighbor to its citizens as well as to private property. Before this administration, our government protected private property, but

Johnson Denies Report of Bolting Democratic Party

WASHINGTON

Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, oldest member of the New Deal Big Four, which took the leadership in the 1932 Roosevelt campaign, and who served as Minister to Liberia under the Wilson administration on Monday denied reports that he would bolt the Democratic party.

Dr. Johnson

Dr. Johnson, said to be in his late sixties, has been a long-standing supporter of the Democratic party, and at one time was considered the highest ranking colored Democrat.

No Statement on Plans

When told that it had been reported from several sources that he was planning to desert the New Deal, Dr. Johnson, said:

"I am the oldest living Democrat, I believe, I have been a Democrat all my life. I am a Democrat and stand exactly where I stood 35 years ago."

Asked why he was seen at the press conference of John Hamilton, white, Republican National Committee chairman, last week, the Ohio physician said that he was there in the capacity of a news reporter for a paper in his State.

Questioned concerning an independent voters' league he is said to be heading up, which, reports say, he offered to swing to Landon, Dr. Johnson said that the organization "is for Roosevelt."

failed to care for its citizens, who own the government.

"By protecting the interest of the laborers through wage security, old-age pensions. workmen's compensation and other social measures, our Government can bring to the Colored and White workers in America security and happiness. This is being a Good Neighbor, and is what President Roosevelt is doing for the people."

Dr. Stanley High, one of the executive chairmen of the Good Neighbor League, is a member of the board of directors, include George Foshay, who is chairman of the World Peace Ways. Other members of the board of The Good Neighbor League include: Patrick H. Callahan, Fannie Hurst, Curtiss Bach of Philadelphia, Crales Edison, and Lillian D. Wald, internationally known social worker.

The Co-Chairmen of the Good executive chairmen of the Good Neighbor League, is a member of the board of the Cookman-Bethune director of the Wo

Questioned concerning an independent voters' league he is said to be heading up, which, reports say, he offered to swing to Landon, Dr. Johnson said that the organization "is for Roosevelt."

failed to care for its citizens, who own the government.

"By protecting the interest of the laborers through wage security, old-age pensions. workmen's compensation and other social measures, our Government can bring to

Dr. Stanley High, one of the Miss Estelle Sternberger, also gro has contributed e institutions.

Political-1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Orangeburg, S. C., Democrat
June 25, 1936

A Decision for States.

Yesterday, at Philadelphia, the Democratic convention heard a Negro minister deliver a prayer to Almighty God.

Whereupon, Senator E. D. Smith, of South Carolina, "sick and tired" of the whole thing, walked out of the convention, declaring that he was going to "talk."

It might be well for the people of the South to face a few facts in regard to the so-called race question and to understand, in part, what their attitude should be.

The attitude of the South toward Negro participation in political affairs in the South is well understood. It requires no elucidation now.

The attitude of the South toward what other States may do in permitting Negroes to participate in politics is the subject of much confusion. It might be well to get it straight.

What the State of Massachusetts decides to do in regard to social and political equality is not the responsibility of the people of the South. Neither is it our responsibility what other sections decide in this regard.

If Pennsylvania, for example, wishes to give Negroes full rights in all public places that is within the province of the people of Pennsylvania, and not at all the business of South Carolina.

If a district in Illinois wishes to elect a Negro to represent it in Congress it is not an affair involving South Carolina, even if the representative styles himself a Democrat.

The attitude of the South toward the Negro in social and political affairs is a matter of race. What is tolerated where there is a sprinkling of another race is rarely the custom where there is a larger number. The justification of the Southern attitude is its necessity, in order to protect an existing social order.

The people of the Southern States have not the right under the Constitution to demand that New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois or any other State, shall disfranchise the Negro or deny the race full equality.

The South has the right, however, to insist that, just as it is willing to leave this question to other States, they must leave it to the South. To demand our handling of the perplexing problem in the South obliges us to grant to others the same privilege in their own States.

This is quite different from the attitude of the Republican party, although there will be some citizens unable to see it.

The Republican party, which recently seated Joe Tolbert, insisted by its action that any Republican party in South Carolina must recognize the political equality of Negroes in South Carolina.

The Democratic party, on the other hand, leaves to the Democrats of South Carolina the power to handle this question as a State matter, which is as it should be.

The Hambright Republicans were unseated this time because they had no Negro delegates. There is no suspicion that the Democrats at Philadelphia have ever entertained the thought that a Democratic delegation from South Carolina should be thrown out because the Democrats of the South do not include Negroes within the party.

There is, however, it seems, an attitude on the part of some Southern delegates to the Democratic convention that other delegates from other States, who do not accept the Southern solution of the race question, should be excommunicated by the South and blasted because they decide what to do in their States in their own way just as we insist that we will decide what to do in the South in our own way.

So far as the race question is concerned in the South, at this time, it is a settled matter.

The white people of South Carolina, for example, are determined that they will rule this commonwealth. In the realm of politics this is a white State and will continue to be for a good many years. There is no other solution.

This does not mean that the Negro in this State is not entitled to certain rights and, as a race, to the respect and regard of the white people. Both races in the South have difficult problems that must be settled through cooperation and mutual helpfulness and these issues will be settled eventually justly and correctly.

The Philadelphia Convention

Senator Ellison D. Smith, of South Carolina, "took a walk" Friday from the Democratic National Convention and got far enough away so that he "couldn't hear nobody pray." He took a second stroll to the solitudes when Congressman Arthur Mitchell delivered an address.

Immediately Negro Republican orators, urged on by their "lilywhite" friends, will begin to picture "Cotton Ed" Smith as symbolizing the reason why Negroes should vote for Landon and forget Roosevelt in the November election marathon.

In order that we may show you how Republicans will still try to dominate black folk's mental processes, we offer here a contribution coming from the pen of William Allen White, himself of Kansas, but who in a subtle way seeks to distort the real significance and meaning of the revolution now going on in the bowels of the Democratic party:

> "The new party has no flowery path before it. Franklin Roosevelt may, probably will, be able to hold it together while he commands its fortunes. But the seeds of death are in it. Many of its members are bound to conflict. The city Tammany group of states needs the Negro in its business as a voter. To hold him as a voter it must prosper him as a worker and as a citizen, which is all right for the farmer-labor group in the north. But when 'Cotton Ed' Smith raged to reporters, as he did this week, at having to sit under the altar of a colored preacher, listening to him invoke God's blessing on white men, and further, when the delegates from the south fully realize that they no longer can hold their party to a policy of white supremacy even in the south without states' rights, trouble will come into the new organization."

To provide against left-handed thinkers who might romp off with the philosophy of Editor White, we offer an outlook at the political situation, which we feel is far more basic in reason. Brother "Emporia" White wants you to feel that the party turned from Jefferson to Hamilton on the "state rights" issue, and that it swatted southern domination when it abrogated the two-thirds rule, but he does not want Negroes to assume that this right-about-face means anything of value to Negroes.

The truth is—and it is the stark truth—that Senator Smith left the Democratic National Convention because he was angry at white men—not black. Senator Smith left because a majority of the white men in that convention had decided that they wanted a Negro to pray and another to talk, and therefore wanted to show respect for Negroes.

There had been a lot of informal discussion in committee rooms and in star chamber conferences regarding the prayer of a Negro minister and the address of a Negro congressman before "Cotton Ed" Smith took his little walk. He took his little stroll because he could not convince white men that they should continue the old order of things.

It is right here that we may employ the language of Editor White when he says that the Democratic party at Philadelphia is "the new party under the old name." In that one statement the famed Kansas editor admits that the Democratic party at Philadelphia turned the corner and departed from the time-honored views which have dominated that party from Jefferson up to Roosevelt.

The important thing for the Negro to do right here is to stand on his own feet and do some independent thinking. What does this new order of things mean to the Negro? Here we have in 1936 the Democratic party openly sponsoring the time-honored principles for which the Republican party has stood and vice versa with reference to the Republican attitude.

For years Republicans have had some Negro stand up in their national conventions and second the nomination of a Republican nominee. They intended, and it always did, that this recognition of the Negro on the convention program would be considered by the Negro vote as a gesture of respect to Negroes. Why should the movement by Democrats at Cleveland to do the same thing be regarded as anything less?

As a matter of fact, the action at Cleveland on the part of the Democratic National Convention, has more significance than had Republicans performed similarly. We have been taught since freedom that the Democratic party is the pro-slavery party, and this is why the Negro has clung so tenaciously to the Republican organization.

But when the "Party of Slavery" turns to the Negro and says "Come into the national arena at a time when I am on dress parade, and on a basis of equality," such an act ought to get instant and hearty response from every intelligent, thinking Negro in America.

As we said last week in this column, the Constitution of the United States reserves to the states almost complete control over citizens. Life, liberty and property are all subject to state sovereignty. If a citizen has a grievance with government he must adjust that grievance with state government. In the South the Democratic party dominates and controls state government. Sensible Negroes will understand that their political salvation in the South rests with the Democratic party.

The convention at Philadelphia should now make it possible for every Negro in America to vote the Democratic ticket. Placing two Negroes on its general program simply means that at last the Democratic party has under the leadership of Franklin D. Roosevelt made a direct bid for the Negro vote. It is a gesture at respect for Negroes that all who have discourse to reason will not ignore.

COLUMBIA, S .C.
STATE

JUN 27 1936

With Deep Regret.

It is with genuine and deep regret that we heard the pronouncement by the veteran South Carolina senator, made at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia, "I'm through."

Senator Smith has long been honored by his people. The latest honor was when they sent him as a delegate to this convention. So serious a step as that taken at Philadelphia should have been taken only as the result of mature judgment, not upon impulse, especially when that impulse was incited by irritation over another matter.

It may be accepted, we think, as true that had Senator Smith's withdrawal from the Democratic convention been in harmony with "Southern sentiment" on the race question he would have been joined by some other delegates from some other Southern state from Virginia to Texas. Surely there were present in that great representative gathering equally devoted Democrats and Southerners. Yet, when the irritated Senator Smith walked, every other delegate, from the dignified Carter Glass of Virginia to the free-speaking Texans, kept their seats.

What was the occasion for this one man stampede? The only Negro in Congress is a Democrat from Illinois. "Politics"—the everlasting "politics"—with which Senator Smith has been familiar for full forty years, evidently suggested to the convention management that a speech by the Negro congressman, Mitchell, to a Democratic convention might impress several hundred thousand Negro voters in such states as Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey. So Mitchell began speaking and Smith walked out.

Were this action in defense of a principle, nothing in criticism would be found about it here. We would applaud it, whatever the cost to the party. But it was not in defense of a principle. In 1876, 1878 and 1880, South Carolinians, including Wade Hampton, not only listened to but applauded Negro Democrats addressing Democratic rallies. In the Black Belt the Negro who would speak at a Democratic convention or other gathering was held in high esteem by whites loyal to their heritage; and neither Wade Hampton nor any one of those other Democrats suffered from the virus of "contamination."

Since that period Southern Democrats have addressed Negro gatherings in the South, and Negroes—notably Booker T. Washington—have addressed meetings of white Southerners without lowering a bar to social equality. Every congressman from the South must sit in the hall of the house of representatives with Negro congressmen on terms of "political equality." Not one of them has dreamed of "walking out."

In South Carolina legislatures and constitutional conventions dominated by Democrats there have been Negro members who have spoken and been given respectful attention by men who fought in the bloody battles of the Sixties and in the political battles of the Seventies.

We deplore Senator Smith's course at Philadelphia.

Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch
June 25, 1936

"Cotton Ed" Takes a Walk

IF "COTTON ED" SMITH is so excited over the presence of Negro delegates on the floor of the Democratic National Convention, why doesn't he walk out of Congress because of the presence there of REPRESENTATIVE ARTHUR W. MITCHELL of Chicago?

REPRESENTATIVE MITCHELL is a Negro Democrat who represents Negro constituents. The Negro delegates at Philadelphia likewise represent members of their race. Apparently SENATOR SMITH, who is "sick and tired of the whole damn thing," feels that Negroes aren't entitled to representation in Congress, at national conventions, or anywhere else, unless they are represented by whites.

Most particularly he objects to being prayed over by a Negro minister, although CHAIRMAN SAPP of the South Carolina delegation remains unperturbed at the thought of having a colored pastor invoke the divine blessing upon him.

Fundamentally, SENATOR SMITH is proceeding on an erroneous premise, namely, that "political equality means social equality." What makes him think so? Does the fact that a Negro mail carrier or barber exercises the franchise, after paying his poll tax and registering, mean "intermarriage and the mongrelizing of the American race," as was so luridly proclaimed yesterday by the South Carolina senator, as he took a walk?

We do not think so. SENATOR SMITH has the antebellum attitude which holds that the Negro must always remain a helot, exercising few civil rights, taking no part in the affairs of his government, content to leave all such matters to the white race. The senator is not aware, apparently, that times have changed in the last three-quarters of a century—that the Negro is a citizen, entitled to the rights of a citizen.

If the Negro is able, in the face of the manifold handicaps which beset him, to improve his business, educational, economic and political status, we say, more power to him! We are not quaking at the thought of Negro delegates at Philadelphia, and neither should we feel that Southern civilization had been endangered if a colored pastor asked the Almighty to forgive us our sins, which probably are far too numerous anyway.

High Point, N. C. Enterprise
June 26, 1936

MORE PRAYER FOR SMITH APTLY REQUESTED

For one of these Smith pedestrians is recommended a great deal more prayer—and we join the recommendation. This time its Cotton Ed, the South Carolina senatorial fire-eater, who bolts the convention and injects a prejudice and racial hatred that has no place anywhere, certainly not in that city of brotherly love which is the convention host.

Completely unjustified was Senator Smith's quitting of the convention hall—not once, but twice—because a Negro had the floor, the first time for prayer, bespeaks an intolerance to which the South as a whole should take vigorous exception. His assertion on his second walking act that he was leaving "for good" was erroneous in that it was not for good, though it was quite obviously a good riddance for the convention.

The South generally does not share such narrow-minded prejudice and intolerance, and it should resent the discourtesy done by Senator Smith in nursing a grievance on which he was but looking for an outlet to assail—and in giving it color he makes himself the center of a very ugly picture.

We quite agree that "Brother Smith needs more prayer"—and from all hands without a color line.

Political - 1936

Democratic.

Party Affiliation

ROBERT L. VANN APPOINTED BY DEMOCRATIC CHIEFTAIN TO HEAD NEGRO CAMPAIGN

Dr. Wm. Thompkins Makes Vain Bid To Head Setup; "Big Four" Breaks Up

31 DELEGATES

7 Seated As Delegates 24 As Alternates At Nat'l Convention

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — (C)— Robert L. Vann of Pittsburgh outmaneuvered Dr. William J. Thompkins of Kansas City and is to head the Democratic campaign among Negroes, it was announced Saturday as James A Farley was re-elected chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Vann, making history as the first Negro delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention, will be assisted in the campaign by Julian D Rainey of Boston, who came to Philadelphia as an alternate delegate.

There was some sharp skirmishing for leadership honors for several days, although Vann announced more than a week ago that he had it "in the bag." Dr. Thompkins attempted to "chisel in" by putting on an elaborate show with his National Democratic Association (colored) of which he was reelected president and to which delegates came from several states. Thompkins even brought pressure on the National Chairman from high state leaders of the middle-west, it is said, and is said to have spent considerable money financing his show, but to no avail for his real goal, it is claimed.

Whether the Thompkins-Vann struggle will leave any bitterness within party ranks is not yet determined, but harmony is expected to reign even though the "Big Four" has contracted to the "Big Two." In the 1932 campaign among Negroes, the "Big Four" was Messrs. Vann, Rainey, Thompkins and Johnson but now Johnson is out of the picture and Thompkins appears to be driving a bandwagon of his own.

SENATOR WALKS OUT

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The first indications of the "lily-whiteism" which had been cloaked by the party bosses, was seen Wednesday afternoon when Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina walked out of the convention after Rev. Marshall L. Shepard, member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, had opened the session with a prayer. This was the first time in history of the Democratic party that a Negro was called upon to officiate.

Senator Smith was accompanied by several others of the South Carolina delegation and announced shortly after he left the hall that he would not support "any political organization that looks upon the Negro and caters to him as a political and social equal." He said that he was "through with the convention" and "sick of the whole damn thing." He cooled off later and returned to the convention on Thursday.

Thursday night he took another walk when Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell of Illinois, only Negro member of the House of Representatives, delivered a lengthy address in support of the New Deal and pledged that Negroes would not forget the many good deeds of the party. He branded the Republicans as not meaning Negroes any good and pleaded for the support of all Negroes for the Democratic party.

At the same session, the traditional two-thirds rule of the Democratic party for nominations was abrogated following its recommendation by the rules committee. Senator Robert Wagner then reported the platform of the party. The platform guaranteed protection of the family and the home against bandits and kidnapers, but nothing appeared directly or indirectly which would be construed as guaranteeing protection of Negroes against lynchings.

The omission of lynching and other injustices to which Negroes are subjected in the platform, was termed "a grave disappointment" by the N. A. A. C. P. in a telegram sent to President Roosevelt immediately after the platform had been read.

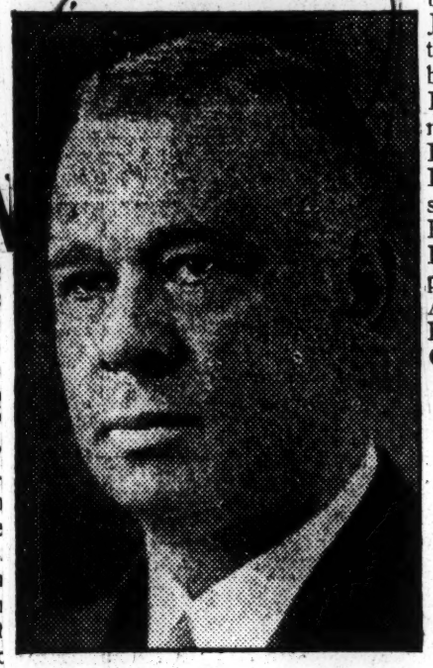
7 Delegates

In all there were 31 Negroes seated on the floor of the convention, seven as delegates and 24 as alternates. Many of them had not been elected back home but were seated by the convention when other delegates gave way to them, it is said, at the behest of National Chairman Farley who did not want to give his Republican opponents too much ammunition. At a last minute conference, then, several of the white elected delegates withdrew and were replaced by Negroes.

The delegates seated were: William H. Austin, New York City; Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. Mayme Elliott Bowling, Emporia, Kansas, elected as an alternate but seated by Senator George McGill of Kansas as a delegate in his stead; Sam Baumann, Los Angeles, Calif.; William H. Fisher of Detroit, Mich., seated as a delegate at the convention; Daniel West, Minneapolis, Minn.; Carl Glass, St. Louis, Mo.

The alternate delegates were: Fetcher M. Amos and Wilson Jones, both of Philadelphia, Pa.; E. L. James, E L. Powell, both of Charleston, West Va.; Daniel W. Ambrose, Huntington, West Va.; Dr. E. L. Youngue and F. G. Blackman, both of Lokin, West Va.; Harry Mease, Des Moines, Iowa; Rev. R. Ransom, Topeka, Kansas; Dorsey Green, Kansis City, Kansas; John C. Walker, Louisville, Ky.; Dr. Theodore Cable, Indianapolis, Ind.; Dr. J. S. Sumerfield, Los Angeles, Calif.; Julian D. Rainey, Boston, Mass.

NOT A DELEGATE



Congressman ARTHUR W. MITCHELL of 1st Illinois District, Chicago, Ill., whose scheduled speech, seconding the nomination of Presidene Roosevelt, had to be called off at convention just ended when it was discovered that the Congressman was not a delegate to the convention. He was extended the courtesy of speaking on Thursday night instead, to the chagrin of Senator Smith of South Carolina.

COLUMBIA, S .C.
STATE

JUN 26 1936

Senator Smith in Eruption.

Politically speaking, Senator Smith of South Carolina has not been in a smiling mood for three years. It may be surmised that the senator was not looking forward with "peculiar satisfaction" to attendance upon the Democratic convention, to which he had been elected a delegate from his state.

In such circumstances just a little additional irritation is sufficient to "blow off the top." And that irritation seems to have been furnished when the senior senator from the Palmetto state reached Philadelphia on Tuesday from Florida, where he had attended the funeral of Senator Fletcher, and discovered his badge as a delegate, with assignment of a seat, had been lost, lent or appropriated.

Such things have happened before and they will happen again. They are happening somewhere every day. Some one is at fault but it is generally inadvertence. The error is also generally easily and quickly remedied—as at Philadelphia.

The loss of the Smith ticket at Philadelphia was a "local" incident, so to speak. Responsibility was inside the South Carolina delegation. It was not a convention matter, or a national "issue." It might well, with quiet dignity, have been permitted to remain inside the delegation.

But unfortunately, we think, Senator Smith voiced out loud his indignation. Convention newsgatherers, whose sense of scent is never so keen as when it leads to a dog fight, were jubilant. The press dispatches carried hundreds of words about it, alluding to a "rift" between Senator Smith and Governor Johnston.

And then—or perhaps coincidently—Senator Smith noted his absence from membership on important committees, while many of his juniors had been recognized. Why this is true, we do not know. But it is not difficult to surmise that when a convention is in control of a group having certain objectives, and thoughts on certain lines, the majority try to construct their machine (and it is a machine) with cogs that work together.

These incidents touching the South Carolina senator doubtless created or added to what is sometimes termed "a state of mind." They were magnified out of all proportion to their importance. The news gatherers had poured gasoline on the pile and made a "sensation"—one of those hollow, senseless sensations.

The stage was "set" for further public indignation when at the afternoon session the Rev. Marshall L. Shepard, Negro minister of Philadelphia, invoked the blessing of God upon the proceedings and the personnel of the Democratic convention. Senator Smith with some other members of the delegation thereupon beat Al Smith to it, and "took a walk"—temporarily. Afterwards the senator again expressed himself for public consumption.

We have not yet perused comments of the Republican press on that incident, but it is a certainty that it is sweeter to them than molasses is to flies. Chairman Hamilton, Landon's chief political engineer, would probably not exchange it for $200,000 for his campaign fund.

But we are disappointed in the Rev. Marshall Shepard. A quick witted Southern Negro preacher would not have missed the opportunity of following the retreating seceders out of the hall with a voiced prayer for "the salvation of our departing brethren."

Democratic Convention Delegates

PHILADELPHIA

FLETCHER AMOS of 1621 North Twentieth Street, Philadelphia, was born in Florida, and came to Philadelphia in 1920. He is married to Mrs. Mallie E. Amos and they have two boys. He began taking an active part in Democratic politics in 1923. A member of the City committee, he is a parole officer, tailor by trade, member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and American Legion. In 1935, he ran for magistrate, polling 318,673 votes only to lose by 300 votes.

WILSON JOHNS of 1012 S. Colorado Avenue, Philadelphia. He was born in Virginia and came to Philadelphia in 1895. He is married to Mrs. Octavia Jones and has one son. He has been a Democrat for thirty-five years; was elected a Democratic ward executive in 1905 and to the City Committee in 1909. He is employed in the City Coroner's office. A Presbyterian, he was formerly in the wholesale tea, coffee and smoked fish business.

Three from Michigan

EDWARD B. WILLIAMS of Benton Harbor, Mich., minister, assistant superintendent of labor management of WPA. He was born in Mississippi and is married to Mrs. Irma R. Williams. He has been in the Democratic party since 1928.

ANDREW J. SMITH of 5464 Williams Street, Detroit. He was born in Baltimore, the son of the former Racheal P. Cummings. He is supervisor of WPA for the Fourth District of Michigan. He and his wife, Mrs. Josephine Smith, have four girls and two boys. He has been a Democrat since 1928.

HAROLD BLEDSOE of 911 Gratot Avenue, Detroit, attorney and former assistant attorney general of Michigan. He is a member of the State Democratic Central Committee and is the father of three children. This is his second convention as a delegate.

Kansas Sends Two

DR. J. LEWIS RANSOM of Topeka, Kan., a physician, is married and has one child. He was elected over a white aspirant to become the delegate by 5,000 votes. It is his first political convention and he finds it exciting.

MRS. MAYME ELLIOTT BOWLING of 816 Congress Street, Emporia, Kan., graduate of Chicago Musical College and teacher of music in Kansas public schools. She has been a Democrat for fifteen years. She was elected an alternate but became a delegate when the white representative was unable to attend the convention because of illness.

HENRY U. NEASE of Des Moines, Iowa, a machinist and graduate of Penn Mechanical College. He is single and has been a Democrat since 1916. He is the first colored man elected a delegate to any National Convention from his State, two Republicans having been sent as alternates.

Three West Virginia Delegates

F. G. BLACKMAN of Lakin, W. Va., financial secretary of the Lakin State Hospital. He has been active in Democratic politics since 1920.

E. L. JAMES of Institute, W. Va., is connected with the West Virginia State College. He has been active in organizing Democratic clubs throughout his State.

DR. E. L. YOUNGEE, of Lakin, W. Va., superintendent of the Lakin State Hospital. He has been a Democrat for more than fifteen years and is the head of the Colored Democratic League of West Virginia.

Far West Represented

DR. JOHN A. SOMERVILLE of Los Angeles, Cal., is a dentist and is married to a dentist, Dr. Vada J. Somerville. He has been a Democrat for five years and says that it is the only party to which he has been affiliated. He is a graduate of the University of Southern California.

DR. SAMUEL BAUMAN of Los Angeles, Cal., is a druggist and has been a life-long Democrat. Last year he was a candidate for the State Legislature but was defeated by a small margin. He is a Catholic and a graduate of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy.

CARL M. GLASS of 5 Clarke Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., is a deputy sheriff, is single and has been in the Democratic party for twenty-five years. This is the first time he has been a delegate but he attended the Chicago convention in 1932. He is the first colored man elected a delegate to the Democratic National Convention. He is a member of A.M.E. Church and Knights of Pythias.

ELMER V. MOSEE of St. Louis, Mo., is married and has a son. A graduate of the University of Indiana. he is the deputy clerk of the Eighth Judicial Circuit Court. He has been a Democrat since 1912.

Democrats Plan to Raise $25,000 Fund

PHILADELPHIA — A resolution pledging to collect $25,000 from colored Democrats throughout the country for the party's campaign fund was presented to the executive committee of the party at the Convention Auditorium, Wednesday, by officers of the National Colored Democratic Association.

The pledge was adopted by the association shortly before the close of its twelfth quadrennial session in the O. V. Catto Elks' Home on Monday.

Dr. W. J. Thompkins, recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, and president of the association, presented the resolution to Postmaster General James Farley.

Mob Violence Hit

Along with the pledge, another resolution endorsing the Roosevelt Administration and the New Deal, was presented to the chairman of the national committee. The second resolution condemned mob murder and the requirement of the Civil Service Commission for photographs of applicants.

The meeting of the association opened on Saturday with more than 700 delegates from every section of the country. Plans were completed for the organizing of Democratic clubs in forty-two states. Committees in each State will have charge of the organization of clubs.

At the election of officers, Sunday, Dr. Thompkins was reelected president by acclamation. Other officers elected were:

Mrs. Bessye J. Beardon of New York, first vice-president; Edward R. Hazzell of Philadelphia, second vice-president; Dr. J. A. Somerville of Los Angeles, third vice-president, and Thomas J. Davis of Cincinnati, fourth vice-president.

Brown Made Secretary

Edgar G. Brown, Chicago, secretary; Thomas H. Clarke, Washington, D.C., corresponding secretary; Truly Hatchett, of Baltimore, treasurer; J. E. Stephens, of New York, general organizer; Miss Theodore V. Jones of Los Angeles, women's organizer; Miss M. Griffin of Pittsburgh, assistant women's organizer;

Harry Leland, of Omaha, Neb., sergeant-at-arms; William H. Kelly of Harrisburg, Pa., assistant sergeant-at-arms; Bishoy Reverdy C. Ransom of Ohio, historian; the Rev. E. T. Demby of Arkansas, national chaplain; Miss Lula P. Hill, of Kansas, regional director.

President Lauded

In endorsing President Roosevelt, the association termed him the greatest emancipator of the colored American and pledged their entire support in seeking his re-election.

The resolution requested the Democratic party to approve speedily enactment of an anti-lynching law and to endorse Federal protection for sharecroppers of the South.

Columbia, S. C. State
June 26, 1936

Senator Smith in Eruption.

Politically speaking, Senator Smith of South Carolina has not been in a smiling mood for three years. It may be surmised that the senator was not looking forward with "peculiar satisfaction" to attendance upon the Democratic convention, to which he had been elected a delegate from his state.

In such circumstances just a little additional irritation is sufficient to "blow off the top." And that irritation seems to have been furnished when the senior senator from the Palmetto state reached Philadelphia on Tuesday from Florida, where he had attended the funeral of Senator Fletcher, and discovered his badge as a delegate, with assignment of a seat, had been lost, lent or appropriated.

Such things have happened before and they will happen again. They are happening somewhere every day. Some one is at fault but it is generally inadvertence. The error is also generally easily and quickly remedied—as at Philadelphia.

The loss of the Smith ticket at Philadelphia was a "local" incident, so to speak. Responsibility was inside the South Carolina delegation. It was not a convention matter, or a national "issue." It might well, with quiet dignity, have been permitted to remain inside the delegation.

But unfortunately, we think, Senator Smith voiced out loud his indignation. Convention newsgatherers, whose sense of scent is never so keen as when it leads to a dog fight, were jubilant. The press dispatches carried hundreds of words about it, alluding to a "rift" between Senator Smith and Governor Johnston.

And then—or perhaps coincidently—Senator Smith noted his absence from membership on important committees, while many of his juniors had been recognized. Why this is true, we do not know. But it is not difficult to surmise that when a convention is in control of a group having certain objectives, and thoughts on certain lines, the majority try to construct their machine (and it is a machine) with cogs that work together.

These incidents touching the South Carolina senator doubtless created or added to what is sometimes termed "a state of mind." They were magnified but of all proportion to their importance. The news gatherers had poured gasoline on the pile and made a "sensation"—one of those hollow, senseless sensations.

The stage was "set" for further public indignation when at the afternoon session the Rev. Marshall L. Shepard, Negro minister of Philadelphia, invoked the blessing of God upon the proceedings and the personnel of the Democratic convention. Senator Smith with some other members of the delegation thereupon beat Al Smith to it, and "took a walk"—temporarily. Afterwards the senator again expressed himself for public consumption.

We have not yet perused comments of the Republican press on that incident, but it is a certainty that it is sweeter to them than molasses is to flies. Chairman Hamilton, Landon's chief political engineer, would probably not exchange it for $200,000 for his campaign fund.

But we are disappointed in the Rev. Marshall Shepard. A quick witted Southern Negro preacher would not have missed the opportunity of following the retreating seceders out of the hall with a voiced prayer for "the salvation of our departing brethren."

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

ACTIVE IN DEMO. NAT'L CONVENTION

CONG. A. W. MITCHELL

CARL M. GLASS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — (Special to The St. Louis Argus)—The largest number of Negroes to ever attend a National Democratic Convention were gathered in Philadelphia this week. They all seemed interested in the things which vitally affect the group, but of course, the usual difference of opinion as to how and by whom these needs be best served.

As a starter, the National Colored Democratic Association under the leadership of Dr. Wm. J. Thompkins as president and Edgar Brown as secretary, had Hon. James A. Farley, Democratic National Committeeman and Hon. W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the committee, to address its meeting Sunday afternoon at the Pearl Theater. About 1400 were in attendance. These two high officials in the Democratic Party told their hearers that President Roosevelt was a man with a human

State Senator Joseph T. Brogan of St. Louis and Carl M. Glass of St. Louis, were selected for the committees to notify the Presidential and Vice-Presidential nominees, respectively at the Democratic National convention.

heart with sympathies broad enough to reach all citizens, be they great or small; that he has "Kept the faith."

"Nobody Forgotten."

"There is no forgotten class under the Roosevelt Administration," he continued. Farley thanked the Negroes for their support in 1932 and pointed out 1936 was the first time in the history of the Democratic Party that more than one Negro delegate has been seated in the convention.

This year, he said, there are 32 Negro delegates and alternates from Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio and California.

Dr. M. Grant of St. Louis also spoke at the meeting. Seeing things as they move politically, one is impressed that Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell is a recognized leader in Democratic politics. Dr. Wm. K. Thompkins, Recorder of Deeds, Washington, D. C.; Robt. Vann, Editor, Pittsburgh Courier; and Julian D. Rainey of Boston, are in the lime-light. Edgar G. Brown still holds sway as a contact man and is busy.

Not a doubt has been expressed above a whisper about President Roosevelt's nomination. Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, the only Negro member of the Nation's highest law-making body, is selected to second the nomination of Roosevelt.

Carl Glass, who is a district delegate from St. Louis, is a member of the committee to notify the Vice-President of his nomination. This honor went to Attorney Bracy, at the G. O. P. Convention at Cleveland.

Among St. Louisans attending are D. M. Grant, Jos. L. McLemore, Elmer V. Mosee, Atty. V. Lucas and J. E. Mitchell.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUN 23 1936

Negroes Ask Two Planks

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 (AP).—The National Democratic Colored Association passed today a resolution calling upon the Democratic party to sponsor a Federal anti-lynching law and work for equal rights for Negroes.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.
CITIZEN

JUN 22 1936

M. E. NEGRO BISHOPS DECLARE FOR ROOSEVELT

They Appreciate What the President Has Done for So Many of Their People—Representative Mitchell, Negro Democrat of Chicago, Declared that Roosevelt Has Appointed More Negroes to Governmental Jobs, Than the Three Preceding Administrations Combined.

The action of the Republican Convention in rejecting Negro delegations from five of the Southern States and seating the white delegations has caused resentment among Negroes, particualrly of the younger generation.

As "The Brooklyn Citizen" stated, the racial loyalty of the older generation to the Republican Party, is not likely to be influenced, but the younger generation, far removed from slavery days, is gradually losing this racial loyalty to the Republican Party.

In Philadelphia yesterday, Representative Mitchell, Negro Democrat of Illinois speaking at a meeting of the National Colored Democratic Association, declared that the debt of loyalty owed by Negroes to the Republican Party has been paid.

"Mr. Roosevelt," he declared "has appointed more Negroes to responsible Governmental positions than the last three Republican administrations taken together."

The Bishop's Council of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, adopted a resolution hailing with pleasure the recognition extended to so many Negroes by President Roosevelt.

The Wisconsin Farmer-Labor-Progressive Federation, rejected yesterday a resolution to endorse Representative Lemke as its Presidential candidate. This is a blow to Father Coughlin's third party. The notion spread by the Republican press that this third party is causing anxiety to the Democrats is just propoganda. The Democrats are not paying it any attention.

The Manufacturers' Association are offering newspapers free of charge a cartoon service ridiculing the New Deal. This shows to what extent "big business" is going in its opposition to President Roosevelt. BARR

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RECORD

JUN 21 1936

NEGRO DELEGATION WILL NUMBER 5000

Leaders of Race, Backing New Deal, to Hold Own Convention.

By ORRIN C. EVANS

An unprecedented number of Negroes from all over the country will attend the Democratic National Convention, opening here on Tuesday.

Heralding the New Deal as the panacea for Negro America's economic, political and social needs, thousands of Negroes throughout the country have turned their backs on their traditional political party—the G. O. P.—and are vigorously drumming things up for President Roosevelt.

Coincident with the sessions of the Democratic convention here, the National Colored Democratic Convention will hold sessions daily at O. V. Catto Elks' Auditorium, 16th and Fitzwater sts.

Leaders of Race Coming.

Negro Democratic committeemen throughout the city elected delegates last week to attend the sessions. Fifteen wards which represent the focal points of the Negro ballot in Philadelphia will have two delegates there. Delegates from practically every State in the Union will take part in the sessions.

Among the national Negro political leaders who will arrive here before the Democratic convention opens is Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh publisher of a Negro newspaper, who, according to reports, will head the Roosevelt campaign throughout the country among Negroes.

Other visitors will be Eugene Kinckle Jones, Advisor on Negro Affairs to the United States Department of Commerce; Edgar G. Brown, special assistant to the director of the emergency conservation works program, and Dr. William J. Thompkins, Recorder of Deeds, who directed the campaign of the late President Woodrow Wilson among the Negroes throughout the West. All are active supporters of the New Deal.

Local Leaders Active.

Lawrence A. Oxley, of North Carolina, Commissioner of Conciliation, Welfare; Dr. J. Max Barber, a In the United States Department of Labor, has been in Philadelphia for a week attending to what he characterizes as "advance work" in connection with Negro activities.

In the local arrangements Deputy Attorney General J. Austin Norris, Representative Marshall E. Shep-

Delegate Roster Complete.

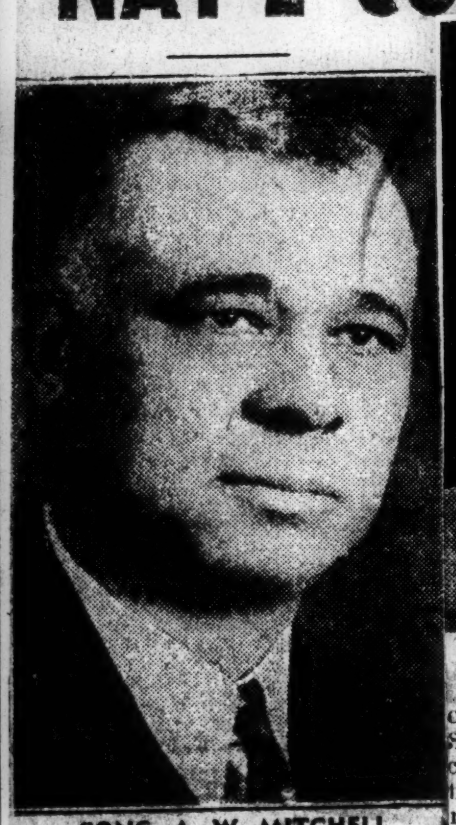
The delegates elected to the National Colored Democratic Convention are: 7th ward, Raymond Jones, Dullaven. Griffin; 14th ward, John M. Organe, Dennis White; 15th ward, Scott, Mrs. Daisy Berry; 19th Benjamin Jones, Nathaniel

Democratic Party Affiliation. Democratic. Democratic. Democratic

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

ACTIVE IN DEMO. NAT'L CONVENTION



CONG. A. W. MITCHELL

CARL M. GLASS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — (Special to The St. Louis Argus)—The largest number of Negroes to ever attend a National Democratic Convention were gathered in Philadelphia this week. They all seemed interested in the things which vitally affect the group, but of course, the usual difference of opinion as to how and by whom these needs be best served.

As a starter, the National Colored Democratic Association under the leadership of Dr. Wm. J. Thompkins as president and Edgar Brown as secretary, had Hon. James A. Farley, Democratic National Committeeman and Hon. W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the committee, to address its meeting Sunday afternoon at the Pearl Theater. About 1400 were in attendance. These two high officials in the Democratic Party told their hearers that President Roosevelt was a man with a human

Washington, D. C.; Robt. Vann, Editor, Pittsburgh Courier; and Julian D. Rainey of Boston, are in the lime-light. Edgar G. Brown still holds sway as a contact man and is busy.

Not a doubt has been expressed above a whisper about President Roosevelt's nomination. Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, the only Negro member of the Nation's highest law-making body, is selected to second the nomination of Roosevelt.

Carl Glass, who is a district delegate from St. Louis, is a member of the committee to notify the Vice-President of his nomination. This honor went to Attorney Bracy, at the G. O. P. Convention at Cleveland.

Among St. Louisans attending are D. M. Grant, Jos. L. McLemore, Elmer V. Mosee, Atty. V. Lucas and J. E. Mitchell.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUN 23 1936

Negroes Ask Two Planks

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 (AP).—The National Democratic Colored Association passed today a resolution calling upon the Democratic party to sponsor a Federal anti-lynching law and work for equal rights for Negroes.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.
CITIZEN

JUN 22 1936

M. E. NEGRO BISHOPS DECLARE FOR ROOSEVELT

They Appreciate What the President Has Done for So Many of Their People—Representative Mitchell, Negro Democrat of Chicago, Declared that Roosevelt Has Appointed More Negroes to Governmental Jobs, Than the Three Preceding Administrations Combined.

The action of the Republican Convention in rejecting Negro delegations from five of the Southern States and seating the white delegations has caused resentment among Negroes, particualrly of the younger generation.

As "The Brooklyn Citizen" stated, the racial loyalty of the older generation to the Republican Party, is not likely to be influenced, but the younger generation, far removed from slavery days, is gradually losing this racial loyalty to the Republican Party.

In Philadelphia yesterday, Representative Mitchell, Negro Democrat of Illinois speaking at a meeting of the National Colored Democratic Association, declared that the debt of loyalty owed by Negroes to the Republican Party has been paid.

"Mr. Roosevelt," he declared "has appointed more Negroes to responsible Governmental positions than the last three Republican administrations taken together."

The Bishop's Council of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, adopted a resolution hailing with pleasure the recognition extended to so many Negroes by President Roosevelt.

The Wisconsin Farmer-Labor-Progressive Federation, rejected yesterday a resolution to endorse Representative Lemke as its Presidential candidate. This is a blow to Father Coughlin's third party. The notion spread by the Republican press that this third party is causing anxiety to the Democrats is just propoganda. The Democrats are not paying it any attention.

The Manufacturers' Association are offering newspapers free of charge a cartoon service ridiculing the New Deal. This shows to what extent "big business" is going in its opposition to President Roosevelt.

BARR

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RECORD

JUN 21 1936

NEGRO DELEGATION WILL NUMBER 5000

Leaders of Race, Backing New Deal, to Hold Own Convention.

By ORRIN C. EVANS

An unprecedented number of Negroes from all over the country will attend the Democratic National Convention, opening here on Tuesday.

Heralding the New Deal as the panacea for Negro America's economic, political and social needs, thousands of Negroes throughout the country have turned their backs on their traditional political party—the G. O. P.—and are vigorously drumming things up for President Roosevelt.

Coincident with the sessions of the Democratic convention here, the National Colored Democratic Convention will hold sessions daily at O. V. Catto Elks' Auditorium, 16th and Fitzwater sts.

Leaders of Race Coming.

Negro Democratic committeemen throughout the city elected delegates last week to attend the sessions. Fifteen wards which represent the focal points of the Negro ballot in Philadelphia will have two delegates there. Delegates from practically every State in the Union will take part in the sessions.

Among the national Negro political leaders who will arrive here before the Democratic convention opens is Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh publisher of a Negro newspaper, who, according to reports, will head the Roosevelt campaign throughout the country among Negroes.

Other visitors will be Eugene Kinckle Jones, Advisor on Negro Affairs to the United States Department of Commerce; Edgar G. Brown, special assistant to the director of the emergency conservation works program, and Dr. William J. Thompkins, Recorder of Deeds, who directed the campaign of the late President Woodrow Wilson among the Negroes throughout the West. All are active supporters of the New Deal.

Local Leaders Active.

Lawrence A. Oxley, of North Carolina, Commissioner of Conciliation in the State Department of Labor, has been in Philadelphia for a week attending to what he characterizes as "advance work" in connection with Negro activities.

In the local arrangements Deputy Attorney General J. Austin Norris, Representative Marshall E. Shepard, Joseph H. Rainey, State Athletic Commissioner; Mrs. Somerville Fauntleroy, Interracial Committeewoman; Dr. John Morehead, Cora M. Brown, Dr. Nathaniel Dullaven.

Delegate Roster Complete.

The delegates elected to the National Colored Democratic Convention are: 7th ward, Raymond Jones, Lazie M. Griffin; 14th ward, John Morgane, Dennis White; 15th ward, Mary Scott, Mrs. Daisy Berry; 19th ward, Benjamin Jones, Nathaniel Greaves.

In the 20th ward the delegates who will attend the convention estimate that more than 2000 will be here during the week. are Sylvester Mays and Dr. Edwin Thompson; 22d ward, Joseph Page, Kermit Miller; 23d ward, Edward Givens, Frances Flowers; 28th ward, Dr. John Morehead, Cora

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUN 23 1936

South Seen With More Reasons For Revolt Than Smith Bloc Had

Mark Sullivan Finds Democratic Convention About to Kill States' Rights and Two-Thirds Rules and Reverse Itself to Bid for Negro Vote

By Mark Sullivan

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—The Smith insurgency is from the North and from the cities. Of the five signers, three, Messrs. Smith, Colby and Cohalan, are from New York; one ex-Governor Ely, is from Boston; the last, ex-Senator Reed is from Kansas City. The fight between Mr. Smith and his associates on the one side and Messrs. Roosevelt and Farley on the other is a fight between two parts of the Northern and city Democracy.

Yet in this convention there is even more occasion for insurgency from the South. There is far more reason for the South and the Southern Democrats to be appalled by what this convention is about to do to them.

This convention is going to complete what the New Deal in Congress has already begun. This convention is going to put the Democratic party on record as intending to wipe out substantially everything the Southern Democracy knows and cherishes as states' rights. The New Deal is embarked on a program of which the basic principle is centralization of power at Washington. The New Deal's N. R. A. gave to Washington a control, detailed, minute and complete, over every aspect of business and industry. The New Deal's triple-A gave to Washington the power to tell a Georgia farmer how much cotton he might raise, a Virginia farmer how much tobacco, a North Carolina farmer how much potatoes. The New Deal subjected every person in the South to inspection, and unitive action, by officials getting their authority from Washington.

Two-thirds Rule in Peril

In this convention also, the South is to be deprived of a safeguard which for a century has given the South ability to protect its principle of states' rights and its other local positions about national affairs. For 104 years an unbroken rule of the Democratic party has decreed that a Presidential candidate can be named only by two-thirds of a convention. That meant that one-third of a convention could veto a nomination. That meant that the Southern states, acting as a unit in a convention, could prevent the nomination of any Presidential candidate deemed by the South to be unfriendly to its particular views and interests.

Now, what are the particular views and interests that the South has passionately wished to protect? Why has the South always prized states' rights and always insisted on their preservation? Why has the South, ever since the Civil War, always voted the Democratic ticket, practically solidly? And why has the South fought jealously to maintain a rule which gave the South power to prevent Democratic Presidential nominations? What motive has been behind this long and determined insistence by the South on a point of view peculiar to itself?

Much of the point of view peculiar to the South arose from what was once called a "peculiar institution"—a political euphemism for slavery. What the South has wished to insure by states' rights and by the two-thirds rule in Democratic conventions was that the local affairs of the South should be determined by white voters. Ever since the Civil War the Democratic party has stood for white domination, for the minimizing of Negro voting, for the rights of the states to have their own election laws and usages. The South has always refused to vote the Republican ticket because the South felt that the Republican party stood for Negro voting and Negro participation in public affairs in proportion to the Negroes' share of the population.

This was unthinkable to some whole Southern states and many Southern communities, where Negroes outnumber whites. Such communities relied upon the Democratic party and upon the South's own power within the Democratic party to protect it from participation by Negroes in voting and office holding in proportion to the numbers of the race.

And this, too, this reliance, the South is about to lose in this convention. In the welter of revolutionary changes taking place, the least noticed, yet one of the most important is the change in the Democratic party's policy about Negro voting, Negro office holding and Negro participation in public affairs.

The party, under the leadership of Chairman Farley, Senator Guffey and other Northern and city leaders, set out two years ago to draw the Negro vote as a mass from the Republican party to the Democratic. They seem to have succeeded to some degree. There are signs that this year, for the first time since the Negro voted, he may vote in large numbers with the Democratic party.

Drive for Negro Vote On

Here in Philadelphia on Sunday, Chairman Farley and Secretary Morgan addressed the National Colored Democratic Association at a meeting called to synchronize with the Democratic National Convention. Secretary Morgan quoted a Negro Democratic Congressman from Chicago as saying that "Mr. Roosevelt has appointed more Negroes to responsible government positions than the last three Republican administrations taken together." In Pennsylvania, the Democratic state administration has under way a conspicuous campaign to get the Negro vote of the state. Their policy is to appoint Negroes to office in proportion to their share of population. The Pennsylvania Legislature passed a law making it a crime for hotelkeepers and similar purveyors to decline accommodation to Negroes. Throughout the North, in New York, Chicago, Cleveland and other cities, campaigns are under way to get the Negro voters and leaders into the Democratic party. In Congress, the South sees a Negro Congressman from Chicago, who is a Democrat, the first case in history, I think. In this convention it is said that there are thirty Negro delegates and that there never were any before.

About all this as a phenomenon many things could be said. If the attempt to take the Negro voters from the Republican into the Democratic party is successful, it will make a difference in the election. Negro voters happen to be especially numerous in certain key cities, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis. These cites are in large, doubtful states. It might be that migration of all the Negro voters would determine the election in those states and hence in the country. No one can question the right of the Democrats to go after the Negro vote, nor the right of the Negro to vote where he thinks his interest lies. Nevertheless, concentrated pressure on one race to induce it as a mass to change its political affiliation is a form of class appeal that contains more than ordinary dynamite.

But the particular application to this convention has to do with the South. Here the South sees disappear practically every reason, whether of principle or local interest or prejudice, which has hitherto kept the South in the Democratic party. The South has more acute reasons for outbreak than former Governor Smith and his associates have. To see whether the Southern leaders will do anything, we must wait until later in the week.

Copyright, 1936, New York Tribune Inc.

PHILLY CROWDED WITH DEMOCRATIC PARTY "BIG WIGS"

PHILADELPHIA, June 25—Two full-fledged Negro Presidential delegates have been found among the hundred or more Negro visitors to the national convention of the Democratic party here at Convention Hall.

The full roster of delegates and alternates will be known as soon as the credentials committee concludes its deliberations, but so far Harry Austin of New York City and Dr. Theodore Cable, city councilor of Indianapolis, are the only recognized delegates.

Among those at the convention are Attorney Emory B. Smith and Mrs. Smith of Washington; Ira Wharton, Boston; Chief Wesley Young, the deputy sheriff and veteran politician of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Dr. A. H. Smitherman, TERA supervisor of Buffalo.

Carita V. Doane, superintendent of the State Employment Bureau, New York City; Attorney Charles V. Carr, Cleveland; Earl A. Egerton, Camden, N. J.; A. Fay Bennett, of the internal revenue department of Utica, N. Y.; Fletcher A. Amos of this city, who polled 18,000 votes while campaigning for a magistracy.. He is alternate delegate to the convention.

New Yorkers included J. Raymond Jones, deputy assistant U. S. marshal; Richard E. Carey, assistant district attorney; Assemblyman William T. Andrews; former Assemblyman James E. Stephens; Javan A. Steele, city marshal; James A. Ross, editor and publisher of Buffalo; Ulysses S. Poston, journalist; Arthur (Ace) Parker, public speaker; Carson DeWitt Baker and Bessye J. Bearden, deputy collectors in the department of internal revenue.

Among the Washingtonians were Attorney Benjamin F. Sears, Mrs. Viola M. Smith, Mrs. Irene McDaniel, Meredith Lee, Harry Lowe, A. Wharton, Ruth Cornell, Lydia E. Bell, Theodore E. Botts, Thomas H. Clarke, assistant recorder of deeds, and Robert Nelson, former editor.

Other visitors were Daniel West of Inglis, Minn.; Dr. Robert E. Skelton, probation officer of Indianapolis; Attorney Forrest Littlejohn and Henry A. Fleming, the well-known politician, both of Indianapolis; Dr. Henry J. Johnson, NYA supervisor, of Ithaca, N. Y.; Samuel S. Stewart, Newark.

Also present was Mrs. M. Moselle Griffin, manager of the business department of the National Association of Business Women, editor of the journal of the Northeastern Federation of Women's Clubs, and publicity director for the Grand Temple of Elkdom.

Others were Otis Brooks, Harrisburg, Pa.; Attorney T. E. Graves, Michigan City, Ind.; Dr. S. R. Blackwell, Gary, Ind.; Truly Hatchett, the Baltimore realtor; Oscar Newman of Philadelphia, former independent candidate for Congress; Attorney Thomas H. Clarke of Washington, D. C.; Alexander Corse, political leader of Nassau county, New York City; Walter E. Riefer, the aggressive political boss of Queens county, New York.

Nathaniel B. Douse, Benjamin W. H. Kelly and Julius Taylor.
Jones, William E. Johnson, Wil- Other visitors are Carl D. Lau-n L. Harris, Louise Gilmore, Wil-rence, Newark; Attorney J. E. Mit-Gregory, E. W. Gowens, J.chell, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Irene
nson, Alberta J. Scott, Raymond McDaniel, Washington, D. C.; G.
Jones, Ralph T. Jefferson, Ben-W. Richardson, New York City;
in W. Jones. Alexander Inniss, Long Island, N.
lso Dr. John J. Moreland, James Y.; Mrs. M. N. Smith, Phiadelphia; ly, William Jones, Ellis H. Rey-Alice P. Harris, Camden, N. J., and s, Raymond Register, Saylor Edward B. Saunders and I. Duport fin, Dr. Virginia Kimbrough, George of Washington, D. C.
mit Miller, the dance promoter;
O. W. Fulcher, Brooklyn, N. Y.; office of the Recorder of Deeds in W. R. Farley, organizer of the Presi- Washington; Randall Toliver, politiident Roosevelt Clubs of Memphis, cal boss of Westchester county, Tenn.; Mrs. L. L. Cowan of Brook- New York; Mrs. L. L. Cowan, lyn; Mrs. Somerville Fauntleroy, Brooklyn; Miss Agnes Green, New present State committeewoman of York City; J. E. Mitchell, St. Louis, Philadelphia, and Joseph L. McLe- Mo.; Thomas J. Davis of Cleveland; more, the St. Louis attorney who H. J. Johnson of Ithaca, N. Y. polled 17,000 votes as a candidate Representing Philadelphia were for Congress in 1928. Cora Dullman, Howard Adams,
Also Frederick Weaver, Washing- Pearl Adams, Edgar Brown, S. B.
ton, D. C.; Evelyn B. Wells, of the Barber, S. D. Brown, Carl D. Cole-

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUN 23 1936

South Seen With More Reasons For Revolt Than Smith Bloc Had

Mark Sullivan Finds Democratic Convention About to Kill States' Rights and Two-Thirds Rules and Reverse Itself to Bid for Negro Vote

By Mark Sullivan

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—The Smith insurgency is from the North and from the cities. Of the five signers, three, Messrs. Smith, Colby and Cohalan, are from New York; one ex-Governor Ely, is from Boston; the last, ex-Senator Reed is from Kansas City. The fight between Mr. Smith and his associates on the one side and Messrs. Roosevelt and Farley on the other is a fight between two parts of the Northern and city Democracy.

Yet in this convention there is even more occasion for insurgency from the South. There is far more reason for the South and the Southern Democrats to be appalled by what this convention is about to do to them.

This convention is going to complete what the New Deal in Congress has already begun. This convention is going to put the Democratic party on record as intending to wipe out substantially everything the Southern Democracy knows and cherishes as states' rights. The New Deal is embarked on a program of which the basic principle is centralization of power at Washington. The New Deal's N. R. A. gave to Washington a control, detailed, minute and complete, over every aspect of business and industry. The New Deal's triple-A gave to Washington the power to tell a Georgia farmer how much cotton he might raise, a Virginia farmer how much tobacco, a North Carolina farmer how much potatoes. The New Deal subjected every person in the South to inspection, and unitive action, by officials getting their authority from Washington.

Two-thirds Rule in Peril

In this convention also, the South is to be deprived of a safeguard which for a century has given the South ability to protect its principle of states' rights and its other local positions about national affairs. For 104 years an unbroken rule of the Democratic party has decreed that a Presidential candidate can be named only by two-thirds of a convention. That meant that one-third of a convention could veto a nomination. That meant that the Southern states, acting as a unit in a convention, could prevent the nomination of any Presidential candidate deemed by the South to be unfriendly to its particular views and interests.

Now, what are the particular views and interests that the South has passionately wished to protect? Why has the South always prized states' rights and always insisted on their preservation? Why has the South, ever since the Civil War, always voted the Democratic ticket, practically solidly? And why has the South fought jealously to maintain a rule which gave the South power to prevent Democratic Presidential nominations? What motive has been behind this long and determined insistence by the South on a point of view peculiar to itself?

Much of the point of view peculiar to the South arose from what was once called a "peculiar institution"—a political euphemism for slavery. What the South has wished to insure by states' rights and by the two-thirds rule in Democratic conventions was that the local affairs of the South should be determined by white voters. Ever since the Civil War the Democratic party has stood for white domination, for the minimizing of Negro voting, for the rights of the states to have their own election laws and usages. The South has always refused to vote the Republican ticket because the South felt that the Republican party stood for ... voting and Negro participation in public affairs in proportion to the Negroes' share of the population.

This was unthinkable to some whole Southern states and many Southern communities, where Negroes outnumber whites. Such communities relied upon the Democratic party and upon the South's own power within the Democratic party to protect it from participation by Negroes in voting and office holding in proportion to the numbers of the race.

And this, too, this reliance, the South is about to lose in this convention. In the welter of revolutionary changes taking place, the least noticed, yet one of the most important is the change in the Democratic party's policy about Negro voting, Negro office holding and Negro participation in public affairs.

The party, under the leadership of Chairman Farley, Senator Guffey and other Northern and city leaders, set out two years ago to draw the Negro vote as a mass from the Republican party to the Democratic. They seem to have succeeded to some degree. There are signs that this year, for the first time since the Negro voted, he may vote in large numbers with the Democratic party.

Drive for Negro Vote On

Here in Philadelphia on Sunday, Chairman Farley and Secretary Morgan addressed the National Colored Democratic Association at a meeting called to synchronize with the Democratic National Convention. Secretary Morgan quoted a Negro Democratic Congressman from Chicago as saying that "Mr. Roosevelt has appointed more Negroes to responsible government positions than the last three Republican administrations taken together." In Pennsylvania, the Democratic state administration has under way a conspicuous campaign to get the Negro vote of the state. Their policy is to appoint Negroes to office in proportion to their share of population. The Pennsylvania Legislature passed a law making it a crime for hotelkeepers and similar purveyors to decline accommodation to Negroes. Throughout the North, in New York, Chicago, Cleveland and other cities, campaigns are under way to get the Negro voters and leaders into the Democratic party. In Congress, the South sees a Negro Congressman from Chicago, who is a Democrat, the first case in history, I think. In this convention it is said that there are thirty Negro delegates and that there never were any before.

About all this as a phenomenon many things could be said. If the attempt to take the Negro voters from the Republican into the Democratic party is successful, it will make a difference in the election. Negro voters happen to be especially numerous in certain key cities, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis. These cites are in large, doubtful states. It might be that migration of all the Negro voters would determine the election in those states and hence in the country. No one can question the right of the Negro to vote where he thinks his interest lies. Nevertheless, concentrated pressure on one race to induce it as a mass to change its political affiliation is a form of class appeal that contains more than ordinary dynamite.

But the particular application to this convention has to do with the South. Here the South sees disappear practically every reason, whether of principle or local interest or prejudice, which has hitherto kept the South in the Democratic party. The South has more acute reasons for outbreak than former Governor Smith and his associates have. To see whether the Southern leaders will do anything, we must wait until later in the week.

Copyright, 1936, New York Tribune Inc.

PHILLY CROWDED WITH DEMOCRATIC PARTY "BIG WIGS"

PHILADELPHIA, June 25—Two full-fledged Negro Presidential delegates have been found among the hundred or more Negro visitors to the national convention of the Democratic party here at Convention Hall.

The full roster of delegates and alternates will be known as soon as the credentials committee concludes its deliberations, but so far Harry Austin of New York City and Dr. Theodore Cable, city councilor of Indianapolis, are the only recognized delegates.

Among those at the convention are Attorney Emory B. Smith and Mrs. Smith of Washington; Ira Wharton, Boston; Chief Wesley Young, the deputy sheriff and veteran politician of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Dr. A. H. Smitherman, TERA supervisor of Buffalo.

Carita V. Keane, superintendent of the State Employment Bureau, New York City; Attorney Charles V. Carr, Cleveland; Earl A. Egerton, Camden, N. J.; A. Fay Bennett, of the internal revenue department of Utica, N. Y.; Fletcher A. Amostion of this city, who polled 18,000 votes while campaigning for a magistracy.. He is alternate delegate to the convention.

New Yorkers included J. Raymond Jones, deputy assistant U. S. marshal; Richard E. Carey, assistant district attorney; Assemblyman William T. Andrews; former Assemblyman James E. Stephens; Javan A. Steele, city marshal; James A. Ross, editor and publisher of Buffalo; Ulysses S. Poston, journalist; Arthur (Ace) Parker, public speaker; Carson DeWitt Baker and Bessye J. Bearden, deputy collector of the port of New York.

Among the Washingtonians were Attorney Benjamin F. Sears, Mrs. Viola M. Smith, Mrs. Irene McDaniel, Meredith Lee, Harry Lowe, A. Wharton, Ruth Cornell, Lydia E. Bell, Theodore E. Botts, Thomas H. Clarke, assistant recorder of deeds, and Robert Nelson, former editor.

Other visitors were Daniel West of Inglis, Minn.; Dr. Robert E. Skelton, probation officer of Indianapolis; Attorney Forrest Littlejohn and Henry A. Fleming, the well-known politician, both of Indianapolis; Dr. Henry J. Johnson, NYA supervisor, of Ithaca, N. Y.; Samuel S. Stewart, Newark.

Also present was Mrs. M. Moselle Griffin, manager of the business department of the National Association of Business Women, editor of the journal of the Northeastern Federation of Women's Clubs, and publicity director for the Grand Temple of Elkdom.

Others were Otis Brooks, Harrisburg, Pa.; Attorney T. E. Graves, Michigan City, Ind.; Dr. S. R. Blackwell, Gary, Ind.; Truly Hatchett, the Baltimore realtor; Oscar Newman of Philadelphia, former independent candidate for Congress; Attorney Thomas H. Clarke of Washington, leader of Nassau county, New York City; Walter E. Riefer, the aggressive political boss of Queens county, New York.

Nathaniel B. Douse, Benjamin W. H. Kelly and Julius Taylor.
Other visitors are Carl D. Lauman, William E. Johnson, Wilones, Newark; Attorney J. E. Mitliam L. Harris, Louise Gilmore, Wilson, Mo.; Mrs. Irene Gregory, E. W. Gowens, J. Cowan, Washington, D. C.; G. chell, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. L. L. Cowan, New York; Mrs. L. L. Cowan of Brooklyn; Miss Agnes Green, New York City; Mrs. Somerville Fauntleroy, Brooklyn; J. E. Mitchell, St. Louis, Mo.; Thomas J. Davis of Cleveland; Also Dr. John J. Moreland, James Y. McDaniel, Washington, D. C.; G. Alberta J. Scott, Raymond Richardson, New York City; Ralph T. Jefferson, Benjamin W. Jones. Alexander Inniss, Long Island, N. Y.; Mrs. M. N. Smith, Philadelphia; Also Dr. John J. Moreland, James Ellis H. Rey- Alice P. Harris, Camden, N. J., and William Jones, Raymond Register, Saylor Edward B. Saunders and I. Duport Dr. Virginia Kimbrough, George of Washington, D. C.
O. W. Fulcher, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Randall Toliver, politW. R. Farley, organizer of the Presical boss of Westchester county, ident Roosevelt Clubs of Memphis, New York; Mrs. L. L. Cowan, Tenn.; Mrs. L. L. Cowan of Brook- Brooklyn; Miss Agnes Green, New lyn; Mrs. Somerville Fauntleroy, York City; J. E. Mitchell, St. Louis, present State committeewoman of Mo.; Thomas J. Davis of Cleveland; Philadelphia, and Joseph L. McLe- H. J. Johnson of Ithaca, N. Y. more, the St. Louis attorney who Representing Philadelphia were polled 17,000 votes as a candidate Cora Dullman, Howard Adams, for Congress in 1928. Pearl Adams, Edgar Brown, S. B. Also Frederick Weaver, Washing- Barber, S. D. Brown, Carl D. Cole ton, D. C.; Evelyn B. Wells, of the

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

DEMOCRATS MAY BOYCOTT CONFAB

No Request for Negro Hotel Needs Made

Threatened "jim-crow" of Negroes delegates at the state Democratic convention, which opens Monday in Syracuse, may lead Herbert L. Bruce, leader of the Twenty-first district, to order delegates of his district to boycott the convention, it was learned yesterday.

Bruce absolutely refused to say a single word about the matter when approached by the Amsterdam News. All he would speak about was the showing made in last week's primary by his district.

Twenty-first Leader Ignored.

It has been learned very reliably, however, that it is the custom that Tammany delegates be all housed in the same hotel, but that, although other district leaders have been asked to send in their reservations for rooms, no request has come to the district leader of the Twenty-first.

A similar situation arose for the national Democratic convention, when plans were made to segregate the Negro delegates, while other Tammany leaders were accommodated together at a downtown hotel.

Persons close to Mr. Bruce claim that, as far as he knows, there is not even going to be a convention in Syracuse, since he had not been officially notified. The Bruce delegates consist of four Negroes and three whites.

While refusing to comment on the threatened ignoring of his delegates, Mr. Bruce was very talkative over the figures on the primary. He pointed out that in every one of the twenty-seven Negro election districts the regular candiates were nominated, from the Negro assemblyman, W. T. Andrews, through the candidates for judgeships, with the one exception that two districts supported Judge Jonah Goldstein. In the fifteen white election districts, however, all of them, except No. 2, went to the irregular candidates, from assemblyman up.

DEMOS IN GIANT RALLY AT GARY

GARY, Sept. 23.—(SNS) — Climaxing the gigantic annual three-day convention, the Indiana Negro Democratic association heard such party stand-outs as Lieutenant Governor Clifford Townsend, candidate for governor; Omer S. Jackson, Democratic state chairman, who listed as principal speaker, and many county and state candidates.

Townsend spoke, as did Rev. C. P. Shephard of Philadelphia, colored minister who gave the invocation at the Democratic national convention. The latter was scheduled to speak at the last night's session in Rosemont hall, 1835 Broadway, where convention activities are centering, was unable to reach Gary in time. Dr. D. A. Bethea of Hammond was toastmaster. Dr. S. R. Blackwell and Attorney C. Warren Harvey of Gary introduced the speakers.

Attendance at tonight's banquet exceeded 500.

An all-day outing in the colored section of Gleason park wound up the convention.

A parade scheduled to start at 25th and Broadway was the highlight of Saturday's program for the colored democratic visitors. City and county officials and officials of the Gary, 1st district and state organizations of the association reviewed the parade from a reviewing stand erected in front of Rosemont hall.

Addressing the opening session ofof the conclave yesterday afternoon, Edward Khelseau of Indianapolis, one of the states colored democratic leaders, declared:

"At last we Negroes have realized that voing Republican will not aid in the further emancipation of southern Negroes. Despite Republicans having been in power in Washington all except 16 years since the colored man was set free, the condition of the southern Negro remains little changed.

"We are asked why we deserted the Repuglican party. We did not desert it, we were kicked out of it. The Democrats merely accepted us."

Mrs. John Howev or Gary, instigator and president of the Gary Volunteer Democratic club and another speaker yesterday said the colored people and the poorer white people would be "ungrateful forr all he has done for us if we did not give President Roosevelt another term."

Speakers at last night's session included John Hinton, president of the Gary chapter of the Indiana Negro Democratic association; Dr. Blackwell, president of the 1st district organization; J. J. Hoover of Terre Haute, state president; Mrs. F. Catherine Bailey of Marion, state N. A. A. C. P. president, and Rev. M. A. Talley of Indianapolis.

MILAM OFFICES OF DEMOCRATIC PARTY OPENED

HOUSTON—It looks like the fireworks have started among Negroes for the Roosevelt-Garner campaign. Enthusiasm has begun to run high and routine has started.

The Texas Negro Roosevelt-Garner headquarters opened Saturday with offices at 4091 Milam street. Democratic literature will be furnished without cost. These offices are approved by the state and national bodies.

Alphonse Mills is director and the committee consists of Will Green Will Ponder, Attorney H. S. Davis Attorney J. M. Nabrit, Dr. W. J Minor, Edward Griffin, Dr. Hobart Thomas, Dr. T. M. Shadowens, Dr Leon Peacock, Don Roby and Wm Robinson.

INFORMER SUPPORTS DEMOCRATS—

So far as we know, it is agreed by all Negroes that the thing Texas Negroes need most politically is the right to vote for local officials.

As a matter of common sense, Texas Negroes ought to seek, and they desire to seek, to maneuver themselves in positions to get that right.

At the very threshold Negroes meet the age-worn challenge to decide between Republicans and Democrats on the basis of their treatment of Negroes in the past. Every four years we accept the dare and end up giving away our vote, like the country boy, who hauled his city cousin up the hill on a free bet that he wasn't strong enough to carry his cousin up the hill.

We believe what the Republicans or Democrats have done in the past is a false issue. We have overpaid every debt we have ever owed the Republicans. If votes were bank notes, they would owe us change. We don't owe either party anything.

We not only are free to, but we owe it to our wives and children, to look both parties over without sentiment, and calmly support the one through whom we can eventually get the right to vote for local officials.

To that end we offer these observations:

Local officials, commissioners, mayors, sheriffs, county clerks, etc. are practically elected in democratic primaries in Texas and have been for the last twenty-five years.

Republicans of Texas do not even bother to put candidates up for the local offices Negroes want to vote for. In ever increasing numbers Republicans vote in Democratic primaries themselves.

It is the opinion of the ablest Republicans that white Republican leaders like R. B. Creager, National Committeeman, don't want to build a strong party in Texas. They are content to organize a rooting section every four years so that if the Republicans win the National election they can received the patronage for Texas.

But be that as it may, there is no local Republican party with which Negroes can ally themselves in the hope of battling with Democrats for local offices. Neither are the Republicans now making any attempt to organize a permanent voting machine in Texas.

So what can Negroes gain talking about uniting with the Republican party in Texas, when there isn't and hasn't been an effective Republican party in Texas in twenty-five years? The Republican party hardly casts 150,000 votes in Texas. So when we go Republican in Texas,—except for the few who get cash—we walk off the gang plank into the ocean of oblivion.

On the other hand, as Republican bitter-enders point out, the Democratic gates are barred against us. So what?

When its roots are thus laid bare, we see that our problem is to decide whether we shall wrap the cloak of sentiment about us, and walk off the gang plank into oblivion; or try to pick the lock and storm the barred gates

America had lynched us, disfranchised us, Jim-crowed us; but we decided to fight America's us and crucified supported the Republicans all their lives, and who feel that cause and pick they can't support a party like the Democratic party, war was over. In which has barred us and abused us, we cite our action in shoulder with yo the recent World War.
But when we win
you to get our f

freedom and democracy."

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

DEMOCRATS MAY BOYCOTT CONFAB

No Request for Negro Hotel Needs Made

Threatened "jim-crow" of Negroes delegates at the state Democratic convention, which opens Monday in Syracuse, may lead Herbert L. Bruce, leader of the Twenty-first district, to order delegates of his district to boycott the convention, it was learned yesterday.

Bruce absolutely refused to say a single word about the matter when approached by the Amsterdam News. All he would speak about was the showing made in last week's primary by his district.

Twenty-first Leader Ignored.

It has been learned very reliably, however, that it is the custom that Tammany delegates be all housed in the same hotel, but that, although other district leaders have been asked to send in their reservations for rooms, no request has come to the district leader of the Twenty-first.

A similar situation arose for the national Democratic convention, when plans were made to segregate the Negro delegates, while other Tammany leaders were accommodated together at a downtown hotel.

Persons close to Mr. Bruce claim that, as far as he knows, there is not even going to be a convention in Syracuse, since he had not been officially notified. The Bruce delegates consist of four Negroes and three whites.

While refusing to comment on the threatened ignoring of his delegates, Mr. Bruce was very talkative over the figures on the primary. He pointed out that in every one of the twenty-seven Negro election districts the regular candiates were nominated, from the Negro assemblyman, W. T. Andrews, through the candidates for judgeships, with the one exception that two districts supported Judge Jonah Goldstein. In the fifteen white election districts, however, all o them, except No. 2, went to the irregular candidates, from assemblyman up.

DEMOS IN GIANT RALLY AT GARY

GARY, Sept. 23.—(SNS) — Climaxing the gigantic annual three-day convention, the Indiana Negro Democratic association heard such party stand-outs as Lieutenant Governor Clifford Townsend, candidate for governor; Omer S. Jackson, Democratic state chairman, who listed as principal speaker, and many county and state candidates.

Townsend spoke, he did Rev. C. P. Shephard of Philadelphia, colored minister who gave the invocation at the Democratic national convention. The latter was scheduled to speak at the last night's session in Rosemont hall, 1835 Broadway, where convention activities are centering, was unable to reach Gary in time. Dr. D. A. Bethea of Hammond was toastmaster. Dr. S. R. Blackwell and Attorney C. Warren Harvey of Gary introduced the speakers.

Attendance at tonight's banquet exceeded 500.

An all-day outing in the colored section of Gleason park wound up the convention.

A parade scheduled to start at 25th and Broadway was the highlight of Saturday's program for the colored democratic visitors. City and county officials and officials of the Gary, 1st district and state organizations of the association reviewed the parade from a reviewing stand erected in front of Rosemont hall.

Addressing the opening, session ofof the conclave yesterday afternoon, Edward Khelseau of Indianapolis, one of the states colored democratic leaders, declared:

"At last we Negroes have realized that voing Republican will not aid in the further emancipation of southern Negroes. Despite Republicans having been in power in Washington all except 16 years since the colored man was set free, the condition of the southern Negro remains little changed.

"We are asked why we deserted the Repuglican party. We did not desert it, we were kicked out of it. The Democrats merely accepted us."

Mrs. John Howev or Gary, instigator and president of the Gary Volunteer Democratic club and another speaker yesterday said the colored people and the poorer white people would be "ungrateful forr all he has done for us if we did not give President Roosevelt another term."

Speakers at last night's session included John Hinton, president of the Gary chapter of the Indiana Negro Democratic association; Dr. Blackwell, president of the 1st district organization; J. J. Hoover of Terre Haute, state president; Mrs. F. Catherine Bailey of Marion, state N. A. A. C. P. president, and Rev. M. A. Talley of Indianapolis.

MILAM OFFICES OF DEMOCRATIC PARTY OPENED

HOUSTON—It looks like the fireworks have started among Negroes for the Roosevelt-Garner campaign. Enthusiasm has begun to run high and routine has started.

The Texas Negro Roosevelt-Garner headquarters opened Saturday with offices at 409½ Milam street. Democratic literature will be furnished without cost. These offices are approved by the state and national bodies.

Alphonse Mills is director and the committee consists of Will Green Will Ponder, Attorney H. S. Davis Attorney J. M. Nabrit, Dr. W. J Minor, Edward Griffin, Dr. Hobart Thomas, Dr. T. M. Shadowens, Dr Leon Peacock, Don Roby and Wm Robinson.

INFORMER SUPPORTS DEMOCRATS—

So far as we know, it is agreed by all Negroes that the thing Texas Negroes need most politically is the right to vote for local officials.

As a matter of common sense, Texas Negroes ought to seek, and they desire to seek, to maneuver themselves in positions to get that right. 10-10-36

At the very threshold Negroes meet the age-worn challenge to decide between Republicans and Democrats on the basis of their treatment of Negroes in the past. Every four years we accept the dare and end up giving away our vote, like the country boy, who hauled his city cousin up the hill on a free bet that he wasn't strong enough to carry his cousin up the hill.

We believe what the Republicans or Democrats have done in the past is a false issue. We have overpaid every debt we have ever owed the Republicans. If votes were bank notes, they would owe us change. We don't owe either party anything.

We not only are free to, but we owe it to our wives and children, to look both parties over without sentiment, and calmly support the one through whom we can eventually get the right to vote for local officials.

To that end we offer these observations:

Local officials, commissioners, mayors, sheriffs, county clerks, etc. are practically elected in democratic primaries in Texas and have been for the last twenty-five years.

Republicans of Texas do not even bother to put candidates up for the local offices Negroes want to vote for. In ever increasing numbers Republicans vote in Democratic primaries themselves.

It is the opinion of the ablest Republicans that white Republican leaders like R. B. Creager, National Committeeman, don't want to build a strong party in Texas. They are content to organize a rooting section every four years so that if the Republicans win the National election they can received the patronage for Texas.

But be that as it may, there is no local Republican party with which Negroes can ally themselves in the hope of battling with Democrats for local offices. Neither are the Republicans now making any attempt to organize a permanent voting machine in Texas.

So what can Negroes gain talking about uniting with the Republican party in Texas, when there isn't and hasn't been an effective Republican party in Texas in twenty-five years? The Republican party hardly casts 150,000 votes in Texas. So when we go Republican in Texas,—except for the few who get cash—we walk off the gang plank into the ocean of oblivion.

On the other hand, as Republican bitter-enders point out, the Democratic gates are barred against us. So what?

When its roots are thus laid bare, we see that our problem is to decide whether we shall wrap the cloak of sentiment about us, and walk off the gang plank into oblivion; or try to pick the lock and storm the barred gates

America had lynched us, disfranchised us, Jim-crowed us and crucified us; but we decided to fight America's cause and pick up our fight with demagogues, when the they can't support a party like the Democratic party, war was over. In effect we said, "We'll fight shoulder to which has barred us and abused us, we cite our action in shoulder with you to make the world free for Democracy. the recent World War. But when we win we shall renew a relentless fight against you to get our full share of freedom and democracy."

We in Texas live in Democratic territory. Whether we wish it or not, our destiny is inextricably wrapped with that of local Democrats. To paraphrase the great Fred Douglass, the Democratic party in Texas "is the ship of state, all else is the sea".

The Informer believes Negroes should fight for their right to vote in Democratic primaries as true Democrats. They should fight, in season and out, to compel recognition as Democrats entitled to vote in primaries.

We have held on to the Republicans, afraid to go whole-heartedly Democratic, lest we be wrong and lose something. But it's still true that he, who would gain a full life, must not fear to lose his life.

We may as well face the fact that we can't serve two masters. We can't fight to get in Democratic primaries, and then vote Republican every chance we get, and expect to be taken seriously. We'll have to courageously abandon sentiment and play the game to get what we want. What we want must come through the Democrats in Texas.

To begin the practice of what we preach The Informer will support Albert Thomas against Roy Nichols. And let it be understood we have never seen either candidate. We have inquired about both and believe that either will make a good congressman for the district.

But Thomas is related by party to our local officials who are all Democrats. By a vote for Thomas we put them under obligation. To illustrate, win or lose, the street commissioner is more likely to gravel streets in a section where Negroes voted Democratic than where they voted Republican.

If we vote for Nichols, he has no Republican friends who are officials down here to help us. If Nichols were elected by our vote, he couldn't do any more than Thomas will do.

We hope Negroes will be allowed to vote in the Democratic city primaries to be held in Houston next month. But if they are not, The Informer shall go on fighting for the right. In the meantime, it shall use every effort, and advises other Negroes to use all effort, to bring about the selection of Democrats with character and fair minds. For whatever Democrats are nominated, are sure to be elected and whining about being barred won't defeat them or help us.

As long as this editorial is, there are those with bated breath, waiting for our announcement of our stand on Roosevelt and Landon. Now that's a national issue and we'll see you next week.

Canvass Reveals Negro Voters Favor Roosevelt, Citing Relief Policies

By American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The colored man's political sympathies—which have been the traditional property of the Republican party ever since the Civil War—are aligned today with Franklin Roosevelt and the Democratic party in what may prove to be one of the most significant shifts in many, many elections.

That fact is indicated today as the result of a special canvass conducted among negroes by the American Institute of Public Opinion, which reveals that out of every 100 negroes who intend to vote next month, 69 plan to vote for Roosevelt, 31 for Governor Landon.

In at least six states, votes cast by negroes may have a decisive effect upon the outcome. These are: New York, which now has 287,000 registered negro voters; Pennsylvania, with 277,000 registered; Illinois, 218,000; Ohio, 200,000; Michigan, 134,000, and Indiana, 78,000.

One reason for the negro's new political allegiance is expressed in the comment of a colored WPA worker to an Institute canvasser in Baltimore Maryland:

"What am I doing now? Working, ain't I? Well, I didn't start working until Roosevelt got in the chair."

The negro was one of the first to feel the bite of depression and unemployment in 1930-32, and he has subsequently been one of the largest beneficiaries of relief and Work Progress expenditures. The result has been to shatter, at least temporarily, the old alliance between the negro and the Republican party.

Loss Recognized.

Republican stratgetists frankly recognize that their party has suffered a loss of colored support, but before today there has not been an authoritative assessment of just how much support the Republicans have lost.

Today's institute poll of negroes was conducted entirely by personal interviewers in the absence of adequate mailing lists. No attempt was made to canvass negroes in states where their vote is light. But elsewhere, in face-to-face conversations, the colored voter was asked these questions:

1. Do you plan to vote this fall?

2. Which candidate do you prefer for president?

3. What is the chief reason for your choice?

4. Did you vote in 1932? If so, for whom?

The results indicate that the colored voter was first jarred loose from his Republican associations in the Roosevelt landslide of 1932. Along with voters in every walk of life, he crossed party lines to elect a Democratic administration. In that election the country voted 59 per cent for Roosevelt to 41 per cent for Hoover. In today's ballots negroes record that they were 61 per cent to 39 per cent for Roosevelt at that time, four years ago.

But whereas there has been a nation-wide defection from Roosevelt of about 6 points (from 59 per cent of the popular vote four years ago to 53.2 per cent as reported last Sunday), Roosevelt has gained 8 points with colored voters. This contrast is illustrated in the following table:

	% for Roosevelt.
	1935	Today	Chg.
Negro Vote	61%	69%	+8%
Nat'l Vote	59%	53.2	—6

Four States.

State by state, the poll shows a wide range of sentiment. In New York and Pensylvania colored voters are more than 4 to 1 for Roosevelt. In Maryland they give him a much narrower lead. And Delaware is an example of a state where the colored vote is still Republican.

Each of these states, however, illustrates the fact that the Roosevelt administration has made important gains among negroes since 1932. The following table compares the vote today in these states with the vote of the same persons in 1932:

	% for Roosevelt		Dem.
	1932	Today	Gain
Negroes	80%	82%	+2
New York	73	83	+10
Pennsylvania	46	56	+10
Maryland	30	44	+14
Delaawre

FDR—OR THE PARTY?

Will these voters stay with the Democratic party after FDR is no onger the candidate?

Only time can answer that question, but the comments of representative colored voters in the Institute canvass indicate that Roosevelt is almost the only reason for their allegiance today.

"I never voted the Democratic ticket before in my life," submits a colored Wilmington, Del., WPA worker, "but I'm a Roosevelt man. It's not the party. It's the man."

"I think Roosevelt will do more for my race than any other president," comments another voter in the same traditionally Republican city.

Here are additional expressions of colored opinion:

Clerk—"I didn't have any work till Roosevelt was elected. I got my job through NRA."

Barber—"The Democrats have opened the eyes of the poor man. He sees now that the Republicans only wanted his vote."

Gardener—"People who don't vote for Roosevelt is foolish."

Reliefer—"Roosevelt caused food to be in my house."

Chef—"I like the Democratic side. That man has strutted his stuff."

Huckster—"If I had my way I'd make that man Roosevelt King and Queen."

There is a strong tradition of Republicanism in the colored voter, however, and these are typical expression of it:

Factory Worker—"I thing Roosevelt meant the country good, but I vote Republican."

Laborer—"You know how I vote when you look at me."

Housewife—"I've been Republican all my days, and I'm too old for fancy changes now."

Clergyman—"Roosevelt is a good man, but he's mixed up with a bad party."

Janitor—"I wouldn't change my ticket for a thousand dollars. I love the Republican Party.

Reliefer—"I'm afraid if the Democrats get all the power the negroes all over the United States would be disfranchised."

Clergyman—"I'm voting for the Grand Old Party. I never change."

Barber—"Ive always voted Republican. If a dog ran for president, and he was a Republican, I'd vote for him."

Other colored voters, approached for their opinions, evade direct answer:

Laborer—"I vote all the time, but nobody ever knows who for. I keep hat to myself."

71-Year-Old—"I only vote when I feel like it, and I haven't voted yet."

An Idea On Test

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Straw votes have been familiar in presidential elections for a generation, but the election of 1936 will see the test of a new idea in forecasting public opinion on political subects.

In brief, the idea is this:

Nation-wide public opinion can be sampled accurately and swiftly by distributing from 100,000 to 200,000 ballots to a cross-section of America.

No need for millions of ballots. No need for long waits of weeks while such millions are tabulated.

If the presidential poll of the American Institute of Public Opinion on November 1 predicts the popular vote of the newly-elected president of the United States within 3 or 4 per cent of bull's-eye accuracy, the idea originated by Dr. George Gallup will receive striking vindication.

Democracy may then be within reach of the day described by the great political scientist, James Bryce, who said in 1893:

"A final stage in the evolution of government by opinion would be reached if the will of the majority of citizens were to become ascertainable at all times."

Seventy-eight American newspapers of all shades of political belief have combined to make possible this revolutionary venture in modern journalism. Their roll follows:

Republican (11) — Boise Idaho Statesman, Cheyenne State Tribune Leader, Dayton Journal and Herald, Los Angeles Times, Minneapolis Tribune, Oakland Tribune, Philadelphia Inquirer, Rochester Democrat & Chronicle, San Francisco Chronicle, San Jose Mercury Herald, Toledo Times.

Independent Republican (9)—Bellingham Herald, Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, Indianapolis Star, Milwaukee Sentinel, New York Herald Tribune, Rockford Morning Star, South Bend Tribune, Spokane Spokesman-Review, Topeka State Journal.

Independent (37) — Billings Gazette, Bloomington Daily Pantagraph, Buffalo Times, Boston Globe, Cincinnati Enquirer, Dallas News, Decatur Herald & Review, Denver Rocky Mountain News, Des Moines Register & Tribune, Detroit News, Duluth Herald & News-Tribune, Evansville Press, Gary Post-Tribune, Greensboro News, Knoxville News-Sentinel, Lincoln Journal & Star, Muncie Star, Nashville Banner, Oklahoma City Oklahoman and Times, Omaha World-Herald, Parkersburg News, Peoria Journal-Transcript, Pittsburgh Press, Providence Journal, St. Joseph News-Press, St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Salt Lake City Tribune, San Antonio Express, San Diego Sun, Scranton Scrantonian, Seattle Star, Sioux City Journal, Tacoma Times, Urbana Evening & Sunday Courier, Washington Post, Wheeling News-Register, Wichita Eagle.

Independent Democratic (14)—Birmingham News-Age-Herald, Butte Montana Standard, Chattanooga Times, Cleveland Plain Dealer, Durham Herald, Louisville Courier-Journal, Miami Herald, Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, Portland Oregon Journal, Richmond Times-Dispatch, Savannah Morning News, Shreveport Times, Tucson Arizona Star, Roanoke Times.

Democratic (7)—Atlanta Constitution, Charlotte News, El Paso Times, Fairmont Times, Houston Chronicle, Lynchburg News, Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Political - 1936
Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
June 28, 1936

Three South Carolinians Who Joined Smith in Walk-out

REPRESENTATIVE BRITTON

REPRESENTATIVE SMITH

SENATOR PARLER

Not five, but nine, took walks from the Philadelphia Democratic convention with United States Senator E. D. Smith when negroes began speaking. The News and Courier yesterday received by telegraph a full list of South Carolina delegates who left the hall. The message was from William F. Burguson, of Charleston, United States marshal.

Senator Smith was joined by Mayor Burnet R. Maybank, of Charleston, in a walk-out when a negro minister of Philadelphia was called upon to offer the invocation at one of the opening sessions.

Senator Smith walked out for the "second and last time" Thursday when Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, Illinois negro, addressed the convention from the platform. With him in the second walk-out was Mayor C. Frank Clyburn, of Kershaw; Mrs. C. L. Wheeler, wife of a member of the South Carolina general assembly and delegate from the Sixth South Carolina district; Dr. Olin Sawyer, member of the house of representatives from Georgetown county; Representative Winchester C. Smith, Jr., of Williston; Senator J. D. Parler, of St. George; Representative J. B. Britton, of Sumter; Mrs. George Stuckey, of Bishopville and Thomas R. Smith, of Orangeburg county. Mayor Maybank was not in the hall at the time of Mitchell's speech.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE

JUL 1 - 1936

Talmadge Sees Negroes 'Flaunted' by New Deal

South to Protest Philadelphia 'Outrage,' Says Governor

ATLANTA, June 30 (AP).—Governor Eugene Talmadge charged today the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia established "social equality and political equality" by allowing Negroes to take part.

"No Republican administration has ever forced the Negroes on the Southern people as did the convention at Philadelphia," Mr. Talmadge said.

The Georgia Governor, who has campaigned against the New Deal in various states, recently announced he would support the Democratic candidates nominated in 1936 as well as the platform.

"The New Deal papers of Georgia and the South are printing just as little about this Negro domination and equality as they can get by with," Governor Talmadge said.

"When they flaunted Negroes in the hotels and dining rooms, and had them making nominating speeches to our Southern people, it was saying to us:

"'You don't amount to anything, anyway. We will buy you. We will make you associate with the Negro, and make you like it.'

"There are thousands of good white women and men in the South who will register their protest against this outrage."

ANDERSON, S. C.
Independent-Tribune

JUN 26 1936

NEGROES AT THE CONVENTION

Whoever was responsible for the appearance, for the first time, of a negro on the program of the Democratic National Convention unquestionably made a blunder. It is bad enough to have negroes in the convention as delegates from the "Black Belts" which went Democratic in the last election, and elsewhere, but the leadership that projected any single one of them into a conspicuous place did not contribute anything to party harmony in the South.

However, it seems that the incident was over-emphasized by Senator Smith, who is very cool on the New Deal. Whether his attitude is due to his failure to land a place in the Roosevelt cabinet as secretary of agriculture, or whether it is inspired by a feeling of envy because of the prominent part taken in administration affairs by James F. Byrnes, junior senator, is a matter of conjecture. It would seem that the real cause for Senator Smith's explosion was portrayed in his declaration: "I am sick and tired of the whole damned thing" — rather than of the appearance of a negro preacher who offered a brief prayer! He seems to object to "the whole damned thing."

In South Carolina, negroes vote in the Democratic primary, when they establish proven allegiance to General Wade Hampton. This does not mean, that they are regarded as socially the equal of the white people. They may be permitted to vote, under the conditions laid down, and their votes count, but white people do not take them into their parlors or offices and sit them down along side their families to discuss political matters and how they shall vote.

There was a time, too, in the South, when negroes and whites worshipped under the same roof. Many of the old time churches, in slavery days, had a balcony in which the faithful slaves sat during church services, joining in the singing and worshipping with the white people. This could not have been construed, by the fartherest stretch of the imagination, as social equality for the blacks.

Senator Smith served in the General Assembly of this state with two negroes, from Georgetown county. This condition did not give rise to the suspicion that he or any other of the white members felt they were socially equal to the whites. The negroes were there due to political conditions that made it necessary to have a fusion ticket to avoid outright control in the densely populated black districts going to the negroes. In fact, several negroes were in attendance at the Constitutional Convention in 1898.

We feel the expression from Chairman Ben T. Leppard, to the effect that the negroes will not constitute a problem, "socially or politically" in South Carolina, is sound. A vast majority of the people of this state agree with Senator Smith's statement that negroes receive fair treatment as long as they stay in their places. They are assured of that, whether the senior senator stays in the convention or "takes a walk" with another well known man by the same name.

A negro preacher on the platform in Philadelphia, however, is not as bad for South Carolina as Joe Tolbert in the patronage saddle in this state.

Tarboro, N. C. Southerner
June 26, 1936

The Smith Walk-Out

Without going into the matter of whether Senator Ellison D Smith of South Carolina did or did not make a fool of himself in his two walk-outs from the Democratic National Convention because a Negro preacher of Philadelphia offered a prayer and a Negro Congressman from Illinois made a speech, it nevertheless can be pointed out that the presence of the Negroes was decidedly unfortunate from the political standpoint.

As we say, we do not seek to pass judgment here on the right or wrong of Senator Smith's attitude, except to say in passing that perhaps his action makes him appear foolish, but the fact remains that not only Senator Smith but any number of other Southern delegates as well do feel the presence of the racial line distinctly, and that therefore, the question of right or wrong notwithstanding, it is unfortune that the antagonism of the Southerners was fired when the firing of it was so unnecessary.

The point is simply that it should have been known ahead of time that some Southern delegates would resent the situation. Better management of the convention, in which all things are supposed to be as harmonious as possible, would have averted this unharmonious incident. This would have been entirely possible. Senator Smith and other Southerners who feel themselves to be insulted by forced racial equality would have remained calm had the Negro problem been non-existent.

The most unfortunate thing about the whole affair was not the walk-out of Smith or the suppressed resentment of other less impulsive Southerners but the injection into the convention of a situation which was wholly unnecessary and which anyone could have foreseen in the beginning would have brought on trouble. In short, it was desirable that any controversial matter on which delegates have strong opinions should have been detoured like a rattlesnake if such were possible, and in this case it was entirely so. There is no particular point in making men angry, whether one considers them justified in getting angry or not. To do so is like sticking one's hand into a lion's cage, then yelling that the lion was unfair in biting it off.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
SUN

JUN 25 1936

SMITH BACK AGAIN AFTER RACE FIGHT

But Southerner Threatens Another Walkout.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 (U. P.)—Senator Ellison D. Smith, delegate-at-large from South Carolina, who "took a walk" from the Democratic National Convention yesterday because a Negro was praying will be back in his place today, but ready to walk again if any "Negro takes a prominent part in the procedure."

Mr. Smith explained that he had been born a Democrat and intended dying one, but that he could not agree with Northern members of his party who want to give Negroes political equality.

